POLICE DRAGNET FAILS TO GATHER IN RAYMOND HITCHCOCK, THE ACTOR

No Clue to His Sudden Disappearance Yet Discovered.

Wife Declares He Has Been Murdered or Kidnaped.

Officers Believe That He Has Left the Metropolis.

New York, Nov. 1.—The police have thrown a dragnet over New York and every clue is being run down to capture Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, accused of offenses against three young girls. Hitchcock disappeared suddenly from the city on Wednesday morning and his wife, Flora Zabelle, the actress, and the police have no knowledge of his whereabouts. Mrs. Hitchcock declares that her husband has either been murdered or kidnaped by a band of blackmailers, who she states, have been hounding the actor for months. The police have searched all the favorite haunts of the missing actor, and they are convinced that he has fled the city. Detectives assigned to the case state that Hitchcock's features are so well known he could not remain in New York twenty-four hours without being detected.

The police have learned that a man closely resembling Hitchcock sailed on the Majestic on Wednesday and a message has been sent to the captain of the ship asking him to have the actor held by the English police if he is aboard the vessel. Search also is being made by the Childrens' society and the police for Dolly Mackenzie, one of the girls whose stories resulted in Hitchcock's indictment. It was learned today that Miss Mackenzie told her story to the Children's society early in the fall, after which she became reconciled with her family and returned home. Agent Pissara of the Children's society, said today that the girl had disappeared from her home Oct. 1, and that she had been seen in the company of the actor shortly before his disappearance.

The missing actor has been reported to have been in several places since he left his wife Wednesday morning, telling her that he was going to a Turkish bath. A gateman at the Grand Central station said today that he saw Hitchcock take a train for Boston Wednesday afternoon, while there is a report from North Adams, Mass., that the actor was seen there by William Newman, a hotel clerk. The police have been informed that Hitchcock wears a gold bracelet welded about his right wrist to ward off rheumatism and that this bracelet has never been removed.

Hitchcock's examination was set for yesterday afternoon and when he failed to make an appearance Assistant District Attorney Garvan moved that his bail be forfeited. Hitchcock's counsel, however, secured an adjournment of the case until next Thursday in order that friends may have an opportunity of finding the fugitive and producing him in court.

ONLY 200 LIVES LOST

First Reports From the Karatagh Catastrophe Exaggerated.

The Earthquake Leveled Every House to Its Foundations.

New Bokhara, Turkestan, Nov. 1.—The first reports of the catastrophe at Karatagh were exaggerated. Instead of 15,000 persons being killed only about 200 lives were lost. Most of these perished under the landslide which buried 400 of the 600 houses of the town.

Karatagh is situated in a small natural amphitheatre among lofty hills, the Karatagh mountain hanging over it on one side and a river flowing on the other. At the height of the recent earthquake a great section of the mountain broke away and slid upon the town. Houses there were already falling on all sides from the violence of the earthquake and many of the luckless inhabitants unable to escape through the narrow streets encumbered by debris, were caught and buried. No building in the town was left standing, the earthquake levelling them all to their foundations. All the survivors were without shelter and a relief expedition with supplies has left New Bokhara scene of the disaster.

TROUBLE IS ON AT CANANEA

Mexicans Said to be in Starving Condition and Robbing.

Bisbee, Ariz., Nov. 1.—Parties coming up from Cananea state that anything but a peaceful condition exists at that camp as a result of the discharging of the thousands of employes of the Greene-Cananea company. Many of the Mexican laborers who always live from hand to mouth have found their supply of food cut off and are beginning to pick up everything that they can sell that will net them a few cents with which to buy flour and beans. Many houses have been broken into during the past week and groceries and provisions, the principal articles, taken.

On Wednesday two Americans went into the bank to have their checks cashed and in coming out went across the railroad track but a short distance when they were held up by a gang of Mexicans and robbed of their money, which amounted to several hundred dollars. This occurred in the middle of the afternoon and within a few hundred yards of the police station.

On Tuesday three companies of the Mexican state troops arrived from Hermosillo and are stationed through the camp, engaged in watching the property of the company, and will be held for some time.

The trains from Cananea are filled with those who are able to get out of the camp, the train consisting from six to eight coaches daily and no less than three to four hundred have been coming out daily.

NORWEGIAN PRESS.

Is Unfavorable to Recent Changes in the Cabinet.

Christiania, Nov. 1. — Press comment concerning the cabinet changes is generally unfavorable, and the opposition papers of Christiania predict the fall of the ministry when the storthing assembles in January. The conservative press is noncommittal, while the provincial papers generally express discontent.

ADDS MONEY TO HER DEPOSIT

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Six dollars that had been hoarded for years beneath a mattress—that was the aid brought to the country's financial situation Wednesday, in a unique incident which occurred at the Nortwestern Trust & Savings bank.

In the morning a little woman, not very elaborately attired, came to the bank.

"My name is Mrs. Anna Dutka," she told one of the bank clerks. "I have $900 in here. I would like to see about drawing it out."

Mrs. Dutka was shown to the office of the president, John F. Smulski.

She told him what she wanted.

Mr. Smulski explained in detail the monetary situation, and pointed out to Mrs. Dutka that her money was vastly safer in the bank than at her home.

"It is a pity to withdraw even $900 from circulation," he said. "This is an instance of the very kind of thing which, done by thousands of depositors, means serious conditions for everyone. You should not hoard money in your houses or in safety deposit vaults—it does no good to the country there, nor to you yourselves."

Mrs. Dutka pondered a few moments.

"I will leave my money in the bank," she finally declared.

She was bowed out by Mr. Smulski and went away.

Two hours later an attendant came to the bank president's office.

"A lady to see you," said he.

Mrs. Dutka was ushered in. She walked over to Mr. Smulski.

"Here is some money," said she, "that I have had for a long time under a mattress. I thought it might help the country a little, so I brought it in to deposit it."

And she held out $6.

REMARKABLE INFANT.

Is Only Eight Months Old, Yet Weighs 110 Pounds.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 1.—A remarkable freak of nature is an infant of W. H. Banes, an employe of a factory at Matoaka. The babe, which is named William Edward Banes, is only 8 months old and weighs 110 pounds.

The babe at birth was of normal weight, but has increased steadily until it is now a prodigy and weighs almost as much as its mother.

CHINA WINS HER POINT

Forces Japan to Send Pekin Mails by Chinese Posts.

Japs Postal Aggressions Were Beginning to Alarm Chinks.

Peking, Nov. 1.—Japan today began entrusting the transportation of the Japan-Peking mails to the care of the Chinese posts, which is an outcome of China's coercive action in refusing Japan the use of the imperial railways for her mail couriors. China's action was induced by Japan's postal aggressions, her independent postoffice service in China having been trembled in two years, and also to France's attempted re-establishment of couriers from Yunnan, where the Indo-China post has been operated since 1901. It is yet uncertain if France will withdraw for Indo-China post couriers who have been operating since a fortnight ago. The Chinese are sincerely alarmed at the undeviating, corelated aggressions of Japan and her allies, and many Chinese are forming a distinct idea that Japan is China's prime menace.

Seventy stations north of Kuanchengtzu have been added to the Chinese telegraph system, as a result of

WATCHES MAN RANSACK ROOM

Girl Feigns Sleep When She Discovers Burglar at Work.

New York, Nov. 1.—Miss Helen Lehman of Cambridge, Md., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roth of No. 103 East One Hundred and Fortieth street, was awakened by a burglar in her room on the top floor at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. She watched the man for ten minutes as he went through her belongings.

The burglar occasionally flashed a dark lantern on the bed to see that the occupant was not disturbed. She feigned sleep even when he stepped up close and peered into her face. After securing her jewels and purse he went down stairs.

When Miss Lehman was sure the burglar had reached the ground floor, she followed to the second and awakened Mr. and Mrs. Roth. Mr. Roth telephoned to the Alexander avenue station and two policemen were sent around, but the thief had gone. He was frightened away by the noise made in telephoning. The silverware was found packed up in the dining room.

CAUSED BY AGITATORS

Outbreak of Russian Sailors Led by Revolutionists.

Nearly All the Mutineers on the Skory Were Killed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 1.—According to the official report of the recent mutinous outbreak of sailors at Vladivostok, the crews of three torpedo boat destroyers, the Skory, Serdity and Trevotshny mutinied, hoisted the red flag and shelled the port, doing considerable damage to buildings and killing some soldiers and civilians. The Skory, on board of which were three revolutionary agitators, including one woman, took the lead in the mutiny, the crew rising at the instance of the agitators, killing the commander of the boat and wounding the other officers who were overpowered and confined below decks. The fire of the rebellious torpedo boat destroyers was answered by the batteries ashore and from the gunboat Mandjour and the torpedo boat destroyers Groscvoy, Smely and others. They surrounded the Skory and poured a raking fire into her, which battered her to pieces, exploded her two boilers and caused fire to break out on board. Nearly all the mutiniers of the Skory were killed on the vessel. The three or four survivors threw themselves into the sea.

The mutiny on board the Trevotshny was quelled by her own crew, after six of the mutineers had been killed and six wounded.

Gen. Count Unterberger, commanding the military district at the Amur, has arrived at Vladivostok and assumed charge of the situation.

The United States embassy here today received a dispatch from the consul at Vladivostok saying that the American who was wounded during the bombardment of Vladivostok by the mutinous torpedo boat destroyers is Harry Nietert, an employe of the Pacific Commercial company, whose building was struck by a shell.

CLEARING FATHER'S NAME.

Daughter Successfully Making Good an Official Shortage.

Munice, Ind., Nov. 1.—Within a few days Miss Margaret Barton, public stenographer, Los Angeles, Cal., will have paid off the last of the shortage left by her father, Henry Barton, when he retired from the office of city treasurer here.

The original shortage amounted to $4,000, but a considerable part of this amount was made good by friends, leaving a balance, which his daughter bravely undertook to pay. She will make the last payment of $94 in a few days, thus clearing her father's name.

Miss Barton has been earning money as a stenographer for this purpose.

DIED OF THE PLAGUE.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 1. — Mrs. George Osborne died, today, and the attending physicians assign the cause of death to bubonic plague. There have been three deaths in her family in two weeks, one of which was caused by the plague.

THE ICEMAN IN TROUBLE

New Born Baby Weighed Forty Pounds by His Scales.

Father May Bring Suit to Recover Shortage in Ice.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 1.—When Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Lyon of Iowa, discovered that a forty-pound baby boy had been born to his wife the other day he immediately ordered an investigation of the Des Moines Ice Trust. Ordinarily babies and ice have no intimate connection. But in this instance they had.

When the baby was born the other day the proud father—it was his first born—immediately called for a pair of scales to weigh the youngster. His demand could not be supplied from the house furnishings, but it so happened that the iceman came along.

"A pair of scales to weigh the baby?" said the iceman to the questioner, "sure I have; what do you think I weigh my ice with?"

"Bring them in," said the attorney general. Then the nurse carefully bundled up the baby and carried him out to the iceman. The beam on the scales shot up when the baby bundle was attached to it.

"How much does he weigh?" questioned the anxious father.

"Just forty pounds," said the iceman, who was a bachelor.

"I knew he was a husky young un,'" said the proud father, who also didn't know much about babies, and he hur-

WAITER TO GET BIG FORTUNE

Receives $65,204, With Twenty Times That Amount Coming.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—If Thomas C. Yeakle, waiter, wants to quit shoving out "ham and," apple pie and other plunder to the patrons of the Indiana restaurant, where he is employed, he can do so at any time.

He doesn't have to work for a living any more, as a nice little certificate of deposit saying he is the owner of $65,204.43 was ordered filed in the circuit court clerk's office yesterday by Judge Mack. This represents only one-twentieth of what the young man has coming from the proceeds of land sales in and near Gary, Ind., by his uncle, the late George T. Cline.

The executors of the Cline estate have been hunting for the fortunate Yeakle for a long time. They located him only a short time ago in Indianapolis.

THE N. P. WILL SHIP NO LUMBER FROM NORTHWEST WHILE INJUNCTION IS ON MAXIMILLIAN VON HARDEN, German Editor, Who Aroused Germany by His Revelations of the Scandals of the Round Table and Who Was Acquitted by the Court.

Court Has Made Old Rate of 40 Cents Compulsory.

Other Roads Will Probably Follow, Affected by Order.

Much Litigation Expected Before the Matter is Settled.

Bellingham, Wash., Nov. 1.—No more lumber shipments will be received by the Northern Pacific railway in the Northwest until further notice. This is the order sent out to all agents of the company last night. This move of the Northern Pacific is expected to be followed by all the railroads affected by the injunction issued by the federal court of Seattle Thursday night, making it compulsory for railroads to charge the old rate of 40 cents on lumber shipments from terminal points on the Pacific coast. The roads claim they would be taking too great a risk to allow the excess freight to accumulate until a final decision on the rate is made, as they say that litigation will ensue before the matter is settled and many of the lumber firms may have gone out of the business.

Another contingency the railroads are to face is the law providing that all rates must be published and posted at least thirty days before they become effective, so that in case they decided to go back to the old rates they cannot do it now without the thirty days' notice.

FIVE BOYS ARE SHOT

While Engaged in Halloween Pranks at Ashland, Wis.

Three Are Seriously Wounded and in the Hospital.

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five small boys, sons of prominent people here, were shot last night while engaged in Halloween pranks. Three of them are in a local hospital. The sons of Harry Warner, A. Miller, Clarence Dennis and Norel Hurotte, are seriously injured.

Julius Grotzke, an old German, has been arrested, charged with the offense. Two shots were fired, both taking effect. Over forty large shot have been extracted from the boys' bodies, and doctors are still exploring.

PRESIDENT NOT TO BLAME

For Present Financial Trouble, Says Banker Henry Clews.

New Haven, Nov. 1.—The Economic club of this city, an organization of professional men, and which includes in its membership college professors and lawyers, listened last night to a discussion of the question "Is the policy of President Roosevelt against capital?" by Henry Clews, a banker, and John W. Alling, attorney of this city.

Mr. Alling attacked the policy of the president in strong terms, particularly with reference to the packing industry, the Standard Oil company and the railroad rate question. Mr. Clews said, in part:

Whatever President Roosevelt has done, he has done to promote the public good, whether his speeches have helped to cause distrust or not. I contend that he had no intention of menacing the prosperity of the country in denouncing and instigating the prosecution of law breaking railway corporations, and industrial trusts. While he was instrumental in turning on the light, he was not responsible for the abuse of power which the light revealed, and it is the revelation of graft and illegal methods on the part of certain railway and other corporations, through the acts of their responsible managers and controlling capitalists that has undermined public confidence in many of them. The fact that in nearly every instance of government prosecution the guilt of the parties accused has been proven on their trial justifies President Roosevelt in his action.

TRAIN RUNS AWAY.

Locomotive and Five Freight Cars Are Totally Demolished.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Nov. 1.—Because the air brake refused to work, a freight train of twenty-four cars ran away down a steep hill at the yards of the Northwestern railroad yesterday, and at the bottom of the hill struck a train of ten cars on a side track. The crew of both trains jumped, the engineer, fireman and brakeman being injured, but not seriously. One locomotive and five loaded cars were totally demolished by the collision.

WILL NOT PUSH ITS NEW WORK

Pennsylvania to Restrict Its Needs — Regular Dividend Declared.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—Declaring that the outlook for raising new capital next year is unsatisfactory, the directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company have decided to retrench, and after their meeting today, at which they declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 3½ per cent, they gave out a statement that economy would be the policy of the great corporation during 1908. The announcement came somewhat as a surprise in view of the statement issued by President McCrea's office Wednesday that the present earnings of the company are 11 per cent greater than they wer at the same period last year. The statement issued by the directors today is as follows:

In answer to an inquiry about the possible requirements of the Pennsylvania Railroad company for 1908, President McCrea said that in view of the unsatisfactory outlook for raising new capital in 1908 it was in his judgment necessarily prudent for the company to continue its policy of not beginning any new work or committing the company to any capital requirements, except those absolutely necessary to economically handle its traffic. With that end in view the Pennsylvania Railroad company would undoubtedly restrict its needs to a minimum, and could not push the work on the New York tunnel extension or other uncompleted improvements as vigorously as had been done in the past.

This will somewhat delay the completion of the New York tunnel work as a whole, but progress on the East River tunnel, the erection of steel for the new terminal building in New York and work affecting the city's revenue will not be materially retarded by the proposed slower expenditure.

It is learned that the statement for the six months out of which the semi-annual dividend will be paid shows a net surplus after all charges and dividends are more than $8,600,000.

GOVERNMENT RECORDS STOLEN FROM FILES.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—The Inter Ocean today says: Secret service operatives reported that some official correspondence between Attorney General Bonaparte and Edwin W. Sims, containing government secrets relating to the case of John R. Walsh, formerly president of the Chicago National bank, now defunct, awaiting trial in connection with the failure of the bank, had been stolen from the files in the federal building. Miss Etta L. McLean, who has been employed in the district attorney's office for three months, was arrested in company with O. B. Gordee, charged with conspiracy to steal government records.

BUYING WIRE GRASS.

Brainerd, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—There has been a new use found for the wire grass of the upper Mississippi swamps. The American Grass Twine company has purchased large amounts of it and the Minnesota & International railroad has put in a spur for them near Backus. They have agreed to ship at least 100 cars of pressed hay from that point. To judge from the toughness of this grass it certainly ought to make strong twine for binding and similar other purposes.

FIRST WIFE DIVORCED

Mrs. James C. Doyle Secures Separation From Bigamist.

Doyle is Serving Long Term in State Penitentiary.

James C. Doyle, of this city, who was sentenced to a term of three and one-half years in the state penitentiary last February because he was too much married, is now wifeless. Katheryn Kamp Doyle, his first wife, has just obtained a divorce from Doyle at Grand Rapids, Mich., presumably on the ground that her husband is serving time in a penal institution.

James Doyle and Katheryn Kamp, according to the records in the Doyle bigamy case, were married in Chicago, in 1892. Mrs. Doyle went to Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1901, and her son, who is now 11 years old, went to live with his grandparents in Ohio. Doyle, who was a traveling man, is said to have visited his wife in Chicago up to about two years ago, when the visits ceased altogether and Mrs. Doyle lost track of him.

About a year ago Mrs. Doyle's little son wrote her that he was going to Duluth to visit his father and mother. This information caused Mrs. Doyle to institute an investigation with the result that she discovered Doyle had married Miss Jennie Calkins of Houghton, Mich., and was residing in this city.

The legal Mrs. Doyle came to Duluth and caused the arrest of her husband on the charge of bigamy. He was indicted, tried and convicted, and entered on his term in the state penitentiary Feb. 28 last.

Mrs. Doyle returned to Grand Rapids and recently instituted the divorce proceedings.

Doyle was in business in this city at the time of his arrest, being prominently connected with the Doyle Manufacturing company.

"CORRECT DRESS FOR WOMEN."

Duluth, Nov. 1, 1907.

To The Public:

Every day friends are calling at our store—others are 'phoning; all anxious to know when we are to place the W. F. Siewert stock on sale. We would like to have it start tomorrow were conditions better. This is to be no ordinary sale, but a jucier melon cutting than was ever done by Jim Hill. We want all our friends to share in it—we are going to wait until your cashier checks are ready. It won't be more than a day or two and then a sale will start that will set all Duluth's best dressers by the ears. We bought the stock for 50 cents on the dollar. We are going to sell it in the same way, and in the W. F. Siewert Spalding Haberdashery store, at 426 West Superior street. We won't move a dollar's worth of the stock to our store—but expect to sell it all out within a few days.

Siewert was certainly a lover of fine goods. We doubt if there is a finer selected stock of furnishings in the United States off Broadway. We are particularly anxious that mothers, wives and sweethearts anticipate their Christmas wants during the sale.

WORK SHOWS PROGRESS

Greater Portion of Gas Extension Will be Completed Soon.

Contractors Installing Branch Pipes in the Lakeside System.

The work of extending the gas mains in the Lakeside and the hillside systems is being pushed as fast as possible by the contractors while the weather conditions will permit.

At Lakeside gangs of men are already at work putting down the branch pipes. The contractors expect to get a larger portion of the hillside system completed before the ground freezes to any great depth.

The department is carrying forward in a very satisfactory manner the work of connecting up the old gas mains of the Prindle Gas company in First alley, between Fourth and Fifth avenues east, with the cut off in the supply main at Eighth avenue west and the Lakeside main at Seventh avenue east and Superior street. The extension has been laid in the alley from Fourth avenue west to the west side of Fifth avenue west, and a good start has been made on the connection to be made at Seventh avenue east and Superior street. When the work is completed the city will have a supply main directly through the central part of the city to Lakeside. This is necessary in order to get pressure enough to force the gas out to Lakeside.

The board of water and light commissioners have advertised for sale the city's storage yards on First alley, at Eighth avenue east, but the manager has suggested that if the department can find no other favorable location for its yards, that the property, instead of being sold, be retained and a double house for the department's two repairers and their families be erected with a barn in the rear for the horses belonging to the city. Notice has been given the department that hereafter the board of horses at the livery barn will be $23 per month. It is believed that the department, by having a barn near the home of the repairers, will be able to save money on the horse feeding proposition.

The electric pump at Lakeside will be ready for operation just as soon as a temporary cut off has been installed outside the pump house by the power company. It has been thought best to have the cut off put in before tests are made of the pump so that the current can be cut off in case anything should happen to the pump. While it is anticipated that the pump will run all right, the department desires to be on the safe side, as the city has considerable money invested in its machinery.

KODOL is offered on a guarantee plan for the relief of heart burn, flatulence, sour stomach, belching of gas, nausea, and all stomach trouble. Sold by all druggists.

NEW ROAD TO WEST DULUTH

City Engineer Prepares Plans for Another Highway.

City Engineer Thomas McGilvray believes that he has the problem of the long talked of highway to West Duluth, mention of which has been made in the newspapers from time to time during the past year or more, satisfactorily solved.

He has been busily engaged in going over the territory and has just completed plans which will do away with the crossing of railroads and street car lines, and make a broad highway to the western end of the city which is growing so rapidly.

The proposed highway will commence at the intersection of Thirty-seventh avenue west and First street, thence to the intersection of Carlton street, thence to Pacific avenue, along Pacific avenue to Traverse street, thence to Thirty-ninth avenue west, along this avenue north to Fourth street, thence to Fiftieth avenue west and continuing thence to Elinor street.

The proposed highway will pass under the Duluth Missabe & Northern trestle at Thirty-third avenue west.

The grade of the highway will be small, about two feet to the hundred at the most and an average of one-half foot to the hundred throughout.

It will make a splendid highway to West Duluth and the city engineer is of the opinion that this route, which he has been very careful in planning is the most feasible of any thus far proposed.

NEW CORPORATIONS

For October Fall Far Below Those of Same Month Last Year.

New York, Nov. 1.—According to the Journal of Commerce, new charters filed in the Eastern states in October for all classes of corporations, with an individual capital of $1,000,000 or more, represented a total capitalization of $79,100,000, which compares with $76,000,000 in December and $138,550,000 in October last year. The grand total of all companies incorporated in October with a capitalization of $100,000 and over, including other states than those of the East, was $132,425,000, against $113,050,000 in September and $375,376,000 in October a year ago.

Conditions generally in October this year militated to a greater extent than in any previous month of 1907 against the promotion of new enterprises of any description. It is not surprising, therefore, that the aggregate incorporation should fall so largely below the total of last year.

NO CHANGE IN SPELLING.

Decision of the Secretary of the N. E. A. Sustained by Directors.

Winona, Minn., Nov. 1.—The style of spelling used by the National Educational association for ten years will be used by the association in the future, at least until there is some authorized ruling to the contrary. This is the statement given out by the secretary, Dr. Irwin Shepard of this city, after returning from a meeting of the directors in Chicago.

At the convention at Los Angeles last summer conflicting action was taken by different divisions of the meeting, one declaring for the Roosevelt system of simplified spelling and the other for cutting out the list of ten words of simplified spelling adopted some ten years ago and since followed in the publications of the association.

In view of this conflict, Secretary Shepard decided that until he was instructed otherwise it would be his duty to continue the spelling used by the association for some time past, and in this position he has now been sustained by the directors and executive committee.

JUDGE MORRIS COMING HOME

Judge Page Morris, of the United States court, and Mrs. Morris are expected to arrive in Duluth tomorrow from their Eastern trip. Judge Morris will be at the federal building on Monday and will take up a number of cases.

An erroneous statement appeared in the morning paper concerning the term of court at Fergus Falls and Judge Morris' presence there. It was stated that the term began on Nov. 7. The regular date for the opening of court at Fergus Falls is Nov. 12, but it has been postponed to Nov. 19, at which time Judge Morris or a substitute will be on hand to preside.

The famous land case of William H. Murphy, Elisha H. Flinn and Selwin Eddy, as executors and trustees under the will of Simon J. Murphy, deceased, George C. Robinson, said Elisha H. Flinn and Temple E. Dorr, against William H. Shea, Mary Shea and Elwood L. Raah, will probably be first taken up. There is another case instituted by the Murphy heirs against Malinda Tanner and Michael Cronin which also will be taken up.

Judge Morris will also decide whether or not the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction in the suit of Hansen Smith and others against H. H. Phelps, former trustee of the defunct Merchants Bank of West Duluth.

Other minor matters will also be taken up by the court next week.

The construction of two boats will be begun shortly in the Superior shipyards. One of the boats will be 440 feet long and the other 452 feet long. The shorter boat will be completed first. As soon as it is launched the work on the second boat will be completed. Only 140 feet of the keel of the second boat will be laid up to the time the first boat is out of the way. The first launching will probably occur in January.

Punished for Wifebeating.

Because he was unreasonably jealous of his wife and kicked and choked her, Charles Urban was convicted of assault in the municipal court yesterday afternoon, and was sentenced to a ten-day term on the rockpile. Urban claimed that a "star boarder" at his home was the cause of the trouble. He claimed he moved from Racine to Superior purposely to get rid of the other man, but the latter followed them. Mrs. Urban denied that she had given her husband any reason for his actions.

DELEGATES UNDECIDED

Refuse to Commit Themselves to Any Candidate as Yet.

Staples Endorsed for Alderman in the Fourth Ward.

The selection of representatives by Republican ward gatherings last evening and the creation thereby of a Republican city committee of forty members to settle on a party candidate for mayor brought the political situation, in the Republican camp, down to a definite basis. But, as far as the public is concerned, and most of the delegates also, the man who will lead the municipal G. O. P. forces at the next election is still an unknown quantity.

In every ward, the five representatives selected by the meeting were left with hands untied and judgment free to work, and some of them are as much in the dark as to who the candidate will be as the whole body of Republicans at large. It is up to them, however, to make a choice and they are probably going over the ground carefully, although if any of them have any settled opinions, they are not giving them voice.

Mums the word among the members of the committee today. Most of them, when approached, flatly refused to commit themselves.

Those, who did commit themselves, or express any shadow of a definite opinion, seemed to favor Frank A. Brewer as first choice. One or two said that Mr. Brewer would very likely be the choice of the committee, if he could be induced to run, but there is some doubt if sufficient force can be brought to bear on him to induce him to lead the way.

Next to Mr. Brewer, Dr. McCuen, the coroner, evidently stands high in the estimation of those committeemen, who are doing any whispering at all. None would be surprised to see the coroner selected and he would probably be acceptable to the party.

But it is evident that the committee is still at sea and will need to do some casting about before deciding on any one man.

At the Second ward meeting, Alderman Staples was endorsed for re-election as alderman.

MANY ATTENDING TEACHERS' MEET

Second Annual Convention at Cass Lake Starts Off Favorably.

Cass Lake, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second annual convention of North Central Minnesota Teachers' association opened here Thursday and the attendance numbered close to 100. The afternoon was spent by the teachers in visiting the different classes and inspecting the work of the pupils in the local high school. Last evening the program was opened in the Methodist church, when President Ritchie of Bemidji extended to the visitors a hearty welcome. Miss Zella Gardner then sang a solo, after which Prof. Swift of the University of Minnesota delivered a lecture entitled "Teachers of Old." The professor in a clear and eloquent manner dwelt upon the lives and teachings of Buddha, Socrates and Christ. His lecture was a most interesting and educational one and when he had concluded he was applauded.

Today at 8:30 a. m. the teachers assembled in the high school, where the general session began. In the evening President Weld of the Moorhead business college will deliver an address.

Two Thousand Dollar Verdict Against Great Northern Railroad.

Moorhead, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. H. Dick, formerly a section hand in the employ of the Great Northern Railway company, was awarded $2,000 damages for alleged personal injury by the district court jury. The action was tried before Judge Taylor of St. Cloud. SUSPENDED FROM TREE

Was Dead Body of Ole Johnson Who Had Disappeared.

Negaunee, Mich., Nov. 1. — (Special to The Herald.)—The discovery of the dead body of Ole Johnson, who disappeared from the farm P. C. Peterson at Eagle Mills, Oct. 21, hanging from the limb of a tree in a swamp a quarter of a mile from the Peterson house cleared up the mystery surrounding his disappearance. The last seen of him he was in apparently his usual health and no cause for his self destruction can be assigned. He was well known in this section.

NO ALCOHOL

Can be Manufactured or Brought Into Finland, Says Diet.

Helsingfors, Finland, Nov. 1.—The diet today adopted unanimously without a roll call, the alcohol bill, prohibiting absolutely the manufacture of alcohol in Finland or its importation into Finland. As the measure affects Russia's tariff relations with foreign countries, it is not certain that the emperor will sanction the measure.

In view of the passage of the bill, temperance celebrations are being held in every part of the country.

The diet will be prorogued tomorrow, when the emperor's decree will be read with the usual ceremonies.

ALARMING SPREAD

Of Diphtheria in and Surrounding City of St. Cloud.

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—"There is more diphtheria in St. Cloud and the surrounding country than there has ever been before," said Health Officer Dunn of St. Cloud. "Many cases which are considered to be mere tonsilitis and throat infections are really diphtheria in a light form and these cases are going around unquarantined. The deaths resulting from this disease this fall have reached alarming proportions, and the condition is considered by every physician in the city to be alarming. The board of health and every doctor are doing their duty, but many cases are not reported to the physicians. Within the past few days six cases of diphtheria have resulted fatally either before the doctor was called or within one hour after his arrival. In two instances local physicians were called to Mayhew Lake and to Le Sauk, where the entire family was ill with throat trouble. The doctor told them it was diphtheria. The father was certain it was merely throat trouble and did not carry out his quarantine. Now one child is dead and the entire family is ill."

CUPID LURED ACCUSED INTO CLUTCHES OF LAW.

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Love for his Grand Forks sweetheart lured E. J. F. Peterson back to Hoople, N. D., where he was captured by Deputy Sheriff Johnson. Peterson is charged with floating several bad checks in Grand Forks, and the warrant for his arrest was sworn out by George Munro, who cashed a check for $50 in payment for a lady's diamond ring.

For the past two months Chief Lowe has been on the trail of Peterson, who left Grand Forks, stating that he was going to Spokane to take a place in a bank. He had been employed by Nash Bros, wholesale grocers. Chief Lowe notified officers at Spokane to arrest Peterson on his arrival there, but he had evidently been posted and avoided Spokane, although he was near there. It was found that he had visited Missoula, Whitefish, Glen Ullin and other towns on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific lines, but he always managed to elude the officers. He kept up a correspondence with his sweetheart, but mailed letters on the train and she also mailed hers on the trains so that there would be no chance for his hiding place to become known.

Within ten days, however, Miss May Hughes, the girl in the case, went to visit relatives near Hoople and it was surmised by Chief Lowe that Peterson would seek to visit her there. It was learned by Chief Lowe that Peterson had appeared in Grafton, and from there had gone to Hoople. The chief accordingly sent Deputy Johnson to Hoople to make the arrest. Deputy Johnson found Peterson at the farm of a brother of Miss Hughes and there was gloom, where happiness had followed the reuniting of fond sweethearts.

MINNEAPOLIS HAS

Several Cases of Smallpox, But Health Authorities Are Active.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A case of smallpox was discovered at the Sheltering Arms, a charitable institution, located at Twenty-seventh avenue north and Emerson avenue, Thursdday, and it was called to the attention of the health department, which ordered the place fumigated, while the child was sent to detention hospital. There are now several cases of smallpox in the city, but the health officials declare that there is no alarming spread of the disease.

For black suits try the "Fitwell."

BURIED IN DAKOTA.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Thomas Kiley, who died at Big Falls a week ago, was brought from that place Monday and transferred here to the Great Northern for shipment to Oakwood, N. D., the former home of the deceased. The remains were accompanied by F. D. Kiley, a son, and Frank Kiley, a nephew. The body was buried at Oakwood.

For the Woman That's Fat

A Detroit physician says that the cheapest and safest mixture a fat woman who wants to get thin can use is one-half ounce Marmola (get it in the original half-ounce package), one-half ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and three and one-half ounces Syrup Simplex. The proper amount to take is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist at small cost and make a combination that is not only excellent as a fat reducer, being able, it is claimed, to take off a pound a day without causing wrinkles, but is also a splendid help to the system as a whole, regulating the stomach and bowels (where the fat person's troubles begin), and clearing the skin of pimples and blotches. No exercise is required to help the remedy in its work and, best of all, no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.

Japanese and Chinese Papier Mache Goods on the Bargain Counter—at about ½

One of the largest importing houses in New York shipped us, through a misunderstanding between themselves and one of our buyers, their entire sample line and duplicates of Japanese and Chinese papier mache goods. Rather than have us send them back, they gave us instructions to dispose of them at a big sacrifice—so out they go on the bargain counter Saturday. There are:

Trays, newspaper and letter racks, tobacco jars, powder boxes, ink stands, blotters, paper cutters, snuff boxes, pen trays, hair pin boxes, papeterie boxes, brush and comb trays, stamp boxes, pin boxes and dozens of other articles.

Some magnificent goods in the lot—and a most opportune time to make holiday purchases. The importers are standing the loss—and you reap the benefit in these prices—(about ½)—on the bargain counter tomorrow.

MARINE NEWS

LAUGHLIN BREAKS WHEEL.

Big Steamer Returns to Duluth to Have It Repaired.

The steamer Laughlin, loaded with iron ore and bound for the lower lakes, broke her wheel shortly after leaving Allouez during the night. She was brought to Duluth and anchored in the harbor basin, and this morning Diver Hoy of the Union Towing company was called upon to make an examination.

It is not known how the accident occurred, and it will not be known how serious it is until the diver has completed his examination. It is thought likely that the steamer can be repaired so that she will not have to be docked at this end of the route.

The Laughlin is owned by W. H. Becker of Cleveland, and is one of the larger class of steamers on the lakes.

CLEARS ON MAIDEN TRIP.

Steamer Bope Takes Cargo of Ore Down Lakes.

The new steamer Bope, which was launched at the Superior shipyard on Oct. 19, went into commission yesterday and was loaded with ore at the Missabe docks. She left the harbor at 11 o'clock last night on her maiden trip down the lakes, and will be able to make four or five round trips before the season of navigation is ended. The Bope is owned by the Standard Steamship company of this city.

ADD TO SAFETY.

Fog Horns Established on the North Shore.

Fog horns are being installed on the Canadian north shore of Lake Superior, according to Capt. George Cosgrove, the Canadian government pilot, who was in Duluth on the steamer Saronic yesterday. One has been installed upon the Welcome islands in Thunder bay and another will be installed on Point Porphyrry, to the east of Sliver islet and Thunder cape.

Both of the horns will be operated with compressed air furnished by gasoline engines. These horns will greatly add to the safety of vessels bound in to Port Arthur and Fort William.

Chemung Takes Departure.

The Erie railroad package freight steamer Chemung, which arrived in Duluth harbor for the first time, Wednesday, although she has been on the Buffalo-Chicago route for many years, cleared from the harbor at noon today with a cargo for Buffalo. The Chemung is operated by the Union Steamboat company of Cleveland.

New Masters Appointed.

Cleveland, Nov. 1.—Capt. John O'Brien of Cleveland succeeds Capt. Francis A. Gould as master of the schooner Moravia of the Tonawanda Iron & Steel company fleet, the latter to get a new berth.

Veteran Master Dead.

Buffalo, Nov. 1.—Capt. M. T. Lynch, retired vessel master and of late years shipping agent for the Lake Carriers here, is dead, aged 75 years. He was well known all over the lake district.

Freight Situation.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—The Rappahannock, for wheat to Buffalo at 2 cents, was the only charter reported. It was said there was some trouble in financing shipments.

Cleveland, Nov. 1.—The freight market was quiet all around and little chartering was done. Rates held steady, but there is plenty of tonnage in all branches of trade.

Buffalo, Nov. 1.—Chartering was a trifle more active, the supply of coal being materially improved. There is plenty of available tonnage. Charters: Flower, Wolf, Roumania, Milwaukee, 40. M. C. Smith, Superior, 30. Monteagle, Chicago, 40.

October has broken the season record for coal forwarding, 501,790 tons having gone up the lakes this month. Of this amount Chicago receiver over 200,000 tons.

NEW RECORD IN OCTOBER

Ore Shipments for Month Again Surpass All Previous Marks.

The Season's Shipments 3,000,000 Tons Ahead of Last Year.

With one exception, the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road has been breaking the world's records for ore shipments with each succeeding month of the season and during October, which ended yesterday, the best previous records were shattered.

During the month, from the 1st to the 31st, the Missabe road shipped 2,502,256 tons of iron ore from its huge docks in the West end, which figures makes the highest total for a single month ever achieved by an ore shipping road.

The world's record for a single day's ore shipments were also broken by the Missabe, on Oct. 12, when 128,486 tons of ore were loaded into the boats at the West end docks.

In October the Missabe shipped more ore than the Duluth & Iron Range and Great Northern combined, and about 50 per cent more than its own total of October, 1906. For that month the Missabe's shipments were 1,620,829 tons. In September, 1907, which up to now, had been the biggest month in the road's history, the total shipments were 2,205,258 tons.

The total shipments for the season of all three ore carrying roads are more than 3,000,000 tons more than for the same time a year ago. The season's shipments for this year, up to date, aggregate 25,861,553 tons, as against 22,-083,136 tons for the same time in 1906.

The Duluth & Iron Range and Great Northern roads made gains over October, 1906, as will be seen by a glance at this comparative table of shipments for October, the corresponding month last year, and for the season to date:

	October, 1907.	October, 1906.
D., M. & N.	2,502,256	1,620,829
Duluth & Iron Range	1,283,576	1,063,817
Great Northern	1,075,027	904,571
Totals	4,861,859	3,589,217

The season's shipments up to date are shown as follows:

	1907.	1906.
D., M. & N.	11,908,539	9,955,217
Duluth & Iron Range	7,326,686	7,406,174
Great Northern	6,626,108	5,322,745
Totals	25,861,353	22,683,136

HER "BEST FRIEND"

A Woman Thus Speaks of Postum.

We usually consider our best friends those who treat us best.

Some persons think coffee a real friend, but watch it carefully awhile and observe that it is one of the meanest of all enemies for it stabs one while professing friendship.

Coffee contains a poisonous drug—caffeine—which injures the delicate nervous system and frequently sets up disease in one or more organs of the body, if its use is persisted in.

"I had heart palpitation and nervousness for four years and the doctor told me the trouble was caused by coffee. He advised me to leave it off, but thought I could not," writes a Wisconsin lady.

"On the advice of a friend I tried Postum Food Coffee and it so satisfied me I did not care for coffee after a few days' trial of Postum.

"As weeks went by and I continued to use Postum, my weight increased from 98 to 118 pounds, and the heart trouble left me. I have used it a year now and am stronger than I ever was. I can hustle upstairs without any heart palpitation, and I am cured of nervousness.

"My children are very fond of Postum and it agrees with them. My sister liked it when she drank it at my house, but not when she made it at her own home. Now that she has learned to make it right, boil it according to directions, she has become very fond of it. You may use my name if you wish as I am not ashamed of praising my best friend—Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in packages. "There's a Reason."

WEST END

CUPID IS ON THE JOB NOW

He is Getting in His Work in West End.

Double Wedding Takes Place at St. Jean Baptiste Church.

Cupid and the West end ministers are all smiles.

They are working hand-in-hand in that part of the city, and it is a queer day when the announcements of several weddings do not come.

This week St. Jean Baptiste church was the scene of a pretty double wedding, Rev. Father Robillard uniting Miss Edna Le Clair and Timothy Nephew and Miss Aria Lindfors and Louis Nephew in matrimony.

Both brides were gowned in white net over silk and wore veils. Miss Le Clair was attended by her sister, Miss Delia Le Clair, and Miss Lindfors by Miss Eva Rollo. Timothy Nephew was attended by F. W. Robitaille and Louis Nephew by George Nephew.

After the ceremony the nearest relatives of the brides and bridegrooms attended a reception given for the happy couples at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Le Clair, 1532 West First street.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Nephew and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nephew will make their homes in this city.

Many invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Anna Beckman and Matt Naslund, which will take place tomorrow evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

Miss Beckman is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Beckman and has a wide circle of friends in the city. The prospective bridegroom is also well known. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. John A. Anderson, pastor of the First Swedish M. E. church.

Announcements will be forthcoming soon of several other weddings scheduled for the western part of the city. All of them will take place before the holidays.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.

Kabibinaka Club Entertain at Hay Rack Ride.

Members of the Kabibinaka club and their guests celebrated Halloween in a "safe and sane" manner last evening, when they enjoyed an outing that is likely to be the last of its kind until next summer.

Members of the club entertained at a hay-rack party. Oscar Christensen, one of the club members, owns a little farm about six miles from town, and this was the objective point.

The club and its guests got back just before it began to rain.

Will Hold Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Swedish Christian Sick Benefit society will be held this evening at Sloan's hall. The session will be called to order by President Thoren sharply at 7:30. An early start will be made in order to get business which must be considered at this time.

Reports of officers will be heard and the year's work of the society reviewed. Officers to serve during the ensuing year will also be chosen.

West End Shortrails.

Mrs. Emily O'Brien and her daughter, Margaret, have gone to Saginaw, Mich., to spend several weeks with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ostergren of West Tenth street returned yesterday from the Ohio valley, where they have been visiting relatives for the past month.

1907 imported cod liver oil. A. E. Swedberg, 2 E. Sup. St. and 2015 W. Sup. St.

Miss Elizabeth Swenson of West Third street has returned to school at Decorah, Iow.

Members of the First Swedish Baptist church are busy selling tickets for the entertainment Nov. 1 for Mrs. S. Hammerback, the West end widow whose manifold troubles have aroused the sympathies of nearly everyone of the West end.

It's worth while to see our hats; none better; bring your old hat—we'll make it new. Pearson's, 1514 Piedmont avenue west.

Henry Newlander, who came up from Chicago to attend the funeral of his mother, who died a short time ago, has returned to his work, after spending a week or so with relatives in the West end.

Mrs. Ernest Johnson of the Osbourne block left today for Columbus, Ohio, where she will make her home in the future.

For fountain pens and fountain pen supplies go to J. C. Eckman, 2019 West Superior street.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Walt have arrived in the West end from St. Crox Falls. They will reside in the West end at 2024 West Superior street.

Rev. H. K. Madsen, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, has been confined to his home by illness for several days.

Ed Dahl of 2532 West Second street, has returned from Lake Minnetonka, Minneapolis. He has purchased several acres of agricultural land there and will spend his summer on the place, cultivating grapes and other fruit.

A. Anderson is making arrangements for the erection of a new residence for himself at Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fifth street.

Strengthen your lungs before cold weather sets in; use our Norwegian cod liver oil. Lion Drug store, 2002 West Superior street.

At the meeting of the Republicans of the Seventh ward, held last night, at the polling place on Twenty-eighth avenue, the following delegates to attend the big Republican rally, which is to name a member of the party to make the mayoralty race were elected: D. E. Stevens, J. W. Preston, D. B. Perry and Angus E. McCauley. One precinct in the ward was without representation at the meeting, and a committee was appointed to make a canvas of the ward today and name a man from them.

Your prescriptions will be filled with the purest drugs obtainable at the Lion Drug store, 2002 West Superior street.

ITCHING PIMPLES TORMENT 5 BOYS

Arms and Hands Affected—Could Not Sleep Because of Itching—Suffered for Two Months Until Two Cakes of Cuticura Soap and

ONE BOX OF CUTICURA CURED THEM ALL

"I have five boys, from five to eleven years of age, who were affected some time last winter by some kind of skin disease. The worst parts of the body were around the arms and hands, where small pimples formed and itched. They suffered for two months so that they could not sleep at night. I noticed an advertisement about the Cuticura Remedies and we made a trial of one or two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment which gave great satisfaction. I washed their bodies with Cuticura Soap and then applied Cuticura Ointment every other day. Since then they have all been healthy. A. E. Carlson, Norcross, Travers Co., Minn., Nov. 26 and Dec. 23, 1906."

WORST ECZEMA

Baffled Medical Treatment For a Year, Cured by Cuticura.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few on my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of suffering. I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of ——. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for a year, but their treatment did me no good. Finally I became despondent and decided to discontinue their services. My husband purchased a complete set of Cuticura Remedies, which entirely stopped the breaking out. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every splotch was entirely gone and the affected parts left as clear as ever. I have not felt a symptom of the eczema for three years. Mrs. Lizzie E. Sledge, 540 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala., Oct. 28, '05."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. ICEMAN IN TROUBLE

ried off to his office at the state house to tell the glad news and pass around the cigars.

"How much does he weigh?" was the first question put to the joyous father.

"Forty pounds," the assistant told Attorney General Byers.

"Why, you must be crazy," said Gen. Byers. Then Lyons told the attorney general just how he knew the baby weighed forty pounds. "I guess all the trouble is that the iceman has been beating you out of thirty pounds of ice every day this summer," was Byers' comment. And now a petition is about to be filed to dissolve the ice trust.

the Russo-Chinese telegraph convention.

Although the dowager empress was reported on Oct. 13 to be ill, the entire court returned from the summer palace to the forbidden city last night for the winter. Grand Councillors Yuan Shi Kai and Chang Chih Tung are following the court. About 11,000 troops recently brought from Paotingfu garrisoned the twelve miles intervening between the summer palace and Peking.

Considerable mystery surrounds the death three weeks ago of the Princess Ehun the empress' sister, on account of the reserve maintained regarding women. As the princess was a favorite of the foreign ladies here, many of the latter desired to condole with the court, but the officials were unable to enlighten the legations in regard to the passing away of the princess.

WANTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Duluth Man Will be Brought Back From Milwaukee.

John F. Keenan, local solicitor for the International correspondence school was arrested yesterday in Milwaukee and will be brought back to Duluth to answer to the charge of misappropriating funds of the concern to his own use. A warrant has been out for Keenan for several days, but detectives of the local police department succeeded in locating him only yesterday and that after considerable trouble.

Keenan, it is stated by the management of the local agency of the correspondence school, has been highly successful in his work and the firm placed more than ordinary confidence in him. He was a successful solicitor and succeeded in making many new friends for the concern. He was formerly an advertising solicitor for a local newspaper, and is married, his wife's relatives living in Superior.

An effort to keep pace with too fast a set, and to be "a good fellow" is given as the reason for his alleged shortage.

It was known some time ago that he was overdrawn with the concern but he promised to make good, so it is stated and the matter was not pushed at the time. He left suddenly and later developments showed that his shortage was larger than at first anticipated.

FIND BOY WANDERING IN WOODS NEAR DULUTH

Albert Schultz Discovered on the Pike Lake Road.

Went Hunting Wednesday Afternoon and Lost His Way.

Mounted Police Officers Bartlett and Stewart located Albert Schultz, the boy who has been missing since Wednesday, this afternoon on the Pike lake road abouteight miles from Duluth. The officers, accompanied by Mrs. Selfultz, went out this forenoon and searched the woods in the vicinity of Pike lake diligently.

They sighted a small figure, with clothing torn and bedraggled, on the road about eight miles from the city and drove their team rapidly to the spot.

The boy, for such it proved to be, when he saw the team approaching, started on a run for the dense woods skirting the road and the two officers had some difficulty in overtaking him. He appeared frightened to death and out of his mind, and came with them reluctantly at first.

His mother, almost frantic with anxiety, sat in the rig holding the horses and when the unhappy boy saw her he burst out sobbing, crying in a pitiful tone, "Mother, mother, I am so tired."

He was brought to the city by the officers and can give but a meagre account of his actions since he left home Wednesday.

He stated to the police that he borrowed a gun and went hunting Wednesday and lost his way in the woods near Pike lake. The boy has slept in the woods at night since then, wandering about all day in an effort to reach some building, which would give him an idea of his location and was in an exhausted condition when discovered by the police. His clothing is almost torn to shreds and the boy is in a condition, bordering upon collapse, both physically and mentally.

He stated that he had not seen his dog since the first day of his experiences in the woods and the story of his pinning a paper to its collar is fiction pure and simple, according to his story to the police.

The boy is subject to attacks at times when he is not quite himself.

ATTACK TITLE TO THE BURT AND MORRIS MINES

Duluth and Arkansas Men Claim Property Worth Millions.

Sequel to the Famous Clark Mine Case Develops.

By reason of two quit claim deeds filed with the register of deeds this morning, the United States Steel corporation is likely to be called on to defend and establish its claim of title to the Burt and the Morris mines, two of its most valuable iron ore properties in the village of Hibbing.

The new claimants to the property are Thomas J. Walsh of this city, William Wallace Fisher and J. C. Terrell of Tamaha, Ark. Mr. Fisher will be remembered here as the guardian of the minor heirs of James Munroe Rogers in the famous Clark mine case tried in this county a couple of years ago and which is now pending in the supreme court.

While the Clark mine case involved property worth millions of dollars it is understood that the values involved under the new claims to the Burt and the Morris properties involves a great deal more.

One of the quit claim deeds runs from Solomon Roberson of Aitkins, Fope county, Ark., to Walsh, Fisher and Terrell, and covers the undivided half interest in the west half of the southwest quarter of section 24, 58-20. This includes the Burt mine, it is claimed.

The second deed runs from J. H. Miller, E. L. Miller, O. L. Cate and Ethel Cate of Crawford county, Ark., heirs of John R. Skinner, to Walsh, Fisher and Terrell and covers an undivided half interest in the northeast half of the northeast quarter of section 32, 58-20. This description is said to include the Morris mine.

Solomon Robertson is said to be a negro, an old Union soldier, to whom was issued soldier's additional scrip. John R. Skinner is claimed to be an old Union soldier. He was also issued scrip.

The land in question is claimed to have been scripped in 1880 with the soldier's additional scrip issued to the two men above named.

It is claimed that this scrip was part of a large amount that was forged and used to cover 100 forties in Northern Minnesota, released by the government Dec. 14, 1880, and on which patents were issued.

The steel corporation is claimed to have acquired title under the patents issued on this alleged forged scrip.

Mr. Walsh and his associates claim that Robertson and Skinner never signed away or authorized anybody to use their power of attorney either in locating or selling of the land. In the case of Robertson it is claimed that he was never able to write his own name, that it was forged on the power of attorney. Walsh and his associates have acquired a half interest in the Robertson and the Skianer claims to the property.

It is understood that in case of a suit to clear title Mr. Walsh and his associates intend to produce the person who is alleged to have committed the wholesale forgeries on the land office in 1880. It is claimed that such person, if he exists, is not liable to prosecution under the statute of limitation.

PAYING LESS TO WOODSMEN

Several local employment agencies received notices today from lumbering companies ordering a reduction in wages offered to laborers. Heretofore companies have been offering from $40 to $45 a month to woodsmen. The new order cuts the scale to $30 and $35 a month.

The decision of the officials of the big lumbering interests to cut the scale of wages, when labor is as scarce as it is at the present time, is interpreted by Duluth employment agents to mean a curtailment of the cutting of the big companies.

While Duluth employment agents believe that all the laborers in this section of the country can readily find employment, they believe that wages are going to reced from the high mark reached during October.

Asks Change in Contract.
The Skibo Timber company has started suit against Charles J. ROBBERY AT RUSH CITY

Chief Troyer received a long distance message last night from Rush City, Minn., warning him to have the men of his department on the lookout for suspicious characters suspected of being implicated in a bold robbery at that place yesterday.

The details are menger, but it seems that a party of three men made a bold attempt to rob a store in Rush City yesterday and were discovered by the city marshal, a man named Mahlen, who was quite seriously injured in the melee which followed.

Mahlen followed up his men valiantly and fired shot after shot at the retreating bandits. He was wounded in the exchange of shots.

The men escaped, but were unable to get away with any plunder, owing to the prompt action of the marshal and his men.

Marshal Mahlen is a brother of Police Officer Mahlen of this city. The men have not shown up in this locality and it is thought they have gone in another direction.

SIX KILLED IN A TRAIN WRECK.

COMMON SENSE.

Medicine is not of much use to cure consumption. Fresh air and clean living are the essential forces to combat the dread white scourge. Every precaution should be employed to prevent the germs from settling on the lungs, and coughs and colds should not be neglected. To break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is curable, mix a half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine with two ounces of glycerine and a half pint of good whisky. Shake well and take a teaspoonful every four hours. Five ounces of tincture of Cinchona compound can be used instead of whisky with the same effect.

This mixture will usually break up a cold over night. Care should be exercised to use only the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine, which is prepared in the laboratories of the Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, and put up for dispensing, only in ½-ounce vials, each securely sealed in a round wooden case. It is better to purchase the different ingredients separately and mix them at home.

REFORMATION FESTIVAL HELD

Four Churches Unite to Honor Memory of Martin Luther.

Four of the Lutheran churches in the eastern part of the city joined in a reformation festival, which was held at the First Swedish Lutheran church, Sixth avenue east and Third street, last evening.

The speakers for the occasion were Rev. C. O. Olson of the Swedish Lutheran Bethany church at the West end, who spoke of the life and labor of the great reformer, and Rev. J. L. Murphy of St. John's English Lutheran church. His subject was "The place of the Lutheran church in the religious development of this country." In developing this subject he said in part:

"The Teutonic races are today leading the world in constructive thought. Germany has long been recognized as the school mistress of the world in music, in science and in art. In this country the different nations are blending into one and each contributes its quota to the general culture.

"The reformed churches are being more and more influenced by the liberal and rationalistic views of modern science. The Lutheran church is getting more and more conservative. It is standing solidly on the Scriptures as the inspired word of God and recognizes no other authority in matters of religion and faith.

"The Lutheran church is also a great constructive force in the religious world today and especially in this country, as may be judged from the following facts. It is this church that has started organized mission work in the great cities of this country for the uplifting of the downtrodden classes.

"It was the Lutheran, Fliedner in Germany, and Passavant in this country, who revived the apostolic institution of deaconesses in the church.

"Our church has produced a graded system of Sunday school work which has won recognition, not only in this country, but also by the International Sunday school committee as the very best that has yet been devised.

"Our honored president, Theodore Roosevelt, knew what he said when he asserted that the Lutheran church is destined to be one of the two or three great religious bodies of this country."

The music was furnished by soloist and quartets from the different churches participating in the celebration.

A large and appreciative audience was present.

ON THE IRON RANGES

INDEPENDENTS SCENT VICTORY

Claim That Increased Registration Will Help Their Ticket.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—That general interest is being taken in the approaching municipal election is shown in the fact that the registration this year, was greater than ever before in the history of the city. The total number registered is 911, divided by wards as follows:

First, 182; Second, 175; Third, 312; Fourth, 242. Most of the building development in recent years has been in the Third and Fourth wards. For a number of years the Second was the banner ward of the city in number of votes, but the Third now takes the lead with the Fourth ward second.

The increase in the registration not only indicates a considerable growth in the population of the city, but also increased interest among the voters in municipal government. The leaders of the independent movement figure that this widespread interest among the voters means an overwhelming defeat of the present administration.

ATTORNEY COOPER

Of Chicago Has Many Friends in Grand Rapids Couuntry.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—No little regret is heard in this section over the serious illness in Chicago of Col. John S. Copper of that city, one of the widely known lawyers of the country, who was well known in this section, and very popular because he made an annual fishing trip into this district for many years. He was accustomed to make his headquarters at Grand Rapids when on these outings, and among his friends in Chicago and the East he was known as an enthusiast on sport in Minnesota. He was the personal friend of scores of residents in the country about here, all of whom thoroughly understood that he was a noted man from the outside world, but whom he met on their own plane in a most friendly and democratic way.

Col. Cooper was always deeply interested in preserving the woods he so dearly loved, and it was largely through his influence that this movement was taken up by congress. More than ten years ago a party of congressmen and other notables visited the Minnesota woods under Col. Cooper's chaperonage, and the trip was a strong factor in bringing the forestry problem to official notice.

EVELETH IN BRIEF.

Odds and Ends of Local News Gathered in Range.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gust Anderson of this city, has secured the contract for building the manual training and domestic science school in district 18, near McKinley.

Matt Paulson, who is a teamster for the Hobart mine, near Sparta with a companion drove through Eveleth on their way to Buhl, a distance of thirty miles, to get a load of mine materials. Mr. Paulson expected to get into Buhl about 6 p. m., Tuesday, and start out of Buhl the next day, taking two days for the trip.

James Francis O'Donnell presenting "The Sign of the Cross" has been substituted as the next Lyceum Star number in place of Wassman, the magician. He will appear in Vail hall, Nov. 6.

According to James Markham, preparations for a big cut of lumber are well under way at William Smith's camp. Lumberjacks are commencing to come, as soon as they arrive they are put to work building new roads. In order to make easy the handling of the logs they have to be built. Because of the deep snow of last winter several thousand feet were left over. The remaining preparations are being rushed, so that actual cutting can commence with the first snowfall.

Jean Sterling, a horse doctor, has been arrested, charged with biting Louis Ross' thumb. Sterling and Ross had a rough and tumble scrap in the City livery, Tuesday evening. Sterling is in jail. His case will come up next Monday.

The high school halls have been well filled yesterday and today by many who came to see the Turner exhibit of pictures. It is planned to have a program and a sale of the products of the domestic science department tonight.

As the Knights of Pythias meeting Monday night, the rank of knight was conferred on M. Trevarrow, A. E. Bawden and Isaac Hakomaki. After the initiation a fine oyster supper was served in the lodge rooms. Visitors were present from other lodges.

Rev. A. Carswell, who is at present in Brooklyn, N. Y., sends word that he expects to return by Nov. 2nd, and hold services Sunday evening in St. John's church at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Mr. Carswell attended the ter-centennial anniversary of the first religious service in Jamestown.

A game is to be played Saturday afternoon on the local grounds between the high school eleven with a team from the Hibbing high school. It is generally understood that Hoskings will play.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Cattrell left with their child yesterday for Chicago.

HOODLUMISM TO GO.

Electric Lights and Other Improvements to Drive Out Rough Work.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans looking to the betterment of the part of Eveleth nearest the Virginia road, have been formulated, so that hoodlumism that has been rampant there will be stopped. Electric lights are to be installed along the highway. One will be this side of the Adams kindergarten building, the other just at the foot of the hill which must be ascended in going to Virginia. In the middle of last summer, one arc lamp was placed at the city limits. The electric company will supply the materials and the lighter work, the township will furnish the heavy labor and pay the company $10 a month rental for each arc.

From the Adams location much complaint has been heard on account of promiscuous shooting of revolvers, which is one of the ways the rougher class of laborers have of enjoying themselves when drunk. It is expected that the installation of the lamps, will considerably lessen the tendency toward that kind of celebration.

The new pole line that the Mesaba Telephone company has recently started between here and Virginia is being put up. Poles are furnished by W. P. Vletch and Matt Tomas.

MONEY IS EASIER.

General Conditions Appear to be Improving Up Eveleth Way.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The money stringency has caused some annoyance to all classes on the range. Traveling men are beginning to appear with cashier's checks in small denominations on Duluth banks. They find them much more convenient than drafts on Eastern banks.

Business men report that business is experiencing a lull that is soon expected to blow over. As they are midway between the last pay day and the coming one, business is normally quiet, but the peculiar condition of the money market has practically put trading to sleep.

The general opinion among merchants and mining men is that this abnormal condition will soon wear away, so that by the 15th of this month the Steel company will be able to pay their men with checks, which will be cashed at the banks.

At the local banks the lines have not been so tightly drawn as they were Tuesday. There is a tendency noticeable toward easier money. Everyone who understands the situation realizes that the banks used heroic methods in stopping the country from a panic, and they are generally inclined to praise the bank executives for their prompt action.

PETTY CASES IN COURT.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 1. — (Special to The Herald.)—Judge Prince, Wednesday and yesterday, considered various cases. The case of the state against Joseph Spritzer was tried. The charge against Spritzer being stealing firewood from W. P. Vletchsland. The judge reserved his decision.

Joseph Archambault was charged with assaulting Sam Perrault. Archambault was fined $100 and costs.

The third case called was that of the state against Sarah Flannelly for assaulting Mrs. Rosa Boshiski. The case was dismissed and the judge ordered each party concerned to pay their own costs.

GETTING MORE PAY.

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The winter scale, an increase of 25 cents per day for the ore dock laborers, went into effect today. This is what the dock men asked for when they started the big strike and tieup last August.

CAR SHORTAGE FELT.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Adams open pit, the steam shovels have not been working on either the day or night shift for three days, owing to the car shortage. The company is pressing everything into service in the hope of breaking the shipping record before the lake freezes.

At the Fayal, no car shortage exists, and the pits are working full force.

ORE SHIPMENTS.

Keeping Up Well at Two Harbors Prior to Cold Weather.

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shipments keep up well but from now on will drop off, until the close of the season. The cold snap is expected most any time now and when it occurs it will mean a reduction in the supply of ore on hand, it being hauled in from the mines only as the boats are ready for it.

The Biwabik mine at Biwabik, one of the big shippers finished their season's ore shipments Wednesday.

COSTELLO ACQUITTED.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lack of evidence to connect W. M. Costello with the theft of merchandise from a wrecked Great Northern box car resulted in his acquittal after his trial here yesterday. He was taken into custody last Friday on the charge of having stolen some of the goods, but he clearly established the charge was groundless.

THEY SETTLED IT.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five men boarding with Nick Bradonirr and his wife, who run a boarding house in the Morris location, were arrested on complaint of Bradonirr and wife on the charge of assault. They were brought before Judge Brady, but after a few minutes talk with the complaining witness, an adjustment of the difficulty was reached and the proceedings were dismissed.

SHEA ALLOWED TO FILE.

Contest Over Cedar Island Lake Lands is Settled.

Walter S. Douglas yesterday gave up his contest against Andrew J. Shea over a tract of valuable Cedar Island lake land, and the latter was permitted to file upon lots 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 of section 9, township 57, range, 17. The land is said to be valuable because of its iron ore deposits.

Andrew J. Shea is a brother to the William H. Shea, who won in the famous Raab-Shea suit tried at the land office a year ago last winter. There has been much litigation over these lands and suits are now pending in the United States court.

ONLY ONE CASE.

Lone Disturber of the Peace Given Suspended Sentence.

Only one Halloween case came to the attention of the municipal court this morning.

A young man named David Hausman was arrested for disorderly conduct. He was charged with taking part in a fight on Fourth street last evening. He entered a plea of guilty and the court suspended sentence, as the young man was suffering from several bruises, and it was the opinion of the judge that he had received about as much punishment as the offense called for.

Halloween Celebration Was a Safe and Sane One.

Marring of Plate Glass Windows Only Serious Mischief.

It was a very "safe and sane" Halloween from all reports received this morning.

No serious acts of vandalism were reported to the police, and only two arrests were made last night. Comparatively few reports were received at headquarters, and they were chiefly complaints of citizens regarding the throwing of rocks and boards into their front yards.

A Fourth street butcher awoke this morning to find his window covered with an inscription painted on the glass, which read: "Stale sausage for sale here. Also dog meat."

In the West end some complaints were made that young hoodlums had ruined several plate glass windows with glass cutters.

Some obstructions were placed on the East Fourth street car tracks, and one motorman was given a bad fright by a dummy, which he struck near the corner of Ninth avenue east.

At the different hotels pranks of all kinds were indulged in, most of them of a harmless nature.

A number of chambermaids dressed in winding sheets and wearing a covering over their faces marched through the corridors of a local hotel late last night and rapping at the doors of certain guests, stood in the dimly lighted hallway when the guest popped his head out of the door to see who had aroused his slumbers at that unseemly hour of the night.

An East end gardener who keeps a Jersey cow went out to relieve bossy of the burden of milk accumulated during the night today, and with difficulty discovered which was the right end of the animal. The animal has a white head and shoulders and some miscreant had painted a very good imitation of a cow on the rear end of the animal with brown cloth horns attached thereto. The worried animal let out a mournful "moo" and by this he discovered what was wrong with bossy.

A pug dog was seen going down Superior street with a long white tag of paper tied to its tail and when the animal ran between the coping and a sign on the street the tag caught, staying its progress for a time. Parties who liberated the howling cur read on the tag attached securely to its tail: "I'm going some, how about you—twenty-three for you."

The sight of a burly lumberjack carrying a little toy lantern down Superior street excited much merriment. He had a heavy load aboard and was singing in a whisky tenor: "She's My Baby Lu," when a cop took him and his lantern into camp.

Widely recommended for its curing qualities. Its reputation for superior merit has stood for thirty years. Nothing so good for indigestion, constipation, rheumatism and bad blood, as Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Ask your druggist.

WAGES REDUCED

By Nearly All of Big Copper Mining Companies of Upper Peninsula.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notices are posted about the Calumet & Hecla works announcing a reduction of wages on Dec. 1 of 12½ per cent approximately equal to the increase granted early in the year and affects between 2,000 and 3,000 men. There is no reduction in the output of the metal or the size of working force.

The Copper Range Consolidated company, controlling the Baltic, Champion, Tri-Mountain and Globe mines, has announced a cut of 5 per cent in wages effective Dec. 1. Next to the Calumet & Hecla it is the largest employer of labor in the Michigan copper district. It is presumed that the Bigelow, Hyams, Quincy and other mining companies will cut wages shortly, following the lead of the larger companies. The Mohawk and Wolverine Mining companies announce a reduction in wages of 5 per cent, making the wage scale the same as before Jan. 1, 1907.

DECREASE IN BUILDING

The Financial Flurry Causes a Lull in Operations.

Report of Inspectors for October Shows Falling Off.

The report of the building inspector for the month of October shows a remarkable dropping off in the number of permits issued and amount covered by the same, in comparison with the same month of last year. This decrease in building operations is attributed to the money flurry and to the high prices charged for all building material. Several large permits, which were to have been issued were held up this month on account of the money flurry and the stringency in ready cash resulting therefrom. It is anticipated that with renewed activity in banking, building will progress in November and that many contracts now held up temporarily, will be let.

The report shows that there were eighty-three building permits issued during the month of October at an estimated cost of $162,304.

Forty-eight elevators were inspected, 262 electric motors inspected and fourteen licenses issued to run passenger elevators. Eight permits were issued for moving buildings and five for removing or changing electric signs. The total fees for the month were $410.

In October of 1906, eighty-seven permits were issued at an estimated cost of $243,476 and the total fees were $457.

The estimated cost of buildings begun, is $81,172 less this month than during the corresponding month of last year.

FREE STORAGE IS SUGGESTED

For Grain and Bankers Would Then Advance Money.

Crookston, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—As indicating the healthy financial conditions here, Senator A. D. Stephens of the Merchants National bank today sent the following telegram to L. D. Marshall at Minneapolis, manager of the National Elevator company:

"Would it not be wisdom for you and other elevator companies to offer the farmers free storage for flax and wheat until you are ready to purchase. Believe we can advance to farmers 80 per cent on the market value if the farmers wish to hold or purchase all that comes in Polk county until freezing up."

At Mentor, Fosness and at the Crookston mills farmers are getting cash for all grain offered for sale, and the banks are cashing all elevator drafts and giving currency where wanted, but are charging exchange.

THIEVES STEAL TRAY OF RINGS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. Albrecht, who owns a jewelry store at 204 East Seventh street, was robbed last night of a tray of rings valued at $1,200 by a man and woman, who came into the store to look at some jewelry. The tray contained rings set with diamonds, rubies, opals, amethysts and garnets. Shortly before 8 o'clock last night a man and woman entered the store and asked to see some rings. Mr. Albrecht showed them one tray of rings but they declared they wished to look at something better. He then got out a smaller tray of rings and while the woman was examining the rings the man took Mr. Albrecht to the rear of the store to show him some silverware. While Mr. Albrecht was showing the man the silverware the woman picked up the smaller tray of rings and left the store with it. Mr. Albrecht did not see her leave but missed her shortly afterwards. He appealed to the man and the fellow then left, saying he would bring the woman back with him. Mr. Albrecht notified the police and gave a description of the thieves, but as yet they have not been located.

The adjourned annual meeting of directors is to be held in Jersey City next Thursday. Dissatisfaction with the present management is understood to be the reason for the opposition.

WANTS HIS BOY.

Chinaman Asks Permission to Bring Son Here.

Chin Ah Gin, one of the owners of a Bowery restaurant, yesterday appeared before Immigration Inspector Dean and applied for permission to bring his little 9-year-old son over from China. The proper papers were made out, and after the customary red tape is disposed of by Mr. Dean, it is expected that the permit will be issued allowing the lad to be brought over.

Chin Ah Gin left China shortly before his son was born nine years ago, and has now become very desirous of bringing the boy over here. Ah Gin has prospered since coming to America, and he will be able to give the boy plenty of the comforts of life.

From Inspector Dean the case will go up to the authorities at Washington, and if all goes well, Ah Gin should be able to see his little son by next spring.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH

TO SUBSCRIBERS:

It is important when desiring the address of your paper changed to give both old and new addresses.

ON THE OTHER FOOT.

There is a humorous side, also, to the recent financial panic, and to the agitation that it bred.

For instance:

A number of years ago there was a statesman named Peffer, Peffer of Kansas, who was remarkable, among other things, for having long whiskers and for being proud to be called a Populist.

He had a theory that it would be a very proper thing for the government to protect the farmer from the necessity of dumping his crops upon a weak and over-fed market. His idea was that there ought to be government warehouses in which the farmer could store his grain, and then the government was to loan the farmer money on the stored grain. This would enable the honest toiler of the fields to hold his produce for a better market, while he lived on the money borrowed from the government at a low rate of interest.

Everybody laughed. That was a crazy Populistic idea. But the other day, when the crisis in New York was at its height, the secretary of the treasury sat in the sub-treasury building in Wall street and loaned government money on the bankers' securities, in order that the bankers should not be compelled to dump these securities on a feeble and falling market at a great sacrifice.

It was all right, too, and it saved the day. It is not even open to criticism.

But really, is there any very wide difference between this very proper and beneficial scheme and that of Peffer, except that Peffer's scheme helped the farmers and this one saved the bankers?

Again, in the old Populistic days the farmers and cranks of the West said that there wasn't money enough, and they wanted it fixed so there would be enough. They wanted the government to issue greenbacks and to coin silver freely at the "immortal ratio." They said that business would be better and prices higher if there was more money.

And everybody laughed again; that is, nearly everybody. "Another crazy Populist notion," they said, laughing so hard they nearly choked.

But now here is Wall street saying there isn't enough money to do business on. The increased gold production has helped a lot, they admit; it has made prices higher and stimulated business, but business grew faster than they could dig out the gold, and now it has had to stop for lack of money. So they want congress to fix up some scheme to make the currency more "elastic," such as letting national banks issue emergency currency to meet extraordinary demands, and congress will very likely do it.

It's probably all right, too; only it is difficult to see just the difference between this reasoning and that of the Populists, though perhaps the Populists were a little more reckless in their choice of "fiat money" than the bankers are.

It seems to make a good deal of difference, somehow, whose ox is gored.

A SPLENDID SHOWING.

The recent financial panic was almost worth having for the good it has done. Perhaps its chief benefit has been to show how fundamentally strong the finances of the nation are.

If they had not been strong, if weakness had been widespread, the attack was fierce enough to have spread great destruction.

The incident came at the crest of a tremendous business and industrial activity. The demand for money to be used in business and manufacture, as well as in speculation, had been so strong that bankers must have been tempted everywhere to weaken their position by over-loaning.

Yet the result has gone to show that in marvelously few places was the temptation powerful enough to induce bankers to risk the stability of their institutions. The few weak spots have been uncovered, but in comparison with the vast tower of strength that the banks of the country have presented to withstand the assaults of fear and distrust, these weak spots were miraculously few and far between.

Again, banks in which public trust had been abused by the use of the public's money for speculation and exploitation were the first to experience the effects of fear and distrust, and the first to develop weak spots.

Much has been said about business dishonesty in this country, but the recent experience has shown that the vast majority of the banks are conducted upon sound and conservative principles, and that the promoters' banks are fortunately few.

The strength that has been shown by the banking institutions of the country should give the people new confidence in their integrity and trustworthiness.

CONGRESSIONAL RUDENESS.

Anybody who has witnessed a session of the house of representatives will admit that there is a good deal of sense in the proposal recently made by Congressman Boutelle of Chicago that the house chamber should be remodelled, that all the desks should be removed, and that the congressmen should be required to sit on benches or chairs arranged in the form of an ampitheater.

Those who have not witnessed a meeting of the house will probably see in this suggestion only an attempt to make it uncomfortable for the statesmen, and thus make them earn their recent increase of pay. Not so; the object is much worthier than that.

There are 386 members of the house. Each is provided with a large, commodious desk, equipped with writing materials and an easy chair. This necessarily spreads the membership out over a considerable area, making it difficult for a speaker to be heard in all parts of the hall unless the utmost quiet is preserved or the speaker has an extraordinarily strong voice.

A familiar sight in congress is that of a statesman declaiming vociferously, with a house reporter standing in front of him busily taking notes. Perhaps two or three or half a dozen in his immediate neighborhood are listening politely. The attendance may be large or small,—usually it is small,—but all except the speaker's polite neighbors are failing even to make a pretense of listening. They are reading, writing, or dozing in their chairs with their feet upon their desks. The cloakrooms are full, and the prolific dispenser of good stories has more listeners than the orator.

The object of Congressman Boutelle's plan is to bring the membership of the house closer together so it can hear better, and to remove opportunities of distraction such as the writing desks furnish.

Of course not even this measure would insure each speaker an audience. In many cases it would simply mean that the house would be cleared, and that the orator would have to address the empty benches and the yawning desk force. The chances are that the speechmaker is addressing his constituents at home rather than the house, anyway; in which event, after he has consumed a few seconds, he can secure "leave to extend his remarks in the record," and then go home and write out a glowing speech liberally peppered with "loud applause," "cheers," "laughter," etc., which will appear in the Congressional Record and will be printed in pamphlet form and mailed out under the congressman's frank to the admiring populace back home.

It would be cruelty to force the house membership to listen to such speeches as these, and they form an incredibly large proportion of the tumultuous and torrential oratory of the house. Instances where speeches have changed votes in congress or anywhere else have been few in history, for that matter, though undoubtedly the debates would be more prolific of good if the members would listen to them more closely than they do.

FRIDAY, THE THIRTEENTH.

None of us are superstitious. We all know that because we all say so. There is scarcely a man that will admit that he is superstitious in the slightest degree, yet—

Well, just for instance, there is the story of the coming meeting of the Republican national committee. It had been practically determined that the meeting, at which the date and place of the Republican national convention will be fixed, should be held Dec. 13.

Harry New and Elmer Dover of the committee were discussing the matter, when New referred to the fact that Dec. 13 had been practically agreed upon as the date.

"Holy smoke!" exclaimed Dover. "That will never do! That is Friday; Friday, the 13th."

"What of that?" asked New.

"Why, man," said Dover, "we'd be queered forever if we started the next campaign on Friday, the 13th. You wouldn't get half the members of the committee here, and the whole thing would be a fizzle."

Now of course Mr. New is not superstitious; of course Mr. Dover is not superstitious; and of course the other members of the committee are not superstitious. Certainly not. Yet that committee meeting will not be held on Friday, the 13th, but on Saturday, Dec. 7.

And good judgment was used, too, in all probability. Nobody is superstitious, but politics is a queer institution. "Friday, the 13th," might have been a campaign cry that would have followed the Republican candidate for president through the campaign. It would not influence reasoning votes, but it might have created an unconscious effect somewhere. At any rate that is the way the committee members figured it, which accounts for the change of date.

THE PARCELS POST.

A criticism of the parcels post plan is at hand, in which the critic speaks of it as dangerous and as a step toward government ownership of railroads and other Socialistic notions, and says: "It would take from the express companies a great mass of business which it is alleged that they are not now handling with the care and expedition desired."

That is the first time, so far as The Herald has noticed, that anybody has based the parcels post idea merely on the charge that the express companies do not handle their business carefully and expeditiously. They do, to a reasonable extent, but they want too much money for it, and if the government can do it cheaper, as the governments of nearly every other civilized country in the world now do, it is desirable that it should be done by the government.

It is not that the express companies do not handle the business properly, because with few exceptions they do. But it is that they ask enormous prices for it, compared with what it could be done for by the government. The express companies now meet government postal rates wherever they conflict with their business. If they can do this, the government can carry parcels at a much lower rate than the express companies do now.

This same critic fears that the introduction of the parcels post will interfere with the present functions of the postoffice; that letters will be delayed and the service deteriorated. That need not follow. Naturally, if the government enlarges its parcels post business it will have to enlarge its facilities, and a profitable parcels post business would permit an increase in facilities that should benefit all classes of postal business.

There are no reasonable arguments against the parcels post. The fear of the country merchant that it will give the city mail order houses an undue advantage is removed by the fact that it will be necessary to base the parcels post rates on distance, which will enable him to make a cheaper rate to his country customers than the distant mail order house can. Besides, there is no evidence anywhere that the mail order houses are pushing the parcels post movement, which would indicate that they see no great prospects in it for them.

Postmaster General Meyer's present plan involves only a parcels post from rural route centers, which would give the country merchant cheap delivery by rural carrier while denying the privilege to the mail order house. This removes all the objections of country merchants, but at the same time it fails to give the same privilege to all the people, and they ought to have it.

A parcels post service of general extent, covering the entire country, and with rates based on distance, would cheapen transportation of small parcels, would afford a check on the express companies, and would give a great public service while profiting the postoffice department.

The "financial crisis" is subsiding into quieter headlines. Pretty soon it will get off the front page, and a little later it will be forgotten.

J. Adam Bede says the American people are responsible for Rockefeller and his deeds. They ought to be ashamed of themselves, then.

The "panic" is having a serious effect when a man asks you who takes the bank excitement the coolest, and when you say you don't know says "the draft clerk."

HOTEL GOSSIP.

A new register was opened at the St. Louis the day before yesterday. It is considered an ill-omen by some superstitious people to be the first to place your name on a new hotel register, so when the new book, with its clean pages and embossed leather cover, was opened for signatures, no one of the four men who had reached the desk simultaneously seemed eager to place his name in the new book.

There was a lovely exhibition of the Alphonse and Gaston school of etiquette. Finally Thomas Sullivan, St. Paul, broke the gentle spell of superstition by scrawling his John Hancock on the new leaf in bold characters, and the thin ice of hesitancy regarding the legend of the hotel register was dispelled.

J. M. Lamb of Winnipeg has been mixed up in baseball for the past decade or so. He has been the man behind the business desk in baseball affairs at the Manitoba capital for some years past. He has met, in the course of his experience with the national game, all kinds and conditions of baseball players. Ball players represent a class of men that are most peculiar. Some of them have not the feeling of gratitude developed to the highest point. At the St. Louis yesterday Mr. Lamb was telling of an incident illustrating this characteristic in some players.

At the opening of the season in Winnipeg last spring some friends of one of the players had purchased a watch that was to be presented to the player before the start of the game. Mayor Ashdown threw a new ball across the plate to begin the festivities, several speeches were made by prominent men, and then came the watch-presenting event.

In a speech that bristled with laudatory rhetoric, the man chosen by the player's friends to hand out the little gift extolled the merits of the player, who stood bareheaded before the packed grandstand. With a flowery peroration, he handed the watch over to the recipient. Tumultous applause greeted the act. "Speech!" "Speech!" was shouted from the friends in the stand. The player, unheedful of the cries, seemed absorbed in examining the present. Suddenly he looked at the donor, a quizzical look of inquiry overspreading his countenance.

"This is rather a nice watch," exclaimed the player, "but there ain't any chain."

Mrs. W. A. Whitbecker, who is at the Lenox with her husband, is a very clever piano player. Her ability in this direction once led her into a position that was embarrassing, to say the least. When she thinks of the incongruities involved in her mistake, she laughs; not in a boisterous manner, but in a suppressed ripple, for reverence is due the occasion.

She was visiting a friend in a little village in South Carolina last winter. Her ability on the piano soon became known throughout the small town. Suddenly one afternoon a pale-faced woman, garbed in the deepest black, appeared at the house where Mrs. Whitbecker was staying, and requested her to come over to a neighbor's to play.

"Sister Archer, who was to have played, is ill," was the only explanation Mrs. Whitbecker received regarding her requirements at the home of Mrs. Vernon.

The piano was in a rear sitting rooc. Seated before it, Mrs. Whitbecker could command a view of the assembled guests. One thing struck her as peculiar—all the men and women were dressed in subdued shades of black or brown, and each guest wore a solemn, serious expression, as if in pain.

First she essayed a tuneful march. It was filled with martial airs, and usually one wanted to keep time to the swinging rythim with the feet. Not a smile of approbation or a relaxation of the stern visaged expression greeted her effort. Next she tried an airy waltz, which was also given a chilly reception. A thumping, jingling ragtime was her last effort, toward rousing the stern and solemn spirits of her auditors. The player imagined that she could detect signs of disapproval. She rose from the piano and went into the hall. Tears were ready to spring to her eyes. She was hurt and vexed. "I have bored your friends," she exclaimed; "they have not liked my playing."

"We'alls liked your playing, sure 'nough," replied the pale woman in the black dress, "but some of us thought them airs a little too frivolous to play at a funeral."

Hope for Southern Minnesota Yet.

Hibbing Tribune: We should not despair utterly of Southern Minnesota. It will find out the truth about us some day. Several of the best of its fellows, who have spent a good many years arguing against doing anything to develop the worthless swamp lands of Northern Minnesota, got to be office holders a while ago and in the course of their official duties they could not help learning something about swamp lands. They learned so much that a few days ago they purchased 5,000 acres as close up as they could get to where Gil Hartley is making $800 an acre from a swamp land celery crop. They are pretty thoroughly converted and they can be depended upon to help and not hinder in the future. The rest of Southern Minnesota is fairly intelligent and will undoubtedly learn in time.

THE WEATHER.

Another dark, damp and gloomy day. It rained most of the night, and this morning a steady mist and drizzle was in disagreeable evidence. The wind was in the southwest, and it was warm. Last night's lowest temperature was 46 degs. and yesterday's highest was 49 degs. The weather man expects it to clear and become cooler tonight, and Saturday will be fair.

A year ago today delightful autumn weather prevailed.

The sun rose this morning at 6:51 and set tonight at 4:52, making 10 hours and 1 minute of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The center of the disturbance central Thursday morning over Saskatchewan has moved to Eastern Minnesota. During the past twenty-four hours this low pressure caused a continuance of mild temperatures in the lake region and central valleys and light to copious rains throughout the Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys. Gulf states and Eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains. The California high pressure has advanced inland to Idaho and has caused cooler weather over Northwest and Western states. The further Easterly movement of this high pressure will be attended by clearing skies, cooler temperatures, and strong Westerly winds tonight and Saturday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures, as recorded by the weather bureau:

An Editorial and a Boom.

Washington Herald: An editorial on this page the other day, entitled "Time to Call a Halt," took the minds of many back some twenty years, to the time when another editorial with exactly the same caption broke a boom which was perhaps the most gigantic this country has ever known and caused the loss of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. The scene was Wichita, Kan., and the man who wrote the editorial was Marsh Murdock, editor of the Wichita Eagle and father of Congressman Victor Murdock. Wichita, out in the middle of the Kansas prairies, far distant from any navigable waterway and with only one railroad, or possibly two, was growing more rapidly than Chicago or any boom town ever grew. Real estate changed hands at fabulous and constantly increasing prices. Imposing business blocks, residences, factories and other buildings shot up like mushrooms. Men poor in money, but rich in speculative ability, became millionaires. Everybody contracted the fever, and everybody dabbled in speculation.

Editor Murdock watched developments and was troubled. His heart was in the future of Wichita, and at the existing pace he could not see that that future was particularly bright. So, one night, thinking merely to get the situation down to a business basis, and without a suspicion of the stupendous consequences to follow, he wrote an editorial, pointing out, very sensibly, that it would be foolish to permit prices to go higher; that a steady growth was better for the town; that, in brief, the limit had been reached. And he headed the editorial, "Time to Call a Halt."

The cataclysm commenced before the Eagle had been on the streets an hour. People began to think to realize that their gorgeous bubble had no tangible foundation at all; and long before noon the bubble had exploded—burst with such force as to ruin hundreds of men and women; swept away the "velvet" of countless clever schemes and brought gloom and sorrow where before there had been only joy and visions of untold wealth. By nightfall men who the day before had refused thousands for real estate, were futilely offering it for hundreds, and even tens. But there was no market. The boom was no more.

Almost nearly the huge, windowless "watch factory" and other big buildings, absolutely empty, stood as silent monuments to the folly of mankind. There was a period, indeed, when one could live in almost any of the handsome homes on Riverside avenue free, and receive from the agent enough cash monthly to pay one's car fare besides, since insurance could not be obtained on vacant houses.

Of course, Wichita is on its feet again now and is a thriving, growing town, but the old-timers will never forget the collapse of the boom or the editorial that caused it.

Cleveland's Little Cocktail.

New York Press: Now that cocktails are so much in evidence, it is in order to repeat the story that appeared several years ago, when Grover Cleveland, that grand old prophet of destiny, was inducted into office, succeeding President Arthur—"Our Chet." Cleveland arrived at the White House at 11:30 and was received in due and ancient form. He winked at Arthur; Arthur winked back. The outgoing and the incoming president sidestepped and President Arthur sent for Howard Carroll, one of his proteges, a former newspaper scribbler and now son-in-law of John H. Starin. Howard (also lately general of artillery on the staff of Governor Morton), born of poor but Irish parents—uptoted into the private office of the president. "Make us two cocktails, will you, Howard?" said Arthur. Howard did. Carroll had the run of the White House. He knew every bottle by name, and in a few minutes returned with two cocktails on a lacquered tray—one about an ounce in size, the other five ounces. Mr. Cleveland said: "After you." Arthur said: "By no means, Mr. President, after you." The incoming president picked up the five-ounce glass, sipped it once, then "let her go." After smacking his lips, he turned to Carroll and remarked: "Will you make these for my administration?"

Why?

The nature fakers,
My dears, are but birds of a feather.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1887.

State Auditor Braden held a sale of pine land stumpage at the county auditor's office today. The bidding was started at $1.14 ped 1,000 feet, the appraised value, and ran up to $3.73, the price offered by John McKinley, the whole amount of timber being knocked down to him at that figure. He has five years in which to cut it. The land is in 59-14, near the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, and embraces seventy forties, making a total of 2,800,000 acres.

Mrs. E. S. Fletcher left today for a protracted visit to the South, leaving Mr. Fletcher all alone with his books and violin.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded:

Clinton Markell to Willis M. Roberts, lot 185, Minnesota avenue, Upper Duluth, $600.

George A. Mower to Morris Thomas, undivided one-eighth interest in lots 3, 5 and 7 and the north half of lot 9, Lake avenue, and lot 4, St. Croix avenue, Crowell's addition, $1,000.

Frank Burke, Jr. to Joseph Johnson, fractional block 101, Second division, $150.

W. H. Parker, bookkeeper for the granite quarries at Hinsdale, on the Duluth & Iron Range road, says the contract for the stone for the Chicago courthouse is nearly completed. It has taken nearly 250,000 square feet of granite. Work is now being pushed to fill a contract for all the granite required for the Chicago Auditorium, and sixty men are working in the quarry.

Prof. Cole, W. H. Holmes, H. Bixby and Z. D. Scott and wife have returned from Faribault, where they have been attending the Y. M. C. A. convention.

At the city council meeting last evening, the Duluth Street Railway company presented a communication saying that, owing to a lack of material and the lateness of the season, they could not extend their lines farther than half way between Twenty-second and Twenty-third avenues west, and asked for further time to extend them to Twenty-fourth avenue. Alderman Kennedy remarked that the West enders were getting up a subscription to purchase a few rails to enable the company to extend their line, and moved that they should have the extension of time. Carried.

Frank M. DeVey, the well known young real estate man of this city, was married last Wednesday to Miss Grace Howard of Fort Gratiot, Mich.

Mrs. J. V. Braff has again assumed the management of the City hotel.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hibbing Tribune: The Republican party in Minnesota has just as many Barkises as ever, but none of them feel that it is a propitious moment to send word to Peggoty.

Hinckley Enterprise: The Bovey Iron News characterizes Congressman Bede as a "distinguished and experienced representative" and his traducers as "unsatiated officeseekers rantankerous over a grievance." There were 9,000 disappointed officeseekers at the last election gotten together in two or three weeks and there are more now.

Ely Miner: Duluth has adopted stringent measures to stop the sale of liquor to minors. This is a most nefarious practice and a blight on any community. Parents who send their children for liquors are also fit subjects for a heavy fine or imprisonment. The spectacle of a young boy drunk is a most degrading sight. The range towns have the Sunday weddings to thank for these sights.

St. Peter Free Press: The Duluth city council adopted, by unanimous vote, a resolution providing that hereafter the license of every saloonkeeper convicted of selling liquor to minors be revoked, and instructing the chief of police to serve written notice upon the saloonkeepers warning them against the sale of liquor to minors. This will prove more effectual than a stiff fine. Minors should be kept out of the saloons altogether.

Walker Pilot: The Anoka Union says that not one of the men mentioned for governor on the Republican ticket has attracted the least bit of enthusiasm as yet. That's so; no one has mentioned Pease for the position.

Cloquet Pine Knot: When the lambs get caught in a slump on Wall street, no one is to blame but themselves, but when the operators get caught the president is to blame.

Roseau Region: Recently the department of agriculture at Washington issued a bulletin entitled "The Poisonous Action of Johnson Grass." This grass spreads so rapidly that in some states local authorities have taken measures to burn the dried grass after the fall frost, but the next season there was a larger crop of Johnson grass than ever. It is a matter of record that a farmer residing in Nebraska by name of W. J. Bryan received the first copy of this bulletin. It is thought by ardent Democrats and many others that this grass has received its name from the chief executive of our state, because of its tenacity.

Biwabik Times: In framing the declaration of independence from the dictatorial attitude of Duluth the range should stand as one man. Not even the Hibbing knocker can keep back the progress of the sentiment that is bound to rule in the end. St. Louis county is an empire—almost a state—within itself, and there is no reason why the people of the northern section should remain subject to such a small proportion of people as live in Duluth.

It Is Fall.

Oh, the merry, merry summer time has fled,
The nights are cool and long;
The lark has bushed her song;
The sumac and the maiden's nose are red;
Fat people with the asthma loudly wheeze,
And, alas!
Oer the grass
Fallen leaves are being driven by the breeze;
Coal is shooting down the chutes,
And the hoot owl sadly hoots,
If at all,
While the benches in the park
Are deserted after dark—
It is fall!

Wrapped in heavy furs the chauffeur whizzes by,
And the people loudly cheer
When the full back with one ear,
And the half back, with but one undamaged eye,
Are dragged away to undergo repairs!
Blithe and free,
With his three
Cards the fakir fools the rubes at country fairs.
Oh, what joy the farmer finds
Making cider, as he grinds
Worms and all.
Roosters that are tough and old
For spring chickens now are sold—
It is fall!

Oh, the fair and fleeting summer's course is run,
And the blue-lipped golfer stands
With his brassy in his hands;
Though he shivers he imagines it is fun.
Old women gather coal along the tracks
Day by day,
And the gay
Turkey cock looks with suspicion at the ax;
Near the stove the cat is curled,
Leaden clouds hang o'er the world,
Like a pall,
And the card clubs are once more
Starting up from shore to shore—
It is fall!

What's Geography Good For?

Chicago Inter-Ocean: This is from the philosophy of Mrs. Louisa Schmitt, who berated a teacher in the Nixon school for not promoting her daughter because the latter was deficient in geography:

"Teacher, you don't know it all, I guess," said the irate Mrs. Schmitt. "I wish it that my daughter gets through school so she gets a man. Never mind about the geography; just promote her without it.

"Why, my other daughter, she didn't know geography and she got a man. I don't know geography and I got a man. And you know all about geography and you ain't got any man at all. What is this geography good for? See that my daughter gets through school."

The Woods in Autumn.

Step lightly here where red leaves lie
And dropping branches moan and sigh—
Where everything is old and sear
And speaks of Time—step lightly here
And noiselessly, as you pass by Sweet summer's bier!

FLASHES OF FUN.

Washington Herald: "Can a man get a million dollars honestly?"

"I s'pose so," answered the financial wonder addressed. "But why be a freak?"

Philadelphia Press: Client—I want to see Mr. Bigfee, the lawyer.

Servant—Well, you can't see him just now. He's lying down in the library.

Client—That don't suit me. I want him to be lying up in the court.

Washington Star: "Every man," says the cynic, "has his price."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "and sometimes a man gives himself credit for superior honesty merely because there is nobody bidding for him."

Philadelphia Ledger: "You are charged with having registered illegally."

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

A SAFE HOME TREATMENT

In S. S. S. nature has provided a certain, safe, home cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It is a medicine made entirely of roots and herbs of recognized blood-purifying value, and is the one medicine which is able to get down to the root of the trouble and remove every particle of the virus, and at the same time benefit and build up the system and general health. No harmful effects ever follow its use, as is so often the case when strong mineral medicines are used. As soon as the system gets under the influence of S. S. S. the disease begins to improve, and when the remedy has thoroughly purified the blood and driven out every trace of the poison, no signs of the trouble are ever seen again. The general manifestations of Contagious Blood Poison such as falling hair, copper-colored spots, ulcerated mouth and throat, sores and ulcers, etc., are merely symptoms of the poisoned condition of the blood, and in most cases respond quickly to local treatment, while S. S. S. is doing the necessary work of cleansing the blood. Our "Home Treatment" book is of great assistance along this line. It is a complete guide for treating the trouble, containing instructions for the different stages of the disease, and also valuable suggestions about the local treatment, that will be most helpful in effecting a cure. We will be glad to send a copy of this book, free of charge, to any who desire it, and if special medical advice is wanted our physicians will take pleasure in supplying it without cost to the patient. If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison you can cure yourself in the privacy of your own home by the use of S. S. S., an absolutely safe remedy.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

GREAT GAME OF THE YEAR

Chicago and Minnesota to Play for Western Honors.

Michigan Meets Vanderbilt and Wisconsin Plays Iowa.

Tomorrow is the big day for Western football this year. There are big intersectional games to come, but they are all overshadowed by the struggle between Chicago and Minnesota for the championship of the West. The championship will be decided tomorrow and from then until the close of the season the followers of the game will be engaged in the attempts of the Western teams to prove superiority over those of the East.

The gathering on Northrop field, when the kick-off takes place tomorrow, will probably be the largest that ever witnessed a football game in the West. Despite the fact that satisfactory rates have not been secured from Chicago to Minneapolis, the Maroons will have thousands of adherents to cheer them on their way. Every available ticket has already been sold and there will not be a square foot of unoccupied space on the stands and bleachers tomorrow.

The unsatisfactory disclosures of the game last year has added interest to this year's contest between the two great teams. Maroon supporters claim that the muddy field last year retarded the swift Chicago team and gave Minnesota a victory. On the other hand, Minnesota people claim that the Gopher eleven of last year was not able to show its full strength for the same reason.

For weeks past, both Stagg and Williams have been as secret in their work as a crank inventor with a new scheme. Behind closed gates, they tried out their men, their plays, and their football knowledge and the productions of two master football minds will clash on Northrop field. Wild rumors have been afloat for weeks—rumors of Stagg's weakness in the line and Williams' weakness at end; of the lack of speed displayed by Minnesota's back field, and the wonderful trick plays Stagg has developed for the downfall of the Western champions.

But the football public has learned not to place too much credence in reports from the field of practice. They know that both Stagg and Williams, are as full of resourceful tactics as a porcupine of quills and a victory either way tomorrow would surprise very few people.

It is admitted that Minnesota's line is stronger than Chicago's, but it is said Stagg will send fresh men in to fight out the second half and thereby offset that advantage. The Minnesota ends are weak, but they have been getting so much attention from individual coaches in the last two weeks that they ought to know something by this time of football and be prepared to get after the mighty Steffens with some style to their play. The Minnesota back field may be slow, but if they can overthrow the Chicago line, they will get there just the same.

Capron is Minnesota's hope. If the Gophers can push the Maroons within striking distance of the Chicago goal, the little quarter can be depended upon to lift the ball between the posts. He has done it so many times this year that Minnesota followers almost believe that he is infallible, and he will undoubtedly be put to the supreme test tomorrow.

On the other hand, Chicago places all hope in the mighty Steffens, the second Eckersall. Swift, heady and a great open field runner, he has been the principal factor in Chicago's victories this year, and unless Minnesota can stop him, it will be farewell to the Gopher hopes.

Michigan-Vanderbilt.

For the first time in the history of the game, a big Western team will go South tomorrow. Coach Yost's Michigan team will play Vanderbilt at Nashville, Tenn., and the game will bring out new things in football.

The game hasn't any great bearing on the general situation, unless Vanderbilt should accidentally overthrow the Wolverine forces. It would be a sad blow to the maize and blue. Probably the greatest coach Yost has given to the football world, Dan McGugin, is in charge of the Vanderbilt team, and he gave his former teacher a good scare last year, when the Southerners held the Wolverines to a 10 to 4 score. A few weeks later, they defeated Carlisle by a score of 4 to 0 and gave the football world a shock.

Yost has not underestimated Vanderbilt's strength and will send his strongest lineup into the game at Nashville. McGugin has a good team and they will give an account of themselves.

Wisconsin-Iowa.

Wisconsin, which took a great fall last Saturday and lost to Illinois, will play the University of Iowa at Iowa City. The Cardinals are but a shadow of their former selves and the game is liable to bring out almost anything. Wisconsin should win and they probably will, as they are anxious to hold a place of prominence in Western football. A victory for Iowa would be the last straw on the Wisconsin pride and it would be shattered beyond repair.

Princeton-Carlisle.

The only game of any consequence in the East is between Carlisle and Princeton at New York and that has lost much of its interest through the defeat of Princeton by Cornell last Saturday. The Tigers have fallen out of consideralon for the championship of the East, and a victory for Carlisle would get the Indians little but an unblemished record.

There is every reason to expect a victory for the redskins. Their play against Pennsylvania last Saturday was superb. They showed a comprehensive knowledge of every branch of the game and humbled the Penn warriors in the dust. The Princeton team, humbled by the Ithacans, shouldn't have a show against them.

The other games in the East may furnish some surprises, but the big teams are playing weaker opponents and should win. The games are Pennsylvania vs. Lafayette; Swarthmore vs. Villanova; Harvard vs. Brown; Army vs. Colgate; Yale vs. Washington and Jefferson; Cornell vs. W. U. of P.; Navy vs. West Virginia.

CRAWFORD MAY NOT PLAY

Captain of High School Team Not in Condition.

It is possible that Capt. Crawford of the Central high school football team will not be able to play in the game with the St. Paul Centrals at St. Paul tomorrow. Crawford is still suffering from the injury he received in the Blaine game, his neck being severely wrenched. He has been out to practice every night this week, but he is not in the best of condition and Colton will probably send Jefferson in at right tackle to start the game tomorrow. If Jefferson should not make good, or Crawford is needed to bolster up the line, eh will take Jefferson's place. Jefferson has been doing good work on the second team and he is expected to make good in a regular game.

The Centrals leave over the Great Northern this afternoon for St. Paul, accompanied by a large number of rooters. Last night, the boys were given a hard practice and sent in from Athletic park on the run. With the exception of Crawford, they are all in good condition and, unless the capital team is stronger than reports would indicate, they will give a good account of themselves tomorrow.

Whether the game tomorrow will be the last of the season for the team is still undecided. The Ashland team is willing to play another game at Ashland, but not until after Nov. 16. The locals may conclude to hold together until Nov. 23, just to show Ashland that the victory claimed by Ashland here was a fluke, pure and simple. As a matter of fact, it is believed the Centrals can walk all over Ashland and if they take the team from the south shore town on again, they will show Ashland a few things about the game.

JOE GANS TO APPEAR HERE

Lightweight Champion Has An Engagement at the Met.

Joe Gans, lightweight champion, will be in Duluth the week of Nov. 10, with the "Merrymakers," at the Metropolitan opera house, according to advices received in Duluth last night. The people of the Empire circuit have been negotiating with the colored man for some time, and he has finally come to terms, it is said.

Gans will be a big attraction on the circuit. He is the greatest man of his weight in the ring and has disposed of all comers. He declares that his retirement after his recent fight with Memsic and the relinquishment of the title to the Chicago boy, who gave him a good battle, is final, and the ring will see him no more. The fight fans would like to see him get back in the game to fight Nelson, but Gans claims that his defeat of the Dane was conclusive enough, and he will devote himself to business in the future. He has just opened a $40,000 hotel in Baltimore, and after his theatrical tour, will give the management of it his personal attention.

It is expected Packy McFarland, the great little Chicago fighter, will be in Duluth at the same time as Gans, as he is coming to Duluth en route to Northern Minnesota on a moose hunting expedition in company with Tom Madden of Duluth.

BOWLERS IN GREAT FORM

Dululh Men Win Three Straight From Superior Opponents.

The Duluth bowlers again put it all over the Superior five again last night at the Central alleys, winning three more straight games, and giving them a clear claim to the $25 side bet, for which the series of twelve games was played.

The Duluth men bowled in great form. The Superiorites never had a show and were beaten by 279 pins on the series of three games. F. Stiegler was the big gin. He pulled down the high score of 233 and had the remarkably high average of 213 2-3. Ferguson wasn't so slow with an average of 189 and Huber led the Superior forces with an average of 194 1-3. Huber also had the high score for the Superior team with 208.

Tonight at the Central alleys, the Fitzwells will play the Five-M's. Both teams have some good bowlers and the match promises to be warmly contested.

The individual scores of last night's games are as follows:

FOREVER TO BE BARRED

Blacklisted Players Cannot Return to the National Association.

Expected Trouble With Class A. Leagues Not to Materialize.

New York, Nov. 1.—At the final session of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs yesterday afternoon, a resolution by J. H. O'Rourke of Bridgeport, Conn., was adopted, by which all players adjudged guilty of contract-jumping and placed upon the ineligible list by the National association shall forever be debarred from playing with any clubs of the association excepting those of the Tri-State league. The Tri-State league was excepted from the provisions of the measure on account of the agreement by which it came to the association. Twenty-two players are affected by the decision.

The national board of the National association of minor baseball leagues, which still has a number of protests and appeals to adjust, is still in session, and probably will continue at work until Saturday.

The demands of the Western association, backed up by the Eastern league, for a new classification, were not favored by a majority of the delegates. A committee of seven was appointed to carry the grievances of these two leagues to the national committee, when that body meets here in December.

There is no apprehension of trouble brewing from these two big Class A leagues, and in the opinion of those interested in the welfare of the national game, matters will be satisfactorily adjusted.

The committee appointed to meet the members of the national committee includes: President P. T. Powers and Secretary J. H. Farrell of the National association; Edward Hanlon, Eastern league; W. W. Kavanaugh of the Southern league; Dr. F. R. Carson, Central league; D. M. Shively of the Western association, and F. Baume of the Interstate league. Every grade in the National association is represented on the committee.

They may suggest an amendment to the National agreement, which still has four years to run. An advisory committee will help to straighten out matters.

Many cases in dispute between players, clubmen and leagues were settled yesterday by the national board of the National association, which was strengthened by a resolution of the general body investing it with power to discipline any owner, player or manager on whose grounds an umpire is assaulted.

The next meeting of the National association will take place in Chicago on the second Tuesday after the first Monday in November of next year. Clubs in the future will be limited to the reservation of twenty players, including those purchased, traded or drafted.

WISCONSIN STALWARTS

May Abandon Taft and Become Third Term Boomers.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31. — Wisconsin stalwarts, erstwhile supporters of Taft, are seriously considering the advisability of becoming third termers.

This, at least, is the belief held by La Follette supporters, some of whom declare that the spread of sentiment in favor of Senator La Follette bids fair to prevent the war secretary from getting a single Wisconsin delegate.

This has led many Taft Republicans throughout the state to make up their minds that the best way to counteract the La Follette boom is to join the ranks of Roosevelt "third termers." In fact, it is now known that several state papers with Taft leanings have been getting ready to switch, such preparations including even the engagement of syndicate matter to further the third term propaganda.

This matter may never be used, but the action possesses undoubted significance as indicating which way political straws are blowing in Wisconsin.

The purchase insures 60 cent gas for Indianapolis. The price charged by the Indianapolis Gas company is 90 cents.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR METHODIST MISSIONS.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 1.—The general executive board of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, closed its session yesterday. The financial committee reported the following appropriations for the ensuing year:

The total of $615,827 is an increase of $26,289 over last year.

DOMESTIC TROUBLES END IN TRAGEDY.

Memphis, Nov. 1.—As a termination of the domestic troubles in the household of T. B. Rutherford, a former saloonkeeper of Tipton county, Tenn., two persons are dead and a third is dying, the result of wounds inflicted by Rutherford after a quarrel with his wife.

Rutherford and his wife had parted. Late last evening he went to her boarding house and endeavored to effect a reconciliation. Failing in his efforts, he was about to attack the woman when Eugene H. Peete, a friend of the couple, rushed into the room. Rutherford shot and killed him. Turning to his wife Rutherford shot her and mortally wounded her and then killed himself.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Henry A. Leonard, 23 years old, the wife of a mason of this city, attempted to kill herself and two small children yesterday by taking laudanum, giving some of it to the children and then turning on the gas in her room. The mother and a 10-months-old daughter are in the hospital in a critical condition. The second child, a 4-year-old daughter, will recover. Ill health is given as the cause.

HAYNES NOT TALKING.

Minneapolis Mayor Mum as to Whether He Will Close Saloons.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—All attempts to get a definite statement from Mayor Haynes in regard to his position on the 11 o'clock closing crusade which has been inaugurated by certain of the ministers, have been a distinct failure. The mayor has refused to commit himself, and it is a mere guess as to what he will do.

The ministers have given him until Monday to enforce the law, and if he does not invoke the law in accordance with their views, some action will be taken.

Outside of the Ministers' alliance, no other bodies or league have joined the movement, and the agitation thus far has been confined entirely to the ministers.

CASS LAKE AGAINST IT

Votes Down Proposition of Bonding Village for $15,000.

Election Wound Up Very Red Hot, Mudslinging City Campaign.

Cass Lake, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The voters of Cass Lake Thursday, by a vote of 197 to 114, defeated the resolution proposed by the village council to construct a fire hall and jail and bond the village for $15,000. There has been much dissension in the village for the past two months between the village council and almost all the citizens, owing to the alleged reckless expenditure of the village funds on the part of the council.

Some weeks ago the council let a contract for the erection of a fire hall and jail. As the village is in debt to a considerable amount, and the building was to be located in one end of the town, some prominent citizens rebelled and served an injunction against the council. The case was tried before Judge McClennahan at Brainerd and the council lost out. Then the council served notice for a special election to vote on the proposition, and by a vote of 197 to 114 the voters demonstrated that it was contrary to their wishes to erect the building at this time.

There was much heated rivalry between the opposing parties before election. Printed circulars were distributed amongst the voters by a party or parties, who signed them "Taxpayer," and in which he accused the council of reckless expenditure of the village funds, and various other things. In repiy to these, the president of the council issued other circulars, in which he accused the "Taxpayer and others of being liars, curs, shysters and duffers," and spared no words in expressing his views on the matter. He also referred to the Cass Land company and the J. Niels Lumber company as seekers of the filthy lucre only.

UNABLE TO FIX

Cause of the Death of Carl Akerberg of Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coroner's jury, selected to determine the cause of the death of Charles Akerberg, reconvened in the city last evening. The jury listened to the reading of the report of the state chemist on the analysis of the stomach of the deceased and its contents, after which the jury returned a verdict to the effect that deceased came to his death from causes to the jury unknown.

Young Akerberg died rather suddenly on Sept. 19, some of the symptoms accompanying the death indicating poisoning.

There was something resembling a sensation when the relatives of young Akerberg intimated that death was caused by poison and desired a coroner's inquest.

Coroner Marcum called a jury and a post-mortem was held on the body. The stomach of the dead boy was sent to St. Paul to be analyzed, and the coroner's jury adjourned until report of the finding of the state chemist would be received. The report was received a few days ago.

CIVIL WAR VET GETS NEW TRIAL

Circuit Court of Appeals Rules on Noted Perjury Case.

Minot, N. D., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frederick Nurenberger, a veteran of the Civil war, who was convicted in the federal court for subornation of perjury in connection with a land settlement enterprise in this, Ward county, and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $100 has been granted a new trial by the United States circuit court of appeals, which reverses the district court for this state.

Nurenberger's case has been rather a celebrated one in the Northwest.

He induced a number of widows of Ohio veterans to file on lands in this county using soldier's script. A contract was drawn up, the substance of which was that the applicant agreed to go to the United States land office at Minot and make entry on lands selected for them by the defendant under the homestead laws, and that the applicant would make final proof and perfect title, after which the lands were to be conveyed to the defendant, who on his part agreed to pay the applicant $200 and all expenses, including the trip to North Dakota and return.

Charges were preferred against Nurenberger of subornation of perjury and he was indicted, convicted and sentenced as stated. Then he appealed to the circuit court of appeals. That court holds that the trial court erred in instructing the jury that if it found that the applicants swore to statements which they knew to be false they committed perjury. "It authorized the jury to find," says the court of appeals, "that if the affiants did not intend to settle on the lands the oaths were criminal." The appellate court says in substance that if the affiants believed that on account of their position of privilege as old soldiers it was not necessary for them to settle on the lands and that the statements in the affidavits were therefore immaterial then perjury was not committed.

The case was argued before Judges Phillips, Sanborn and Hook. The opinion of the court is written by Judge Phillips. There is a brief dissenting opinion by Judge Hook in which he says that the guilt of the defendant clearly appears.

UNKNOWN INDIAN KILLED.

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 1.—The body of an unknown Indian was found near the track beyond the Northwestern roundhouse Wednesday morning. It is possible that he was stealing a ride on the early morning train and fell off, for he had not been run over. He appeared to be about 40 years of age. His name has not been learned, but he is believed to be a relative of Joe LaPointe. Parties from Odanah are expected to identify the body.

FIRE FIRST GUN IN GRAFT CASES

Some Sensational Disclosures Are Expected to be Developed.

Menominee, Mich., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mandamus proceedings were instituted by a number of leading citizens of Nadeau township against Peter Garrigan, chairman of the township board of Nadeau township, to compel him to sue Joseph Sherry, the highway commissioner of the same township, for the recovery of $600, which it is claimed was paid to Sherry for a gravel pit which already was the property of the township.

This is the first shot in an investigation that promises to reach a large circle of politicians and prominent men of Menominee county.

The matter of the collapse of the three bridges built over the Menominee river connecting the counties of Menominee, Mich., with Marinette, Wis., will also be drawn into the investigation.

Judge J. W. Stone has issued an order compelling Garrigan to appear before him on Nov. 18 to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not issue compelling Garrigan to sue Sherry.

MARRIES OTHER; NOW HE IS SUED

Old Sweetheart Claims Marinette Man Has Wronged Her.

Marinette, Wis., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A breach of promise suit was started here by Miss Alvina Ladusier, a clerk in a local department store, against Julius Behrendt of this city. The plaintiff asks damages of $10,000. Behrendt was married Tuesday evening to Miss Kathryn Shannon, a hair dresser and masseur of this city. At that time it is alleged he was engaged to be married to Miss Ladusier. She did not know of Behrendt's marriage until she heard it from the groom himself.

On the evening when the marriage took place it is claimed that Behrendt had promised to call on the young lady who now sues him. The next day when Miss Ladusier met her supposed sweetheart on the street, she asked him why he had failed to keep his appointment. He curtly informed her that he was married at that very hour to Miss Shannon. The news came as a sudden shock, the young lady fainting on the sidewalk and was immediately removed to her home.

"For eight years, Mr. Behrendt and I have been engaged," said Miss Ladusier, "and the date for our wedding was set for Nov. 1. Believing his sincerity I have secured my wedding trousseau and have practically completed my arrangements for the wedding. That amounts to little, however."

Miss Shannon, now Mrs. Behrendt was seen and admitted that her courtship was a rather short one.

"I married Mr. Behrendt because I loved him," said the bride. "In fact, I did not know of Mr. Behrendt's good financial conditions until after we were married. The breach of promise suit will be fought to the bitter end."

OFFICER CHOKES GIRL

Who Had Swallowed Poisonous Pills and Saves Her Life.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Blanche Burton, a young inmate of a resort in the Hollow owned by Nina DeMars, attempted to commit suicide by swallowing pills containing poison. She was seen by Police Capt. Dahlgren, who probably saved her life by choking her so she could not swallow the poison. A physician was called and succeeded in reviving the girl. She now is at the police station.

At the same time in the same resort a railroad brakeman, named Austin Flaherty was arrested after a desperate struggle with the police. Flaherty had been intimate with the Burton girl and the mix up started when Flaherty attacked the girl's brother, who was in the resort attempting to get his sister to leave her life of shame and return to her home in Grand Forks.

POPE PIUS IS VERY LONELY

Feels His Position of Isolation More Every Day.

Paris, Nov. 1.—A correspondent at Rome, having well informed sources of information, says that affairs are not going on well at the Vatican. The pope feels his position of isolation and imprisonment more and more every day, and is more and more grieved at what he considers the misfortunes of the church. He is throwing himself more and more into the hands of the reactionary party, and drifting further and further away from the few more liberal-minded and tactful members of the sacred college who alone could do something to save the situation.

All the cardinals have left Rome for the calm of the mountains or the health-giving virtues of watering places. The pope alone is prisoner in his palace. Each farewell visit of the cardinals adds to his bitterness of spirit. The daily promenade under the dark cypresses and mournful looking palm trees of the Vatican gardens, under the sultry sky of the torrid autumn, appears to him more melancholy than usual when unaccompanied by the usual court of cardinals and prelates. To the last cardinal who went to take leave of him, Pius X remarked, with a wan smile, "So you are going, too, eminence, and are leaving here alone under the weight of all his cares, your poor prisoner of a pope."

This isolation of the pope allows prelates of the second rank, who at other times rarely see him, to play a considerable role at present. Each day his holiness works with the procurators of two well known religious orders who have the reputation of being administrators and financiers of talent. For not only has the pope troubles of a religious nature, but he has in additional financial worries. He is at present investigating the whole revenues of the Vatican, especially the Peter's pence fund, the chief source of income of the holy see.

These labors will be followed by a decree or by a motu proprio, which may cause some surprise. Up to the present the budget of the Vatican, both income and expenditure, has been a secret one, not only from the world at large but even from the cardinals and bishops. The pope alone knows the full measure of the mysterious material instrument of his spiritual power. Breaking with the traditions of centuries, Pius X desires to print and publish the budget of the church. He wants to throw light on the mysterious strong box of the Vatican, which some declare is nearly empty, and which others insist contain untold millions. His holiness hopes thus to revive the flagging ardor of Catholics for the Peter's pense fund. The other revenues of the Vatican consist of the sale of titles and decorations, chancellerie fees, indulgences, papal briefs, taxes and canonizations. This latter brings in barely 3,000,000 lire of the 20,000,000 which the Vatican needs to meet its annual expenditure. The Peter's pence fund must therefore bring in 17,000,000 lire a year.

It is deemed probable that the pope may have his own way about the budget and publish it to the world. The effect of such a policy cannot be definitely foretold, but it is sure to be epochal.

MURDERED HER FIANCE.

Many Crimes Accredited to the Daughter of Burgomaster.

Dresden, Nov. 1.—Grete Bayer, the daughter of a late burgomaster of Brand, Saxony, who has confessed to murdering her fiance for the sake of $2,500 he had willed her as a marriage gift, is now charged with other crimes and with having buried the bodies of children in her father's garden. The police are digging in the garden for evidence.

The girl's confession that she had blindfolded her lover under pretence of giving him a pleasant surprise and had then shot him in the mouth leaving the body in a position suggesting suicide, was wrung from her in connection with a charge of embezzling a friend's savings bank account of $1,000. The police had discovered a similarity between her handwriting in the bank book and a letter supposed to have been left by her fiance announcing an intention to commit suicide.

The mother and another of the girl's lovers, a young merchant, named Merkel, have also been arrested on charges of forgery. If the girl's father had lived a few weeks longer, it is now stated that he would have been charged with perjury in a libel suit.

NAVIES OF THE WORLD

Their Comparative Standing Now and Four Years Hence.

Famous Burglar Has Been Caught by the Hanover Police.

Berlin, Nov. 1.—An official return has been issued here showing the number and tonnage of ships of the principal powers now and four years hence. In the base of battleships—vessels under 10,000 tons, and launched prior to 1883 are excluded—it is found that Great Britain has now fifty-seven ships of 809,683 tons, equal in tonnage to the United States, France and Germany combined, but there is a deficiency of four ships. Thus the United States has twenty-two vessels of 323,207 tons; France, nineteen vessels of 226,900 tons, and Germany twenty of 233,638 tons. Japan, which comes next, has eleven vessels of 155,244 tons, and Italy ten of 130,030 tons.

In considering the state of affairs four years hence, the German statistician takes count only of the declared intention of the powers, and thus cannot include any vessels beyond those ordered. Most of the powers have declared their program for several years; not so with Great Britain. Such battleships as may be laid down by Britain next year are thus excluded, although they will be completed by 1911. But, even so, she will still be over the two-power standard.

England will have sixty vessels of 903,769 tons; the United States twenty-nine vessels of 451,328 tons; France, twenty-five of 351,292 tons; Germany, twenty-eight of 358,400 tons; Japan, fifteen of 236,904 tons, and Italy, ten of 134,403 tons. France and Germany combined will have fifty-three, against England's sixty, and their tonnage will be 709,692 tons, against her 903,769 tons.

In cruisers, the condition is still more striking. Great Britain has now thirty-two armored ships exceeding 5,000 tons and launched since 1888, and the tonnage of these is 378,758. In 1911 she will have thirty-eight of 475,841 tons. The United States has now thirteen vessels of 176,519 tons, and four years hence will have fourteen of 199,950 tons. France will have an increase of three ships, Germany four, Japan five, and Italy four, after allowing for depletion of ships when twenty years old and adding the new vessels projected.

The Hanover police have at last succeeded in arresting Franz Kirsch, the prince of German housebreakers, a "Raffles" in real life, who has had a hand in every big robbery in Germany for many years. When not engaged in burglaries, he has played the wealthy gentleman so successfully that on the night after breaking open the strong room of a club he played baccarat with the members, all of them prominent men, losing $1,750 at one sitting. Kirsch was well known on most of the important race courses, where he betted freely.

Quite recently the papers have given elaborate accounts of a great champagne banquet given by "a wealthy merchant" in a well-known restaurant. The wealthy merchant was Franz Kirsch.

He had a highly trained and clever band of assistants, who carried out robberies already projected and prepared by their master. He has several times been caught, but has escaped owing to his marvelous impersonation of a lunatic, which has on each occasion effectively deceived the authorities and resulted in his incarceration in an asylum instead of a prison. The asylums, however, had no bars which could hold Kirsch. He always carried two pistols, but is only known to have used them when he escaped with their help from pursuit on an open road near Berlin.

On another occasion, when already under police escort from Lichtenberg to Herzberg, Kirsch's accomplices surrounded the escort on the road and forced them to release their master. It is supposed that Kirsch was responsible for the recent burglary at the state treasury at Dessau, when only some accidental disturbance saved the whole current moneys of Dessau from his hands.

The general and complacent view, cording to which the prime cause of the evil atmosphere of cities is "them factory chimblies," has received a rude shock in the latest results of experiments conducted by the Royal Saxon Hygienic institute in Dresden, and placed on record for the benefit of the members of the International Society of Hygiene and Demography, recently in session in Berlin.

The Saxon institute made a series of 160 experiments on forty days of last winter and summer, with a view to determining the variation in the presence of deleterious soot in the atmosphere.

The institute was not satisfied with the "them chimblies" answer of popular opinion. They discovered and have placed on record the fact that the quantity of soot in the air is greater in winter than in summer, and in the morning than in the evening, and is not less on Sundays and other public holidays than on weekdays.

From these results the institute concludes that the household chimney is the prime cause of the evil, and that the factory chimney plays a quite subsidiary role in the vitiation of the atmosphere. Moreover, the institute ascertained that the air of closed rooms increases its percentage of soot in exactly the same proportion as the air outside. To test this, a room was hermetically sealed, windows being glued up and the cracks of the doors withstanding these precautions, it was found on reopening the room, after a short period, that the soot in the atmosphere had increased.

According to the "Militarisch-Politische Korrespondenz," the German government entertains a project of coinage which may have a considerable effect on the silver market. In the forthcoming session of the reichstag, the government will introduce a bill for an important increase in the silver currency of the empire. The original proposal was to increase the silver contingent to the extent of 2 marks per head of the population, but laterly the 2 marks originally mooted have been increased to 5 equivalent to an aggregate increase of $75,000,000. The increase is supported by the military authorities on the ground that it will greatly facilitate the periodical payment of the troops, which at present involves the withdrawal of a considerable portion of cash from circulation for some itme before the settlement. Further, the silver currency would be likely to find support among all parties in the reichstag, including the Center and the Socialists, who constantly advocate measures for the relief of the tightness of small money.

LEOPOLD WINS AGAIN.

Parliament Votes Him Power to Settle the Congo Problems.

Brussels, Nov. 1.—King Leopold has scored a victory on the status of the Congo colony in the special commission of the Belgian parliament. The commission has voted nine to seven in favor of the government proposal that the king should himself settle the budget of the proposed African colony. M. Lantsheere's amendment favoring a budgetary vote by the chamber of deputies was rejected also by nine votes to seven. M. Beernaert introduced amendments with a view to the protection of the rights of the natives, in accordance with the Berlin act.

The commission's vote practically destroys the last hope of a satisfactory solution of the problem. The issue is fairly posed in the following two press opinions, the one of an organ invariably favorable to the present Congo administration, the other of a journal that has distinguished itself by courageous criticism. On the one hand, the Independence Belge says that if the annexation project confirms the autonomy of the Congo in financial matters it is because the fact has been realized that the Congo might cost Belgium $2,000,000 a year. This circumstance might, adds the paper, cause parliament to hesitate before voting annexation. The article goes on to argue that, if the Congo be accorded financial autonomy, Belgium will be exposed to no risk by reason of any obligations which the colony might incur towards its creditors. "There would be a moral obligation, it is true," declares the Independance, "but as a matter of fact, there is nothing in the bill to show that the Belgian treasury would one day have to become answerable for the financial obligations of the Congo."

To this the Patriote replies: "Parliament will demand nothing less than that the financial situation of the Congo state, with all its resources of any kind whatever, with all its liabilities without any reserve whatever, shall be clearly set forth. Parliament will then decide what should be retained, what rejected, what corrected, and what improved, and only then can a preliminary balance-sheet be drawn up. Until then we are groping in the dark, and in doubt. When in doubt the prudent man stays his hand. In the eyes of Belgium—this country of common sense and of honor—a moral obligation is tantamount to a legal obligation. Moreover, ownership implies duties."

It is said that such an act of annexation as is now proposed could not be tolerated by the powers standing in the last resort as trustees for the Congo state. A really responsible government there must be in that misgoverned land; and if Belgium is not prepared to undertake that task, with all its consequences, the future must be determined in international council.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

ENGLAND IS SURPRISED

By a Proposal to Cut the Pay of the Bishops.

Dr. Sheepshanks Suggests That the Bishops' Palaces be Sold.

London, Nov. 1.—On the same day that the cables flashed over from America the story of the tennis match between the bishop of London and President Roosevelt, Dr. Sheepshanks, the bishop of Norwich, startled England by proposing that the bishops' palaces should be sold and the bishops' incomes substantially reduced. The money thus made, and saved, he suggested should be used for the relief of the poorer clergy.

If you can imagine a member of congress proposing that the salaries of representatives should be cut down, a Standard Oil magnate advocating an income tax, you can form some idea of the sensation created among the prelates of the Established Church by Dr. Sheepshanks' proposition, for the great majority of the bishops cling to the emoluments of their offices, and their sumptuous abodes, with quite as much fervor as do the devotees of Mammon to the pursuit of wealth.

And on the next day, at the church congress over which he presided, Dr. Sheepshanks' further emphasized now much he differs from most of the spiritual peers by discussing the question of disestablishment, expressing the opinion that the church would really gain in spiritual and moral power if it were separated from the state and made dependent on its own resources. He even dared to view with equanimity the prospect of a house of lords with no bishops to help them answer the vox populi with a defiant "no." All of which shows that Dr. John Sheepshanks is quite an exceptional type of an Anglican bishop.

He looks it, too. He is 73 years old, tall and straight, with a long white beard and face that might serve as a model for that of an apostle. He is the only bishop in the church who was ever a missionary, a fact which indicates that a life of hardship and self-denial is not one which is apt to lead to an episcopal palace. As a missionary Dr. Sheepshanks led both the simple and the strenuous life. His campaigns of conversion have taken him among gold miners and red Indians, to the sacred cities of Mongolia, and to the haunts of the Mormons in Salt Lake City.

Referring to these arduous times at a parochial gathering, he once said: "If any woman here wants a lesson in simple cookery—how to make flapjacks or cook bacon—let her come to me and I will teach her. It was said of a certain king that he was fit to be a king because he had blacked his own boots, and taking that reasoning, I am more fit to be a bishop than anyone here. I will tell you why—because I have cobbled my own boots and mended my own breeches, and I have known, when a missionary, what it is to sleep on the ground for months at a stretch without even a blanket to lie upon."

It was in 1859 he began his missionary labors in British Columbia, where he remained for several years. A small boy was once sent to his house there to deliver a message. He found a man sweeping the house out and hidden in a cloud of dust. "Can I see the parson?" he asked. "Yes," said the sweeper, sweeping harder than ever, "I am the parson."

While a missionary to the Caribou Indians he went among the miners—a class not usually susceptible to appeals from sky-pilots—to seek funds to build a church. He got enough gold dust from them to erect a substantial structure, but they always boasted that no other man could have got it out of them.

A smallpox epidemic broke out in an Indian settlement and the future bishop turned public vaccinator with such beneficial results that his fame was established among them as a powerful medicine man. A lancet which was broken on the arm of an Indian chief is among the treasures of the episcopal palace at Norwich.

When traveling through the United States he visited Salt Lake City. There he naturally ran across Brigham Young. So great an impression did he make on the Mormon leader that he was invited by the man of many wives to deliver a sermon to the Latter Day Saints. "If you want me to be one of several speakers merely," said the bishop, "I must decline." Then Brigham Young made another remarkable concession. "You shall have the meeting all to yourself," he said.

The great temple had not then been built, and the services were held on a plot of ground roofed over by boughs. There were about 2,000 Mormons present, all men, and Brigham Young himself occupied the chair. Dr. Sheepshanks began his sermon with a simple prayer. While he spoke he felt someone fumbling at his feet, and looking down, saw Brigham Young on his knees pushing forward a hassock for him to kneel on.

The hardy old ecclesiastic had another experience in Mongolia, which he was crossing on foot after having galloped 2,000 miles through Siberia. He witnessed the adoration of the Great Lama of Mongolia at Urga. The Lama passed in solemn procession through a crowd of worshiping devotees, and prudence whispered it might be wise that the bishop should kneel, or at least bow the head. "But," said the bishop when relating the incident, "the prudence of my reflections was counteracted by the British obstinacy of my knees, and I remained upright. I am the only white man, I believe, who has ever witnessed this interesting ceremony."

His missionary labors over he returned to England and was appointed vicar of a church in Yorkshire. He had no political pull, no powerful family connections to advance his interests, and could make no great claims to scholarship, for his busy and strenuous life had left him little time for study. His appointment by Gladstone, fifteen years ago, to the see of Norwich, the largest diocese in England, was, therefore, almost unprecedented. But it proved an excellent choice. Dr. Sheepshanks has done a great work in that part of England. He is a spiritual influence. By the force of his example he has shamed many of the take-things-easy clergy into hard work. It is natural that such a man should be keenly alive to the effect on the popular mind of the spectacle of bishops living in fine mansions, drawing big salaries, and preaching the doctrine of self-denial and sacrifices while many of their co-laborers in the vineyard are in poverty. And it is to be expected, too, that he would have the courage to declaim against it.

Dr. Sheepshanks gets $22,500 a year. When he was appointed to his see in 1893 he had to spend $15,000 in fixing up his palace and it has since cost him $12,500 a year to maintain. He says that if the church would permit him to give up the palace and live in a smaller house he would willingly submit to a reduction of $5,000 or even $7,500 in his pay. The money thus saved he suggests might go to the relief of the multitude of impecunious clerical laborers.

For $250 a year or less he could get a house in Norwich that should be quite big enough to satisfy the needs of a man whose sacred office demands that he should wage war against worldly pomp and vanity. Then if $7,500 a year were sliced off his salary he would still be better off than before, though nobody who knows Dr. Sheepshanks would venture to suggest that his object in advocating the reform is to put money in his own pocket.

It is significant that the English newspapers gave much more prominence to the Bishop of London's game of tennis with the president of the United States than to the bishop of Norwich's proposal that the prelates of the Established church should be deprived of their sumptuous dwellings and housed like ordinary folk. Because Dr. Ingram's tennis match represents "something attempted, something done" and there is no likelihood that Dr. Sheepshanks' reform will even be attempted for years to come and then it is sure to be opposed by a majority of the lords spiritual.

None of the other thirty-two palace-housed bishops has arisen to second Dr. Sheepshanks's motion. The archbishop of Canterbury, who gets $75,000 a year and lives in the stately old palace at Lambeth, preserves silence on the subject. If Dr. Ingram were here, he might champion Dr. Sheepshanks's proposition, for Dr. Ingram has said that he would rather live in an unpretentious flat than in his own lordly cloud of dust. "Can I see the parson?" he asked. "Yes," said the sweeper, sweeping harder than ever, "I am the parson."

While a missionary to the Caribou Indians he went among the miners—a class not usually susceptible to appeals from sky-pilots—to seek funds to build a church. He got enough gold dust from them to erect a substantial structure, but they always boasted that no other man could have got it out of them.

UNTRUE WAS HER "CONFESSION"

That She Had Been Faithless to Her Marriage Vow.

New York, Nov. 1.—In a remarkable affidavit submitted to Justice Aspinwall, in the supreme court, Brooklyn, Mrs. Katherine Gress Meredith declares that the confession of guilt which she made to her husband when he accused her of a violation of her marriage vows was untrue, and that she had accepted the disgrace to shield a very near woman relative.

Her husband, Daniel W. Meredith, of the Hotel Touraine, Brooklyn, had sued her for divorce, his grounds being based on the confession she made to him. The affidavit of Mrs. Meredith, who is still a bride, which was submitted today in her petition for alimony and counsel fees, say that she was given her choice of saving her relative from everlasting disgrace or shouldering it herself, and she chose the latter.

Today Mrs. Meredith in an affidavit filed in the supreme court took oath that her confession, which her husband says was substantiated by a diary of hers covering four years, was untrue.

The affidavit is the most remarkable legal paper ever presented in the supreme court in Kings county. Here is what the wife says in it:

"Contrary to the advice of my counsel, I cannot be led to say one word that will bring disgrace upon a member of my family. In this connection, beyond the statement that, owing to the treachery of a man, who shall be nameless, I at this interview of August 16, 1905, was led to tell my husband that I had fallen. This was in order to save another, although I had been true to him as a wife. I took the blame upon myself then, as now, of the wrongdoing."

That interview between the young woman—she is but 27—and her husband on that evening in August was like the tense situation at the climax of a modern social drama.

But to her it was the climax in the real drama of her own life. She says she knew this kinswoman of hers to be guilty. That woman's exposure or the destruction of her own happiness was at stake. The woman in this most unprosaic legal paper chose her course.

Her loyalty to her kinswoman made her self-sacrifice immediate. She was living at that time with her husband, a man with an income of $10,000 a year as one of the managers of the Stuyvesant Grain company in the Hotel Touraine in Brooklyn, the most fashionable in that borough. She had to leave. She had to begin to earn her own living again for the first time in her six years since her marriage.

Mrs. Meredith had been a stenographer. She returned to her trade. She gave up the luxurious rooms in the hotel for a small room in a small boarding house on Schermerhorn street. Instead of the handsome allowance she had been in the habit of spending, now she had to make both ends meet at a meager salary. Her marriage was a love match, back in 1901. She was then a stenographer in her native town, Columbus, Penn. Meredith came there on business and became infatuated with her. She, too, loved him deeply. The sweethearts were married and the girl came up to Brooklyn to live. She was a help to her husband, due to her own business training. Together, she says, they prospered. She declares now that she has made him the success in his business that he is.

Do You Like Honest, Square Dealing?

Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines are put out under the belief that publicity is the best possible guaranty of merit, and that the most intelligent people generally want to know what they take into their stomachs, whether it be as food, drink or medicine. Although it was a bold step to take, and quite out of the usual practice of makers of proprietary medicines, yet Dr. Pierce, some time ago, decided to publish broadcast and on all his bottle-wrappers all the ingredients entering into the composition, or make-up, of his celebrated family medicines. A square deal is therefore assured every one using his medicines, for one knows exactly what he or she is paying for when purchasing them, since every ingredient is published in plain English on the bottle-wrappers and the correctness of the same attested under solemn oath. These several ingredients are selected from among the very best known to medical science for the cure of the various diseases for which these medicines are recommended.

The most eminent and leading medical teachers and writers of all the several schools of practice have endorsed each of the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines in the strongest possible terms. The makers of Dr. Pierce's medicines believe that intelligent people do not wish to open their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulp down whatever is presented to them, either in the way of food, drink or medicine, without knowing something of the properties and harmless character of the agents employed. They believe that health is too sacred a heritage to be experimented with, and that people should not take medicines of the composition of which they are kept in ignorance. Dr. Pierce's medicines are made wholly from the roots of plants found growing in the depths of our American forests. They are so compounded that they cannot do harm in any case, even to the most delicate woman or child. By open publicity Dr. Pierce has taken his medicines out of the list of secret nostrums, of doubtful merit, and made them REMEDIES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. They are therefore, in a class all by themselves, being absolutely and in every sense non-secret.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

There is a badge of honesty on every bottle of Dr. Pierce's medicines in the full list of its ingredients duly attested as correct under solemn oath.

No other medicines put up for general use through druggists can make claim to any such distinction, and none other than Dr. Pierce's medicines have any such professional endorsement of their ingredients. Such professional endorsement should have far more weight with the afflicted than any amount of lay, or non-professional, endorsement, or testimonials.

Of course, the exact proportion of each ingredient used in Dr. Pierce's medicines as well as the working formula or manner of preparing the same, and the specially devised apparatus and appliances employed in their manufacture, are withheld from publicity that Dr. Pierce's proprietary rights may be fully protected from such unprincipled imitators as might be piratically inclined.

The preparation of these medicines without the use of a drop of alcohol, so generally employed and yet so harmful, in the long run, to most invalids when its use is long continued, even in small doses, cost Dr. Pierce several years of careful study and labor, with the aid of skilled pharmacists and chemists to assist him. Naturally, he does not care to give away his scientific and exact processes for preparing these medicines, but he does want to deal in the most open manner with all his patrons and patients, and under this frank, open and honest way of dealing, they may know exactly what they are taking when using his medicines.

What Do They Cure? This question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative and healing way upon all the mucous lining surfaces as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in effecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

A WONDER OF NATURE.

Person Formerly With Feminine Traits Now Endowed With Masculine Ones.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1.—When the case of Frank Jones, charged with moonshining, was called before Judge Newman in the federal court at Gainesville, Hall county, and the defendant responded, both the spectators and the judge were amazed to see a neatly clad youth with crisp black hair parted in the middle and an embryonic mustache. He wore trousers with very sharp creases. The surprise was occasioned by the fact that two years ago Frankie Jones, a young woman, was sentenced to twelve months in the chain gang on a charge of selling illicit whisky, and everybody in court recognized Frank Jones, the man, and Frankie Jones, the woman, as the same person.

On Judge Newman's demand for an explanation, physicians in court reported that no deception was practiced or intended; that by reason of an unexplained wonder of nature, Frankie Jones could truthfully be called a woman two years ago, whereas the same person today could truthfully be called a man. When Frankie Jones was convicted and during her incarceration female traits predominated, but since her release the change had taken place and male traits are now in the ascendancy. Since his release Frank Jones has worn male attire and is now employed at a hotel in Gainesville.

Judge Newman suspended sentence and allowed Jones to return to Hall county.

LOVING CUP

Will be Presented Miss Helen Gould by Grateful Bluejackets.

New York, Nov. 1.—The enlisted men of the Atlantic fleet are now raising the sum of $2,500 with which to purchase a loving cup for Miss Helen Gould, in appreciation of the work she has done for the benefit of the bluejackets of the navy.

It is said a handsome loving cup two feet in height has been selected, and that it will be presented either on November 29 or December 3 in Carnegie hall.

The speech of presentation will be made by a bluejacket to be selected from among the assembled crews. The president of the United States, the governor of New York, the admiral and chief of staff and other commanding officers of the fleet and the commandant of the navy yard will be invited. A special invitation is to be sent to Mark Twain, the old Mississippi pilot, to be present and spin a few fresh water yarns to the sailors and their guests.

THOUGH SEVENTY-SIX,

Couldn't Wait and Sent Miles for Squire to Marry Him.

Morrow, Ohio, Nov. 1.—"It must be done tonight. I just can't wait." Amos Newcomb, aged 76, spoke the words, and the event referred to was his wedding to his 73-year-old sweetheart. Morrow's mayor was in Cincinnati, and the nearest squire was five miles out in the country.

"Get him here, quick," ordered Newcomb. A conveyance was started out, and in about two hours the squire arrived, and at the St. Charles hotel, in the presence of about fifty self-invited guests, tied the knot that made Amos a happy man.

Catarrh of the Stomach

A Most Dangerous Disease, Which Causes Serious Results, Unless Properly Treated.

Catarrh of the Stomach is very common and is known as one of the most obstinate diseases, which, when neglected or improperly treated with cheap patent medicines, tonics, drugs, pills, and other secret quack remedies results in a broken down constitution and often consumption and death.

Catarrh of the Stomach, like every other disease of the stomach, except cancer, is the result of poor digestion. The digestive organs have become weak, there is a lack of gastric juice, your food is only half digested, and as a result you become effected with loss of appetite, pressure and fulness after eating, heartburn, vomiting, waterbrash, tenderness at pit of stomach, slimy tongue, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, pain in limbs and face, sleeplessness, nausea, belching of gas, diarrhoea, sick headaches, dizziness, mental depression, nervous weakness, and many other common symptoms.

If your stomach cannot digest the food you eat, then the stomach needs a rest, as that is the only way you can get rid of your catarrh, but in the meantime your body needs plenty of nourishment, because you must live and in order to live you must eat, and if you must eat, your food must be properly digested, and if your stomach is too weak to do the work, then you must get a substitute that will do the work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the only known substitute that will digest your food as well as any healthy stomach. They contain vegetable and fruit essences, aseptic pepsin (gov. test), golden seal and diastase, the very elements necessary to digest all foods.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy and for that very reason thousands of physicians all over the United States recommend them to their patients for catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia of all kinds, and other stomach troubles. Experiments and tests have proven that one grain of the active principle contained in these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges and are sold in large fifty-cent boxes at all drug stores.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a free sample package. The relief you will get from this trial package alone will convince you of the merits of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

CHURCHYARD DUG UP

To Make Room for New Edifice and Many Bodies Disintered.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 1.—The removal of a number of bodies from the cemetery of the German Lutheran church here to make room for the new $75,000 edifice of the Hill Street Methodist church caused great excitement here. Relatives of many of the dead buried there whose bodies were removed or may b disturbd threaten legal proceedings.

In excavating for the church building the workmen came upon the bodies. There was no halt in the work. Undertakers were summoned and as fast as a coffin was taken out it was put into a wagon and taken to another cemetery and buried. The wholesale disinterment attracted a large throng.

FOR CARE OF CHILDREN.

Plan for Government Guardianship Until Twenty-One Years Old.

Berlin, Nov. 1.—Mme. Merot, French delegate at the fourth international congress for the welfare of children, held here, demanded universal state supervision of the health of all boys and girls at least till the 15th birthday, and, if practicable, till the 21st birthday, in order that public authorities may be enabled effectively to carry on their campaign against disease. After supervision is established by law, the public authorities, according to Mme. Berot, ought to take away physically defective children from their parents to undergo the necessary cures in state institutions established for this purpose.

Mme. Berot admitted the cost would be enormous and the difficulties of realizing the scheme formidable, but argued that the compensating advantages would be so great that no obstacles adopting such a community from adopting such a beneficient measure for the improvement of the human race. Several delegates supported Mme. Berot's proposals. Others criticised the scheme as impracticable.

RED RIVER DREDGES

Have Completed Season's Work and Are Tied Up.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The government fleet, which has been engaged in dredging the Red river during the past summer pulled in. Extensive river improvements have been accomplished from Belmont, up river, to below Oslo. The low stage of the water was a factor that aided the engineers in finding the spots needing dredging.

The boats will eb tied up for the winter at the usual place, just below the Northern Pacific bridge. Capt. Hayes is well satisfied iwth the progress made during the past summer.

MONEY AWAITS WOMAN'S HEIRS

Recluse Died in Apparent Poverty With Banknotes in House.

London, Nov. 1.—Thirty thousand dollars' worth of personal property await the heirs of a remarkable old woman recluse who has just died in Chiswick, a London suburb. Her next-of-kin are believed by the police to be living in different parts of the United States—one of them, a niece, having been last heard of in California—and advertisements addressed to them by name will shortly be published in America.

When they come here they will find an odd assortment of treasures, for Mrs. Jane Chutton, the dead women, appears to have had peculiar tastes. Although successfully posing as the poorest of the poor, living in a dilapidated old house, with a dog for her sole companion, her death revealed the fact that she had, stowed away in a back room, $8,000 in banknotes, $4,500 in government bonds, diamond rings, brooches, bracelets and other jewelry worth about $15,000 and a great store of valuable silks, rare Indian and Paisley shawls.

The hovel in which she was found dead had been her home for many years. A neighbor brought her food, and old friends visited her now and then. A love romance in the background may have had something to do with her solitary life. In 1851 she married John Chutton, a butler who had passed himself off as a man of means and whom she found "too inquisitive about her affairs." This was the only reason she ever gave for leaving him at the church door the day of their marriage, and for never seeing him again.

For several days her neighbor, one Elizabeth Camp, had knocked on her door and was unable to get any reply. So she summoned the police, who forced an entrance. They found Mrs. Chutton lying dead on the bed. She was almost entirely nude and evidently had been dead four days. The house was in a filthy condition, the dust lying a quarter of an inch deep on the floors and furniture. The body was terribly emaciated, and the case looked a good deal like starvation. The coroner reported acute double pneumonia as the cause of death.

A search of the house was made. In one room were hundreds of yards of silk worth $2.50 a yard, rare shawls and wraps. There were boxes full of beautiful old-fashioned clothing, and many costly ornaments lay scattered in the dirt. Packed away in an old trunk was a stocking containing the $8,000 in banknotes, and $4,500 in government bonds. A tin box revealed a heap of diamond rings, brooches, bracelets, gold watches and precious stones.

The only food in the house was a small piece of bread and a sugar bowl. The coroner said that he had once attended her, but had not charged anything because he thought she was a poor woman. The police have taken possession of the dilapidated house and all its precious contents, and they are waiting for the American relatives to reveal their whereabouts.

THE FRENCH ARTILLERY.

War Correspondent Makes Comparison With Antiquated Italian Methods.

Paris, Nov. 1.—M. Beleredi, the well known war correspondent of the Rome Tribuna, writing from Casabalanca on the efficiency of the French artillery says: "It must be recognized that the French guns are in every way admirable. While we in Italy are still discussing and investigating the subject, France is fully equipped with modern steel guns and movable carriages. I followed the action of the artillery for more than two hours, and, having some experience in the matter, I can assert that one could neither wish for, nor imagine, a more perfect war machine, a more competent and well trained personnel, a more perfect material. The rapidity with which the guns are handled is equaled only by the rapidity and accuracy of the firing. The battery which I followed sent shrapnel with surprising precision, changing the range from 100 to 500 meters and always lodging the projectile on the spot aimed at.

"When the Moroccans attempted to pass they received a fearful and irresistible hail of iron. All this was done in the most perfect order, the only audible sound being the quiet voice of the lieutenant who ordered the raising or the lowering of the sights. One soldier loaded and another pointed, a third pulled the string. The other three, like automatons, replenished the magazine with projectiles in such a manner that it was always full. All this with absolute calm and without interruption, even when the bullets whizzed around their heads. The range of the guns was impressive. The gun-carriage hardly sank in the soft earth, and the gun, sliding to and fro on the carriage, resumed its former position so that in an instant it fired another projectile in the same place as the first. The sight could not but remind one of our brave artillerymen and our bad guns, which when fired recoil from five to ten yards and have to be replaced in position and pointed anew."

NO FURTHER NEWS OF KARALAGH DISASTER.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—No further information has been received here regarding the disaster at Karatagh, in the province of Bokhara. A dispatch from Tashkend today says that the total population did not exceed 5,000 as a rule, though the number of inhabitants was somewhat larger in the summer, as Karatagh is frequented as a pleasure resort by the people of Hissar.

MANY JOBS SUPPLIED

October Banner Month for Free Employment Bureau.

Manager Walsh Sent Out a Total of 1,170 Laborers.

October has been a banner month at the Duluth State Free Employment bureau, and more men have been sent out than during any other month since the agency was established last June. Up to the present week there has been a steady demand for laborers, and the supply has been fairly good, which accounts for the large number of men sent out.

According to the figures in Manager James Walsh's monthly report, a total of 1,100 men were furnished with work of one kind or another during the month, and positions were supplied for a total of 117 women. This record is better than any other month by several hundred, and will probably stand for some time.

Most of the men sent out were engaged by the railroad contractors, who are working in different parts of Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin. Very few men were sent out of Minnesota, although there were some who were sent into Wisconsin. City contract work took a large supply of men, and several hundred were sent into the woods in Northern Minnesota.

The demand for domestic servants and female workers in the hotels and boarding houses has never slackened up, and for every one of the positions filled by the free agency during October, there were several more ready. Housework and work in the hotels took about an even number of women, according to the books of the women's department of the agency. The restaurants and boarding houses also called for numerous waiters, dishwashers and helpers.

There has been considerably less demand for laborers during the last two or three days. Several big crews in the vicinity of Duluth have been laid off, and the men have drifted into the city looking for wrok. At the employment agencies there have been few applications for laborers from the railroad contractors, and there will probably be a let up in this work from this time on.

Men for the woods will soon be in demand, however, and with the city work there will probably be plenty of jobs for the working men.

POLICEMAN HIS VICTIM.

Young Man Who Saw Berlin by Impersonating English Lord.

Berlin, Nov. 1.—As the Prussian sometimes boasts, sometimes complains the conduct of his life is cared for by the police from the cradle to the grave. From the traffic point of view Potsdamer Platz is the most congested corner of Berlin, and the constables stationed there are presumably not the greenhorns of the force.

Some weeks since one of their number was suddenly accosted by a well dressed youth, who, speaking a language which was taken for broken German, but was probably mutilated English, and simultaneously betraying all the symptoms of acute mental distress, made the startling announcement that he had just lost a pocketbook, containing $10,000, his entire available pecuniary possession. He added, as an incidental detail, that he was Lord Clifton. The constable's heart was touched, and as his turn of duty had just come to an end, he accompanied the unfortunate young English nobleman to an adjacent postoffice, and defrayed the cost of a telegram to "Lord Henry Clifton," in London, asking him to send his son $250 in the most expeditious manner possible. More than that, he voluntarily proposed to advance from his own pocket such moneys as his distinguished protege should need for his amusement till his remittance arrived from England.

Charmed by the trust displayed in this offer, and with an absence of class prejudice for which the English aristocracy are renowned, the young peer invited his humble benefactor to be the partner of his pleasures, which included front seats at theaters and the class of refreshment rightly pertaining thereto. The constable, glowing with pride in his distinguished acquaintance, gladly footed bills from his hardly earned savings. But one evening, when he went to the first-class hotel where Lord Clifton had taken up his quarters, he found that his friend had mysteriously disappeared, leaving behind him an unpaid account. Whatever reflections may have occurred to the constable, he was sufficiently shrewd to confine to his own bosom.

A few days ago an abject looking youth was taken into custody for begging. He proved to be Paul Leuschner, a clerk apprentice, 15 years of age. In the course of his examination, he confessed how he had impersonated Lord Clifton, and seen the sights of Berlin at the expense of a confiding constable. This was the first the authorities had heard of the incident, and on his own confession Leuschner was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. He will spend six months in jail.

BILLBOARD NUISANCE

Will be Discussed by the American Civic Association.

Would Preserve Rare Natural Beauty of Niagara Falls.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—One of the interesting questions which will be discussed by the American Civic association in its yearly meeting, to be held in connection with the convention of the National Municipal league in Providence, Nov. 19-22, will be the elimination of the billboard as a nuisance.

As a result of the association's crusade against the objectionable billboards in the various cities of the country a strong sentiment has been developed, and merchants and advertisers are numbered among those who are opposed to this means of advertising.

One of the efforts of the association is to have removed the billboards which now interrupt the beauties of Niagara Falls.

Another subject which will be discussed by the yearly meeting will be the proposed international agreement with Great Britain for the permanent preservation of Niagara Falls in its rare natural beauty. It will be recalled that the American Civic association was the leader in the movement which resulted in congressional action to protect the Falls from the greed of the power corporations.

President Roosevelt, who is a member of the association, is much interested in its work, and has favored many of the suggestion made by the organization in its move for "a more beautiful America."

Of the 2,325 members of the American Civic association throughout the country, many are active in local movements for the beautification of municipalities as well as in the national efforts for civic improvement.

In addition to the Niagara Falls and billboard campaigns, the association is devoting much energy to working for increased forest reservations, for school gardens in connection with educational work in the large cities, for the establishment of systems of public parks and children's playgrounds, and for rural improvements.

J. Horace McFarland of Harrisburg is the president of the American Civic association, with these other officers: Clinton Rogers Woodruff of this city, L. E. Holden of Cleveland and James D. Phelan of San Francisco, vice presidents; William B. Howlands of New York, treasurer, and Robert C. Ogden of New York, chairman of the advisory committee.

In evidence of the wide scope of the American Civic association's work are the various departments conducted as follows:

Women's Outdoor Art league, Mrs. Edwin F. Moulton of Warren, Ohio; Arts and Crafts, Mrs. M. F. Johnston of Richmond, Ind.; Children's Gardens, Miss Mary Marshall Butler of Yonkers, N. Y.; City Making, Frederick L. Ford of Hartford, Conn.; Libraries, Miss Mary E. Ahern of Chicago; Factory Betterment, Hon. Robert Watchorn of New York; Outdoor Art, Warren H. Manning of Boston; Public Recreation, Joseph Lee of Boston; Public Nuisances, Harlan P. Kelsey of Salem, Mass.; Parks and Public Reservations, Henry A. Barker of Providence; Railroad Improvement, Mrs. A. E. McCrea of Chicago; Rural Improvements, D. Ward King of Maitland, Mo.; School Extension, Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, Kalamazoo; Social Settlements, Graham Romeyn Taylor of Chicago.

Speaking of the Providence meeting, Vice President Woodruff said:

"An entire session of the Providence meeting will be devoted to the consideration of Niagara Falls. All the interests centering around the Falls will be represented, and when we publish the program, it will disclose a session of unusual interest and importance. Another session will be given to billboards, a subject that is very properly coming in for a great amount of attention at the hands of improvement workers, who are realizing that they cannot achieve the city beautiful so long as the highways and fences are filled with objectionable advertising which is an offense to the eye, a detriment to the appearance of the city, and a menace to the morals.

"Other important subjects will receive a large share of attention, and the whole meeting promises to be of record-breaking interest."

COOL HEAD SAVED HIS LIFE.

Caught in Flywheel, Engineer Took the Machinery Apart.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—When his arm was caught and broken between the spokes of a flywheel, William McNeill, a night engineer at a Lansdale plant, alone in the building, was held a helpless prisoner. He had not the strength to pull the wheel back. He could not reach the valve to reverse the engine.

McNeil, suffering intense pain in his pinioned arm, coolly stretched his right arm toward the handle of a broom lying on the floor. His finged tips just touched it, but he managed to pull the handle toward him. With the broom he knocked a wrench from a shelf and pushed it within his reach. He took the engine wheel apart with the wrench and released himself.

McNeill would probably have sustained fatal injuries had he not freed himself, as it required all his strength to prevent his body from being dragged into the machine.

THE DISEASE IS CURABLE

(Livermore, California, Herald.)

The disease which ranks second to consumption in fatalities and which has been deemed equally fatal is Bright's Disease. That it is now positively curable is known to comparatively few people. Unfortunately, the new treatment for Bright's Disease comes under the head of proprietary preparations, and medical ethics forbid a recognition of its merits. The Herald takes the view that having positive knowledge of cures effected, its duty to its readers and to humanity is to state the facts. The publisher knows of two cases in which it has effected permanent cures and of two others who had practically abandoned hope, but who are now regaining their health. This paper is not pecuniarily interested, and this statement is made solely with a view of aiding such people as may be afflicted with Bright's Disease and have despaired of recovery. Should any such receive benefit we will feel amply repaid for diverging from the beaten journalistic path.—Livermore (Cal.) Herald.

Articles like the above are constantly appearing and so interested us that we sent for this treatment in the interest of patients here.

ON CRUTCHES

Suffering With Rheumatism

CURED BY the use of SWANSON'S "5-DROPS"

Says BERNARD BENBE, Goodell, Iowa.

MR. BENBE, writes:—"I have taken about one bottle of "5-DROPS" and it has cured me of Rheumatism. I have had the Rheumatism for three years; went on crutches for about two years and could not rest day or night. After taking one-half bottle of "5-DROPS" I was well in a week, and I will praise it as long as I live."

TWO BOTTLES CURED HER.

MRS. JAMES McCARTER, 499 Edmund Street, St. Paul, Minn., writes:—"Your "5-DROPS" is the best medicine I ever used. I was a cripple with Rheumatism for nine months. The sample bottle which you sent me gave me relief, and I procured two large size bottles of the remedy, and after using am entirely well."

NO USE FOR HIS CRUTCHES.

J. T. JOLLY, Junista, Ky., writes:—"I have had Rheumatism for twenty years, and have been confined to my room for two years. In two weeks after I commenced using your "5-DROPS" I was up, and in one month I had laid my crutches away, and I am able to work."

GIVES QUICK RELIEF

"5-DROPS" is both an internal and external remedy. Taken internally will dissolve the poisonous acid, remove it from the system and cleanse the blood of all poisons. An application of "5-DROPS" to the afflicted parts will stop the pain almost instantly, while the cause of the disease is being surely removed by its internal use. Aches, pains and soreness caused by Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles disappear as if by magic when "5-DROPS" is used.

Rheumatism is a blood disease, and is caused by poisonous matter (lactic acid and uric acid) being retained in the blood. "5-DROPS" stops the pain caused by this dreadful malady by eliminating from the blood, these poisons and any other impurities which may prevent perfect circulation, thus removing the cause of the disease. With the blood pure, perfect circulation is assured, and disease is an impossibility.

CHURCH WILL CEASE TO BE A GRETNA GREEN.

New York, Oct. 31.—Elopers who seek hasty or secret marriages, no longer will find a Gretna Green in the "Little Church Around the Corner," famous throughout the country for the romantic unions that have been effected there.

This is the decision of Rev. Dr. George C. Houghton, rector of the church. He has declared that hereafter the sanctuary over which he presides shall not be the place for the performance of ill-advised marriages or of any kind that cannot be considered regular in the fullest sense of the term.

DULL WEEK ON STREET

Commission Business Was Hit by the Financial Flurry.

Grapes Touched by Frost —Lemons and Oranges Scarce.

The week has been an exceptionally dull one on the produce market. Prices at first ruled firm, but the money flurry had its effect and the list closes today with much weakness manifest. Next week is liable to see a fall in meat prices and possibly a temporary drop in dairy products.

The principal offering on the market now in small fruits, is grapes. Fancy California Tokays, of as fine a quality as ever came to this market, and Concords in baskets at prices within the reach of all, are being shown.

A report from New York state is to the effect that the grapes have been touched by frost, and this is liable to give a firmer tone in the market next week. Dealers do not look for any lower prices in the market this year.

New York state pears are arriving this week and some winter Nellies from Wasnington also are being shown. They are put up in boxes and are the best for preserving purposes.

The principal varieties of New York state apples now being shown on the market are Baldwins and Russets. Canadian Spies are also arriving, the quality being first class in every respect. The big shipments of the latter variety are expected within a week or ten days.

Cranberries are very firm and dealers are having trouble in getting their orders filled. A car of Wisconsin berries arrived this week and are first class. They are ruling nigh in price at present and no material change is looked for.

Bananas are not as high as they were and the shipments are larger. Dealers anticipate an easy market on this fruit.

It seems to be almost impossible to get orders for lemons and oranges filled and reports from Florida state that the fruit is ripening slowly this year. Oranges in particular are not plentiful just now, but as soon as the groves of the South ripen, easier prices are anticipated.

The pastures of Wisconsin and Minnesota are said to be badly injured on account of a severe frost, and butter is bound to rule high this winter. Creamery butter dropped off this week, but dealers anticipate an early advance because of the adverse conditions.

The market on potatoes and other vegetables remains about the same and there are no material changes. The potato market has not really settled down to any price that may be relied upon, as fall shipments thus far have not been heavy. The market will be easy on this commodity this year, as the crop has been a good one.

MRS. MARY HICKS.

One of Pioneer Women of Copper Country Dead in Calumet.

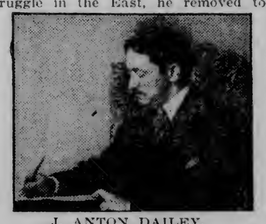
Calumet, Mich., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Mary Hicks, wife of William Hicks died Wednesday evening at her home on Rockland street after a very short illness. She was 74 years old and has resided in Calumet for thirty-two years. She was one of the best known pioneers of the Copper country. She is survived by a husband, one brother in Calumet and one brother and sister in England. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon, with services at the Calumet M. E. church. Rev. E. Sedweck will officiate.

A FORTUNE IN A DAY

Poor, Struggling Musician Leaps to Fame and Riches.

"Out in the still summer evening,
Into my heart comes a feeling
Of love that's true and undying,
For you, sweetheart, I am sighing."

Thus ran the sad thoughts of a talented young composer, who had been trying for years to accomplish something in music and to earn for his sweetheart a nice, cosy little home. Mr. J. Anton Dailey, the young man we speak of, after several years of study abroad, principally in Paris, came to America and settled in New York. Fortune was against him from the start, as his compositions were not received with much enthusiasm. After many a hard struggle in the East, he removed to



J. ANTON DAILEY.

Detroit, Mich., where he started out anew. Not daunted by his many failing attempts, he opened a little studio in one of the remote buildings devoted to art and music and became quite successful as a teacher of voice and piano, but his compositions were quite unrecognized until the enterprising firm, Jerome H. Remick & Co., of Detroit, on which he called in one last grent effort, saw at a glance that there was something in his works. What was the result? The poor, struggling musician was made famous and rich in a day. The beautiful song, "Dreaming," now the raging hit of the country, was the first song Mr. Dailey submitted to Mr. Remick. It was gobbled up in a jiffy—and published. Now both song and composer are famous; the sweetheart, now Mrs. Dailey, has the beautiful home she has longed for; and all ends happily.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The world's week of prayer for young women, which is observed by Young Women's Christian associations throughout the world, and which this year is the week beginning Sunday, Nov. 10, will be observed by the Duluth association by a special Sunday service at which Rev. M. S. Rice will be the speaker. Services will be held at the noon hour each day, the speakers not yet having been chosen.

The state secretary, Miss Daisy M. Griggs will be with the local association Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 14, 15 and 16, and will be the speaker at the services held upon those days. The program in detail for the local association will be announced soon.

The speaker at the Sunday devotional service of the Y. W. C. A. will be Miss L. Ella Roe. The Sunday afternoon meeting is held at 4 o'clock at the rooms and anyone interested is invited to attend.

The English classes for young foreign girls continue to be largely attended and this instruction is among the most important offered by the association. The classes are still rather handicapped by the small number of teachings at hand and anyone who is able to devote the two hours a week for this work is requested to communicate with the secretary. The regular meeting will be held this evening.

NOVEMBER WEDDING.

Miss Virginia Morris to Become Bride of T. M. Ring.

The invitations were issued yesterday by Judge and Mrs. Page Morris for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Virginia Morris, and Thomas Merrill Ring, and the event will be among the most interesting of the late autumn. The wedding is to be a home function, the service to be read at the home of the bride's parents, 2232 East First street at 8 o'clock upon Tuesday evening, Nov. 19. The bride will have as her only attendant her sister, Miss Mary Morris, and the groomsman will be Roger Hill of Saginaw.

There will be many ante-nuptial affairs in honor of Miss Morris and her fiance as both young people are widely known in Duluth society. Mr. Ring is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Ring of Saginaw, who are known here, and Miss Morris is the third daughter of Judge and Mrs. Morris, and is one of the most charming of the girls of the younger society set.

Halloween Affairs.

Halloween festivities were observed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hunter, 623 East Third street, last evening, with a ghost party. The house was appropriately decorated throughout with owls and black cats of tissue paper manufacture strung on fine wire and these, in the dim light of jack-o'-lanterns, under the influence of weird music, made the situations spooky to a very satisfactory degree. The rooms were spider-webbed with cords and each guest-ghost was given one of these to untangle, the prize for the most efficient ghost going to Miss Mabel Wangenstein. Ghost stories, charades and Halloween games made the evening pass very pleasantly, dainty refreshments being served at the midnight hour. The guests were:

Messrs. and Mesdames—
Vern Culbertson, Herbert Haney,
W. G. LaRue, E. S. Collins,
C. G. Howard.
Misses—
Crippen of Fergus Falls, Margaret Wangenstein, Katherine Burke, Mabel Wangenstein
Messrs.—
Lundemo, Thomas Thorburn.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Johnson entertained at a Halloween dinner last evening at their home, 1113 East Superior street, in honor of their son, Robert Johnson. The guests were:

Misses—
Pearl Hector, Lela Sparks,
Clara Henderson, Helen Majo,
Grace White. Charity Jones.
Messrs.—

Miss Sadie Stevens and Miss Gladys Elliott entertained last evening at a Halloween costume party at the home of Capt. and Mrs. D. E. Stevens of 2231 West Third street. The rooms were decorated in pumpkins and symbols suggestive of Halloween. Music and games were the amusements of the evening. The dining room was decorated in red and white, and in this room Mrs. David Elliott and Mrs. George Taylor presided. The guests were:

COLLIDES WITH TRAIN

Team Unable to Hold Lumber Load on Fifth Avenue.

Calls Attention to Need of Viaduct Over Tracks.

Sliding and slipping down Fifth avenue west, unable to hold a heavy load of lumber on account of the slippery pavement, a big team of black horses belonging to a local lumber company ran into a freight train that was switching at the Northern Pacific crossing between 10 and 11 o'clock this morning.

That there was not a serious accident was due to the prompt action of the switching crew in stopping the train.

The load began to get away from the horses shortly after the rig left Michigan street, going toward the tracks. The driver swung the horses from side to side, and the big animals worked desperately to check the gathering momentum, but the avenue is steep and was rendered more dagerous than ever by the rain and mud, and, in spite of their efforts, the wagon tongue struck a loaded box car almost amidships. The force of the concussion threw one of the horses down, but the yells of the driver while coming down the avenue had warned the train crew, and the train came to a stop as the horses struck the car. This was fortunate, for one animal was thrown partly under the car and was so badly tangled up in the traces that it required several men some time to get the wreck cleared away so it could regain its feet.

A number of persons who witnessed the accident claimed that it was additional proof that something should be done to provide a more safe crossing on Fifth avenue. This is said to be the second or third accident that has happened at the crossing since a Jewish peddler was killed there last spring.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Jamaica oranges, 40 cents a dozen.
Egg plant, 25 cents each.
Wax beans, 12 cents a quart.
Tomatoes, 20 cents a pound.
Big celery, 8 cents a stalk.
Malaga grapes, 25 cents a pound.
Concord grapes, 32 cents a basket.
Cranberries, 10 cents a quart.
Turkeys, 25 cents a pound.
Chickens, 18 cents a pound.
Ducks, 20 cents a pound.

With the first day of November almost everybody begins thinking of turkeys and cranberry sauce. They are in the market and although there may be people who will spoil their Thanksgiving appetite by eating turkey before Nov. 28, the proletariat will for the most part save that appetite until the appointed day is come.

The oranges that are in the market are very useful. Call them oranges and serve them as such for breakfast and then if you happen to need a lemon and there are none in the house just use one of the oranges. Nobody will ever suspect that they are a makeshift for the regular bitter fruit. Grape fruit for salad or an eye opener in the morning is about the most delectable thing yet to be had. They cost 20 cents each.

OLD BILLET POOL MAY BE RE-ESTABLISHED.

Pittsburg, Nov. 1.—Representatives of the principal steel producing companies of the country are said to have held a series of conferences here looking to the re-establishment of the old billet pool, formed in 1903 and dissolved two years later. There is reason to believe an understanding was reached by which the steel trade will be saved from ruinous competition which has been threatened. The notable weakness of steel billets, it is said, will also soon be a thing of the past.

A MAN AND HIS WIFE WOULD DIE TOGETHER.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 1.—Hearing two shots fired in rapid succession early today, the employes of the Highland hotel burst into a room and found Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Kirwan of this city apparently dying from bullet wounds, which the husband said were self-inflicted. The couple were married last June. Kirwan is 26 years old, while his wife is 18. At the hospital Kirwan recovered sufficiently to say he and his wife had decided to kill themselves. He did not give the reason.

LONG TRIPS BY TOY BALLOON.

Paris, Nov. 1.—A toy balloon, one of many released by the newspaper, The Eclair, has been found in Finland. It travelled 1,560 kilometers from Paris, thus beating by 25 kilometers the long distance balloon record made by Count Vaulx.

ISN'T THIS ABSOLUTELY TRUE?

Nothing ever became popular—here or in any other country—without a reason.

Popular men must have merit of some kind, must have, or they would not be popular.

They must have EXCEPTIONAL MERIT and wonderful character if their popularity INCREASES with time.

As with men, SO WITH GOODS. So with any article that is on the market. IT CANNOT INCREASE ITS SALES, it cannot be adopted as a STANDARD article, it cannot survive generations unless it has real intrinsic merit.

Millions of dollars spent in advertising without merit, are just wasted, so far as continued sales are concerned. Intelligent housekeepers cannot be compelled to buy what they do not approve of.

That much is a self evident fact. It cannot be gainsaid. But it tells its own story of the and its quality, a coffee that has steadily grown in the affections of thousands of homes since its first introduction.

Its unexcelled flavor, perfect purity and uniform quality, absolute cleanliness and neat appearance, through being packed in the NEW SANITARY PACKAGES, by machinery, not by hand, has endeared BELL COFFEE to all who have used it.

If you have not tried BELL COFFEE, order a package today.

LUNDMARK & FRANSON COMPANY,

RAILROADS

ROADS ARE PROSPERING

Prominent Railroad Agent Says Business Was Never Better.

Neil Mooney, general Western passenger agent of the West Shore railroad, who was in Duluth today, says that railroad business in both passenger and freight departments was never so good in the history of railroading.

Mr. Mooney has control of passenger business for his line from Toledo to the Pacific coast. He has recently been over all the territory from Ohio to the coast, and states that railroads are carrying more freight and pasengers than ever before. Out West they are traveling for pleasure, not business, says Mr. Mooney; and he regards this phase of the railroad situation as an indication of the general prosperity of the Western people.

The financial situation in New York is not affecting the business of the railroads, says Mr. Money. They are receiving more business than they can handle. The shippers in the West have product to ship and they also have the money to pay for the shipping of their mineral and agricultural products.

The action of state legislatures in reducing passenger fares to 2 cents in the Western territory has had the effect of reducing the earnings of the lines. The stations are so scattered, and the travel so much less than in the thickly settled East, that the railroads are finding it hard to meet the new conditions and make any profit.

Asides from the decrease of passenger earnings, as a result of the 2-cent fare, the railroads are enjoying great business and prosperity throughout the breadth of the country, Mr. Mooney claims.

BUSINESS GOOD.

Railroad Earnings Show No Reduction in the East.

F. B. Moffit, traveling passenger agent of the Delaware & Hudson company, was in the city today and reports the Eastern business of the railroads in keeping with the heavy traffic business of the West.

"The railroads have felt no effects from the financial flurry in New York," said Mr. Moffit. "We are handling all the business we can take care of. Passenger earnings in the East at the present time are heavy. The 2 cent fare has not had the effect it has in the West. We have heavier travel, a more densely settled passenger territory, and consequently do not feel the effect of the tariff reduction.

"The car congestion does not present so serious a problem as it does in the West. We are getting all the business we can handle, but have not the heavy wheat hauling that the Western lines are confronted with. I have been over most of the Eastern lines and have found that conditions are all pointing to the general prosperity of the railroads. I can see nothing in the financial situation that would warrant the belief that the railroads are going to suffer a loss of business or a reduction in traffic receipts."

WILL NOT STOP WORK.

President Hill Says Construction Work Will Continue.

St. Paul, Nov. 1.—President Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern railway last night declared that the road was not to stop construction work.

"I cannot see how the report originated," he said to the Associated Press. "The Great Northern has not stopped construction work and does not intend to. We see no reason to do so. We are shipping men West all the time."

President Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific said:

"The Northern Pacific is going on with its construction work in Washington and Montana, but is cutting down its force in Wisconsin and Minnesota."

Burlington Control.

St. Paul, Nov. 1.—A special to the Pioneer Press says that the stockholders of the Sioux City & Western railroad yesterday elected a board of directors composed of Burlington officials to succeed the present board, which is composed of great Northern officials. Beginning tomorrow, the old Pacific Short Line from Sioux City to O'Neill, Neb., will be under the control of the Burlington, instead of the Great Northern railway. By this transfer, the Great Northern surrenders its mileage in Nebraska.

Arbitrary Charge.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 1.—An injunction was issued yesterday by Judge W. H. Munger in the United States court at Omaha, against all railroads doing business in this state, preventing the railroads from putting into effect an arbitrary reconsignment charge of $5 per car on lumber and coal. The order was made upon application for dumber and coal dealers in Omaha.

These new charges were to go into effect Friday morning. Some time ago the Omaha dealers applied to the interstate commerce commission for relief from the increase threatened, but were told the commission could not hear the case for six months or a year. The Nebraska state railroad commission was applied to, but could not have a hearing at present.

The order of the court signed yesterday will hold good pending the hearing of the railroad commission.

NO TRADING THIS WEEK

Board of Trade Will Remain Closed Until Monday.

Wheat Goes Off in the Other American Markets.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 1.—Members of the Duluth board of trade, at a meeting held ths morning at 9:15, decided not to resume trading in the local grain pit today and to continue the present order of things until Monday, which means that there will be no trading here tomorrow either.

They decided that conditions had not yet adjusted themselves so that the board could again begin operations with any assurance of being able to continue them without interruption. They declare, however, that the financial situation is bettering every minute and the financial men say the same.

The inability of the Eastern railroads to adequately handle the grain between Buffalo and the Atlantic sea ports adds another complication to the situation, so far as the grain men are concerned. It is hard matter to sell at favorable prices when it is a serious question whether the roads can move it from Buffalo to the coast or not.

Wheat was lower in the American markets at the close. The Eastern railroad situation, lower cables, larger Argentine shipments and liberal offerings were responsible largely for the weakness.

The December option closed 1c lower in Chicago, ⅝c lower in Minneapolis, ⅛c lower in New York and 1½c lower than Wednesday in Winnipeg. The May option closed ½-⅝c lower in Chicago, ¾c lower in Minneapolis, ¼c lower in New York and ⅞c lower in Winnipeg.

The foreign markets were off. Liverpool closed ⅜d to ⅝d lower, Berlin ⅞c lower, and Antwerp ⅞c lower. It was a holiday in Budapest.

It is expected that the stock of wheat at Duluth will increase 700,000 bus this week and flax 750,000 bus.

December corn closed ⅝-¾c higher in Chicago and unchanged to ⅛d higher in Liverpool. December oats closed ½c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "There was a quiet tone to the wheat market at the start and values showed a decline of ½d to ⅝d. Offerings were larger and small holders inclined to take profits, prompted by the more favorable Argentine crop and weather news, and the lower offerings from there. Following the opening shorts became nervous and covered some, which resulted in an advance of ⅜d to ½d in the nearby months. Later, however, the greater part of the advance was lost, as large holders commenced liquidating. Prices at midday were ⅞d lower than the previous close.

"Corn was firm and ½d to ⅝d higher at the opening with the advance in America. The distant month gained an additional ¼d during the early trading. The nearby month was dull later, while the distant month lost ¼d in sympathy with wheat."

Car receipts at Duluth were 349 against 280 last year, and at Minneapolis 172 against 222 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 521 agains 502 last year. Winnipeg received 375 against 354 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 794,000 bus, last year 992,000 bus. Shipments 686,000 bus, last year 564,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 800,000 bus.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 616,000 bus, against 512,000 bus last week and 592,000 bus a year ago.

Primary receipts of corn were 310,000 bus, last eyar 446,000 bus. Shipments 280,000 bus, last year 461,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 116,000 bus.

Argentine shipments of corn were 780,000 bus, against 1,252,000 bus last week and 2,153,000 bus a year ago.

Receipts—Wheat, 348,026; oats, 48,728; barley, 75,738; rye, 6,320; flax, 206,267.

Shipments—269052; barley, 111,000.

Cash Sales Friday.

Two cash trades in barley constituted the only business transacted today on the floor of the board of trade. One car was sold at 78 cents and one car at 73 cents.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

General Liquidation in Wheat Causes Weak Prices at the Opening.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—General liquidation in wheat caused a weak opening to the local market today. Lower prices at Lverpool were the chief cause of the selling, although fairly liberal receipts in the Northwest also made a depressing factor. December wheat opened ⅜ to ⅝c lower, at 95⅞@96½c and sold at 95⅝c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 573 cars against 641 last week, and 565 cars one year ago.

The close was steady with December wheat 1c lower at 95⅝c.

The corn market opened steady because of wet weather throughout the corn belt. Later prices eased off along with wheat. December corn was unchanged to ¼c higher, at 58⅝@58⅞ and sold down to 58¼. Local receipts were 173 cars with 44 of contract grade.

The close was strong with December up ⅝@¾c at 59¼@59⅜c.

The break in wheat caused a slump in the oats market and prices were weak. December oats opened ⅛c higher at 49½c and sold off to 49⅜c. Local receipts were 155 cars.

The provisions market was steady, but trade was very light. January lard opened 2½c lower at $8.55. Ribs were unchanged at $7.67½. January pork was down 15c at $14.52½.

Close: Wheat—December, 95⅝c; May, $1.04⅛@1.04¼. Corn—December, 59¼@59⅜c; May, 60½@60⅝c. Oats—December, 49⅞c; May, 52⅝c. Pork—January, $14.45; May, $14.82½@14.85. Lard—January, $8.47½; May, $8.62½. Grain Gossip.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago—Wheat letter:

It was a sort of drawn battle in wheat today. In fact none of the leaders are making any great efforts to disturb the market from its present level. A decided let-up in export sales of wheat the past few days has caused many to desert the bull side of the market. Foreign markets continue to show heaviness. No doubt there is liquidation by holders in both English and continental markets. Tight money is felt abroad as well as here. There is considerable talk of December liquidation, but the wheat stocks here are largely owned by the elevator people, who are likely to be quite independent about parting with the grain unless they can do so at their own figures.

Corn—Considering corn it is a far different proposition from wheat, with people who raise corn own it very largely. There is no large stocks to be carried by borrowed money. Corn raisers have very high ideas in regard to prices on this crop. Wet weather during this month will certainly cause very light receipts and especially when coupled with existing financial arrangements. We are firm believers in corn at these prices.

Oats—A local dealer undertook to sell some December early and the local traders took the selling side on the May at the same time for a turn. Later a number of strong interests were lined upon the buying side and as the market became strong late in the session shorts were forced to cover.

LESSON IN PATRIOTISM

Taught Manager of Chicago Hotel Who Was Flying British Flag.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—A whole Canadian manufacturers' convention and the manager of the Chicago Beach hotel were brought to a recognition of American patriotism last night by Miss Emily T. Foster of the hotel, who advised Manager Gray that if he was to fly an English flag over his hostelry he must fly an American flag from the same staff. Gray held out in favor of the Canadian convention until two detectives from the Park street station called to investigate a number of complaints that had been telephoned in about the flag. Then he capitulated and hauled the flag down.

HIS JUDGMENT GOOD.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. T. Blakeley has the laugh on some parties who have been joshing him for some time past on having purchased a section and three-quarters of land near Aberdeen, Saskatchewan, two years ago.

Mr. Blakeley bought the land at a low figure, and made no special effort to sell. A few weeks ago, he was approached by parties who desired to purchase some of his land, with the result that he has disposed of one section of the land, receiving $11,000 in cash therefor, realizing a clear profit of something like $5,000 on the original price paid for the property, and he still has three-fourths of a section left.

NO SIGNIFICANCE IN CHANGE, SAYS TAFT.

Manila, Nov. 1.—Secretary Taft says there is no important significance in the change of itinerary for the homeward voyage.

"It is suggested," he said, "that I leave Manila on the original date in order to arrive home on the original date, but there exists a number of administrative matters here requiring attention, and I can better consider them on the ground than from Washington. I have, therefore, decided to remain until Noov. 9. I leave Vladivostook on the 19th, going both to St. Petersburg and Berlin, but only as a visitor en route home."

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA MINERS TO GET WAGE CUT.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 1.—Grand Forks, B. C., mner and smelter employes of the Granby Smelter company will have their wages cut 50 cents a day, commencing Nov. 1. Word has been received from New York to this effect. This will affect all the miners in the Phoenix camp as the British Columbia Copper company and the Dominion Copper company will make a similar cut. The Grand Forks labor union will decide as to whether accept the reduction or go on strike. Much uneasiness is felt over the situation.

STATE BANK CLOSES.

Grand Island, Neb., Nov. 1.—The Commercial State bank, deposits $380,000, closed this morning. It has $50,000 in the First National bank of Chariton, Iowa, whose cashier committed suicide yesterday.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Was Irregular and Generally Lower Prices Recorded.

Trading Was of Light Volume and Close Was Easy.

New York, Nov. 1.—Prices of stocks moved irregularly in the opening dealings, but there were not many important changes from last night's level. Pennsylvania rose 1½ but afterwards relinquished the rise. Baltimore & Ohio advanced a point, Toledo & St. Louis Western preferred ¾ and Union Pacific ⅝. General Electric and St. Paul fell 1 and Reading, New York Central and Northern Pacific and American Smelting large fractions. Some of these declines were quickly recovered.

A more definite tendency developed after the opening orders had been executed. Support to Pennsylvania and Union Pacific aroused a moderate demand for other stocks and the list rose slightly above yesterday's closing, but became very dull on the rise. Union Pacific was in keen demand and touched 110⅞, a gain of 2⅛. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie advanced 2; Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Omaha, 1½; Reading, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie preferred, 1. Pressure continued against a number of obscure stocks. Federal Mining preferred lost 1¾ and Utah Copper 1.

Pennsylvania rose an extreme 1⅞. Northwestern, 1⅜, and Great Northern preferred, 1. Prices reacted in sympathy with Amalgamated Copper, which fell 1⅜. The market became very dull at small rallies. Bonds were irregular.

Business was much curtailed in the afternoon, and when the selling of Amalgamated Copper stopped the market became virtually stagnant. Prices were fractionally above the lowest and Pennsylvania showed some renewed strength.

The market closed easy. St. Paul and Louisville & Nashville, Ontario & Western and General Electric rose a point and Missouri Pacific 1⅜. Pacific Coast sold at a decline of 23½. American Cotton Oil preferred, 12; Long Island, 12½. Prices generally receded late in the day.

Stock Gossip.

New York—Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market was irregular today, with prices generally lower. Professionals were not disposed to commit themselves to any great extent, and the trading therefore was not on a very large scale. It was thought that the November dividend and interest disbursements should help the money market and the gold engagements for import now approximate about $25,000,000. Call rates were easier, but the monetary situation is still such that conservatism should be exercised.

New York Money.

New York, Nov. 1.—Close: Money on call in strong demand. 6@25 per cent: ruling rate, 10 per cent; closing bid not given; offered at 4½; time loan rates, nominal. No loans; sixty and ninety days, 8@10 per cent; six months, 7@8 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, nominally at 7½@10 per cent. Sterling exchange, buoyant, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.50 for demand, and at $4.79@4.80½ for sixty-day bills. Commercial bills, nominal. Bar silver, 59¼c. Mexican dollars, 46½. Government bonds, firm; railroad bonds, irregular.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Nov. 1.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 4 to 8 points in response to lower cables and disappointment over the crop estimate of a Liverpool authority, which placed the yield at 12,000,000 bales maximum instead of 11,100,000 bales as rumored yesterday. During the middle of the morning prices were about 8 to 9 points net lower under liquidation and bear pressure.

Spot closed steady; middling uplands, 10.90; gulf, 11.15. Sales, 3,022 bales. Futures closed firm. Closing bids: November, 10.35; December, 10.67; June, 10.29; February, 10.29; March, 10.28; April, 10.28; May, 10.29; June, 10.29; July, 10.31; August, 10.24.

UTES MAY GO ON WARPATH

Washington, Nov. 1.—A very serious breach has arisen between the Ute Indians at Thunder Butte station, S. D., under their agent, Maj. Downs, and there is danger of a hostile collision at any moment, according to a report today of Capt. Carter P. Johnson, the army officer, who was sent to the scene of the trouble, in the effort to pacify the Indians, who have unlimited confidence in him. According to Capt. Johnson, the Indian agent and himself are at cross purposes and his reports appeal to the authorities here to support him and cause Maj. Downs to abate harsh treatment of the Indians.

IMPORTANT RULING

By Attorney General Concerning Status of Railways as Common Carriers.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney General Young made a ruling today that the St. Paul & Minneapolis Suburban Railway company is a common carrier, and that all roads doing business in like manner come under the supervision of the state railway and warehouse commission. The ruling applies to the Stillwater branch of the Twin City railroad system, and all other electric lines doing an inter-city business in passengers and freight and brings up the question of the payment of the gross earnings tax and all other laws relating to the taxation of such roads. The ruling follows a recent decision of the supreme court on a similar subject.

TO PROTECT THE PUBLIC

Railroad Commission Has That Object in View, Says Mills.

Trying to Reduce the Appalling Number of Accidents.

Judge Ira B. Mills, chairman of the state railroad and warehouse commission, was in Duluth yesterday on matters connected with the Minnesota & Northern railroad. While the visit of the chairman of the railway commission here was not of great import, as affecting local railroad conditions, it indicates the increasing supervision the members of the commission are exercising over the railroads.

Judge Mills stated last night that, acting in accordance with the authority invested by a legislative act, enacted last winter, the railroad commission is investigating and attempting to devise means that will further safeguard the public from the accidents which have given the past year a mortality list that has aroused the action both the interstate commerce commission and the railroad commissions of the different states.

The Minnesota commission is at the present time investigating conditions of railroad operation with a view of devising safety devices that will lessen the dangers that have been so glaringly prevalent in the past few years.

This investigation, with its anticipated results, is perhaps the most important consideration before the commission at the present time. The growing list of casulties resulting from the wrecks and accidents on railroads throughout the United States, is engrossing the attention of both operating officials and the official boards of railway supervision.

The meeting in Washington of the railroad commissioners of the different states, with the members of the interstate commerce commission, was for the purpose of bringing the supervision of railroad matters into a more connected and harmonious working order, according to Judge Mills. No suggestions or theorics in regard to present conditions were broached at the Washington meeting, but the general effect of the conference was to unify railway control and to bring into closer relations the working of the federal and state control of railroads.

At the present time railroad legislation presents a widely varying scale of conditions. Different states have legislated to suit their own needs and desires, with the result that interstate commerce presents a puzzling problem to the railroad man. It is with the desire and idea of making more uniform the conditions throughout the country that the meeting of the railroad commissioners was called. The effect of the meeting may not be apparent for some time, but the ultimate aim of the interstate commission and the commissions of the states is to bring to a more harmonious whole conditions in different parts of the country.

That the meeting will achieve good results in this direction is not doubted by Judge Mills.

Several contentions, relating to a revision of switching charges, have been adjusted by the commission. The charges presented a difference of opinion between the shippers and the railroads, and have been settled to the satisfaction of both sides. Freight and passenger business is adjusting itself to the conditions imposed by the reduced passenger and freight tariffs, and the Minnesota situation presents a throughly harmonious working agreement between the railroad and the shipper, which is in commendable contrast to the conditions in some other states.

STATE GETS A SETBACK

St. Paul, Minn. Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state legal department was given a staggering blow by the supreme court today, when it handed down an opinion disposing of the state's claim of willful trespass in its suit against the Shevlin-Carpenter company, to recover for timber taken.

Under the law, treble damages had been asked for and granted by the district court of St. Louis county. The supreme court, in answer to the appeal of the Shevlin-Carpenter company, reduces the claim to double damages on the ground that the trespass was involuntary and orders a reduction in the amount awarded to the extent of $12,331.05.

QUIET UNTIL MONDAY.

Kasun's Contest Suit is Finished—No More This Week.

Joseph Kasun's contest case against the state of Minnesota, which was begun yesterday afternoon, has been completed, and the contest room at the land office will be quiet until Monday morning. Kasun's contest was one of the swamp land cases, and a homestead in township 63, range 21, is involved. Register Engle has taken the case under advisement.

On Monday morning the case of Peter Dahl against the state will be taken up. It is practically identical to the other swamp land cases, and a homestead in township 57, range 10, is involved. There are a dozen of these cases still left on the calendar.

SHUT DOWN AT LESURE

Virginia Lumber Company's Mill Closed Down Indefinitely.

Business Conditions Will Not Warrant Continuance at Present.

Announcing to the men that the generally unsettled business conditions in the country, and the unsatisfactory condition of the lumber industry, especially, would not admit of a continuance of operations for the present, the Virginia Lumber company, last evening, suspended operations at the old Lesure mill, on the St. Louis river. It is understood that the same action has been taken at Virginia, where the company has been operating another mill.

At the office of the compny today, it was said that the length of time the suspension will continue will depend entirely on circumstances which may arise. Logging operations will undoubtedly be continued for the time, at least, on a greatly reduced scale, but nothing will be done at the mills until such time as better business conditions appear to warrant.

The suspension of the Lesure mill leaves but two mills in operation in West Duluth, they being the Alger-Smith and the Red Cliff, which is running a full force. The Alger-Smith mill at the foot of Garfield avenue is being overhauled for the winter run, and a double force is at work in the West Duluth mill.

The St. Louis mill, which was operated by the William O'Brien company, independent of the Virginia Lumber company, was abandoned entirely about two weeks ago, the machinery being sold to the Duluth Iron & Metal company. The Merrill & Ring mill is also being dismantled, the machinery also having been sold to the metal company.

LITTLE DAMAGE DONE.

Tragedy Wednesday Night Resulted in Quiet Halloween.

The tragic ending of a Halloween prank Wednesday night, when Jovo Mohic was instantly killed by an electric shock, put a damper on the movements of West Duluth's youthful population last evening and the complaints to the police were much smaller in number than for many years past.

There was no serious damage done. A few wagons were carried off, a number of gates taken from their hinges, and pranks of like nature indulged in, but as a rule, the boys were kept in by fearful mothers and the task of the police in preserving order made comparatively light.

Merchants all through West Duluth were busy cleaning their windows this morning, as boys and girls alike were particularly busy in that form of amusement. They did not content themselves with soap at times. In different places, white paint was used and in others inscriptions were smeared in tar, making the cleaning of the windows more a matter of difficulty.

Murray Bros., the ice cream dealers, at the corner of Grand and Central avenues, had a time this morning collecting their tubs, which were scattered all over West Duluth. Some were hung on telephone posts, piled up in door ways and placed in every other imaginable place, but all were collected undamaged.

Pythians Entertain.

The members of Kitchi Gammi lodge, Knights of Pythias, entertained their ladies at a very pleasant social session last evening in their lodge rooms in the Wade building. There were about fifty couples present. Grand Chancellor Frank L. Young gave an entertaining talk on "Pythianism," cards were played, music was furnished for dancing and refreshments were served.

Mehic Funeral.

The funeral of Jovo Mehic, the young Austrian, who was electrocuted Wednesday night, will be held tomorrow morning from Filiatrault's morgue. Interment will be in Oneota cemetery. This afternoon, at the morgue, Dr. McCuen, the coroner, will hold an inquest, to fix the responsibility for the man's death.

West Duluth Briefs.

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Works will leave tonight for Minneapolis, where they will attend the Minnesota-Chicago football game tomorrow.

Mrs. H. F. Kringle of 612 North Fifty-sixth avenue west left last night for Saginaw, Mich., where she was called by the serious illness of her mother.

John H. Hall of 430 South Sixty-first avenue west was surprised by a number of his friends Wednesday night, the occasion being his birthday. The guests made a presentation and Mr. Hall gave his guests a pleasant evening.

The Swedish Good Templars will entertain at a social in Victor hall tomorrow evening. Attorney Andrew Nelson will be the principal speaker.

The funeral of the late Robert Moore, who died Wednesday at his home, 124 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence with interment at Union cemetery.

L. A. Barnes, district deputy grand master of the Masonic lodge, left this morning for Grand Rapids, Minn., to attend a meeting of the lodge there tonight.

SUIT INVOLVES TIMBER DEAL

North Shore Case is Tried by Judge Dibell.

The civil actions brought by Wilpas Tikkanen and by Solomon Howard and others against H. A. Dyer of Little Marais, Minn., is being tried before Judge Dibell today. The suit involves a claim on the part of the plaintiffs for cutting timber on the defendant's property on the north shore. The plaintiffs claim that Dyer has refused to pay them wages due for their work last winter. The latter claims that the men formed a partnership and entered into a contract with him to get out the timber. He claims he furnished them all their supplies and sold them a team on account, but that when the time came for a settlement they had fallen behind on the contract and, instead of Dyer owing the partners, they still owed him on account.

GREAT STRIKE TO BE CALLED

Railway Servants of England Vote to Quit Work.

London, Nov. 1.—The executive committee of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants today adopted a resolution to call a general strike.

The British railway employes and the companies have been at loggerheads for some time on the question of recognition of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants and a new scale of wages and hours, and finally it was decided by the employes to reach a decision by ballot of the members of the society.

Richard Bell, M. P., general secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, in a recent address to a large body of railway men at Cardiff said that a strike would be a terrible calamity and that the society intended to exhaust every means to to reach a peaceful solution of the trouble.

The council of the Railway Companies association, in its reply to the men pointed out that the council had no power to appoint representatives to meet the delegates of the unions, as proposed, and discuss questions which affected the relations betwen individual companies and their employes. The council, however, added that its members individually were unanimously of the opinion that no advantage could result from any meeting until the result of the balloting on the question of a general strike would be known.

The seriousness of a railway strike in the United kingdom is difficult to overestimate. It not only will paralyze the industries but soon will starve out the inhabitants of all the interior cities of England, who have only a small supply of food on hand.

LUMBER PLANT CLOSES.

Virginia Lumber Company Has Suspended Operations Temporarily.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The large mill of the Virginia Lumber company closed down indefinitely this morning, as a result, it is reported, of financial stringency and the condition of the lumber market. All of the work in the woods was discontinued also. Work will continue on the railroad to the border. The planing mill will also run. The shut down is thought to be for only a short time.

VERDICT OF $589,000

Against Joseph Ramsey, Jr., in Favor of Coal Land Operator.

New York, Nov. 1.—A verdict of $589,000 against Joseph Ramsey, Jr., former president of the Wabash railroad, in a suit brought by John S. Jones, a financier and coal land operator, was handed down today in the supreme court.

Mr. Jones sued George J. Gould, William Guy and Mr. Ramsey as individuals to recover $460,000, which he alleged to be due him from the three defendants for securing for them 50,000 acres of coal lands in Southern Ohio. A part of the money sued for, according to Mr. Jones, represented sums advanced by him in payment for the land and the rest included his expense, commissions and interest.

CAME FROM PINE CITY

Victim of Cancer at Poor Farm Walked to Duluth.

Was Given Purse by Citizens to Pay Railroad Fare.

The Herald is in receipt of a letter from Pine City, Minn., relative to the unknown man suffering from a hideous cancer, who is being cared for at the poor farm. His case is hopeless and his death is anticipated at any moment.

The writer of the letter to The Herald has the following to say relative to the man:

"I believe this same man was at Pine City, Minn., recently. He had been there several days. It seems he was begging from house to house and annoying the women so was taken in by the chief of police.

"A doctor was called, who dressed his afflicted part and pronounced his case hopeless. It was learned that the man wanted to go to Superior, Wis., but had no money.

"The citizens of Pine City made up a purse of $16 for him, but after he got the money he refused to ride on the train.

"He said he would walk to Superior. The chief of police of Pine City put him on the track and told him the direction to Superior."

These facts, the writer states, he got from the chief of police and that they are authentic.

Another communication to The Herald from a lady in Ashland, Wis., encloses a sample of Assyrian writing in the hope that it may help the authorities to decipher the writing of the man, and the same will be sent to the poorhouse authorities. The deepest mystery surrounds the man's history, and every clue is being followed closely in the hope of solving the mystery of his identity.

WOULD RACE MUNCH.

John St. Antoine Thinks He Can Defeat Champion.

John St. Antoine, the sprinter, who defeated Francis LeBeau, a roller skater, at the Lincoln Park rink a week ago, is out with a challenge to Joseph Munch, the champion roller skater of the Northwest. He wants to race Munch at the Lincoln Park rink at any time, Munch to skate five and one-half laps while St. Antoine runs four.

St. Antoine says Manager Chestock of the Lincoln Park rink is willing to put up a substantial purse for the race and, if Munch is after the money, he has only to take it up. He thinks he can defeat Munch, although the skater is a fast man, and, as the handicap isn't large considering the conditions, the race should be a good one.

SCOUT IDEA OF SUICIDE

Still Family of Southern Capitalist Will Search for Body.

Mystery in Disappearance of Gustave Lehmann Not Explained.

New Orleans, Nov. 2.—While members of the family of Gustave Lehmann, Sr., wealthy New Orleans capitalist and the head of one of the largest wholesale dry goods houses in the South, who disappeared several days ago, are not inclined to accept the theory of suicide, plans are being made today to use dynamite in an effort to raise the body of a man who was seen last Wednesday to jump into the Mississippi river and disappear in the swife current. If this body can be recovered it will either confirm or refute the declaration of two negro women who, when shown a photograph of Mr. Lehmann, said he was the man they had seen jump into the river.

There appears to be a small chance of recovering this body. The bodies of those who are drowned in the river at New Orleans are carried down stream in the swift current and rarely ever appear again nearer than far down in the Parish of Plaquemine and are usually swept on into the Gulf of Mexico.

TOM JOHNSON IS FAVORITE

Odds of 100 to 60 Are Offered on His Re-Election.

Cleveland, Nov. 2.—The public betting is 100 to 60 that Mayor Tom L. Johnson will defeat Representative Theodore E. Burton for mayor on Tuesday.

In private circles a number of even bets have been made.

Johnson has been mayor three terms, or six years. He is a single taxer and a municipal ownership man. He is a devotee of William J. Bryan.

Representative Burton was put into the race by President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft and Secretary Garfield.

The re-election of Johnson on Tuesday will make him a formidable figure in the Democratic national convention next year.

The defeat of Representative Burton would damage his chances for re-election to congress a year from this fall and would be mighty unpleasant reading for the president and the secretary of war. Mr. Burton's defeat would also blight his ambition to become the successor of either Joseph Benson Forraker or Charles Dick in the United States senate.

REVERSES TOO MUCH

For Akeley Groceryman and He Hangs Himself in Warehouse.

Akeley, Minn., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despondent over financial reverses, Louis Crogwig, proprietor of the Akeley Grocery company, hanged himself in the warehouse in the rear of his store yesterday afternoon. He came here two years ago from Brandon, Minn., and is survived by his wife and three children. He was about 45 years of age.

SHACK AT COLERAINE IS MYSTERIOUSLY BLOWN UP BY DYNAMITE; THREE DEAD

The Occupants Were Italian Workers at the Mines.

Searching Investigation of the Outrage Will be Made.

THE DEAD:
AUGUST PALONELLO.
MICHAEL PALONELLO.
JOSEPH DELEOAGO.

Coleraine, Minn., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a terrific explosion which shook the town of Coleraine about 4 o'clock this morning, three Italians were killed, two others wounded seriously, and the log cabin in which they were living, was literally blown to pieces.

The most suspicious circumstances surround the affair. The seven men were keeping bachelors' quarters in the log cabin, adjoining the Canisteo mine location, on the edge of the village of Coleraine. They had recently deserted from the ranks of the Western Federation of Miners and had gone back to work at the mines. The explosion could not possibly have been an accident. No dynamite was stored in the vicinity, and there is no question but that the outrage was deliberately planned, but there is no clue to the guilty men.

The entire side of the building was blown out. The furniture was scattered for yards around, and the bodies of the three men who were sleeping on that side of the building were fearfully mangled.

A searching investigation is being made by the Coleraine authorities. Curious spectators are being kept away from the scene, and bloodhounds have been sent for, in the hope that they will be able to follow the trail of the guilty persons. This is the only hope there is, at present, of running them down, as nobody saw the act committed. The seven men in the cabin were asleep when the explosion occurred.

Deputy Coroner Peterson will hold an inquest this afternoon, and the jury will doubtless bring in a verdict of death by the hand of some person or persons unknown.

MAY AVERT BIG STRIKE

Prospects of a Compromise Are Brighter in England.

Conference of Interested Parties to be Held on Nov. 6.

London, Nov. 2.—The prospects that the president of the board of trade, Mr. Lloyd-George, may be able to avert the general railroad strike by arranging a compromise, were brighter today. A full meeting of the executive committee of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants was held this morning, and it was decided to postpone all action of yesterday's resolution in favor of a strike until after the conference which is to take place with Mr. Lloyd-George Nov. 6, to which he has invited the society to send representatives, Richard Bell, M. P., general secretary of the society, and leader of the strike movement, probably will head the delegation.

A meeting of the parliamentary committee of the trades' union congress was to have taken place Monday next, and a joint meeting of this committee with committees representing the gen-

POSTOFFICE IS ROBBED OF $100

Yeggmen Blow Safe at Big Falls and Get Away.

Big Falls, Minn., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bold robbery was committed at an early hour this morning by unknown thieves, who entered the rear of the postoffice building through a window. The safe was blown and its contents scattered promiscuously about the room. The loss in money will not exceed $100. Considerable damage was done to the furniture and fixtures by the explosion. The safe being damaged beyond immediate repair.

No trace of the robbers has been found and no clue to their whereabouts.

Postmaster Swedback was in the office at 10 o'clock last night.

At 7 o'clock this morning several parties had visited the scene and discovered that a bold robbery had been committed. Owing to the fact that the postmaster had sent several hundred dollars away the day previous was the only security against the loss of a considerable amount of money.

HOME FROM AFRICA.

Minnesota Missionaries Return After Absence of Seventeen Years.

New York, Nov. 2.—The Rev. F. Robert Bunker, who with his wife and five children has been in Zabesi, East Africa, for seventeen years, returned on the White Star steamship Cetric on the way to his home in Minnesota.

He, with other missionaries, translated "Chindou," which is the native tongue of Zambesi, and made dictionaries and many transcripts of religious works. He declared that there was a general desire among the natives to learn English, but they were largely prevented by the ruling classes.

Minneapolis, Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fully 20,000 people were assembled at Northrop field this afternoon at 2:30 for the Chicago-Minnesota football game to decide the championship of the West. The excitement was intense. The rooters of both sides were gathered in their respective sections and though the Minnesota rooters outnumbered the supporters of the Maroon, they were none in advance in enthusiasm.

Before the game began, both captains expressed themselves as confident that the result would be in favor of their respective teams.

Umpire—Kelly of Princeton.

Field judge—Starbuck of Cornell.

Head linesman—Porter of Cornell.

Coughlin	Q. B.	Steffen
Shuknecht	R. H. B.	Iddings
Capron	L. H. B.	Detray
Dunn	F. B.	Merriam

Minnesota won the toss and took the wind. Chicago made a long kick off, and by successive line plays Minnesota ran the ball down the field without the necessity of punting. Within ten minutes the ball was on Chicago's 20-yard line from where Capron dropped a goal. Minnesota, 4; Chicago, 0.

When the ball was put in play Chicago tried the line for short gains and then gave the ball to Steffens, who got away for a long run. He chased down the field for fifty yards touching the ball down between the goal posts. He followed this performance by kicking goal. Score:

Minnesota, 4; Chicago, 6.

Successive line plays and punts by both sides failed to indicate any advantage till Minnesota got the ball on Chicago's thirty yard line and Capron dropped another goal. Score: Minnesota, 8; Chicago, 6. The half ended with this score.

SECOND HALF.

Five minutes after the second half opened Chicago scored a touchdown on a forward pass and in the following excitement a section of the east bleachers collapsed. There was great consternation, but when the debris was cleared it was found that there were only two injured. One man had a leg broken and a boy was taken out with a sprained ankle. There was only a brief interruption, after which play was resumed and Page kicked goal. Score: Minnesota, 8; Chicago, 12.

By a forward pass Chicago soon passed the ball across the line again and followed by kicking goal. Score: Minnesota, 8; Chicago, 18.

With two minutes to play left, Capron drop kicked, making the final score:

Minnesota, 12; Chicago, 18.

PRINCETON VICTORIOUS.

Defeated the Carlisle Team By Score of 16 to 0.

New York, Nov. 2.—Every seat in the stands were sold today, when Princeton and Carlisle lined up against each other today in a football battle, which has an important bearing on the situation in the East. The Indians arrived in New York last night and the Princeton team arrived this morning from the New Jersey city. Princeton was a slight favorite in the betting, despite the defeat by Cornell last Saturday. The Indians' victory over Pennsylvania Saturday gave them a big standing with a good part of the crowd and most Princeton money was quickly taken.

Carlisle won the toss and kicked off. The slippery grounds handicapped both teams and the game soon resolved itself into a kicking match. One of Mount Pleasant's punts rolled behind the goal line and Princeton kicked out to midfield. After a touch back with the ball in midfield, the Indians started to hit the Tiger line for a short gain, when Exendine fumbled a forward pass. Princeton's attacks were then seen for the first time.

Princeton got the ball in an exchange of punts and McCormick and Harlan alternately carried it through the line for a touchdown. Harlan kicked goal. Score: Princeton, 6; Carlisle, 0.

Princeton kept the ball in the Indian's territory most of the time, Carlisle making a little progress with its line plays. On the other hand, Dillon, Tibbett and McCormick, and Harlan broke through the Carlisle line for repeated gains, carrying the ball to Carlisle's 30-yard line, where Princeton lost it.

Princeton sent McCormick through for short gains and a penalty of 15 yards Princeton forced Harlan to drop kick a goal from the 30-yard line. Harlan booted it between the posts accurately. Score: Princeton, 10; Carlisle, 0. First half ends with that score.

On the kick-off on the second half, Eddie Dillon brought the ball to the middle of the field in a thirty yard spurt, only one man tackling him from behind. Princeton began a succession of gains, playing with great snap and speed despite the slippery field. The rain was coming down in torrents, but the big crowd braved the flood.

Mount Pleasant was given the ball for Carlisle and made several spectacular spurts around the Princeton ends for substantial gains, including one of thirty yards, but part of this was lost on a penalty for holding.

With splendid interference Tibbetts for Princeton broke through the Carlisle line and made a forty-five-yard run for a touchdown. Harlan kicked the goal.

Score: Princeton, 16; Carlisle, 0.

Mount Pleasant and Tibbetts retired, the crowd loudly cheering Tibbetts as he left the field. Siegling took Buckingham's place at tackle and Bannan relieved Booth on the Princeton line-up. Dillon retired in favor of Dawson and the stands stood as one and cheered him. Whaley was sent in for MacFayden. The ball was being steadily moved to the Indian goal line, when McCormick was finally dragged from the game, although he fought against it. Pfeiffer took his place.

The final score was: Princeton, 16; Carlisle, 0.

The line-up was as follows:

TELEGRAPHERS ARE RETURNING TO WORK.

New Orleans, Nov. 2.—Following a meeting of the Commercial Telegraphers' union here at which it was voted to permit all operators to go back to work who so desired, officials of the union today announced that so far as New Orleans is concerned, the telegraph strike is a thing of the past.

During the last twenty-four hours about fifty applications have been made to the two telegraph companies, but only about half this number have been reinstated.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 2.—The telegraph operators of this city are applying to the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies for their positions. Today S. W. Perry, secretary of the local union, was informed that instructions had been given to the men to get their positions back. None of the union officials will discuss the matter, however. The Western Union has a full quota of men and are not hiring any more. Several were taken by the Postal.

DULUTH AND ST. PAUL HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAMS PLAY TIE GAME AT ST. PAUL

Score is Six to Six After a Hard Fought Contest.

Game Marked by Much Kicking and Trick Plays

In Which Visiting Team Had a Slight Advantage.

St. Paul, Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a closely contested game on a somewhat slippery field, the Central high school team of St. Paul played the Duluth high school team a tie game, 6 to 6. The game was played at Lexington park this morning. Central had the best of it at the start, although Duluth was somewhat heavier. Central made their touchdown after about ten minutes of play, when Benham took the ball over the line. Currie kicked a goal.

The game was marked by much kicking and many trick plays, and in both the visitors had a slight advantage.

Central was best on end runs and mass formations.

In the second half Duluth might have won the game by a goal from the field when they held Central on their own five-yard line. Duluth lost out on downs and Central booted the ball away from the dangerous goal line.

The work of Benham, Geer, Wolf and Currie of Central, was particularly good.

In Bowen and Jefferson lay Duluth's strength. Duluth made their touchdown and goal early in the second half when Cummings went over from the five-yard line. The rest of the play was mostly in Central's territory. The line-up:

Central.	Position.	Duluth.
Grey	L. E.	Duluth
Longbottom	L. T.	McFadden
Oaks	L. G.	Payne
Hayes	C.	Coventry

GUESTS GET A BAD SCARE

Fire in Plaza Hotel, Chicago, Creates Lively Panic.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—More than 500 guests at the Plaza hotel, North avenue and Clark street, fled from their rooms in confusion early today when fire broke out in the basement of the hostelry. The building was quickly filled with smoke and many of the guests had difficulty in reaching the street. About 100 men and women fled down the fire escape to the first floor from where they were assisted by firemen.

The fire which started in the laundry spread rapidly and a few minutes after the alarm was sounded the entire building was filled with smoke. The hotel is eight stories high and has accommodations for 1,200 persons.

The guests, most of them thinly clad, sought refuge in stores nearby. Some of them had been slightly affected by the smoke. About forty women, becoming exhausted, were carried down ladders and fire escapes by firemen.

Arthur Hart, the night clerk and two bell boys, who nearly lost their lives in warning the guests of the danger, assisted many in reaching the street.

When the firemen reached the building the fire escapes were crowded with frightened men and women. Some of them jumped from the second floor, landing without waiting to be taken down. Several were severely bruised. Mrs. N. E. Stanger, the housekeeper, was overcome with smoke while warning the guests, and had to be carried out.

Attorney William Wise, who with his wife and 8-year-old daughter, occupied rooms on the fourth floor, became separated from them in the confusion. The attorney was nearly overcome by smoke while looking for them. The child, suffering from smoke was found partly exhausted, on the third floor and was carried out by firemen. Mrs. Wise also reached the street safely.

More than 150 rescues were made by the policemen and firemen. There were several minor injuries, but no fatalities or serious accidents. The fire was soon extinguished. The property loss amounted to only about $500.

NO TRACE OF ACTOR

The Police Are Unable to Locate Raymond Hitchcock.

New York, Nov. 2.—Notwithstanding the active efforts of detectives from the district attorney's office and the New York police department to trace him, Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, has disappeared as effectively as though the earth had opened and swallowed him. He is wanted to answer an indictment based on charges made by several young girls. The witnesses are being held in custody and detectives are everywhere on the watch for the missing man. Innumerable clues indicating that Hitchcock is on his way to Europe, is in Montreal, is in Newark, or is coolly walking the streets of New York wearing a disguise, have been investigated by the police department, but all to no effect.

The mystery surrounding the whereabouts of the actor has been increased by the sudden disappearance also of his valet, Herman Ranke, who played a minor part in "The Yankee Tourist," and who was one of the witnesses summoned before the grand jury which indicted him. A detective who tried to find Ranke last night and to question him about the disappearance of Bella MacKenzie, which was discovered after Hitchcock's absence became known, was unable to find Ranke at the theater. Ranke's place in the cast of the play was filled by a substitute. Whether he has joined Hitchcock is a problem which the police have to solve.

Flora Zabelle, wife of Raymond Hitchcock, again declared today that she believed him to be innocent of the charges made against him, that he has not committed suicide, but has suffered some kind of foul play. If her husband were found she said she would join him at once. She said also that she has been greatly annoyed by detectives with search warrants to examine her trunks, by defamatory letters and the receipt of misleading telegrams signed by the name of her husband.

FREMSTAD HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Opera Singer Nearly Carried Away by a Big Wave.

New York, Nov. 2. — Madame Olive Fremstad, the opera singer, and officers and members and crew of the steamer La Provence, which arrived here today from Europe, had a narrow escape from death last Tuesday night. A great wave which swept over the steamer carried away portions of the bridge railing, smashed in the steel encased sides of the captain's cabin and swirled clean across the forward deck. Madame Fremstad, was on the deck at the time, and almost in the path of the great wave. A sailor who saw her peril grasped her and held her against the rail until the danger was passed. "I thought I was gone surely," said Madame Fremstad as she was leaving the steamer today. "The sailor was just in time. He saved my life. It all came so quickly that I did not realize my danger."

The steamer had an exceedingly rough voyage all the way across the Atlantic. It was not until Tuesday, however, that the ship sustained any damage. Just before 8 o'clock in the evening there came a lull in the storm and a moment later a wall of water, more than forty feet in heighth, swept against her. The rail on the bridge, which stands forty feet above the sea, was ripped away and the cabin and an officer, who stood with him, narrowly escaped being carried into the ocean with the rush of water.

BUYS EXPENSIVE BEES.

Iron River Man Pays $100 for Twenty Queen Red Clover Ones.

Iron River, Wis., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Calvin D. Rogers of this city, has received twenty Italian queen red clover bees by mail for which he paid the neat sum of $100. Mr. Rogers says that he considers them well worth the price paid or he would not have parted with his hard-earned money to buy them.

Mr. Rogers purchased two Italian bees of this variety a year ago and the success he had with those hives the past season convinced him that they are so far superior to the common native bees for gathering honey from the red clover that no one who expects to remain in the honey business can afford to be without them.

Safeguarding the Pacific.

Whatever shall be the outcome of the movement of a fleet of battleships from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, it has served to call attention to the fact that Japan, with their wonderful progressiveness, is a nation not to be ignored. The most up-to-date method of safeguarding the health is to keep a bottle of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters handy at all times and take a few doses promptly at the appearance of any disturbance of the stomach, liver, kidneys or bowels. In this way it has been able to prevent a great deal of sickness and has made thousands of friends in all parts of the world. Try a bottle the next time you suffer from poor appetite, flatulency, heartburn, costiveness, dyspepsia, indigestion, chills, colds, female ills or malaria, fever and ague. We guarantee it pure.

WOMAN USHERS FOR A NEW YORK OPERA HOUSE.

New York, Nov. 2.—There are to be women ushers in the Manhattan opera house this season. Last winter there was considerable trouble with some of the men who were employed in this capacity and many changes had to be made in the corps of seat pilots before the season was over.

Mr. Hammerstein and his son, Arthur, decided that if women ushers, who are employed in many of the large opera houses in Europe, are a success, the plan should work in the Manhattan and it will be tried

FELL INTO THE CREEK

Drunken Farmer Has Miraculous Escape in West End.

Leaves His Team of Horses With His Rescuer.

The kind providence which is said to watch over drunken men and fools probably saved the life of an unknown farmer Wednesday evening.

The man was driving homeward in an intoxicated condition, and drove too close to the side of the road. His team stepped over the edge of the bank, and the wagon, horses and man all rolled down into Miller's creek.

John Anderson of 2105 West Fifth street, happened along a few minutes after the accident and rescued the man and the horses. The farmer was so intoxicated that Mr. Anderson did not take him into the house, but put him up on a pile of hay in the barn. He also stabled the horses for the night.

In the morning the farmer had disappeared. He was not hurt by the fall, but it is believed that when he awoke in the morning, he did not see his horses and started out to look for them. The team is still in Mr. Anderson's barn, and he is at a loss to know what to do. Beyond the fact that the farmer probably lived on the Pike lake road, nothing is known regarding him.

VERY HEROIC MEASURES.

Takes Whisky to Prevent Diphtheria, Lands In Jail.

John Pendergast found himself in jail this morning as the result of an overload of whisky he claims he took in fear that he might contract diphtheria from some one of three members of his family down with the disease.

Pendergast, it is claimed, was found intoxicated on the front door steps of his residence. He stated to the court that he took the liquor as a preventive rather than as a refreshment and overestimated his capacity and underestimated the strength of the booze.

In view of the circumstances and the cause leading up to the heroic measures adopted by Pendergast, the court suspended sentence. His wife and two children are down with the disease and the house is under quarantine.

SEARCHING FOR LOVER

Nettie Williams of Providence, R. I., Hunts Amid Mining Camps.

Missing Man Traced West and May be in Idaho.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 2.—Out among the hills in the wilds of Northern Idaho, searching the lumber and mining camps for her lover, who has been missing since last spring, is Nettie Williams, daughter of a prominent merchant at Providence, R. I., who declares she will not give up until she finds the man she loves and can share with him the life he must lead in trying to recoup his fortune in the Pacific Northwest.

Miss Williams declines to give the name of her fiance, nor will she divulge any information other than that her husband-to-be was a well-to-do farmer in Rhode Island until a little more than a year ago, when the mining fever got into his blood and he went to Mexico, sinking his life's earnings in property which turned out a poor venture, and he was forced to toil at ordinary labor.

Too proud to return to his old home and admit his failure, he wrote a brief letter, in which he explained his circumstances, telling his promised bride that he would leave Mexico and begin again, and she would not hear from him until he had again built up a fortune, as he could not think of asking her to share his poverty with him.

Upon receiving the letter the plucky young woman, who is of a rich family, started for Mexico with the determination of finding the man she loved, regardless of the fact that his fortune had been swept away. She reached Mexico only to find that he had gone to Wyoming, and she traced him to several camps there, each time to learn he had become dissatisfied and left.

Miss Williams believes he is somewhere within the borders of Idaho and she is searching for him and, although she has undergone many hardships and suffered from exposure in making long mountain trips, she has determined not to give up the search until she finds the man she loves and can share with him his poverty or riches, as she finds it.

Prospectors and timber cruisers in the mining camps and forests east of Spokane are giving Miss Williams every assistance in locating her lover, and have provided saddle and pack horses for her to make the journey to the various camps, but so far she has been unable to obtain only meager clews. However, she is not losing heart; in fact, it may be said she is more determined than ever before and has every confidence that when she returns to the old home in New England the man to whom she pledged her life will be by her side, should they decide not to remain in the Northwest.

"The only explanation I can give for his absence is the fact that he is too proud to return home after having made a poor investment in Mexico," Miss Williams said to the writer in the Buffalo Hump district, south of Spokane, a few days ago, "and I believe he is out here among these hills working to regain his losses. That is the reason I am out here. I have enough money for both of us, but I am ready to share his lot, no matter where he is or what he is doing to make a home. I know he loves me, while I—well, I am looking for him."

AN ODD BET.
One of the most singular wagers which might be taken to be the outcome of a growing industrial age, was made and decided in 1811. Sir John Throckmorton at that time bet 1,000 guineas that he could have a coat made in a day from the first shearing of the sheep to the last stitch of the tailor's needle. According to the agreement, at 5 in the morning Sir John gave two Southdown sheep to a Mr. Coxeter. The sheep were shorn, the wool "spun." The yarn "spooled, warped, loomed and wove." The cloth "burred, milled, rowed, dyed, dried, sheared and pressed." At 4 o'clock in the afternoon it was in the hands of the tailor. At exactly 6:29 o'clock that workman finished his task and the completed coat was presented by Mr. Coxeter to Sir John, who put it on and appeared in it before a crowd of 5,000 applauding spectators.

SATISFACTORY TO HIM.
Youth's Companion: An automobile dashed along the country road. Turning a curve, it came suddenly upon a man with a gun on his shoulder and a weak, sick-looking old dog beside him. The dog was directly in the path of the motor car. The chauffeur sounded his horn, but the dog did not move—until he was struck. After that he did not move.

The automobile stopped and one of the men got out and came forward. He had once paid a farmer $10 for killing a calf that belonged to another farmer. This time he was wary.

"Was that your dog?"

"Yes."

"You own him?"

"Yes."

"Looks as if we'd 'kill him."

"Certainly looks so."

"Very valuable dog?"

"Well, not so very."

"Will $5 satisfy you?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, here you are." He handed a $5 bill to the man with the gun, and added pleasantly: "I'm sorry to have broken up your hunt."

"I wasn't going hunting," replied the other as he pocketed the bill.

"Not going hunting? Then what were you doing with the dog and the gun?"

"Going to the woods to shoot the dog."

DEATHS FROM X-RAYS.
The death of Dr. Weigel, a surgeon of Rochester, from a disease due to the constant use of the X-rays makes the fourth who has lost his life from this cause.

The others were an assistant of Thomas Edison, a Boston physician and a woman of San Francisco named Fleischman. In the case of Dr. Weigel since 1904, when his right hand and all but the thumb and a finger of the left hand were removed, there had been four operations in trying to save his life. The first removed a part of the right shoulder; then a part of the muscles covering the right breast.

Mystery completely envelops the cause of death, the disease being unknown to medical science, though it is believed to involve some great principle of life. Dr. Weigel was president of the Rochester Academy of Medicine and the American Orthopaedic society.

"Von Moltk apparently had no adequate opportunity at the recent trial to clear himself of Herr Harden's charges, and hence the state's attorney thinks it necessary to institute new proceedings and fully clear up the matter from all standpoints.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FAILURE TO PAY MEANS SHUT OFF

Of Water and Light in the City of Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.—The city council at its meeting this week decided to get after those who are delinquent in paying their water and light taxes with a sharp stick.

The council has found it necessary to issue notices that if such taxes are not paid by a certain date, service will be discontinued and in a few instances this has already been done. While this method may appear rather harsh to some of the delinquents, it is an effective reminder and will have a strong tendency to bring in the water and light taxes when they are due and eliminate many misunderstandings.

Among the more important matters considered by the council was the fixing of rates for water used by patrons who have water meters. The rate established was fifteen cents per 1,000 gallons or any fraction thereof, with a minimum charge of fifty cents per month, when 50,000 gallons or less per month was used. Where the consumption of water exceeds 50,000 gallons per month the rate will be twelve cents per 1,000 gallons, and where 100,000 gallons or more is used the rate will be ten cents per 1,000 gallons.

BIRD SHOT ENTERS

Biwabik, Minn., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Samuel Pearce of the Monica mine here is receiving treatment at the Biwabik hospital for wounds sustained yesterday, when he was accidentally shot by James Paul, a saloonkeeper. The latter was examining a new gun he had just purchased and it went off in his saloon, the charge going through the front window. Four of the birdshot with which it was loaded penetrated the leg of Mr. Pearce, who happened to be passing. The wounds are not serious and the injured man is expected to be about in a few days.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Grand Rapids football eleven looked like professionals to the locals yesterday, but they played them here, under protest, being beaten by a score of 34 to 0. The visitors outweighed the Virginians, but the latter put up a stubborn fight. Tomorrow the Grand Rapids boys will play the Boveyites.

LABOR

DELEGATE NOT CHOSEN

Local Union Will Not Send One to Norfolk Meeting.

Convention of American Federation of Labor Begins Nov. 12.

Duluth will not be represented at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which will be held at Norfolk, Va., beginning Nov. 12. No action has yet been taken by the trades' assembly, and none of the local unions will elect a delegate. The state federation will be represented by W. E. McEwen, if he is able to attend.

The convention is held too far away this season, and the expenses of sending a delegate is too great for the locals or the trades' assembly to bear. It would cost several hundred dollars, probably, to send one delegate as the convention would last for a couple of weeks.

The convention call was read at the meeting of the trades' assembly several weeks ago, but was ordered filed, and since that time the matter has never been taken up by Duluth's central body. It is taken for granted that there will be no delegate as there is but one more meeting of the assembly and it would be too late to choose and send a representative then.

Last year the annual convention was held at Minneapolis, and as the expense was not great the Duluth Trades' assembly and several of the locals sent delegates down to attend. Joseph Shartell was the representative from the central body and he was a credit to the organization at the big meeting.

The convention this year will be largely made up of delegates from cities and towns and state organizations in the vicinity of the convention, and also representatives from the various international organizations from all over the country.

"Excepting the various international representatives there will probably not be many delegates from the West this year," said James Walsh, one of the trustees of the trades' assembly. "The expense is too great and few of the unions and central bodies can afford it."

J. E. Skellington, an officer of the International Millers' union, will probably attend from Minneapolis, but the state will have no official representation, as it is not likely Mr. McEwen will attend.

TEST COMES MONDAY.

Contractors Will Start Brickwork on Sellwood Building.

On Monday the trouble, which has been anticipated between the labor unions of Duluth and the contractors who are erecting the new Sellwood building on Superior street, will probably come to a head. The contractors will try to begin the brick work at that time and the laborers will probably refuse to go to work.

The American Bridge company has the contract for the steel construction work on the new building, and as this is an "unfair" firm, the labor unions have given notice that they will not work on the building. Non-union iron workers are being employed, and a union man can not work on the building under the present conditions. Already a part of the steel frame work has been put in place.

The unionists want the American Bridge company to sublet the contract so that the work can be done by union men. It is understood the company has refused to do this and the unionists have in turn refused to work under present conditions.

"We will begin the brick work on Monday morning," said Mr. McLeod of the firm of McLeod & Smith, which has the general contract for the new building. "The bricklayers are not affiliated with the other unions and they will go to work. I think we will have no trouble in getting laborers."

"If they try to start the brick work Monday," said M. J. Harney, business agent of the structural alliance, "not one of the union men affiliated with this organization will go on the job. Several of the bricklayers too have told me that they would not go to work with the non-unionists. I don't think there will be much of anything doing on the building until the non-union iron workers are put off the job."

Mr. Harney says there will be no strike because the men will not go to work in the first place. Even if the bricklayers should go to work, the cement workers and builders' laborers will not, and little can be done without them.

MEETING OF TRUSTEES.

Investigated Iron Moulders' Complaint About Payment of Dues.

A meeting of the board of trustees of the Duluth Trades' assembly was held last evening at the office of H. W. F. Hegg, in the Lyceum building. The meeting had been called for the purpose of looking into the misunderstanding regarding the payment of dues by the iron moulders.

Several months ago the iron moulders were suspended from the trades' assembly for non-payment of dues, and for some time made no attempt to get back. A couple of months ago they again sent a delegation to the meeting of the assembly. There was then some misunderstanding about the payment of the back dues, and the matter was referred to the assembly.

The trustees also made an examination of the books of the assembly treasurer, as is their custom. They will render a report on both these matters at the meeting of the assembly next Friday.

Celebration at Fairmount.

A successful Halloween celebration and dance was given by the Duluth Union Labor Pavilion association on Thursday evening at Fairmount park. There was a large attendance of unionists and their wives, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. The Cigarmakers' union had distributed a number of handsome souvenirs to the smokers who attended. The souvenirs were in the shape of little ash trays. The pavilion association is planning another big celebration on Thanksgiving.

BACKACHE IS DANGEROUS

Efforts to Reduce the Death Rate Successful in Many Cities.

Lame Back and Urinary Troubles the Danger Signals to be Heeded.

More people succumb each year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good, first-class physician, leave patent medicines alone.

There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home is stated by a well-known authority. For some of these, such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency, (especially at night), painful scalding and other urinary troubles, try the following simple remedy: Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple ingredients are harmless and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bed time.

There is no better general remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism either, because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It cleans the clogged up pores in the kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood the poisonous uric acid and waste matter which if not eliminated remain in the blood, decompose and settle about the joints and muscular tissues causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care of your kidneys," is now the physician's advice to his patients.

SPAWN OF LAKE TROUT

Being Gathered by the Duluth Fish Hatchery Agents.

Millions of the spawn of lake trout are being gathered by representatives of the Duluth United States fish hatchery, who are engaged in the work at Marquette, Mich., and the hatchery here is being rapidly replenished.

Supt. S. P. Wires of the Duluth hatchery returned from Marquette today and brought back over 2,000,000 of the spawn. There are over 1,500,000 more on hand at Marquette and they will be shipped in the near future. Besides Supt. Wires, there are in the party working at Marquette, J. A. Pinkerton, H. Dickey, M. Nicholson, Capt. McLean and Alec Lee.

The men from the hatchery are collecting the spawn from fish taken in the nets of the three fish firms at Marquette. As the fish are taken from the water, each is seized and by passing the hand along the body the eggs are squeezed out. These are gathered in cloth bottomed crates and are stored until they are ready to be shipped. The eggs are amber colored, perfectly round and about an eighth of an inch in diameter.

When they are brought to Duluth they are placed in trays in troughs eight inches wide by fourteen in length. Water is forced from beneath through the trays at the rate of about five gallons a minute. The fry hatch out in about six months. From the eggs sent from Marquette about 75 to 95 per cent are hatched. Next spring the young fry are placed in the lake. It is estimated that the little fish attain a weight of three pounds in as many years.

As the fishery commission men are now at Marquette the fishermen working with them are not affected by the close season which begins Nov. 1. The men from the hatchery will remain until Nov. 10 next. After that time fishing for herring will begin. This is the only fish that may be caught with anything less than a four and a quarter inch net. The herring net is a two and three eighths inch mesh net.

It is only lately that the law forbidding the use of anything less than a four and a quarter inch mesh net has been enforced and the conditions are regarded with favor by many of the fishermen. In the past during the summer months fishermen generally have been using a three and a half inch mesh taking the smaller fish. In the fall the larger ones were caught and the result was that the lake was rapidly being fished out. Now the immature fish are being protected.

TOTAL COAL RECEIPTS

For October Show a Slight Increase Over Last Month.

Exports From Duluth Were Unusually High in October.

Receipts of coal at the port of Duluth for the month of October show a slight increase over the total of September, according to the figures in the customs house books, which are the estimates turned in by the captains as they report.

The total coal receipts during October were 216,744 tons, while those for Superior were 210,658 tons. This is an increase of only about one cargo. It had been expected the receipts of coal would show a falling off during October, but coal cargoes have been coming forward very rapidly all the month.

According to the customs house books the total shipments in tons out of the port of Duluth for October amounted to 2,544,128 tons. There were about 2,881,698 bushels of wheat, 40,000 bushels of oats, 907,656 bushels of flax, 30,099,000 feet of lumber, besides the record-breaking shipments of ore.

There was a total of $1,091,489 worth of exports from the port of Duluth, which is an unusually large figure. The principal item in the exports is grain, and as this is the busy season in this trade the figures are unusually high.

HAS HALF HER WHEEL.

Steamer Laughlin Goes Down Lakes With Damaged Propeller.

The steamer Laughlin, which broke her wheel after leaving Allouez night before last, was able to clear from the harbor at noon today after temporary repairs had been made.

Diver Hoy of the Union Towing company was working upon her all day yesterday and completed the job this morning. He took out the broken bucket and then detached the opposite bucket and the steamer went down the lakes with the remaining buckets.

The Laughlin is commanded by Capt. George A. Symes and belongs to the Becker fleet. She will get a new wheel at Cleveland.

TWO STEAMERS COLLIDE.

Steamer Reis is Sunk and M. C. Smith is Beached.

Detroit, Nov. 2.—Two large bulk freight steamers met in head on collision last night in the St. Clair river opposite Algonac. The steamer Reis of the Mitchell fleet, was sunk in 26 feet of water, and the steamer Monroe C. Smith of the United States Transportation company, was beached on Russel's island to prevent her sinking in deep water.

The Reis was bound down the lakes and the Smith was up-bound. The position of the wreck is such as not to block the channel. So far as known none of the crews of either vessel was injured. The crew of the Smith remained on board after driving their vessel on the beach with her bow badly damaged.

Spokane Cannot Be Saved.

Cleveland, Nov. 2.—The steamer Spokane, stranded on Gull Rock, Lake Superior, is a total loss, according to dispatches received yesterday afternoon. The wrecking tug Favorite was driven away from the boat by the northwest storm, and the Spokane afterward broke in two.

Freight Situation.

Cleveland, Nov. 2.—It is expected that there will be a slump in the iron ore movement after next week, as most of the fleets will clean up their contracts with another trip. Coal is very scarce.

Buffalo, Nov. 2.—There was some chartering and the supply of coal continues fairly liberal considering the car situation, which is bad. Charters: Nicholas, Superior, 30 cents; Crowe, Port Arthur, Bielman, Schlessinger, McLachlan, Pueblo, Chicago, 40 cents. The total receipts of grain for the month of October amounted to 21,952,681 bushels.

Half of Steamer Arrives.

Buffalo, Nov. 2.—The stern portion of the Canadian Pacific line steamer Assiniboia arrived here from Scotland yesterday. The steamer was cut in two at Quebec in order to get her through the canals and the remaining section will be brought through in a few days. The two halves will be reunited at the Buffalo dry dock.

Dredge Going to the Ocean.

Cleveland, Nov. 2.—The former lake steamer Denver, remodeled into the largest elevator dredge in America, has just left Ogdensburg, on Lake Ontario, under her own steam for Boston. The new dredge is especially equipped for deep sea dredging, and will be used in cutting the new channel through Boston harbor to the sea, the contract for which was obtained by the Daly & Hannan Dredging company, Boston. The Denver was built at Milwaukee in 1899. The dredge carries a crew of eighteen men.

eral federation of trade union, and of the labor party, had been arranged for next Tuesday, but Mr. Bell has written to the secretary of the first-named organization suggesting that the meetings be postponed, adding:

"Owing to a change of circumstances, I do not think it will be necessary to call the meeting at this stage."

This is regarded as a significant step, because the two meetings were to have considered what action to take in order to support the railway men if they went out on strike.

The circumstances to which Mr. Bell referred are, of course, Mr. Lloyd-George's invitation to the conference, which is to take place Nov. 6. The plan of the president of the board of trade is to form a permanent board of conciliation, with an equal number of representatives of the companies and of the men and having an independent chairman. The railroad directors, apparently, are willing to adopt the plan, but the question arises whether the men, having demanded complete recognition of their unions and direct dealings between the managers of the roads and the unions, will accept such a substitute.

The partisans of the railways refer to yesterday's resolution as being a bluff intended to frighten the railroad magnates and the supporters of the unions say the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants has cleared for action and that while it has not actually declared war, it has given its executive a mandate for war.

Public feeling against the strike is so strong that the men are bound to go slow as long the companies show any disposition to arrive at a compromise arrangement.

Railroad shares fell slightly at the opening of the stock exchange today, but rose later to their normal quotations, thus reflecting the belief in a peaceful outcome of the situation.

The railroad men have decided to hold a mass meeting at Albert hall here on Sunday night, at which deputations from all parts of the United Kingdom will be present.

HIS LIBERTY SHORT.

Sam McClellan Lands in Jail After Brief Rejoicing.

Sam McClellan sniffed the air of freedom after being liberated from the county jail, threw out his chest and strolled down the hill in happy anticipation of a pleasant celebration of his liberty, yesterday.

He immediately took a contract to dispose of a large quantity of liquor and failed in the same.

The court gave him another ten days to think over the folly of inebriety and recover from his debauch.

"LIKE MAGIC."

New Food Makes Wonderful Changes.

When a man has suffered from dyspepsia so many years that he can't remember when he had a natural appetite, and then hits on a cure, he may be excused for saying, "It acts like magic."

When it is a simple wholesome food instead of any one of a large number of so-called remedies in the form of drugs, he is more than ever likely to feel as though a sort of miracle has been performed.

A Chicago man, in the delight of restored digestion, puts it in this way:

"Like magic, fittingly describes the manner in which Grape-Nuts cured me of poor digestion, coated tongue and loss of appetite, of many years' standing.

"I tried about every medicine that was recommended to me, without relief. Then I tried Grape-Nuts on the suggestion of a friend. By the time I had finished the fourth package, my stomach was all right, and for the past two months, I have been eating with a relish, anything set before me. That is something I had been unable to do previously for years.

"I am stronger than ever and I consider the effects of Grape-Nuts on a weak stomach as something really wonderful. It builds up the entire body as well as the brain and nerves." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. There's a Reason."

School Board Does Not Like Attitude of "Frats."

Superintendent Recommends Employment of Truant Officer.

The board of education is not exactly pleased with the attitude the high school fraternities have taken toward the board's decision that "frats" must cease to exist in the public schools of Duluth.

In fact, the displeasure of the board found expression last evening in a poignant paragraph in the report of the committee on schools and teachers, which was adopted. Just how the board stands may perhaps be better judged by a perusal of that part of the committee's report which refers to the "frats:"

"Your committee further reports that it is advised that some action has been taken by the high school fraternities to discontinue activities until the constitutionality of the anti-fraternity law shall be determined in the litigation now pending in Minneapolis.

"Such action does not defer to the wishes of this board nor of the school management, but rests upon the determination of a suit at law in which this board cannot participate and which it cannot control and your committee feels that this is not the spirit in which the action of the board should be met.

"We think it is time that any society, containing a small minority of the high school students, should cease to exist and have a foothold in the school or be a factor in controlling the course of affairs therein, and we recommend that the principal of the high school be required to furnish this board at once with a list of all members of the high school who hold membership in either of the fraternal societies and those who have joined such societies and continued active membership therein since the adoption of Chapter 149 of the General Laws of 1907."

The American Heating company and the L. R. Helbing company, which were doing work under contracts at the Franklin school at the time that building was visited by fire, have put in claims to the board for the losses incurred by them in the blaze.

The committee on administration and finance reported that the heating concern sought to recover something like $650 and that the Helbing company, a roofing concern, would be content with $292.

The members of the committee on the maintenance of buildings and grounds were absent from the meeting and there was some misunderstanding among the members of the board as to whether the concerns were entitled to any reimbursement or not, so it was decided to have the finance and buildings committees make further investigations and report at the next meeting.

The high price of lumber was reflected last evening in the discussion of the members of the board on the question of supplying some of the schools with new flag-staffs, and there is a possibility that the school house flag poles of the future will be of gas pipe instead of timber.

The committee on the maintenance of buildings and grounds asked for money to buy flag poles for the Ely, Emerson, Fairmont and Jackson schools. The Ely has not yet been supplied with a pole and at the other building, the old ones are beyond repair.

When it came to estimates of the cost of the poles, Director Stevens suggested that gas pipes be used instead of timber, and this was taken up by the other members of the board. The committee was instructed to go ahead and buy the poles, bearing in mind, Director Stevens' idea.

Superintendent Denfeld again reminded the members of the board that the services of a truant officer were needed to keep recreant youngsters from habitually playing "hookey." A motion to have the committee on teachers and schools appoint the probation officer to the position was lost, and n ofurther action was taken in the matter.

Upon the recommendation of the teachers and schools committee, permission was granted the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association to hold its sessions in Duluth, Nov. 15 and 16, in the assembly room of the Central high school. Teachers who desire to attend the gathering will be allowed a half-holiday, Friday, Nov. 15.

The committee appointed by the board to revise the rules of the body and to prepare a handbook for handy reference, made its report last evening. The revised rules were accepted and the committee, which comprises President Codding and Directors Washburn and LeTourneau, was instructed to ascertain the cost of printing the rules in book form, and make a report.

Not only will the book contain the rules and regulations of the board, but many valuable statistics.

The following teachers were elected: Iva L. Bronson, Anna T. Hanson, Bessie Turnbull, Tekla Westerberg and Leone M. Monroe. The resignation of Miss Daisy Boone was accepted.

Permission was granted Miss Lulu Hill and Mr. Sunde to conduct night school classes in the Adams and Washington schools, the incidental expenses to be borne by them.

The vacancy in the Central high school is being temporarily filled by Miss Lilla L. Thurber, an alumnus of the University of Michigan.

TOLD CANDID STORY.

Pat Doyle Let Off With Easy Sentence for Truthfulness.

Pat Doyle was his name, not George Washington, but he couldn't tell a lie to Judge Windom this morning when arraigned for being drunk.

"Yes, I was drunk judge. I get that way every time I come here," remarked Pat with a cheerful smile.

"How often do you get down here," asked the court.

"About once in three months," replied the prisoner.

The court imposed the minimum fine and gave Pat until noon to make a start towards his home up the bay which he took advantage of as soon as liberated.

Charcoal Stops Gas On Your Stomach.

Wonderful Absorbing Power of Charcoal When Taken in the form of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Trial Package Sent Free.

Charcoal, pure, simple charcoal, absorbs 100 times its own volume of gas. Where does the gas go to? It is just absorbed by the charcoal—the gas disappears and there is left a pure, fresh, sweet atmosphere, free from all impurities and germs.

That's what happens in your stomach when you take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful purifiers science has yet discovered.

You belch gas in company, sometimes, by accident, greatly to your own humiliation. That is because there is a great amount of gas being formed in your stomach by fermenting food. Your stomach is not digesting your food properly. Gas is inevitable. Whenever this happens, just take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges right after eating, and you will be surprised how quickly they will act. No more belchings; no more sour risings. Eat all you want and what you want, and then if there is any gas going to be formed, one of these wonderful little absorbers, a Stuart Charcoal Lozenge, will take care of all the gas.

And it will do more than that. Every particle of impurity in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away by the charcoal. No one seems to know why it does this, but it does, and does it wonderfully. You notice the difference in your appetite, general good feeling, and in the purity of your blood, right away.

You'll have no more bad taste in your mouth or bad breath, either from drinking, eating or smoking. Other people will notice your bad breath quicker than you will yourself. Make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, so when you talk to others you won't disgust them. Just one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges will make your breath sweet, and make YOU feel better all over for it. You can eat all the onions and odorous foods you want, and no one can tell the difference.

Besides, charcoal is the best laxative known. You can take a whole boxful and no harm will result. It is a wonderfully easy regulator.

And then, too, it filters your blood—every particle of poison or impurity in your blood is destroyed, and you begin to notice the difference in your face first thing—your clear complexion.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow charcoal, and just a little honey is put in to make them palatable, but not too sweet.

They will work wonders in your stomach, and make you feel fine and fresh. Your blood and breath will be purified.

We want to prove all this to you, so just send for a free sample today. Then after you get it and use it, you will like them so well that you will go to your druggist and get a 25c box of these Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

Philadelphia Record: Although the meagerness of the incomes of clergymen is a very general reproach of the churches, a burglar in Wilkesbarre found one minister with $20 and a gold watch in his clothes.

Cincinnati Enquirer: "If the doctors can agree to be just doctors, without quarreling about schools or creeds," says an exchange, "perhaps the ministers will be inclined, in time, to do the same." Let the ministers alone. The doctors are dealing with questions that work themselves out in our mortality. The ministers are treating with eternity, and must have more latitude for discussion and division.

Buffalo Express: There is an old Scotch story about the minister who complained that he had found golf and the "meenistry" incompatible, and therefore had given "it" up. "What," asked his friend, "given up golf?" "Na, na," said the reverend gentleman; "I have given up the meenistry." The story is pretty well realized in the clergyman of Worcester, Mass., who has resigned his charge because he wants to "loaf and play golf." But it should be admitted in extenuation of the choice of this minister that he has been in the pulpit for many years, and feels that he needs rest.

Philadelphia Ledger: The general convention of the Episcopal church has once more put off the organization of the provincial system which has been under discussion for nearly a generation. Never before, however, has a well-considered plan failed so narrowly. It was adopted by the house of bishops and sent to the house of deputies for concurrence. The clergy voted for it by a large majority, but the lay vote was in the negative, and so the whole matter will go over to another convention. There can be no doubt of ultimate action, because the present organization, with nothing between the single diocese and the national council, has become too unwieldy and wasteful of efficiency to be much longer tolerated even by the most conservative.

DULUTH PASTORS.

REV. F. O. KLING.

Rev. F. O. Kling, pastor of the First Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, is a native of Sweden and received his early education in that country. When he had completed his studies in the regular public schools there, he was tutored in private schools, having in mind the idea of becoming a minister.

Mr. Kling landed in these United States of America just about the time of the panic in 1893. He found that for a time, at least, he must bury his pulpit ambitions, and he did. In Michigan, he secured a position as lumber inspector, which he retained until the country became prosperous again and he was able to pay his way through college.

He attended the North Park college and theological seminary in Chicago, conducted by the Swedish Mission church in America, graduating from the institution in 1902. His first charge was at Norway, Mich., where he remained but a year. His subsequent removal to Wyenett, Isanti county, Minn., was prompted by poor health, the climate of the Michigan town not agreeing with him.

In 1905 Rev. Mr. Kling came to Duluth from Wyenett, to become pastor of the First Swedish Mission church in the West end. Since he took hold of the work, a debt of $4,000 on the church property has been paid off and several thousand dollars' worth of improvements accomplished. Most of these improvements have already been paid for.

The church boasts of more than 400 active members. The Sunday school has a membership of between 400 and 500. A branch is conducted in the East end, at Seventeenth avenue east and London road. John Turnquist is superintendent. Emil Smedberg is superintendent of the main Sunday school at the church.

The Young People's society of the church is one of the largest in the city and other healthy auxiliary organizations are the Parthinoe society, composed of young ladies, the Bee Hive, composed of young girls, and the Ladies' Aid society, which has a membership of more than 100.

The trustees of the church are Fred W. Ericson, C. G. Anderson, Nels Person, Emil Bjorlin, Erick Carlson, Victor Gustafson, Dennis Johnson and Herert Lundgren, secretary of finance.

The deacons are Charles Erickson, Emil Bjorlin, Emil Smedberg, Charles Nelson, L. M. Johnson, Peter Olson and William Nelson.

NEWS OF THE WEEK AT CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

Victory Over Blaine is Celebrated by the Students.

Alumni Are Making Good at Many Big Colleges.

The week has surely been a red letter one at the Central High school. On Monday morning, after chapel exercises, with "Yell Master" Helm leading, the boys of the four classes raised a noise that put all previous efforts far into the shade. The "rooters" certainly did good work in their special line, at the game, and they demonstrated, in chapel, that no lungs had been even strained. They are now in excellent form to celebrate the coming victory over St. Paul.

And "WE" really beat Superior for the first time in six years. It was a glorious and hard won victory. Even the banner, was recovered and renailed to the pole, with only a few fringed edges missing, to show how hotly its ownership was contested. It has now been placed in the "Holy of Holies," where it will serve as an inspiration for future football teams, and a grand and glorious trophy for all time.

Hopes are high for victory in the coming game with St. Paul Central high, which is to take place today in St. Paul. The second team have done very good work during the week and several exciting contests have been pulled off. The team will have great encouragement for a large number of rooters will accompany the boys to St. Paul, if the necessary amounts can be raised on checks, and those fortunate enough to go will have an opportunity to witness the contest between the university team and Chicago, which will be played this afternoon.

According to all reports, there will be a terrible game a week hence, when the Freshies and Sophomores clash for supremacy in their annual game. The Sophomores seem to think they have a cinch on the game, but the "Freshies" are working hard and intend to spring several surprises.

The football men are looking forward to their annual banquet, which will be given in the near future. Plans for the annual reception are still indefinite and it is hoped that the affair will be given during holiday time, when many of the alumni will be present.

On Monday afternoon, Prof. Tripp gave his lecture and reading, from Shakespeare's Henry IV, before a packed assembly hall. A large number of outsiders were present and mingled with the students in the reception immediately following the lecture. The affair was in charge of the dramatic and public speaking clubs and was admirably managed.

The regular meeting of the Public Speaking club was held on Tuesday. Plans for the future were discussed, and it was decided that at the next meeting the first debate, leading up to the choosing of the team, will be held. It was found that many valuable notes for future reference were made in various note books for future reference, as the result of Prof. Tripp's lecture, and all were encouraged as to future work along this line.

The Dramatic club members are all busy over their copies of the "Rivals," and good results are looked for. Those who were fortunate enough to see the presentation of the same play by the normal school pupils last spring know that they have hard work ahead if they wish to make comparisons.

The Musical society also met on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Mary Bradshaw was the soloist and gave Grieg's "Autumn Storm." The members considered themselves fortunate in securing so accomplished a singer and received her with much applause. George Tyler will appear before them at their next meeting.

On Wednesday afternoon the seniors had a short business session. The treasurer reported that $36 had been received in dues, but the entire amount has been paid out and there are still debts outstanding.

At the next meeting of the class a captain for the basket ball team will be chosen. The seniors have the school championship to defend, so it is planned to get into the field early and endeavor to produce another pennant winner.

Plans for the annual Thanksgiving benefit have not been decided upon, but that must be taken up in the near future. It is hoped that something novel can be attempted this year.

Distinctions of all kinds are falling to the lots of many of the high school alumni these days. Frank Boerner, '07, and Fred Buck, '05, being honored at the state university with special offices. Elmer McDevitt, "Muck," '07, is making good at Andover. Roger Spencer, '08, is delighting the spectators at Annapolis with great sprinting and sure tackling. At Cornell, Frank Crassweller, '06, is also making a hit with the freshman fans. This tends to make the fellows sit up and take notice at the Central high.

After the game on Saturday there will be a lull in athletics for a time and good hard "slugging" at lessons will be the order of the month of November.

The Glee club held the first meeting of the year Friday in the music room and organized for the year's work. The following officers were elected: Grace Maggard, president; Elizabeth Mattox, vice president; and Miss Fiebiger, secretary and treasurer. After all the business was disposed of the club spent the remainder of the afternoon in practicing for the program to be given before the Range Teachers' association, which will meet here in two weeks.

Thursday morning the children of the kindergarten were entertained at a Halloween party. The children brought pumpkins and helped the girls make lanterns and Brownie posters. These were used to decorate the rooms, and after all arrangements were made the curtains were drawn and the pumpkins were lighted. The children played around the lanterns and danced the Brownie dance, after which refreshments were served.

As there were no study hours Thursday evening, a number of the girls at the hall gave spreads in their rooms. Florence Levy gave a spread in her room. Those present were Emily Ray, Emiline Higgins, Jean Stapleton, Ruth and Margaret Raleigh, Florence Levy, Grace Aikin and Elizabeth Mattox.

Another spread was given by the girls rooming on the third floor.

IS THE BALANCE OF POWER TO BE REVERSED?

Are the Brown and Yellow and Black Races to Throw Off White Supremacy? Is Asia to Come Into Its Own Again, and Mahometanism to Rule the World Once More? Not Yet, Nor Indeed in the Future, Says White Europe, With Its Vast Asiatic and African Possessions, Peopled by Hundreds of Millions Who Know Modern "Christian" Civilization Only to Fear and Hate It.

Nevertheless the Powers With Big Colonies, Especially Great Britain and France, Were Stricken With a Chill When the Trouble Began at Casablanca, for the Hindus in India and the Moslems in Egypt Have Been Decidedly Uneasy for Some Time---Recent Rapid Extension of Mahometanism---Its Hatred of Christianity---The Mysterious Mahabees and the Hidden Holy City of Joffo.

BY DEXTER MARSHALL.

(Copyright, 1907, by Dexter Marshall.)

Is there to be a reversal of the balance of power between the Christian and the non-Christian races of the earth?

Are the Mahometans, who have been extending their sway enormously of late in Asia and Africa and the isles of the sea, and have made several desperate efforts to throw off the yoke of the infidel in the last half century, to succeed, finally, at least, in driving him out of Africa, as they avowedly hope?

Is Asia to come to its own again?

Not yet, surely, nor even in the near future, but it is no secret on the other side of the Atlantic that the European governments, which have extended their sway furthest into those regions that are the birthright of the colored races, are more apprehensive today concerning the future of their possessions than they have been for years.

And while the disturbances in Northern Africa have assumed no such proportions, to date, as the Mahdi movement in Soudan assumed in 1885, they have since been the source of much anxiety ever since the first outbreak at Casablanca, Morocco, early in August.

On the face of things, that outbreak stood for nothing more than barbarian dislike for the improvements of civilization, and, as such, might safely be considered of no great world importance.

But at this time, when the Arab camel drivers of the desert, the dusky merchants of Timbuctoo, and the ebony savages of the remotest interior have at last absorbed the news from Asia that a great nation of the North, made up of gigantic white men, nominally Christians, has been whipped by a much smaller nation of the Orient, made up of little brown men who are decidedly non-Christian, the North African troubles are being watched with intense interest throughout all three of the Old World continents.

To some, at least, of the browns, the yellows and the blacks, it has seemed possible that the questions formulated above might be in the way of receiving affirmative answers. Europeans have had no such notion, of course, but they have understood very well that it might—as it still may—cost hundreds of thousands in lives and millions in treasure to enforce permanent negative answers.

To most of us in the New World the questions seem merely interesting, since American is separated from the scenes of possible revolt against Caucasian rule by thousands of miles of deep salt water, and the United States has no continental Old World possessions.

Yet, in view of the differences which have developed over Oriental immigration to this continent, it is conceivable that such further developments might follow that American interest in the situation would suddenly become extremely vital. For, although relatively unimportant as it has been, so far, the Moroccan outbreak is a manifestation of the eternal and irrepressible antagonism between those who are nominally Christians and those who are not.

Broadly speaking, it runs along the color line, but strictly speaking, not wholly so, since the Mahometans, who, next to the Japanese, are the greatest possible disturbing factors include some millions of whites and the Christians some millions who are not. There are 23,000,000 Turks, all Mahometans, but also, in part at least, Aryan whites, and 8,000,000 Persians mostly Mahometans, also white. Still these 31,000,000 are only a drop in the great non-Christian ocean.

It is estimated that there are about 1,500,000,000 of human beings upon the earth, of whom 600,000,000 wear white skins, while 900,000,000 wear yellow, or brown, or black, or red ones. Thus two-fifths of the total body of humanity are white, while three-fifths are colored.

Divided by religious lines, and counting all as Christians who live in so-called Christian lands, the proportions would not be materially different, there being nearly 48,000,000 Christians, including those of the colored Coptic and Abyssian churches, while about 850,000,000 souls owe allegiance to others of the world's organized religions. This leaves out of the count the world's 12,000,000 Jews, and the colored savages of Africa, America, Australasia, etc., who number rather less than 200,000.

Despite their smaller numbers, the whites are practically dominant all over the world, except in the little chain of islands known as Japan, which lie to the ultimate Orient, yet are easiest reached from the ultimate Occident by sailing toward the setting sun. Their population is about 50,000,000, or less than one-eighteenth of all the colored races. The great empire of China, with its 432,000,000 of people—nearly half of the non-whites and more than a quarter of the world's total population—is largely under white control, commercially at least, although no one knows how soon it will follow Japan's example and become a real world power.

From this little group of islands, with a population of less than 45,000,000, off the Western coast, the Englishman rules a good many more than a fifth of the entire human race—300,000,000 in Asia alone and 42,000,000 in Africa—more than a third of all the blacks, the browns and the yellows in existence—while in Australia and New Zealand he controls all the blacks there are, and in America all the red men who live to the north of the United States.

Uncle Sam has 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 of Old World colored population to look after in the Philippines and other islands; Germany about as many, in Africa; France controls in Africa and Asia together a good many more than 50,000,000; Russia has more than 50,000,000 under her thumb in Asia; Holland more than 30,000,000, nearly all in the great Asiatic islands of Java, Borneo and Celebes; little Portugal also governs some millions of blacks, while Belgium controls in the Congo 30,000,000 Africans.

Siam with 5,000,000, Afghanistan with 4,000,000, and some other little Asiatic countries are nominally independent, but really subject, in great matters, either to Great Britain or Russia. Persia and Turkey, the two great nominally independent anti-Christian powers, must remain under so-called Christian restraint as long as the governments of Europe continue fairly united and there is no general uprising of the colored peoples who are under th rule of the half doenz white nations among which so much of Asia and Africa has been divided.

Where the Disaffection Is.

The present era of white ascendancy in Asia and Africa began to count not much more than a century and a half ago, and about as long after all the New World, practically, had been carved up by England, Spain, France and Holland. England's conquest of India began just 150 years back. A hundred years later, in 1857, came the horrors of the mutiny, when the natives destroyed some thousands of their hated white conquerors.

This insurrection was among the Hindus, and they were so severely punished that they never have dared to try it again on a big scale. Although Great Britain almost always has a little fighting job on hand in India, her greatest campaigns in the last half century, barring those of the Boer war, have been against the Mahometans and the savages in Africa. These have all resulted in success for the British arms, so that today Egypt and the Soudan, as well as Cape Colony and British South and West Africa, besides other regions of the Dark Continent, are now properly "marked red" on the map.

But soon after Japan's victory over Russia, the Hindus began to be uneasy and the row between Lords Kitchener and Curzon, as to which should be boss, intensified the dissatisfaction. This has been growing ever since Curzon's retirement, so that now there is hardly a day that the cable doesn't bring news of some minor outbreak. So far as known the Mahometans, who number nearly 63,000,000, as against 207,000,000 Hindus, and about 30,000,000 Buddhists, Jains, Sikhs, etc., have joined in none of the recent anti-British demonstrations in India.

But in Egypt, where British supremacy has been maintained for the last thirty or forty years, mainly by the sheer force of one man's personality, the Mahometans are showing much uneasiness. This has been especially true since the retirement, last spring, of Lord Cromer, the genius who upheld Britain's prestige so long, and today the Egyptian situation is tenser than it has been since Berasford won his first laurels at the bombardment of Alexandria, and Kitchener his in the successful campaign against the Soudanese Mahdi.

Should the Mahometans of Egypt succeed in communicating their feeling of dissatisfaction to the Mahometans of India, a conflagration might arise there which would sweep the British entirely out of their Asiatic possessions.

This has been impossible in the past, largely because the Hindus, the Mahometans and the people of the thirteen or fourteen other chief racial and religious divisions in India have been played skillfully against one another. They are decidedly antagonistic, naturally, and the fact that while the Hindus are much the cleverer, the Mahometans are the better fighters, has helped keep the antagonisms alive between them. So has the circumstance that each group of people in India has its own language, and that there has been no national tongue in which the various dissatisfied groups could talk over their alleged grievances. This lack has now disappeared, however; all educated men of India today speak the language of the conquering English race; it was used last year exclusively in the discussions of the Indian National congress.

It is easy to understand why the English are doing some hard thinking about the future of India, and also why the recent agreement with Russia by which Persia is divided into "spheres of influence," while the status of Tibet and Afghanistan was permanently fixed was hailed with relief. Naturally every Englishman feels that a tremendous responsibility rests upon Earl Minto, who succeeded Curzon in India and Lord Eldon Gorst, who now has Cromer's place in Egypt.

Gorst is a man of ability, of course, or he never would have been chosen for the post, but he is still untried, in a measure, and there are many in England who have feared that he might not be equal to its requirements, especially as he is the appointee of a Liberal government. It was under Gladstone, at the head of a Liberal government, that the campaign for the rescue of Gordon in the Soudan was carried on for a time, but finally abandoned. This resulted in Gordon's death and an immense loss of prestige for the British in Africa.

There was a feeling in England, especially among the Conservatices, that John Morley, Liberal secretary for India, might display some lack of strength in handling the situation, but his firmness in dealing with the dissatisfied has won the approval of the most critical, and it is now known that he is prepared to go as far as any Conservative minister could to maintain British supremacy. So far, also, Sir Eldon Gorst has lived up to his job in Egypt.

There is no doubt that Great Britain had in mind the possibility of the Hindus being restive by the growing power of Japan when the Anglo-Japanese treaty was entered into, and no doubt the move was a shrewd and far-seeing one. The difficulty between Japan and the United States over the schools in San Francisco, and the proposed exclusion of Japanese labor, lent new complications to the situation, however, and these were by no means decreased when the workingmen of Vancouver began to object to the importation first of Hindus, and later of Japanese into British Columbia. At the same time it seems likely that the Vancouver trouble must lessen somewhat the strain between the United States and Japan.

Unrest Caused by Education.

There are plenty of well-informed students of the situation who hold that that one of the real, basic causes of the present disaffection among the colored peoples is over-education. If the Japanese had not been forced to accept Western civilization by the United States, Japan could never have thrashed Russia. If the English had not educated thousands of Hindus and so instilled into their minds a desire for "liberty," they would not be clamoring now for that elusive and sometimes disappointing boon.

Bad as conditions are in India in some respects under the British, they are better than they were under the native princes. It is not the descendants of the old-time rulers—they are satisfied with conditions as they are, for they have all the fun and all the wealth of the princely estates without the responsibility of ruling the people—it is the educated or half educated middle class Hindus, who have read of constitutional liberty and its inestimable blessings that are stirring up the mischief.

Whether the masses of the people in India would stand by the agitators in case the latter should call for an actual insurrection no one knows; if they and the native troops were to do so, the situation would be rather difficult, since there are less than 200,000 British in all India, including both the military and the civil servants.

Should there be such an inconceivable thing as revolution and the British driven out, the situation in India would be unimaginably horrible, for the people are not yet capable of self-government. The different races and sects would be a long time crystallizing into anything like organization and there would be no end of bloodshed before this could be brought about. Possibly in the end the Mahometans, despite their greater intellectual stolidity, and because of their greater capacity as fighters, would come to the front as the rulers of India.

It is not over-education that has caused the Mahometan dissatisfaction in Egypt and elsewhere in Africa. There has been practically no intellectual advance among the mass of the Prophet's followers; in fact, the proportion of intellectual Mahometans is smaller than it was 200 years ago, and very much less than in the days when the Moors ruled Spain.

Only among a few pogressive "young Turks," and perhaps in Persia, where the late shah was obliged to grant a constitution and where the present Shah's government is, apparently, in serious difficulties, has there been a real forward movement. The progressive Turks and Persians are thoroughly dissatisfied with Mahometanism and its effects, since the Koran, its holy book, is not only the religious guide, but also virtually the common law of the land, and under its sway progress to the general European level is impossible.

Their activities form a factor of the situation that may be turned to good account by the dominant nations if they are skilful enough to do it. "Young Turkey" and the progressive elements among the Persians combined form a very small minority of the Mahometan world, however, and although increasing constantly, their relative importance is decreasing year by year.

This anomaly is due to the unprecedented extension of Mohametanism in the earth's dark places which is now going on. Among the Nomads of Western Asia and throughout most of Africa, where Christianity was once practically supreme, the faith of Islam has swept everything before it. It has made great strides in Eastern Asia also, having got a big foothold in China even, and every year it spreads still further among the islands of the sea.

Japan, however, is practically free of Mahometanism as yet and, apparently, more inclined to work in harmony with the white Christian nations than with any colored nation or combination. What might be the result all through the Orient were the Japanese to become angered seriously with the whites and cast their influence against general white supremacy is something the European colonial offices will not discuss.

It is the rapid extension of Mahometanism among savages and barbarians that renders the present situation somewhat serious. For Mahometanism teaches intense hatred of all other religions; that eternal happiness may be gained by the slaying of unbelievers, and that it is the duty of all Moslems to spread the sway of the Prophet by the sword. True believers who die fighting for Islam without pay are promised the joys of paradise immediately after death, and these joys, as described by the Koran, are exactly such as would appeal most to the savage and the barbarian. They include all sensual pleasures, good things to eat and drink, and as many wives, chosen from among the houris or girls of paradise, as the martyred Mahometan may desire. And, that he may be able to enjoy them all to the top of his bent, he will have no work to do, while health and youth are guaranteed forever and ever.

The Sennussi and the Mahabees.

Were it not that the Mahometans are divided among themselves — there are as many sects in Islam as in Christianity—they would be a far greater menace to the power of the whites in Asia and Africa than they are.

Some of the Moslem sects are based entirely upon doctrinal points, and esteem it of almost as great merit to kill the execrated Christians. Others, like the great secret society of the Mahabees, who dwell somewhere in Central Arabia, and the Sennussi, who are hidden in the sands of Sahara, are not less devoted to doctrinal points, but unceasingly preach the necessity of driving out the Christians.

It is the Mahabees whom the British must guard most against in Asia, for they are striving hard to foment disaffection among the Mahometans of India. The English, the French, the Congo State authorities, the Portuguese and the Germans—all the powers with interests in the Dark Continent, indeed—must watch the Sennussi, for they are working constantly in Egypt and Algeria and Morocco; among the savages of the Soudan; in East Africa and on the West coast; in Rhodesia, and away south to the boundaries of Cape Colony.

Wherever there arenative Africans of any race, in fact, except, perhaps in Abyssinia, where, under Menelik's away, Christianity still holds its own, the Sennussi are pushing Mahometanism as they understand it and making converts every day. The French have been watching this militant body of Mahometans for fifty years and over than anybody else about them, fear them most, although the British regard them with all needful respect.

"Sennussi" is the title alike of the society and whoever is its head for the time being. It was formed eighty-two years ago for the purpose of reforming the whole body of Mahometans, who, its founder declared, were straying far from the original teachings of the chrophet. The name of the society's founder was Sid-Mohammedben-Ali-el-Sennussi, an Algerian lawyer in humble circumstances. He was born in the last years of the Turkish occupation of Algeria, and, influenced by the teachings of certain Moslem philosophers who taught Mahometanism according to what they termed "Mahomet's Own Way," he gave up his profession and went about addressing the people.

Little by little, as he developed his ideas, he gathered a personal following. Evolving a cult of his own he termed his creed "Sennussi's Own Way," and with his following established himself at La Mecque in 1835. Ben Ghazi was his next location, then the oasis of Djaghbaub, between Tripoli and Egypt. He died in 1859, but not until after he had promulgated the belief that in time a Mahdi or master was to arise who should deliver the world out of the hands of the Christians and into the hands of the Moslems.

He designated his son and successor as the one and true Mahdi, and he began the collection of arms, money and provisions for the prosecution of the Jehad or holy war, which he was bound to inaugurate. He also adjured his followers to kill all unbelievers found near the society's headquarters, and the French tell of many who have perished at the hands of the Sennusguards.

From Djaghbaub the son removed to the big and fertile oasis of Kauffra, where he established the "hidden holy city of Joffo," the route to which is known only to faithful guides, and runs through a part of the desert where the wells are sixty to seventy miles apart. Even the best informed Frenchmen declare that they know only of its location that it is about 600 miles from the Mediterranean and 500 from the Nile. Despite his title of Mahdi—perhaps because of it—the second Sennussi declined to help the Sudanese Mahdi in his wars against the British, and, they say in Algeria and Morocco, it was because the Sennussi Mahdi withheld his hand that the Sudanese Mahdi failed.

Notwithstanding the avowedly ultimate warlike purpose of the Sennussi society, it has never thrown its influence in favor of violent resistance to sian guards.

the whites, save in 1901-02, when it went to the assistance of the Kanemites in their uprising against the French, and which was put down by Capt. Joaland of the French army. The Sennussi leader died while this trouble was on, appointing his nephew as the new Mahdi.

Like his uncle and his grandfather before him, the present Sennussi Mahdi is said to maintain a regular organization, much like a temporal government of the Oriental type, with a grand vizier, many ministers of state and a court conducted according to the most elaborate ceremonials.

His policy, I was told by French officials in Paris last summer, appears to be not to naugurate the proposed Jehad until his followers are numerous enough and there is money enough in his treasury to insure success. I was also told that the members proper of the society and their followers already number 10,000,000, scattered all over Africa, and that Sennussi spies and propagandists are to be found not only in every African city from Cape Town to Cairo and from the Atlantic to the Indian ocean, but also in Turkey, Afghanistan, India, China, and even the great islands southeast of Asia.

There is a rumor that one Frenchman succeeded after many attempts in reaching Joffo and returning with his life, but it is a rumor that cannot be verified in Paris, although probably true. Whether true or not, the French officials will not say, and they discourage any detailed inquiries into the history of the Sennussi or its plans.

They say that it did not mix up in the Morocco imbroglio solely because the head of the order is not ready for the Jehad as yet. Besides, it is understood, he thinks the provocation in Morocco—the building of a short railroad line—was not sufficiently important to merit Sennussian attention.

Both in London and Paris, however, it is freely admitted that activity on the part of the mysterious society would increase vastly the present unrest. With the Sennussi quiescent, as it was in August say students of the situation, France could have crushed the uprising in a week, had it not been for fear of offending Spain and still more the German emperor. Should the Sennussi really exerts its power and cause a general uprising, German sway in the land of the Hereros, who have been in insurrection for the last four years, would suffer a speedy and final eclipse.

All the world in Europe (and Africa, too, for that matter) is eager for the Casablanca drama to come to a head in some fashion, but no one is more eager than Col. Muller, the Swiss military officer who has been chosen to run the Franco-Spanish police in Morocco after it shall be organized. His task, by the way, will be an exceedingly delicate and important one. If he be wise, tactful and firm he may do much to bring about good relations in Morocco—if he should prove otherwise he might even rouse the Sennussi in a single short week of mal-administration.

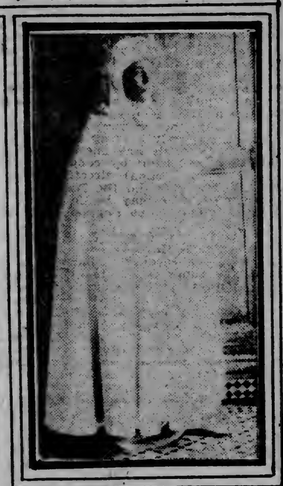
NATIVES OF CHITRAL, AN INTERESTING AND IMPORTANT CONSTITUENT ELEMENT IN INDIA

EARL MINTO, GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA

LORD KITCHENER

COL. ANMINE MULLER THE SWISS ARMY OFFICER WHO WILL HAVE CHARGE OF THE MOROCCO POLICE.

SIR ELDON GORST, WHO SUCCEEDS LORD CROMER IN EGYPT.



ABDUL AZIZ, THE REIGNING SULTAN OF MOROCCO.

HON. JOHN MORLEY, CHIEF SECRETARY FOR INDIA

TRAFFICKED IN TAX TITLES

And Made $250,000, But Lives on 15 Cents Daily.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 1.—With a fortune of upwards of $250,000, "Tax Title" Seaman of Omaha lives upon 15 cents a day and declares that the expenditure of this modest sum gives him everything needful to his comfort, and that he, having no family, is not justified in expending more. Seaman recently gave the Young Men's Christian association $100 to help it to pay off an indebtedness on its new building. This is the first gift of the sort he has been known to make.

Seaman is 60-odd years old and a bachelor. The story of how he amassed his fortune is very unique. He has got together his $250,000 trafficing in tax titles. His Christian name is Andrew, but he is known to everybody in Omaha as "Tax Title" Seaman on account of his peculiar business.

This peculiar man lives alone in a little, old, weather-beaten, dilapidated house near the village of Benson, a few miles west of Omaha, and he does his own mending, washing, ironing, sweeping and cobbling. It is five or six miles from his home to the business district of Omaha, where he transacts his unique business. Yet he does not make a practice of riding on the street cars. He commonly walks from his home to the city in the morning and from the city back to his home in the evening, and not infrequently he takes much longer walks. Every once in awhile he goes to Kansas City and Denver to buy tax titles, and it is rare that he does not make these journeys on foot. When he does so he puts up at night at farm houses along the way, generally contriving to get food and lodging without pay.

He maintains stoutly that one can live comfortably and decently on 15 cents a day. "I, myself, have demonstrated clearly and conclusively that this can be done," he said. "No man has any business to spend more than $5 a year on dress. I myself, do not spend that much, but perhaps I have a better faculty for practicing little economies than most men have."

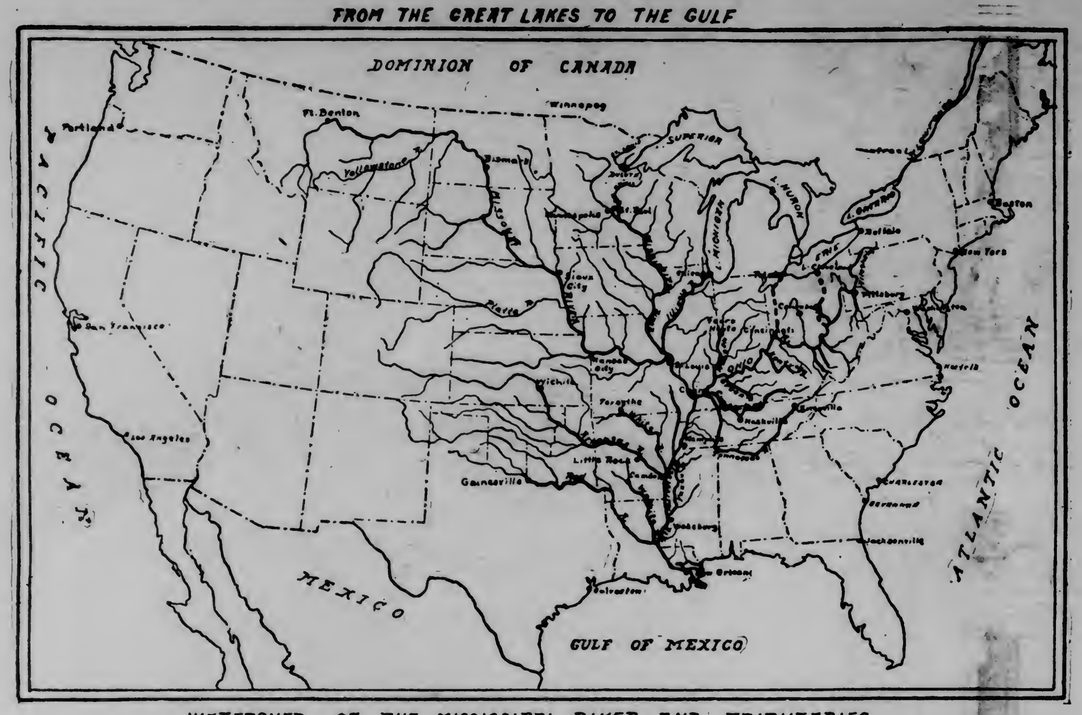
"It costs very little indeed for a man to dress well, and it costs very little for a man to live well, if he knows how and what to eat.

"I do a great deal of my own cooking. But occasionally I get tired of home cooking, as they call it, and go to the restaurants. I do not always eat the same thing or pay the same amount for my meals. But I manage to keep my living expenses down to 15 cents a day on an average. I paid only 5 cents for my breakfast this morning. I know a little place here in town where you can get a good breakfast for 5 cents. One morning I was hungrier than usual and ordered cakes, and they cost me 3 cents extra.

"When I get my meals at home it costs me considerably less than 15 cents a day to live.

"I don't eat much meat. I find that nuts are a good substitute for meat, and I eat them a good deal. Bread is my chief article of diet. Give me plenty of bread and I can get on without much else. I never drink tea or coffee. Not a drop of liquor has passed my lips in many years. I never eat soup except when I go to Denver. There I know a place where you can get a whole dinner for 10 cents with soup thrown in. I eat the soup because it is brought on, and if I did not eat it I should beat myself out of something I am entitled to and thus be practically throwing money away."

DULUTH DIRECTLY INTERESTED IN DEVELOPMENT OF INLAND WATERWAYS, SAYS C. C. COKEFAIR



WATERSHED OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER AND TRIBUTARIES

15000 MILES OF NAVIGABLE WATERWAYS THAT CAN BE IMPROVED FOR DEEP WATER TRANSPORTATION AT LESS COST THAN THE BUILDING OF A SINGLE TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY BETWEEN THE ATLANTIC AND THE PACIFIC

To the Editor of The Herald:

A glance at the accompanying map will be a surprise to many as showing the possibilities for deep waterway navigation between the Great Lakes and the gulf via the Mississippi river, and tributaries connecting the same at certain favorable and strategic points by a series of ship canals. That Duluth is directly interested in and will be greatly benefited by the accomplishment of this important work goes without saying. It is part of a general scheme to which the present administration at Washington has committed itself for the ultimate improvement of all the inland waterways of the country and no subject before the American people will receive more general consideration the coming year.

No other country on the globe has more or better natural facilities for water transportation than ours, yet no progressive government in all the world has done less to improve its rivers and harbors. Only about 3 per cent of our public revenues derived from commerce have heretofore been devoted to this work, but a great awakening has taken place the past year. President Roosevelt has taken up the cause vigorously and for the first time in the history of our country has by official action recognized its importance by appointing a specially commission to investigate and report feasible plans for the improvement and maintenance of these waterways. Congress at its last session under pressure brought to bear by the special advocates of the cause passed the largest river and harbor bill in the history of such enactments and a substantial increase over this appropriation will be vigorously demanded the coming session.

The President's Policy.

President Roosevelt in a recent speech at Vicksburg, while on his trip down the river with the inland waterways commission, accompanied by the governors of fifteen states and many other public men, anticipated his coming message to congress in so far as to say that he should recommend to that body a broad and liberal policy toward these improvements in order to relieve present congested conditions of the railways and to provide cheaper facilities for transportation. The country is growing more rapidly and its products are increasing faster than its transportation facilities. The only relief in sight is the improvement and utilization of this great system of inland waterways by the deepening of existing channels, the construction of a series of ship canals connecting these channels with the Great Lakes and by a proper control of the water supply for the purposes of navigation.

Duluth Benefitted.

Duluth is a striking example of the benefits following directly in the wake of former appropriations made by congress for similar purposes. The deepening of the channels connecting the great lakes from East to West has made it possible for the Duluth-Superior harbor this present year to become the greatest shipping port on the globe. Agriculture, mining and commerce have been stimulated throughout the entire Northwest and as a direct result of the improvement of our magnificent harbor and of the waterways connecting us with the Eastern markets, a great city is being builded here at the Head of the Lakes, where otherwise there could have been only a frontier village.

Enjoying the advantages of river and harbor improvements, which have done so much for us here in Duluth, we are in a position to more readily appreciate what the contemplated improvements of the Mississippi river and its tributaries means to the dwellers in that great valley, comprising as it does 40 per cent of the total area of the United States and producing fully 75 per cent of all our foreign exports; and also to appreciate in some measure at least the advantages that will come to Duluth through the establishment of direct water communication with the great Mississippi valley.

Every stream indicated upon the accompanying map is a branch of the Mississippi and a part of that great system is already navigable for boats of moderate draft for thousands of miles, as indicated by the heavy lines upon the map. The United States census shows that the number of craft plying these waters last year was 9,698. The number of passengers carried was 13,691,956. The quantity of freight handled, 20,849,602 tons.

Railroads Need Help.

Forty years ago the traffic on these rivers was one-third greater than at the present time, the decrease being due principally to the introduction of railways into that territory and the opposition of these railway interests to the use and development of the waterways. The past year, however, this sentiment has changed and the railway interests throughout the country are now strongly advocating the cause of the improvement of our inland waterways for navigation, realizing that the railways can no longer meet the demands made upon them as adequate means of transportation.

It was my pleasure as a member of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association, and also as a delegate from the Commercial club, to attend the sixth annual convention of that organization last week at Moline, Ill. During the two days' session and at the banquet following great enthusiasm prevailed. A resolution was wired to President Roosevelt endorsing the sentiments expressed by him in his recent addresses favoring this movement, forcible and instructive talks were given by United States senators, members of congress from various states, members of the inland waterways commission, eminent engineers and by others prominent in national affairs, pledging themselves to the support of this movement.

Among the important resolutions passed directly bearing upon the interests of Duluth was one recommending an appropriation by congress for the survey of a canal directly connecting Lake Superior and the Mississippi by such route as may be designated by the United States engineers as being most feasible.

On Dec. 4, 5 and 6, the National Rivers and Harbors congress, now regarded as second in importance only to the congress of the United States, will meet in Washington to consider and act upon all matters relating to the improvement of these inland waterways. The hope is to make that convention and upon my return to Duluth to report notable and favorable progress in the sentiment at Washington regarding these contemplated improvements. Respectfully,

C. C. COKEFAIR.

THE TEDDYSSEY. Drawings and text by Otho Cushing. New York: Life Publishing company. $1.

President Roosevelt has achieved an honor rarely accorded to heroes in their own lifetimes. He has become a classic and is to be handed down to posterity in Homeric form. Otho Cushing's clever pencil has been at work with the president as a subject and the result is a dainty little book entitled "The Teddyssey." This records the president's more salient accomplishments and experiences in chaste outline drawing in the classical style and described in captions which follow his career in something the same manner that Homer made famous the far-wandering adventures of the wily Ulysses. Mr. Cushing's illustrated epic is in print and paper wherein he has the advantage of Homer who, being blind, could not draw and who was obliged to circulate both the Iliad and Odyssey by word of mouth instead of in book form.

Mr. Cushing's little book is caricature in its very best form. While it abounds in good-natured fun it is entirely respectful to its subject. Mr. Cushing's skill as a draughtsman in almost pure line is well known in America and abroad. In the present instance his adaptation of modern conditions to strictly classic models is an unusual accomplishment.

"The Teddyssey" should find a place in the libraries of both the admirers and the critics of Mr. Roosevelt and his policies. Naturally every collector of Rooseveltiana will include it among his treasurers.

OZMA OF OZ. By L. Frank Baum. Chicago: The Reilly & Britton company. $1.25.

This is, in point of manufacture, the best and most lavishly illustrated "Oz" book. John R. Neill has surpassed any of his previous efforts in producing the illustrations for this book. "Ozma of Oz" is Mr. Baum's answer to thousands of letters from children asking for "more about Dorothy," who, along with the famous Scarecrow and Tin Woodman, evidently delighted the youngsters who read "The Wizard of Oz" and saw the show, more than any of the other amusing creations of the author. These characters have a large place in the new book, but Mr. Baum has invented several other fascinating figures that are sure to win popular approval. The most conspicuous of these is Tiktok, who thinks, speaks and acts by means of three separate mechanisms, which are liable to run down at any time, no matter what the emergency. Others are the "Wheelers," with roller-wheels in place of hands and feet; the Hungry Tiger, whose conscience will not permit him to eat fat babies, which he craves, and the Nome King with his bluff and bluster. The popularity of Mr. Baum's first "Oz" book, "The Wizard of Oz," which was followed by the most successful stage production of modern times, and of his succeeding book, entitled "The Land of Oz," has given these "Oz" tales the largest juvenile audience in the country. Already more than 40,000 copies of "Ozma of Oz" have been sold, and the second edition is now in press.

EUROPE ON $4 A DAY. How to "Go It Alone." By "A Rollingstone" (Charles Newton Hood). Medina, N. Y.: The Rolling Stone Club. 50 cents.

"He who saves along the way
May go again some other day."

This couplet with which Mr. Hood heads one of the chapters in the new and revised edition of his illuminating travel book is a condensed explanation of its popularity.

The little publication has had an odd history. It grew out of a discussion among the members of the Rolling Stone club as to whether, by careful planning, a high class and perfectly comfortable European tour of seventy-five days duration could be made at an average expense of not over $4 per day, or under $300 for the trip.

To decide the matter one of the members, Charles Newton Hood, the short story writer, and his wife made the tour. They followed a carefully planned route which was decided upon as the best first trip to Europe, and also the best if it was to be the one foreign tour of a lifetime. It included the leading cities of Italy, Switzerland, France and England.

The exact cost of the trip, New York back to New York, was well inside the limit (about $290 each) and absolutely every expense was included of transportation, board, cab fares, tips, admission fees, theaters, lunches, fruit, papers and magazines, laundry; in fact, every expense, including all of the items usually classed as "extras."

The November Magazines.

"Knee-Deep in June" is the title of the novelette which opens the November Smart Set. It is written by Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd, who can tell as bright and fascinating a story as any living writer. This novelette is by far the most delightful thing Mrs. Brainerd has yet done. The story moves with a dash and buoyancy quite irresistible. "The Wonderful Lady," by Henry Sydnor Harrison, is a short story that hinges on a most diverting situation. It is seldom that a magazine is able to secure so delightful a piece of humor. In "A Glass Mountain," Van Tassel Sutphen writes a charming love story; "The Woman Davison Met," by Edwin L. Sabin, is an amazing tale of a woman anarchist; "The Ona Jug," by Austin Adams, is a splendid Japanese love story; "King's X," by Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, is one of that favorite author's rollicking tales; "A Reconciliation," by Stephen Gwynn, is a powerful love story, so unerring in its psychology that it can be read again and again; and "The Wanderer," by Katharine Metcalf Roof, is a delicious bit of humorous dialogue.

In House and Garden for November, Day Ellen Willey gives some interesting descriptions of the unique country club house near Washington, owned by the Chevy Chase club, the main structure of which was erected in 1741 as the home of a country gentleman. Under the title, "The Confession of a Fakir," Francis S. Dixon unburdens his conscience to tell of the "shameless depths" to which the dealer in "Antiques" will sink in order to produce the "real thing" on short notice. He also touches upon the gullibility of a majority of collectors, while yet invariably considering themselves authorities. The editor, Margaret Greenleaf, takes for the subject of her talks, the "Remodeling of an Old House," and in a general way, suggests the alterations, which will convert it from a cheerless or uninviting house to an artistic, livable and home-like dwelling. The correspondence columns are full of interesting solution of varied problems. John Gilmer Speed considers in "The Stable and Kennel" the matchless qualities of the Morgan horse, while C. H. Annan writes of the great Dane, that prince of the canine family. Both these articles are illustrated.

Ainslee's for November comes out with a table of contents that will make a broader and keener appeal to its multitude of readers than ever before, if such a thing is possible. The novelette this month is by Morley Roberts, whose best known book, "The Iders," was such as to place it on a level with "The House of Mirth" and "The Fighting Chance." It is called "The Key," and is a story of intensely dramatic interest. The second instalment of Harry Leon Wilson's new novel, "Ewing's Lady," runs in this number. The progress of this story makes it clear that the author of "The Spenders," "The Seekers" and "The Little Boss of Arcady" has done himself more than justice, for it is a tale that will surely make a lasting impression on the literature of the twentieth century's first decade.

A new species of "superman," beside whose direct method of attack, the heroine of Bernard Shaw's semi-notorious play dwindles into a rather insipid person, is brilliantly portrayed in "An Impossible Girl," the novelette, in November Young's Magazine. The theme is the same reversal of man from the pursuer to the pursued, but there is a breath of freedom about the girl's plan that dwarfs Mr. Shaw's Ann into insignificance. The girl picks out the man she wants to marry with cool deliberation, then she proceeds to "bag" him with a primitive savagery. She has never met him, knows he is engaged to another woman, but trifles like these are not allowed to daunt her. However she scorns the "catty" wiles and beguilements of the average woman for her own dare-devil scheming. The novelette is one long delicious chuckle over the mad prank of the naughty but bewitching "Impossible Girl."

In The People's Magazine for November is one of the best of the notable series of studies in fiction of the hobo which Edward S. Pilsworth has been writing for that magazine for the last six months. Mr. Pilsworth's present effort is entitled "The Appeal of the Feminine," and is a strong, likable tale, in which a new light is cast on the tramp's character. There is a splendid complete novel, entitled "Bucky O'Connor," from the pen of William MacLeod Raine, in this same issue. It is a tale of the West. 192 pages in all make up the fiction in The People's for November.

The Popular Magazine for November contains admirable reading matter—a captivating novelette, a galaxy of high-class short stories and serials. "Wyoming," the novelette, is something outside and above the ordinary run of Western stories. William McLeod Raine has achieved well-deserved notoriety as a depictor of the West, and "Wyoming" is but another example of his ability. Two cousins, the counterpart of each other in external appearance, but having nothing in common as regards inclinations or motives toward the general community, and particularly toward an unusually interesting female from the East—this is the general theme that Mr. Raine has worked out into a charming and brilliant novel, complete in the November issue.

The special articles in the Broadway Magazine for November include: "The Greatest Port in the World," by Charles H. Cochrane; "A Man With a Million a Year," by Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.; "Columbia, a Metropolitan University," by Charles P. Sawyer; "Fair and Famous Jewish Women," by Frances Maule Bjorkman; "A Painter of American Life," by Florence Finch Kelly; "Dining in Bohemia," by Anne O'Hagan; "Some New Plays and Playhouses," by Harris Merton Lyon. All these articles are finely illustrated. In the fiction department there are ten stories, and every one is illustrated.

The opening chapters of Mrs. Humphry Ward's new novel, "The Testing of Diana Mallory," gives the chief note of distinction to Harper's Magazine for November. The heroine is a piquantly interesting young Englishwoman whose family affairs are involved in mystery. To the same number Madame de Bunsen contributes an instalment of her reminiscenses of diplomatic life, in which she gives many personal details of the marriage of Queen Margherita of Italy. Madame de Bunsen is a daughter-in-law of the well-known Baron de Bunsen. The artist and writer, Charles Wellington Furlong, takes his readers to "A Plantation in the African Hills," and in text and pictures shows them some of the striking peculiarities of that country. In "Socialism and Communism in Greece," Thomas D. Seymour, LL. D., professor of Greek at Yale university, paints a most interesting picture of Athenian life, and shows how many of our "new" ideas are merely a renewal of the old.

The Housekeeper for November celebrates its thirtieth anniversary by issuing a double number. In fiction there is a long Thanksgiving story by Edith Livingstone Smith and short stories by Emily Ruth Calvin, F. J. Splitstone and Mary Heaton Vorse. One of the most interesting pages is a reprint of short extracts through the thirty years, the references to antiquated styles and fads being of special interest to women. There are several excellent cookery pages devoted to the celebration of the Thanksgiving festival and the other departments of the home are amply covered.

In their November issue the editors of McClure's have more than justified the recent raise in the price of the magazine. The articles are varied and vital, and there is a new note of distinction in the fiction. George Kennan's article on criminal government should arouse the public conscience. It tells of conditions which every citizen of this democracy should know—how a gang of criminals in municipal control fostered vice as a money-making scheme, debauching the social and business life of a great city, beginning with prominent and respectable citizens, from whom bribes were exacted, and ending with the street children who dropped a penny in the slot and saw indescribable, vicious pictures licensed by the "robber government." It was editorial wisdom to follow this incredible picture of sordid selfishness with Carl Schurz's delightful memories of the great men of the heroic period of our history. His intimate stories, poetic and humorous, of Lincoln, Sherman and Grant, leave the reader with a kindlier feeling for the race. Ellen Terry's contribution to this number gives the story of her first night as Portia, when she experienced the "awe-struck feeling which comes to no actress more than once in a lifetime, the feeling of the conqueror."

Transatlantic Tales for November contains a thrilling novelette, "The Shadow of the Past," from the Russian of Mamin Sibiriak. It is a story of exiles and criminals, of love and adventure, with the setting of the Siberian hills and gold fields. "The Black Pearl," from the French of Maurice Leblanc, is another of Arsene Lupin's clever detective stories. "Back to the Spade," from the Italian of Luigi Pirandello, is a powerful picture of the peasant's profound piety, a soul-stirring study of the aspirations and sorrows of these sons of the sod. The translation is made by Frederic Taber Cooper, editor of the Forum and assistant editor of the Bookman.

If one has not time to read, the 120 illustrations in the November Popular Mechanics will tell him in the twinkling of an eye what it would require several volumes of reading matter to describe. The opening chapters of a new novel, "Though Life Us Do Part," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, is the feature of the Woman's Home Companion for November. The announcement of a new story by the author of "A Singular Life" is always agreeable, and this new novel gives promise of being one of Mrs. Ward's best. Under the title "Do You Know Your Grocer?" the editor makes some very telling comments on grocery conditions throughout the country, that every housewife will read with interest. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, one of the editors of Woman's Home Companion, contributes a charming talk on "Thanksgiving—Then and Now," and Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson completes her series of three articles on "The Woman in Business."

Two important serial features of the seventy-fifth volume of The Century begin in the November issue: Mrs. George Cornwallis-West's reminiscences of her life as Lady Randolph Churchill, and Prof. Percival Lowell's papers on "Mars As the Abode of Life." Specially timely articles in this number—though of widely diverse interest—are sympathetic reminiscences of "Grieg the Man," by a friend, William Peters; a suggestive discussion of "Automobile Problems," by Henry B. Anderson, and Ernest Thompson Seton's paper on "The Natural History of the Ten Commandments," setting forth in detail the author's reasons for believing that some, at least, of the ten commandments have a certain effect of law among animals. The full story of "Lincoln's Offer of a Command to Garibaldi," now told by H. Nelson Gay for the first time, from authentic records, is an interesting and valuable chapter of history. In this number begins, too, Sigismond de Ivanowski's series of portraits of noted opera singers—Mme. Bessler-Gianoli as "Carmen," reproduced in full color—made more interesting by an appreciation of the artist from the pen of Richard Aldrich.

The November American Magazine is rich in importance and interest. Ida M. Tarbell tells another "He Knew Lincoln' story. Lincoln Steffens begins a new serial, "The Mote and the Beam; a Fact Novel." Prof. William James, the foremost psychologist of his time, writes of "The Powers of Men." He tells of the keys which unlock hidden energies and stir men to great achievements—such as love, anger, war, duty, the temperance "pledge," despair, crowd---contagion, Christian Science, conversion, prayer, and so on. Woods Hutchinson begins his new series on giants and dwarfs. The pictures are as good as going to a circus. Ernest Poole tells stories of the million new readers of the news who come to this country from abroad each year. The fiction is notable.

The current number of Uncle Remus's Magazine has a cover design most appropriate to the season, for it represents a rabbit in furious flight as though seeking to escape from an unseen hunter. But, unlike the regulation rabbit fleeing from the November hounds, this one bears a shield of Uncle Remus's Magazine clasped close to his breast and is clothed in the garb of man. It is not difficult to imagine that he made good his escape from the unseen foe and joined, somewhere in the distance, his well-known comrades—Brer Fox and Brer B'ar! The drawing is by R. I. Dean and is full of movement, life and artistic grace. The contents of the magazine fully sustain the interest created by its outside page, and its table of contents shows such well-known literary names as Joel Chandler Harris, Don Marquis, Frank L. Stanton, Mary E. Bryan and Jacques Futrelle.

Lippincott's Magazine was read by the present generation's grandparents, and from present indications it seems likely that it will be read no less eagerly by their grandchildren. Certain it is that it seems to keep perennially young, having apparently drunk deep of the fountain of youth. The November number comes to us freighted with a wealth of stories and essays, poems and jokes, of such infinite variety that every kind seems to be represented except the poor kind. The novelette is an engrossing story called "Under the Black Cassock," by Edith Morgan Willett, a young American writer of whom great things are predicted. Though it is in no sense a detective story, a well sustained mystery pervades the plot, which, by the way, is a decidedly original one. The opening chapters are laid in New York, then the action shifts to Charleston, and the characters are of the flesh-and-blood kind, which, alas! isn't always the case with latter-day novels. Another noteworthy contribution is the first of a series of five papers on "Worry and the Allied Mental States," by George Lincoln Walton, M.D., a noted neurologist. This first paper is on "Worry and Obsession," and subsequent ones will deal with "The Doubting Folly," "Hypochondria," and "Sleeplessness," and the methods of cure thereof.

The Popular Science Mothly for November, which printed three months ago Dr. Francis Galton's Romanes lecture at Oxford university, now publishes the Robert Boyle lecture by Prof. Karl Pearson, also given at Oxford university, his subject being "The Scope and Importance to the State of the Science of National Eugenics." Next after Dr. Galton, Prof. Pearson is the leading advocate of the scientific study of the conditions leading to efficiency of the individual and of the nation. A gentic laboratory has been established at the University of London under Prof. Pearson's direction, which is active in research into sociological conditions by exact methods. In the present lecture Prof. Pearson gives an account of what has been accomplished and what he hopes will follow in the future for the improvement of the race as a result of increased research.

November Wood Craft gives considerable space to the life-work of a famous carver who has specialized in church sculpture. Some of his productions are most elaborately illustrated. Grinding planer knives in small shops is discussed and a profitable contrivance described.

Of all the ships that have sailed the seas none has been more picturesque or more associated with romance than the galleons of old Spain. The story of their early voyages, of the immense treasures they carried back from the New World, and the constant dangers they endured from predatory adventurers from all over the world, is told for the first time in the November Scribner in John C. Fitzpatrick's article on "The Spanish Galleon and Pieces-of-Eight." The illustrations by Frank Brangwyn include four superb paintings reproduced in full color. The last of Sidney Lee's articles on "The Call of the West: America and Elizabethan England" has to do with "The Path to Jamestown." It summarizes in a clear and most interesting way the whole tendency of exploration which finally led to the establishing of an English colony in Virginia. In these papers Mr. Lee has brought out, as no one has before, the essential facts and influences that led the Englishmen of that time to press into the western ocean. Madame Waddington's second paper on "Chateau and Country Life in France" deals with "Country Visits." She gives an intimate view of the social life and customs of the people of typical chateaux of the way they entertain and of their isolation from the things and people of the world at large. The article is illustrated by E. L. Blumenschein.

In the November number of Success Magazine, Frank Fayant continues his amazing disclosures of the facts in the life of Thomas W. Lawson. This article deals with Mr. Lawson's early financial battles—the Grand Rivers (Kentucky) boom, the Lawson fight and the affair with the Westingaouse Electric people. Samuel Merwin contributes the second article of his series "Drugging a Race" and treats of Great Britain's crime of fastening the opium curse upon China. In the second part of Chauncey Thomas's article, "Our Own Northwest," he shows how Puget sound is bound to be the site of one of America's greatest cities. In this number there is an amusing boy's composition on "Maggisenes" by Henry A. Shute, and a discussion of the new motor car models by Harry Palmer. The fiction department contains "The Hermit," by Joseph C. Lincoln; "The Red Motor," by Elizabeth New McKeen, and "A Dinner to Paul," by Charles Battell Loomis.

The leading article in The Engineering Magazine for November is a review of "Combination and Competition in the Iron and Steel Trade," by T. Good, in which a clear and concise comparison is made of trade and manufacturing conditions in Great Britain, the United States and Germany. As the editors point out, the study is of peculiar significance just at this time when signs of a recession of industry awaken again the questions of a possible "American invasion" of European metal markets in search of export trade. Other articles of wide public interest are Judson H. Boughton's study of unit costs in electric-lighting plants and service, gathered from a large number of stations under both private and municipal management, and A. Selwyn-Brown's summary of the output and mining conditions in all the important tin fields of the world.

Unquestionably the most attractive and unique cover design on the news stands for November is Recreation's three jolly huntsmen. Their natty red coats catch the eye at a distance, and on approaching the stand the possible purchaser finds himself pleased and wondering what the joke is. Not less remarkable is the frontispiece, a "cowgirl" riding her pony at a gallop and swinging low to pick up a handkerchief on the ground. Especially good articles of most general appeal are: "Frontier Days," by Sol Metzger, a vivid pen picture of Cheyenne's (Wyo.) last bronco-busting, steer-roping cowboy festival; "Motoring Along the Dykes of Holland," by H. Wellington Wack, and "Observations of a Professional Aeronaut," by William A. Baldwin, telling what has been done to perfect the airship, its basic idea and its operation. "How to Understand Football," by George H. Brooke, gives an elementary explanation of the gridiron game, so that it can be easily understood and followed by an inexperienced spectator.

The departure of Hiawatha is the central figure of the two-color cover of the November American Boy, forming the fourth of the series of Hiawatha pictures running in this favorite boys' monthly. In excellence of matter, both for the boys and adults, this number is surely a winner. The second chapter of the fine sea story, "Jimmy Jones—Pirate," occupies the first pages, followed by the opening chapters of "That Dillingham Boy," by Oliver Optic. "Off the Reservation" is continued three chapters, as is John T. Trowbridge's serial, "The Boy and The Beast," and "A Boy of the Revolution" is concluded.

Current Literature is an intellectual clearing house. Dr. Wheeler has a marvelous gift of treating facts with the grace of fiction and turning contemporary history into romance. "The President's Western Tour "The Mayoralty Contest in Cleveland—A Combat of Gladiators," "Why Does Our Fleet Go to the Pacific?" display the same masterly touch. Fascinating, too, are the accounts of "Taft's Reception in Japan," "The Duplicity of Japanese Statesmen," "The Liberal War on the House of the Lords," "The Pope and Modernity." A striking and unusual feature of the November issue are the sketches and portraits of "The Nine Arbiters of American Destiny," the justices of the supreme court, in whose hands the final fate of the "Roosevelt Doctrine" of federal concentration of power rests.' "The Objectionable and Unobjectionable in Literature," "The Secret of Rodin's Power," "Meredith's Treatment of Marriages in His Novels," Remington's painting and "The Glorified Snobbishness of Henry James" are the leading literary topics.

The Keramic Studio Magazine, for November, just received, is replete with designs and instructions for the china painter and water colorist. Miss Jeannie M. Stewart has contributed quite lavishly to make this number interesting; her study of grapes in color is very rich as are also her designs in black and white, and this appeals very strongly to the lovers of the art. Her marine study for a pitcher is especially worthy of mention.

Up-to-dateness is a notable feature of The World Today. The November issue of this 15-cent magazine is a good exponent of its name. And the beautiful illustrations emphasize this characteristic. "With Roosevelt on the Mississippi" is the title of the opening article, by Wilson H. Cotton, and the editorial is on a companion topic: "Give Us Back Our Rivers!" Both are concerned with the subject now so prominently before the country—the deepening of the waterways. "The Rediscovery of the Missouri," is described by Walter Williams, who shows how indispensable to the commercial welfare of the country is the use of the great rivers for freight transportation. "How San Francisco Spent the Relief Fund," is told by Winnifred Mears, and as the refugees are being now required to leave the parks and find permanent homes, this is a timely topic. Morocco has been before the eyes of the world so prominently lately that readers will find interest in the article, "Amusing the Moorish Sultan," by John H. Avery, who spent two years in constant association with Sultan Abel-el-Aziz.

The semi-centennial Atlantic is a special issue containing a remarkable number of important articles, written in most cases by writers of world fame. The number leads off with some hitherto unpublished verses by James Russell Lowell, composed in 1857 and supposed, playfully, to be "wrote by Sir Henry Knatchbull, Bart., 1760." As a literary curiosity these lines are highly interesting. "The Launching of the Magazine," by Charles Eliot Norton, is a short essay on the initial steps and final assured success of the new enterprise. The well known teller of boys' stories, John Townsend Trowbridge, writes a charming paper, "An Early Contributor's Recollections." This is followed by "Recollections of an Atlantic Editorship," by William Dean Howells, the third editor of the magazine. Four important articles review the history and progress of the fifty years 1857-1907, in Literature, Science, Art and Politics. The first is brilliantly treated by Thomas Wentworth Higginson, the second by Henry S. Pritchett. "Art" is written by Hamilton Wright Mable, and "Politics" by Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton, altogether an unusually telling and eminently fitting series.

The current issue of Harper's Weekly, dated Nov. 2, is a special automobile number. Its size has been increased to fifty-six pages, and, in addition to the usual contents of general interest, there are numerous features of particular appeal to those who are interested in motors and motoring. Marius C. Kraup contributes an article of striking character, discussing "The Domestication of the Automobile" with reference to the facts of a remarkable architectural movement of vital importance to owners of motor-cars. Other articles deal with such practical and interesting topics as "The Development of the Commercial Power-wagon," "The Rubber-knobbed Tire," "The Preparation of Roads to Minimize Dust," "Luxury in Motor-boating," "The Steam-car of Today," etc. James Montgomery Flagg contributes an attractive double-page drawing upon an automobile subject, and there is an extremely amusing automobile story by Howard Green, entitled "Speed—and A Reverse," in which it is set forth how a persecuting rural constable with a grudge was neatly and legitimately foiled.

Thanks to the capable officials now in charge, the work of constructing the Panama canal is being pushed forward energetically and efficiently, and conditions on the isthmus are steadily improving. This greatest of modern engineering feats possesses many interesting features, some of which are presented in a double-page of photographs in the current issue of Leslie's Weekly. These show scenes observed recently by Miss Gertrude Beeks, of the welfare department of the National civic federation, who made an inspection tour in the canal zone, by order of Secretary Taft. This is an automobile number, and it contains a variety of matter according with its title, including a neat cover drawing in colors by Victor Perard; an article by Mrs. C. R. Miller, on automobiling in Hawaii; a contribution by William P. S. Earle, on the grueling chauffeur; and notes and comments on "The Men in the Auto." Among the illustrations are a photograph of England's famous megalithic structure Stonehenge; views of the disastrous effects of the powder-mill explosion at Fontanet, Ind.; snap-shots of football games; a picture of the Pilgrim's dinner in New York, at which the bishop of London was a guest of honor; the photo contests, and the usual theatrical page.

AT THE LYCEUM

Mack-Leone Players in "When We Were Twenty-One," Marie Cahill and the Edition De Luxe of "The Prince of Pilsen."

The Lyceum will be open every evening next week.

Sunday afternoon and evening the Mack-Leone players will present the comedy, "When We Were Twenty-One," in which Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliott made such a success.

Monday, "The Prince of Pilsen," will hold the boards, and Tuesday, Marie Cahill's big company will be in Duluth.

The Mack-Leone players will return Wednesday, playing Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

The Mack-Leone company will not remain in Duluth much longer. Two more bills are in preparation, "Mavourneen," and "The Liars." They will be presented later in November, and the company will then begin a tour of the West, as the regular Lyceum bookings will crowd them out of the theater here for several weeks.

"THE PRINCE OF PILSEN."

Favorite Musical Comedy Will Return With Big Company.

Music lovers will welcome the popular musical comedy "The Prince of Pilsen" when it opens at the Lyceum on Monday evening.

This charming musical entertainment is beginning its sixth season and will be heard in only a limited number of Western cities this year, and most of these confined to the Pacific coast. Its grasp on the affections of amusement lovers is unprecedented in the history of comic opera or musical comedy in America. Although this is not the first time the merry music of "Pilsen" has been heard here, and there are few music lovers who are not familiar with the many charming melodies that literally dot its remarkable score, "The Prince of Pilsen" ever remains a favorite. The fame of its melodies are now world wide. The music publishers report over a million copies have been sold of the favorite songs, including "The Song of the Sea Shell," "Heidelberg," "Keep It Dark," "The Song of the Cities," and "The Message of the Violets."

After the first two years of uninterrupted success in this country, nearly a year of which was taken up with the remarkable run at the Broadway theater, New York, Henry W. Savage sent the popular work to London for a run at the Shaftsbury theater. Since then it has continued to be as great a favorite with the English public as it is on this side of the ocean. It has had two seasons in South Africa and preparations are now being made for its first presentation in Germany, France and Australia.

Mr. Savage has only one company playing this opera and its members have been chosen with the single idea of providing the best performances possible. Dan Mason, a comedian of distinctly individual methods, will be seen as Hans Wagner, the German brewer. Reba Dale, one of Mr. Savage's recent finds in Europe, is the wiley and roguish widow, to whom the jolly brewer finally capitulates. The Edith, a sweet role calling for a fine colorature voice, is played by Octavia Broske, an accomplished singer picked from Mr. Savage's force. The public will find in Edward Mora, the new Prince of Pilsen, an excellent singer and actor of force. Edward Foley is the new naval lieutenant. Hayden Clifford will sing the part of Lord Shrimpton this season and George F. Moore will be seen as the nimble French waiter Francois. Lillian Lawson, Frenchily chic and a dainty dancer, is to be the new Sidonie, the pert little French lady's maid. Together they do a whirlwind dance. Dainty Vera Stanley, Elinor Delmore, Peggy Ballou, Helen Rockefeller, Estelle LeBurt, Ethel Gordon and others make up an attractive array of principals.

"MARRYING MARY."

Marie Cahill Has an Excellent Field for Comedy.

"Marrying Mary," with Marie Cahill as the star, will be seen here at the Lyceum on Tuesday, Nov. 5, for one night only, under the management of Daniel V. Arthur.

The book of the new musical play is by Edwin Milton Royle, and is said to be more plotty than is usual with such offerings. The music is by Silvio Hein, who composed "Molly Moonshine," which was such a pronounced success last year for Miss Cahill, and the lyrics are by Benjamin Hapgood Burt, author of Miss Cahill's song hit last season, "Robinson Crusoe's Isle," and a song writer of considerable ability.

The piece made a hit at Daly's theater, New York, where it ran for two months. Marie Cahill is said to have a part more suited to her abilities as a comedienne than anything she has yet been seen in. Eugene Cowles, the entire original cast, and the famous "long-skirted" chorus will all be here.

"Marrying Mary" is a satire on divorce and the story takes place at a hotel in Florida and is in three acts. It is built around the character of Mary Montgomery, played by Miss Cahill, who has been married and divorced three times. No. 1 is Senator Bunchgrass, old enough to be her father, forced on her by her family, and whom she deserted and from whom she procured a divorce in South Dakota. No. 2 was an eloquent evangelist, under whose influence she fell and secretly married, only to find out immediately that he was a Mormon bishop. She left him at the station. No. 3 was a cousin. She and he were left a fortune by a rich uncle on condition that they marry, so they agreed to marry and be divorced, he furnishing all the necessary grounds for divorce. The agreement was executed.

It was while Mary was waiting at a hotel in Florida with heavy bills staring her in the face, pending the settlement of her uncle's estate, that she met and fell in love with Ormsby Culpepper, and he with her. He was a young congressman with a hobby, which was a federal bill to abolish divorce. He was a crank on the diject. None at the hotel knew of her past and she preferred to leave Ormby rather than to tell him the truth. Ormby's father was a three times divorcee himself. He early oppose Ormsby's marriage to Mary and did it so vgorously that he fell in love with her himself.

To complicate matters, the Morman bishop comes on the scene. Then Cousin Willie enters in connection with the settlement of their uncle's estate, and lastly comes Senator Bunchgrass, who has been in the vicinity tarpon fishing.

Her awfully divorceful past being about to be revealed to her lover, Mary in sheer desperation, attempt to escape all her predicaments by leaving the hotel. She escaped secretly, but the train is wrecked and she is forced to remain to face the boiling pot of her troubles. The day following the wreck finds Mary fighting proposals of marriage from Ormsby, his father, Col. Culpepper, and her pastor, Rev. Throckmorton, on the one hand, and a constant fear of revelation of her many divorces on the other.

"Marrying Mary" is, however, finally released from her many troubles and finds herself happily married to Ormsby, with a prospect of no further divorces.

Lyceum Notes.

Adelaide Thurston will play her usual Thanksgiving day engagement in Duluth this year.

Mildred Holland will appear at the Lyceum Nov. 12 and 13 in her successful drama, "A Paradise of Lies" by Mathew Barry.

Allen Doone, the handsome young Irish comedian, who is starring this season in "A Romance in Ireland," will be at the Lyceum this month.

In "Woodland," which Henry W. Savage will bring to the Lyceum Nov. 15 and 16, the authors, Pixley and Luders, have chosen a theme which affords a splendid chance for poetic and picturesque treatment, and that the piece has been one of the most pronounced of hits is not surprising. They have gone to the forest for their characters and made them all birds, evolving a dainty story dealing with the adventures of the feathered tribe.

Louis James will be at the Lyceum this month in Shakespearian roles.

"The Three of Us," with the hearty endorsements of two such far-distant points as New York and San Francisco to recommend it, will be seen in this city on Dec. 6 and 7 at the Lyceum theater.

AT THE METROPOLITAN

The Yankee Doodle Girls With Two New Burlesques and Good Vaudeville Acts Will Return to Duluth for a Week's Engagement.

The Yankee Doodle Girls, with half a hundred merry-makers, will be at the Metropolitan all next week, with what the press agent says is the best entertainment they have ever had.

James F. Leonard, long associated with Barney Gilmore in such pieces of "Hogan's Alley," and Jules have the leading comedy roles and their support is said to have been secured from the best burlesque and vaudeville talent available in New York before the season opened.

"Sullivan on Parade" and "A Strike on the Metropolitan Street Railway," are the titles of the two burlesques. Both of them were written especially for the Yankee Doodle Girls, by a member of the New York Telegraph staff.

The musical interpolations have been chosen with care and they offer ample opportunities for the large singing and dancing chorus. The members of the chorus have no less than ten changes of costumes during the performance.

Contributions to the vaudeville part of the performance are made by Rose and Ellis, known as "the jumping jacks;" James F. Leonard and Clara Whitney in a new sketch, Martini and Maximillan, the world's worst wizards; Edna Davenport, the comedienne; Sadie Huested, the California baritone; Jules Herron, Jack Mathews and Etta Victoria, "the bashful Venus."

THE FOUR ONETTI SISTERS.
European Gymnasts at the Bijou Next Week.

AT THE BIJOU

Many of the European Novelties Brought Over By Klaw & Erlanger Will be Featured in Duluth Vaudeville Programs.

The vaudeville attractions at the Bijou for the coming week will include a number of both American and European acts, as the United Theaters company, which controls the booking of the Bijou, has taken most of the big European novelties brought to this country my Klaw & Erlanger. The best American acts obtainable are also handled on this circuit.

Heading next week's bill will be "The Four Onetti Sisters," who come direct from Europe, and are now making their first American tour. Their act is said to be the most sensational and daring flying trapeze act ever seen in Duluth. They present a fine stage setting, and make a good appearance on the stage. These clever artists will appear with their full act at each performance during the week.

Among the many other pleasing attractions will be Hammond and Forrester, who introduce a melange of comedy and singing. They are artists of ability in their respective roles.

A musical act of much merit will be Rinaldo, who is known as "the wandering violinist." His selections are said to be beautiful both in harmony and execution. He also brings forth rounds of applause with his comedy limitations upon the violin.

An exceptionally clever act will be offered by Belle Bellmont, who is a singing comedienne of considerabe note. She has some original stories and songs and delivers them in a style all her own.

One of the best sketches seen at the Bijou in some time will be that of Louis Chevalier and company, who present their laughable comedy skit entitled "A Luck Liar," which has been one of the big successes in Eastern vaudeville this season. The play is full of action and offers an abundance of good comedy and dramatic situations.

John McDowell comes from Chicago to sing the illustrated songs. His opening song will be "The Land of the Buffalo," a ballad of the West, which is illustrated with colored views.

The moving pictures for the week will be scenes and types in old Ireland, and the big comedy film entitled "The Interrupted Card Party." Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone.

A special school children's matinee will be given on Saturday afternoon and regular performances on Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"Artie," the Newest of the George Ade Comedies--- "Pocahontas" in Burlesque---New York Premiere of "The Merry Widow."

New York, Nov. 2.—The newest of the George Ade comedies came into the Garrick Monday night. It is called "Artie," and is played by Charles Dillingham's comedians, prominent among whom are Lawrence Wheat, in the name part; Hale Norcross, Joseph Brennan, Joseph Sparks, Louis R. Grisel, William Harrigan, Thomas H. Wilson, Franklyn Hurleigh, W. Nagle Barry, Frederick Wallace, D. H. Coree, Herbert Cole, James Stewart, Walter Ford, George A. Cameron, Albert Johnson, Jesse Keppler, Serrano Vincenzo, Vira Stowe, Rose Beaudet, Claire Kuln, Virginia Milton, Grace Fisher, Lily Griffith Barbour, Dorothy Douglas and Gwendolyn Valentine. "Artie" is the story of everyday life in a large city, and is best explained in the words of Mr. Ade himself:

"From 1893 to 1900 I was in charge of a department on the Chicago Record known as 'Stories of the Streets and of the Town.' One day in 1895 I wrote a story about a young man employed in a downtown office who had been inveigled into buying a ticket for a charity entertainment at a church, and who described the show to his associates in the office, using a rather barbarous line of vernacular.

"The story seemed to arouse favorable comment, and a week later I had Artie describe a poker game in which he had been involved to the amount of 80 cents. After that the Artie stories came along one a week, and after about twenty-five of them had been printed, a Chicago publisher put the sketches into a little book. This was my first volume, and it met with a fair degree of success.

"A year or two later a number of prominent theatrical people suggested that I put Artie into a play. But I was not disposed to put Artie into a play, because I had no story concerning him. The book was merely a collection of sketches, each complete in itself, though with a little love story linked from one to another.

"A couple of years ago I struck upon the idea of having a young man who is sitting on the front stoop of a cottage waiting to take his girl to a ball game observe a gang of surveyors running a line along the street, having the young man follow their line of stakes, 'get wise' to the fact that the 'L' road was going to make an extension, and, thereupon, buy up all the real estate in the neighborhood, largely on his nerve. I took a second look at the young man on the stoop and recognized him as my old friend Artie. From that incident I evolved whatever story there may be in the play."

On Monday "Miss Pocahontas," described as an American musical travesty, succeeded Madame Bertha Kalich in "Sappho and Phaon at the Lyric. The managerial description of "Miss Pocahontas" runs in this wise: "A bit of foolery, music and movement, which makes no dramatic pretensions, has very little reason, and not much rayme, and whose only mission, is to add 'just a little bit more' to the gayety of nations. A certain event in American history is supposed to be mixed up somewhere in the 'plot.'"

The travesty is founded upon the John Smith and Pocahontas episode and partakes of the same nature in burlesque as did the earlier success of "1492," which was from the pen of the same author, R. A. Barnet. Like his former successes, it was originally written for the Boston Cadets and produced by them some two years ago. It was given a professional production late last spring, and has been playing this season for a number of weeks on the road. It comes to Broadway from Peoria, a village which was made famous some years ago by the story of a "troupe" that did not come from Peoria to enter upon a New York engagement. The reception accorded the play in the agricultural districts was such as to justify its promoters in seeking an opening on the "big street" and the engagement at the Lyric was made possible. The promoters of the play are anxious to know just what value their property possesses, and they have come to the only market in which that knowledge can definitely be gained.

The Indian atmosphere is quite new in musical comedy and the characters of the play, until the last scene, are all surrounded by the mystic atmosphere of the early Jamestown period, being transported in the last scene to modern environments and conditions.

Prominent in the East are Walter Jones, in the role of Capt. John Smith, Blanche Deyo as Jane Rolfe, Harold Crane, Neil McNeil, Anna McNabb, Marie Dupuis, John Peachey, George Fox, and a chorus. The music was written by Dan J. Sullivan.

Well, it happened just as everybody said it would. That is to say, about "The Merry Widow." She has cast the spell of her coquetry over the town, and most of us have fallen victims to her wiles. She is a pleasant creature whose acquaintance will extend rapidly over the United States, and everybody will be whistling that enchanting waltz, as people used to whistle the waltz from "Nanon," and the serenade from "Don Caesar," about the time that the McCall Opera company was in the fullness of its glory. There is apparently to be a repetition of the record established by Franz Lehar's comic opera in Vienna (its birthplace) and Hamburg and London, and incidentally a sharp rap on the knuckles for those who hailed the musical cocktail as the apotheosis of musical distillation and patronizingly spoke of comic opera of the "Fatiniza" type as an obsolete form of amusement. "The Merry Widow" is a genuine comic opera of the standard school, full of music that you can sing or whistle, and yet not offend a sensitive ear. Its New York premiere took place at the New Amsterdam with Ethel Jackson (who in private life is Mrs. Fred Zimmerman, Jr.) as Sonia, the merry widow, and Donald Brian, a young Irishman, as the prince. Robert E. Graham, the perennial, who was popular a generation ago, and came into his second youth in "Florodora" several years back, as Popoff, the Marsovian Ambassador. W. C. Weedon is De Jolidon, and Miss Lois Elwell sings Natalie.

avenged, but not appeased. Thalassa comes—his wife—with the babe in her arms dead. The scene is impressively dramatic in its tragic pathos, as they bend in touching grief together over their dead, with Sappho looking on in consuming agony of spirit. And so they gather their dead in their arms and wander hence to find a resting place for their little bodies, leaving Sappho to her remorse, solitary and alone. She makes one touching appeal to the speechless priest—she, the proud Sappho, who a few hours before boldly defied his power in the consciousness of her greater and freer philosophy, crouching in cowering terror at his feet, and then, denied all consolation and comfort, hurls herself into the sea from the rocky promontory.

All this has a gloomy aspect, as one tells the story in cold type, but the dramatist has thrown the veil of poetry over the events. It is this skill that lends it harmony and grace, and the saving element of perspective and that historic remoteness aloof from harrowing realism. He never gets out of the poetic key, and the language has the refinement of a fluent literary style that precludes every jarring sound. If the work had a deeper symbolism it could be called a great tragedy. As it stands, it has all the sensuous delicacy of a romantic drama whose events are bathed in a suffosion of poetic elegance and in which the tragic rings with mournful fidelity to inspire sympathy.

The play is in three acts, constructed with strict regard for the unities, the action covering a period of twelve hours, from afternoon to dawn of the following day, while the scene undergoes no change from the alluring view of the Aegean sea beyond the projecting shoulder of the steep rock on which stands at one side the colonnade in front of a temple and the altars to Aphrodite and Poseidon. The staging is superb, and while the cast is confined to nine acting characters, the animation and color of the whole scene are promoted by an ample complement of singing sculptes, girl disciples and sea slaves. The music, composed by Prof. A. A. Stanley, is admirably in keeping with the spirit of the drama.

Madame Kalich was obviously nervous on the opening night and did not at all times rise to the full height of the tragic pathos as she did later in the week, but in individual scenes her work was intensely impressive. Some of her attitudes and poses in the first act were classic, and in one scene where she sits looking over the sea in bold relief against the horizon the picture was strong, her intonation was powerfully moving and the lines were spoken with a significance and an appreciation of the rhythmical value of blank verse that gave her work the true dignity of tragedy. Such efforts, old as they are historically, are new to many present-day playgoers, and to be transplanted from the atmosphere of harsh materialism into the region of poetic fancy as expressed in a drama of classic form, subjects the actor, author and producer to a severe test. The fact remains that "Sappho and Phaon" is a work that is entitled to serious consideration. The part of Phaon was in the competent hands of Henry Kolker, Thalassa being admirably played by Adele Block.

Elsie Janis had a brilliant opening night at the Knickerbocker in her new comedy, "The Hoyden." There were flowers upon flowers handed to her over the footlights, and the little favorite appeared as joyous as a spoiled child under the attention lavished upon her.

"The Hoyden" succeeded "The Evangelist," which was brought to a close after two weeks, minus one night, in order to give Elsie the right of way and a full hendon opening on a Saturday night. But the piece is unsubstantial and with little more consistency than is usual in these highly specialized vehicles for young dancing and singing stars. The best feature of the performance consisted in her interesting imitations of popular actors without regard to sex. Her imitation of Eddie Foy was a ten-strike, and she has added to her repertoire two successful efforts in mimicking Sam Bernard and Ethel Barrymore.

"The Evangelist" must have been a very bad play, according to the new side light that has just been thrown upon it. As is usually the case with these new productions, when they are taken off the stage they do not go into total eclipse, but drift around to the stock houses, and often turn out successes there for several seasons. A big Eastern company undertook to put on "The Evangelist," but after several trials at rehearsal they reluctantly decided to put it away in camphor.

The absence of Trixie Friganza from the cast of "The Orchid" seems to have played hob with the Chicago run of that piece. Word from there is to the effect that the original time of eight weeks for the Chicago run has been cut down to three. Trixie has severed her connection with the piece entirely. Her retirement was due to personal differences with Eddie Foy the star of the piece. Since last March, when the two set out in the piece, they have not been upon friendly terms. Neither will discuss the real reason, but it is pretty generally understood that Foy did not relish the attention devoted to Miss Friganza for her work in the musical comedy, and she was on the point of resigning time and time again. Following an automobile accident in the Windy City that nearly cost her life, the prima donna of the troupe finally decided to end her contract. Do not be surprised if you see her in vaudeville just as soon as she is well enough to undertake the work, for recently Miss Friganza turned down an offer of $1,000 a week to go into the row and rumpus in the vaudeville circles. This salary was not in stage money, but cash down, regular stock quotation figures.

A decision favorable to the Shuberts to the tune of $25,000 was rendered last weeks in New York in their suit against Henry B. Sire. The trouble grew out of the leasing of the Casino theater to the Shuberts in 1903. Sire clamed that he had a verbal lease upon the property, and for this the Shuberts, through J. W. Jacobs, paid him $20,000. Later it developed that Sire's lease was not good. When they sued to recover the amount paid Sire the court upheld them. The appeal in the case has been taken under advisement.

The vaudeville situaton in Chicago since Klaw & Erlanger opened up the Auditorium is causing the keenest of interest to center in that fight. The Kohl and Castle people, with their three established houses, have not been asleep and as the Auditorium s being packed by capacity audiences at two performances a day, this means what nearly 150,000 residents of the Windy City are patronizing advanced vaudeville without any mention being made of the crowds that are filling the older houses. Of course, this tension is beyond all averages and cannot be maintained. Meanwhile, it is hurting business a great deal in the other theaters, and especially the first class houses devoted to the musical comedies and the better known of the popular priced houses of the Windy City that are playing to the same patronage. A sample of this is said to be shown in the falling off of attendance at several of the big attractions that are having runs there.

Two big productions of this season that are carded for early closings are Dave Lewis's tour in 'About Town," the piece used by Lew Fields last season, and "The Girl Rangers," the big Western musical comedy that George Lederer and Lincoln J. Carter produced one time back in Chicago and which has never met with any sort of success commensurate with the enormous cost of the production.

Mrs. Leslie Carter has added "La Tosca" to her repertoire and will give the Sardou play a place of prominence in her bills the coming season. She will tour the West and South and will delay her reappearance in New York until John Luther Long shall have finished the new play he has been writing for her.

Charles Klein has decided to emulate the example of Willie Collier and go away from here, but before going he has had something to say. It all happened over this author's latest play, "The Step-Sister." Much was expected of it and Charles Dillingham certainly did get together a wonderful company, but what the New York critics left of the play was insufficient to make a respectable corpse of the wake. Now Klein says that there is a clique on to do him up, and so he has decided to sail away to England to take a good, long vacation before he attempts to write any more plays.

Wright Lorimer, who started out in Boston with a great flare for his new play, "The Quicksands," has found it quite stale and unprofitable on the tour betweeen there and New York, and last week he put the piece away and is resting temporarily. "The Quicksands" is spoken of as one of those weird, grewsome plays that sometimes make a hit, but more often miss fire, and then they fall utterly.

WINNERS OF COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION FOR PLACES IN MARIE CAHILL'S "LONG-SKIRTED" CHORUS.

CLAUDIA ROGERS - EVELYN RADCLIFFE - HELEN CHASE. — EDITH LANGDON. —

Mario Cahill has made a decision in the contest she held among 300 young women in competition for places in her "long-skirted" chorus for "Marrying Mary," which will be the attraction at the Lyceum, Tuesday night only, Nov. 5.

The winners are Claudia Rogers, Evelyn Radcliffe, Edith Langdon and Helen Chase. The prize to each of these young women is a salary of $33 per week.

These young women won their places against a perfect mob of women who gathered at the office of Daniel V. Arthur in the New York Theater building, in response to an advertisement which appeared in the New York papers. A preliminary examination conducted by Musical Director Silvio Hein, resulted in sixteen of the candidates being chosen for special examination by Miss Cahill, and the above final choice resulted.

Evelyn Radcliffe is an English girl, quite young and of pretty ways. She has a splendid head of auburn hair, and dances excellently. She is only just out of school and evidently won Miss Cahill's approval by her girlishness. Claudia Rogers is a graduate of the musical comedy stock companies, which were the vogue in San Francisco before the earthquake. She has sung nearly all of the principal light operatic roles and is a finely educated musician. Helen Chase has had a similar experience to that of Miss Rogers, as she has been for a season with the Chicago Opera House company. This is Miss Langdon's first year on the stage. All of the new girls have one characteristic, that of looking "stagy." They are sweet and girlish and quite up to the standard which Miss Cahill has always insisted on for her "long-skirted" chorus.

SOCIALISM AND ANARCHISM

Many persons are accustomed to confound Socialism as being identical with anarchism. Even those who should know better (newspaper men, I have reference to), very frequently confuse the two. In order, therefore, to present the the matter intelligently, it becomes essential to give some definitions.

Anarchism, as defined by Webster, would mean chaos, confusion, disorder. This definition is repudiated by those who call themselves anarchists. There are two schools of anarchists. The difference between them is fundamental, and not taetical. There is the individualist school, the originators of which were Pierre J. Preudhen, a Frenchman, and Josiah Warren, an merican, who was a direct descendant of the Gen. Warren who fell at the battle of Bunker Hill. One of its most earnest advocates at the present day is Benjamin R. Tucker, also an American, until recently the publisher of a newspaper called Liberty. Charles A. Dana, the elder, was an adherent of this faith in his younger days and was also the translator of some of Preudhen's writings. So also was Charles O'Conner, the most brilliant criminal lawyer of his day. Max Stirner, whose writings are only now becoming recognized for their worth, (fifty years after publication), a logician of the first order, was also an individualist anarchist. So also was Henrick Ibsen and Walt Whitman. Surely these men were not "fiends." The writer does not accept their creed, but sincerely believes in honest criticism. This individualist school defines their anarchism as "the doctrine that all the affairs of men should be managed by individuals or voluntary associations, and that the state should be abolished."

Preudhen was the first man who used the term "anarchy" in a manner contrary to its, until then, generally accepted meaning. "I am an an-archist," say he, "not against order but against law by the state." They uphold the right of private property as also the "right of contract." They believe absolutely in voluntarism. "No compulsory taxation in any manner, shape or form." "Mind your own business" is its only moral law. Interference with another's business is a crime and the only crime. To them "legal marriage and legal divorce are equal absurdities." Their whole basis and theory rests upon "possession and use;" so long as "I possess and use, it is mine against the world." That is the sum and substance of the creed known as the individual anarchist school. It is the "laissez faire" of Manchesterism with "Jeffersonian" trimmings. The money monopoly is the basis of all other monopoly, say they, contrary to the single taxers, who look upon the "land monopoly" as the basic cause of all the other evils now extant.

The other school is known as the communist anarchists. The father of this school was Michel Bakeunine, a Russian of noble birth. It numbers among its adherents Prince Krepotkin, Ernesto Malatesto, Elisee Reclus, the great scientist, Ernest Crosby, Johann Most, Count Tolstoi, Emma Goldman, as well as many great thinkers and writers. This school holds that "the commune shall become the repository of all wealth produced within any given locality," "from each according to his ability, to each according to his needs." They, as also the individualists, are opposed to political expression at the ballot box, and look upon the "general strike" as an important means with which to defeat capitalism.

Socialism, contrary to anarchism, holds that society is an organism, that all men are interdependent and interrelated; that economic competition breeds corruption, vice and criminality; that centralization and organization are essential to economic progress; that trustifaction in the industrial fields is an important step in the line of economic evolution; that in the organization of society, the material interests of individuals ever manifest that the involuntary consciousness of men impel them to co-operate and group with those whose material interests are parallel; that all struggles in society are "class struggles;" that government is only what society makes it; that it is not the "law" but the custom that breeds the law that is to be fought; that political action is an educated and enlightened means of enabling man to express his discontent against prevailing conditions, and that the ballot box can prove an easy method of enabling society to change the system and form of government; that men are not angels and consequently must agree upon some form of action to regulate their economic relationship; that the rule of the majority is a very safe rule to follow, particularly under conditions that will enable all men to develop themseves physically, mentally and morally; that the best safeguard to human equality is for society to be vested with the trusteeship of the economic resources of the nation; that systematized fraternal effort will make it possible for all the children of the nation to be afforded opportunity to become good and noble men and women.

The "coming race," as depicted by Bulwer Lytton, is not an impossibility. Socialists are not dreamers, but aim to be practical. What can be accomplished today need not be put off for the morrow. We are on the dawn of a new era, and it spells the same in every land that claims to be civilized—Socialism, the universal brotherhood of man.

BEGAN SMALL.

Now Ringling Brothers Are Able to Buy Out Barnum & Bailey.

The transfer of the Barnum & Bailey show to the five Ringling brothers places them at the head of the circus business in America, and leaves them practically without a real rival in the world, they now having under control the original Ringling Bros.' circus, the Forepaugh-Sells show and the "Barnum & Bailey greatest show on earth."

More than thirty years ago the five Ringling brothers developed an ambition to run a circus. They had neither money or years that would warrant their undertaking, but their ambition was not to be denied. They first built a tent of old quilts, sheets and boards. They gave an acrobatic performance, consisting of handsprings and flip-flaps. The admission fee was ten pins, with reserved seats twenty pins. Later a goat was purchased and used to draw the band wagon, the band consisting of a piper and drummer. Soon the brothers charged five cents admission to their show, which was constantly adding to its attractions, and from this small beginning has grown the Ringling Bros.' circus trust of the present day. The five brothers started out with the determination to pull together and own a big circus and the result has been prosperity for the Ringlings and the "greatest shows on earth" giving pleasure to thousands all over the land.

SPORTS of the WEEK

Anent Hard Losers.

"It's easy enough to be pleasant,
When life flows along like a song,
But the man who's worth while,
Is the one who will smile,
When everything goes dead wrong."

It's an old sentiment, but it has done duty in cheering many a downcast wretch. The sting of defeat is blunted by the spirit of the good loser. The man, who can shake his conqueror by the hand and say, "Well done," as though he meant it, gains more respect and love from his fellow man than if he was victorious in a thousand battles. He shows that he's a man with a heart, a man who knows that he has limitations and can rise above the commonplace attitude of his fellow man to appreciate worth in another.

Above all things, high school students should be taught that being a good loser is next only to winning.

Honorable Defeat Was Never a Disgrace.

Get them out to win, if they can by honorable methods, but failing in that, teach them to accept defeat in a kindly spirit. Raving, stoning and many maledictions never changed the result of any athletic contest after it was over. On the other hand, they only add to the ignominy of defeat. Honorable defeat was never a disgrace. But an outburst of passion prompted by chagrin over being beaten is a disgraceful show of feeling.

The miniature riot between halves at the Superior-Duluth football game last Saturday was a disgusting affair. Let it be said that the members of the faculty of the Blaine high school did not countenance it. Their strong expressions of disapproval are refreshing, for it is evident that they appreciate the light in which it places their high school. But the fact remains that Superior high school students or sympathizers were implicated and the reflection must necessarily fall on the school.

Perhaps the Duluth boys incited the affair. They marched around the field, headed by their banner and the Superior supporters took offense. The Duluth action was not offensive in itself. It was an outburst of the exuberant spirits of youth, raised high in the hope of victory. On many college gridirons throughout the country, similar scenes were being enacted by enthusiastic students. It is safe to say, there would have been no Superior colors torn down in Duluth. Duluth has recovered from showing partisanship in such ways, regardless of what it may have done in the days of its youth.

The man or boy, who pulled the Duluth pennant from its staff probably didn't think before he took the action. To a nature like his the scene was probably as the flaunting of a red flag in the face of a bull. He closed his brain to all reasoning powers and rushed forward to precipitate a riot, which might have resulted seriously. It is such inane creatures as he that yell fire when he sees steam in a theater and makes for the door, if he hears the floor in a crowded hall crack under a heavy step. He wouldn't do it if he reasoned, but perhaps his feeble intellect isn't capable of logical thought.

Superior certainly cannot boast of its treatment of Duluth's high school students this year. The crowd threw a baseball game to Superior by interfering with the Duluth players last spring and the affair of last Saturday certainly doesn't tend to bridge any breach which may exist.

Tears for Wisconsin.

Poor Wisconsin.

Sadly have the cardinal banners been dragged in the dust. Woefully has the once mighty giant of Western intercollegiate athletics dropped from the post of leader to the rear of the procession. Well may pangs assail the heart of the tearful badger as he looks back to the days when the great O'Dea ruled supreme and Wisconsin was looked upon as a dangerous opponent by Chicago, Minnesota and Michigan, the other football machines of the West.

The conference regulations, severe as they were and damaging to the advance of football in the West, were not rigid enough for the Wisconsin faculty. They did not abolish football entirely. They merely placed such a network of wires and cords on the game and those who play it that they set Wisconsin back far behind the class in which it had formerly shone in college athletics.

The Wisconsin faculty might better have dropped out of football altogether. The record made by the famous team of 1899 and those which followed for several years would stand unblemished but it is a sad blot on the escutcheon of the Madison school for a university like Illinois, always ranking in the second five of the "Big Nine" to defeat a Cardinal football team as badly as the Badgers were defeated last Saturday.

Might Better Have Dropped Out of Football Altogether.

This football reform business has certainly been carried too far. The meeting of the "Big Nine" this coming November will see some developments, for those who follow the situation in Western athletics are away off in their calculations. Regulations such as those now in effect in the West will not allow the game to survive. Combined with faculty regulations, they are more than odious. The situation in Northwestern and Wisconsin is ample testimony to that fact.

Those who knew football as it was before the fall are ready to go back to the old conditions. With Michigan back in the conference, the freshman eligibility and five game schedule rules abolished and the coaches given some play in the development of the teams, it would not be many years before Wisconsin would be back into the play, and the West would see a revival of the good old days of the greatest of American college games.

The New Rules.

It is charged by a good many football authorities that the new football rules are not the success anticipated, simply because the weaker team is given too much of an advantage over a stronger opponent and good teams cannot show their real worth. Which is undoubtedly true, if one takes the view that a football game is an exhibition, in which a battering ram is sent against a weak wall to crush it down. If the rules are going to give the stronger team all the advantage, what's the use of playing two teams together unless they are evenly matched in every particular?

Likes to See the Under Dog Spring Up and Take Notice.

Weight doesn't count so much under the new rules as it did under the old. The game has gone from a bucking, smashing affair to one in which punting plays a prominent part and there is more chance for spectacular play. The play has been opened up, so the spectators can see what the men are doing.

There are more surprises.

There's the point. Surprises. No athletic contest would be worth 2 cents of any man's money unless there was a chance for a surprise. He doesn't want to go to a game when he is practically sure before he goes that one team is going to win and it is only a question of how large the score is going to be. He likes to see the under dog spring up and take notice once in a while.

What the open game under the new rules has done for the game was shown in last Saturday's results in the East. Princeton beaten by Cornell; Pennsylvania thrashed to a fare-thee-well by Carlisle; Yale smothering Villanova; Springfield training school holding Harvard to a 9 to 5 score. Hardly a game came out as expected and the result is a boost for football all around and the encouragement of the smaller colleges.

Princeton had been touted as the probable winner at Ithaca and it was generally believed the Quakers would rose out a victory at Philadelphia. Yale naturally was given the Villanova game, but nobody thought the score would be so large.

The results of the Ames-Minnesota, Nebraska-Minnesota and Illinois-Wisconsin games in the West this season were also surprises in their way. Under the old rules, football was too much of a sure thing for certain of the big teams. Now every game is uncertain and the big machines must show real worth to win from the representatives of smaller schools.

The new rules are as fair for the one as the other. There's no question about that. If the smaller colleges are able to develop more scientific teams than aggregations of heavier men, it is no more than fair that they should be given a chance to show their strength.

Thousands for Players.

While minor leagues are howling over the promiscuous drafting of men by the major league clubs, it must be remembered that the drafting process entails a lot of expense to the big leaguers and is the life of many a minor league club, which makes up season's deficits with the money received from drafted players.

A quarter of a million dollars in one month for new baseball players will give you an ideaa of the immense amount of money involved in the national game, as well as its importance as a factor in amusing America. The two major leagues within six weeks paid out for new matrial something like $250,000 in actual cash.

The sixteen clubs of the America and National leagues so far have drafted and purchased 296 players from the minor leagues and many more deals are pending. This will bring the total number, according to Harry Pulliam, up to 350 at least.

Handing Out the Dough.

The drafting of players is a very intricate process, and perhaps a little explanation might not be amiss. Every minor league can be called on for two of its players by the major leagues but not more than that. That is a protection for the minors to keep their teams from becoming hopelessly wrecked by the loss of the stars. The minors in agreeing to this national arrangement were also protected by the major league teams being required to pay a certain amount of money for each player drafted, whether he made good or not. Take the Southern, Eastern and American association leagues and the major league teams are required to pay them $1,500 for every player drafted. Half of this is to be paid to the national commission the moment the draft is made. The other half is to be paid in the spring, if the deal is satisfactory. If the player fails to make good, then the first $750 belongs to the minor league club, anyway, and the player comes back.

Envy and Baseball.

A gentleman named Martin, hailing from St. Louis, is the latest to come forward with a scheme for a third major league. Mr. Martin has been scouting around looking over Cincinnati, Pittsburg and some of the other big league cities, with a view to installing a second team in those, which now have only one representation in the major circuits.

Mr. Martin must be looking for financial disaster. Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Cleveland and those other cities having only one major league team, have as many as they are able to support. On its present scale, major league baseball isn't overdone. But if a lot of bunglers are going to come forward with the cry that the major league magnates are making too much money, and try to establish big leagues galore, they are likely to kill the whole game. Major league baseball is on a good basis. Envy has killed many a good cause and if envious baseball men get to cutting in on the present big league magnates, there's likely to be something drop.

Mr. Martin Must Be Looking for Disaster.

Competition may be the life of trade, but there's such a thing as too much competition being the death of baseball.

Au Revoir, Thomas.

Tommy Burns has departed for Europe to beat the everlasting block off of Gunner Moir and any other of the big pugs, who may be trotted out by the sports of Kig Eddie's land. Tommy doesn't see any more world on this side of the water. At least, he is looking for matches with any of the men, who might give him a good go. Tommy wants an international reputation before that flimsy title of champion-by-proxy is jerked away from him by somebody who can fight.

It was the same old Tommy, with the well-constructed rags, the silk tile, diamond flasher and the other accessories of the toilet of the fightitive gentleman, who aspires to the Beau Brummel tag. He sagely dealt out opinions to the New York scribes and tried hard to make an impression. Here is the way some of the heavyweights look in the great Tommy's eyes:

Moir—Big, but ought to be easy. Bigger the better.

Jeffries—Big, fat and flabby and will never fight again.

O'Brien—"Nutty." Faker and got what was coming to him. Ought never to be allowed in the ring again.

Squires—Looked good, stripped like a champion, but was wild and it's Australia for his, as there's no money over here for him.

Kaufman—Strong boy about as speedy as a lumber wagon in the ring. Good prospects, but the biggest lob in the ring.

Schreck—Elephantine and yellow. Just like an old woman in the ring and about as useless.

Flynn—Big and tough, but no match for any classy heavyweight.

Which all goes to show that the fight public should be impressed with the idea that there is but one heavyweight fighter in the country today and his name is Burns—Tommy Burns. Tommy says he will fight Jack Johnson when he returns from England. If Tommy does fight Jack Johnson, he may as well make up his mind to take a licking. He's been making it up for a mighty long time. Johnson has chased him all over the country and if Tommy comes back from England and doesn't agree to a match, Johnson is likely to chase him away, or the fight fans, who want to see Tommy do some real fighting, will do the chasing for the black man.

This Is the Way They Look to Tommy.

Overstepping the Bounds.

It's a wonder professional ball players don't strike more often than they do. Every spring there are any number of players, who strike as individuals, for more pay, but nearly all of them get back in the fold. It isn't the salary question which bothers most of them, however. The big leaguer draws a pretty fair salary for his services, as a rule, and, in fact, his salary furnishes the only reason in a good many cases, for his obedience of some of the over-bearing rules of the national commission.

The owners of the club are very lucky that there has at no time been a general strike of baseball players. Considering the fact that a baseball player, working under the national agreement can hardly call his soul his own, is bandied about where'er the club owner wills, is sold, traded and farmed like a truck horse, and is prevented from earning his living in any recognized league, if he bucks against his treatment, it's truly beyond understanding why there hasn't been a gigantic strike of ball players.

The latest ruling of the commission to disturb no inconsiderable number of major leaguers, is one decreeing that players, who work under the national agreement during the regular season, cannot play in outlaw leagues at the close of the season, the ruling being directed against those major leaguers now delighting crowds of fans in the towns on the circuit of the California State league. The players have set up a howl. They refuse to quit and say they will stick to the California State league altogether before they will consent to heed dictation from the national commission after the close of the baseball season.

They're right.

During the season, they're subject to all kinds of rules. Their contracts are unbreakable, even after the period for which they are signed, for they are subject to reserve. Players cannot break their contracts at all, but they may be unceremoniously fired by the club owners. They are subject to fines and suspension without pay. They can be drafted, if they are in a minor league, or sent back if they're in a major league. The manager has full control of their habits and actions during the playing season. They must work in warm or cold weather, Sunday and every other day and they cannot murmur. They know if they do, they can not play professional baseball, and they usually can make more in the pursuit of that profession than they can in any line of trade.

The Contracts Are Unbreakable.

But when the national commission seeks to control their actions after the end of the playing season, it is going beyond all bounds. The players sign with the team for a certain period. After that time, they are expected to shift for themselves, independent of the club's payroll, and turn up ready for business again in the spring. If they choose to do the shifting by playing ball, why should the national commission step in and say they shall not? Perhaps they might go to driving drays, swabbing thirsty parlors and slinging hash to voracious sewer diggers. Those would be occupations fitting for them in the eyes of the members of the national commission.

The ball players surely have a grievance. Of course, the commission wants to protect the Pacific Coast league. The Pacific Coast league ought to be able to take care of itself. It has no more right to protection than the ball player has to earn his living.

WEST VS. THE EAST SOON

Intersectional Football Games Will Begin in Two Weeks.

Penn-Michigan and Minnesota-Carlisle Games Nov. 16.

The big football game of the West is on in Minnesota today. Every football enthusiast west of the Alleghanies and a good many of those on the Atlantic coast are awaiting the result of the gridiron battle at Minnesota's university city, for the victor will have none to dispute its claim to all Western honors.

When all has been said and done, and the Western championship is decided, the West will settle down for its attempts to show superiority over the East. On the results of Carlisle's games with Princeton today and Harvard next Saturday will depend the chances of the big teams of the West to prove supremacy. The Indians form the connecting link. They play the big teams of the East and the big teams of the West. Their victory over Pennsylvania last Saturday marks them as dangerous opponents for all of them. The comparatively large score they ran up on Penn indicates that they should be able to defeat any of the supposedly strong teams of the East, and there is no security in the Chicago and Minnesota camps either.

For two weeks there will be little doing in the football world, with the exception of the Harvard-Carlisle game next Saturday. The Indians should win. Harvard hasn't shown any great degree of strength this year. Weaker opponents have held the Crimson to low scores, and their goal line has been crossed twice, last Saturday by Springfield Tech, a minority in the football world. Ever strong, the redskin giants have a machine this year calculated to beat down the best defense of the strongest teams, and a season without a defeat for them would surprise no followers of the game.

In the West next Saturday Wisconsin meets Indiana, Iowa and Illinois clash, and Chicago meets Purdue. The Chicago-Purdue game is a foregone conclusion. Wisconsin should win from Indiana, and Illinois from Iowa, but neither of the games will contribute anything in the way of championship results. In the East, Swarthmore will battle with the Navy, Cornell with the Army, and Princeton with Amherst. The defeat of Princeton by Cornell gives the contest between the Ithacans and the Army considerable prominence, and the victor will figure strongly in the race for Eastern honors.

Nov. 16 will be the big day for intersectional football. Pennsylvania will play at Ann Arbor and Carlisle at Minneapolis. Both Minnesota and Michigan have an old score against their respective opponents, and they will battle to wipe it out. On the same day last year Pennsylvania defeated Michigan 17 to 0 and Carlisle won from the Gophers by the same count.

Carlisle may win from Minnesota this year, but it will not be by a 17 to 0 score, or else all the calculations are away off. Next to the game with Chicago, Williams has been working with his eye on Carlisle. The Indians' style of play has not missed his watchful eye. He has been drilling his men with almost as strong a hope of defeating Carlisle as Chicago and two weeks of work are coming in preparation for the Indians. The Indians will come West with the scalp of Pennsylvania and probably Princeton and Harvard. A victory over them will mean a big boost in the eyes of the Eastern football critics, who have a mistaken impression of the strength of Western football. The defeat of Western teams last year was a sad blow to the West and no amount of argument will make the Easterners see that the Western teams did not play their game. Minnesota was slow and listless and Michigan demoralized by the loss of Capt. Curtis. This year, Minnesota will not be slow, nor listless either. The preparation for the Chicago game was enough to fit Minnesota for Carlisle. But Williams will not allow interest to lag. He will continue to hammer at his machine until Nov. 16, and the Indians will find a far different team lined up on Northop far different that which they encountered last year.

Hope reigns strong at Ann Arbor. The school which has turned out stronger teams and more of them than any other Western school was sadly humbled last year by the Quakers. The loss of Curtis just before the game at Philadelphia was blamed for the defeat and Michigan will seek to substitute the claim this year by sending a finished team against the Easterners and winning. It is the only big game on the Michigan schedule and the only game of any consequence at all at Ann Arbor. The defeat of Pennsylvania by Carlisle detracts somewhat from the importance of the game, as by no juggling of scores will Pennsylvania be able to claim the Eastern championship, but a victory for Michigan will be none the less sweet as indicating that there was an important link missing from the chain last year.

Yale vs. Princeton, which was expected to be one of the big games of the East, is scheduled for Nov. 16. But the defeat of the Tigers by Cornell has dropped Princeton back among the second-raters for the time and Yale can gain very little by defeating them. On Nov. 16, also, Harvard will meet Dartmouth, the strongest of the little colleges of the East. Glaze and his kicking ability will make trouble for Harvard and, as the crimson is weak, a Dartmouth victory would not be an overwhelming surprise to a good many people.

Nov. 23 is the last day of big battles. Yale vs. Harvard will set the East on edge and Carlisle vs. Chicago will awaken considerable interest in the West. The result of today's game at Minneapolis will determine largely the importance of the Chicago-Indiana game. Should Chicago win today, it will also have the honor of defending the honor of the West against the redskin invaders from the East. But should Chicago lose today, it will have only its own reputation to defend. However, in either case, the Maroons will put up a grand game against the Indians, pitting the mighty Steffens and the great Page against the fleet Indian backs. On Nov. 23 also, the Gophers will go to Madison and very probably very heartily trim the poor Badgers.

TWO HEAVYWEIGHTS OF THE HIGH SCHOOL TEAM

DEAN COVENTRY.

CAPT. "BILL" CRAWFORD.

"Bill" Crawford, captain and right tackle, and Dean Coventry, center, are the heavyweights of the Duluth Central high school football squad. On the field, they loom up far above their fellows in stature, and there is something to them besides height.

Crawford is a giant in football ability. He plays the game every minute of the time. His ground gaining ability has helped the Centrals out of a good many holes this year, and his defensive playing is great. His tackling is sure and swift and attempts to gain through tackle never got very much for any team this year.

The center doesn't get a great deal of chance to shine in spectacular plays, but centers do not have to be spectacular to be all "there" and Coventry is away up in the best location. There hasn't been a center on the field at Athlotic park this year, who has had anything on the big fellow in passing the ball. On defensive play, he was strength itself and butting the head against a stone wall is mild amusement, compared with ramming against him when he's on the job. He's a good center and that's enough to suit everybody, with whom the high school boys have made a hit this year.

SOME "HAS BEEN" GAMBLERS

Five men were standing in the paddock at the Elm Ridge race track last one day last week. They were having an argument about the third race, says a Kansas City letter to the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"Does he like the mud?" a little man with a gray mustache asked.

"Of course he does, bonehead; wasn't his daddie a mudder?" the one with glasses replied. "Ever see one of these Meddler colts that didn't go to it when it was sloppy like it is now?"

"They may like the mud all right, but I'm afraid a mile is far for 'im," the man whose nose had a carmine hue observed.

"No hit ain't. Look at his last race. Didn't he run three-quarters in twelve, and was running over hosses at the finish? Only got beat a length and two noses." This from the fourth man with a threadbare raincoat. He referred the others to his home-made dope book.

"What do you think about him, Bill?" he continued, addressing the man who had remained silent.

"Looks like a 'romp' to me," was the reply. "He's got a track to his liking, nice weight up, and if they're trying—and the jock told me they were—I think we ought to bet it straight."

"S'posing he loses. Then, we're cleaned up and nothing to get on that 'Hindoo' in the fifth race," said the man with the mustache.

"Well, hurry! They're going to the post now!" the raincoat man said.

"Which one is Merry Lark, Bill? the red-nosed one inquired.

"No. 7. He's certainly 'lit up' fine. Looks good to me. I'll bet straight, said Bill.

"Hold on, now, Bill, you'll—"

But Bill was gone.

"Supposing he bets it straight," the spectacled individual said. "If he's 2 to 1 it's $4; 3 to 1, $6; 4 to 1, $8; 5 to 1—"

"Throw away that squirt gun; you're full of coke now," interrupted the possessor of the raincoat. "Maybe he won't win."

Bill returned. "Well, fellows," he said, "I'll bet two to show. He was 2 to 1 to show. No use taking a chance. He might get nosed out, and he can't be worse than third."

"That's the right idea," said Mustache. "I was afraid you'd get on the front end. They're off!"

They talked in bunches after that.

"Where's Merry Lark, Bill? I can't see that far."

"Out in front, just a-winging it, too. Don't let him stumble, Jock."

"Why, it's a pipe. That kid's setting in the rocking chair."

"That's Nogood Iowa, and look at Terminate, he's running like a wild hoss."

"Go on, you Merry Lark!" as they swung into the stretch.

"Look at that 'cook' riding him; why don't he use his bat?"

"He's afraid he'll fall off, I guess," said Bill as the horses rushed past the paddock with Terminate first, Nogood Iowa second and Merry Lark third.

"Go on, you skate! Whip him, you stiff! you won't fall off. Go on, you Merry Lark!" they yelled.

"Well, he did manage to show," said Bill with a disgusted look.

The others were all smiles. They took hold of hands, slapped each other on the back, and had a regular jollification.

One of the men who were watching them turned to his friend:

"Is that an outing from the 'dippy' house?" he asked.

"No," said the other. "That's merely what's left of Kansas City's old-time gamblers."

"Are you kidding me?" the first one asked.

"No, that's on the square. The little man there with the gray mustache owned a big string of horses. He now has one, which he drives to an express wagon. A 50-cent piece for hauling a trunk looks like a Christmas turkey to him now.

"The one with glasses wouldn't play faro unless they took the limit off. Now look at him. He's as tickled over his share of that bet as if some one had just made him a present of the Long building.

The man with the cravenette that's seen better days used to fill them in the middle, stand on a pair of fours, fill three-card flushes, and feel poor if his pile of chips wasn't larger than the dealer's. Now he's a porter in a North End lodging house.

"The red-nosed one was also a great faro and poker player. He's a bum of the worst type now. Does nothing but mooch drinks whenever he can.

"The one they call Bill has a couple of skins he runs around the country fairs. He used to own the largest gambling house in town.

"Most of the real old sports have passed away or gone into business here and other places. This bunch here is about all that is left out of hundreds of them."

"Must be tough to come down to making $2 jackpots?" the friend said as they walked toward the grand stand.

"Just as much fun for 'em as it was to bet a thousand when they had it," said the other.

If seven-tenths of the people who are looking for a place to live should read your ad. in The Herald would it not "help some?"

ATTELL ALONE IN HIS CLASS

None of Featherweights Able to Stand Before Him.

Abe Attell, the clever little Hebrew fighter, again demonstrated his right to the featherweight championship title last Tuesday night, when he gave Freddie Weeks a ticket to dreamland in four rounds. He might have done it in less time, but he gave the Denver boy a chance to show his ability before he handed over one that did the business.

Abe Attell is the big "IT" in his class. There isn't anything in the featherweight division to give him any kind of a contest. He has them all backed off the boards in science and his wallop is no gentle one for a little fellow to carry around.

Attell was born in San Francisco Feb. 22, 1884, and began fighting in 1900, when he was 16 years old. Since that time everything has come his way. He has fought nearly 100 battles, and a defeat by Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan in five rounds in 1904 is the only reverse he suffered. While he continues in the featherweight class, it isn't likely any of the present lights of that division will lift his title.

WASHINGTON SPORTING EXPERT THINKS HE HAS NEW CHAMPION FOR THE HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS

Tony Ross is Big, Strong and Very Promising.

Good Professional Heavyweights Are Scarce These Days.

English Amateur is Said to be a World Beater.

JACK JOHNSON.

A few days ago I had a chance to look over this Tony Ross, who is being boosted in some quarters (rather "interested quarters, one imagines) as the coming heavyweight figater. I saw the big Dago (Tony's Sicilan name is Antonio Rossilano) box with a couple of "longshoremanish-looking lummoxes at an East side gym. The young Italian (he is only 23—significant number) is built very much on the Jeffries pattern. There's no question about his hugeness and huskiness. His face is a good deal like Jeff's, too—they might pass for brothers, widely apart as they are in nativity and instinct. Tony is fully as big a man as Jeff was in his good day, with the same Garantuan torso and splendid underpinning. When it comes to meat and brawn he's indubitably "there." But he is strangely slow as a boxer, even for a big man. Of course, he's raw at the game. He never saw a glove in his life till a couple of years ago, and then he didn't know what the glove was for. He was a railroad laborer in Pennsylvania until some fighting sharp spotted him and took him in hand. Tony has stacked up against a lot of mixed-alers and put them away easily enough, standing all sorts of dreadful whaling himself, without batting an eye or taking a long breath. He's the abysmal brute for taking wallops, and he looks like a somebody that couldn't be put out with a brace of battleaxes wielded by a javelin thrower at the Gaelic games. His head is so hard that it makes lignum vitae feel like the fluffy stuff by comparison, and it is covered with the matted locks of the typical Hitlian.

As for his perfectly palpable slowness as a boxer, that really may not count for anything as yet. A lot of you down there in Washington who saw Jeff in exhibition boxing at Kernan's even after he'd put Corbett away will recall what a dead-slow man Jeff was on his pins, even when he was champion. Jeff didn't pick up what shiftiness he possesses till long after he'd pulled down the main prize for heavyweights. So that this Sicilian boy's heaviness of foot and general clumsiness mayn't mean anything just yet. He has all the chance in the world to come along, with his youth and willingness to learn. They're going to put him up against somebody like Kauffman or Sailor Burke, and those who have seen the Italian at work predict that, in spite of his slowness, he'll be able to wear any of these second or third raters down on account of his extraordinary gluttony for punishment and his really phenomenal staying powers.

Has the Jeff Crouch.

Tony has the Jeff crouch down pretty pat, and his reach is immense. The trouble with him is that when the other fellow stakes him to a rap on the face or head he straightens up like a marine on dress parade, and then the wise party of the second part sends them into the Italian's wind and kitchen like the rattle of Japanese musketry at Port Arthur. None of them was ever able to bully Jeff into straightening up to an erect posture by batting him around the top-gear, and it may be that they'll be able to whang it into the Italian's head that his crouch won't get him anything if he doesn't stay with it all of the time that he's on the firing line. He's a tractable, bovine sort of a chap, listens to everything that's told him, and really looks like somebody that ought to learn, although it would be stretching it some to claim that he's overburdened with intellectuality. He's just a huge, mountainous chunk of solid beef and sinew, as easy to manage as an obedient horse, with a punch that, when he lands it, can back up an army mule, and an ability to let bricklayers threw 'em at him all day without getting particularly damaged up. He had the two big clompers with whom I saw him box a-feeling of themselves in a very experimental way, as if to ascertain if their conks were still where they belonged, in pretty short order, and one of them, after picking himself up, mumbled something about the next time he wanted to get hit on the wishbone by a trolley car he'd know where to go.

If Antonio isn't a coming Jeffries, then he's a mighty good replica of the California alfalfa raised in exterior, and it is just possible that, with good people to fetch out what he's got, he might really be the boy to swing in and get the fat for really good heavyweights to yank down. The only thing against Ross or Rossilano is that Tom Sharkey thinks highly of his potential ability. That's enough to grab the hopes of Tony's people. Sharkey was never known to be right about a fighter's ability in his life. He doesn't know a good one, oddly enough, from a cake of naphtha-soap. He has sprung some of the most melancholy stiffs in the history of the game upon the bunch over here, all of whom he tomtommed in advance as dead-sure-to-be-world beaters of the first Kimberley water. They all proved to be Bermudas of the rankest variety, and that's why the people behind this Dago boy get peevish when they are told that Sharkey likes their pick-up. But people who really know a fighter when they see one like this Tony chap, and so his people may take comfort and make the best they can of the fact that such a quince-harvester as Sharkey thinks the same way.

Heavyweights Scarce.

What's the matter with heavyweights, anyhow? Nearly all of the crop of big ones during recent years have been unspeakably sad ones. They've either been mollycoddles that would yell for smelling salts and lavender water the first time they got a belt in the lunch, or fellows that haven't had enough of a punch to flatten a water bug against a bath tub, or clumsy hodcarriers that didn't know what they were in the ring for at all, at all. Mighty few of them have been even promising, and those that did give a little bit of promise soon faded back into the ranks of the low notchers. And still there are plenty of big chaps in this broad land who've got in them the making of crackerjack heavyweights, could they only be dug up and put through the mill. It's certain enough that there are plenty of scouts out everywhere looking for fellows of the big type, too. The trouble is that most of these scouts are fighters themselves. Now, it is a notorious fact that fighters are themselves the poorest imaginable judges of other fighters or of chaps who have in them the making of fighters. Sharkey has been mentioned for his utter incompetency as a picker out of panners-out. But Sharkey never was troubled with any particular amount of keenness in any direction. But it might naturally be supposed that so shrewd a proposition as Bob Fitzsimmons would, in the course of his extensive travels, be able to clap his freckled hand on some fellow who really might prove to be a comer. Yet Fitz himself has sprung some of the dismalest phonies on this fighting populace that ever chewed gum, and he, too, gets the boot nowadays whenever he bulges out with the announcement that he has got hold of some sure-enough tidy one.

What a fine financial thing does await the genuinely clever chap who is lucky or brainy enough to get hold of a really-and-truly first rate heavyweight! The manager's end for a fellow of the winning, on-the-level type—the Jeffries type—would be something prodigious. The discovered one doesn't have, of course, to be as good as Jeff. If he's only about one-half of the third and fourth raters who are now tizzigging around in the heavyweight class, trying to make experienced folk believe that they really are high notchers. The really immense coin for heavyweights o' the caliber of the old-timers is all ready to be hauled down. As it is, the little chaps of the feather and lightweight class are gobbling all of the fat money. They've getting away with the $10,000 and $20,000 and $30,000 purses that used to belong exclusively to the big bruisers, and the only reason they are doing this is because there are no heavyweights worth while to battle for the honest-injun high money. The gang with the light bug are sick of all these faking hop-skip-and-jumpers who have dropped into the shoe leather of the big champions of the gone day, and they would hail with a newborn enthusiasm the appearance of, say three or four genuinely high grade hitters of the 200-pound variety who would give them a run for the price.

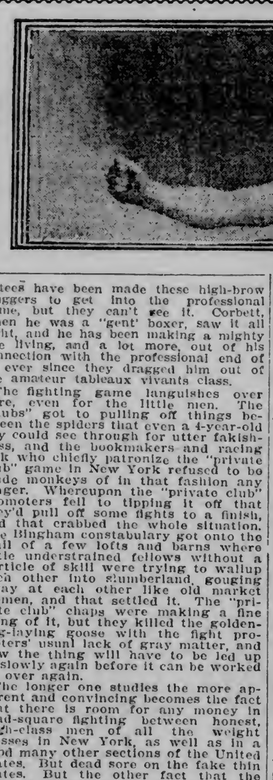
Gentlemen Fighters.

This reminds me that there are some real "toffs, y'knaw" and "dead swell mugs," amateur fighters, in the big class who are capable of making good as heavyweights in the professional prize ring, only there isn't any chance of getting these big fellows of gentility to dance to the center to the call of time for pelf and low-browed glory.

A while back I met Dave Montgomery, the actor, just after he'd returned to New York from a six weeks' visit with Danny Maher, the American jockey, at Newmarket 'Eath. Well, Montgomery took in a number of the amateur fights between really-and-truly "gents" while in London, and he had a remarkable account of a giant whom he saw at one of these gentlemen's boxing clubs. This "gent," said Montgomery, was a Capt. Fitzclarence Montgomery Vere de Vere Something or Other—a captain in active service in the Coldstream Guards. Montgomery's description of him fitted in with a number of other descriptions I've received of this remarkable individual, who appears to be a regular Ouida-hero-like devil of a fellow. He is six feet six in his socks, as wide across the shoulders as the menfolks in "Lorna Doone," and he weighs close to 250, although without an ounce of unnecessary meat on his gigantic frame. He is the champion gentleman boxer of the British Isles, and it was laughable to listen to Montgomery's description of the way he put away no less than seven big men, all of them accomplished amateur English gentleman boxers, in the course of an hour's seance at the gentlemen's boxing club. Montgomery, who is one of the fighting talent and takes in all of the big mills, sincerely believes that this huge Coldstreamer could have put it on Jeff when the Los Angeles hay raker was at the top of his powers, and he says that he'd be willing to bet money, marbles or chalk, that this same Capt. Fitzclarence Vere de Vere, etc., could take on a couple of Tommy Burnses or Jawn O'Briens in the same ring and make them both look like little boys engaged in having it out with their daddy in the woodshed.

There's one word around, too, of three or four wonderfully classy amateur boxers fiddling their valuable time away in the gymnasiums out on the slope, and all sorts of inducements and guarantees have been made these high-brow sluggers to get into the professional game, but they can't see it. Corbett, when he was a "gent" boxer, saw it all right, and he has been making a mighty fine living, and a lot more, out of his connection with the professional end of it, ever since they dragged him out of the amateur tableaux vivants class.

AL KAUFMANN.



TOMMY BURNS.

The fighting game languishes over here, even for the little men. The "clubs" got to pulling off things between the spiders that even a 4-year-old boy could see through for utter fakishness, and the bookmakers and racing folk who chiefly patronize the "private club" game in New York refused to be made monkeys of in that fashion any longer. Whereupon the "private club" promoters fell to tipping it off that they'd pull off some fights to a finish, and that crabbed the whole situation. The Bingham constabulary got onto the fruit of a few lofts and barns where little understrained fellows without a particle of skill were trying to wallup each other into slumberland, gouging away at each other like old market women, and that settled it. The "private club" chaps were making a fine thing of it, but they killed the golden-egg-laying goose with the fight promoters' usual lack of gray matter, and now the thing will have to be led up to slowly again before it can be worked all over again.

The longer one studies the more apparent and convincing becomes the fact that there is room for any money in dead-square fighting between honest, high-class men of all the weight classes in New York, as well as in a good many other sections of the United States. But dead sore on the fake thin States. But the other fact that the fighting talent are dead sore on he fake thing and on the incompetents of the business is just as apparent. Right now the game has reached a lower ebb than it has been at in the United States for a good many years, not because the interest in the old biffing thing isn't just as pronounced as ever, but because the people who have been putting up their good money to support the game have been outraged and imposed upon so extensively in recent years that they are both weary and wary.—Clarence L. Cullen in Washington Post.

BASEBALL PAST AND PRESENT

Good Stories of Well Known Players Who Have Had Some Funny Experiences.

Wild Bill Donovan, Detroit's star pitcher, was a long time arriving at the top, says the Chicago Examiner. When he first came into the National league at Washington he pitched three games without any one getting more than one hit off him while he lasted. The reason was that he kept them too busy dodging, and he averaged about five bit-by-the-pitcher balls at a game.

Then Earl Wagner told a story about Donovan. It seems that Bill was pitching in a game between two country towns. He had even more speed then than now, and a March hare would have seemed docile by comparison. Bill warmed up in fine shape. The first opposing batter came up and went down with three broken ribs from the first pitched ball. Bill waited until that one was repaired, and bowled a leg off the next one. Then he caved in the breast-bone of the third batter, and hit the next one in the head, knocking him cold.

While he was warming up for the next one the marshal of the town paraded out, showing his big tin star, and arrested Bill, charging him with assault and battery and assault with intent to wound and kill.

Charlie Comiskey goes on his annual hunting and fishing trip on the 16th, the annual date for the start, and there is one Chicagoan who will not accept any venison, fish, birds or anything else that Commy may kill or catch.

Last year, before starting on the hunt, Commy promised about 2,678 pounds of venison and fish, and game in proportion, to his friends. He returned a couple of weeks later and met the colonel, to whom had been promised a fine saddle of venison. The colonel is dignified, and he ah-hemse, coughs and clears his throat when he talks.

Commy saw him coming and said: "Colonel, I've got a fine saddle of venison on ice for you."

"Ah-hem," said the colonel, "that's very kind of you, Charlie; very kind, very thoughtful."

"I had a lot of trouble getting it down," whispered Commy.

"Ah-hem ahem," said the colonel. "I was wondering how you managed to—ahem—ahem—evade the law, Charlie."

"Well, I'll tell you," said Commy. "We had killed a couple of fine bucks, and the game wardens were watching us pretty close. We didn't dare try to ship them into Chicago. Then we had a great bit of luck. There was a lumberjack up there sick with fever, and we thought he died. They got a big wooden coffin for him and put him in it, and then he came to life and began to get well.

"They didn't have any use for the coffin, so we bought it and packed the deer in it, put a name on it and shipped the deer into Chicago."

"Ah-hem, ahem, ahem. Very extraordinary, Charley, ah-hem, very extraordinary, putting a deer in a coffin. Ahem."

"Yes," said Commy. "It fooled those game wardens entirely. They were watching us and searched our car, but couldn't find any deer. We all bought white gloves and carried the deer out of the station and brought them down to Dan's to cut them up."

"Ahem, ahem, ahem; extraordinary, very unusual," said the colonel.

Five minutes later the colonel disappeared suddenly and the bartender came back and said:

"Mr. Comiskey, the gentleman that just left told me to tell you he didn't believe he wanted any venison. His family is out of town."

Here is a puzzle. The person who guesses it gets a season pass to Comiskey's park. The recent bowlers' field day at Cincinnati was a benefit affair and the free list was entirely suspended. There was one card that came to the gate—asking a pass for three friends. The puzzle is to guess who wrote the pass.

St. Louis has a minor league player who performed down in Arkansas this year and returned with great tales about what he had done.

"Yes," he was telling a bunch of ball cranks, "I struck out twenty-six men in a game over at Fort Smith. They only hit one foul off me in the whole game."

And he went along on that line for half an hour. The audience was awestruck.

"Yes," he said, "in a game late in the season my foolers were going good. I struck out eighteen batters, and then we were so far ahead I lobbed them and let them get a few hits."

The admiring silence was appalling until one innocent looking listener asked: "Do they wear uniforms in that league?"

There is a purveyor of sandwiches and other delicacies on the Polo grounds in New York who should have a diplomatic post somewhere.

One day this spring when Chicago was playing there was an immense crowd. The stands were jammed, the aisles and passageways blocked by masses of people standing and sitting until it seemed impossible for any one to squeeze through them or to get anywhere. A dozen forlorn popcorn and peanut venders were hanging on the outskirts of the crowd trying in vain to force their way in to where they could make sales.

Suddenly the sandwich man started down an aisle. The masses of people before him parted like the waves part before the prow of a steamer—and he sold right and left. How he managed it I could not understand until he came near enough to be heard. "Watch out there—this mustard is dripping."

Mattie Kilroy, better known as "Buzzaz," the old pitching star of Baltimore, and in his later years with Chicago, and Tim Donahue were great chums, and they always insisted on rooming together until they got into their famous argument about whether a team composed of nine Lajoies could beat a team composed of nine Keelers. That argument lasted through the whole season. They would start when they waked up in the morning, argue through breakfast, and keep it up all morning and through lunch and to the ball park—and then start again on the way back from the park.

At night the other guests in a hotel could hear them still debating hotly. It was a question as to which could talk the longest and loudest—and they were tied. Mattie drew vivid pictures of what a nine Keelers would do bunting and running bases, while Tim insisted that all the Keelers would be killed or maimed by batted balls before the fifth inning started if they played nine Lajoies. Occasionally Griffith and other members of the team joined in to help out Mattie when he needed it worst.

One morning Mattie came down to breakfast and looked around the tables for Tim to start the argument again—and Tim wasn't there. He had been rooming with somebody else, and so had Mattie, and "Bassaz" had thought up several new points. Tim was not to be found, and presently Jimmy Callahan came down and reported Tim sick with a bad cold.

"He's got a sore throat and a heavy cold, and he's lost his voice entirely; can't speak a word," said Cal.

"Tim can't speak?" demanded "Bazzaz."

"Not a word; has to make signs," said Cal.

"Well," said "Bazzaz," "I'm sorry he's sick—but this is my chance. I'm going up and convince him that the Keelers could trim the Lajoies."

Here is a story for which I must refuse to vouch for fear of losing my reputation for truth and veracity. It happened in a disousslon between a colored admirer of the Leland Giants, Chicago's star negro team, and a white fan who thought the All Stars were better.

Finally they got down to discussing Rube Foster, the great colored pitcher for the Giants. Foster has a trick of shooting the ball back across the plate the moment it touches his hands, when he catches a batter overbalanced, and the colored fan was dilating on this.

"Fast?" he said. "Why, man, dat Foster he shoot dat ball back quickern yo kin see. De day he wuz pitchin' 'gainst dem Logan Squares he done pitch de ball up to Zangerlee, and he done struck at it and missed it, and 'fore his bat got past de plate Rube he t'rowed de ball back quick, Zangerlee he hit de second one while he wuz striking at de first. Dat's how he happen to make dat hit offen Rube."

PLANS FOR THE WINTER

Annual Meeting of Northland Country Club is Called.

Will Have Ski and Toboggan Slide This Year.

E. P. Alexander, secretary of the Northland Country club, has issued notices of the annual meeting, which will be held at the clubhouse next Wednesday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. The officers will report, new officers be elected and plans for the coming year discussed.

In connection with the plans for the coming year, the club members will probably map out a course of winter activities unprecedented in the history of the club. On account of the lack of suitable facilities, the club has not gone in for winter sports to a great extent in the past, but this year, there will be a marked change in its policy.

At a cost of approximately $40,000 grounds were secured last spring for a ski course and toboggan slide back of the main grounds of the club. It is planned to put the hill in condition immediately and keep at work on it until one of the finest slide's in the district is formed. The clubhouse will be kept open all winter, ski tournaments, toboggan slides and snow shoe tramps will be made a feature of the winter amusements and the members of the club expect to be unusually active all through the winter season.

The introduction of ski riding as a sport of the club is an innovation, which is expected to take well. The great Scandinavian sport has made great progress in the Northwest in recent years. All classes are taking it up as a healthy, invigorating winter sport and, with the facilities for its enjoyment to be provided for the club, it is expected to be popular with the members. Tournaments, with suitable prizes, are planned and every member of the club will be urged to get into the game.

Cured of Bright's Disease.

Mr. Robert O. Burke, Elnora, N. Y., writes: "Before I started to use Foley's Kidney Cure I had to get up from twelve to twenty times a night, and I was all bloated up with dropsy and my eyesight was so impaired I could scarcely see one of my family across the room. I had given up hope of living, when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. One 50 cent bottle worked wonders and before I had taken the third bottle the dropsy had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Bright's disease." Sold by all druggists.

CUMMINGS IS DRAFTED BY THE ATLANTA TEAM

"AL" CUMMINGS,
Duluth's "Native Son," Who Has Been Drafted by Atlanta of the Southern Association.

Manager A. W. Kuehnow of the Duluth baseball club was notified today of the drafting by Atlanta of the Southern association of Al Cummings, Duluth's "native son," and one of the best baseball players in the Northern-Copper Country league for two years past. It was practically certain that one of the Class A league teams would draft the local boy, but did not know which one until today. There was talk of Boston of the American league taking him up, but the deal went through.

Al Cummings is a son of A. D. Cummings of 623 West Second street, and received his early baseball training on the corner lots of Duluth. In high school he was a star in football and baseball, and early gained a name for himself as a power in school athletics. Later he attended the University of Wisconsin for two years, making good in the box, though the brilliancy of his performances there was detracted from considerably by the wonderful work of "Young Cy" Young, who was his teammate.

On his return to Duluth Cummings went in for profesional ball, and as a member of the Duluth club of the Northern-Copper Country league, he has been a success from the start. In 1906 he pitched twenty games, winning eleven and losing nine. In the season just closed, Cummings pitched a full third of the games played by the Duluth club and won a majority of them.

Not only his pitching, but his versatility makes Cummings a valuable man for any team. During the season just closed, he pitched and played infield and outfield, with almost equal ease. This year, he loomed up in batting. He hit the ball hard and often, and was a safe hitter in a pinch. He held the season's record for total bases at the local park, getting two homers, a double and a single in seven times at bat in a fifteen-inning game against Winnipeg, June 14.

In the box he has an easy delivery and excellent command of himself, being one of the coolest men in a pinch ever seen on the local lot. He was a favorite all over the circuit, and his step forward in the baseball world will be a source of pleasure to his friends.

Atlanta won the pennant of the Southern association this year with a wonderfully strong team, including Jesse Becker, formerly a star outfielder with the Lake Linden club of 1906, and George Paige, who pitched for Calumet in the old Copper Country league. Atlanta has secured Terry, Piper and Zelder of the Winnipeg team for next year also, and it is said they will take several other men from the Northern-Copper Country circuit. Little Rock, where Bill McCormick will play next year, is also in the Southern association.

BASEBALL IS A WONDER

The Game is Peculiarly American and Every City Has Its Team Or is Not Regarded as Quite Civilized.

Quite a number of persons, were they asked what is the eighth wonder of the world, would answer—baseball, says the Houston Post.

And the vogue of the great American game is truly wonderful. The national sport of England is cricket; of Germany, target shooting; of Spain, bull fighting, but compared with the universality with which baseball is played, discussed, understood, witnessed, raved over and fought over by the 80,000,000 that form the great commonwealth of the American people, these other national games sink into insignificance.

At the local ball yard one day last season a man remarked that he knew comparatively nothing about the game nor cared very little about witnessing an exhibition of the sport. The statement seemed almost preposterous and impossible. The auditor seemed inclined to doubt the fellow's word.

But, upon inquiry, the mystery was solved; the man was not an American, he had not been raised and nurtured on this peer of all sports, he hailed from poor, benighted England, where only in the past few years have the inhabitants been able to taste the joys of baseball, root till the blood is curdled, feel the spine creep when a particular hair-raising play is pulled off and adore the star fielder or champion slugger to a small degree, as learned from their children of the United States.

There is scarcely a person—man, woman or child—in the United States under 40 years and over 10 years of age that does not know the general rules of the game. They know the stars of the game, the champion clubs and the clever plays. They can with judgment applaud a good play and with equally good censure one of the "bone-head" variety. Every city, town, village and hamlet must have its team.

The place is not quite civilized according to American ideas if it does not.

But probably the most remarkable feature of the national game is the enthusiasm demonstrated by the spectators. Substantial business men, reserved men of learning, lawyers, physicians, ministers, professors, decorous ladies, stolid shopkeepers, lively boys and girls and merry children can all be transformed into a wild, shouting, hysterical, thrilling mob by a close game and a splendid play or a stinging home run. In a street car, train, home or club one can often hear men of large affairs discussing by the hour the respective merits of favorite players. And in no light or transient spirit are these discussions held, but seriously, earnestly, almost as if it were a matter of the greatest import. A city's prestige is often the result of her standing in baseball.

It is a game for everybody—the rich, the poor, the well-to-do; for the smart, the dull, the indifferent; for the good, the bad, the ordinary. And it is often a clean, healthy sport. It requires the maximum coolness, nerve, skill and resourcefulness. It takes quick thinking and quick acting. These are some of the reasons that baseball is far the greatest national game, for its universality in America and for its invasion of some of the other countries of the globe.

STEAL LAND FROM CITY.

Chicago Corporations Occupy Property Contrary to the City's Law.

Chicago, No. 1.—Proof of additional encroachments on city property by corporations and a statement by Superintendent of Streets Doherty that $1,000,000 worth of city land on Kinzie street alone had been stolen from the municipality marked the second session of the public lands committee today.

Mr. Doherty supplements his statement by saying that inactive city officials in the past had refused to act upon complaints made to them, and that easily obtained injunctions had served to tie the hands of officials, who endeavored to cast corporations and persons from city land.

A special sub-committee, headed by Chairman McCoid, will investigate conditions on Kinzie street this week, and it is expected that as many violations will be found there as were found on West Water street.

The city should be receiving large sums as compensation for the encroachments discovered, was the declaration of Alderman McCoid. Commissioner Hanberg and Corporation Counsel Brundage were authorized by the commission to take immediate steps to reclaim the land or to get a compensation.

"Our investigations so far have brought to light violations that should net the city $2,000,000, and we have only just begun," said Alderman McCoid.

"For the last seven years," said Mr. Doherty, "I have been trying to get Maxwell Bros. to vacate city property at Twenty-first and Loomis streets. John A. Gauger has a switch track on city land at Twenty-third and Loomis streets and has no ordinance. The city is also paying rent for its own property at the Jackson boulevard bridge abutments."

Some tenants are as bad as fire. Herald want advertise for the sort who have consciences.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Work Being Pushed at the Hancock Consolidated---Good Showing at the Isle Royale---Thousand Pound Mass Unearthed at Lake.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 2.—At the Hancock Consolidated the big No. 2, shaft is down some 360 feet, and soon 1¾-ton buckets are to take the place of the small buckets now being used, and with this change sinking will be more rapid. The big hoist at this shaft is running smoothly. Housing in of the shaft is about completed, and that finished will close the work in the building way for this winter. The extensions into new ground at the ninth, tenth and eleventh levels of No. 1 shaft are disclosing values that are highly satisfactory. At the tenth level the run of ground on the west lode is almost continuous and the work thus far at the eleventh level indicates that the same good showing will be found in the drifts, as at the level above. The shaft is down over sixty feet below the eleventh level. Sinking in this shaft has been slow, owing to the broken formation it is passing through. It is expected soon to be back of the foot, when the ground will not require as close timbering. With a few more levels opened and values as good as at the ninth, tenth and eleventh, the Hancock Consolidated will be prepared to enter the list of producing mines, and to stay. Just what No. 1 may disclose in its downward course no man can say. It may cut something new and of big value.

With over one-half million of dollars available for development work, the finances of the Isle Royale are in shape to permit the rapid opening up of this property. While at present its fine stamp mill is not running to its full capacity negotiations have been practically closed whereby the old Hancock Consolidated will use one of the heads early next spring. By that time the Isle Royale will be in a position to furnish rock sufficient to keep the other heads busy both night and day, providing that such a course proves advisable. From what is known as the Isle Royale lode the rock being hoisted and ground opened is highly encouraging.

The Lake Copper company is encountering some exceptionally rich ground in sinking its shaft on the Baltic formation. A mass weighing about half a ton was taken out a few days ago and a number of smaller chunks have also been found. The lode is highly mineralized and while the shaft is only down some twenty or twenty-five feet, the showing is said to be of a very high character.

The old Union property is being unwatered by the Calumet & Hecla under the direction of Superintendent Tom Wilcox. It was desired to clear out only one of the two shafts, but it was found that they are connected and consequently it is necessary to remove

CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT

Movement to Erect Mill With 500 Tons Daily Capacity---Large Deposit of Galena Ore in Hahn's Peak District.

Colorado Springs, Col., Nov. 2.—James F. Burns, former president of the Portland Gold Mining & Milling company, is at the head of a movement to erect a 500-ton daily capacity mill for treating Cripple Creek ores, at $750,000 cost. The plant may be erected soon near Colorado Springs. The demand for mills, particularly those treating $25 to $2.50 ores, is extraordinarily large at present.

Debris from the old Denver mint, 1,200 tons or more, will be sent through the sluices on account of much free gold and other mineral values.

A large deposit of galena ore has been uncovered in the Hahn's Peak district. The ore runs high in lead and outcroppings extend over a large area at the base of the mountain. The values exceed those of any similar strike in that region.

The property of the Pactolus Hydraulic Mining company has been sold to Richard C. Brown for the Rocky Mountain National bank of Central City, Col., for $25,000, by the sheriff. The property comprises ten placer claims of 1,560 acres located in Northern Gilpin and Southern Boulder counties.

M. Aronstein and J. M. Miller, both of Colorado Springs, Col., have located a big vein of rich copper-gold ore on Muskrat creek, near Lusk, Wyo., and have organized the Wyoming Gold & Copper Mining company, to develop the property. The ore body was struck at twenty-three feet depth. It is ten feet wide and assays $97 a ton in gold, and 16 per cent in copper. A concentrator is probable.

The British-American Leasing company, which has been outputting five cars weekly of $60 ore from its block on the Dante mine, Cripple Creek, has increased the output to a car daily.

The Little Clara mine of the Work Gold Mining company, Cripple Creek, is shipping ten cars of $60 ore weekly.

Heavy shipments are being made from the Sidney tunnel from a 28-inch vein carrying an average value of $20 per ton in silver and lead. The property is located in the Georgetown, Col., district.

The Humphries-Thompson Leasing company will sink the Callie shaft on Gold Hill, Cripple Creek, 250 feet from 500. The ore is of $60 to $80 grade. A $2,500 retort resulted from a ten days' run on the fronclad mill. Approximately 1350 tons of ore were treated.

The season for dredging in Summit county, Col., placer mines has been generally successful. Two boats, to

MAP FOR LOCATING SMELTER

Engineer Brooks of the London-Arizona Explains Why the Place Has Not Yet Been Decided Upon---Great Prospects.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 2.—E. W. Brooks, the consulting engineer of the London-Arizona property, is in town on his return from Seattle, where he went some weeks ago, and he speaks hopefully of the future of the mine he represents.

The mine has undergone a complete reorganization since it was purchased a year ago from O'Carroll by the present owners, the London-Arizona company.

A topographical and geological survey is to be taken of the property in order that the management and stockholders may have an adequate idea of the mine. A smelter is also to be erected so that the ore may be treated at home.

"The exact location of the proposed smelter has not yet been determined," said Brooks. "A topographical map of five-foot contours wil be prepared the first part of next week, and from this we can determine the most advantageous place for locating the smelter. It will probably be at least two miles from the mine, and the ore will be transferred from the mine to the smelter by an aerial tramway.

"The mine was never operated systematically up to the time we assumed control of it. Approximately 100 shafts had been dug, but they are practically useless to us except in so far as they serve to show us in a measure the location of the mineral vein.

"We have done 4,000 feet of work upon the property, mainly in tunnels, and as we have been operating solely by hand work, we have pushed them as far as may be profitably done without the aid of machinery. Suitable machinery will be installed, however, as soon as possible. We are running on medium grade ore averaging 6 per cent, although a relatively small part of it runs as high as 20 per cent. Copper has been handled profitably as low as 1¾ per cent. This has been done in but one instance to my knowledge, and then only with self-fluxing ore, but since the London-Arizona ore is also self-fluxing, our margin of profit will be proportionately as large."

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Work Likely to be Resumed in Carbonate Camp Near Deadwood---Preliminary Work Started by Gilt Edge Maid Company.

Deadwood, S. D., Nov. 2.—Indications point to an early resumption of work in the old Carbonate Camp, a few miles south west of Deadwood. If this occurs this section of the Hills will see some of its richest mining districts developed with modern methods.

To many of the present day mining men there has never been any satisfactory explanation for the cessation of work in the Carbonate Camp other than that there was a decided lack of railroad facilities. This has long since been overcome and Carbonate today would be in a position to have its ore handled as expeditiously as any other district. Then some fifteen years ago, before the silver slump had caused the cessation everywhere of the big silver properties, mining men here commenced to turn their attention to the large bodies of lower grade ore in the flat formation. The Carbonate district was essentially a high grade silver camp where ore was mined with the view of depth according to the verticals. Such mines as the Far West, Seabury-Calkins, Rattler-Gilroy, La Platte, Darboy and Spanish R., back in the 80's showed some remarkably rich mineral which netted their owners or leasers large sums. Then came the Iron Hill strike, where wonderfully rich pockets of silver ore were found, and the rush to the district, which, with the vagaries of time and miners, was five years later a memory to all intents and purposes.

But some of the more practical, with the developments and progress of the years, believed that the high grade mineralized matter was not all silver and that gold in rich quantities existed in and around Carbonate. Reasoning on the same theory as the developers of the Leadville of today as compared with the old silver camp, local mining men are looking for a chance to prove Carbonate a second Leadville.

Preliminary work at the property of the Gilt Edge Maid Gold Mining company at Turner, started this week when a force of men were put on to repair the 200-ton cyanide mill. This has not been in operation since last January, when it closed down owing to the slight hour day demands. The mill is expected to be in full operation again in two weeks, being supplied with ore from the open cut, and work on a new shaft, which will be sunk several hundred feet, will be commenced in a few weeks. The officers of the company believe that a greater depth will disclose the high grade ore bodies from which surface float has come, and to this end will sink a new shaft. Secretary and General Manager Ogden announced that all funds necessary for the project have been raised.

To inspect the new strike on the Gold Queen property near this city, officers of the company from Kewanee, Ill., are now here on a visit. About two weeks ago Superintendent Hall struck in the west drift on the 200-foot devel a body of good looking mineral that is believed to run high in gold. Samples of the ore have been sent East and returns are expected shortly. The Gold Queen was formerly the Queen of the Hills Mining company and is controlled almost entirely by Illinois capital.

NO RETRENCHMENT IN GLOBE

Globe Consolidated and Other Development Companies Pushing Work With Vigor—The Old Dominion Has Full Force at Work and is Opening Up New Ground.

Globe, Ariz., Nov. 2.—The unsettled condition of the copper market and the worse than unsettled condition of the copper share market are not reflected in the operations of the big development companies of the Globe district. At the Globe Consolidated, the Superior & Boston and National Mining Exploration, work is being pushed just as though copper were selling at 25 cents and shares at twice their par value. At the Gem shaft of the Globe Consolidated, 125 feet remain to be sunk before the long looked for cross-cutting begins, the shaft now measuring 1,075 feet deep, with no change in the formation. At the Globe-Boston shaft of the same company the south drift on the 780 level has been started, but work is progressing slowly until the water problem is settled by the installation of the pumping plant.

At the Superior & Boston active development work continues with undiminished forces on the three claims of the company, which are being explored. There has been a decided improvement in the west drift in the Black Oxide, the face of the drift now being in ore which runs better than 8 per cent. This drift has been in ore for a distance of over 130 feet and grows richer with distance. The west drift on the 220 level of the Limestone shaft has opened the vein for a distance of ninety-five feet, all in good ore. At the Great Eastern shaft, drifting from the 500 level of the Black Hawk shaft has been temporarily suspended, owing to the discontinuation of work by the Arizona Commercial company. The drift was sixty feet into the Great Eastern ground when the work was suspended and was in ore all of the way. A station is being cut at the 450 level of the Great Eastern which corresponds with the 500 level of the Black Hawk mine, and as soon as the station is completed crosscutting will be started, with the intention of connecting with the drift from the 500 level of the Black Hawk.

At the Iron Cap mine of the National Mining Exploration company, a full force of twenty men are being worked and this force will be considerably agumented as soon as the pumping plant is installed and sinking can be resumed. Lateral work is still in progress on the 450-foot level and consists of both cross-cutting and drifting.

When all other larger mines in the country are retrenching by cutting off production and partially or wholly suspending development work, the Old Dominion company, the leading company of the Globe district, is resuming development operations which had been temporarily suspended and beginning new exploratory work. Work which was discontinued in B shaft several weeks ago was Friday morning resumed. On the 10th level drifting into Buffalo hill was again taken up, as the work on the drift on the twelfth level toward A shaft to make connection for better ventilation with the mine. At C shaft sinking was also resumed Friday at the eighth level, which will be sunk to the tenth level. Two drifts had been run from A shaft into C shaft territory with the intention of starting upraises, but this idea was abandoned because of the heaviness of the ground. All of the ground above the ninth level has now been drained and the ground below the ninth is now being drained through the drift on the tenth to A shaft, the water being hosted through the latter shaft. The ground is now comparatively free from water and sinking may be resumed, with good results.

The winze from the fourteenth level to the sixteenth, which has attracted widespread attention among mining men, has been ocmpleted and the lowest workings of the mine are 1,225 feet deep. The station on the sixteenth is being cut and already about sixteen feet of the work has been done. As soon as completed, crosscutting will begin to reach the big sulphide veins, the discovery of which on throughout the copper mining world. I is estimated that sulphide vein No. 1 will be reached with eighty or one hundred feet of cross-cutting, and if the estimate is correct, the vein should be encountered by the middle of November. It is confidently expected that the work on the new level of the Old Dominion mine will show that it is one of the richest high grade copper mines, if not the richest, in the world.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 2.—It is very authoritatively stated and believed that the Cochise Consolidated Copper company of Paradise, whose property was recently sold for debts, will redeem it in time required by law. The property was sold at auction to satisfy a judgment held against it by Madison F. Larkin of Scranton, Pa., being due on a note and trust deed given to Mr. Larkin by the company last March. The property was bid in for the sum of $23,500.

A new mining company, composed of Los Angeles capitalists, has been organized under the name of the Copper Basin Mining company to operate properties near Prescott in Yavapai county. The property first to be operated is contiguously situated to the Commercial Mining company's grounds and is considered by mining men to be a valuable property. The new company is composed of John M. Bench, Jr., New York; V. Carlson and Col. John R. Berry of Los Angeles; Ed F. Waddingham of Riverside, Cal.

A number of wealthy business and professional men of Macon, Ga., have become interested in a group of twelve claims and mines in the Black Rock mining district, Yavapai county and the work of rebuilding the reduction plant destroyed by fire last spring is to begin at once. The company's holdings known as the Three Black Buttes are in the vicinity, not far from Wickenburg, a splendid gold mining section, situated in the southern part of the county.

Paradise, Ariz., Nov. 2.—Manager J. G. Sweeney began annual work on the Sullivan, (Duluth-Chiricahua Development company); and it is understood that he will employ four men for about two months. This work will not be done in the shaft, but at other points on the property.

There is also a rumor current here that Lavery, Hedburg, et al., will do annual work on the same claims, which would thus have double assessment work accomplished on them. At any rate, it is learned here on good authority that the case involving title to certain claims in the Sullivan group and not long ago decided in favor of the Duluth-Chiricahua company in the district court, has been appealed to the supreme court. This would mean indefinite litigation; and of course there will be no extensive mining operations on the property until the case is finally settled.

BUTTE OUTPUT STILL SMALL

Good Reports on Condition of the North Butte—Minnie Healy Mine Free From Smoke and Gas—Large Bodies of Ore Blocked Out by East Butte.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 2.—The citation remains practically unchanged, and the output of the various properties continue at about 25 per cent of the normal.

Good reports are given regarding the North Butte. It was said recently that the grade of its ores had fallen to 4 per cent, and that it would soon be as low as 3 per cent, but it stated on the very best authority that the last two levels are showing ores averaging considerably better than 10 per cent, and that they make a better showing in gold and silver than the levels higher up. This authority also states that the average width of the veins in the Jessie and Edith May mines average twenty feet strong, which is a greater width than was shown in the levels above. Not more than one-third of the mineralized ore of this company is under course of development. There is excellent reason for belief that its officials are quite conversant with the values of the Berlin group of claims, as the result of reliable data gathered before their purchase. These claims will be subjected to a very thorough examination within another year, and should the expected developments materialize, but little time will be required to place the property in shape to produce 60,000,000 pounds of copper per annum.

The Minnie Healy mine of the Butte Coalition company is now entirely clear of smoke and gas, and it has been positively ascertained that there has been no fire in that proprty, the fire being confined to the Colusa-Leonard of the Boston & Montana company, and it is today nearly as bad as ever. The Boston & Montana, however, is engaged in sinking four shafts to the fire level, and it is only a question of time when they will be able to get at the fire and control it. The Butte Coalition company has been recently shipping 500 tons of ore daily, and of a better grade than for a long time. There is talk that the next dividend will be passed, as earnings are being consumed in expenses and construction work.

Operations have been resumed at the mines and smelter of the Pittsburg & Montana Copper Mining company. A total of about 150 men will be employed throughout the property. The smelter will treat about 150 tons of ore a day. The smelter has been remodeled to a considerable extent, under the direction of Oscar Rohm, the general superintendent, and the process now employed conforms in a general way to that in use at the older smelters of the district.

The miners employed at the Stewart mine, one of the Clark properties, have had a week's vacation. This was made necessary by the fact that the west shaft of that property was being equipped with a steel dumping arrangement at the ore bins. This improvement will be of a permanent character and is justified by the action of the city council and in granting the street railway company a renewal of its franchise for hauling ore over the city tracks from the mine to the Butte Reduction works.

The North Butte Extension Copper Mining company is making good progress in shaft sinking. The shaft is now about 300 feet deep, and as soon as a sump is completed a station will be cut. Last week a promising stringer of ore was cut in the shaft. It is two feet wide and assays in copper, silver and gold. It is believed to be a stringer from the Black Rock vein, which lies about sixty-five feet south of the shaft. The shaft will be sunk to a depth of 1,000 or 1,200 feet.

At the Clark reduction works there has been some interference with operations on account of the trouble with striking machinists, who have prevented employes making repairs on broken machinery. The October copper production of the Butte district will fall below 9,000,000 pounds. Of that amount the Great Falls and Washoe smelters produce about 7,000,000. They treat the ore of all the Amalgamated mines and the North Butte-Butte Coalition and some custom ore. The only other producers of account now are the Clark mines, and they add less than 1,800,000 pounds to the total output. Nearly all lessees on copper ore in the Butte district have been shut off, and those employed by the East Butte company are about the only ones working. Lessees on the upper levels of the East Butte ship ore to Utah for treatment.

Large bodies of ore blocked out put the East Butte in position to ship ore on a large scale as soon as the copper market justifies it. Considerable drifting has been done on the rich ore body recently opened on the 900-foot level with very satisfactory results. The vein on the 900-foot level, north of No. 1 shaft, is sixty-two feet wide and contains four feet of 12 per cent copper ore, the remainder of the vein being good second class.

The lessees in the Ophir mine of the Butte Central and Boston company are shipping a lot of high grade silver ore to the Washoe smelter. Several large bodies of good ore have recently been opened on the 500 and 300-foot levels of the Ophir, and the royalties paid by lessees more than pay the company's expenses.

The Butte and Bacorn Copper company is still pushing development work at the 1,000-foot level of the Calumet shaft. In both the drifts north and south of the shaft of the mineralization is encouraging, although the showing is better in the south drift. This drift has progressed westward along the vein nearly 300 feet and a number of fine stringers have come into the load. The company's engineers expect an improvement in the next 200 feet. The company intends to explore thoroughly the veins on the 1,000-foot level and will continue the drifts on both at least 1,500 feet. If no ore bodies are found at that depth the shaft will be sunk 500 feet deeper. The Butte and Bacorn is one of the best mining chances in the Butte district. It is conceded by experienced mining engineers that if a mine is developed it will be a big one, and mining men generally believe it is only a question of going deep enough to get ore.

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Ore Shipments for Present Season Will Exceed 40,000,000 Tons —Hull-Rust Mine Making Great Record—Best Year in History of Swanzey Group of Marquette Mines.

There is no doubt the Lake Superior ore shipments for the season will exceed 40,000,000 tons. The only question concerns the proportions of the tonnage over and above that mark. Already there have been forwarded in excess of 36,700,000 gross tons, of which some 6,200,000 tons were sent to the lower lakes during the month just closed, and there remain six weeks or more during which interlake navigation will be possible. A slackening tendency will be noticeable from this time forward, as is customary toward the fag end of the season, when vessels are withdrawn from the trade as winter approaches, and when cold weather materially hampers operations on the ranges, but there are some shippers with considerable portions of their contracts to fill and for this reason ore will be kept moving almost until ice forms in the rivers.

As indicated now the aggregate figures for the year will show between 42,000,000 and 43,000,000 gross tons of ore sent forward via the lakes. A movement of 43,000,000 tons would be a gain of some 3,500,000 tons over the record-breaking outgo last season, and 7,650,000 tons in excess of the 34,350,000 tons shipped in 1906, prior to which year there never was a time when, with the exception of 1902, the Lake Superior region sent out as much as 25,000,000 tons of ore. Of the 36,700,000 tons moved to date this season, something like 24,400,000 tons have come from the Mesaba range alone, or double the amount of ore shipped from the four other ranges combined. The Mesaba has produced more ore so far this year than did all five ranges in the entire season of 1904, when 21,800,000 tons measured the total movement.

It is still too early to discuss the prospects for next season, but in view of indications of a business reaction of varied degree in varied lines of industrial enterprise it would occasion no particular surprise were the demand for ore to show materially less vigor. As far as the mines are concerned, they will be prepared to produce much more heavily—this is assured from the great volume of development work now in progress or contemplated—but as it is the understanding that no ore will be forwarded unless contracted for in advance, a falling off in shipments to the extent of several million tons is not improbable. Stripping operations are in progress on a truly mammoth scale on the Mesaba range, have been all season, in fact, and unless present plans are countermanded the work will be continued with unprecedented vigor throughout the winter. On the old ranges the stockpiles have been well cleaned up, and this means that operations will be actively prosecuted with no cessation after the season of navigation closes.

It is roughly estimated that between 35,000,000 and 40,000,000 tons of ore will be needed next year. Whatever the amount, the Lake Superior region is practically certain of another twelve-month of great prosperity. Exploratory, development and mining work was never more vigorous; wages were never so high, or labor in such demand, and it is fully expected these conditions will continue for a long while yet. The mines must be kept in a state of preparedness to meet all demands upon them; the ore must be well opened ahead in order that it may be the more economically won, and thus little likelihood is seen of any particular curtailment. Many of the producing properties have been taxed to the utmost to meet the demands upon them the past two seasons, and the strain is telling. This is why, almost irrespective of the state of the iron market, the coming year promises well for the mining region.

The Hull-Rust mine, one of the Steel corporation's big properties in the Hibbing district, is making a great record this year and will close the season with something like 2,000,000 tons to its credit. It has been working four steam shovels in one. Next year the Hull-Rust will be prepared for still bigger things, and in case the product is needed no particlar difficulty will be experienced in excelling the remarkable achievement scored by the Mountain Iron mine last season. This was the shipment of 2,536,000 tons—the world's record for a single producer—on top of a movement of 2,495,000 tons the preceding year. Three shovels have been engaged in stripping at the Hull-Rust all year, and this work will continue throughout the winter. It will be possible to keep from six to eight shovels in ore next season. The same will be true of the Steel corporation's big Morris mine. Four or five shovels have been active in the removal of surface material here all year, and there will be little relaxation in the stripping operations after cold weather sets in. Similar work will continue at the Burt pit all winter, and next spring will find a huge excavation more than double the size of the area stripped a year ago at that time.

The Hartley, also a Steel corporation property, and which sent out its first ore two months ago, will be one of the heaviest shippers on the range next

PLENTY OF GOLDFIELD GOLD

Complaint Entered That the Railroads Cannot Carry It Away---Goldfield Consolidated to Erect a Mill of 100 Stamps.

Goldfield, Nev., Nov. 2.—More ore is being mined in the district than the railroad and mills can handle. This is due to the inability of the Tonapah & Goldfield railway to furnish enough empty cars to take care of the product. The railway officials say the slowness of the consignees receiving merchandise in unloading cars is responsible. They say they have used every effort to induce merchants to empty the cars in order that they can be used for the transportation of ore.

The manager of the Western Ore Purchasing company said:

"We are still piling up ore on the ground and we are not able to get more than two and three cars a day, when we need six cars a day for weeks in order to free the ore bins and get rid of the necessity of having to dump the rock on the ground, which means an extra cost for handling."

Frank M. Ish, one of the principal owners of the Mohawk Combination lease, said: "I went through the workings of the property and the mine is looking big. The new ore shoot, which was opened at the 200-foot level promises well. Our ore bin capacity is limited and we have had to dump some of the ore on the ground. The drifts are almost impassable on account of ore that has been broken and not hoisted. The best we can do is to get two cars a day, and what we need is from seven to eight to keep us real busy. The average grade of the ore is running in excess of $100."

Preliminary tests of the ores of the various properties owned by the Goldfield Consolidated Mines company have been completed and the exact method for their treatment has been determined. Plans are now being prepared for the mill to treat the output of the properties. It is proposed to handle no ore that runs over $50 a ton in the mill, but the high-grade will be shipped, as at present, to the smelters.

The mill will at first consist of 100 stamps, all arrangements being made for enlarging the plant when necessary. In working out the treatment method it was decided to equip the works with a cyanide plant that will handle the tailings "green," or direct from the mill. In fact, the change from ore to bullion will be made within a very brief time, the raw material passing rapidly from one process to the next.

The mill will be operated as nearly automatical as possible. It will handle about 300 tons a day, five times the capacity of the mill that the company is now operating on Combination ground.

Mining men are watching with interest the developments at the Original Velvet lease, east of the big producers. Two years ago a rich shoot of ore was found near the surface which contained some of the best ore ever mined in the district. The vein faulted and has never since been found. It is believed by some that the Original Velvet has rediscovered the vein. It has cut a vein in a crossct at a depth of seventy-two feet, which carries two feet of $75 ore, identical in appearance with the lost vein's product.

GREENE TURNS BACK STOCK

Donates Big Block to the Gold-Silver Company to Raise Funds But Still Holds Control of the Company.

New York, Nov. 2.—Col. W. C. Greene, president of the Greene Gold-Silver company, capitalized at $25,000,000, has presented to the company a block of stock the par value of which is $7,865,960. Of this, $5,498,350 is common and $2,379,610 preferred stock.

The reason ascribed for this return of stock to the treasury of the company is that the mining concern is in need of ready money to continue operations in the 120 or more properties which have been acquired in Mexico in recent years.

It was said at the offices of the company as No. 24 Broad street that this donation of nearly $3,000,000 of stock by Col. Greene will not endanger his control of the concern. Although the amount of his holdings in the Greene Gold-Silver company has not been made public, it is understood that he still owns more than half the entire stock issue.

An official of the company said: "There is nothing remarkable about this transaction. Once before Col. Greene turned back a large block of stock to a company controlled by him. This was back in 1898, when the affairs of the Greene Copper company were in such a state that money was needed quickly. Col. Greene at that time donated about $1,000,000 of his personal holdings of stock to the company. The capital of the company at that time was only $5,000,000.

"In this instance Col. Greene, by donating nearly $3,000,000 in stock to the company, is merely throwing himself into a breach which could not be filled any other way. The company is in need of cash in order to carry on operations. The condition of the money market has driven the price of stock down very low. The stock which has been donated by Col. Greene will be sold and the proceeds devoted to renewing operations on the mining properties."

The general balance sheet of the Greene Gold-Silver company as of July 31, 1907, combining accounts of New York and Mexico offices, shows current assets, $2,-858,641; current liabilities, $3,025,338; investments, $27,423,320; capital stock, $25,000,000, and profit and loss deficit, $5,309,085. The company claims "real assets" of $33,-000,000.

SALE OF ERIE MINE AT COBALT

Said to be Pending---Several Good Strikes Are Reported---Contract Signed for Concentrator for the Foster Company.

Cobalt, Ont., Nov. 2.—The Erie mine has laid off men and the sale of the property is said to be pending. A good strike is reported on lot 14, concession 4, Coleman, on a claim belonging to Napoleon Charrette. The strike was made at a depth of 25 feet, a vein of calcite and silver. Rudolph Boudeur, private secretary to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and Alexander McDonald, the Klondike king, are also said to be interested in the property. Another strike is reported on lot 18, concession 6, Coleman, near Iron Lake. The assays are running 300 ounces of silver to the ton.

The announcement was made recently that a concentrator woul dbe erected on the property of the Foster company. A contract has just been signed between the mine officials and the Cobalt Concentrators, Limited, for the mill. While no details regarding the construction were given out, the new mill will doubtless be of the same kind as that now on the Nipissing property.

There have been persistent rumors of the discovery of a new vein on the Cobalt Central carrying rich silver values in a cross-cut from the second level of the Big Pete mine, but the management have refused to deny or affirm the story. It is officially announced that ten new concentrating plants will be in full operation before the end of the month, as all of the machinery has now been received and set up. Shipments hereafter will be made only in the form of bar silver or concentrates.

As a result of the inspection of the property of the Manhattan-Cobalt, Limited, at Victoria Creek, and Larder and Pancake Lakes by a number of directors, the company has decided to erect a stamp mill at Victoria creek, on which a large body of ore has been located, averaging in value $12 in gold and 100 ounces of silver to the ton.

On the McKinley-Darragh property work is being carried on at a rapid rate and shipments are made right along. The concentrating plant continues to treat fifteen tons of ore every day, and it is found that the dump ore is running from thirty to 100 ounces to the ton, while the concentrating ore averages from 1,200 to 2,000 ounces. The Hoffer dam at the end of the lake is now built, and the water almost puniped out.

The Bailey Cobalt reports having made a good strike in a 15-inch vein of decomposed calcite, cobalt and silver. Supt. Minard will sink a shaft on the new vein. The Bailey Cobalt has another new and important find this week in a drift from No. 1 tunnel, about 100 fet in. This strike comprises three veins, one calcite and two cobalt, smaltite and silver. All three carry native silver, and will make eighteen inches of No. 1 shipping ore at this point. Another vein about 150 feet in, on No. 1 tunnel, is about eight inches wide, and very promising.

What is described as the best indication of future richness yet found on the Foster has been struck recently on the 75-foot level. The vein on which No. 8 shaft was sunk had but small silver values, but now at 50 feet from No. 8 shaft in the drift a number of stringers have come together, and a vein of smaltite from eight to ten inches wide, very rich in native silver and cobalt, has developed. The returns from the last Foster car shipped were $36,119, silver values running 1,500 ounces to the ton and a high percentage in cobalt. In a few days a car will be shipped from the drift on No. 8 vein.

UTAH MINES LESSEN OUTPUT

Production of Cactus Mine Curtailed by the Newhouse Company---Daly-West Closed, Owing to a Strike of Miners.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 2.—Lessened metal production from the mines of Utah is a certainty for at least a month or two. As to the duration of the letup there is much doubt. The Newhouse Mines & Smelter company has decided to curtail production from its Cactus mine in Beaver county one-half, and 300 of the 450 men employed in mine and mill will be discharged. This means that the Cactus will send to market or store 500,000 pounds of copper monthly in the place of 1,000,000. Development will be continued on the 700 and 800 levels, and virtually all of the ore produced will be taken out in development work.

No Park City mine has been affected, though the Daly-West is closed owing to a strike of miners for the recognition of their union. The Daly and the Ontario mines, controlled by the Bambergers, are idle, but they were closed except for work on the caved drain tunnel of the Ontario before the Daly-West strike. A report that the Daly Judge was to close is vigorously denied by the management, who say that the report grew out of the smelting company's request to ease up for a few days until the latter's yards could be cleared. The Dalton and Lark mine has been closed down for the present, as far as production is concerned.

John Dern, president of the May Day, Lower Mammoth and Uncle Sam companies and an officer of the Tintic Mine Owners' association, does not believe that any lead producer will be required to curtail his product. The Yampa mine at Bingham, it is given out semi-officially, will remain partially closed down only for about five weeks, when there will be a general resumption both at mine and smelter. The fires have been drawn at the smelter, but repair men and machinists have been retained and work is being pushed on all the improvements, including the aerial tramways.

Dividends amounting to $114,500 have been declared by both mines as follows: Mammoth (Tintic), $20,000; Colorado (Tintic), $60,000; Grand Central (Tintic), $12,-500; Utah (Fish Springs), $2,000; Beck Tunnel (Tintic), $20,000. The Colorado's dividend is only one-half of the amount, $120,000, paid in September. The Beck Tunnel's last dividend in August was $30,000. It is just a year since the Mammoth company paid its last dividend, and it is understood that the company now has a surplus in excess of $150,000. In addition, it is known that one of the richest streaks of gold ever opened in the mine has been found on the 1,300 level. The Lower Mammoth company, which has been paying dividends each month for some time, passed its October dividend. This, I tis explained, is due to the substitution of a new hoist for an old one.

The Lehi-Tintic company, operating in North Tintic, has made an important strike in the south drift, being run from the Empire tunnel. Eighteen inches of high-grade sand carbonate ore has been cut.

The O'Meara Brothers of this city have received news of a strike on their Nevada-Alpine mine on Lone Mountain, near Tonopah. An ore body has been uncovered on the lower levels which goes 800 ounces in silver and 50 per cent lead.

WISCONSIN CENTRAL RAILWAY IS BLASTING ITS WAY THROUGH ROCKS TO SITE OF NEW DEPOT

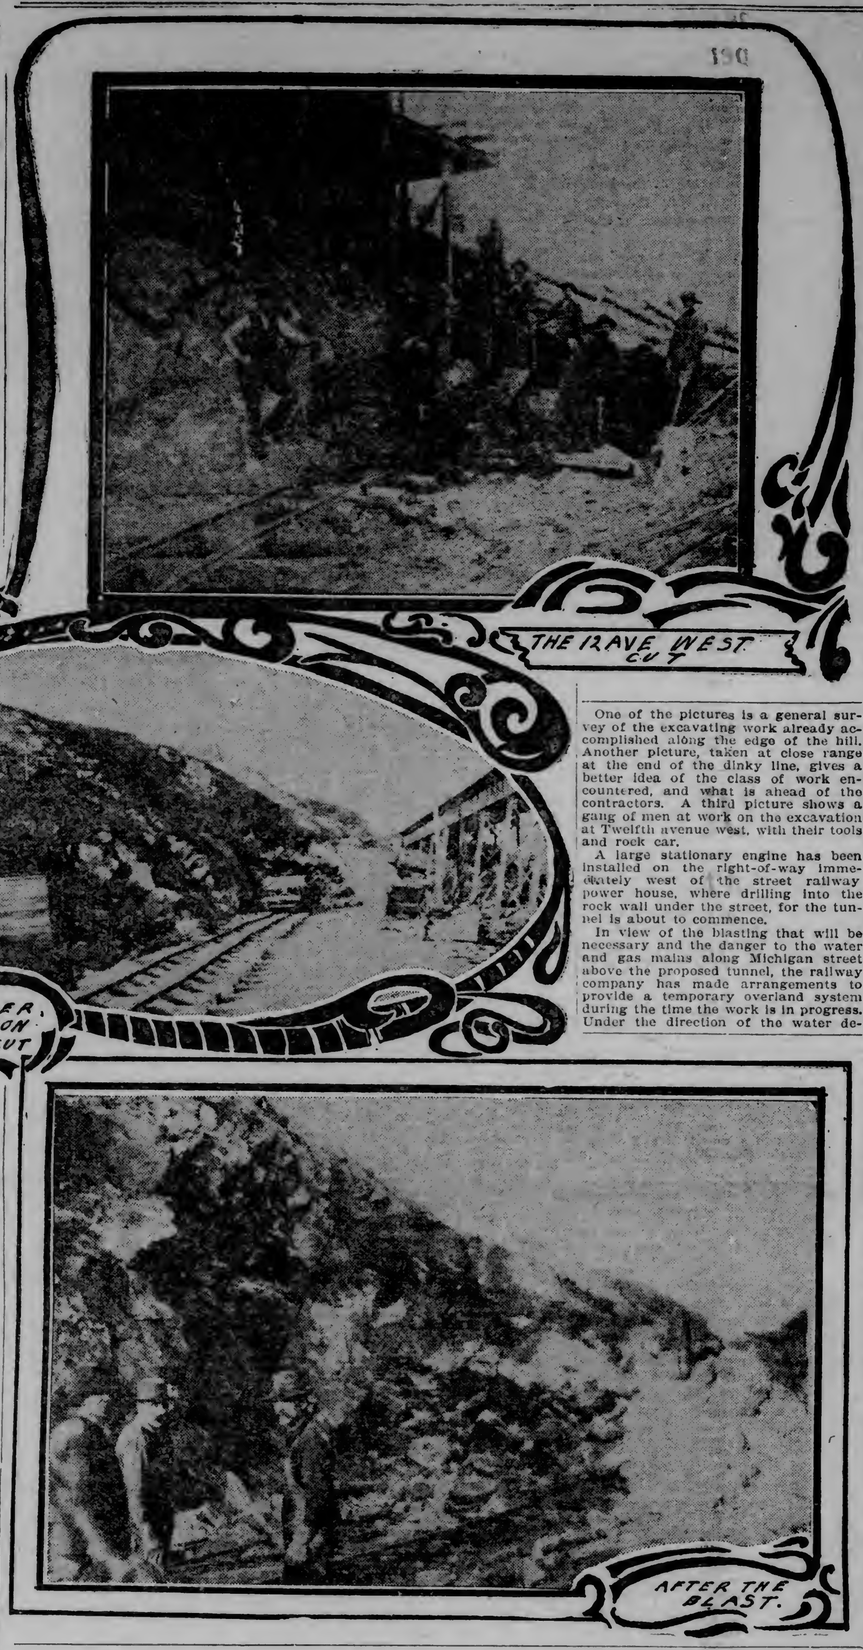
Active Operations Behind High Board Fence in West End.

Material From the Hill is Used to Fill Low Places.

One of the biggest pieces of contract work that has been undertaken in Duluth for a long time is that now in progress for the Wisconsin Central Railway company in the vicinity of Twelfth and Thirteenth avenue west, below Michigan street.

In the locality mentioned the contractors have for several weeks had a large gang of men at work excavating the earth and blasting out the rock on the right-of-way by which the railroad company will come into the central part of the city. In the neighborhood of Thirteenth avenue west an almost solid rock wall has been encountered, and where there are gaps in this wall considerable loose rock material and rubbish has been dumped in years past.

To the contractors falls the job of cutting out the hill and leveling the right-of-way preparatory to the grading of the roadbed and the laying of rails.



Although the contractors have been driving away at the big hill for some time and have made excellent progress, there still remains a big part of the contract to be finished on the section between Garfield avenue and the street railway power house between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues west, at which point the new railway line will enter a tunnel to be constructed under Michigan street to Eighth avenue west.

All the material that is being taken out of the hill is being used to advantage in filling up the swamp below Michigan street west of Thirteenth avenue west.

Dynamite is being used quite freely and some immense boulders have been chipped off the rock wall, and rolled or hauled to help fill up the low ground in the right-of-way. All the material excavated on the right-of-way can be used for the fillings close by. In fact the contractors will not have to haul the material taken from under Michigan street any great distance before it can be used.

The high board fence that the contractors have built along the inner edge of the sidewalk between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues west, has caused more or less curiosity on the part of people passing, some of whom thought that the men at work wished to carry on their operations under great secrecy.

The fact of the matter is that the contractors are using a great deal of dynamite to break up the rock and, for some time they were troubled by the crowd of curious people who hung over the fence in proximity of the work, watching the effect of the blasting. This practice was not only a nuisance to those in charge of the work, but there was grave danger that somebody might be hit by falling pieces of rock and damage cases would ensue. The contractors seemed to have figured it cheaper to build a tight fence along the property to keep people away than to take chances with damage suits.

The contractors already have a little line of railway operating on the right-of-way. As shown by the accompanying pictures the "railroad" is of the narrow gauge type, and on it is operated the small hand-pushed dump car for carrying away the pieces of rock.

One of the pictures is a general survey of the excavating work already accomplished along the edge of the hill. Another picture, taken at close range at the end of the dinky line, gives a better idea of the class of work encountered, and what is ahead of the contractors. A third picture shows a gang of men at work on the excavation at Twelfth avenue west, with their tools and rock car.

A large stationary engine has been installed on the right-of-way immediately west of the street railway power house, where drilling into the rock wall under the street, for the tunnel is about to commence.

In view of the blasting that will be necessary and the danger to the water and gas mains along Michigan street above the proposed tunnel, the railway company has made arrangements to provide a temporary overland system during the time the work is in progress. Under the direction of the water department the necessary connections are now being made at Twelfth avenue west for the overland system of mains. The expense of the changes will be borne by the railway company, also any damage that may be incurred.

The Gotzian Shoe

The weak parts of the hide--neck and back--are not used in making THE GOTZIAN SHOE. Each part of the shoe is cut out so that the strongest leather will come, where the most strength is required. The toughest part of the hide, which is that below the backbone, is used in making the fore parts of the vamps.

This is one of the reasons why THE GOTZIAN SHOE holds its shape and has such excellent wearing qualities. It costs more to produce shoes in this way, but it insures a greater degree of durability--GOTZIAN QUALITY.

Over half a century of experience in shoemaking enables the Gotzian Shoe makers to build shoes which excel.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

the water from both. The work is well under way. A good sized chunk of copper has been found protruding from one of the drifts

Work will probably be started on No. 2 shaft of the Ojibway Mining company. This will be about 1,000 feet from No. 1 shaft, and identical in every respect to this opening. No. 1 shaft is to have a concrete foundation through the overburden, which at the point where the ledge was encountered is thirty-two feet. This work has been started and will be completed within the next week. It is expected that it will be possible to sink an average of about 100 feet per month. It is the intention of the management to continue No. 1 shaft to a depth of about 3,000 feet when a crosscut will be run forty feet distance.

The four stamps at the Mohawk's mill have been compounded and are now ready for full operation. The capacity of these is about 700 tons each per day. There are in operation, however, but three of the four heads, and there is no intention at the present time to increase the working force.

cost $105,000 each, are being built for the Colorado Gold Dredging company, to operate in the Swan valley.

Joseph H. Tumback, representing New York and other capitalists, has secured a bond on the entire property of the Poughkeepsie group, near Ouray. The property consists of twenty-five lode claims. In July, 1906, a strike created much interest in the group. The first discovery was free gold. But little work has been one, although the surface work made a good showing. A fund of $5,000 has been raised to exploit the property still further. A 200-foot crosscut tunnel to cut the vein at seventy-five feet depth is under way. If the property is purchased according to bond, a development tunnel will be run from Poughkeepsie gulch to develop the vein. The original discovery assayed 160 ounces in gold per ton with thirty ounces in mill test.

A car of ore shipped by the Iron City group in Corkscrew Gulch, Ouray, Col., showed 26.22 per cent copper, and 15 ounces in silver, a total of $995 for the car of seventeen tons.

year. The stripping program is a big one. The Monroe, which entered the shipping list in 1905 and which last season forwarded 300,000 tons, will be in position to produce well in excess of a million tons next year. Three shovels are engaged in enlarging the pit. A similar program is in progress at the Sellers. Tremendous activity in the same conection is noted at the giant Mahoning mine, in which the Steel corporation and Cambria Steel company are jointly interested. The big pit, already the largest on the globe, is being increased in size fully one-third, and in addition a new pit, south of the Hull mine, is being opened by the Mahoning company. East of the Hull, and between the open pit and the town of Hibbing, the Steel corporation has drills at work further proving up the tremendous ore body known to exist there, the biggest single deposit ever discovered anywhere.

The sinking of a second shaft has been started at the Jones & Laughlin Steel company's new Mesaba mine at Aurora. Drills had previously been at work locating the extension of the ore body. The shaft is going down south of No. 1, and in the meantime development work is being pushed in that portion of the property already opened. Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s new St. James mine at Aurora continues inactive and it is not known when it will be put in commission again. This property, which is an underground proposition, was closed down a few weeks ago after some hundreds of thousands of dollars had been expended in bringing it to the producing stage. Evidently there has been no need for the St. James ore this season. Corrigan, McKinney & Co. are heavy operators in the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee range, and their group of properties there have been wrought with vigor all season.

With a record of 8,200,000 tons of ore produced to date, the Soudan or Minnesota property of the Steel corporation, in the Tower district of the Vermilion range, is entering on a new lease of life. Open in 1884, the first mine to be developed in the Gopher state, the Minnesota was thought to be rapidly petering out a few years ago, and many dismal reports were circulated in that connection. However, diamond drill exploration was continued all the while, and the results have been flattering. Sinking below the 1,200-foot level, which had been popularly supposed to form the bed of the mineral-bearing basin, the miners ran into ore previously cut by the drills at a point some 1,500 feet below the surface, and since then the lateral development has been productive of the discovery of a second deposit. The experience has been somewhat similiar to events on the Gogebic range, where ore is now being mined at depths of 2,000 feet when it wasn't so many years ago that the ground below the 1,000-foot level was considered barren. It will be some time yet before the extent of the newly opened ore bodies at the Minnesota will be approximately determined, but the work already done gives indication the deposits are very large. The ore is of the same high grade for which the Minnesota has always been noted. Shaft No. 8 is down to the thirteenth level now, and the ore at that depth averages 65 per cent. A force of upwards of 400 men is employed, and both mining and development work are proceeding vigorously.

The close of the season of navigation will find comparatively little ore in stock in the Ishpeming and Negaunee districts, in which are produced the great bulk of the ore mined on the Marquette range. A number of the larger stockpiles have been cleaned up, and the last of the ore from several others will be shipped within the next two or three weeks. The season has been quite as active as any in the past, particularly so during the time of the labor troubles on the Mesaba. A score of train crews have been kept busy in the railroad yards of the two cities, and eight or nine steam shovels have been loading from stockpiles since navigation opened. The largest stockpile on the range is that of the Republic Iron & Steel company's Lillie mine at Negaunee. It contains 50,000 tons, but it will be materially reduced by shipments yet to be made. The next largest stockpile is at the Steel corporation's Lake Superior Hematite at Ishpeming. Shipments from it are, however, proceeding. Little ore is left at the Steel corporation's section 21 mine, an Ishpeming property which has been closed down since last spring, and in the same field the stockpiles have all been cleaned up at the Cleveland Cliff Iron company's Stillsbury, Cleveland Lake and Cliff shaft mines. No ore is left in stock at the Steel corporation's Regent group at Negaunee, where additional stockpile room is being made at the Queen mine, and there is no ore on surface at the Maas, Rolling Mill and other of the mines in the district. The Buffalo & Susquehanna company's Ohio mine, in the Michigamme district, has finished its shipments for the season and is now putting ore in stock.

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company will ship some 400,000 gross tons of ore from its Swanzey group of Marquette range mines this season. The various workings are for the most part only newly developed, and for this reason the record for the year, the best in the history of the field, is counted as a very fine achievement. The first property was opened as long ago as 1872, but it has had a very checkered career. First known as the Smith, then the Cheshire, then the Swanzey, and now the Princeton. It changed hands a number of times, and finally went begging while a receiver tried to dispose of it. Tod, Stambaugh & Co. of Cleveland eventually took over the mine, and after opening a good body of ore sold their interests to the Cleveland-Cliffs company. Now the Princeton is a very good mine. Its ores used to be wet, carrying 15 per cent moisture, and were hard to sell. Mining was not carried on sufficiently far to permit the levels to drain. The operators were pressed for funds and the ore was needed as fast as it could be taken out. Because of this the Swanzey product was not a favorite in the market.

The Cleveland-Cliffs company became interested in the Swanzey field some five years ago, and since then it has conducted a systematic campaign of exploratory work that has been productive of excellent results. Diamond drills continue in commission. The district is probably not an extensive one, and it may be that the bulk of the deposits are contained in the rather limited area between the Princeton on the north and the Stephenson on the south. However, this point is for future determination. In any event, the mining of the ore already found will be the work of many years. The ores are principally of the non-bessemer class. Some of the deposits need very careful attention from the chemist, and a very complete laboratory is kept busy. The most troublesome ores, however, are found in some of the smaller side pockets, the main bodies running very regularly. The ores are such as are in demand, working well in furnace and wanted as admixtures with the dry and fine-grained ones of other districts.

One peculiarity of the formation which causes some anxiety is the existence of about 200 feet of sand on the footwall side of the ore measure. To penetrate this material would be almost impossible, or at least, impractical. On the hanging side there is from sixty to eighty feet of quicksand, and it is from this side that where unavoidable the ore is being attacked. One shaft of eighty-five feet was successfully sunk on the drop-shaft plan, and now another shaft has been started which is to be of concrete, rectangular in shape, with footings three feet thick and gradually drawing to a foot less than that. This shaft is going down under contract at the new Smith mine, close to the Escanaba river. An Eastern foundation concern is doing the work. There is a circular hollow steel tube four feet in diameter, containing two ladder ways for the men and in which they can work, air being supplied after the manner of its provision in submarine work at the seaboard.

It was originally intended to drop the shaft, the concrete going down of its own weight, and to use a clam shell bucket to lift the sand, but the clam shell is not to be employed, the contractors having decided against it. Air will be employed in blowing out the water when the latter is met, and in clearing the way of boulders are encountered. The shell will permit the men to go down to clear away obstructions. It is thought the plan will work nicely to the depth of which the shaft will reach the ledge, this about sixty-five feet. The device would not put a shaft through the heavy foot sands, and it is thought that a depth of ninety feet is about all it would pierce. The work will be interesting and will be watched by many mining men who have ground of similar kind. The water level at the shaft is only a few feet under surface so that the sand will be "quick" from the very start. The concrete walls will be well reinforced with steel, and the shaft will be permanent. It is expected the shaft will be completed to the ledge by the first of the year.

The openings at the Princeton, the oldest workings in the Swanzey field, are still being extended. This mine is located in Section 18, 46-25, and has two three-compartment shafts, down 390 and 400 feet, respectively. The Austin mine adjoins on the South. It is a new property, has one fine shaft, 11x11 feet, down 350 feet, and is making a creditable record. The caving system of mining is employed, the surface being permitted to fall as the ore is removed beneath. South of the Austin is the Stephenson, also a new property and one that is just fairly getting started. The shaft, of four compartments, is 13x17 feet in dimensions, 470 feet deep, and is capped by the only steel shafthouse yet erected on the range. A novel features at the Stephenson is a tunnel extending to the shaft at a point several feet below the surface. The miners enter and leave the mine through this tunnel and thus are not obliged to use the shaft house, through which pass the railroad tracks. The timber also is handled through the tunnel, so that at no time is there interference with the movement of ore cars and trains. The chance of accident is lessened, and in all ways the tunnel has proved a wise provision.

Eight hundred feet north of the Austin mine is a fine central power station from which much of the energy to turn the wheels and drive the drills at the Austin and Stephenson mines will be developed. The buildings are of brick. In them are two water-tube boilers of 250 horse-power each, with room for another boiler of similar capacity to be installed when it arrives. These boilers have mechanical stokers and induced draft. Fuel is brought from the coal dock alongside, a big trestle of a capacity of 6,000 tons. There is a hydraulic elevator on which the coal may be lifted to the furnace hoppers, or it may be brought in at the level of the furnace floor. An air compressor of large capacity is erected and other machinery will soon be in place. Close by the power house is a brick building containing machine, carpenter and blacksmith shops, all roomy and finely lighted. The chemical laboratory is also near by, and is a model of its kind.

The United States Steel corporation is developing the lands of the Stegmiller property, adjoining the Princeton. Diamond drills are working, and a small stockpile of ore is to be seen at the shaft. It is thought that a paying deposit of ore may be found on the lands of this company. It is very unlikely that other mines will be added to those now producing in the Swanzey district, and the Stegmiller has a chance to be one of them.

DEFORMED BY CRUELTY

Was Orphan Boy, According to Charges Made Against Farmer.

Greenville, Ohio, Nov. 1.—Startling charges of cruelty toward a lad of 13 year are made against Martin L. Bowersax, a wealthy farmer, residing near Gallysburg, who has been placed under arrest. The boy, Charles Byrne, was formerly an inmate of the Orphans' home, but was adopted by Bowersax.

In an affidavit it is charged that Bowersax twisted the boy's arm in such a way that it became deformed, and will have to be broken before it can be straightened. He is also alleged to have placed a rope about the boy's neck on one occasion and threatened to hang him, and to have beaten him with a whip made of leather.

Bowersax professes religion and says that he thought he was doing right in trying to correct the boy.

WINNING PROMOTION.

A correspondent asserts that he has discovered from his experience that there is nothing in the conventional advice to the ambitious that the way to get ahead is to work hard and to deserve success.

Says he: "When I was a boy in school I was taught that the road to sucess lay in honest striving and close attention to business. I have found that it is not so. My observation in nearly twenty years has been that the fellow that works overtime and waits for somebody else to recognize his ability gets left at the post. The chap who can tell a good story, and who quits work long enough to unload it on the boss, attracts attention. The lazy one who never does work well, but is always at attention when the boss is in sight, and who cultivates the acquaintance of the 'old man,' gets the promotions. If you want to get on, devote your serious effort to getting the ear of the man 'higher up' and make him believe you are a wonder. Never mind the work; he isn't watching for modest worth and wouldn't know it if he saw it."

If this is true, all the moral proverbs of the copybooks are hypocritical frauds, and the maxims that have been drilled into us from the days of our youth are wrong. According to this man's view of things, hard work, honest ambition to succeed, patient attention to details, studious endeavor to keep ahead of one's position and to improve the methods of doing the work at hand, are wasted. The proper thing to do is to toady to the boss, tell him funny stories, make him think he is a great man and you are only a little less great; do these things, and you win promotion. Do what the proverbs say, and you stick at your old job while others pass by you.

But you don't believe it, do you? It can't be true. If impudence and complacent self-assertion, unbacked by real merit, will win success in life, and honest energy and ambition achieve only failure, the employing classes are composed of a lot of cheap and egotistic chumps whose favors may be purchased by a little cheap flattery.

The way to test it is to consider how you would feel about it if you were an employer. Would you value your employes by the way they toadied to you and told you funny stories, or by the way they did their work?

If you were a successful business man, you would be studying all branches and all details of your business. You would know what each department ought to do, and whether it was doing its share or not. If it wasn't, you would look for laggards and loafers, and when you found them you would cull them out, even if they told you funny stories or heaped cheap and impudent flattery upon you.

The employer that can't tell an incompetent toady from a real worker will never succeed, and he does not deserve to succeed. Flattery does not fool men of judgment; they know that the flatterer smiles in his sleeves at those who take his exaggerated praise at its face value. Funny stories are all right, but the busy business man has little time to stop and exchange them with his employes during business hours.

If this correspondent's experience is truly related, the only inference to be drawn from it is that he has been unfortunate in choosing his employers.

READJUSTMENT.

In order to get the full benefit of the industrial readjustment that is now in progress, beginning several months ago, a certain amount of curtailment in activity is necessary. Some curtailments have already been announced. Railroads, finding it difficult to borrow money needed for extensions, have submitted to the inevitable and have postponed their extra work until a more favorable time. Building operations are being held up to wait for lower prices, and will be more or less restricted until those lower prices come. The same thing will be true in many other lines.

This is a pause for breath. Business could not keep up its pace. There was not money enough or men enough or materials enough. Naturally, in response to an extraordinary demand for everything, assisted in some measure by improper control, prices grew extravagantly high. There had to be a pause to adjust the balance between activity and capacity, and incidentally to put prices back where they will stimulate further demand and therefore renewed activity.

These curtailments are to be expected for some little time to come, and they need alarm nobody. The process of readjustment would not be complete without them. In most cases they will be only partial, to such degree as sound business judgment dictates.

Shortly matters will readjust themselves; lower prices will stimulate a new demand, the lessened demand for money for luxuries and expansions will permit actual needs to be supplied, and then activity will be resumed all along the line.

In the meantime, the average individual will do well to heed the example that business men of keen vision and experience are setting. This is no time for luxuries and extravagances. The individual should trim his sails to suit the changed wind, and without depriving himself of necessaries, should cut out his extravagances, at least until matters are readjusted for another start. This will not only make the individual's position safer and stronger, but it will help to bring about a needed and wholesome reduction in the speed at which the nation was traveling.

Indeed, if the country could cut its luxuries and extravagances out altogether, even in the most prosperous times, reactions would be slower and fewer and shorter.

BACK TO THE SOIL.

Is the movement of the people from the country to the cities, which has been such a persistent and noticeable feature of life in this country in recent years, about to cease? Is the tide already turning the other way?

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson says it is, and it is to be hoped that he is right. He said recently that he detected a decrease in the tide toward the city, and that if it continued for several consecutive years he would consider that the turning point had been reached and that, with the coming of that day, the nation would find itself confronted with fewer of the problems growing out of huddled population and abandoned farms.

There is not the slightest doubt that the tendency to desert the farms and congest the cities is bad. It is bad for the city, bad for the country, and bad for the nation. It harms the city because it produces a surplus of labor there, because it congests the poorer districts and because it inevitably increases poverty since there is a limit to the number of people which a city can support. It injures the country because it leaves too few people to properly till the fields and garner the crops. It hurts the nation because it reduces the number of actual producers of wealth and increases the number whom the producers must support.

The recent financial crisis in this country showed what the farms mean to the nation. When matters in the cities were at their worst, it was to the farms that the finger of hope pointed. It was the wheat fields, the corn fields and the cotton fields whose vast production, for which there was a market at high prices, gave promise of better things. There is a surplus to be sold abroad, and that will bring money that is needed in the channels of trade. Without that surplus the situation might have been dark indeed.

The surest way to lay the foundations of prosperity deep and firm is to put producers on every available acre of land in the country, and then to teach them how to get the most out of their land. There are millions of unoccupied acres, and there are millions of dollars of profit in the soil that present methods do not extract. There is work to do not only in filling the idle acres, but in teaching those who till them how to make them yield to their utmost capacity. In this way real wealth will be produced, and the foundation for industrial and manufacturing enterprises will be made so broad and deep that the winds of panic and fear cannot disturb them.

It is not improbable that Secretary Wilson is right. There are thousands in the congested cities who look away from their misery and poverty and long for the free, open fields. They would gladly change places with the poorest farmers. There is room for a great and useful philanthropy which will assist such people to locate themselves upon the land where they can produce and be well-fed, comfortable and happy.

THE SURPLUS AND THE "PANIC."

A little while ago those who believe that the tariff tax is too high, and that it not only piles up unnecessary millions in the treasury but keeps out a foreign competition that would make prices right in this country, were complaining about the surplus which the tariff has produced in the treasury.

Then when the perfidy of a few bankers in New York who had used the public's money for precarious speculations precipitated a brief but alarming panic, and these millions were trotted out to be used in aiding the New York banks to meet the situation, and it appeared that they had been a large factor in saving the day, some people said that after all a surplus is not such a bad thing.

They forget, however, that if these millions had not been in the treasury, they would have been in circulation in the country. The supply of money for business would have been that much larger, and the financial situation would have been that much less acute. Indeed, had the money been in circulation instead of being piled up in the treasury, there might not have been any panic at all.

So the use of the surplus for the relief of a financial stringency does not justify its existence. The government has no right to withdraw from circulation, in a busy country where money is needed so much, a vast store of wealth. It is wrong because every dollar of it is wrung from the people, because the excessive tariff protects the trusts and enables them to charge what they please unmolested by foreign competition, and because the existence of a surplus promotes congressional extravagance.

So long as the money was in the treasury when it should have been in circulation, it was proper for the government to bring it out for the relief of the financial situation. But the financial situation would have been stronger if the money had been in the banks of the country, deposited there by the people to whom it rightfully belongs. Then it would have been available for free use in business. As it was, in order to get it the banks had to borrow it and to deposit securities which could have been used for the further expansion of credit had the money been already in the banks instead of being in the treasury.

All of which leads to the conclusion that tariff revision is necessary, and this is true of pretty nearly every economic road of thought that is available. We complain of the exactions of the trusts, and we discover that if we could have the tariff reduced enough to admit foreign competition the trusts would not be able to charge us so much for their services. We complain of the unfair distribution of prosperity when we find so much of it going to a few and so little of it going to the many, and we discover that if the trusts could be brought to time by a reduction of the tariff wealth would be more equitably distributed.

WHAT CHILDREN READ.

"What do your children read?" asked an inquisitive friend of the mother of two boys and a girl the other day.

"I don't know," said the mother, "but we have all the latest novels in the house, and they seem to read most of them. I don't have much time for reading myself, and my husband says that if he reads the papers and a few magazines that is about all he can handle."

A mother ought to know just as much about the kind of books her children reads as she insists upon knowing about the kind of associates they choose.

Both are highly important, since both have their influences upon the characters that are being formed. Yet there are parents who are rigid in their requirements as to the friends their children associate with, yet who do not pay the slightest attention to what their children read.

A bad book can do just as much harm to a child as an evil associate. Its possibilities for harm are greater, indeed, because in such households as those described the influence of the book goes unchallenged and unnoticed, while the influence of the bad companion is so obvious that it commands attention.

A household in which "all the latest novels" are introduced and the children are allowed to read such of them as they choose without a sensible censoring by thoughtful parents is a household in which much mischief is being done, and in which the children are not having the chance they ought to have to develop their character and usefulness under the proper protection of parental safeguards.

That does not mean that they should not read fiction, or even that they should be denied all the latest novels, but they certainly should be denied some fiction and a great many of the latest novels. It will do no harm if they do not read any of the popular books of the day. If they are really good books, and worth living, they will not disappear, but will live to be read when the children are old enough to form their own judgments of such matters.

But parents should not take chances. They should not allow young children to read books which the parents are not quite sure are fit to be read by children. A great many of the current novels are not fit to be read by children, if they are fit to be read by anybody. Many that deal with delicate subjects are proper reading for grown people, but they are not fit food for babes. A person of matured intellect may understand them and profit by them where a child would get unwholesome and poisonous ideas out of them that it would be pretty hard to eradicate.

A parent who has charge of a growing child has a responsibility not alone to herself and to the child but to society. That responsibility is shifted upon the too slender shoulders of the young when parents let their children pick out their own reading matter.

MEMORY.

"Oh, dear, I wish I had a good memory," sighed a young man the other day. "I simply can't remember anything. I read, and what I read goes away from me without leaving a trace. I hear things that I want to remember, and they go in one ear and out of the other. I would give anything if I could have a good memory."

Then why don't you get one? You don't need to give anything but a little systematic work that will soon become a pleasure.

Memory is just as much a matter of cultivation as muscle. You can let your muscles grow flabby and weak from disuse, and you can spoil your memory in the same way. You can bring up your muscular power by systematic, sensible exercise, and in the same way you can cultivate a memory that will hold what you want it to hold with a lasting grip.

A Duluth divine, who is one of the ripest scholars in the state, with a broad and comprehensive knowledge of several difficult sciences and a mind stored with the riches of a long life of study and reading, is remarkable for his memory. This is natural, because he wouldn't be a scholar if he did not remember what he had learned.

Somebody asked him, the other day, how he happened to have such a memory.

"Bless you," he said, "it didn't 'happen.' I cultivated it. How? By using it. The best way in the world to cultivate your memory is to exercise it. Commit to memory every day a fragment of poetry from the masters. You will forget a lot of it for a time, but after awhile you will notice your gain, and you will be able to read a page and have it pictured firmly and clearly upon your mind. The practice gives you concentration, and by developing your memory enables you to grasp and hold the things that you want to remember."

Concentration; that's the word. You with your feeble and slovenly memory, you got it from slovenly habits of mind. You have read bushels of things and have let them slip because you did not care to remember them, and you have never made a systematic effort to cultivate a memory. A good memory will add graces to your conversation and make it worth listening to. Even if you have no ideas of your own, it will enable you to recall the ideas of the great minds, and to discuss them. But when you are able to concentrate your mind upon something worth while, and in your reading you can respond to the suggestive thoughts of the author by the operation of your own mind, you will find that you have ideas, and that you can talk about them. In cultivating your memory by the plan suggested by the scholar who has been quoted you will broaden and develop your mind.

You read a book, lay it down, and promptly forget it. If you would close your eyes and go over in your mind the thread of that book, and outline it from beginning to end, you would get some good out of it, and you would fix it on your memory. If you don't, you forget it, lose it, and debilitate your memory at the same time.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Clyde Maddox of Guthrie, Oklahoma, is at the St. Louis hotel. Oklahoma is about to be admitted into the sisterhood of states and the admission means much to its inhabitants. The first legislature will have many questions of importance before it for consideration. One of the projects, which will be considered, says Mr. Maddox, is the purchase by the state of the many acres of lands held by the Indians. These lands possess vast resources in the way of mineral wealth. No effort has been made in the past to either cultivate the more arable portion of the lands held by the Indians, nor has any great effort been made toward mining. It is proposed to purchase these lands for the sum of $17,000,000, and this will be one of the most important things for the new legislature to consider.

Mr. Maddox says the citizens of Oklahoma is to add another star to the cluster that represents the states. Oklahoma has been knocking at the statehood door for some time. Political motives have acted as the bar that blocked the opening of this door. Finally, however, the persistence of the citizens has been rewarded. The convening of the first legislature will mark the new order of government, and linked with the project of purchasing the lands held by the Indians will come the consideration of questions that have been withheld until Oklahoma assumed the state form of government throughout the West, will receive consideration from the new legislature, says Mr. Maddox. A new spirit seems to have been aroused in the citizens of the former territory and they are approaching the duties incident to becoming a member of the august statehood family, with an energy and business like method that augurs well for the future government of the state.

The latest idea in the automobiling line, according to T. A. Morrison of New York, is to provide attached cages for the transportation of dogs. The cages are attached to the rear of the machine, and the canine pet is thus afforded an opportunity to enjoy the pleasures, and incidentally the risks, of motoring. Some of the poor, unoffending animals are whisked along at a pace that makes the canine hair stand on end with direful fear of the consequences that would attend a collision or the breaking of the machine.

Mr. Morrison says that, acting in conformance with suggestions made by eminent and practical architects, consideration is being given by prospective builders to the pyramid style of structure. It is pointed out that not only is this advocated style of architecture practical, but in case of fire it would afford the firemen a more ready access in fighting the flames. It has realized for some time, says Mr. Morrison, that should a fire occur in one of the immense sky scrapers, it would be impossible to get water to the upper stories of the building. The pyramid style of construction would afford a means of mounting the building, because of its step-like stature, and besides this strong argument, the style advocated for the future tall buildings holds the promise of beautifying the style of office structures.

The craze for beautifying the city has struck the citizens of Gotham, says Mr. Morrison, and this style of changing the form of office building is one of its outgrowths. The new style of building will give more light to the streets, will afford a relief from the ragged and monotonous flat fronts of structures, and will add character and beauty to the modern building.

THE WEATHER.

It rained briefly at an early hour this morning, but later a cool wind scattered the clouds and brought out the sun. It was cooler, but pleasant. The weather man looks for cooler weather tonight and warmer again tomorrow, with fair conditions both today and tomorrow. Last night's lowest temperature was 37 degs., and yesterday's highest was 49 degs.

A year ago today is was cloudy and cool.

The sun rose this morning at 6:53, and sets tonight at 4:51, making 9 hours and 58 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The storm central Friday morning over Minnesota has advanced to Lake Huron. During the past twenty-four hours it caused light to copious rains in most districts east of the 95th meridian, higher temperatures in Atlantic states, and brisk westerly winds in the lake region. The Rocky mountain high pressure now covers the eastern slopes and has caused clearing skies and cooler temperatures over the eastern slopes and Mississippi valley. Low pressure areas have again appeared over Alberta and Arizona followed by another pressure off the Oregon coast. The barometer remains high over New England coast states. Indications favor fair weather in this section tonight and Sunday."

Did Roosevelt Do It?

New York World: When everything has been said that can be said against the folly and foolishness of some of the president's speeches, certain cold, hard facts remain which the most intemperate critic of the administration cannot ignore.

It was not Theodore Roosevelt who tried to finance the United Copper pool with other people's money, but the Heinzes.

It was not Theodore Roosevelt, but Heinze, Morse and Thomas whom an honest and indignant clearing-house committee had to scourge from the banking business.

It was not Theodore Roosevelt but C. T. Barney who plunged the Knickerbocker Trust company into reckless real estate operations.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Art of Working With Others.

A private concern in an American city had resisted long and persistently the blandishments of a big trust. The owner of it had always carried the sovereignty of his business life under his own hat and he did not relish the idea of becoming a part, even though an important part, of an immense corporation. But at last the inducements were made so strong that he yielded, and in due time he was made president of the board of directors of the Amalgamated Cooking Sauce Polish Company of North America. That was not its real name, but it will answer for my present purpose.

After a while an intimate asked him how he liked the new regime and he replied: "Much better than I expected I thought, after being the sole manager of my business for thirty years, it would be hard to sit down with a lot of other directors and make plans and decisions. But I am thoroughly enjoying this team work. I find that it is good for me to learn how to work effectively with others, to get their point of view and to adjust myself to differing personalities."

There is good cheer in this incident for those of us who have to get along with others in various spheres of human relationship. As modern life grows more complex the utterly independent career becomes more and more of a rarity. Nearly all of us now work for or with somebody else. Why fret under the limitation? Why not accept it as a part of the providential ordering of human life which if accepted in the right spirit will inure to our good. Oh, yes, it would be so nice to be a free lance, to say and do just what we please, but as Browning says:

The common problem, yours, mine, everyone's,
Is not to fancy what were fair in life,
But finding first what may be,
Strive to make it fair.

So under this necessity of being yoked with others, what can be done to make the relationship not only endurable but enjoyable? First one can always frankly and fearlessly, at the right time, and in the right way, avow his own convictions of what is expedient and right. Nothing is gained, much is sacrificed, when men engaged in a common undertaking fail to let one another know what they actually think. Many misunderstandings would be avoided, many unfortunate collisions obviated if the persons involved would keep one another posted as to their method of procedure.

But if it is your right and privilege to declare yourself fully, it is due to the other man that you be equally considerate of his rights and preferences in the matter. Therein lies the disciplinary value of associated effort. If another person has an equal right with you to express his judgment, then if it differs from yours, you will be called upon to determine how without sacrificing your convictions you can, by mutual concessions, stand on some common platform. And this effort to placate, to conciliate, to keep together may bring but what is best and sweetest in your character and his.

But such a happy result is seldom possible unless there be a common devotion to some large and worthy end. That more than anything else enables people to rise above the plane of dispute about methods and to join hands in the determination to achieve some noble purpose. Remember when the wheels drive hard and the friction is apparent what you are trying to do and if the other fellow is after the same result you can afford to be patient and calm for you will probably some day see eye to eye.

Tied up then as most of us in the network of home, business, school, society and church relationships, let us not forget that even in this intricate modern tangle the individual will still be felt just in proportion to the size of his brains and the worth of his character.

Gen. Clery is from Cork, and Gen. French is from Roscommon. Gen. Butler is also an Irishman. So are Generals Kelly, Kenny and Warren.

MILTON DWIGHT PURDY IS REAL TRUST BUSTER

Former District Attorney of Minnesota Making a Record.

Showing That Anti-Trust Law is Not Dead Letter.

M. D. PURDY.

If, says a Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, you searched every nook and cranny of the three great residences now rented by the government and occupied by the department of justice it is hardly probable you would pick out the administration's real "trust buster." It is a safe wager that there is a messenger at the main door of the merger of the residences which have been thrown together for headquarters for the government's legal department who would come nearer being the popular ideal of a man whose appearance indicated ponderosity and great mental force and hidden stores of legal lore. But the real simon pure trust buster and moving spirit in all the chasing of octopi with bad habits of evading the law is Milton Dwight Purdy.

Don't think he is insignificant to look at, because it does him wrong. There is simply nothing of pose or affectation of dignity which is not latent with him, nor any of the superciliousness which comes to so many men who have had remarkable careers and who, though young in years, find their portraits in the daily press, and hat men much older defer to them in their specialties. Purdy has a specialty. It is the Sherman anti-trust law. As a close associate of this is the study of the interstate commerce law.

He is a well-knit man, who wears a tailor-made sack suit during business hours, whose keen dark eyes are hid behind thick rimless lenses, which give the one touch of ageing to his appearance. Far from affectation, he is as natural in his manner and as frank and courteous when approached, even during the crowded hours of business in the departments, as he was twenty years ago, when he left the university of Minnesota. In the government Blue Book and very much in the popular mind, he is credited to the state of Minnesota and folks have a way of speaking of "Purdy of Minnesota." That is really robbing the good old state of Illinois, Missouri's neighbor, of credit and honor belonging to her. Not even in reliable "Who's Who" do you learn the fact, but just the same Mr. Purdy hails from the vicinity of White Hall and Jerseyville and, in spite of his youth, remembers when there were residences where the present St. Louis postoffice is.

His father had a small manufacturing plant in Southern Illinois and he used to take his young son to St. Louis to see his customers. Hand in hand they boarded the ferry, before there was a bridge across the Mississippi, and Mr. Purdy remembers often passing the present Merchants' Exchange building, when it was in process of erection. Minnesota can not even claim the credit of giving Mr. Purdy his first education and impressions of life, for all of his basic education was secured in the public schools of Southern Illinois. Then he supplemented it with an education which has been of inestimable value to him ever since by teaching school in Southern Illinois for two years. It's true that he got his degree in law in the University of Minnesota, but he got many more lasting impressions as he is ready to admit, by reading the Globe-Democrat in his youth, than he ever carried with him from his Minnesota alma-mater.

Many men could have done what Purdy has done, or approached it, with the facilities which have been placed at his disposal in recent months of his anti-trust campaign. But the point is that he attracted attention to himself by his career long before he had the backing of the great government here at Washington and long before there was anything like the supporting popular sentiment which is now so strong a factor.

Mr. Purdy had a job or two in the law before he went into "trust busting." He was assistant city attorney and assistant county attorney, and then assistant district attorney. In regular succession. It was not until he went after the timber thieves of the Northwest, in the latter capacity that he attracted attention here in Washington. But when he got to forcing the great timber and land companies to repaying to the government thousands and thousands of dollars for the value of dead and down timber, which they had removed illegally from public reservations Mr. Ethen Allen Hitchcock, secretary of the interior, picked him out as a bright young man and began co-operation with him, which soon brought him down to Washington to consult with Mr. Philander C. Knox, now United States senator from Pennsylvania, but then attorney general of the United States. One of the famous cases which he fought out at that time was that of the Pine River Logging company, which he forced to pay over to the government $150,000 for lumber unlawfully taken from the government reserves. That case went up to the court of appeals three times, and while he inherited the case it was he who fought it to a successful issue.

During the handling of these cases he came once or twice to Washington. This was back in the McKinley administration and Mr. Knox was seeking to demonstrate to the people of the United States that the anti-trust law was not a dead letter. It had at that time been effective in bringing a big sewer pipe concern to the keen realization of its effectiveness, but throughout two Democratic administrations it had not been invoked.

The Northern Securities case was the one in which Mr. Knox sought to apply it. He had several sound reasons for filing the case in the district where Mr. Purdy was assistant district attorney. About that time Mr. Purdy succeeded to the office of district attorney and Mr. Knox quickly decided to let him handle the petition. That was his first step in the "trust busting" business with government support. So well did he look after the government's interest, that when the unexpired term as district attorney, which he was filling out, expired, he insisted upon Mr. Purdy being re-appointed. Neither of the Minnesota senators were for him and neither would assent to his appointment. But an agreement was entered into that he might serve for a few months until the Northern Securities case could be shaped up. Then he retired.

Mr. Knox was not satisfied with this. He wanted Mr. Purdy and was determined to have him, whether politicians and job disposers and job seekers, were for him or not. He seized the first opportunity to bring Mr. Purdy to Washington and install him in the department of justice as his assistant. He has been there ever since. His coming to Washington was the beginning of his definite and now well-established career as the "administration's trust buster." Everything is necessarily done in the name of the attorney general of the United States. Mr. Bonaparte is really an effective attorney general, and has done more good work, at the head of his department, than has been generally realized. His own ironical and, at times, supercilious manner in meeting and handling people, has had as much to do with the failure of the country to appraise him at a worth equal to the service he performs, as anything else.

But even Mr. Bonaparte will admit that the research of Mr. Purdy and his originality of suggestion have been responsible for recent trust-busting success, and radical departure from any course of law enforcement followed by the government in the past. It was Mr. Purdy who devised the plan of asking for receiverships for the trusts found to be operating unlawfully. It was more Mr. Purdy who, within a week, embarked the government on that most novel of all proposals—the confiscation of the goods and manufactures of those trusts who offended against the anti-trust law.

In it all, Mr. Purdy has shown himself not only a good lawyer, but a good politician. The law has been the same ever since. Mr. Purdy began to make it his specialty. He has simply found new means of applying it, and discovered the new possibilities it possessed. To begin with, when the government began to charge conspiracy against the trusts, and sought their dissolution in the courts because they were operating without warrant of law, the trust magnates and their legal representatives howled that the proposal was destructive of great concerns and meant practical confiscation of great property in which many interested persons had investments. It seemed like a strong plea.

But Mr. Purdy came out with his proposal that, where the trusts were found to be operating in defiance of the law and there were thousands and millions of investment and dissolution was decreed by the courts, then a receiver should be appointed, who should remain in charge of the enterprises until they were resolved into their constituent parts, or else placed on a law-observing basis.

The former bowl gave place to a new one, to the effect that the proposal for receiverships meant practical government ownership or at least government operation of the big business enterprises of the country. The trusts have at their command the greatest lawyers in the country. They are masters at evasion and delay, and know the possibilities of law technicalities and the opportunities they offer for keeping cases dragging their weary lengths through the courts through months, if not years. The administration is impatient of these delays. It seeks decisions by the United States supreme court, that court of last resort, where evasions and technicalities no longer avail.

Then Mr. Purdy came to the front again. It was within the last week, through his suggestion, a seizure was made by the government of the products of a great trust which the government has been after. The importance of the move, and the possibilities it offers, could hardly be overestimated. Now the burden of proof is placed upon the trust to show it is not operating in violation of law, or its goods will be confiscated. Now it can only regain possession of its physical property by demonstration, even in the court of last resort, that it has not been operating in violation of law.

Mr. Purdy evolved the plan for this latest action by reading and studying the same law which has been on the statute books for so long, not by asking new and further legislation. It was what is designated as "section 6" of the law. Lawyers had read it every time they looked the law over, but concluded that it was intended to be invoked only after it was found that a trust had been convicted of law violation and as a means of enforcing court decrees against it. Mr. Purdy knew of the popular interpretation, but saw nothing to prevent applying it in an affirmative way in the prosecution of the big combinations. He may be wrong, but there will be a sleepless night or two for the attorneys of the trusts before it has been judicially determined that he is.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Duluth People Know How to Save It.

Many Duluth people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Duluth citizen's recommendation:

J. H. Tomlin, lather and contractor, of 112 West Palmetto street, Duluth Heights, Duluth, Minn., says: "What I said in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills six years ago, was not only true but the cure I described at that time has been permanent, and I am pleased to inform other sufferers of this fact. My case was a severe one, and it clung to me persistently for two years. The backache finally got so bad that I was obliged to lay off from work for days at a time, and I suffered such pains that it hurt to bring the slightest strain on the muscles of the back and loins. The kidney secretions were irregular, and I was unable to rest well at night. All these irregularities yielded promptly to Doan's Kidney Pills and the result was a permanent cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

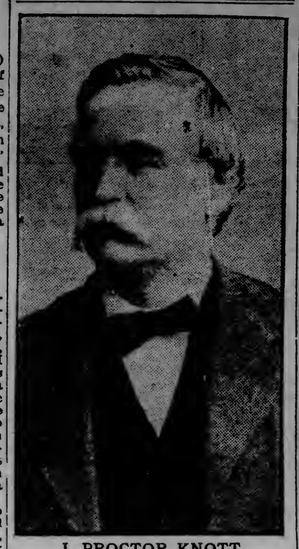
J. PROCTOR KNOTT

By SAVOYARD.



J. PROCTOR KNOTT.

(Copyright, 1907, by E. W. Newman.)

Marion county is in the heart of Kentucky. Within her borders the "bear grass" begins, moving to the northwest, and the "blue grass" ends, coming from the north and east. In Marion county, too, the "Pennyrile" starts on its journey to the south and southwest, and only a step over the Casey county line, to the southeast, the mountains kiss the blue grass. In the heart of Marion county, situate on a beautiful plateau, is Lebanon,

Whom ne'er a town surpasses
For honest men and bonny lasses."

At Lebanon resides in serene retirement, in the enjoyment of all the felicity that comes to the man of splendid intellect and brilliant imagination, J. Proctor Knott, the scholar, the orator, the poet, the jurist, the statesman. I am induced to write something of this man, became of some slovenly stuff a William E. Curtis has given the public concerning him in recent syndicate writings. A Dexter Marshall also dropped into more or less fiction on the same subject some weeks ago, dignifying the Pat Donan claim to Knott's humor, and declaring that the Duluth speech finished Knott's hopes as a lawyer. Here is what Curtis says:

"A bill granting a tract of land to the Bayfield and St. Croix railroad being under consideration, Mr. Knott, inspired by its opponents, made a witty and satirical speech, which is unsurpassed in congressional literature. It is a singular fact that the Kentucky representative's reputation for wit and satire rests upon no other foundation. He never made a funny speech before or since, although he was known for his good stories and his ability as a mimic. An eccentric and brilliant Irish adventurer named Pat Donan, who was connected with newspapers in the Northwest at different times, always claimed to be the author of the speech, and Mr. Knott never took the trouble to make a formal denial. It is entirely probable that Donan, who was employed in Washington at that time in the interests of a rival project, gave Mr. Knott the suggestion and the information upon which his speech was based, but Donan claims that he wrote it and that Proctor Knott committed it to memory from his manuscript.

"However that may be, the speech stands as a model of wit and satire, and what was intended to be ridicule has since become prophecy. Mr. Knott christened Duluth as 'The Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas;' he described its unlimited resources in ironical terms, but, strange to say, the development of what was then imaginary wealth has become an actual, tangible fact. Mr. Knott's speech reads very strangely in the light of the present prosperity and commercial activity of the city."

J. Proctor Knott was born in Marion county, Kentucky, in 1830. He is a self-educated man, and the scope of his learning embraces most of the literature that has value in the marts of intellectual exchanges. At the age of 20 he became a citizen of Missouri, and the following year he was admitted to the bar of that state. In later years his powerful arguments in congress against the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution extorted from Jeremiah S. Black the extravagant compliment that a profounder exposition of the American polity of government had never been made in either branch of the American congress.

At the age of 27 Knott was returned to the house of representatives of the Missouri legislature. Impeachment proceeding was instituted against an official of the state government and Knott was appointed leader of the board of managers selected by the house to conduct the trial. In the Forty-fourth congress he was leader of the board of managers, who accused Secretary of War Belknap of the bar of the senate. So greatly did Knott, then 27 years old, distinguish himself in the Missouri impeachment case, he was appointed to supply the vacancy in the office of attorney general of Missouri, a position to which he was chosen by the people at the succeeding election.

The war overturned the real state government of Missouri, and Knott returned to his old Kentucky home in 1863 and opened a law office at Lebanon. In 1867—until 1870 Kentucky chose congressmen in the month of August after the term began on the preceding March 4—Knott was elected a member of the Fortieth congress. All of the Kentucky delegation were Democrats, and all but Matt Adams, who had been a major in the Union army, were denied their seats. It was in times when thrift and loyalty were twin—when nothing was odious but treason. Finally, in sheer shame, all the Kentucky delegation, but John Young Brown, were seated, though they stole John D. Young's seat and gave it to Sam McKee. Brown was not allowed to take the oath, for a speech he had made in 1861 against secession. Fact. Among the Kentucky members were James B. Beck, who subsequently became so distinguished in both houses and Elijah Hise, next to Humphrey Marshall, the most powerful intellect the Mississippi valley ever produced, if I may venture a dogmatism that is a fixed belief in my mind.

Mr. Curtis says that Knott's reputation for wit and satire rests on no other foundation than the Duluth speech, that "he never made a funny speech before or since." Before the Duluth speech, the session before, Knott made the speech against the appropriation for paving Pennsylvania avenue that surpasses in humor and fancy the Duluth speech as far as the Duluth speech surpasses S. S. Cox's reply to Gurley. Here are passages. After citing what the government had done to beautify the national capital, Knott continued:

"If any gentleman entertains a doubt on this point let him walk through Lafayette Square. Let him swing around the circle south of the presidential palace, or stand on the splendid esplanade in front of the agricultural department. Let him sniff the fragrant air that hangs over the public gardens. Let him look at the broad promenades paved with immense flags of polished sandstone, the wide and commodious drives sweeping round up an easy and graceful radius with the true line of beauty. Let him tread the sinuous footpaths laid with an elastic concrete of white sea sand, bordered with shrubbery that would have lent new charms to calypso's favorite bower, winding away in the Cretan labyrinth.

"Let him do this, and he will find that the government has taken care, so far as it is concerned, that no stain shall pollute the satin slipper of the favored beauty as she glides along in sylph-like loveliness; that no speck of dust shall settle on the costly laces of her gorgeous robes as she reclines in ecstatic languor upon the downy cushions of her splendid carriage; that even the perfumed zephyr, as he steals from beds of rare exotics, shall not kiss her velvet cheek too rudely, nor the dancing sunbeam taste the delicious fragrance that exhales from her honeyed lips, while the toil-browned daughter of the honest, hardworking, taxpaying farmer, or mechanic, of Indiana or Kentucky, in her homespun gown, innocent of crinoline or train, must

"Skelpit on through dub and mire, Despising wind, and rain, and fire."

Whether that fancy surpasses the indignant pathos of the apostrophe to France in the Duluth speech is matter of opinion always, but there can scarce be two impressions that, for rollicking humor, the following passage in the Pennsylvania avenue speech finds no parallel in the Duluth speech:

"Sir, the great conflict now raging in the Old World has presented a phenomenon in military science unprecedented in the annals of mankind, a phenomenon that has reversed all the traditions of the past, as it has disappointed all the expectations of the present. A great and warlike people, renowned alike for their skill and valor, have been swept away before the triumphant advance of an inferior foe like autumn stubble before a hurricane of fire. For aught I know, the next flash of electric fire that shimmers along the ocean cable may tell us that Paris, with every fiber quivering with the agony of impotent despair, writhes beneath the conquering heel of her loathed invader. EEre another moon shall wax and wane, the brightest star in the galaxy of nations may fall from the zenith of her glory never to rise again. Ere the modest violets of early spring shall open their beauteous eyes, the genius of civilization may chant the wailing requiem of the proudest nationality the world has ever seen, as she scatters her withered and tear-moistened leaves o'er the bloody tomb of butchered France."

And to my mind, the most exquisite humor of the Duluth speech is the closing paragraph. He had given some reasons for voting against the bill and then exclaimed:

"Ah! sir, you can have no conception of the poignancy of my anguish that I am deprived of that privilege. There are two inseparable obstacles in the way. In the first place, my constituents, for whom I am acting here, have no more interest in this road than they have in the great question of culinary taste now perhaps agitating the public mind of Santo Domingo as to whether the illustrious commissioners who recently left this capital for that free and enlightened republic would be better fricasseed, boiled, or roasted, and in the second place, these lands, which I am asked to give away, alas, are not mine to bestow! My relation to them is simply that of the trustee of an express trust. And shall I ever betray that trust? Never, sir. Rather perish Duluth! Perish the paragon of cities! Rather let the freezing cyclones of the bleak Northwest bury it forever beneath the eddying sands of the raging St. Croix!"

The exquisite humor of that passage is in the reference to our commissioners to Santo Domingo, sent by President Grant to provide a way for annexing that republic. The commission consisted of old Ben Wade, Morrison R. Waite, afterward Chief Justice, and President White of Cornell. The entourage embraced Fred Douglas and Boss Shepherd's brother Arthur. A convocation of cannibals would debate a long time as to the best stew that could be made of such a layout.

One of the greatest legal arguments Knott ever delivered was his speech on the bill to restrict the removal of causes from state courts to federal courts. In the middle of it he resorted to humor. It was at the period when Bob Ingersoll was delivering his lecture on the "Mistakes of Moses." Knott undertook to imagine what a foreign corporation knew about those "mistakes." He convulsed the house, but he never put the speech in the Record.

One of the most side-splitting speeches he ever delivered was at a Democratic barbecue at Pembroke, Christian county, Ky., in 1871 or 1875, when Mr. Justice John M. Harlan was the Republican candidate for governor. It was by the author of the avenue speech and the Duluth speech. Judge Harlan was a candidate both years, and I am sure he enjoyed the humor of Knott as well as any one else. Knott is not a wit after the order of Tom Reed. There is no sting to his humor. It is all genial and never malicious.

Knott voluntarily retired from congress in 1883, and was that year elected governor of Kentucky. "Quinine Jim" McKenzie was secretary of state and H. M. McCarty was assistant secretary. Alec Grant had a position of some sort, and Robert Burns Wilson, the poet, was a daily visitor. During those four years the executive office building at Frankfort was the most pleasant place to visit in all this Union.

"But, Mr. Chairman, I have one reason very frequently urged for the passage of this bill, which candor compels me to admit, almost convinces me, that we ought not only to appropriate this sum of $100,000, but any other amount that might be necessary to repave Pennsylvania avenue at the very earliest possible period of time, and that is that it is much used by the horde of officeholders that throng the thoroughfares of this city in numbers almost equal to the hosts which were hurled with Lucifer from the battlements of heaven. For, sir, if there is a being on this earth for whose comfort and convenience I entertain the profoundest solicitude; if there is one whose smallest want stirs my sympathetic soul in its serenest depths, it is your officeholder, your public functionary. When I see one of that noble army of martyrs bid adieu to home and all the sweets of private life, for which he is so eminently fitted by nature, to immolate himself on the altars of his country's service for four long years, Homer's touching picture of the last sad scene between the noble Hector and his weeping family rises before my compassionate imagination. When I see him plunge recklessly into an office of the duties of which he is profoundly and defiantly ignorant, I am reminded of the self-sacrificing heroism of Curtius, when he leaped into the yawning gulf that opened in the Roman forum. When I behold him sadly contemplating his majestic features in one of those gorgeous and costly mirrors, which are furnished him at public expense, my heart goes out to him in sympathy. When I see him seated, sorrowfully, at a miserable repast of sea turtle and champagne, my very bowels yearn for him. And when I see him perform, perhaps, the only duty for which he is fully competent—signing the receipt for his monthly pay—I am so overwhelmed with pity for his miserable condition that I wish I were in his place."

Pat Donan was a brilliant man, who had served gallantly in the Confederate army. After the war there was a publication in New York called the Metropolitan Record. It would have been suppressed any time between 1861 and 1865 for treason. Pat Donan was its favorite contributor over the name "R. E. Bell"—for rebel—and he counseled trying it over again; but no one of his writings in that publication was of the slightest akin to the Duluth speech, and if Pat Donan wrote the Duluth speech he also wrote the Pennsylvania avenue speech. Mr. Curtis is wrong in saying that Knott never made a denial of Donan's claim to the authorship of the Duluth speech. Not a great while before he died Donan was in Kentucky, and the question of the authorship arose, and Knott delivered himself of some language for publication that showed that he could be as emphatic as he ever was humorous. After that nobody ever pretended to put in any claim for Donan, so far as I know, until Dexter Marshall and W. E. Curtis dug it up.

The Duluth speech was the child of accident. One morning, the winter of 1871, Knott was sitting alone and not very cheerful in a committee room of the house of representatives. He had been beaten for the nomination for congress the summer before, because he had not mastered the provident and thrifty art of handshaking, and because his successful competitor was as tall as Gen. Scott and had a voice like Stenton—beaten by a diminutive fraction of a vote. He wa sout of congress two terms—Forty-second and Forty-third. Sitting in his room chewing the cud of fancy, he was approached by a Mulberry Sellers with a map of the Bayfield and St. Croix railroad. The fellow opened on Knott with an exuberance of talk and prediction of the future opulence of Duluth that the Kentuckian soon got interested and saw the opportunity for an ocean of harmless satire. He kept the map, and it played a big part in making the speech a success. When Knott is most humorous he is most solemn, and as he held the map up and pointed out places of industrial, financial and commercial strategy on it, his very demeanor was provocative of laughter. No wonder when the "hammer fell" one enthusiastic member exclaimed: "Oh, d—n it, stop the clock!"

I have always regarded the following as the finest thing in the Duluth speech:

I think Knott expected to reach the senate by the governor's route. The senate was his place—lawyer, scholar, thinker, statesman, sage, that he is. If one would know what a giant grip he has on political history and on political principle let him read Knott's lecture on Andrew Jackson—a wonderful production. He was a candidate to succeed Beck in the senate, and was defeated by John G. Carlisle. I wish I had space to try to draw a parallel between the public utterances of these two men—one as severe as the Gothic, the other as brilliant as the Renaissance. For some years Knott had the chair of civics at Center college, but he retired to his old home at Lebanon, and there lives with his books and his friends. What that ever heard Proctor Knott relate 'Lige Pinukerton's "Jedgment" of a certain disreputable dog, ever imagined that this man would steal a piece of humor from Pat Donan, or anybody else? It is the finest anecdote for roillcking fun in the language—as told by Proctor Knott when in the vein. I do not believe that David Turpie himself could have picked a thing from literature to which Proctor Knott was a stranger. What a magnificent head it is! Big as a bushel basket, round asf an apple, and longer from the eyes up than from the eyes down. Proctor Knott, hadst thou not been a poet, and hadst thou not been cursed with the fatal faculty of humor, thou wouldst have ranked among the greatest speculative statesmen of the Anglo-Saxon race!

Chosen to the Kentucky constitutional convention of 1899-91, Knott offered this as the keystone of the bill of rights, and it ought to be printed in every school text book in the Union:

"That all men are endowed by their Creator with equal rights to life, liberty, property, and the pursuit of happiness; that in the social compact they engage to hold these rights subject to just and impartial laws, under which each shall be entitled to equal protection and equal privileges, and shall be equally liable to the duties and responsibilities thereby imposed. It is, therefore, ordained that arbitrary power over none shall be exercised in this commonwealth; that no privilege, immunity, exoneration or exemption shall be granted to any man, or set of men, that all others, under like circumstances, may not fully exercise and enjoy, and that no public emolument shall be allowed to any one, except in consideration of public service, the performance of which shall be required by law."

That ought to go with Lincoln's Gettysburg oration, one for the closet, the other for the forum.

What will become of the initiative and referendum when this probe is put to it, which Knott inserted into compulsory education?

"If constitutions are intended for anything at all, they are intended for the protection of the minority. It is a common saying, that vox populi, vox Dei; nevertheless the populace frequently commit acts that are not unwise, but essentially despotic, and of all the intolerable despotisms that my imagination can conceive, the act of the sftate, reaching into the bosom of the family of one of its citizens, taking his child from its natural asylum, placing itself in loco parentis, notwithstanding he may desire to educate it there, is the most atrocious."

If I went sent to find the truest disciple of Jefferson among all living Democrats, and should run across J. Proctor Knott, I would say, "Thou art the man," and my search would be finished.

Minneapolis' Finest Tailor.

Write Me For Samples

You cannot live so far away as to be compelled to wear hand-me-down clothes. You can have your clothes made to order the same as the city chaps right here in town. I make clothes every year for thousands of men I have never seen. I make more clothes in a month than all the other tailors in Minneapolis combined. Just drop me a line and tell me the kind of clothes you are thinking of getting and I will mail you, free of charge, samples and self-measurement blanks, with cuts of the latest styes and full instructions how to measure.

Suits Make to Order

I want you to write me for samples so I can show you the kind of clothes I am making. You can look the samples over and if you think they are not good value "cut it out." At $15.00 I will make you a suit or overcoat to order that would cost you $30.00 of any other Minneapolis tailor—and at $20.00, suit or overcoat that would cost you $40.00 to duplicate at any other tailor in Minneapolis, and at $25.00 I will make you a suit or overcoat that you can't match at any other tailor's in Minneapolis under $45.00 or $50.00.

$15 $20 $25

I guarantee a perfect fit, style up-to-date, and make the best clothes in the world for the least money. Now don't buy hand-me-down clothes and look like a "country Jay." Write for samples today. Address your letter to

SOCIETY

THAT part of society that was not interested in the round-up of the Needlework guild during the past week was planning the week-end pleasure of attending the Chicago-Minnesota game today at Minneapolis. The social outlook for November is promising and some of the most beautiful affairs that the winter will see are promised for this usually drab month. The board of managers of the Children's home are already busy with preparations for the annual Charity ball, and the various committees are making plans for this function. It will be held, as usual, the Tuesday evening preceding Thanksgiving, and will probably again be held at the Spalding, although it was thought last year that the 1906 ball would be the last for which the dancing hall there would be available. The alterations of the hotel have been delayed somewhat, and it is expected that another brilliant charity ball will pass into history, with the Spalding as the scene of the galety.

The weddings for the month are of much interest. During the week Judge and Mrs. Page Morris issued invitations for the wedding of their third daughter, Virginia, to Thomas Merrill Ring. The wedding will be a home affair, the service to be read at the home of the bride's parents, Tuesday evening, Nov. 19. The bride will have as her only attendant, her sister, Miss Mary Morris, and the groomsman will be Roger Hill of Saginaw. Mr. Ring and his bide will go to the West to live.

George Hamlin Recital.

The first artist recital this year to be given under the auspices of the Matinee Musicale will be a song recital by George Hamlin, tenor, which will be sung at the Plymouth Congregational church Monday evening, Nov. 11.

Among his Berlin press notices the following are of interest, expressing the universal favor with which he was greeted in that center of musical culture:

"In Mr. Hamline we became acquainted with a heroic tenor with a large voice, especially brilliant in the upper register. He sang Wolf's "Wo find ich Trost?" and "Caecilie" of Strauss, with orchestral accompaniment, magnificently. In these he showed his fine dramatic talent and the magnitude of his brilliant voice.—Volks Zeitung, Baden, Dec. 4, 1906."

"Mr. Hamlin's mezza-voce is an object lesson and his phrasing, added to a clearness in intonation and a beauty of interpreation in all styles, give him an enviable place among the singers of the day.—Dresden Daily, Nov. 6, 1906."

Miss Bradshaw will sing, "O Paradise," by Browne, and Charles Applehagen will sing, during the communion, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," by Hauser.

Kubelik to Play Here.

Jan Kubelik, who will appear at the Lyceum, Dec. 4, the great violinist, now on his third American tour, is one of the few musical geniuses, who is without mannerism, poses or affectations. There is nothing eccentric in his dress, personal appearance, or in his deportment on the platform. His popularity is not due to the length or cut of his hair or the assumption of any other peculiarity. He goes through no facial or physical contortions when playing difficult music to impress his hearers with the technical obstacles he is overcoming. He shrinks from notoriety and desires only such fame as may be his justly from the qualities of his playing. His appeal is through the tones which issue from his violin, and to the sincerity and validity of this appeal is due the pre-eminent place he occupies in the musical world when still but 27 years old.

H. S. M. S. Annual Concert.

The High School Musical society's annual fall concert will be given on Friday, Dec. 13. Rehearsals are progressing successfully. There will be about 140 voices in the chorus this year.

Of Ernest Schelling.

Speaking of the many aspirants for artistics honors in Berlin, August Spanuth in his weekly letter from Berlin to the New York Staats Zeitung of Oct. 20, says the following:

"I made a 'find' in the Beethovensaal the other day where the pianist Ernest Schelling of New York gave a concert with the Philharmonic orchestra. He played the Beethoven E flat major concerto, Chopin's F minor Concerto, and Liszt's Spanish Rhapsodie arranged by Busoni. Since his last appearance in New York, Schelling has made huge strides. He possesses a masterful control of technique and imparts to his playing the stamp of a sympathetic personality.

"His performance shows unmistakable influence of Paderewski, but fortunately he has not acquired Paderewski's tendency for exaggerated dynamics and tempos, he is not misled into 'pounding' nor does he yield to overwrought morbidezza. In short, his playing is not sensational, but is full of color and finesse. Especially with reference to the nuances of touch many an otherwise excellent German pianist could pattern after Mr. Schelling.

"In Chopin's F minor Concerto in particular, he unfolded such an abundance of charm as one would not have credited him with a few years ago.

"Schelling has reached the complete maturity of his art, and I am convinced that he will astound his countrymen when he enters upon his next American tournee."

Schelling will appear at the Lyceum Monday evening, Nov. 18.

OLD TOKEN MONEY

Issued Many Years Ago and Found Under Altoona Saloon.

Altoona, Wis., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—While William Palmer and Mr. Bagley were assisting in moving Archie Donaldson's saloon, they came upon a very rare token issued during what is known as the "Seven Years War." These tokens were given as an acknowledgement for gold and silver advanced to help the government, and although of base metal have been held by the families of the donors as an evidence of their patriotism, just as one hundred years hence people here will exhibit their bank books and point with exultation to the fact that while a financial panic existed all over the land their forefathers had such confidence in our banking institutions that they came forward and deposited money instead of withdrawing it. Some of the letters are so discolored with age that they will require daylight and a good magnifying glass to decipher them. Peterson, the collector, offered the boys $5 for it.

Replevin Suit of Holy Cross Society Settled and Dismissed.

Action Resulted From Secession of Polish Catholic Church.

The Holy Cross society, an organization comprised of the members of the Polish Catholic church congregation which recently seceded and formed an independent church, will be given possession of its banner, said to be worth several hundred dollars, and other paraphernalia, now held by Rev. Stanislaus Icick, the priest regularly appointed for the church at Third street and Fourth avenue east, by Bishop McGolrick.

A stipulation for a settlement and dismissal of the replevin action brought by the society against Rev. Icick, based on the above terms, was filed in the district court today. Under the terms of the settlement, the property is to be turned over to the society within five days of the date of the stipulation and the case is to be dismissed as soon as the society is in possession.

With the settlement of this action all hope of any reconciliation between the so-called rebel church and the regular Catholic church is said to be abandoned. The congregation that seceded is said to have allied itself with the Independent Catholic Church Society of America, and have agreed to accept the jurisdiction of a bishop in Pennsylvania. The congregation has purchased property and will establish their own church under the leadership of Rev. C. Sierzputowski, the priest whose removal by Bishop McGolrick is said to have caused the secession of the congregation.

The Holy Cross society is an organization comprised of members of the congregation. Following the secession from the jurisdiction of Bishop McGolrick the society is said to have had a session in which a majority voted to stand by the action of the congregation while nine members are said to have held out for submission to the decree of the bishop.

The banner and other pharaphernalia of the society were kept at the church building at Third street and Fourth avenue west and when the officers went to demand the property they were told by Rev. Icick, who had been appointed custodian by Bishop McGolrick, that the court would have to decide the question of ownership.

The Independent Catholic churches, it is claimed are associated under an agreement that each church runs its own affairs. Each congregation elects its own priest instead of taking one that is appointed for them.

A. L. Agatin represented the Holy Cross society, and Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer represented Rev. Icick.

WANT PIEDMONT AVE. REGRADED

Hillside Improvment Society Asks City to Repair Street.

Piedmont avenue in the West end will be regraded in the near future, if the desires of the West End Hillside Improvement society are heeded by the city council. The society met last evening for the second time since it was organized, and it was the general opinion that the avenue should be regraded.

In a resolution which was adopted by the society, the city council was asked to do the work of regrading. In another resolution the people of the Sixth and Seventh wards were asked to vote on the proposition at the coming election.

The city engineer has estimated that the work of regrading on Piedmont avenue will cost the city about $20,000. The improvement society manifested considerable feeling over the refusal so far of the council to consider the needed improvement.

The Hillside Improvement society was organized for the purpose of bringing about favorable action on this matter, and it is determined to keep up the agitation until something is done.

BILLS AGAINST HIS SALARY

Believed That William Langon Simply Left the City.

The number of bills coming in against the salary balance of William Langon, formerly in the employment of the health department, leads to the supposition with many that he has quietly slipped away from Duluth and is living today.

Bills amounting to more than the balance due him have been presented and many are on file at the city treasurer's office. Langon, it will be remembered, disappeared about two months ago while with a party of friends picnicking near Hunter's park. Search was made for him and it has been the supposition that he wandered off into the woods and was lost.

Many are now of the opinion that he came to this city and took a boat for parts unknown.

BOYS HAVE HEARING

Juvenile Court Begins Investigation of Killing of Jovo Mehic.

Mrs. La Tarte Becomes Hysterical and Faints in Courtyard.

Nine West Duluth boys of ages ranging from 11 to 16 years were given a hearing in the juvenile court this morning, as a result of the killing of Jovo Mehic, an Austrian, in the rear of a boarding house at 5602 Raleigh street. Mehic was killed as a result of coming in contact with a live wire, laid by George LaTarte, aged 11, and several young companions, as a prank, their intention being to "make the Austrians dance."

The juvenile courtroom was pretty well filled with the boys and their relatives, all others, except the court officers being excluded, one of the district court stenographers took the testimony at the hearing, the proceedings of which will not be made public under provision made for juvenile court cases by the state law.

The hearing was not completed when the noon adjournment of the court was taken. It was continued until next Saturday.

Following the adjournment of the hearing Mrs. LaTarte caused some commotion in the courthouse by becoming hysterical, her condition causing some of the other women and several of the children to begin their lamentations. Mrs. LaTarte, as soon as she had been helped outside the building, fainted, but was soon restored and taken home on a street car.

It is understood that at the inquest some testimony was given tending to show that the boys implicated in the Mehic case had been in the habit of experimenting with the live wire at the rear of the boarding house. It is said that last summer they used to form a ring, grasping a piece of hay wire while the boy at one end made the connections with the live wire and cause the members of the circle to go through a lively dancing performance. The supposition is that the ground was dry when the boys fooled with the electric current, but that it was wet when Mehic came in contact with the wire and he received a heavy shock.

PITTSFIELD PASTOR BELIEVES IN LICENSE

Maine Experience Prompted Him to Fight Against Prohibition.

HAS REFUSED TO JOIN ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Works in the Shop and Earns Day Pay to Do Away with "Church Graft."

Pittsfield, Nov. 2, 1907.—The Rev. Earl C. Davis, the working pastor of Unity Church of Pittsfield, created a sensation in the No-License league and Berkshire Ministers' club this week by announcing that he is in favor of high license.

"I believe in the licensed city from a moral standpoint," said he to a Herald reporter. "I don't care a rap about the financial benefit that would accrue to a city the size of Pittsfield from the liquor element, but I do believe that a dry city would be greatly to Pittsfield's disadvantage.

"I was born and brought up in Maine. I lived in Auburn and Lewiston. What I saw in Maine prompts me to my action now, and that is the reason I have taken this stand.

"From what I observed in Maine I believe that no license in Pittsfield would mean the establishment of innumerable kitchen dives that would be followed or run in connection with houses of ill-repute, and morally the effect would be infinitely worse than with the open saloon under supervision of authorities.

"Auburn and Lewiston in Maine are about the size of Pittsfield. In Auburn alone there are 150 kitchen barrooms and as many more in Lewiston under a so-called prohibition regime.

"Some of the Pittsfield ministers asked me to join the Anti-Saloon league, but its views and mine do not coincide, and I refused to become a member. I may have something further to say about this later."

As Pittsfield went license by only 49 votes last year, an aggressive campaign has already been started by the no-license league under the supervision of the other Pittsfield ministers.

Of all ministers in Berkshire county, the Rev. Earl C. Davis is the most picturesque. Last January he created a stir in his church by setting forth this opinion in regard to church suppers:

"Church suppers for revenue as they have been conducted at some churches are a light form of graft. The sale of tickets for such suppers to those who really don't want them is a sort of blackmail."

At a special parish meeting called at the suggestion of Mr. Davis at that time it was voted to abandon church suppers, and the request of the Rev. Mr. Davis that he be allowed to work in the plant of the Stanley Electric company was granted. He then asked that $300 be taken from his salary at Unity church, making that now $900.

Mr. Davis arranged with the Stanley company that he should have time off for weddings and funerals. He has taken one evening a week for parish calls and has thought out his sermons largely while at his daily work. He has an hour for dinner and quits at 5 p. m.

While the Rev. Mr. Davis would not state definitely, it is believed that he will preach one or more sermons at Unity church soon on the license question.

A native of Poland, Me., the Rev. Mr. Davis graduated from Bowdoin college in the class of 1897, and for five years thereafter was principal of the high school at Billerica, Mass. He was graduated from Harvard divinity school in 1904 and was one of the commencement orators. He came to Pittsfield in March, 1905. Before entering college Mr. Davis worked in a shoe factory in Maine. He has a wife and one child.—Boston Sunday Herald.

COMPLIMENTS TOWER.

President Writes Kind Letter to the American Ambassador at Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 2.—President Roosevelt has written a very kind and complimentary letter to Charlemange Tower, the American ambassador here, in reply to Mr. Tower's note intimating his intention of resigning his position and retiring from the service next spring. The president writes in part as follows:

"I sincerely regret your leaving Berlin. I cannot, at the moment, think of anyone else who can take your place as well. You will have given nearly twelve years of honorable service to your country. It is a fine record, and one of which you should be accordingly proud when you hand it as a memory to your children."

ATTENDS HEARING

Assistant United States Attorney Sweet on Official Visit.

Will Investigate Irregularities in Applications for Citizenship.

Allens who may hereafter become citizens of the United States will not regard their naturalization papers lightly, in fact naturalization papers are being looked on with an increasing respect as to their value by reason of the restrictions which the new naturalization law has thrown about their acquisition.

Assistant United States Attorney John C. Sweet of St. Paul, who has been appointed by the United States attorney general to represent the government's interests in naturalization hearings for the district comprising Western Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, was in Duluth, today on his first official visit, to attend the naturalization hearing held in the district court of this county.

Owing to the limited time of the court only five applicants were examined for second papers this morning, and Mr. Sweet participated with the court in the examination.

Representing the government, which has at least sixty days notice of all the hearings on applications for naturalization papers, it is the duty of Mr. Sweet to interrogate applicants or witnesses, if he desires. Investigate indications of fraud or attempted fraud, or other irregularities and prosecute the same either by civil or criminal action.

Under the law, if fraud is proved the government has the right to cancel any certificate of citizenship, no matter when it has been issued. The government may also, through its special agents make an investigation outside the hearing with a view of procuring evidence on which to base a civil or criminal action.

The government does not intend that any person of anarchistic tendencies shall become a citizen of the United States and particular care is to be exercised by its agents in this respect, hereafter. To acquire citizen papers an alien must swear that he is not a believer in anarchistic doctrines. If persons acquire citizen papers by fraudulent representations the government means not only to cancel the certificates, but to punish the offenders to the fullest extent of the law.

GOOD WESTERN PLAY.

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine" is Well Received.

The melo-dramatic offering from the pen of Owen Davis, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," in which Jules Murray is featuring W. A. Whitecar, was well received by a fairly large audience at the Lyceum last night. Owen Davis has followed the example set by Augustus Thomas, David Belasco, and other present day dramatists by laying the scene of his play in the great Southwest. Western plays are all the rage at the present time, and Mr. Davis, one of the most prolific producers of plays that are guaranteed to thrill, has found in the romantic spirit of Texas, before civilization encroached and obliterated the distinctly Western type of cowpunchers, bad men, etc., material that permits of high coloring and effective stage pictures.

Mr. Davis has not invested his play with a complicated plot. Richard Barrington, known at the Bar Z ranch, where the scene of the play is laid, as Dick Scott, comes West to forget a woman whom he believed did not return his love. Of course the woman turns up at the Bar Z, and upon her entrance into the life of Dick Scott begins the complications that entangle her and Dick in a maze of difficulties, including the murder of a villanious Mexican, of which Dick is wrongly accused. The woman tries to save Dick by saying that she shot the Mexican, and Dick in turn, believing that his former sweetheart really did kill the Mexican, tries to shield her by confessing to the killing. In the end, the truth is learned in time to prevent Dick from being lynched by a crowd of revengeful Mexicans. Dick wins his old sweetheart and the curtain descends upon peace and harmony, that has been wrought from the stormy stress of three melo-dramatic acts, in which revolver shots, a realistic storm on the prairie, and the shouts of the never-appearing Mexican mob are interwoven.

As Richard Barrington, W. A. Whitecar gives a dignified portrayal of the man whose heart is torn by love for a woman whom he believes does not reciprocate his affection. Mr. Whitecar has opportunities in plenty to make a ranting, melo-dramatic stage hero out of the character, but to his credit, let it be said, brings to the part a quiet reserve and dignity that marks his work even in the "heavy scenes."

As "Slim," a cowpuncher, Daniel Roach furnished the chief comedy of the play, and his work deserves honorable mention. Mr. Roach did not overdo the part, yet had his audience with him from the start. John Fay Palmer, as the ranch owner; Mae Joyce, as Dick's sweetheart, and Edmund Carew as the villanious Mexican, deserve mention for their good work. The scenery and accessories are good, particularly the storm scene of the second act.

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine" will be repeated this afternoon and this evening.

FEET WERE BAKED IN HOT SAND

Gust Nelson Walks Barefoot Into Sand Box at Proctor.

With his feet baked from the hot sand of the sand pit in the Duluth, Missabe & Northern shops at Proctor, Gust Nelson was brought to Duluth early this morning on a special train and taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Nelson, who is employed by the railroad company, became intoxicated last night, and taking off his shoes walked into the hot sand pit, used for cooling redhot metal. The pain caused him to fall on his hands and knees, and his hands were also horribly burned by the hot sand.

He was promptly rescued by the employes and brought to St. Mary's hospital, suffering intense pain.

Draws Jail Sentence.

William A. Freeman, a telegraph operator, drew a straight sentence of twenty days in the county jail this morning, on a drunkenness charge, the sentence being given for his own benefit by the court.

According to the story told by Chief Troyer in the court room, the friends of the young man had raised a purse of $100 to allow him to take the "dope cure." He had been out of the hospital but a few days when he became intoxicated, and his friends feared he would go back to his old habits. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge of drunkenness and was given a straight sentence of twenty days.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Inability to Raise Money Causes Some Contraction in Business.

New York, Nov. 2.—R. G. Dun's Weekly Review of Trade, says: Contraction has followed the financial crisis of last week but only to the extent compelled by inability to raise money.

There is no evidence that confidence has been permanently impaired, but on the contrary it is felt that the nation was fortified by unprecedented prosperity that the strain made no impression upon. Many contemplated developments have been postponed and merchants find rates for commercial paper almost prohibitive, yet retail trade is stimulated by more seasonable temperature and at interior cities collections improve with the movement of the crops to market.

Conditions in the iron and steel industry are not materially affected although new business is smaller. Mills continue well occupied on old contracts as a rule and as there have been no cancellations it is probable that no extensive reduction in activity will take place. A fair tonnage of rails is wanted for home roads and export and shipyards are using plates freely, yet the volume of new business is restricted by financial stringency. Coke output is at the maximum and large contracts are reported for future delivery but the ovens will quickly respond to any curtailment of pig iron production. Textile manufacturing plants are not reducing activity although more caution regarding future business is exercised. In certain lines some accumulations of stocks are noted but these are in strong hands that are not likely to urge sales at the expense of values. Moreover, these are exceptional instances, most lines indicate that some advancement in prices will be made and would set the market on a healthier basis, but the present time is not propitious. Much satisfaction is expressed in the drygoods trade over the manner in which the last week's stress was sustained, giving a most encouraging prospect for the future. Prices are still well above the views of exporters. the only development in the market for mens' wear woolens is a moderate supply of duplicate orders, much uncertainty remaining as to certain fabrics.

Hides are dull and quiet, tanners making no bids on account of the scarcity of money. Any pressure to sell would have been probably unsettling. Hides are weak, several varieties declining fractionally. Purchases of leather are also restricted to immediate needs, but stocks are held down by reduced production. Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston average 10,000 cases less than in the same week last year, but totals since Jan. 1 is larger than in any other year except 1905 and 1903, despite the extensive development of the industry outside New York. Eastern manufacturers report improvement in orders chiefly staple lines.

The Best Mitt Made.

What is admitted to be the best horsehide mitt on the market is made right at home in Duluth. It is manufactured by Wesley Medd, 328 Lake avenue south, and is called Medd's Home-made Horsehide Mitt. Mr. Medd began the manufacture of this mitt three years ago, and the demand for them has grown to such an extent that he is compelled to work his force night and day to keep up with orders that are pouring in from the clothiers of Duluth and nearby towns. The mitt is non-rippable and sells for one dollar at all the leading clothing stores.

DEATH ENDS SUFFERING

Of Calumet Girl Who Was Scalded by Hot Water.

Calumet, Mich., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Death has relieved Miss Pugel, who was awfully scalded, of her terrible sufferings. She was 22 years of age. Wednesday evening, in company with another girl, she was carrying a large pail of scalding water to the basement of the Sunich home, on Sixth street, when her friend slipped and fell, Miss Pugel receiving the contents of the pail. She was frightfully burned all over her body, but up to the time of her death it was though she would recover. Her mother visited her a short time before she died, and at that time death was unexpected.

Her demise came as a great shock to those at her bedside. The cause of her death is vouched for by her medical attendant, so an inquest will not be held.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS' PAGE

Polly and the Magic Goose: A Modern Fairy Story

By Helena Davis.

Polly was the name of a little orphan girl who lived with a very wicked old couple in the country near to a great city. In this great city lived the married daughter of the wicked couple, and she was the mother of a little daughter just the age of the orphan Polly. But her life was full of plenty, and her parents and grandparents (all wicked, selfish people who cared only for their own) humored her every wish. Not so was it with Polly. Her life was one of want and drudgery. For every crumb she ate and for every rag she wore she paid doubly dear in work, being made a veritable slave-child by the wicked old man and woman who had taken her at her mother's death, with a promise to protect and educate her as though she were a child of their own. But this promise had never been kept sacred for one day, for the very day that Polly accompanied the old folks to their home they set severe tasks for her to perform. And when once Polly had complained that she was hungry all the time—never having half enough food during the day to be called one meal—and that she was cold in the damp basement room where she slept, and very weary from the heavy tasks set for her to perform, the old woman fell upon her and beat her unmercifully, saying: "Now, little beggar complain of your home again, will you? Do you relish beatings more than work? If so, let us hear some more complaints of your food, bed and work."

And so Polly went on from day to day, slaving, freezing and starving till there seemed little life left in her body.

One day there came a letter to the old woman from her daughter in the city saying:

"Dear Mother: I shall pay you a visit within a few days. Margery took it into her head today that she wants to go to the country for a little visit, and Margery's wish must be obeyed. Have everything in readiness to give her a little surprise party on the night of our arrival. It will so please and amuse her to have such a function given in her honor. Spare no pains to make the party one of a unique nature and I will settle all the bills. Your loving daughter, Stella."

"Ah, now, my little beggar, you'll really have something to do," said the old woman, grinning wickedly at poor little Polly, who was polishing the brass of the grate fender. "You'll have a real little queen to wait upon in the person of my granddaughter Margery. She's a hard one to please, too, so you'll have to look lively while acting as her maid."

Polly sighed under her breath. If there was harder work to be imposed upon her she felt that she would sink beneath it. Ho ill and wea she felt from the long stra And today she suffered more than usual, for the cold outside was intense and she was obliged to run to the village, a mile away, several times on errands. And her clothing was not sufficient to keep the chill of the winter's blast from cutting to the bone. At times her fingers and toes were so numb that she could scarcely keep the tears back, they pained her so.

The next day the daughter and granddaughter arrived from the city. Margery was a selfish, ill-tempered little girl with a scowl always on her forehead and a pout on her lips. Her eyes were ugly and small, a most unsightly squint in one of them. Her features were as ill to look upon as were her eyes. In general make-up, she was a child that no one could like, for her face and manner told of her ugly nature. Her mother—who had signed herself "Stella"—was a second edition of the wicked old woman who held little Polly in abject slavery. In fact, three generations of females could not be more alike than were these three, mother, daughter and granddaughter.

As soon as the two visitors had got installed in their rooms they began calling upon Polly to bring this and that, to take this and that, and to be constantly on the jump at their beck and call. Poor Polly had nothing to do but obey. And as the preparations were going on for the great surprise party to be given that same night in honor of the young guest, Margery, Polly's duties were legion.

At dusk the presents from friends of the neighborhood—friends who were invited to the party—began to arrive. Among them was a strange-looking little toy goose, a gift from one of the poor children of the village who doubtless could not afford to send anything else. As soon as Mrs. Stella saw the inexpensive little toy her nose went into the air and she sneered at it. "The idea of any one sending such a thing as that to my daughter!" she said indignantly. "Here, maid, (addressing Polly) take this thing and throw it out the window. I wouldn't think of letting Margery see it; she'd feel simply insulted that any one would dare to present her with such an ugly, cheap trifle."

Polly took the toy goose, scarce larger than a dove, and went to the open window with it. But as she was about to toss it out on the snow-covered ground she felt the poor little thing quiver in her hand. It may have been but her imagination, but however that may be, Polly could not throw the little thing out of doors into the snow. As Mrs. Stella was so busy fixing the presents on a table at the farthest end of the room Polly said nothing to her about what disposition she made of the rejected toy; but feeling that since it was to be destroyed there could be no possible objection to her—Polly—keeping it. So she hid it on the window ledge behind a potted plant, returning for it at the first opportunity she found to go to her basement room. Then she took the little goose under her apron and ran down the dark back stairs and shut herself in her room for a few minutes. Placing the little goose on a shelf against the wall she stood looking at it with tenderness in her blue eyes. "Poor little goosie," she murmured. "You and I are of little consequence in this world. I am an orphan and you are a cheap toy. But we both can feel. Yes, I'm sure that you can feel just as I do, for when I was about to toss you into the cold snow you shivered. But you shall remain here and be covered up to keep warm. I haven't much cover, but what I have shall be shared with you. You are my only companion, and we'll become great friends, I'm sure." So saying Polly took from her cot a bit of old comforter and gently wrapped about the little toy. Then she ran off to perform her evening duties.

After the last guest had arrived, and the party was in full swing in the great white and gold drawing room, Polly was sent to her basement room by her mistress, being told to rise before the sun in the morning and see that bright fires were burning in the grates all over the house, for the wicked old couple who owned the place loved comforts and good cheer for themselves, and never denied themselves nor their daughter and granddaughter anything.

When Polly opened the door to her room and stepped in she stepped short in the middle of the room, for just as she was about to scratch a match to light a bit of candle that stood on the shelf a bright light as of a hundred candles flashed about her. The room was warm and beautifully furnished. Where the rude cot had been stood a dainty bed with warm down coverlets. A bright fire sparkled in a grate which had miraculously appeared in one side of the room. Polly could not speak for a minute, then she cried in a low voice: "Oh, am I dreaming?"

Answering her cry came a sweet voice from the doorway behind her:

"No, my dear child, you are not dreaming. All you see is real."

Polly turned to behold a fairy standing

There stood Polly in the most beautiful dress, shoes, jacket and hat.

about her. And what is more, it cannot be destroyed by a bad person, but will perish through the negligence and ignorance of a good person. So, by falling into your careful hands it was preserved through your good sense and kind heart. Had the wicked woman, who told you to destroy it, have tried to do so herself she would have met with an awful fate."

Just as the fairy ceased speaking a quick step was heard on the steps, and in another minute the old mistress of the house appeared, her face livid with anger. "You beggar!" she was crying out to Polly, "why don't you come when I call you? I've been calling from the top of the stairs for fully a minute. Who are you talking to, anyway? Who dares to——"

But by this time the old woman had reached the doorway, thrown the door wide and stood with eyes riveted on the scene in front of her. There stood Polly in the most beautiful dress, shoes, jacket and hat; for the fairy had changed her rags for fine attire with a wave of a wand. And she had put upon her a warm jacket and a hat for she meant to lead her from this place within an hour. But the fairy had disappeared upon the old woman's entrance, hiding outside the house in a tree top.

"What does all this mean?" gasped the old woman, finding her tongue.

"It means that the little toy goose which your daughter would not have, and which she ordered me to throw away, was—and is—a magic one. It brought about this change for me," explained Polly.

"Oh, a magic goose!". And the old woman ran to the mantle and jerked down the magic bird. "Ah, now, little beggar, go back in your rags again, for this will be mine from now on. Magic, you say? Very well, I'll take it upstairs with me and we—my daughter, my husband, and my granddaughter, will be made richer and more beautiful than any other persons in the whole world. So, go back into your rags!"

But even as she spoke the old woman began to shrivel up and to become cold. Her rich gown turned into thin rags. But she did not know of the change in her appearance, and ran laughing and gloating upstairs to her daughter and guests with the cherished goose in her arms. "Take it, take it and make a wish," she cried to her husband, thrusting the goose into his arms. He held it but a moment and became a shriveled-up old man, crippled in limbs and almost speechless. He turned instinctively to his daughter and thrust it into her hands. The same terrible thing happened to her, and she fell to the floor in a fit. Her petted Margery was near to her and bent down and took the toy goose from her writhing mother's arms. Instantly she doubled up into a hideous hunch-back, and her face was so ugly and so full of her true character that other children there ran away from her.

The guests departed in confusion. The walls of the elegant house changed into the walls of a hut and the rooms became small and mean. The money—which the wicked old people had stolen from the poor—was turned to dust before their eyes. They were ruined, ruined, physically and financially. They had always been ruined morally. So now they were reaping the harvest for their own sowing.

Polly paused long enough to look on the awful scene before her; then taking the magic goose into her arms she joined the good fairy in the yard and together they rode away in a great automobile to a lovely home in the country far, far away where Polly spent her life and the magic of the toy goose in bringing happiness and plenty to the deserving poor and retribution and punishment to the wicked and arrogant rich.

And for many, many years did Polly and the Magic Goose live to accomplish great good in the world.

Remarkable Tropical Birds.

Bell-Bird.

Two curiously-remarkable birds are the Umbrella-bird and the Bell-bird. The former is found along the upper Amazon River and has its home in the highest tree-tops. Its food consists of wild fruits and berries. It derives its name from a peculiar head-dress in the shape of a large, flat-topped, slightly drooping crest of soft feathers that completely shade its face. From its throat a long lappet of feathers drops nearly to its feet.

The Bell-bird, whose name doubtless arises from its bell-like note, (though some say it's note sounds strangely like the sound of a blacksmith's hammer on the anvil, sharp and ringing clear) is a most interesting bird to study. There are four species of the Bell-bird, three of which have snow-white feathered males with naked faces of a vivid color. A curious gristle-growth, or formation, thinly covered with feathers hangs from the bird's forehead, and during times of excitement this pendulous growth rises stiffly erect as is shown in the accompanying picture.

BY MAUD WALKER.

Little Johnny Perkins was the son of a fisherman and lived away down in Florida. His home was a rude affair made from old spars, ship's timbers, and other odd lumber, that were found floating as driftwood in the bay after storms at sea.

Johnny's mother spent her days making and mending nets and keeping her house in order, while Johnny's father spent most of his time in the Gulf of Mexico fishing for red-snapper. That particular kind of fish always brought a good price at the fish houses on the wharf, and Johnny's father usually brought in a good pull every time he came from a fishing expedition.

When Johnny was eight years old he began planning to follow the fishing trade, but his mother objected to her little son's going to sea till he should be old enough to brave the tempests and endure the exposure of cold and dampness. Indeed, the good woman knew too well the perils of the great deep, for many and many were the nights she waited and watched for the return of her husband's boat, building a bonfire on the sandy beach to guide him in the darkness. And many and many a time she saw with fearing heart the waves beat high, driving the frail fisherboats out to sea where many of them were lost. But always her husband came home, no matter how great his peril, for he declared that he was a lucky fisherman and would never be caught in Davy Jones' locker.

After a fishing expedition, which usually lasted several days, Johnny's father would remain at home for a week, sitting in the shade of the house resting and smoking his pipe and relating to Johnny stories of the sea. And other fisher folk would come in to spend an hour in the evening when Johnny's father was at home, for every one knew him for a good-hearted, cordial soul who was ever ready with laugh and story.

And so the months passed by, some of the time spent by Johnny and his mother in terrible anxiety and suspense when the father and husband was away, and other times spent in simple domestic bliss when he was at home safe and sound with a nice roll of money in his pocket as the result of a good catch of red-snapper.

But all the time Johnny was becoming impatient to go to sea. He begged his father to take him every time he took his boat—the "Captain Perkins"—out; but each time the fond father would shake his grizzled head and say: "Not yet my laddie. Wait till you are stronger of arm and leg and stouter of heart and firmer of nerve. The old Gulf ain't no place for a little shaver. Old Davy Jones might lay hands on you, and once in his clutches you'd find yourself in his locker next. No-o-o, just you wait awhile. Besides, I'm laying away a bit towards making a scholar and a gentleman out'n you. What if yer dad is just plain Jim Perkins, the fisherman; 'tain't no sign you have to follow the same trade. Nope, Johnny Perkins shall fish for bigger fish than red-snapper, I'll warrant."

But Johnny said nothing in reply. He kept on longing and longing to go to sea. So, one day just after his father had set the sails of "Captain Perkins" to the breeze and went like a white-winged bird over the beautiful waves that danced so merrily in the sunlight, Johnny proceeded to carry into effect a plan which had been forming for days and nights in his childish brain. Near to his father's little dock was another one belonging to old "Uncle" Tim Whalen, and there old "Uncle" Tim's boat, the "Nancy Lee," was tied up waiting for old "Uncle" Tim to start to sea, for he, like Jim Perkins, was a fisherman. When no one was about Tim's dock Johnny crept into the little cabin of the Nancy Lee, hiding himself behind the provision box and covering himself with a great piece of tarpaulin. Then he waited.

An hour or more must have passed, and still old "Uncle" Tim did not come to set the sails of the Nancy Lee. Little Johnny could not quite understand why he delayed his going to sea, for the tide was right for starting and the day as fine as it could possibly be. And all that morning old Tim, assisted by his good wife, had been busy provisioning the boat for two weeks' fishing expedition. The fishermen always put in enough food to run them two or three weeks in case of emergency, though they rarely remained out at sea longer than four or five days at a time.

As the forenoon wore away little Johnny became sleepy, lying there in the snug, close little cabin and covered by the tarpaulin. So, closing his eyes he was about to indulge in a nap when of a sudden the boat started without another occupant than Johnny and without her sails being set. Johnny marvelled at this; but fearing that should he appear outside the cabin he would be accused by the boat's owner of having set her going, and decided to remain in his snug corner.

On and on he sailed, going at a great rate over the dancing water. Johnny could hear those on the shore shouting and calling out to old "Uncle" Tim that his Nancy Lee was drifting out to sea; but what good would all that noise do? There wasn't another boat in dock that could travel as fast as the Nancy Lee when she was going at her usual speed; and at her present speed none could hope to even keep her in sight.

Now, the reader may be somewhat surprised that Johnny did not feel any fear—drifting away out to sea in a boat of which he knew nothing. Often he had gone on short sails with his father in the Captain Perkins, and had some notion of how to manage her. But the Nancy Lee was a different sort of boat—larger and better than the Captain Perkins—and was managed on different lines. So Johnny was going out into the great rolling gulf in a boat of which he was wholly ignorant. To be sure, her sails were not set, and she was doubtless just drifting before the wind.

While Johnny lay meditating upon his novel experience, not wondering how he was to get on land again, but wondering what he should see after he had gotten beyond the sight of land, the tarpaulin was raised from his face and the strangest looking old man stood peering down into his eyes.

"Oh, I've got you now, young man," said this remarkable individual. "You are going with me to the bottom of the sea very shortly."

"Who are you, and how did you get aboard this boat?" asked Johnny, now sitting up and showing his surprise at the presence of the stranger.

"My name's Davy Jones. The sea-going folk fear me as a bad boy fears the dark. And it is not always so easy to catch a fellow as it has been to catch you. I saw you creep into the boat and knew that you meant to disobey your parents and go to sea in direct opposition to their wishes. So, says I to myself, old Davy, there's one for you. Get him and clap him into your locker at the bottom of the sea."

For the first time in his life Johnny felt really frightened. Old Davy Jones! And right there in possession of the boat! And going to take him—Johnny Perkins—to the bottom of the sea where he would imprison him in the wide-famed locker which Johnny knew meant a coffin.

"Oh, sir, please do not harm me!" wailed Johnny imploringly. "I will go home to my mother and never, no never, run away to sea again. Just please don't take me to the bottom of the sea. My father is Jim Perkins, the best-hearted and luckiest fisherman along all the Florida coast."

"That's just the reason why I'm going to take you down to the bottom of the sea," laughed Davy Jones. "Your father bears a charmed life. Wind and waves and old Davy Jones are defied by him. But now that I have my hold of his son I mean to keep it. So, prepare to see the mysteries of the bottom of the sea, and at once, my lad."

As the old man spoke there was the sound of rushing waves and the Nancy Lee began to rock and pitch furiously. Johnny began to tremble with fear and to wish with all his heart that he were safe at home with his mother. Just as he was about to implore old Davy Jones again to save him the boat gave a sudden dip and shot like an arrow into the sea; dividing the waters and making a straight path to the very bottom.

Johnny was dizzy from the quick descent, and could hardly speak when at last the boat stopped on the sandy bottom of the gulf. Then gasping, he turned to old Davy Jones who was looking at him with a sardonic grin on his ugly face. "Oh, sir, what are you going to do with me now?" Johnny asked. "I feel so smothered with all this water over me that I feel I shall die unless you let me go to the top again. Oh, oh!" And Johnny gurgled and gasped, struggling for breath.

"Ah, here you are, you young rascal!" And a strong hand took hold of Johnny,

"Oh, sir, what are you going to do with me now?" Johnny asked.

lifting him from his reclining position. And then Johnny opened his eyes and caught his breath at the same moment. To his amazement he beheld the weather-beaten face of old "Uncle" Tim bending over him. "How come you in here, you young run-away?" asked "Uncle" Tim. "Your mother has been bare daffy about you and has the whole town out searching. That's why I delayed starting out with the boat half an hour ago. I've been helping to search for you. Come, git out'n here and go and tell your mother you're safe and sound on dry land. She thought old Davy Jones had got you sure."

"Well," and Johnny rubbed hard his eyes to make sure this was not a happy dream, "I guess old Davy Jones did pretty near git me, Uncle Tim. But if I know myself I'll never, never go to sea again. Never."

"Why, you foolish youngster, you haven't been to sea yet," laughed "Uncle" Tim. "Wait till you get a real taste of it; then you may talk."

"What?" said Johnny, showing some surprise, for as yet he was not sure that he had not been in the bottom of the gulf. "do you call going to the bottom of the sea nothing? Well, I've been there and talked with old Davy Jones, and he's a mighty dangerous person, too, I can tell you."

"Oh, none of your spinning sea yarns at your age," said "Uncle" Tim. "But git out of here. I'm for getting off to sea. There comes my partner now. Run with all your legs and tell your mother she's got you to feed and fuss over for another while."

And Johnny, glad to the core of his heart that he was once more on dry land, and so soon to run into his dear anxious mother's arms, skipped off with all his might towards his home, declaring under his breath: "I'll go to school and become a scholar. I'll never, never go to sea. As sure as my name's John Perkins, old Davy Jones would get me if I did."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MINNESOTA

TO RECLAIM MANY ACRES

Extensive Draining Projects Being Carried On in This State.

St. Louis, Itasca, Koochiching and Other Counties to Benefit.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before next year closes the state of Minnesota will have expended $3,000,000 in irrigation or ditching projects, according to State Engineer Ralph.

"Next year will be the banner year for the digging of irrigation ditches in this state," said Mr. Ralph. "There have been a large number of contracts let this season for ditches which will be completed next year. When a big ditch is planned it takes some time to go through the preliminary proceedings, such as making the surveys, holding the hearings and apportioning the costs on the land, so that the work of digging it usually extends over into the following year.

"The counties are now planning a large number of ditches. We hear a new ditch talked of nearly every day."

Within the next two months contracts will be let for two large state ditches having an aggregate length of about 100 miles. These ditches will be dug in St. Louis, Itasca, Koochiching and Beltrami counties. When completed they will drain about 200 miles of swampy land, transforming it into rich farm land. The largest of these ditches will be that from Little Fork to Rainy river.

Through the arrangement which is now in force, the good roads movement is going hand-in-hand with the drainage movement in Northern Minnesota. All of the state drainage ditches are being dug with roads paralleling them, the dirt taken from the ditches furnishing material for the roads. This can be done easily as the ditches in the main follow section lines and the roads can be built at a very small expense.

WISCONSIN

CYPRUS VICTIM VERY MUCH ALIVE

Mourned for Dead, James Hayes is Located in Milwaukee..

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—After being mourned as dead by his mother and actually escaping death on the steamer Cyprus, which was wrecked on Lake Superior, James Hayes, 17 years old, has written from his bed in a Milwaukee hospital that he will arrive at his home in Cleveland in time to eat Thanksgiving dinner.

Just before the fatal disaster, in which all of the crew, with the single exception of the second mate, lost their lives, Hayes left the Cyprus. This fact was not communicated to his mother, who gave him up for dead since Aug. 11. His picture was printed in a Cleveland paper, which also told of his disappearance. A sailor happened to see the article, and, having learned that Hayes was brought to Milwaukee, induced him to write home and tell his mother of his safety.

"I am in the hospital here, mother, but am not very sick," he wrote. "I left the Cyprus in the Soo Oct. 10, and now I hear she went down and only Second Mate Charles Pitz was spared. I am so sorry for the others, for they were all good fellows. And the Cyprus was a fine boat. I left her because I got sick again."

Hayes was put aboard an F. & P. M. boat at the Soo and brought to the Milwaukee hospital. He has been given a berth on an F. & P. M. boat running between Milwaukee and Grand Haven, which he will take after recovering from his illness.

Perhaps They Are Those Stolen From U. S. Express Company.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. E. McDonald, superintendent of the United States Express company, and members of the detective force of the company have left the city. They have not been able to locate the money stolen a week ago. He says the amount taken was $18,500, and that $6,350 of the amount was in new bills and had not been in circulation. These are national bank notes of denominations of $10 and $20, and that their serial numbers, which will be found in the upper right hand corner, run from N249,984 to N250,110, inclusive. The sheet numbers, found in the lower left hand corner, run from 6010 to 6136, inclusive. The balance of the money taken from the sacks was in gold of the denominations of $5, $10 and $20. This will, of course, be more difficult to trace, as it is what is known in banking parlance as "counter currency." Mr. McDonald asks that the public assist by inspecting new bills for the numbers given.

MAKES STUDY OF HUNTING WOLVES

Michigan Game Warden Has Placed Expert Wolfers at Work.

Hancock, Mich., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hunters back from the Silver mountain region bring the news that State Game Warden Pierce is trying out some of his wolf-hunting theories in that portion of the Lake Superior country. He has sent to that district three men, Frank Smedly and Fred L. and George T. Perkins of Lansing, and they are operating systematically. They are equipped with all manner of wolf bait and traps. The knowledge gleaned will afterwards be made public for the benefit of the public. It is hoped to determine just what is the most effective manner of killing wolves. The game warden could not have chosen a better locality in which to try his experiments. Wolves are more plentiful around Silver mountain than they have been for years, and the region has long been noted as a favorite rendezvous for the animals. It is an unbroken wilderness.

Harry Wise, living at Laird, and who was hunting partridge in the Silver mountain district, was attacked a few days ago by a pack of wolves and was forced to take refuge in a tree, where he was besieged all afternoon. The wolves finally went after another quarry or Wise might have had a tough time, as he only had bird shot in his gun and could not have driven the animals away.

Output of Copper is Latest Report From Houghton.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The several reductions in wages of miners and other employes of the various mining companies of the Copper country were not unexpected and, in fact, it is even expected that several other companies will follow the lead of the Copper Range Consolidated, which employs about one-third of the miners of the district on its many properties, and the Calumet & Hecla. Both of these companies gave voluntary raises, of approximately the recent reductions, during the year, and the miners all seem satisfied. At the present time laborers are a drug on the market in the Copper country. Miners are coming in in large numbers from the Butte and other Western mining districts. The raid was well planned and the negroes were completely surprised. Chief Lowe, Capt. Sullivan and Officers Halvorson and Herrick participated. Dehoney was inclined to dispute the right of the police to break up the game and tried to make it appear that there was no money involved.

Bradford, a darkey, who had $17 worth of chips in front of him when the police appeared, was too much winner to let it go as a friendly game of cigars and told the police that they were playing poker at $1 a stack. While they were talking Dehoney managed to hide a $10 bill and when he was searched at the police station he was rather short of cash. When the police returned to gather up the chips and cards the money was found tucked under a mattress.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Nov. 2.—Alfred Nelson, a transient, was found dead in bed at the Preston house early Thursday by a chambermaid. Nelson was about 45 years old and nothing is known of his antecedents. There is no evidence that points to foul play, but nevertheless an inquest will be held to ascertain the reason of his death.

Terrible Liquor Craving

How Orrine Destroys All Desire for Whiskey and Beer.

The terrible craving for liquor is a symptom of disease and to overcome it, the disease itself should be treated in a scientific way. When one has used whiskey, beer or other stimulants for a long time, the nerve cells have become accustomed to the effects of the stimulants and demand liquor in order to perform their duties. If the nerve cells are properly treated, the craving for liquor will be destroyed.

It is in this way that Orrine cures alcoholism, by supplying to the nerve cells the strength needed, thus destroying the desire for liquor. It eradicates every particle of the terrible liquor craving, imparts new strength and vigor to the whole system, and restores the general health. Treatise on "Drunkenness," free on request. The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C.

So successful has Orrine been that in every box is a registered guarantee which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure. Never before was a treatment for the liquor habit sold in this way. A guarantee like this shows the faith of the discoverer of Orrine and the agents who handle it, the leading druggists everywhere.

Orrine is in two forms, No. 1 which can be given secretly in food or drink; No. 2 in pill form for those who desire to be cured. Either form costs $1 per box, and both are sold under the liberal guarantee that your money will be refunded if Orrine fails to cure.

Orrine is for sale by F. W. Kugler, 108 West Superior street, Duluth.

BRANCH OFFICE—J. J. MORAN, 405 North Central Avenue. Zenith 'phone 3138-A.

SCHOOL IS GIVEN NAME

It is the Duluth Industrial High School Now.

Domestic Science Will be a Feature of Its Work.

Hereafter it will be the Duluth Industrial high school, instead of the West Duluth high or the Irving school.

This name was selected last evening by the board of education for the high school in West Duluth, as an appropriate one to express the character of the institution.

When the third year was added to the course of study at the Irving school, the opening wedge was made for a mechanics arts or industrial high school and the chances are that it will remain in West Duluth. At present it is housed at the Irving building, which in the future will be referred to as the Duluth Industrial high school.

The new teacher of domestic science and sewing in the industrial high school began her duties Oct. 21, but her regular work is not yet under way, because the equipment has not been ready.

The board last evening decided to accept the equipment in the Adams school, offered by the ladies who have been conducting classes in domestic science for girls there, and it will be used in the Industrial school.

Had this offer not been accepted, it would have been necessary to purchase the equipment outright and figures for it had already been secured.

The board also decided to purchase at once such supplies as are needed for the domestic science work.

The domestic science classes will meet in the old manual training room at the Irving building, from which the benches have been removed to the new manual training room adjoining.

WILL IMPROVE SLIDE.

West Duluth Ski Club to Hold Meeting Next Week.

The meeting of the West Duluth Ski club, which was to have been held in Nelson's hardware store on Grand avenue last night, did not materialize on account of the failure of a quorum to appear. A postponement was accordingly taken to next Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the same place, when the leaders in the club hope to gather a larger crowd and transact the business, which must come before the meeting.

The meeting is held thus early in the season that some action may be taken toward putting the hill in condition before the snow falls. The club has a slide at the top of Fifty-seventh avenue west, running to Fifty-ninth avenue west. It is in a rock cut and the ground are not in the best possible condition. It is planned to straighten out the slide, remove large rocks, build a starting trestle, if necessary and put the grounds in good shape for the winter.

Ski riding has a good hold in West Duluth and the members of the club are counting on gathering as many members in as possible this year. The sport will be boomed incessantly and, with a good hill for the enjoyment of the sport, they will have little trouble making it popular among West Duluth people.

Pays for Dog's Attack.

It cost Andrew Mahlum, 128 Sixty-fourth avenue west, about $10.50 to own a vicious dog. The animal attacked Elmer R. Johnson, a mail carrier, a few days ago, ruined a pair of trousers and scratched Johnson severely. Mahlum was tried before Justice Flack last evening and a settlement was reached whereby Mahlum paid Johnson $7 and also paid for the costs in the case. He was served with notice today to muzzle the dog or keep him locked up.

PUT BLAME ON THE BOY

Yaung Latarte Responsible for Death of Jovo Mehic.

Coroner's Jury Passes on the Fatal Halloween Prank.

"We, the jury find that Jovo Mehic came to his death by means of an electric current conducted by a wire fastened across the path of said Mehic, which was attached to a live electric wire, and was so fastened by one George Latarte with careless and violent intent on the part of said Latarte to cause bodily harm to another."

A coroner's jury consisting of John Davidson, John H. Ericson, W. F. Hurst, C. F. Widen, J. A. Trow and William Johnson rendered the above verdict last evening in the case of Jovo Mehic, who met his death Wednesday evening as the result of coming in contact with a live wire strung by boys accross a walk in the rear of an Austrian hoarding house in West Duluth, Wednesday night.

Young Latarte will be taken before the juvenile court this afternoon. He is but 11 years of age, and has just begun to realize something of the seriousness of the situation.

The funeral of the unfortunate man will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

OBJECT TO STORE LID

Commercial Club to Reconsider Action of Last Week.

The West Duluth Commercial club met last night and decided to reconsider the resolution passed at the meeting last week, calling upon the mayor to clamp the lid on the clothing stores which keep open on Sunday. The matter was made a special order of business for next Friday night.

When the motion was first passed last week, there was considerable opposition to it and the resolution carried by but one vote. It is expected a contest will develop next Friday night when it again comes up. The members opposing the action do not do so because they believe the stores should not be closed so much as they believe that in requesting the losing of the stores, the club would be taking action outside of its province and meddling in private business. As one member expressed it today:

"There are a large number of working people in West Duluth, who do not get a chance to visit the stores during regular business hours, and it is to accommodate them the merchants keep open on Sunday. Objection is made by those merchants who do close, and they come before the club and want that body to take action.

"I will admit that the opening of the stores on Sunday is a violation of the spirit of the Sabbath, but it is not for the club to say whether or not they shall close. If there were no Sunday business, the merchants would find no profit in keeping open. Moreover, if those merchants, who object to the opening of the stores, want them closed, let them take it up with the mayor direct. It is not for the club to act, and I think it is going beyond its bounds in taking action in a trivial personal matter such as this appears to be."

Messrs. Phelps, Zauft and Larson, the committee appointed to look over the courthouse plans and the cost of the different schemes, made quite an extensive report, covering all of the grouping plans proposed. They asked for a little more time to make further investigations and the committee was continued. It is expected they will make a supplementary report next Friday night, when the matter will be taken up for discussion.

Vice President W. B. Getchell was in the chair last night, President L. A. Barnes being out of the city.

POUNDMASTERS WORK.

Boy Had Mistaken Impression of Rights of Cows.

"Say mister, ain't dere no more poundmasters?" piped a youngster as he thrust a towsled head through the door to Lieut. Briggs' office in the West Duluth police station this morning.

"Certainly, there are poundmasters," said the lieutenant. "Why?"

"Well, y'see I thought de poundmasters got fired Nov. 1 an' we kept our cow locked up fer a week an' we wanted to let her out and I thought maybe dere wouldn't be no chance of her gettin' pinched."

With that he vanished before the lieutenant had time to explain that whether the poundmaster is on duty or not, the owner of a cow is subject to fine or conviction of allowing the animals to run at large on the city streets.

But the poundmasters haven't been laid off on Nov. 1 this year. They will be on duty until Nov. 15, and those owners of cows, who have given them their freedom unrestrained on Nov. 1 each year will find themselves in a position, where they will be forced to dig for a few dollars before they can secure the release of thier bovines.

COIN FOR FRISCO.

Sum of $10,000,000 to be Transferred There for Use of Banks.

San Francisco, Nov. 2.—The United States government came to the assistance of the San Francisco banks last night, announcing through telegrams that it had taken steps to expedite the shipment of coin to the Pacific coast. This action was the result of an appeal by local financiers to Secretary Cortelyou of the treasury department. A vast sum, said to be in the neighborhood of $10,000,000, is to be transferred by the government for the use of the San Francisco savings banks.

The government has coin in San Francisco to the amount of $343,000,000. Of this sum $303,000,000 is stored in the mint and $40,000,000 in the sub-treasury.

An effort was first made to induce the government to allow the local banks to deposit their financial bonds with the sub-treasury and obtain coin in return, but the authorities at Washington refused to consent to this plan.

An arrangement was effected last night, however, by which similar results may be achieved by operating through the New York sub-treasury.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Copper Shares Are Up and Down During the Day.

Capt. Wolvin Says Butte & Superior is Looking Fine.

Copper stocks were somewhat irregular in today's market. At the opening, they were fairly firm and many of them rallied after the decline, which came after the first hour of the session. There was a weaker undertone at the close, however.

There was no news in particular.

Good buying of North Butte caused the stock to rally from $41.50 to $42.25. The opening was 42 and the closing price 42 bid and $42.50 asked.

Amalgamated opened at $49.75, declined to $48.37½ and closed at $48.75 bid. Anaconda opened at $33.87½, declined to $33 and closed at $33.37½ bid.

Greene-Cananea went off from $6.12½ to $5.87½ and $6, closing at $5.87½ bid and $6 asked.

Butte Coalition opened at $15.75, advanced to $16 and closed at $15.62½ and $15.75 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $103.50, declined to $103, rallied to $104 and closed at $103 bid and $104 asked.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $9.25, advanced to $9.50 and closed at $9.25 bid and $9.50 asked. Denn-Arizona sold at $3.50, declined to $3.37½ and closed at $3.25 bid and $3.50 asked and Globe Consolidated closed at $4.62½ bid and $4.75 asked, after selling at $4.62½ and $4.50.

A feature of the local curb was the selling of Comanche, of which stock there is much held in Duluth. The price went off from 11 to 7 cents and closed at 8 cents bid and 9 cents asked.

Carman sold at $2.25 and closed at $2.12½ bid and $2.37½ asked; Butte & Superior at $1.87½ and $1.75 and closed at $1.62½ bid and $1.75 asked; Copper Queen of Idaho at $1 and closed at $1 bid and $1.06 asked and Cliff at $1 and closed at $1 bid and $1.06 asked.

BREWERS HAVE SECRET MEETING

At Which They Make Agreement Regarding Opening of Saloons.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—It has just come to light that there was a secret meeting of the members of the Minnesota Brewers association held in this city Thursday at which time the subject of a small brewer being forced out of business by the larger concerns received the attention of the association, and the result was that the brewers got togther and made an agreement which is to be binding for one year.

The agreement is in effect, that the brewers of the state are not to acquire any more property nor open any more saloons, in any of the smaller communities of the state, and are to employ only men of good character in the conduct of their business at these places.

The meeting was attended by about forty brewers, who came from Little Falls, Mankato, Red Wing, New Ulm, Alexandria and various small cities in different portions of the state, as well as by most of the larger brewers of the Twin Cities and Duluth.

It is claimed by the local members of the association that the meeting was not called primarily for the purpose of making the agreement which was effected, but that this question was only incidental to a general discussion of the welfare of the trade.

The country brewers took the stand that the invasion of the smaller cities by the larger brewers in the extension of their territory, was the means of creating opposition against the saloons in those communities.

ARE CASHING BANK CHECKS

Bowery Merchants Take Paper, But Charge for It.

A profitable business in the cashing of time and cashier checks is being done by some of the clothing stores on the Bowery. In some of the stores no charge is made when a man makes a purchase. Others are charging a discount even when the person tendering the check has made a purchase.

In one store the inquiry as to what would be charged for the cashing of a $10 check brought the information that 75 cents was being charged by that particular merchant. Another small clothing and jewelry merchant was more reasonable in his charge. He agreed to cash a $20 cashier's check for 50 cents.

In some instances the rate of interest charged for the cashing of a check will go considerable higher. One store has a large sign in the window advertising the fact that both time and cashier checks are cashed there. An obese pile of five, ten and twenty dollar bills is in the same window, with these words, "We have lots of this inside."

Practically all the stores on the Bowery have signs announcing the cashing of checks. A careful scrutiny is given each check, but if the proprietor of the store is satisfied as to its merits he is willing to cash it for a liberal discount.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Three Grand Outlets for Enthusiasm Over Football Game.

"Purity Banquet" to Visiting Team Was a Great Sucess.

Minneapolis, Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—"We must beat Chicago" has been the cry on the campus the whole week. Printed slips, bearing these words have served as hat bands for the men and sleeve bands for the co-eds. "Go-Fer-Chicago" has also been a popular motto and there has been nothing but "the game" talked of during the whole week.

Three grand outlets for enthusiasm were indulged in, in preparation for the Chicago game. Thursday afternoon, in chapel, the biggest mass meeting that Minnesota has seen since the mighty Michigan game several years back, roused the whole university, every colege doing its best to outdo the others in enthusiasm. The co-eds were given a solid block of the outer section of chapel, while the rest of the seats, as well as standing room, radiators and windows, accommodated the men.

Schucknecht received wild yells of delight when he made his appearance, in full football array, before the gigantic meeting, and spoke for a short time to the enthusiastic rooters. He had been spared by "Doc" Williams from practice on the field for a brief ten minutes. The Glee club was there to initiate the new prize songs, composed especially for the game. It was only a minute before the whole body of enthusiasts joined in the songs with a volume more suited to Northrop field than the crowded chapel. The band, too, did its part with catchy college tunes and Deering received hearty applause for his address.

The rooters' mass meeting, however, seemed but a preparation for the grand pow-wow held Friday night, following the "Purity Banquet." The "Purity Banquet" was the second ever given by the big nine, the initial one having been given to the visiting Minnesota men at Chicago last year. Even the hearty enthusiasm of the co-eds was felt, for they insisted upon doing something for the Maroons' welcome and so all joined in decorating the armory Friday afternoon, and, during the banquet, the galleries were filled with girls "feasting" their eyes on the scene below.

About 600 places were laid for students, faculty and visiting Maroons. Dr. Williams acted as toastmaster, introducing first Governor Johnson as representative of the state. Justice Haggard of the supreme court also responded to a toast; the "U" was represented by Dean Jones and Prof. "Junnie" Paige; the team by Schuknecht, while Chicago was represented by Coach Stagg, Capt. De Tray and faculty members. President Wyman of the board of regents graced the occasion; the Daily staff entertain the representatives of the Maroon, and the glee club and band furnished music.

Directly after the banquet, there was a grand bonfire on the parade ground, surrounded by rooters, faculty members, and city and state representatives. John D. Rockefeller was also represented by his donation of seventy-two oil barrels for the festivity. Until midnight enthusiasm ran riot and the pow-wow proved far more successful than the regular mass meeting usually held the day before the game.

Mrs. Portens has been engaged as the contralto, and Harry Philips as basso, for "The Messiah." No decision has been made, however, as to the other parts. Miss Clara Williams, Miss Frances Vincent and Mrs. Jessica De Wolf of St. Paul are being considered for soprano soloists.

Mr. Janeski has been added to the names of George Meader, and Mr. Pepper for tenor soloists. "The Messiah" rehearsals are going splendidly under the direction of Mr. Norton, and no matter what the choice of soloists, the performance is bound to be successful.

The dean of women and other faculty members have selected a spot on the river bank south of the site for the hospital and between State street and the river, for the girls' dormitory. The women of the university are trying to persuade the regents to reserve this large tract of land for dormitory purposes on account of its attractiveness. When the government dam is finished a place will be afforded for aquatic sports. The cottage plan is hoped for by the women, and an appropriation for at least one dormitory to accommodate about seventy-five girls is looked for from the legislature at the next session.

The gymnasium team candidates had a special session last Saturday night in the armory, where Mr. Bonifield, an expert tumbler, and two amateur tumblers from Omaha, showed the would-be gymnasts some stunts on the mats. Candidates are out for practice every day, and Dr. Cooke has some local and state meets planned with appropriate prizes for the winners.

Registration in the agricultural department is the largest in its history this year. The freshman class alone equals the entire registration in that department last year. There are twenty girls starting domestic economics and household culture courses. The legislature has taken particularly good care of the "aggies," too, for they have a new building, including a library and auditorium. The auditorium is the finest in any of the Western colleges.

GREED OF RAILROADS

Will Tax Every Person Entering New Station at Washington.

The "Cocktail" Drink Was Invented by an Irish Woman.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Nov. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Will the railroads ever learn sense? Do they still have to be "shown," in the vernacular of the street, notwithstanding federal and state laws which are curtailing their powers and passed for the purpose of making good citizens of the railroads instead of highwaymen?

With a congress about to convene, with cases pending in state and federal courts looking to opinions that will clear the atmosphere surrounding the Hepburn-Dolliver bill, the railroads through their traffic managers and general passenger agents, who were recently in session in Washington, decided to tax every passenger entering the union station in this city shortly to be opened 25 cents.

Between the general government and the District of Columbia $6,000,000 have been appropriated for this new union station which is to house every railroad entering the nation's capital. In addition to the money appropriated lands were given, streets widened and street railway terminals changed to meet the demands of the new railway passenger station. It is true that the railway companies have supplemented the appropriations made by the federal government and the District of Columbia by some $13,000,000, the station being estimated to cost $20,000,000 when completed. But the amount set apart by the railroads for their individual shares in the building of this magnificent station by no means compares with that donated by the federal government. Not content with taking the money from the citizens of the United States and the District of Columbia for the purpose of erecting this building the railroads have decided to still further tax the citizen by demanding a 25-cent extra charge from all travelers entering the district.

The policy laid down by the association of general passenger and ticket agents at their meeting in this city, so far as exacting an entrance charge from passengers coming into Washington, cannot help but accentuate the feeling the general public has towards common carriers and this charge cannot help but be the subject of discussion during the next session of congress. It would seem that the railroads were flying in the face of Providence and that instead of going with the country in their efforts to bring about a better understanding between the railroads, the shipper and passenger, that the railroad managements were losing their senses altogether.

When the great tubes to be used by the Pennsylvania company under the East and North rivers in New York are completed for purposes of shortening distances and getting into the city's heart will the Pennsylvania Railroad company dare charge an extra 25 cents upon each passenger for the use of the river tunnels? That is the condition in Washington and the citizens are rightfully indignant over the hoggishness of the railroads who purpose to make the traveling public pay for the beautiful building which will be ready for occupancy about Dec. 1 by the railroads entering Washington.

It will probably be news to a majority of people that the "cocktail" the great American morning drink, was in reality the invention of a woman, and an Irish lassie at that. The cocktail, which has created such a commotion in political and W. C. T. U. circles of late, chiefly because the president of the United States and his friends while lunching with Vice President Fairbanks expressed a preference for the whisky cocktail as against the buttermilk proposition upon which Fairbanks and his friends hustle up brainstorms, is of patriotic origin, and its inventor, Betsy Flanagan, ought to be immortalized by her statue being placed in Statuary hall in the capitol alongside Miss Frances E. Willard.

Betsy Flanagan was an Irish lass, and lived in Virginia at the time of the American Revolution. She was known everywhere as a good cook and a good, whole-souled, hot-tempered American patriot who hated the British red-coats with all the intensity of her nature. She was a good-looking girl and an officer in the Continental army made her his wife. It was always her innermost wish to follow her husband on his marches and through the battles of the war, but he would not permit it. He was wounded and died, after which his wife went to New York state, where she opened up an eating and drinking place, locating between White Plains and Tarrytown. Here it happened she had for a neighbor, a British Tory, who was fond of chickens and game cocks. Betsy hated the Tory because he was against us, and she considered him at once her personal enemy and decided to institute warfare on his chicken coop, with the result the flock of game cocks dwindled from day to day, much to the discomforture of the loyal red coat.

Betsy was celebrated for a certain brand of drink she brewed for the American Continentals. She called it "Bracer." On one particular evening she invited the American and French officers to a chicken supper. After the cookery of Betsy had been sampled and praised by the patriots, she invited them into a back room, where she had prepared a surprise for them. On the sideboard there were lined up as many "Bracers" as there were officers in the company, and in each glass there was placed a bunch of feathers from the tails of the game cocks, legitimately confiscated by patriotic Betsy from the barnyard of the Briton. Toasts were drunk to Betsy's patriotism, but it was left to a Frenchman to lift up his "Bracer" in one hand and the feathers in the other, and with a bow to Betsy and the officers, exclaim, "Vive le cocktail." The words struck home and have ever since then been with the American people.

Congressman Henry S. Boutelle of Illinois, one of the ablest and most polished members of the lower house, a student, not only in his own country's institutions, but the institutions of other countries and a scholar in the best acceptation of that term believes that the house of representatives so far as its seating capacity is concerned should be changed. He has had this impression for years, but it has become accentuated owing to the growing membership, Oklahoma adding five members to the 386 members now constituting the lower branch of congress. It is Mr. Boutelle's impression that better results could be secured in the way of legislation if the members were brought closer together and that the desks in the house be changed for benches.

Speaking of his hobby, if such it be, Mr. Boutelle said when it was suggested to him that the benches in the house would look like a copy of the arrangement in the British house of commons." So far as I know we are the only great nation in which the popular deliberative body is so arranged as to permit of debate and the transaction of ordinary business at the same time. The two do not work well together and now that the new house office building is nearly completed it is time that something should be done to improve the congested condition of the house."

"My plan is practically the same as that which was recommended by Speaker Reed ten years ago when the house was not so large as now. I have revived it and from what I hear from Mr. Watson of Indiana, Mr. McCall of Massachusetts and other colleagues I have hope that the changes suggested will be carried into realization. I have ascertained from Mr. Woods, the superintendent of the capitol, who has had charge of the construction of the new buildings for the house and senate that the changes would cost about $250,000 and which could easily be accomplished during the recess of congress. To enlarge the present audience chamber which will be necessary if new states are to be admitted, as has been proposed by taking out the members lobby and placing the speaker's desk against the extreme south wall would, in my opinion, only accentuate the present difficulty of hearing and the general unsatisfactory condition at present existing. People have written me from all over the country favoring the bench plan, probably on the theory that they would hear discussions instead of being compelled to watch a half dozen men interested in the subject under discussion while a hundred or two other members were attending to correspondence, reading papers, or telling stories."

SPANKED THE "KID"

And Mother Had the Railroad Man Arrested.

A railroad man dealt out summary justice to a mischievous youngster this morning and was fined $1 and costs in municipal court this afternoon. The child, a boy of 4 years, threw a rock at the man's front door. The man caught the youngster, laid him across his knee and administered the good old-fashioned treatment. The mother of the child had him arrested. The man pleaded with the reporter not to use his name, and it is withheld.

NO TRADING IN DULUTH

Conditions on Local Board of Trade Are Unchanged.

Wheat is Lower in the Other American Markets.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 2.—There was no trading on the floor of the Duluth board of trade today, the members having voted yesterday to continue the present state of affairs until Monday. If conditions improve sufficiently by that time, operations will be resumed.

Wheat was off in the American markets. The December option closed 1⅝c lower in Chicago, 2¼c in Minneapolis, ⅝c in New York and 1c in Winnipeg. The May option closed 1½c lower in Chicago, 1-1⅛c in Minneapolis, ½c in New York and ⅜c in Winnipeg.

Liverpool closed ⅝d to ¾d higher.

December corn closed ¼-⅜c lower and December oats closed 1c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "There was a steady opening in wheat with values ½d to ⅝d higher. The late strength in America yesterday, together with the bullish estimates given out by shippers regarding the yields in New South Wales and Victoria caused shorts to cover. On the advance there was some selling for profits as a result of the predictions of large Russian shipments and prices eased off, but again at the close the market showed renewed steadiness and this decline was recovered and more, too, as prices showed a further advance of ¼d over the opening. Offerings were light and sellers firmer.

"Corn was steady and ⅜d higher at the opening. The nearby month held unchanged while the distant month gained an additional ¼d during the morning. Support resulted from the firmness in America yesterday and less pressure to sell La Plata cargoes in near positions."

Car receipts at Duluth were 294 against 185 last year, and at Minneapolis 219 against 283 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 594 against 468 last year. Chicago received 61 against 46 last year. Winnipeg received 250 against 317 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 751,000 bus, last year 920,000 bus. Shipments 595,000 bus, last year 627,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 263,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 319,000 bus, last year 372,000 bus. Shipments 644,000 bus, last year 353,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 270,000 bus.

Receipts—Wheat, 313,079; oats, 28,874; barley, 110,410; rye, 2,013; flax, 216,575.

Shipments—Wheat, 119,000; barley, 9,334; flax, 111,927.

Cash Sales Saturday.

There were four cash trades in barley on the floor of the Duluth board of trade today. This was all the business done. Two cars sold at 92 cents, two cars at 90 cents, one car at 95 cents and one car at 89 cents.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Firm, But Soon Eases Off on Selling by Holders.

Chicago, Nov. 2. — The wheat market opened firm today on account of higher cables and later eased off about 1c chiefly because of selling by holders. December wheat opened ¼c to ⅜c higher at 96¾c to 96¼c, sold at 96⅝c and then declined to 95½c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 595 cars against 617 cars last week and 514 cars a year ago.

The market continued weak all day. The low point for December was 94¼ @94c. The close was weak with December 1⅝c lower at 94¾c.

The corn market followed the lead of wheat. It was firm early and later eased off. The prediction of colder weather in the Northwest was a depressing influence. December corn opened ¼@⅜c to ⅝@⅝c higher at 59¾c to 60c and sold at 59¾@59¾c. Local receipts were 124 cars with 30 of contract grade.

Prices failed to rally throughout the session. The low price for December was 58¾c. The close was weak with December ⅛@⅜c lower, at 59c.

The oats market was weak because of selling by heavy holders. December oats opened 1¼c lower, at 49¾c, sold up to 50c and then back to 49c. Local receipts were 107 cars.

The provisions market was quiet and steady. January lard was 2½c lower at $8.15. Ribs were 2½ lower at $7.65. January pork was off 5c at $14.40.

Wheat—December, 94¼@c; May, $1.02⅜@1.02¾. Corn—December, 59c; May, 59¾c. Oats—December, 48¾c; May, 51¾c. Pork—January, 14.27½; May, $14.02½. Lard—January, 8.35@8.37½; May, $8.50. Grain Gossip.

Chicago—Logan & Bryan: Closing prices showing declines of 1½c to 1⅝c from last figures yesterday. Again the wheat trade was upset and prices demoralized. The break in stocks naturally caused holders of wheat to turn sellers. In connection with this, the Minneapolis market was very weak, said to be due to hedging sales from Duluth and other Northwest points, and this added to the heaviness here. Most of the other news was favorable to buyers. Northwest receipts were moderate, southwest receipts are very small. Kansas City says present receipts are simply dwarfed shipments the country selling nothing. Cable news from India and Australia bullish. World's shipments are smaller than year ago. But nothing can stand up against fresh financial disturbances in the present temper of trade.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: This was the dullest week on the horse market this year. All classes met with narrow demand. While dealers expect a light fall trade, they do not look for a demoralization of the market, as a large number of horses are needed to meet the actual demand of business. Poorer grades of horses move much below country cost. G. W. Cochran, Rena, Minn., bought a bunch of heavy logging horses today. Retail trade was fair. Receipts light.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The buying of North Butte was one of the features today, over 2,000 shares being taken at 42 by good houses. Copper Range and Shannon are both noticeable for their scarcity and strength. The bank statement was published after the close and looks bad on the face, but sober consideration will show that the large increase in loans is on account of the clearing house certificates and that these will be materially reduced in near future. We have great confidence in stocks at this level and recommend all people with money to invest to take on the better class of stocks. We expect considerable dullness for some time, but a gradual improvement in prices. The past week market has been very sensitive, but on the whole has shown wonderful strength.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The markets today were reactionary owing to money situation, which, while very much better locally, seems to continue to be bad in the interior. No doubt when this gold arrives things will improve. It is no time to be pessimistic, however, the markets seem to be well in hand. Locally the coppers were in demand.

A DISTINCT IMPROVEMENT

In the Financial Situation is Noticeable at Washington.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Treasury officials are agreed that the financial situation is distinctly improving day by day, and advices from financial centers today were of a very reassuring character. News of the opening this morning for business of the banks in Oklahoma and New Mexico was received with general satisfaction, and there is said to be abundant evidence that the fear of more serious conditions is subsiding. National banks in all parts of the country are arranging to increase their circulation, and the treasury officials and clerks are working overtime in the effort to keep up with their vastly increased correspondence. In the rush of business it is impossible to obtain only a few of the names of banks that are perfecting arrangements to take out additional bank notes. Among them are the following.

National City bank of New York, $2,000,000; Whitney Central National bank of New Orleans, $630,000; Hibernian of New Orleans, $50,000; First National of Cincinnati, $50,000; Monroe National of Chicago, $70,000; Merchants of Providence, R. I., $50,000; Hartford, Conn., $50,000; Continental of Chicago, $480,000; First National of Van Wert, Ohio, $81,000; Irving National Exchange bank of New York, $1,000,000; Merhants of Wilmington, N. C., $100,000; National Bank of Commerce, Cleveland, Ohio, $200,000; First National of Galveston, Texas, $200,000; Huntington of Columbus, Ohio, $50,000.

Several large shipments of currency will be made from here at the close of business this evening.

CHANGES MAY BE MADE IN MEXICAN CABINET.

Mexico City, Nov. 2.—There are well defined rumors of approaching changes in President Diaz's cabinet. Three important ministries, foreign affairs, colonization and industry and war, will according to report, be filled by new men. Senor Joaquin d'Casussus, it is said, will be one of the new members, but the names of the others are not known. The reports are not confirmed officially, but they are generally believed.

BELATED HALLOWEEN CASE.

Young Men Charged With Destruction of Property.

A belated Halloween case came up in the municipal court this morning, when Ole Peterson and John Steiner were arraigned on the complaint of Mrs. Ida Siefer of 221 East Seventh street, who claimed that the young men had pulled over an outhouse on her property on Halloween.

The young men entered a plea of not guilty.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

And Generally Lower Early But Rally Toward the Close.

Exhibit of New York Banks Was Not Very Flattering.

New York, Nov. 2.—Higher prices for American securities in London had a strengthening effect on the local market and first prices were mostly from ⅛ to ½ above yesterday's final figures. New York Central gained a point while Canadian Pacific lost 1¼ and Metropolitan Street Railway 5.

Moderate selling of Amalgamated Copper gave the first downward impetus to prices, which was increased when Reading, Union Pacific and Northern Pacific weakened. Offerings were rather light all through the list, but prices fell steadily and the prominent stocks all ruled well below yesterday's closing. Kansas City Southern preferred fell 2⅝, Pressed Steel Car preferred, 2; American Locomotive preferred, Bethlehem Steel and Utah Copper, 1½; United States Pipe preferred, 1⅜; Reading and Amalgamated Copper, 1¼ and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Brooklyn Transit, American Smelting preferred and Colorado Fuel, 1, Pullman advanced, 2; Federal Mining preferred, 1⅜, and Louisville & Nashville, 1.

The market closed steady, no transactions being recorded after the appearance of the bank statement. Prices pulled up towards the end of the day and reduced the declines. Canadian Pacific and American Ice fell 3, International Pump preferred, 6¾; Missouri Pacific, 1⅝; Mackay companies preferred, 1⅜; Southern Pacific preferred, 1⅝, and Atchison, Louisville & Nashville and Coast Line, Chicago & Alton and Anaconda, 1. Westinghouse Electric rose 3⅞; Minneapolis, St. Paul and Soo preferred, 4; Norfolk & Western, 2⅝; United States Reduction preferred and Consolidated and Allis Chalmers preferred, 1. The bank statement was not published until 12 o'clock.

Stock Gossip.

New York—Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: Stocks were irregular and generally lower early, but toward the close the market rallied on short covering. The exhibit of the New York banks was not very flattering. The conditions surrounding the market are still unsettled, and we would exercise conservatism when making commitments until the monetary situation improves.

St. Paul Livestock.

St. Paul, Nov. 2.—Cattle: Receipts, 4,300; steady and unchanged. Hogs: Receipts, 1,300; market, 15c higher; range, $5.40@6.60; bulk, $5.55@6.60. Sheep: Receipts, 100; market unchanged.

Bank Statement.

New York, Nov. 2.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows that the banks hold $38,838,825 less than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule. This is a decrease in cash reserve surplus of $37,605,525 as compared with last week. The statement follows:

Loans, $1,148,452,600, increase, $60,741,600; deposits, $1,051,795,900, increase $28,014,900; circulation, $51,742,700, increase, $244,400; legal tenders $43,194,000, decrease, $10,089,700; specie, $175,913,900, decrease, $20,512,100 reserve $224,107,900, decrease $30,601,800; reserve required, $262,946,725 increase, $7,003,725; deficit, $38,838,825, increase, $37,605,525; ex-United States deposits, not given.

The statement is given out at the clearing house contains this additional sentence:

"Percentage of reserve, 21.30 against 20 in 1893."

The deficit of $38,838,825 this week compares with a deficit of $1,233,300 last week.

New York Money.

New York, Nov. 2.—Close: Money on call nominal; time loans nominal; 60 days, 15 per cent loaned yesterday; 90 days, 10 to 12 per cent; six months, 8 per cent. Prime mercantile paper nominally 7⅛ to 10 per cent. Sterling exchange erratic with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.25@4.86.75 for demand and at $4.80.50@4.81.50 for 60-day bills. Commercial bills, $4.78½@4.79. Bar silver, 59½c. Mexican dollars, 47c. Government bonds strong; railroad bonds weak.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Nov. 2.—The cotton market opened firm at unchanged prices to an advance of 7 points. This was better than due on the cables and the market increased its gain, selling 10 to 11 points net higher on the active months during the early session as a result of covering and continued support from foreign and local bulls. Wall street was a seller on the advance and there was considerable realizing under which prices eased off 4 or 5 points from the best during the middle of the morning. Week end figures were bullish inasmuch as they showed a smaller increase in the visible supply of American that last year and report over the belt were thought likely to interfere with picking operations.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: November, 10.33; December, 10.63; January, 10.31; February, 10.30; March, 10.30; April, 10.31; May, 10.32; June, 10.32; July, 10.32; August, 10.25. Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 11.00; middling gulf, 11.25. Sales, none.

Berlin Bourse.

Berlin, Nov. 2.—Trading on the bourse today opened irregular and prices later became weaker upon the fall in American iron and private advices telling of continued financial difficulties in New York. Pennsylvania was higher upon the dividend announcement.

RAILROADS

OPENS NEW COUNTRY

Border Country is Now 500 Miles Nearer Duluth.

Local Jobbers Can Now Compete With Winnipeg Firms.

By the opening of the Big Fork & International Falls road, which runs from Big Fork to International Falls, forming a connection between the terminus of the Minnesota & International railroad at Big Fork and International Falls, Duluth jobbers are brought 500 miles nearer to the practically undeveloped territory that lies tributary to the new line.

On Nov. 11 when the Big Fork & International will be turned over to the Minnesota & International, becoming part of that system, a new schedule of freight rates will be put into effect that will be approximately 25 per cent lower than the present tariff covering freight from Duluth to International Falls. As the rates in effect at the present time are a reduction from the old rates of about 25 per cent, the cut to be made Nov. 11 will prove a boom to the Duluth jobbing trade.

There are at present time four routes to Canada that can be utilized by the Duluth jobber. There is the route via Port Arthur, the route by Pembina, another by the way of Emerson, and the new route via International Falls, that will open one of the richest farming countries in the entire Northwest to the local jobbing trade.

Heretofore the Duluth jobber that sought the trade of the district about International Falls were confronted with the long freight haul via Winnipeg. This made it practically impossible to compete for trade with Winnipeg. The opening of the extension from Big Fork to the Falls will remove the barrier and the Duluth jobber will find that, comercially speaking, International Falls has been brought 500 miles near to Duluth and that competition for the trade of the new towns near the Falls and the rich farming country tributary to the new line, has been made possible.

It will now be possible to ship direct, while heretofore freight and passenger traffic reached the Falls by the tedious and round about way of Winnipeg.

The completion of the Duluth, Virginia & Rainy Lake road will further open new trade channels for the Duluth jobbers. The country lying tributary to both the Minnesota & International and the Duluth, Virginia & Rainy Lake has not been worked in any systemic manner by jobbing houses and a rich trade awaits the invasion of the Duluth jobbers in this new field of comercial activity.

Hold Up Reorganization.

New York, Nov. 2.—The entire Pere Marquette reorganization, the Herald learns, has been held up as a result of a protest made by a committee representing the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton 4 per cent refunding bond holders. This committee is represented by Mark T. Cox, of Robert Winthrop & Co., and Frederick Strauss of J. & W. Seligman & Co. It was owing to representations made by Messrs. Cox and Strauss that no action was taken at the Pere Marquette meeting on Oct. 28, the meeting being adjourned until a future date.

Harriman Buys Stock.

New York, Nov. 2.—According to the Times today, E. H. Harriman was the buyer of the Central of Georgia stock sold last week by Takleigh Thorne and Marsden J. Perry, and he has plans for the road in connection with the Illinois Central lines. The two roads connect at Birmingham, Ala., and the possession of the Central of Georgia will give the Harriman lines another outlet to the Atlantic.

Order Rescinded.

Bellingham, Wash., Nov. 2.—The order of the Northern Pacific railroad refusing to bill out any carloads of lumber from the Northwest was in force just one day. Last night the order was rescinded. The Northern Pacific will now accept lumber shipments at the new rate, but will not be able to collect the 50-cent tariff, pending the decision of the interstate commerce commission.

MORE MONEY IN LONDON.

Dividend Disbursements Increase the Supply---Discounts Are Firmer.

London, Nov. 2.—Money was in better supply in the market today, owing to dividend disbursements. Discounts were firmer on fears of farther gold exports to New York.

Trading on the stock exchange reopened dull after the holiday and prices finished the week with an easy tendency, the renewed depression in Americans, the uncertain position of New York, and the fears of further exportation of gold prompting the realizations, under which consols and other first-class securities dropped.

Americans opened steady and hardened from the lower parity level, especially Union Pacific and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, but they reacted later and closed dull.

Copper shares were firm and home rails, after some irregularity, closed steadier.

TRAGEDY IN SUPERIOR

Drinking Bout Ends in a Fatal Shooting Affray.

Prisoner Claims Shot Was Fired in Self Defense.

Gabriel Dangel, 23 years old, is dead, and Andrew Glouchak is lodged behind the bars of a cell at the central police station in Superior as the result of a dispute which followed a general drinking bout. The tragedy occurred in front of the Timlin house on Lower Lamborn avenue.

Glouchak claims that he killed Dangel in self-defense after he had seen that the latter and a couple of companions were about to overpower him.

All those who were mixed up in the affair are Slavs, who had been holding a general celebration on Connor's Point during the afternoon. Several shots had been fired before in front of the Connor's Point saloon, but it is thought no one was hurt.

Dangel and Glouchak and one or two others were on their way up town when the former two got into an argument in front of the Timlin house. Glouchak pulled his revolver and shot his man, the bullet entering near the left shoulder, lodging in the right lung. Dangel died almost instantly.

Throwing his revolver down near the side of the building, Glouchak ran away. The police had been notified, however, and Detective Dill and Officer McGowan were detailed upon the scene, and were questioning some of the people about the murder when Glouchak appeared and gave himself up, admitting that he had committed the crime.

DULUTH REAL ESTATE A GOOD THING TO HOLD

Investors in Local Property Have Something That Represent Good Value for Their Money and They Are Not Worrying Over the Outlook in Financial Affairs—Trading is Not Active at Present Time, But the Market is Not a Dead One.

Owing to the present unsettled financial conditions there has been little movement of Duluth real estate during the past week. The market has not been a dead one, for there were a number of deals being negotiated which, although they have not yet been closed up, have not been abandoned. So far as new business is concerned, there has been little of it and the real estate brokers are not anticipating any great amount of inquiry until the present cloud blows over. Investors in real estate are, perhaps, the most satisfied class of people in Duluth at the present time and the tendency among them is to hang on to their purchases. They claim to be much encouraged over the fact that under present conditions the values of Duluth realty have not been, nor are they likely to be, affected and for that reason it is a pretty good thing in which to have money invested. It is understood that earnest money has been paid this week on one or two good sized deals in local property, but the parties to the transaction do not care to give out any information at the present stage. The transfers showing several deals that were closed some time ago were recorded this week and several more are due for filing the coming week.

The deed transferring the Miles block property on the upper side of Superior street, between Lake avenue and First avenue west, from the Zenith Investment company to Donald B. McDonald for $49,500, was filed with the register of deeds this week. This filing marks the closing up of the transaction made through the office of John A. Stephenson.

Another deed recorded this week and marking a sale completed a short time ago was that transferring a property with a fifty-foot frontage on the lower side of Michigan street, near First avenue east, from the Western Land association to purchasers represented by William Prindle & Co. The property is unimproved, but it is understood that they are willing to make a substantial improvement for a tenant. The property was purchased for $10,000.

Transfer of the west half of lot 40, block 1, Central division, from S. F. Knowles to O. W. Anderson, for $10,500, has been recorded. The property has a twenty-five-foot frontage on the lower side of Michigan street, between Second and Third avenues east.

Albert Stoltz has purchased from John A. Thomasson a twenty-five-foot lot on the lower side of Superior street, near the middle of the block, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth avenues east, for $7,500. The property is described as the west half of lot 5, block 40, Endion.

* * *

A. J. Thompson has sold Henry Bridgeman a property at the southwest corner of Forty-seventh avenue east and London Road, for $4,000. The property has a frontage of 200 feet on London Road and extends back to the lake. Mr. Bridgeman intends improving the property with a handsome residence. The purchase includes lots 12 and 13, block B, London addition.

Axel F. Anderson has purchased from W. M. Rowley a twenty-five-foot lot on the upper side of Seventh street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues east, for $1,800. The property is described as lot 6, block 144, Portland.

John H. Ebeling has sold the southeast corner of Ninth street and Lake avenue to Charles Westendahl for $1,700. The property comprises part of lots 2 to 3, block 116, Third division.

John Carlson has purchased from the Western Land association a lot on the upper side of Second street, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues west, for $1,125. The property has a frontage of 31¼ feet on Second street.

The transfer of a large bay front property between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-eighth avenues west, in Martin's division, from Charles E. Benson to Emily B. Martin, was recorded this week. The property includes a number of lots and some acreage, a large part being under water. The consideration was $40,000.

The Norwegian-Danish Methodist church property at the northeast corner of Twenty-first avenue west and First street has been sold to Duluth camp No. 2,341, M. W. of A., for $4,000. The property comprises the church building and parsonage, besides the ground.

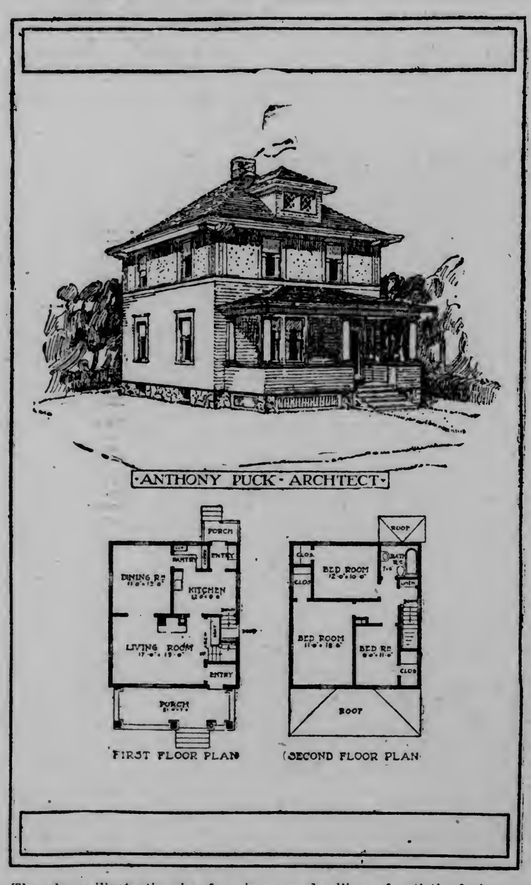
MODERN SIX ROOM HOME IN DULUTH FOR $2,600



The above illustration is of a six-room dwelling of artistic design, commodious and convenient in arrangement—an ideal home for a small family. A spacious veranda extends across the front. The front door enters into a roomy vestibule, which opens into a good sized living room of charming arrangement, with archway entering into the dining room. The connection between dining room and kitchen is through the pantry, which is conveniently arranged with cupboards, flour bins, etc. The kitchen is of convenient size and well lighted. A large rear entry is provided with space for refrigerator and shelves. From the kitchen there is direct connection to the front of the house, and to the stairway leading to basement. An outside doorway enters at the level of ground to the landing on the basement stairs, furnishing a direct ingress to cellar.

The stairway to the second story is situated in an alcove off the dining room. The stairway is built with a large seat, so arranged with relation to the fireplace, that the whole scheme makes a very beautiful effect from the living room.

A well lighted hallway in the second story opens directly into three comfortable bedrooms and the bathroom. Each bedroom has one large closet and outside light. The bathroom is of good size, with fixtures conveniently arranged. Linen cabinet with shelves opens to the hallway.

The size of the building, outside, is 24 feet by 27 feet, with full basement seven feet high. The first story is nine feet and the second story eight feet, in clear height. Floors throughout are of hardwood. The first story is finished in birch or oak, and the second story in pine for painting.

In Duluth and vicinity a dwelling of the above design and description can be built, including heating and plumbing, at a cost of $2,600.—Anthony Puck, Architect, Duluth, Minn.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION.

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis. —In Probate Court.
In the Matter of the Estate of Robert McKeever, Decedent.

THE PETITION of Mary McKeever having been filed in this court, representing, among other things, that Robert McKeever, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 29th day of Sept., 1907; leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is the widow of said decedent, and praying that letters of administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to Mary McKeever of Duluth, Minn.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in Duluth in said County on Monday the 18th day of November, 1907, at ten o'clock, A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in the Duluth Evening Herald according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County, not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., October 17th, 1907.

THE WORST NOW OVER

F. A. Patrick Returns From Business Trip to the East.

Is Very Hopeful Regarding Outlook in Financial Circles.

F. A. Patrick, president of F. A. Patrick & Co., returned yesterday from a business trip to New York and reports that financial and business conditions are showing improvement since the first acute attack of the stock panic and consequent money depression.

Mr. Patrick was in New York a week. He was also in Boston and Chicago. In each of these cities he made it a special object to investigate the business and financial outlook. His opinion, coming after a thorough investigation, is that business is showing a recuperation after the financial flurry. Mr. Patrick says that the effects of the flurry will not be cleared away immediately, but expresses the conviction that from now on business will gradually assume a normal tone and that trade and business in general will adjust themselves to the conditions imposed by the temporary money stringency.

"I believe the situation is gradually clearing up," said Mr. Patrick. "The prompt measures adopted by the banks for the protection of their depositors, and the financial aid rendered by certain financiers has robbed the situation of much of its seriousness. They are feeling the effects of the money depression in Eastern business. It is only natural that business should reflect in some degree the effects of the over speculation. I believe, however, that conditions are showing a steady and marked improvement over the situation a week ago. I left New York last Tuesday and at that time it seemed to me that the situation as a whole was much better than it was a week previous.

"After the first general feeling of uneasiness had worn away, the people began to look at the situation in a calm light. In Boston and New York it seemed to me that but little apprehension was entertained regarding the solvency of the banks. The people are not clamoring to draw their money from the banks; they feel assured of the reserves of the banking institutions, and in most cases are permitting their money to remain in the banks.

"My personal opinion is that we have passed through the worst stage of the depression. The moving of the wheat crop requires a lot of money. There is money in the West, but it has found legitimate employment. Just now the West is feeling the depressing effect of the flurry, which has been traveling from the East. You see some signs of this near at home. A slight curtailment, owing to the money scarcity. I believe, after investigating and observing conditions, that we are coming along all right, and that shortly business will have recovered from the shock and will have adjusted its course to a normal trend.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in Duluth in said County on Monday the 9th day of November, 1907, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

RECEIVER ASKED BY D. T. ADAMS FOR CALIFORNIA CALAVERAS MINING CO.

Alleges Dishonesty and Breach of Contract by Promoter.

President Manson is Accused of Swindling the Company.

Temporary Injunction is Granted by Court at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Suit has been filed in the United States circuit court here by David T. Adams of Duluth, Minn., against the California Calaveras Mining company, seeking a temporary injunction and the appointment of a receiver, together with other redress, on account of alleged dishonesty and breach of contract on the part of W. E. Manson, the promoter of the company.

The complaint states that in December, 1906, Manson entered into an agreement with the complainant and four other parties, viz., E. D. Brigham, John T. Jones, H. James and Paul Brown, by which they were to become associated for the purpose of purchasing some mining property in California, belonging to Cordelia Wright, the purchase price being $250,000. Manson undertook to make the purchase and to act as local representative for his colleagues and to form a company to deal with the property, and as he claimed that he and A. J. Jarmuth were the only persons with whom the owner would deal, it was arranged that the latter should be associated with him, and that he (Manson) should receive $50,000 as remuneration for his services in buying the property at the best price possible, and for his other work in connection with the formation of the company.

In January, 1907, a further contract

GEORGIAN BAY CANAL FEASIBLE

From an Engineering Standpoint, Says Report of Commission.

Fort William, Ont., Nov. 4.—The Bay canal commission has practically completed, at a cost of $600,000, a thorough survey of the proposed twenty-one-foot waterway from Georgian bay to Montreal by way of the French river, Lake Nipissing and the Ottawa river.

The engineers of the commission have not compiled the final estimate as to the whole cost of the canal, but from the information now available it is safe to say that the total expenditure required for a continuous and fully navigable waterway with a minimum depth of twenty-one feet from Georgian bay to tidewater will be close to $100,000,000.

The report will also show that from an engineering standpoint the enterprise is feasible with no very great engineering difficulties to surmount.

The only question for parliament to consider will be whether the benefits which will accrue to the dominion through the construction of a waterway shortening the present distance by water from Fort William to Montreal by over 400 miles will justify an expenditure larger by $15,000,000 than has been spent on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence waterways systems.

GOES DOWN IN BOSTON HARBOR

Steamer City of Birmingham Sinks—Crew Saved.

Boston, Nov. 4.—The steamer City of Birmingham of the Ocean Steamship company, struck a ledge in the harbor early today while bound out to Savannah, and sank in ten fathoms of water about two miles below her dock.

The steamer, having made a special trip north, with a cargo of cotton, started about 1:30 a. m. for the South. At a slight bend where the channel enters what is known as the Middle ground, the City of Birmingham hit an obstruction. The boat backed off into deep water. Immediately the engine room was flooded and fifteen minutes after striking the vessel sank. The crew had no difficulty in getting off in the steamer's boats and rowing the two miles back to the dock. The City of Birmingham lies with the upper deck above water, about half a mile from the lower end of Castle Island. Arrangements have been begun for raising the steamer. There were no passengers on board.

GERMAN BROKERS SUSPEND.

Hamburg, Nov. 4.—The banking and brokerage firm of F. Lappenberg suspended payments today owing to losses sustained through customers. The firm, which also did an export and import business, enjoyed high standing in financial circles.

ELECTIONS ON TUESDAY

Will Have Little Bearing on the Complexion of Congress.

Virginia and Maryland About the Only Exceptions.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The fact that tomorrow's elections will have comparatively little bearing upon the complexion of congress, has had the effect of reducing interest in Washington in them as a whole, to as a minimum. There are some exceptions, due largely to local conditions, and in a secondary degree to the fact that any change will have a possible bearing upon future contests. In this class may be placed Maryland and Virginia, both of which states number among their voters many persons employed in Washington.

In both these states the contests assume a somewhat more general aspect than in most others because the elections will have a direct influence upon the congress. The election in Maryland will cover not only all the state offices, but a legislature which will be called on to elect a short term United States senator to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Gorman, and a long term senator, whose term will begin in 1909, when the term for which Mr. Gorman was elected will expire.

The Virginia election was designed originally to fill only county offices and elect members of the legislature, but the death of Representatives Rixey of the Eighth district and Slemp of the Ninth necessitates choosing their successors. Mr. Slemp was the only Republican member of the Virginia congressional delegation.

FIRST BURNING OF ANTHRACITE

Hundredth Anniversary of Its Use to be Celebrated.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 4.—The Wyoming Valley Historical and Geological society has arranged for the celebration on Feb. 11, 1908 of the 100th anniversary of the first burning of anthracite coal in a commercial grate. It has been decided to strike off a medal commemorating the event.

Coal was first successfully burned in a grate by Judge Jesse Fell in the Fell Tavern in this city, and the room where the experiment took place is still preserved. At the time the coal was known as stone coal. It had been burned in open fires, but its value was not recognized. The outcroppings of it in this valley were abundant, but no one thought of turning the new discovery to domestic use until Judge Fell conceived the idea that it could be done. He constructed in the open hearth of the main room of the Fell Tavern a grate of iron bars, imbedded in brick work, and made the experiment. There was a fine draught up the big chimney, and soon the coal was red hot, gave forth a comfortable heat, and the experiment was a success.

FOUR DROWN IN MUD LAKE

Three Well Known Hibbingites and a Bowstring Man Lost.

Large Party Dragging Lake for Bodies of Victims.

THE VICTIMS.
PETER HEALY, Hibbing.
JACOB SEIBEL, Hibbing.
JOHN BAITZ, Hibbing.
JOHN COOPER, Bowstring.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Healy, Jacob Seibel and John Baitz of this city, who left here a week ago for a hunting trip in the Bowstring country, and John Cooper, a farmer and hunter of Bowstring, were drowned yesterday morning in Mud lake, said to be one of the most treacherous and dangerous lakes in the Northwest. W. A. Everton and Edward Inscho of Deer River, who were with the party which was crossing a lake in the boat, were saved. Cooper was acting as guide for the party and lived near Mud lake. It is presumed the party was overtaken by a storm while crossing Mud lake and their boat capsized. As Mud lake is in a remote section of the country it is difficult to learn the facts in the case.

The three Hibbing men are all prominent in business and social circles and the news of their terrible fate caused many to mourn.

Mr. Healy is a brother to John A. Healy, proprietor of the Hotel Hibbing, and leaves a wife and one child.

Mr. Seibel is one of the oldest residents of the city and an extensive property owner. He also leaves a family.

Mr. Baitz was employed at Kohrt Brothers' meat market and was a single man.

A searching party was formed here last night on a special train chartered on the Great Northern. The party left here at 9 o'clock for Swan river, where they met the midnight train and went north to the end of the road. It will be necessary to walk about twelve miles from the railroad to the scene of the disaster. The searching party included about twenty prominent citizens of the city and they went prepared to drag the lake until the bodies are recovered. Nothing has been heard from the party up to 1 p. m., but as there are no telephone connections at the lake it is probable that no message will be received until they have accomplished their grewsome task of dragging for the dead.

MORE FEDERAL TROOPS HURRIEDLY DISPATCHED TO WATCH HOSTILE INDIANS

GERALDINE FARRAR,
American Prima Donna, Who Says There Is No Art in the United States, and That She Will Remain in Germany and Never Play in Her Native Land Again.

Two Squadrons of Cavalry Ordered to Leave Omaha.

To Reach Thunder Butte at Earliest Possible Moment.

Fears of Trouble From Utes Cause of the Order.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 4.—Orders were received at army headquarters in Omaha to dispatch the remaining two squadrons of the Second United States cavalry composed of eight companies to Thunder Butte, S. D., at the earliest possible moment. The command left for Des Moines last night. Company M, sixteenth infantry, under command of Capt. Harry F. Dalton, will leave Fort Crook Tuesday or Wednesday for Gettysburg, S. D., to take charge of the base of supplies which has been established there for the operations against the Ute Indians should they make any troublesome overtures.

Col. Frank West of the Second cavalry, will be placed in command of the expedition on arrival at Thunder Butte. Maj. Sibley and the first squadron of four companies of the Second cavalry are now at Thunder Butte. Col. West is an old time Indian fighter and is said to be thoroughly competent to handle the situation in whatever phase it may develop. It is possible that the base of operations may be transferred from Gettysburg, which is the end of the railway lines, to Cheyenne river, eighteen miles west of Gettysburg on the west side of the Missouri rivr.

Company K, Sixteenth infantry left Fort Crook Sunday afternoon to garrison Fort Des Moines during the absence of the Second cavalry in the field. It is not known at army headquarters here why additional troops have been sent to the Cheyenne river reservation, but it is thought the idea is to prevent any portion of the Sioux tribe from making common cause with the Utes in their revolt against authority. The Utes, it is pointed out, are in a sense the guests of the Sioux and the Indian idea of hospitality might induce some of the younger Sioux braves to offer aid in resisting any forcible measures adopted for the subjugation of the disaffected Utes.

NO ART IN THE UNITED STATES

Says Geraldine Farrar, Who Will Remain in Germany.

Berlin, Nov. 4.—Geraldine Farrar, the young American prima donna, is reported in a local newspaper as condemning America as barbarically devoid of artistic appreciation, and as having formally announced her intention of turning her back on America forever. Miss Farrar is quoted as saying: "After singing in my own country and having the opportunity of comparing it with Germany from an artistic standpoint I have concluded to remain here and never sing anywhere else. I am an American, but truth compels me to admit that there is no art in the United States. There is only money there. That is why I came over here.

"That's what takes Americans to Europe. Americans, moreover, are deficient in artistic appreciation. America produces talent, that is apparent from the large number of us singing in Berlin, but in our own country we would be impossible. Had we sung there nobody would have known whether we sang well or badly. Americans cannot judge music because they are utterly lacking in understanding."

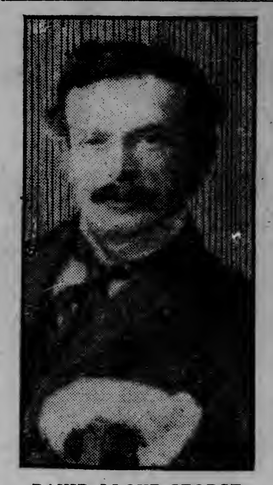
LITTLE CHIEFS WINNERS.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji Chiefs, the local independent football eleven, were defeated in a hard-fought game Sunday afternoon by a team called the Little Chiefs, before a fair-sized crowd on the fair ground gridiron, by a score of 11 to 5.

The Little Chiefs played the more steady game and showed better team work, the Big Chiefs showing a lack of practice and team work.

MAKING HIM WALK THE PLANK.

THE SUMMONS SERVED ON JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER IN CLEVELAND IS QUASHED



DAVID LLOYD-GEORGE,
President of the London Board of Trade, Who Will Try to Avert the Big Strike of British Railroad Men at a Conference to Be Held on Wednesday.

Court's Opinion Is That He Represents Former Corporation

That Is Not Now Doing Business in State of Ohio.

Other Motions to Quash Are Overruled by the Court.

Findlay, Ohio, Nov. 4.—Judge Duncan in common pleas court today quashed the summons served on John D. Rockefeller in Cleveland last summer. His opinion is that Mr. Rockefeller represents a former corporation that is not doing business in the state of Ohio and that Mr. Rockefeller's visit to this state was purely a personal one and not for the transaction of any business.

The motion to quash the summons served on the Solar Refining company of Lima, Ohio, is overruled. Motions made by the Buckeye Pipe Line company, the Ohio Oil company and the Standard Oil company to strike out certain allegations in the petition are also overruled. The decision denies an individual the right to bring quo warranto proceedings and says that can only be done by the attorney general or a prosecuting attorney in the supreme or circuit court.

The decisions were rendered in the case of George H. Phelps against the Standard Oil company, in which Phelps sought to have receivers appointed for the Standard Oil company and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and to have their business wound up.

A FEELING OF RELIEF

When Trust Companies Open With But Few Depositors Waiting.

Experts Pronounce Trust Company of America Perfectly Solvent.

New York, Nov. 4.—The Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust company opened for business as usual at 10 o'clock this morning. This followed conferences Saturday and yesterday at the home of J. P. Morgan concerning the general financial condition and the desirability of relieving the heavy strain caused by runs on these two trust companies during the past ten days. When the Trust Company of America opened this morning thirty-five people were in line, a considerable diminution from the number on hand during the earlier days of the run. The opening of both institutions brought a distinct feeling of relief, as it was taken as indicating that the conferences held last night had exerted beneficial effects. During the conferences the boards of directors of the two trust companies were in session, while a number of financiers were assembled at Mr. Morgan's house, both bodies being in touch with each other. A committee of experts appointed on Saturday had gone over the affairs of the Trust Company of America and had pronounced it solvent.

At 11:20 Isaac N. Seligman, speaking of the affairs of the Lincoln Trust company, said:

"The directors of the Lincoln Trust company are now in conference considering several plans of action. The company has sufficient funds to meet all demands. The directors are considering what is best to do under the present circumstances."

ADVANCED TO 6 PER CENT.

Bank of England Again Increases Its Rate of Discount.

London, Nov. 4.—The persistent demands from America for gold in spite of the recently increased discount rate of the Bank of England and in face of the continued rise in the cable transfer rate, caused the Bank of England this morning to raise its rate from 5½ to 6 per cent. Although an increase to this rate next Thursday would not have surprised the market, the announcement of the rise today occasioned somewhat of a flurry locally. It is considered, however, in financial circles to be the natural outcome of the unfavorable New York bank statement. When the Bank of England's rate was raised to 5½ per cent Oct. 31, it was thought that the position in the United States was clearing satisfactorily, but the continued engagements of gold at a loss of 2 to 3 per cent on the exchange caused a recrudescence of nervousness in the discount market and rates were put up from 5⅞ to 6 per cent in endeavors to assist the bank to protect its reserve, but the utility of the efforts is shown by the fact that since Thursday the United

JAPANESE BOY IS TO BE DISMISSED FROM SCHOOL.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 4.—The board of education, it is stated, has decided to dismiss George Yagama, a Japanese boy, who was admitted to the night school two weeks ago. Yagama was admitted during the absence of City Superintendent Ashmore. When he learned of it, he pointed out that it was a breaking of the racial line, which could not be done in the South. Yagama will be dismissed on the ground that he is over school age, which will prevent the matter becoming an international issue.

MAY BE VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

Organs of Walter Baker Being Examined For Poison.

New York, Nov. 4.—Relatives and close friends of Walter H. Baker, the wealthy Boston man, who died a week ago Saturday night at the home of a friend at Bogota, N. J., a few hours after he had declared in a Broadway chop house that he had been poisoned, think that he may have been the victim of foul play. They have heard that scheming persons obtained control of a large part of his fortune, estimated at from $375,000 to $400,000 a few weeks prior to his death, and they cannot find a will which Baker is said to have made two months ago, or learn to whom he conveyed his money, as reported. That Baker was poisoned is doubted by lawyers in charge of the investigation, but they are having the viscera examined by chemists who are expected to report in a day or two. Baker's lawyers canont account for his whereabouts during the two hours preceding his appearance at the chop house, nor can they find out who his companions were.

HIGH PRICE FOR RAILS.

All Records Broken in Sale Just Made to Japan.

New York, Nov. 4.—All records in the price for rails hitherto sold for export were broken Saturday when the United States Steel Products Export company, which takes care of the foreign business of the United States Steel corporation, closed a cable contract from the administration of the Japanese government railways, calling for the shipment of 12,000 tons on a basis which will net just a shade below $30 a ton at the mills. This is nearly $2 a ton in excess of the existing price for rails intended for consumption in the United States. This unprecedented figure is to be paid to assure prompt delivery.

WHISKERS CAUGHT FIRE.

St. Paul Man Falls Asleep With Lighted Cigar in His Hand.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aroused by the blazing of the bedding around his face, Ewald Johnson, proprietor of a saloon at 844 Payne avenue, barely saved himself from being burned to death in his room above the saloon last evening. Mr. Johnson had been lying on the bed, smoking a cigar and reading a newspaper. While reading he fell asleep, and the spark of the cigar set fire to the newspaper. The paper set fire to the bed and before Mr. Johnson awakened, his whiskers also caught fire. He succeeded in quenching the flames in a few minutes.

UNION MEN WORKING

Brick Layers Do Not Strike on Sellwood Building.

Builders' Laborers Balk on Non-Union Steel Workers.

The threatened strike at the Sellwood building, under construction at Second avenue west and Superior street, materialized this morning as far as the builders' laborers are concerned, but did not involve the brick layers, the complication most feared.

A delegation from the Association of Builders' laborers waited on the contractors this morning and refused to work on the building on account of the employment of non-union structural steel workers. The bricklayers did not balk as was feared, the small number required at present being secured without trouble.

The bricklayers say that a clause of their constitution prohibits affiliation with other unions and the fact that non-union steel workers are employed does not affect them. Non-union builders' laborers have been secured and will proceed with the work. The builders' laborers are helpers to the bricklayers, mixing the mortar, carrying it to the men, etc.

CITY ENGINEER MAKES REPLY

Files Statement on the Robinson Street Paving Case.

City Engineer McGilvray, in response to a request from the board of public works, has made answer to the allegations contained in the written protest submitted by property owners on Robinson street relative to the quality of the paving put down there.

The city engineer goes into details, taking up each separate complaint and sums up the situation in an intimation that the property owners "purchased a package" and not satisfied with it when they opened it up, felt they must lay the blame somewhere, so took his department as the proper black sheep to attack.

Extracts from the complaint of the property owners were published in The Herald at the time it was filed and the city engineer's reply thereto also published. In his report to the board of public works he goes into details and states that the one great fault found, namely the softness of the street, is due to the insistence of property owners that the work be rushed through, regardless of rainy weather and that when the street was rolled, one-third more crushed macadam was put on the street than the specifications called for, owing to the softness of the street and inability to use the steam roller unless additional rock was put on.

He states that the loam on the grass plots was of ordinary quality and that the amount called for by the specifications, two inches in depth, was easily washed away by freshets. The complaint on some of the stone used in gutters not being up to the required size, is accounted for by the fact that in all contracts it is necessary to use small stones between the larger ones and this was done on this contract as well.

The width of the street was carried out according to specifications, he states, only that in some places it was left narrower at the request of property owners themselves who wished to fill in their own lots.

The contract called for ten feet of loam, not fifteen feet, and while he claims that property owners are intimating that the contractor was paid for 7,222 square yards more than he should have been, in fact he was paid for but 4,000 square yards, the amount he actually put in.

He concluded his reply to the board by stating that any body of men who would criticise a department of the city without first obtaining the facts, which facts were easily obtainable by calling at his office, were to say the least unjust. The city engineer was decidedly caustic in his arraignment of the property owners and the statement of his side of the case.

POOR LO GROWING MORE PROVIDENT

Leach Lake Indians Well Prepared for the Winter.

Senator William O'Neil, government supervisor of the logging operations on the Leach Lake reservation, who is at the St. Louis, says that the retrenchments made by several of the big lumber companies in the northern part of the state will have no effect on the cutting on the government land, as the companies have made contracts with the government to cut out a certain amount this year.

Everything on the reservation is progressing finely. They are preparing for the coming of winter and the advance of severe weather will find the Indians better prepared to meet it than ever before. Even poor Lo has learned of husband for the future, and the Leach Lake Indians are provisioned and prepared in every way to meet any kind of weather for the next five months.

ROUTINE WORK.

Judge Morris Cleans Up What Has Collected During His Absence.

Judge Page Morris in federal court this morning cleared up quite a lot of routine work that collected during his absence, chiefly in the matter of bankruptcy cases and in judgments granted at the last term of court. In district court J. Robbers of Little Falls, Minn.; W. T. Larrabee, James McPherson, Orton A. Graham, H. D. Treglawny, all of Brainerd, Minn.; Thomas Farrington Salisbury of Pelican, Minn.; Carl A. Berg of Smiley, Minn.; Joseph Abfolter of St. George, Minn., and Peter Butchart of Duluth were discharged from bankruptcy.

In circuit court, costs in the sum of $59 was entered against the plaintiff in the case of the Knudsen-Ferguson Fruit company against the Michigan Central Railroad company. The personal injury case of Barney Bernard against the Pittsburg Coal company was dismissed on motion of the plaintiff's attorney.

The case of Zimmerman and Ives vs. C. Sherry and J. Sherry, involving a contract for the cutting of timber, was dismissed by stipulation of the parties concerned. The damage suit brought by Frank Freeman against the Stevenson Iron Mining company was dismissed on motion of the plaintiff. Judgment and costs in the sum of $280.05 were entered against the defendant in the case of C. F. Ruggles vs. F. W. Bonness and others. The entering of judgment in these cases was merely a matter of form, the cases having been disposed of at the last session of federal court in Duluth.

THE MAYOR NOW A CANDIDATE

Believed That He Will Formally Announce Himself Soon.

It was stated on good authority this afternoon that Mayor Cullum, who has been coyly considering the plan of entering the race for the nomination on the Democratic ticket once more, would formally announced his candidacy this afternoon or tonight.

When asked regarding it this afternoon he stated that there was nothing new in the situation, but it is generally believed that his honor can be considered a candidate from this time forward, as it is believed that he has finally made up his mind to enter the race.

TOOK HER OWN CHICKEN.

Mrs. Tillie Bredison Denies She Committed a Theft.

The question as to whether a person can commit petit larceny by the theft of a fowl that belongs to the accused party will be determined in police court, Nov. 6.

Mrs. Tillie Bredison is accused by John Susnopski, a neighbor, of stealing one of his chickens from his yard, while Mrs. Bredison claims the fowl as her own. She was arraigned in police court this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge. When the case comes to trial the interesting question whether one is committing an offense in taking one's own property, will be determined.

DENIES SHE LEFT HIM.

Mrs. Banack Claims She Was Driven From Home.

Mary Banack, wife of Frank Banack, of 2627 West Ninth street, appeared at The Herald today and said that the intimation in Banack's advertisement of non-responsibility for her debts, that she had left him, was incorrect. She said she had been driven out of the house. She said she is now living at 2811 West Helm street.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Many Minor Cases Disposed of by the Court.

The police drag net gathered in quite a number of offenders Saturday night and Sunday, and a motley-looking aggregation of the floating population drifted in at the heels of the court officer at 9:30 this morning.

Most of the cases were for drunkenness and the majority of the men were woodsmen returning from the harvest fields of the Dakotas to the pineries, who stopped off in Duluth to have one last celebration before going into winter quarters.

Old Frank Clarence, a grizzly old woodsman, looking as hardy as a pine knot, although fully 50 years of age, bowed low to the court and started in on a continued story of the causes leading up to his downfall.

"Were you drunk?" asked the court.

Frank bowed low again, admitting the truth of the allegations. In view of the facts brought out in the examination that he has been in court on a similar charge several times, he was given a fine of $20 and costs or twenty days.

William O'Brien drew ten and costs, and admitted that he had been a "little off" Sunday. He is an old timer.

Adolph Carlson, a tailor living in this city, pleaded guilty to being drunk. He has a wife and family and is not a regular offender. Sentence was suspended in his case.

Fred Schlind was discovered by the police wandering about in a rockpile near the lake and brought in. He drew the minimum fine.

* * *

John Fryst was charged with disorderly conduct, the police stating that he was arrested while making a disturbance on the street. He declared that the noise was only a little playful laughter and the case will be heard this afternoon.

Several other cases of minor importance were disposed of.

EXPENSIVE GAME.

Emil Halberg Loses Money in Children's Pastime.

Charles Landeen and Charles Smith were arrested Saturday night, on complaint of Emil Halberg, a little innocent appearing game of "ring-around-the-rosy on the Bowery Saturday night, proved a highly expensive pastime. Halberg told Acting Capt. Fisket that he had been drinking with his companions and the joy caused by the squirrel whisky fathered the idea of the "round the rosy" stunt. The three took hold of hands and circled to the right, but Halberg claims that while they were enjoying the game, his companions dipped into his pockets and believed him of about $7 in cash. Halberg is disgusted with the game and thinks it too expensive. An investigation of the case was made by the police yesterday and Landeen and Smith are being given a preliminary hearing this afternoon.

STRONGER NEAR CLOSE

Copper Shares Have Rally at End of the Session.

The Opening Was Weak on Unfavorable Bank Statement.

Copper stocks closed stronger in the market today, the feeling about the financial situation being much more encouraging during the latter part of today's session, which caused buying.

Most of the shares were off at the opening, which was expected in view of the unfavorable bank statement Saturday. The shares opened a point or two under Saturday's close and were weak during the first hour, after which the tone became steadily stronger until the close, which was at the high level of the day.

Walker's weekly copper letter says: "Copper prices rebounded very quickly from the low level of 12 cents, reached a week or ten days ago. Lake is now selling at 15 to 15¼ cents, and electrolytic at 14¾ to 15 cents. There has been very general and heavy buying, but chiefly by foreign customers. Domestic manufacturers have continued to buy very sparingly. They are now in the market, however, looking for some of the bargains which they allowed to pass unheeded two weeks ago.

"I estimate that the accumulation of copper in the hands of the world's producers reached a total of 300,000,000 pounds. This was properly a surplus of not more than 250,000,000 pounds, as under normal conditions at least one-third of this total would have been carried by the consumers who have been carrying practically no copper at all. Approximately 175,000,000 pounds of copper was sold during the month of October, reducing the producers' surplus stocks more than one-half. The milling companies had about $30,000,000 of their working capital tied up in copper. Assuming that the average price at which sales have been made was 13½ cents, however, the past month's operations have released fully $23,000,000. At least $15,000,000 worth of this copper will go abroad.

"How much of the recent buying has been for speculation is not known. As practically all of the buying has been for the account of manufacturers, with those of Germany and China most active, it must be assumed that only a very small portion of the total amount will come back to the market. If it is resold, it will be at higher prices. It is more probable that the foreigners have bought heavily to cover their future requirements, being satisfied that prices were low enough.

"The last of the copper produced in Montana, Utah, Arizona and Mexico, previous to the heavy curtailment of production, which began in August, has now reached the market. For at least three months to come the receipts of refined copper must be much smaller; for should the producers resume production to their full capacity at once, the increased output would not reach distributing centers inside of 90 to 120 days. It is believed that consumption should overtake production before the end of this three months' period. The Amalgamated, Cole-Ryan and Phelps-Dodge interests will not resume their full volume of production again. I understand, until there are unmistakable signs of a decided improvement in business. This should mean that the price of copper will hold around 15 cents per pound for an indefinite period."

EDITOR AFTER JOB.

B. L. Hollister Would Wear Postmaster Shook's Shoes.

Aitkin, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a nice little contest on between Postmaster Shook and Editor B. L. Hollister of the Age, over the loacl postoffice, as Shook's term expires in July, and it is currently reported that Mr. Shook does not stand as well with Congressman J. Adam Bede, who has the filling of the position, as he did before last election. It will be recalled that Mr. Shook is the Republican county committeeman from Aitkin county and that this was the only county Mr. Bede did ont carry in the last election. This fact is alleged to have rather diminished his political prestige. Editor Hollister has the endorsement of the local Press club and many others. His application has been filed with Congressman Bede and a definite announcement is expected soon.

REGISTRATION

For Election in Philippines is Greatest in Their History.

Manila, Nov. 4.—Registration for the general election is the greatest in the history o fthe Philippines. It is expected that fully 200,000 voters will go to the polls and cast their votes for governors, members of the provincial boards and municipal officers. The campaign has been very quiet.

At the request of attorneys in the case, the hearing on demurrer was postponed. The date for these preliminaries was set for Nov. 16, at which time the date for the final trial of the case on its merits will be set. The court intimated today that this would probably be between Jan. 1 and 15. This case has been in the courts for nearly fifteen years.

TALK HOCKEY AND BASEBALL

Two sporting celebrities, one national and the other local, arrived in Duluth this morning and are talking baseball and hockey respectively. They are Ted Sullivan, baseball expert, of everywhere, and John T. MacNamara of Houghton, manager of the Amphidrome and Portage Lake hockey team and formerly secretary of the International Hockey league.

"I'm just talking," said Ted. "I wanted to see my old friends and talk things over. I wasn't mixed up in that deal for a new league for the Copper country and Duluth. That's talk. The Copper country is all right, though. They're good sports. They've lost a lot of money in baseball, but are ready for more."

"I'm here just incidentally," said Mr. MacNamara. "I will look things over, talk hockey some and perhaps try to get Duluth people interested. We're going to have the same world's championship team next season. I would like to see Duluth into the league and any assistance we can give local people in giving the game a start will be cheerfully given."

Ministers Are Mothers and Courts, Fathers, of Erring.

Judge Windom spoke on "The Relation of the Judiciary to the Clergy." He said that the ministers did the pleading with the wayward ones and the municipal court did the spanking.

He dwelt upon the evils that spring from allowing young girls to spend so much time on the street late at night, and said that the responsibility rested with the parents.

Temporary Difficulties in the Eastern Markets Force Rare Values!

AS a simultaneous result of the stringency in the money market, manufacturers who were juggling with hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise, suddenly found themselves in financial difficulties, and the scarcity of ready cash made it obligatory to effect quick disposition of the goods in order to meet their obligations. This does not refer to a few insignificant and unreliable houses, but are cold hard facts concerning some of the best known and most reliable houses of New York. While we do not consider the momentary scarcity of money at all grave, still our Mr. J. M. Gidding, with his quick intuition for business and impulsive activity, telegraphed us unexpectedly that he had left for New York—a surprise to ourselves—that is practically all we knew until the last few days, when we have been having a series of surprise parties by numerous express packages tumbling in upon us in quick succession. The values are certainly great! We mention a few to give you an idea of what you can get for the money.

GIRL RINGS BELL

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Braving the danger of being shot by bank robbers, who had been driven from their work by her father and brother, Ruth Trump, the 12-year-old daughter of John Trump of Robbinsdale, a suburb of Minneapolis, Sunday morning ran through the darkness to the town hall and rang an alarm, whih summoned the citizens, who rushed scantily clad, into the streets, where the sound of firearms gave them an inkling as to the cause of the bells clanging.
The robbers had exploded two charges of nitro-glycerine in an attempt to open the safe in the State bank opposite the Trump home. The first explosion awakened the Trump family, and the men at once began shooting at the robbers, who fled without securing any booty.

TERM OPENS WEDNESDAY

District Court Will Begin Work on November Calender.

Personal Injury Cases Will be a Predominating Feature.

The November term of the district court, the last term of the year, will begin Wednesday morning. At that time the calendar will be called and the grand jurors will assemble to consider the criminal business that has been accumulating awaiting their action. The state will be represented before the grand jury by County Attorney Norton, who has been confined to his home for several days past with the grippe and a severe gathering in one of his ears. Mr. Norton expects to have recovered sufficiently to take up his work Wednesday.
The petit jurors will not assemble for duty until next Monday morning, when the court will begin the trial of jury cases.
Next Thursday the judges of the district court will dispose of the twenty-four divorce cases on the new calendar, and Friday they will grant hearings on motions relative to the cases on the November calendar. Next Saturday will occur the usual special term of court.
Personal injury cases will figure prominently on the new term calendar. It is understood that the aggregate claims in action for trial the coming term will reach over $1,000,000. The aggregate claims in cases on the district court calendar during the year is said to be something over $2,000,000. This does not include the damage cases said to have been settled out of court.

OBJECT TO WAGE CUT.

Calumet & Hecla Men Hold Mass Meeting and Appoint Committees.

Calumet, Mich., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The employes of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company held a mass meeting Saturday afternoon at the baseball park for the purpose of discussing the proposed cut in wages of 12½ per cent to take effect Dec. 1, and various other grievances. The meeting was attended by thousands from the various departments, and from these was appointed a committee to meet Sunday for the purpose of planning a line of action. From this committee several men were named to await on President Agassiz, who is at present in Calumet from Boston, on his annual fall visit. Everyone hopes the grievances will be settled amicably, as Calumet has the reputation of being one of the most peacable mining camps in the world, there being practically no unions here. The men declare that a cut of 12½ per cent is unjust, owing to the fact that not long ago the officials raised the wages 10 per cent. The outcome is awaited with interest, not only by those concerned, but by the entire community.

RAILROAD NEWS

THINK END IS IN SIGHT

Railroad Men Say Tight Money Will End Car Shortage.

Freight Shipments Being Curtailed as Result of Conditions.

It is the belief of several local railroad men that the present condition of the money market will soon bring an end to the car shortage which is now felt throughout the West. The effect of the tight money is already felt locally in freight shipments, although not yet to any great extent.
The roads entering Duluth still have more business than they can handle, and today could use a great many more cars than are available, but at the same time it is very evident that this condition will not prevail for any great length of time.
The money conditions are having a tendency to retard the movement of grain. It is said the farmer, proverbially cautious, is not at all anxious to exchange his grain for paper, however good it may be. Of course, this does not hold true in all cases, but in a great many instances it is said the farmers are storing their grain if they have storage facilities at hand, to await developments.
In many other cases, although the farmers may wish to hold their grain, there are not adequate storage facilities, and he has to send the shipments forward whether he is anxious to or not. As explained above, conditions have not yet worked out to such an extent that the car shortage has been brought to an end, but local railroad men firmly believe that this will be the result of the present situation. One or two even go so far as to predict that inside of a month, possibly even in two weeks, there will be a surplus of cars on Northwestern roads.
Inquiry was also made among local passenger agents this morning to ascertain if the money conditions had had any affect on the passenger travel. Some of the agents said it was a fact that travel had fallen off because of the strained conditions, while others maintained that they could see no difference.

RATES ARE OFF.

Colonist Tickets to the West No Longer on Sale.

The colonist rates to the West, Northwest and Southwest, which have been in effect for the past two months, were discontinued last Saturday, and low-rate tickets on the same terms will not be purchasable again before next March. They will probably be on sale during March and April.
The demand this fall has been about the same as usual. It was neither exceptionally heavy nor exceptionally light. The special rate of $25 to the Pacific Northwest, with $34 to California and correspondingly low rates to nearer points, always are an inducement to quite a heavy travel. The fact that labor conditions have been so satisfactory in the Middle West all the year has held the sale of colonist tickets down to a certain extent, for they are almost entirely purchased by the laboring classes, and when times are prosperous in the Middle West and East, there is not so much of a movement to the Western labor fields as would otherwise be the case.

NEW TARIFF.

Burlington Road Takes Over Two Great Northern Branches.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 4.—In the office of the state railway commission this afternoon, the tariffs and schedules of the Wilmar & Sioux Falls, and the Sioux City & Pacific railways were displaced by the tariffs of the Burlington railway and the latter road will hereafter operate the two branches, formerly a part of the Great Northern system.

INCREASED SHIPMENTS.

Movement of Wheat and Coal Heavier Than Last October.

Figures given out today for the wheat movement of October over the Duluth roads show an increase of 28 cars over October of a year ago. The figures show 17,319 cars for the month just past against a figure of 17,191 cars for October of 1906.
While figures on the westward shipment of coal are not obtainable at the present time, it is stated at the offices of the several roads doing a heavy shipping business of commercial coal to the Dakotas that the figures for the month just closed will show an increase of fully 18 per cent over the figures of a similar period in 1906.
One of the reasons for the increased shipment of wheat coming to Duluth, and the increased coal shipments moving west ward, is that the comparatively mild weather of the fall, especially during October, has enabled the roads to work at full capacity. This was not the case last year. Cars have been a trifle more plentiful than a year ago and the wheat movement has consequently been heavier during the month just closed.

NO THROUGH SHIPMENTS.

Eastern Roads Holding Up Cars of the Western Railroads.

Duluth roads are refusing to make through shipments. They have found that the Eastern roads are not returning the cars that the Western roads are sending to them, nor have they sent an equal number of cars to the roads in the West in exchange for the large number of cars that have been sent East on through freight shipments.
Both the local offices of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific report that a large number of their cars are in the East and that their return cannot be secured. This was the case last year, when the West was first pinched so severely by the car famine. The Western freight officials are not going to permit this to occur again, if measures against a recurrence of such a situation that tied up traffic early last fall, are effective.
One prominent freight traffic official said this morning that it would be foolish to accede to the demands of shippers for through cars for Eastern shipments. He is authority for the statement that all the Western roads are suffering from the amount of their rolling stock that is in the hands of roads east of Detroit, and that efforts to secure a return on this stock here been in vain.
Tracers sent by some of the Western roads has developed the fact that some of their cars are lying idle on sidings on Eastern tracks. This was precisely the case last year when an investigation brought out the discovery that Eastern lines were utilizing freight cars of the most modern type for coal, rock and in some instances for the hauling of gravel.
The tardiness of the Eastern roads to return cars through the car exchange has led to this refusal to ship freight through bound.

EDUCATION THE TOPIC

State Normal Board Holds Regular Meeting in Duluth.

The Directors Put in a Very Busy Day Here.

The Minnesota State Normal school board is holding a session in Duluth today.
The directors met at the Duluth normal this morning and were in session until after 1 o'clock. After a recess, the directors again took up their work at the Spalding hotel.
The members of the board arrived at the normal school this morning in time to attend the regular morning exercises in the assembly room, after which they convened in the office of the president.
Those present were: Judge Eli Torrance of Minneapolis, president of the board; J. W. Olson of St. Paul, state superintendent of schools, and secretary of the board; Directors H. L. Buck of Winona, Alyah Eastman of St. Cloud, John Wise of Mankato and J. L. Washburn of Duluth, and Presidents G. E. Maxwell of the Winona normal, C. H. Copper of the Mankato normal, F. A. Weld of the Moorhead normal and E. W. Bohannon of the Duluth normal.
Directors H. E. Hoard of Montevideo, Judge Tifft of Long Prairie and C. E. Nye of Moorhead, were not present.
The hearing of the reports of the presidents of the schools and the planning of changes and improvements in the course of study, took up most of the time today.
An appropriate resolution was adopted expressing the sincere sympathy of the board for the surviving relatives of Former Director W. F. Phelps, at his death, and paying the late director many tributes for his work and life.
Prof. Phelps died last August. He was a pioneer in Minnesota educational work, coming to the Winona normal as its president shortly after the Civil war, when the state was young and finances in an unhealthy condition.
All his life was devoted to educational work and much of it to the Winona normal. Several of the directors spoke of Mr. Phelps' worth and the resolution was adopted unanimously.

BOYS AS SPECIALS.

Novel and Successful Plan to Stop Halloween Pranks.

Brainerd, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief of Police McGivern adopted the novel scheme of swearing in boys as special officers to prevent vandalism Halloween, and the officer says the idea proved very successful. The boy policemen and their friends clashed with the mischief makers in one or two instances, and the forces of law and order came out on top. The same plan has been used in Council Bluffs, Iowa, with success, the appointment going as a reward of merit, so to speak, during the time intervening since the boys were last on duty.

BUCKET BRIGADE NOT APPRECIATED

Contractor Claims Good Efforts at Fire Were Resented.

Contractor P. McDonnell is inclined to the opinion that being a volunteer firemen and turning some fifteen of his men loose in the service to put out a fire, is not the most profitable vocation in the world. In fact, the contractor is not a little out of patience over what he sees fit to term the arrogance displayed by one Capt. George Mahon of Engine Company No. 2, West Duluth.
It appears from the statement of the contractor that a small blaze started in a cottage near the National Iron works, West Duluth, Sunday, and seeing the blaze "Paddy" hustled some fifteen of his men at work on the Ramsey street contract over to the scene.
A "bucket brigade" was soon formed and the fire extinguished by the men. An alarm had been turned in, he states, and the West Duluth department responded, but the fire was about out when they arrived, due to the efforts of the "McDonnell bucket brigade."
When the department arrived, McDonnell claims that he informed the captain that he had put out the blaze with his men, and suggested that it was not necessary to turn on a stream of water, which would only ruin the household furniture, and to this the captain, he claims, replied with a withering look, "you attend to your street paving, and forthwith turned on the hose.
Just why his efforts to do what he considered a creditable act, should be resented so abruptly is a matter of some mystery to Mr. McDonnell, who takes it that he unwittingly trod upon some one's toes, although his efforts were meant in the best of spirit, and the man who owned the house was profuse in his thanks to the boys of the "bucket brigade."

Quinsy, Sore Throat, Neuralgia of the Nerves

MRS. WM. VAN GAASBEEK.

A remarkable cure was effected in the case of Mrs. Wm. Van Gaasbeek of 14½ Foxhall Avenue, Kingston, New York, who suffered a long time from Quinsy, Sore Throat and Neuralgia. After all other medicines failed, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey made a permanent cure.

In a recent letter Mrs. Van Gaasbeek wrote:

"I have been a great sufferer for a long time from quinsy, sore throat and neuralgia of the nerves. I had tried almost everything but nothing seemed to help me. A friend advised me to try Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and after taking a half dozen bottles I was cured. Have never had any symptoms of the disease since. I recommend it to any one suffering from these diseases."

Thousands of unsolicited letters of gratitude like this of Mrs. Van Gaasbeek are received from grateful patients who are anxious to extol the merits of this great life-saver—Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture its palatability and freedom from injurious substances renders it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It is recognized everywhere as the unfailing specific for the cure of consumption, nervousness, typhoid, malaria, every form of stomach trouble, diseases of the throat and lungs, and all run down and weakened conditions of he brain and body. It restores youthful vigor to the old and maintains the health and strength of the young. It nourishes and feeds the vital forces. It is a form of food already digested. It is prescribed by doctors of all schools, is used in the leading hospitals of the world, and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere. It is absolutely pure.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It is the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1.00. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Illustrated medical booklet and doctor's advice free. Duffy Malt Whisky Co., Rochester, N. ROY ANDRAY HOTCHKISS

Have Each to Suffer for the Sins of the Other.

It is Ray, Not Roy, in Trouble This Time.

What's in a name?

Ask Roy Hotchkiss who resides at 932 West Second street, this city, and he will undoubtedly tell you there is considerable in a name and sometimes much that is, to say the least, very annoying.

Roy Hotchkiss of 932 West Second street wants it most distinctly understood that he is not the Ray Hotchkiss whose sensational escapade with the wife of Police Officer Geer last week, brought him into prominence here and at Ashland, Wis., where he was taken in by the police. That young man is named Ray, but the name of Roy Hotchkiss of Duluth has been confused with his, much to the latter's inconvenience and indignation.

Along this line a peculiar coincidence of unhappy circumstances connected with the lives of the two men develops. Some two years ago Roy Hotckakiss, the innocent man in the present mixup, was implicated in a police court affair, and the same confusion of names made it very unpleasant for Ray Hotchkiss, son of the Green Bay match magnate, who has just been cleared of the scrape with the policeman's wife by the intervention of a wealthy parent.

But tilings were different then. Ray was innocent and he wanted the public to know that it was not he who was guilty of wrongdoing so he gave it out in the newspapers, and it was made more than plain that it was Roy, not Ray, who was mixed in the scrape at the time.

But it's a long road that has no turn, and at last Roy Hotchkiss of Duluth has his turn to deny acquaintance or connection whatsoever with the Green Bay youth. The families are not related, and the two young men not even acquaintances.

FOUR WRECKS ON SUNDAY

Three Collisions and One Cave-in Cause Loss of Life.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 4.—Chief Mail Clerk Alvin D. Bremlow of Little Rock, and an unidentified man, were killed outright and Engineer Andrew Graney of Argenta seriously injured in a head on collision between Iron Mountain passenger train No. 106, eastbound, and a freight train at Higgins eight miles south of here at 9:05 o'clock last night. It is reported that a number of negroes were hurt, but no white passengers were injured.

Cumberland Md. Nov. 4.—Two men were killed, a third is missing, and one man was injured as the result of a wreck early yesterday when an extra westbound freight train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad got beyond control and collided with another fast freight on the Cranberry grade near McMillan, W. Va., about seventy miles west of here.

Birmingham Ala. Nov. 4.—Fast passenger train No. 3 on the Queen & Crescent going at a high rate of speed collided head on with a freight train one mile south of Morgansville Ga., yesterday morning. Three men were killed, nine seriously injured and about twenty passengers sustained more or less painful injuries.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 4.—Engineer Harvey Casey was killed and two others were seriously injured by the wreckage of the Quaker City flyer on the Jersey Central railroad about a half a mile north of Pittston last night. The train was passing the Butler colliery when it ran into a mine cavein which occurred when the train was passing.

DETECTIVE ARRESTED.

Charged With Assault on His Former Employe.

H. J. Carling, who runs a private detective agency in Duluth, was arrested this morning on a charge of assault preferred by Elwin Sutton, a former employe. Sutton claims that he was to receive $40 a month from Carling, but that the latter attempted to settle with him for $36, and that when he refused to take the money, Carling assaulted him. Carling, when arraigned in court, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge, and denied the allegations made by Sutton. His hearing was set for Wednesday.

ELECTIONS IN TWELVE STATES

Will be Held on Tuesday for Various State Officers.

New York, Nov. 4.—Voters in twelve states will cast their ballots on Tuesday in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, Mississippi and Kentucky for a governor and other state officers; in New Jersey for a governor only; in New York for two associate justices of the court of appeals; in Pennsylvania for a state treasurer, and in Nebraska for a railroad commissioner and two regents, of the state university. Municipal officers will be elected in Ohio, Utah and California, while in New York county, a number of judges and a sheriff will be elected.

Boston, Nov. 4.—While the campaign in Massachusetts for the annual elections has been carried on with far less spirit than for many years, it has been attended by a number of unusual features.

There are seven candidates for governor running on nine tickets and about the same number of aspirants for the other state offices. The candidates for governor are:

Curtis Guild, Jr., (Republican), who is seeking re-election; S. E. Whitney, (Democratic), who is also running on independent lines on Citizen and Democratic nomination papers; Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence league; Charles W. Bartlett, (anti-merger Democratic nomination); Harvey S. Crewell, (Prohibition); John A. Brown, Socialist, and Thomas F. Brennan, Socialist Labor.

The Democratic split at Springfield and the placing of two tickets in the field, headed by rival candidates, has somewhat altered the original conditions of the Democrats. The Republican confidence of success through the Democratic disruption did not begin the usual measure for getting out the early vote until two weeks ago.

FORT ASSINNIBOINE RELICS TO BE SOLD.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 4.—The personal property at Fort Assinniboine in Northern Montana, the famous old stronghold against Indian warfare, is to be sold at auction. The various articles, to each of which is connected a tale of strife and bloodshed, are attracting many curio collections from every part of the country.

Since the abandonment of the post by the government, the citizens of Havre have been endeavoring to secure the opening of the land to settlement, the buildings being kept intact for a training school.

are sewed by a special machine, the first in existence for this purpose, by which the seams are made stronger than is usual (which may some day save the loss of your pocket-knife or perhaps your "roll") but which also finishes a seam that is never noticeable from the outside. They are sewed three times parallel, and the edges overcast, all lying absolutely flat. The openings of the pockets are "barred" with heavy sewing to prevent tearing out.

You will never find any other trousers that contain all of the splendid features of which we show a new one in every advertisement.

TRIP WITH CRAZY MAN PROVED A CONCERT TOUR

Insane Alien Insisted on Singing in Public Places.

Never Failed to Draw a Crowd at Railroad Depots.

S. A. Paddock, who returned yesterday from Europe, where he was deputized by the United States immigration authorities to go as attendant in the case of an insane Austrian, Luka Devic, ordered deported through having become a public charge on St. Louis county, says the pleasure one gets from traveling across the Atlantic in company with a crazy man depends entirely upon the disposition of the man in question.

"My particular traveling companion," said the attendant this morning, "while somewhat disposed to be violent at times, fortunately enough looked at the world through optimistic eyes, and usually was in a good humor as a result. His confinement in the local county jail had tamed him down considerably, and when we started on the long trip to Austria he was in a submissive frame of mind, but the farther we got from Duluth the more active he became, and in anyone's presence, but my own, he seemed to rule the roost, and to cause more or less trouble. The fact that I started with him from Duluth seemed to have given him the idea that he had no business to raise a rough house while I was around. I was entirely satisfied with this arrangement.

Stoped at Bremen.

"Upon our arrival at Bremen, in Germany, I was informed by the United States consul there that he had instructions to allow no attendants to go farther than Bremen, and I bade good-bye to Luka, after many a laugh and a good many minutes worry over his actions during the thirteen days I was in his company. The show started shortly after United States Inspector Dean, the alien and myself started from Duluth, Sept. 30. Luka was very fond of smoking, and as the practice seemed to have a quieting effect upon him, I we kept the man pretty well supplied with smoking material, but he was not at all times entirely satisfied with the brand furnished, and never missed an opportunity to sponge a smoke from someone else.

"A passenger came into the smoking room, and as he passed us drew a cigarette from a newly-opened box, and upon a signal from the Austrian, passed the box over. Luka took it, quietly emptied its contents into his hand, stuck the cigarettes into his pocket, and handed back the empty box. Naturally the passenger was surprised, but soon caught on and took his seat with a sheepish smile. A few minutes later another man in the coach, Oscar Carlson, an electrician well known in labor circles in Duluth, was showing some beautiful agates he had picked up on the north shore of Lake Superior. One of them was a particularly pretty one, perfectly round and about the size of a marble. Before we had a chance to prevent he had passed this stone to Luka. Luka tasted it with his tongue, then placed it in his mouth and gulped it down with evident relish. I guess he suffered no ill effects. On the boat one day the sailor delegated to assist me with my charge wilde on the Atlantic, gave him a dish of prunes. The Austrian, before I knew what kind of sauce he had, had eaten more than half of it, swallowing pits and all. I rather imagine he had a sore throat afterwards.

Gave Concerts.

"As I said, he was disposed to look at the world through optimistic eyes, and when in his frequent joyful moods his chief joy was singing. The possessor of a lusty voice, he never failed to draw a crowd. This was first noticeable in the La Salle street station, Chicago. His concerts created quite a sensation there. During the intermissions his attention would be attracted by the marble walls, and he would lick them affectionately, rather to the surprise of the people about the place.

"Soon after leaving Chicago on the run to New York, one of these important news agents came through the car trying to dispose of cigars. As he was about to offer one to Luka, Inspector Dean interposed, and offered objections, but, though these objections were repeated in language easily to be understood, the agent seemed to be of the opinion that it was nobody's business but his own, and shoved the open box of 10-centers under Devic's nose. The Austrian took one, lit it and began to sing, paying no attention to the outstretched hand of the seller of cigars. Inspector Dean explained the situation, the agent confessed that it was a horse on him, and went away. I suppose it was the first cigar he had ever given away in his life.

"Incidents of this kind were continually happening to make the journey interesting. Luka continued to conduct his concerts on board the boat, which sailed for Bremhaven, two hours' ride from Bremen, Oct. 3. The room we had him in, faced the deck of the steerage, and all day long he succeeded in interesting an audience of considerable dimensions. There were 1,400 steerage passengers, so it wasn't much trouble drawing a crowd. Unfortunately, however, Luka roomed just across the hall from the captain, and this impatient individual's sleep was disturbed to such an extent to the wild notes of pleasure floating forth on the briny ocean air, that he mildly suggested that we give Luka a sleeping potion. This we did two or three nights, and the captain managed to get enough sleep to keep his boat from going on the rocks.

Sang in Depot.

"Luka's playful disposition still made itself manifest after our landing, and in the depot waiting room he gave a song recital that packed the big place to the doors. The overflow was accommodated on the platform, and was able to get an earful through the closed windows, for Luka's voice was very penetrating. It was about an hour before the train left, and when it pulled up to the platform it was hardly able to make a hole through the crowd. I expected every moment to be run in by some of the uniformed officials standing about. They were very important and officious looking in their uniforms, and I sized them up for police captains, at least. Afterwards I found out that they were baggage handlers about the depot. Almost everybody wears a uniform in Germany, and until you learn to distinguish, it is hard to tell the difference between the chief of police and the cab drivers.

"When the train finally did pull into the station I had to walk the full length of the platform, Luka singing at every step, and trotting along with head thrown back and knees curved, in imitation of a trotting horse. The crowd followed us, and for a time traffic was delayed. On entering the tiny coach, Luka paused long enough to throw his arms around the neck of a man already inside, and to kiss him on the cheek with a great display of affection. The passenger was not altogether pleased with the greeting.

"Arrived at Bremen, there was another congestion of traffic on the streets while a steamship company official and myself led the singing Luka up the streets to the office of the company. There I left him, and as soon as I was out of sight they offered him a cup of coffee. He spilled the coffee on the floor and threw the cup through a plate-glass door, smashing it to pieces. Then he started in to clean up the place, and when I saw him half an hour later four men were holding him down, and he was singing like a drunken lumberjack, only louder. I explained to the interpreter that they didn't know how to do it. Luka seemed glad to see me, and in view of this fact I thought it was a good opportunity to impress upon the minds of the Germans what a remarkable man I was.

"With some misgivings, which I must confess were shared by me, they let him free. He stood up, shook hands, smiled pleasantly and continued to sing. He had gotten so used to me that he was rather decently disposed when I was around, but of course the time for the sad parting came at last. Luka was apparently as glad to get rid of me as I was to say good-bye to him, for freedom to make use of his muscular powers pleased him mightily. A bloody nose, a few discolorations of the skin and two or three black eyes were the net result of the scrap he had with the Germans in the steamship company office. The company sent a man to his home town with Luka, and I understand both arrived there safe and sound."

BURIED UNDER SHOWER OF ROCKS

Workman Badly Injured in an Explosion of Dynamite.

Buried beneath a shower of rocks from an explosion of dynamite this morning, Peter Johnson, a workman, employed on the paving work on Cambridge street, Lakeside, was terribly lacerated, and is lying in the hospital in a critical condition.

There is considerable rock work on the Cambridge street contract, and dynamite is used to dislodge the stone. One of the charge exploded this morning before Johnson could get out of the way, and he was caught in the shower of rocks and boulders. He was very badly bruised and cut, and for a time it was feared that his injuries would prove fatal. His wounds were dressed at St. Mary's hospital, and it is now believed that he will recover.

RECEIVER ASKED

was entered into in relation to the formation of the California Calaveras Mining company by which it was agreed that the first directors should be appointed by Manson and should remain in office until the property had been transferred to the company, when they should retire in favor of the complainant and his friends; Manson, however, remaining president of the company.

It is claimed that from the very first Manson started to swindle the company. He caused it to issue three notes for $100,000 each, two of which were afterwards paid to himself, while he also had large blocks of stock placed in his name. He later claimed that the third note for $100,000 had been sold, and had the company make a trust deed in favor of E. W. Wilson of San Francisco. The complainant avers that the company is not in fact indebted on this note, while Manson has disappeared, leaving, however, a majority of the board of directors pledged to his interests.

Last June, Manson's directors ordered the mine closed down, and it is thought that he now intends to run it for his own benefit. A temporary injunction has been granted by Judge Van Fleet prohibiting Manson from voting his stock and enjoining him and the other stockholders and directors associated with him from assigning or attempting to collect the note, or allowing it to pass out of their possession.

The complainant also asks that the company shall have judgment against the offending parties, that Manson be ordered to return 150,000 shares of stock now in his possession, that the note be cancelled, and that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the property until the rights of all the parties are finally settled and adjusted. The large questions will be argued at the expiration of the temporary injunction already granted which will be early this month.

MARINE NEWS

DELAYED BY STORM.

Vessels Are Late in Arriving in Port.

Several steamers arrived in port this morning a day late, on account of having been delayed by a severe storm on the lower lakes. A wind from the northwest caused some of them to seek shelter in friendly harbors, while those that rode out the gale in the lake were delayed to such an extent that they were unable to get to Duluth before this morning, when they should have been in yesterday morning.

Among the delayed vessels were the Steel King, the Thomas Wilson, the Victory, the Constitution, the Packer and the Gilchrist. The upper end of Lake Superior has been very fortunate so far this fall in the matter of winds. All the heavy winds seem to come from the northwest, and this end of the lake is not affected. This is something unusual, for generally the fall of the year brings numerous gales from the northeast.

Ashore at Bar Point.

Amherstburg, Nov. 4.—The steamer C. F. Bielman, upbound with coal, ran on the east bank at Bar point, near the lighthouse this afternoon. The tug Brockway will go to her assistance as soon as she comes up. Tonight the water registers 19 feet and a few inches at the Lime Kilns crossing.

MILK TICKETS AS CURRENCY

Lyceum Box Office is Stung by Unknown Miscreant.

Milk tickets no longer pass as currency at the Lyceum box office.

In counting up the receipts at the box office yesterday afternoon, Treasurer Pierce found that some person had passed five milk tickets on him. He does not know yet how it was done, but the five milk tickets were there in lieu of five nickels.

Cashiers' checks make a good enough substitute for money, but Mr. Pierce thinks the use of milk tickets is carrying the joke too far.

THE PINE CAMPS FOR CONSUMPTIVES

The Pine Oil Also Furnishes a Most Wonderful Cure for Coughs and Colds.

The stately pine tree growing in the solitude of the Eastern mountains holds the proud distinction of yielding to the human race meritorious medicines for a greater variety of ills than any other plant of the vegetable world.

In these pine forests are located little colonies of campers of consumptives, who live almost entirely night and day in the open air breathing the ozone ladened and exhilerating pine atmosphere.

A renowned Philadelphia doctor famous for his pine forest cures has recently given to his fellow physicians a new and probably the most valuable of pine products. It is known to the profession as Concentrated oil of pine. In speaking of this oil a well known local physician declared it is without an equal for the speedy relief of acute colds and coughs and all manner of throat and lung trouble. The original formula used and now generally prescribed is as follows:

"One-half ounce of Concentrated oil of pine; two ounces of glycerine; half pint of good pure whisky; mix thoroughly and use in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours, shaking the bottle each time."

On inquiring at one of the leading drug stores it was found that the Concentrated oil of pine is put up only in one way and that is in half-ounce bottles each enclosed in a round birchwood case, which protects it from heat and light. The oils sold in bulk and patent medicine imitations sold as oil of pine are useless, on account of their impurities they produce nausea and kidney trouble.

ON THE IRON RANGES

TWO SUSPECTS ARE RELEASED

Coleraine Explosion Mystery Proves to be Quite Baffling.

Coleraine, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Attorney Thwing of Itasca county, the sheriff and deputies and the detectives of the Steel corporation appear to be baffled in their endeavor to run to cover the villains who blew up the miners' cabin at the Canisteo mine here early Saturday, resulting in the instant death of three Italians, August and Mike Palubello and Joe Dellegreen, and the injury of four companions. The bloodhounds that were brought from Superior by Sergt. Osborne of that city failed to furnish any clue after repeated trials. The brutes took the scent and followed it quite a distance until they were puzzled and proved unequal to the task. Two suspects arrested Saturday have been released, as the county attorney is not of the opinion that there is anything to connect them with the crime. The steel officials as well as the authorities incline to the belief that the explosion was not the result of an accident, but was a part of a deep-laid plot to put the seven men sleeping in the cabin out of the way. Although there are no tangible clues at hand, efforts to bring the guilty parties to justice will not be dropped. Rewards sufficiently large to attract skillful detectives are to be offered and the atrocious crime probed to the bottom.

FRIEND'S SHOT KILLS INGALLS

Popular Bovey Man Accidentally Slain by John Specht.

Bovey, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. M. Ingalls, chief clerk for the Bovey Hardware company, owned by Mayor Provinsky, and a highly respected young man, was accidentally shot and almost instantly killed while hunting with John Specht and Peter Olson near Trout lake, about one mile from town, Sunday morning. Specht took a shot at a weasel which was running near the party. The bullet from his rifle struck a rock and, deflecting considerably out of its course, hit Ingalls, who was about fifty feet away, in the mouth, going through his head and inflicting a mortal wound, from which he died in fifteen minutes. The unfortunate man was never able to speak after the bullet struck him. Olson and Specht brought the body to town, and later in the day Deputy Coroner Peterson held an inquest, the result of which was that the killing was accidental, and exonerated Specht. The latter is heartbroken over the tragic death of his friend. There were few more popular young men in Bovey than "Al" Ingalls, as his legion of friends called him. He was about 32 and came here nine months ago from Gladstone, Mich. He is survived by his wife and a 6-year-old son, and his parents, who live with a brother, E. M. Ingalls, manager of the Coleraine Hardware company. The deceased was secretary of the Royal League. The body will be taken to Grand Rapids, where the funeral will be conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

Will be Held at Virginia Nov. 11---Other Virginia Events.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Messrs. A. W. Hubbard and H. S. Gillespie, as a committee of local undertakers, have issued invitations to the undertakers of Northern Minnesota to attend a meeting to be held here on Monday, Nov. 11, for the purpose of witnessing a practical demonstration by Prof. C. E. Johnson of Philadelphia, and for the purpose of forming the Northern Minnesota Undertakers' association.

The Virginia Light & Water company announces that it will begin its day current service on Nov. 15. The steam pipe connecting their power plant with the mill of the Virginia Lumber company has been laid. A number of users of small power will put in electric motors at once, while the new machine shop recently built by George H. St. Clair, the diamond drill contractor, will be operated entirely by electric power.

Mrs. J. H. Crowe departed this morning for a visit with friends and relatives in Indiana.

R. L. Griggs has returned from the home of his father in Athens, Pa., and will spend the winter in the office of the Virginia Light & Water company.

INDEPENDENTS VERY HOPEFUL

Two to One on Electing Their Mayor in Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city election occurs tomorrow and it is generally estimated by men in a position to know the feeling of the public pulse that Andrew Hawkinson, the independent candidate for mayor, will be elected by from 200 to 300 majority. Some of the supporters of Mayor Eaton have indicated as much and one man of sporting proclivities has offered bets of 2 to 1 on Hawkinson with no takers.

Reports are current to the effect that attempts will be made to vote many of the idle lumberjacks now in town by having them swear in their votes, but this matter will be closely watched and the possibility of spending long terms in jail will probably prevent very much false swearing.

The local newspaper exponent of the Eaton forces attempted to stay the tide that has set in against the ticket by appealing to Republicans to uphold the party organization, but this will hardly have much effect because of the fact that the slate was prepared in Mayor Eaton's private office by himself and a few of his closest political associates and Republicans of the city generally had nothing to say in naming the ticket, while practically all the members of the independent ticket are Republicans.

HIBBING WINS GAME.

Defeats Coleraine at Football Sunday by Score of 10 to 6.

Coleraine, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coleraine Athletic park was the scene of a lively football contest Sunday between the local team and the Hibbingites. The Coleraine team was defeated at Hibbing this season by the close score of 2 to 0. Hibbing suggests a team in keeping with the dignity of the metropolis of the string of Iron Range towns. Coleraine, the lusty infant, attempts to do well whatever it undertakes. Hence the big crowds and the keen contest on the local gridiron this afternoon. Sunday's game was won by Hibbing by a score of 10 to 6.

MANY LUMBERJACKS COMING TO DULUTH.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday evening, between 800 and 1,000 men employed in the woods by the Virginia Lumber company came down to the city on the afternoon train, having been discharged. Each was the bearer of a time check, and all day yesterday the majority put in their time Sunday having a high old time, as so defined by the average lumberjack.

The usual discount on time checks is from one-half to one per cent, but yesterday many of the men discounted their checks from 25 to 50 per cent in order to get hold of the money quickly.

The Northern Lumber company, which operates in the woods quite extensively near the city, also discharged most of its men last week. Supt. Gilmour said that the company had intended to log 50,000,000 feet this winter, but now the cut will be only about 3,000,000 feet.

The force of millwrights that has been engaged all summer has been retained to finish up the work around the new mill, while preparations are being made to get the hot pond in readiness during the shut down, which indicates that the company at least hopes to resume operations soon.

EVELETH IN BRIEF.

The presentation was made in behalf of the class by Lenora Pihlstrom and Gene Ruthaford, they were assisted by Miss White.

Miss Hazel Wilson of Stockton, Ill., who has not seen her brother, J. D., for fifteen years, is visiting him at present.

Uncle Dave Spence is expected from his first vacation in Detroit and Ontonagon, Mich.

CANDIDATES WORKING HARD

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow's election is on everyone's mind today. Who will be the next mayor or next municipal judge concerns every voter. Business interests are taking an active hand in the campaign.

The candidates have been talking themselves hoarse, presenting their side and persuading the voter that they are entitled to the vote. Very little money is being spent over the saloon bars, as all the candidates realize that it is to their best interest to conduct the campaign in an open and orderly manner.

Work is being done among the foreign element by all the candidates. No one is allowing his workers to get caught napping. Cards and posters are visible in stores and offices, usually placed so that the candidate's card draws the attention instantly.

The most hotly contested race is for the office of alderman-at-large, for in the respective wards the contests seem to be cut and dried. The supporters of Candidates Peterson and Sax, feel that the election will come their way, unless there is a landslide.

A dark horse has gradually been developing for the mayoralty. His friends expect that he will appreciably cut into the votes that Mulligan and Maxwell are to poll for mayor.

FOR SHOOTING HRAN,

Mike Imri and Arvid Sziler are Held to District Court.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the result of the preliminary hearing of Mike Imri and Arvid Sziler charged with shooting Andrew Hran at Brooklyn, Oct. 27, have been held to the district court. They were also found guilty of violating the state game law and fined $50 and confined in the county jail sixty days. Some very damaging evidence against the accused was introduced at the hearing and the judge considered it sufficiently strong to hold the men. The hearing having shown they had violated the game law in killing a deer out of season; they were accordingly fined and sentenced for the lesser crime.

WORKING ON SUNDAYS.

Dockmen Kept Busy to Rush Along Ore Shipments.

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work was continued on the ore docks Sunday and Sunday night to get the ore in and keep the boats moving. Owing to the nearness to the end of the season it is probable that the force will work Sundays from now until the close.

SMALL SUNDAY FIRE.

Slight Damage to Residence of Citizen of Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire starting about 2 p. m. yesterday was the cause of about $200 damage to the residence of W. H. Bodfish on Fifth avenue. The fire was extinguished quickly by the fire department. The damage being mostly by the water.

PARTLY IN CASH.

Men Working on Range Will Not Get All Money in Checks.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A solution to the problem of paying $1,000,000 between Nov. 15 and 20 has been arrived at, according to local bank officials. The company will pay the men in cashier's checks to percentage of the wage and the remainder in cash.

To adequately supply the range with currency and silver would easily require $1,000,000, as in the Eveleth vicinity the pay roll is estimated at $250,000 monthly. In the Virginia, Hibbing and Coleraine districts a similar amount is easily distributed, so that the cool million estimate, at first surprising, becomes possible on second thought.

Business men feel relieved to hear that the company is going more than half way in its attempt to prevent financial troubles on the Mesaba range. Officials in charge here realize the hardship that would result should the company persist in paying the men in checks, when the banks are not in a position to cash the checks with specie.

EVELETH'S UNION DEPOT.

Proposed Improvement is Assured, Bids Having Been Invited.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The long-expected union depot is beginning to take shape. Plans and specifications have been ready for some time, but it is only within the last few days has it been learned, that bids for construction have been called for. Specifications for plumbing have been placed with a local plumbing concern.

It is reported that the plans call for a fine brick building about 100 feet long. All the passenger traffic of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range will come in, and it is expected that if the present plans for through service between Duluth and Winnipeg are carried through, connections will be made through the local union depot.

Along the same trend comes the report that the Iron Range tracks at Sparta and Gilbert will be moved southward, and that the Virginia passenger traffic will be diverted toward Eveleth.

The additional train problem may also be solved by the possible agreement between the Rainy Lake road and the Steel corporation, by the former using the latter's tracks from Virginia to Duluth.

It is generally understood that a gang of men will arrive soon to start work on the site. They will board at Joseph Thibaut's place.

Several tracks have been run in from the Iron Range tracks below Sparta so that the big crew of men can commence grading up the new Sparta townsite south of the Gilbert mine.

RECORD ORE SHIPMENTS.

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ore shipments for October were 1,283,000 tons, a new record for October month through this port.

M. J. FORBES IS NO MORE

Prominent Member of Board of Trade Passes Away.

Had Been Active in Business Affairs for Years.

Melvin J. Forbes of 530 East Second street, died shortly after 6 o'clock Sunday morning. Death was due to heart trouble, from which Mr. Forbes had been a sufferer for several months. He was 59 years old.

The death of Mr. Forbes removes one of the most highly respected and prominent members of the Duluth board of trade. For a period of thirty-three years he has been prominently identified with the business interests of Duluth, and during the last few years was president of the Consolidated Elevator company. Ill health forced him to resign from this position Aug. 1 of this year.

Mr. Forbes was born in Bridgewater, Mass., Dec. 31, 1848 and came to Duluth when a young man, engaging in the book and stationery business here in 1870. He followed this business until 1874, when he became identified with the grain commission business. He continued in the commission business until 1894 when he became president and general manager of the Consolidated Elevator company.

He was married in 1885 to Miss Ida M. Raymond of Grand Rapids. His wife survives him. The funeral will be held from the residence Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the remains will be shipped to Bridgewater for interment.

It has been requested that no flowers be sent to the house.

Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., the Democratic candidate, will carry the state by about 7,500, while State Chairman Murphy of the Republican party feels sure that J. Franklin Fort will be elected by a majority of about 21,000.

Notwithstanding the efforts of party managers to eliminate the liquor questions, it has loomed up strong in many sections.

ELECTION IN FRISCO.

A Bitter Fight is on for Mayor and District Attorney.

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—The three-cornered municipal campaign in San Francisco will close tonight in a whirlwind finish of what has been a bitter fight for the mayoralty and the office of district attorney. A series of noon-day meetings, held in different sections of the city by all the principal candidates today, will be followed with final rallies tonight.

Mayor Taylor, supported by the Good Government league, Daniel A. Ryan, the Republican candidate, and P. H. McCarthy, the choice of union labor for mayor, all express themselves as being confident of election. Mayor Taylor still remains a 2 to 1 favorite in betting circles. A strong fight is being made to defeat District Attorney William H. Langdon, who has made possible the prosecution of bribery graft cases.

LIQUOR QUESTION

Will be the Only Topic at Tuesday's Election in Delaware.

Dover, Del., Nov. 4.—Delaware tomorrow will vote on the liquor question. The campaign just closed has been one of the most interesting in the history of the state and has been devoid of party politics. The legislature of last winter passed a bill conferring upon the voters the privilege of determining whether liquor should be sold or manufactured in the districts of the state. There are four districts, Kent county, Sussex county, rural Newcastle county and the city of Wilmington. There are only three counties in the state and Wilmington is in Newcastle county. If a majority of the voters in any one district decide that there shall be no license then the saloons in that district must go out of business. The state will vote on the liquor question only, there being no municipal, county or state tickets in the way. In the fight throughout the state the temperance workers have had the advantage of Republican and Democratic leaders alike, party lines absolutely being eliminated.

Both sides claim they will win. The temperance advocates say they will carry everything, except the city of Wilmington, which they declare to be in doubt. The opposition are claiming that the vote will be "wet" with the exception of rural Newcastle county which they believe to be doubtful.

Baltimore, Nov. 4.—Political workers are today receiving their final instructions, and the concluding minor preparations are being made in the city and state for tomorrow's election.

Chairman Standiver of the Democratic state committee claims the election of Judge Crothers for governor by at least 12,000 majority, and of the rest of the Democratic state ticket and a majority of the members of the legislature. Chairman Parran of the Republican state committee is equally assertive in his claims that the Republicans will elect Gaither for governor by from 8,000 to 13,000 majority.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—There is little interest in the election of a state treasurer, the only state office to be filled. The Republicans say John O. Sheatz will win by more than 100,000 plurality, while the Democratic managers say they believe John G. Harman, their candidate, will be elected.

The Independent Republicans in Philadelphia are making some show of fight against the $10,000,000 city loan proposition, but it is practically certain the vote of the city will be in favor of the loan.

A FEELING OF RELIEF

States has drawn daily from the bank substantial sums, already aggregating $5,000,000. Egypt has also recommended withdrawing gold.

Financial circles here now incline to the belief that the 6 per cent rate will suffice, and that no further advance will be necessary, particularly if the Bank of France renders its promised aid. All depends, however, on the absence of demands of alarming proportions from America.

The rise in the Bank of England's rate of discount, coupled with the unsatisfactory position in New York as revealed by the New York bank statement caused a depression all around on the stock exchange today. Consols dropped ¾, and Americans were offered in many cases at a point below parity without finding buyers.

The position here, however, is regarded as being sound, and the declines registered today were more in the nature of sentimental marking down of quotations than actual selling. The market, in short, regards the advance of the bank rate as being a purely protective measure against America's gold demand and to prevent the New York city 6 per cent bonds from being placed here.

OVER $30,000,000

In Foreign Gold Has Already Been Engaged by United States.

New York, Nov. 4.—Engagements of foreign gold for the United States already have reached about the $30,000,000 mark. The Seaboard National bank announced today that it had procured $350,000 of the metal.

Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co., also announced today the engagement of $1,000,000 in gold, and Lazard Freres engaged an additional $1,250,000 for import. This makes the total engagement for the movement $32,250,000.

London, Nov. 4.—America purchased today the whole of the gold in the open market, about $400,000. The price paid for the gold was 78s ½d, plus the commission.

THE COUNCIL'S DUTY.

The city council will tonight take up for decisive action the petition for the extension of Railroad street from Fifteenth avenue west to a junction with Garfield avenue.

Without this extension Railroad street ends "in the air," and is of questionable value. With the extension, Railroad street would be made a practicable thoroughfare giving a new outlet from the wholesale district to Superior, the West end and West Duluth.

As The Herald has stated before, it would be hard to find a place in the city where so slight an effort can be made to produce such desirable results. It would give the wholesale district a more direct and an easier road westward, besides affording a new connection with the western part of the city to be used for hauling purposes generally if anything should happen to block the present thoroughfare. It would turn Railroad street from a stub with only one end into a useful and much-needed thoroughfare.

The cost will not be great, and compared with the good that will result it will be very small indeed.

It appears to be the duty of the council, under all the circumstances, to provide this improvement at as early a date as it conveniently can.

THE OFF-YEAR ELECTIONS.

Elections are to be held tomorrow in nine states. Governors are to be elected in Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Kentucky and Mississippi, and minor state officers in Pennsylvania, Nebraska and New York.

These campaigns have attracted little interest outside of the states concerned, a municipal election, strangely enough, having absorbed most of the feeble public interest in the states that hold their elections in the even-numbered years.

In Cleveland Theodore Burton, a ripe, scholarly and absolutely unblemished statesman of power and worth, has been led to attack the position of Tom L. Johnson, the wealthy, broad-thinking and effective mayor of that city. The contest there is heated and bitter. The registration is the largest in years, and the vote will be heavy. The fight is by no means one-sided, but the odds are with Johnson, and they ought to be. It was no true friend of Burton's who induced him to abandon temporarily his career of usefulness in congress to seek the mayoralty of Cleveland. His has been an up-hill fight. His party in that city has acquired the odor of corporation taint, and while nobody believes that Burton would turn the city over to the public service corporations, he has been handicapped by their support, and in view of what Johnson has done to these institutions that alone is enough to defeat him. The impression throughout the country is that Johnson is a splendid man for mayor of Cleveland, that Burton is a splendid man for chairman of the rivers and harbors committee of congress, and that therefore the proper thing is to keep both of them where they are. The probabilities are that that will be the result.

The contest in Maryland is heated, too. The issue is the election laws passed by the Democratic legislature, and the result is in doubt. The New Jersey campaign is on purely state issues, and both parties are claiming the governorship. In Rhode Island the Republicans are predicting the defeat of the present Democratic governor, James H. Higgins, while the Democrats are with equal confidence declaring that he will be re-elected. In Massachusetts, owing to the split in the Democratic party with two Democratic candidates for governor in the field, Governor Curtis Guild, Republican, ought to be re-elected. The Mississippi campaign is simply to carry out the direction of the Democratic party at its primary election, and the Republicans are modestly refraining from offering any claims. The Kentucky campaign is one of the most interesting in the field. The Republicans are making strong claims, but they are hardly likely to elect their candidate for governor.

It will be interesting to note whether the recent financial disturbance has any effect upon the party vote. Ordinarily it would be reflected in a strong increase in the vote of the party opposed to the administration, but all rules fail in a Roosevelt administration, and it may be different this time.

THE PARCELS POST.

In his recent talk to the postmasters of New England at Boston Postmaster General Meyer pretty effectually disposed of the country merchants' opposition to his parcels post plan, by showing that it does not threaten them in the least, but instead offers them a chance to increase their business by giving them a handicap over the mail order houses.

Under his plan, while there will be a reduction in the present parcels post rates and an increase in the maximum weight of parcels carried, the real reduction will be made only on parcels carried from rural route distributing offices to the rural route patrons. Thus in Duluth the plan would only be effective on the several rural routes running out of the city, and Duluth merchants could send goods to the patrons of these routes much cheaper than a Chicago mail order house could. This will stop at once the plea of the country merchants that the parcels post is going to ruin their business and build up the mail order business. It does not even harm the express companies, because they do not do business on rural routes.

The present parcels post rate in this country is 16 cents a pound, and the limit of weight is four pounds. Mr. Meyer proposes to reduce the general rate to 12 cents, and to raise the maximum to eleven pounds. This will be a substantial benefit, and will afford some relief from express companies' extortions.

On rural routes the rate will be 5 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for each additional pound up to eleven pounds, or 25 cents for an 11-pound package. This will be an extension of the service that will be vastly appreciated by country merchants and their farmer patrons.

The general public gets something out of it, in the reduction of the parcels rate from 16 to 12 cents, and the increase in the maximum weight of parcels from four to eleven pounds, and these will help. Postmaster General Meyer is also considering the recommendation of a local parcels post delivery at city free delivery offices, but as that involves the use of wagons and automobiles for carrying the parcels, congress would have to appropriate money for it, so the prospect of this service is not immediately promising.

If the rural delivery parcels post goes, however, it is but an entering wedge. The country will not be satisfied until it has a complete parcels post service, at reasonable rates. In order to succeed in a country so great as this the rates would have to be based on distance, of course, but that can be easily arranged. Under the proposed general reduction, the postoffice would get the business for long distances only, while for short distances the express companies could probably underbid the postoffice. Under a distance parcels post rate, the postoffice would come directly into competition with the express companies all along the line, and the people would benefit.

NO NEED OF THIS.

Judging from an item in The Herald Saturday evening, there are some people in the city who need further light upon the measures that have been taken by the local banks to safeguard the local financial situation.

It was stated that certain merchants were charging large commissions for turning cashiers' checks into real money. In one case 75 cents was asked for cashing a $10 certificate and in another case a more just charge of 50 cents was asked for cashing a $20 certificate. There were hints, however, that even higher charges than these were being made where it semed likely that the traffic would bear them.

It should be impressed upon the minds of all, however, that it isn't necessary to spend a single cent to cash these checks. They are good for their full face value in any store in town. They are issued in denominations as low as $1 each, and for all practical purposes these are just as good as dollar bills.

Checks, too, need not be discounted. If cash cannot be obtained for them, they can be easily turned into cashiers' checks, which are just as good as cash everywhere. Besides, there is a good deal more cash circulating than most people imagine.

Don't let anybody make dishonest profits out of your cashiers' checks. There is no need of letting anybody make a cent out of them. Use them as money, and you can buy just as much as you can with gold.

A NEW FEDERAL GOVERNMENT?

The governors of Georgia, Alabama and North Carolina do not appear to recognize it, but they are offering in their views and conduct the very strongest possible argument in favor of federal regulation of railroad rates and against state attempts at such regulation. Yet every governor of the lot is a strong state's rights man, and firmly believes that the states ought to regulate and that the government ought to let them alone in that work.

These governors have now got together and determined to have their states join hands with other states in the regulation of interstate traffic. They are going to start with passenger rates, and to try to substitute a general 2½-cent rate in the South instead of the 3-cent interstate rate and the 2 and 2¼-cent intrastate rates now in force. They are not only going to act together, but they are going to ask other states to join with them in this work.

"We regard," they say, "the complete recognition of the right of the states to regulate the interstate business of transportation as absolutely necessary."

These governors are strangely thick-headed if they cannot see in this a practical confession that state regulation cannot succeed, and that the only effective measure is federal regulation.

If individual state regulation, without co-operation, is sufficient, why should they need to join hands? If co-operation is admitted to be necessary, why form a new coalition of states for a single purpose when there already exists in the federal government a serviceable and effective coalition which proved its worth and strength?

Denying the right of the national government to regulate rates, while admitting that the states alone cannot do the work without effective co-operation, they are seeking to substitute for the national government a new coalition of states to carry on the work of railroad regulation.

The only theory on which such a coalition could be excused is that the national government is a failure. If that is true, the experiment begun in 1789 and tested in 1861 should be abandoned. If the states so distrust the nation that they form a new coalition to regulate railroad rates, why not have this coalition regulate the trusts, too? Why not have it revise the tariff? Why not have it pass all federal laws? Why not, indeed, have it march upon Washington and take the control of the nation away from the present federal government? For what it seeks is federal control in a new form.

No, this scheme will not do. It serves no useful purpose. It admits the inability of the states, standing upon an obsolete state's rights doctrine, to cope with problems that are essentially national in their character, and not state or sectional.

If these governors had wished to make a case for federal control against state control, they could not have gone about it in any more effective way.

A VITAL SUBJECT.

A speaker at the National Purity congress last week complained because the National Educational association has refused to establish a committee to investigate the proposal to inaugurate the teaching of sexual physiology in the public schools.

It would have done no harm to form such a committee, even if it should determine that the plan is impracticable in the public schools. The criticism is just, therefore, and the National Educational association might at least give the matter polite consideration.

The reign of an absurd false modesty is substituting in this country the perverted teachings of the street and of immoral associates for the proper instruction on this most important subject that every child ought to have. It is the duty of parents to provide it, and the parent who lets his child learn of these things from chance acquaintances is exposing that child to deadly danger.

Whether it is done by the public schools or by the parents it is vitally necessary that such instruction should be given every child at the earliest possible moment, in order to safeguard the children from the vicious and degrading instruction that they are certain to gain from the street.

Bryan takes an optimistic view of the financial situation. So do all the rest of us.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

It isn't always pleasant to be awakened at an unearthly hour in the morning. This is especially true of Sunday morning. It is generally a time for resting of the weary—for the balancing of the debit and credit column that has accrued through a week of varying hours of slumber.

Cornelius Womack, who is stopping at the Lenox, generally arises at the thoroughly respectable hour of 6:30 a. m. On Sunday mornings, however, he treats himself to a drousy lingering in the fleece. Yesterday morning he was suddenly awakened from a sound and sweet slumber. Not a sign of approaching day could be discerned through the partly-opened windows. It was the gnastly hour of 5 a. m. Suddenly the cause of his disturbance became apparent. From an adjoining room came the echoes of that pathetic little song "Call Me Early, Mother, Dear."

It was sung in a wavering, uncertain rasping tenor. The singer would have shown commendable nerve in singig at any hour with that kind of a voice. The singer evidently was going to mass, and between the injecting of studs into a refractory shirt bosom, continued to warble "Call Me Early." The call that he received, through the wall that separated the irate Womack from him, was registered early, but evidently not the call that was intended in the song. Later he received another call from the clerk, who had been coached by Womack, so that although his little early morning request was complied with.

Even yet in this city one can discover persons who are inclined to chaff under the restrictions that have been taken by the local banks to safeguard the local financial situation.

It was stated that certain merchants were charging large commissions for turning cashiers' checks into real money. In one case 75 cents was asked for cashing a $10 certificate and in another case a more just charge of 50 cents was asked for cashing a $20 certificate. There were hints, however, that even higher charges than these were being made where it semed likely that the traffic would bear them.

It should be impressed upon the minds of all, however, that it isn't necessary to spend a single cent to cash these checks. They are good for their full face value in any store in town. They are issued in denominations as low as $1 each, and for all practical purposes these are just as good as dollar bills.

Checks, too, need not be discounted. If cash cannot be obtained for them, they can be easily turned into cashiers' checks, which are just as good as cash everywhere. Besides, there is a good deal more cash circulating than most people imagine.

Don't let anybody make dishonest profits out of your cashiers' checks. There is no need of letting anybody make a cent out of them. Use them as money, and you can buy just as much as you can with gold.

A newsboy was standing at the entrance of the St. Louis hotel Saturday evening. He had done a lucrative business during the earlier hours of the afternoon, and was jingling a rather well-filled pocket of change, when he hailed a traveling man who was entering the hotel.

"Buy a paper, will you, mister?" asked the boy.

"Can't do it, my son," responded the knight of the grip; "haven't any money."

"That's all right," came the ready reply of the urchin; "give me one of those checks, and if it's all right I will give you the change."

The traveling man started, looked at the boy in a dazed fashion, and then burst into a hearty laugh. What made the sutuation ludicrous was that the boy really had the money to keep his word, and the man was in fact "broke" as far as ready cash went.

Happiness.

Life: Happiness is an inexpensive and therefore a very common form of enjoyment.

Happiness and pleasure must not be confused. Happiness is a sort of felicitous opiate administered by a charitable Providence to those who cannot afford anything better. Often a person so poor that he has nothing left but health and a moderate income will be foolishly, extravagantly, riotously happy. Then why begrudge the rich their pleasure, which would appear to be the only fun that is left for them? Is it not a fair and impartial division?

How ungrateful for any one to suggest that pleasure, being always preferred, often carries a bonus of common, which is happiness, by reason of which the rich get more than their share! Such people are not entitled to be poor. They should be deprived of their hope. They should be very rich.

THE WEATHER.

Another splendid day. The clouds that covered the sky this morning faded away with the coming of the sun, and it was cool and fresh and bracing and comfortable. The weather man expects fair weather, without much change in temperature, tonight and tomorrow. Last night's lowest temperature was 30 degs. and yesterday's highest was 36 degs.

A year ago today it was partly cloudy, but comfortably warm and dry.

The sun rose this morning at 6:56 and set tonight at 4:48, making 9 hours and 55 minutes of daylight, just six hours shorter than the longest day of the year.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Low pressure areas overlie Saskatchewan, Lake Superior and New England coast states. These disturbances caused light rains during Sunday or last night over portions of the lake region and Upper Mississippi valley, and milder weather in Alberta and British Columbia. The barometer is high in southeastern states and the plateau region, attended by mostly clear weather in those districts. The western high pressure also caused freezing temperatures last night throughout most of the Northwest. Conditions favor generally fair weather in this locality tonight and Tuesday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A woman wants you to call her endearing names even in a squabble.

The useful thing about flattering a woman is then she'll believe you about something else, too.

Half the questions a woman asks you are only to make you feel proud to be able to answer them.

You generally can't tell whether a woman is nice to you because she doesn't like you or mean to you because she does.

What a woman likes about her daughter going to boarding school is all the things she learns that will never be of any use to her.

Stands for Stable Prices.

Aitkin Republican: The Eveleth Star, in a big article with a three column head, declares that the Steel corporation is getting onto the fact that Duluthians are secretly throwing the "boots" into the big company, and that because of this the corporation will no longer stand in the way of county division. The Star puts up some plausible statements to substantiate this story, but it seems hardly credible that any influential citizens of Duluth would seek to embarrass a concern that has contributed so much to the prosperity of the Zenith City as has the Steel corporation. Corporations are in bad odor with the public just now, and the very name is repugnant to the average newspaper reader, but so impartial a magazine as the Saturday Evening Post says the Steel corporation stands for stable prices and not for wildcat speculation, and our observation and the belief that this corporation pays the highest going wages, houses its employes in respectable dwellings and is willing without quibbling to pay its fair share of taxes for the support of the public burdens. The Steel corporation is largely responsible for the prosperity of Duluth and its citizens, individually, and any Duluth man who would seek to do it other than justice is evincing a woeful lack of sagacity.

Oratorical.

Kansas City Times: Here is the way Congressman Champ Clark of Missouri talked about Democratic Oklahoma to her blushing face: "The Garden of the Gods! A marvel of human industry, a colossal and enduring monument to the American love of home. A model, progressive commonwealth, the last to be carved from the magnificent empire which Jefferson bought from Napoleon for a song—an empire greater in possibilities than that over which the Mad Macedonian waved his ever-advancing banner, or over which the Roman eagles flew when the Seven Hilled City was mistress of the world."

What Difference?

Lippincott's Magazine: "Beg pardon, sir," began the beggar, stopping a suburbanite at the ferry. "Can you spare a few cents to help me across the river?"

"Haven't you any money at all?" inquired the pedestrian.

"Not a cent," replied the beggar.

"Umph," grunted the pedestrian. "What difference does it make which side of the river you're on?"

Getting Fast.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Within a decade we may have a choice between the day line and the night line between New York and Liverpool.

Howard Pew has gone to Chicago to accept the position of business manager of one of the David Blakely's musical attractions—probably Gilmore's band.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Princeton Union: To be consistent the Republican newspapers that are urging Governor Johnson as a suitable candidate for the presidency must support him for a third term as governor, provided he is a candidate. If Mr. Johnson is the right man for president he certainly is good enough for a third term as governor of Minnesota. In the improbable event of the governor securing the Democratic nomination for president he ought to have the electoral vote of Minnesota.

Mankato Free Press: An exchange wants to know "why don't some one start a boom for A. L. Cole for governor for the reason that he was so badly treated last election at the hands of the Republicans and that the party owes him a vindication?" Mr. Cole has as much license to ask for a vindication as others have.

Anoka Free Press: The Waseca Herald contends that "the men back of the curtain who oppose Bryan, while pretending to do so for the good of the party, care nothing for any party." Isn't this rather more true of the Bryan boomers than of the others? Isn't it a fact that those who still support Mr. Bryan, after twelve years of continuous candidacy and repeated defeats, do so because of their infatuation for Mr. Bryan rather than for the good of any party?

Buffalo Journal: Senator McCumber of North Dakota has the right idea. He will introduce a bill requiring all corporations doing an interstate business to be licensed by the government, and to be under supervision by the department of commerce.

Le Sueur News: The present postmaster general favors a parcels post and is on record good and strong for it. The war is on, as is plainly evident from a perusal of the columns of our exchanges, and if we were to make a prediction it would be that the parcels post will not come at this time. The express companies are at work. A campaign of education, so called, is on. The catalogue house is held up as a monster ready to completely crush the country merchant when the parcels post is adopted. Congressmen will be afraid to raise a voice in favor of the proposition and step forward. No, the express monopoly will exist for a time yet.

Fergus Falls Free Press: The modesty of prominent Minnesota Republicans in getting into the limelight as candidates for governor next year still continues to absorb attention. What!—Elk River Star-News.

The shadow of John A. Johnson lies across the path to the state capitol and is a mighty incentive to modesty in Minnesota Republicans. Nominate John A. for president and the "sweet-sixteen" coyness of certain eminent Republicans will promptly vanish.

Sleepy Eye Dispatch: The American Society of Equity is preparing to take an active part in politics. The society can accomplish something for its members and for the country if its efforts in the political field are not directed by men who are seeking preferment for themselves. The selfish ambition of its leaders has been the undoing of more than one organization, and the Society of Equity will doubtless profit by their experiences.

Austin Transcript: Nine boys and one girl were received at the state training school at Red Wing Wednesday. Eight of the boys were from the Twin Cities and one from Duluth and the girl was from Duluth. Draw your own conclusions.

A Beautiful Toast to Women.

Mankato Journal: From a friend in Washington city there comes this beautiful toast to women. It was originally given by a man who had been a hard drinker, but had been turned from the wine cup and become one of the leading lights of the legal profession. The occasion was a banquet in Philadelphia, on April 17, 1881. The toast is as follows:

"I should like to propose a toast tonight, although a total abstinence man myself—a toast to women. To be drunk, not in liquor of any kind, for we should never pledge a woman in that which may bring her husband reeling home to abuse where he should love and cherish, sends her sons to drunkards' graves and her daughters to a life of shame. Oh no, not in that, but rather in the life giving water, pure as her chastity, clear as her intuitions, bright has her soul, sparkling as the laughter in her eyes, cheering as her consolation, strong and sustaining as her love—in the crystal water I would drink to her that she would remain queen regent to the empire she has already won, grounded deep as the universe in love; built up and exercised in the homes and hearts of the world. I would drink to her, the full bloom flower of creation's morning, of which man has but the bud and the blossom; to her who in childhood clasps little hands and teaches us to lisp the first sweet prayer to the Great All-Father, who comes to us in youth with good counsel and advice, who in manhood meets our heart yearnings with the faithfulness of conjugal love, and whose hand, when our feet go down in the shadow, gently smoothes the rough pillow of death as none other can; to her who is the flower of flowers, the pearl of pearls, God's latest, best and bravest and brightest gift to man—woman, peerless, pure, sweet, royal woman."

A Psychological Panic.

New York Evening Post: We agree entirely with the judgment which ascribes the excesses of last week's sudden panic to psychological rather than purely financial causes. It was, in its way, a logical counterpart to the public's mad rush into speculation, on a wholly unprecedented scale, during the last half of April, 1901. Precisely as that extraordinary craze was ended at the moment when it seemed that nothing at all could stop it, by a sudden return to public sanity, so, we believe, the present crisis will end. To Saturday's prediction of our London financial correspondent, that restoration of common sense to the public, and proper reform in the trust company law, may make the present moment the foundation of truer prosperity than the country has ever hitherto enjoyed, we heartily subscribe.

SMILING REMARKS.

Baltimore American: The hen party was sitting in judgment on the new poet.

"What do you think of this fellow's lay?" asked one old hen critic of another.

"Merely a hatched-out plot by the publishers," answered another.

"Rotten!" cried a third.

Washington Star: "What the public needs," said Mr. Dustin Stax, "is confidence."

"Yes," answered Farmer Corntossel; "but the trouble is that whenever you say confidence, so many of us associate it with 'gold brick' and 'bunco.'"

Philadelphia Press: "Yes," said Mrs. Nuritch, "my son means to be an artist."

"Indeed?" replied Mrs. Ascum. "That's a very laudable ambition."

"Yes," he thinks it's just cute to wear those flowing black ties."

Indianapolis News: "I get mixed up in this crowd. Who is the fellow you said not to lend money to, and which one will approve of my advanced views?"

"It's the tall one over there who's always short, and the thin one near him who is so broad."

Philadelphia Catholic Standard: "See here," said the lady, "you told me that work would only cost me $15, and here you've sent in a bill for $14."

"Yes'm," replied the carpenter, "you see, when I came to think the thing over afterward I was afraid maybe you'd be superstitious about that 13."

Chicago Tribune: The dentist on the third floor was treating a tooth for the dentist on the fifth floor.

"I hope I'm not hurting you," he said, as the drill slipped into the nerve cavity.

There was no response.

"I say I hope I didn't hurt you any."

The dentist in the chair opened his eyes.

"I beg your pardon for not hearing you, doc," he said. "I must have fallen asleep."

Should Take Back Swamp Grants.

Big Falls Compass: A report from Washington says a bill will be introduced in the next congress compelling states to drain swamp lands claimed under the act of 1860 which granted such lands to various states with the admonition to reclaim the swamps from the sale of timber thereon.

Nearly five years ago the Compass advocated such a step by the federal government as outlined by the proposed bill. It is a just measure.

Minnesota is one of the states that has failed to keep faith with the national government. It has embezzled the funds derived from this grant. It has sold thousands of dollars worth of timber each year from these swamp lands, and instead of honestly using that money to reclaim the land detimbered, it has carted away the swag to build up Southern Minnesota schools and institutions.

This is the policy that has retarded the development of Northern Minnesota, that has swamped the farming interests, and put a damper on the building of roads and school houses in the "swamp zone." This policy for thirty years kept St. Paul the center of population, and for fifty years the center of absolute political power.

We hope to see the federal government take back its swamp lands on a breach of contract, else compel the guilty states to finish their contracts at once. It is true the state is digging ditches in Northern Minnesota, but it is not done with a cheerful spirit nor a liberal hand. With bended knee and fawning lip must the northern citizen ask for drainage work, and while we ask a few thousand each year, the people of the swamp grant country have a legal and moral right to demand millions.

Minnesota now holds as state lands 5,070,200 acres of swamp taken under the act, according to the Washington dispatch, the value of which, if available for cultivation would be worth $304,212,000. Yet that cold, clammy corporation known as the state, which has hardly got to work to develop these values, is asking the government to appropriate funds to complete the drainage contract.

The state of Minnesota should be sent to the rock pile and its plunder confiscated by the abused government that sixty years ago gave it a chance to get on in the world.

NOVEMBER SOCIAL.

Duluth Women Entertained By Twentieth Century Club.

The Twentieth Century club socials, which are held the first Monday afternoon of each month are among the most delightful of the club functions of the year, and the November social, which was held this afternoon at the clubroom of the library was attended by a large number of Duluth women. The afternoon was in charge of the departments of philantrophy and reform, and home and education, and an informal discussion was held on "What avenues are open to Duluth women with the leisure and talent for the exercise of philantrophic effort in a conservative and unobtrusive manner as individuals or members of organizations." One of the speakers of the afternoon was Rev. R. J. Mooney, who spoke from a wide experience of the needs of the city in these lines. Mrs. James D. Morrison, president of the Women's council of this city, who has recently attended the church convention at Richmond, Va., spoke of the convention and her visit to the Jamestown exposition.

At a prettily appointed tea table, Mrs. A. L. Agatin, chairman of the social committee, presided and assisting were Mrs. C. J. Lesure and Mrs. August Fitger.

A large number of club women were present during the afternoon.

Pictures at Library.

The collection of mounted photographs of early Italian art, which are being shown this week at the library, were viewed with interest today by the club women of the city, who were guests at the November social of the Twentieth Century club. The pictures are the property of the Minnesota State Art association and will be on view at the library for two weeks. Any one interested is invited to call at the library to see the collection. A talk is being arranged for some time this week on "Early Italian Art," to which the public will be invited.

SECRETED HER CHILD

Boy Suffering With Diphtheria Hidden From Health Officers.

Mother and Son Disappeared When Case Was Reported.

The actions of an over-zealous mother in attempting to secrete her little boy, suffering from dipatheria, from the local health department, is liable to result in some drastic action, probably a prosecution by the state board of health, which is now investigating the case, it is understood.

It appears from a statement made by the local health department, that Mrs. Harriet Webb, a widow residing at 426 Sixth avenue west, has a son about 9 years of age and the child was recently taken ill. The attending physician pronounced it a case of dipitheria and reported it to the health department. When an official visited the home, which was done promptly after receiving the report, he found only an empty house and subsequent search failed to locate either mother or child.

But recently it has been discovered, according to the department, that the child was spirited away and kept hidden in a washhouse near the home, where the mother attended it, going to her home after darkness to leave a note of instruction to her elder daughter who remained at home while her mother was away.

The girl was as much in darkness as to the whereabouts of her mother and little brother as the officials, and all efforts to locate them had failed, when by accident a case reported from the dipitheria ward at St. Mary's hospital cleared up the mystery.

The health department, in checking up the case, discovered the child came from the Webb home and at once connected the disappearance of mother and child with the report.

It develops, according to the health department, that the mother kept her child in the washhouse for several days, nursing it herself, and then under cover of darkness carried it to St. Mary's hospital, where it was received.

Dr. Murray of the health department states that he cannot venture an opinion as to what action the state board will take in the matter, as it is considered a very serious offense to secrete a patient or in any way impede the department in its work of taking charge of contagious disease cases.

Marie Cahill and her "Marrying Mary" company are one of the genuine big league attractions, according to the notices received in other cities. The company is playing only the large cities.

The "Yankee Doodle Girls" are at the Metropolitan this week, with James F. Leonard, Jules Herron, Rose and Ellis, Martini and Maxmillan, Edna Davenport, Sadie Huested, Clara Whitney, Jack Mathews, Clara Whitney and Etta Victoria, "the bashful Venus." Tomorrow they will give a bargain matinee.

URGES PERSONAL PIETY.

Therein Lies Strength of Church, Says Rev. Mooney.

"The pure gold of personal piety" is the coin that is most needed in the church today, said Rev. R. J. Mooney, rector, in his sermon at St. Luke's Episcopal church yesterday morning.

"We boast of our church, its origin, its orders, its sacrament, its ritual, but without personal piety these are the merest ornamentations," said Rev. Mr. Mooney. "Personal sin has brought shame to many homes; it has broken many hearts. Keep near Jesus by prayer. Don't be lured away by the wild expression of the worldling, but by thoughtfulness preserve your delicacy of conscience, that you may ever be in such personal contact with the Lord as to be powerful in the deeds of good."

NO RAISES IN PAY THIS YEAR

Council Will Not Grant Increases to City Employes.

One of the special matters of interest likely to come before the council tonight is the question of fixing the aggregate salaries in the different departments of the city and the passage upon some small advances in salaries requested in some of the departments.

While the council may appreciate the equity of the advantages requested, and it is understood that it does, at the same time it is stated that it is not the sentiment of the body to grant any raises in the salary list this year.

It is advanced that the city is not in a position to make any advance in the pay of its employes this year on account of the heavy financial drain upon its resources resulting from the necessity of meeting maturing bonds of the old city of Duluth and other matters taken under consideration by the conference commitee and the council and discussed at length.

The extension of Railroad street will probably not be discussed this evening, as City Engineer McGilvray has but recently filed his plat of the condemnations requested by the council, and it will probably go over another week. His report was filed today, and is a carefully compiled map of the route of extension and condemnations necessary to the extension.

The matter of fixing and passing upon the bonds for city depositories and routine work seems to be about all that is on the docket for tonight.

The Eastern Minnesota matter of accepting or declining the second ordinance still hangs fire, and no action has been made by the railroad company at present.

WORRY TOO MUCH.

M. S. Rice Says People Allow Petty Troubles to Annoy Them.

People allow too many of the petty troubles in life to worry them, thinks Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First M. E. church, and he urged his hearers yesterday to forget their little misfortunes.

"Live like a man so you can die like a man," said Mr. Rice. He told his hearers that worrying over the misfortunes of the past or conjuring up dire predictions for the future would do no good, and contribute nothing to the building for themselves of a spiritual home for the future.

KODOL is offered on a guaranteed plan for the relief of heart burn, flatulence, sour stomach, belching of gas, nausea, and all stomach trouble. Sold by all druggists.

NO GREAT RUSH FOR LICENSES

County Auditor Has Issued Only 800 Hunting Permits.

With the opening of the deer and moose hunting season only six days off there seems to be no great rush among the local nimrods for licenses to kill big game.

Up to this noon about 800 licenses had been issued by the county auditor. Applications are being made right along, but in no great number. The auditor expects that the demand will increase during the last few days of this week.

One of the things which may have caused a lessening in the demand for licenses from the auditor's office is the fact that several deputies residing at different points on the ranges have been authorized to issue hunting licenses to accommodate the people residing outside of Duluth and who would be put to considerable trouble and expense in coming to the city solely for a license.

Last year about 1,200 licenses were issued from the auditor's office. It is hardly thought that so many will be issued this year.

A fee of $1 is required for each license issued.

DULUTH MILK ORDINANCE

May be Copied on the Biltmore Estates.

A compliment to Duluth's milk ordinance of no small significance, has been received by the health department in the nature of a letter from the Biltmore farms, Biltmore, N. C., requesting a copy of the ordinance and advice as to how the handling of tuberculosis in cattle is conducted in the herds of the dairymen doing business in this city.

The Biltmore farms are extensive estates owned by the Venderbilts and cover an immense acreage in the fertile valley of Carolina. The owners pride themselves, not alone on the size of their herds, but on the quality of the milk producet furnished, cleanliness in the dairy, and the healthy condition of the cattle.

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, Do You Open Your Mouth Like a Young Bird and Gulp Down Whatever Food or Medicine May be Offered You?

If you are an intelligent, thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to you that there is one tried and true, honest medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of medical practice, are not afraid to print, as they do, the list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, so injurious to delicate women even in small quantities when long continued. Neither does it contain any narcotics, or other harmful, or habit-forming drugs and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised by its manufacturers.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration? It certainly is entitled to far more weight than any number of non-professional, or lay testimonials.

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authorative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, millinere, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the organs distinctly feminine. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as sacredly confidential and an answer is returned in plain sealed envelope. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. They are the original Little Liver Pills having been put out for sale by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. One to three a dose. Tiny sugar-coated granules; easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a most potent alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucuous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

INTEGRITY OF NORWAY

Guaranteed by Four Great Powers in New Treaty.

Stockholm, Nov. 4.—The signing by representatives of Norway, France, Germany, Great Britain and Russia of a new treaty guaranteeing the integrity of Norway is a subject of general comment throughout Sweden, against which country the treaty is alleged to be aimed.

While the treaty is admitted to be Norway's own concern, it already has caused a feeling of widespread dissatisfaction, and it is considered a serious obstacle to the improvement of the relations between Sweden and Norway. In headquarters regret is expressed at Norway's efforts to place herself under the guard of the powers, and especially as the declaration is made that the powers may find occasion to attempt the control of Norway's foreign relations. It is said that while the negotiations for this treaty were in progress with Norway, the question was asked by one power whether Sweden also did not desire guarantee, and that to this the Swedish government answered definitely in the negative.

It is recalled that the Swedish minister of foreign affairs recently said that it was not the policy of Sweden that had rendered the guarantee necessary.

LAMP EXPLODES.

Mrs. Esther Knutson of St. Paul is Frightfully Burned to Death.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 4.—Mrs. Esther Knutson, 91 Valley street, was fatally burned early Sunday by the explosion of a lamp she was carrying. Her death followed a few hours later at the City hospital. She was burned from head to foot.

Mrs. Knutson lived with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Rognes. She arose early to make the fire and prepare breakfast. She was going through the kitchen with a lamp which exploded. The burning oil fell over her and set fire to her clothing.

Mrs. Knutson ran into the back yard, expecting to smother the flames, which spread rapidly. She screamed in agony and fell to the ground. The flames were burning away the last shreds of her garments and roasting her flesh. The daughter, Mrs. Rognes, who had heard her mother's cry ran to the rescue with a bed cover. Mrs. Rognes succeeded in extinguishing the flames and getting her mother into the house, where she soon died. Mrs. Knutson was 77 years old and was born in Norway. She had lived in North Dakota many years, and during the past twelve years had been a resident of St. Paul.

LABOR UNIONS

Withdraw From the State Federation of Montana---Disruption Feared.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 4.—As a result of the boycott campaign that has been waged for several months by the Montana Federation of Labor against business houses and individuals patronizing the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company, four of the strongest labor unions in Helen have withdrawn from the organization.

Helena Typographical Union No. 95 yesterday decided to divorce itself from the organization. H. O. Smith, secretary of the federation, is a member of the Typographical union, and the action of the printers takes away his membership in the state body. Smith and A. Fargrieve, president of the federation were enjoined by the federal court from continuing their alleged boycott tactics and since then the cooks and waiters, the bartenders and the teamsters have withdrawn from the organization, which is threatened with disruption.

MAY BE BUNYAN'S WILL.

Belle Fountain, Ohio, Nov. 4.—While searching among old papers in the attic, Mrs. M. K. Covington of Huntsville, discovered what purports to be the last will and testament of John Bunyan, author of 'Pilgrim's Progress. The document is of parchment, yellow with age, and is dated Dec. 23, 1685. Mrs. Covington's ancestors came from England many years ago.

TWO PLANS DISCUSSED

Some Place for Detention of Juveniles May be Provided.

Competent Family to Care for Children is Needed.

Is St. Louis county to do anything in the way of providing a proper place of detention for juvenile prisoners or for juvenile offenders whom the court does not care to hold in the county jail?

Those who have the juvenile court matters in charge say there never was a time when the need of a place of detention for juveniles was so apparent as the present and the county board may be urged to take some action.

The matter of providing a place of detention for juveniles has been brought to the attention of the board by Judge Ensign and, several weeks ago First Assistant County Attorney W. J. Stevenson was requested by the commissioners to confer with Judge Ensign of the juvenile court with a view of determining some plan for the proper care of youthful offenders, the court being reluctant about having them detained in the county jail where they might come in contact with older persons held, or committed, for crime.

Mr. Stevenson has conferred with the juvenile court officials and, it is understood two plans have receceived consideration, although nothing definite has yet been done toward adopting either plan.

One plan that has been suggested is for the county to rent some building in proximity to the manual training school in Duluth, establish therein, with free rental, and under salary, a competent family to care for such juveniles as might be detained there from time to time by order of the juvenile court. Under this plan the juveniles thus cared for would be sent to the manual training school for instruction and their living expenses would be looked after by the county.

The second plan is to have the court select some family deemed competent to look after juveniles which the court may order detained, from time to time, the county to pay either a straight salary, or pay for the trouble and expense that the family might be put in each case.

In case either plan is ever adopted it will necessitate the selection of competent persons to look after the juveniles to be detained. Up to the present time, it is understood, neither the court nor those connected with it have been able to decide on a family that would meet the requirements, or a family, which if they did meet requirements, would be willing to accept the charge.

There seems to be a good opening for the right persons, if the county determines to adopt either one of the two plans mentioned, and it is thought that if publicity be given the matter the names of some competent people may be brought to the attention of the juvenile court or the county board.

FEAR OF FOUL PLAY.

Friends Ask Police to Search for James Clark.

The police have been requested to investigate the strange disappearance of James Clark, a bricklayer, who mysteriously disappeared about two months ago.

Advices from Minneapolis are to the effect that a man suspected of robbery was arrested there and a union card, bearing the name of James Clark, found on his person leads to the suspicion that he may have known something of the disappearance of the Duluth man.

The Minneapolis authorities have been asked to investigate. Joseph Brown, a bricklayer residing at Nineteenth avenue west, stated to the police that the local union had sent a man to Minneapolis to discover whether or not the man under arrest was the Duluth man and found that he was a stranger. He claimed that he was the rightful owner of the union card.

YOUTHFUL ADVENTURERS

Discovered in a Freight Car Warming Themselves.

Anton Heagland, who is employed on the ore docks, discovered a bright light coming from a Northern Pacific freight car last evening, and upon investigation found two youngsters of aobut 12 years of age hovered over a fire they had kindled upon a strip of thin sheet iron.

The lads admitted they were runaways. Hoagland started with them for a policeman when the lads squirmed from his grasp and fled. He gave chase, but they were too fast for him and made their escape. It is thought they were two local boys enjoying a little "Wild West" play of their own and their story of being runaways a hoax.

TO SELECT CANDIDATE

Forty Republican Delegates Will Meet for the Purpose.

Coroner McCuen Looked Upon as the Probable Choice.

Tomorrow evening the forty delegates representing the eight wards of the city, five from each ward, as a special committee to canvass the political situation and decide upon a candidate for mayor on the Republican ticket, will meet at the city hall and will name the man they believe fit for the position and able to secure the required number of votes to win the election.

One by one men prominently mentioned for the honor have dropped from the race, many of them expressing their disinclination to make the run until the number of possibilities is small, and the general opinion seems to be that Dr. McCuen, coroner, will be named by the delegates at the meeting tomorrow.

Should he be the choice of the party, as now seems possible, many are of the opinion that Mayor Cullum will not make the race again. It has been advanced that the present incumbent is not particularly anxious for the honors again, providing the same are bound to cost him a hot fight in the election. Alderman Moore, at a recent meeting of the Republicans held for the purpose of discussing the political outlook, expressed an opinion which is claimed to be quite general, to the effect that Mayor Cullum would not make the run if a strong man was put up by the Republicans. This seems to be general opinion today.

Mayor Cullum continues to keep a discreet silence as to his intentions. He has intimated in an indirect way that he will make the race, providing there is a public sentiment favoring it and this is taken to mean "providing the man pitted against me isn't too strong." The mayor has some political acumen any many are now of the opinion that he will take no chances against a strong candidate.

The initial meeting of Republicans at the city hall for the purpose of selecting a candidate, brought out the fact that there is considerable dissatisfaction with the present administration, and in the course of the evening some decidedly hot shots were thrown in the direction of the administration.

"What we desire is a man at the head of the city government who will be able to grow with the city and properly administer the affairs of the future. 'Greater Duluth' needs a man of principle, a man who will not listen to every breeze that blows," were the words of a prominent Republican at that meeting.

Alderman Staples has been endorsed by his constituents for alderman again and will probably make the run. He has expressed himself as liable to do so, and while in a position to consider the mayoralty nomination, if tendered him under certain circumstances, it is believed that he will confine his attentions to representing his ward as alderman. Edward F. Chalk has filed for nomination for alderman of the Second ward and will oppose Alderman Staples at the primaries.

The meeting tomorrow night will clear up the political horizon considerably.

A Hard Debt to Pay.

The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equaled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

REFUSES TO FIGHT DUEL

Lieutenant Governor of Louisiana Will Not Violate Laws.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 3.—The firm reply of Lieut. Governor J. Y. Sanders yesterday to what has been universally accepted as a challenge for a duel by Donelson Caffrey, son of the late United States Senator Caffrey, has created a sensation in Louisiana.

Early yesterday morning, in conformity to the code of honor, Mr. Sanders issued a written reply to the statements of Caffrey. This statement declared that the lieutenant governor considers himself responsible for the utterances that caused the trouble and added: "I am prepared to meet that responsibility and Mr. Caffrey knows where to find me."

Preceeding this statement, representatives of the disputants held conferences and Mr. Sanders' friends declared firmly that they would not accept a challenge in accordance with the duelling code because the lieutenant governor could not violate the law making duelling a crime.

Next followed the "posting" of several sections of the state by Mr. Caffrey with hand bills, stating that satisfaction had been refused him by Mr. Sanders. These and other bills declared that the governor had called some of Mr. Caffrey's statements untrue. The discretion of both the lieutenant governor and Mr. Caffrey is relied on to prevent a personal encounter. There are fears, however, that friends may be drawn into a serious quarrel.

Sweeney, who is the father of five children was caught with the child in one of the buildings of the fair grounds, where a crowd quickly collected and, binding him with a rope, started for the Muskogee river, bent on drowning him. The police arrived and rescued him.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

AFTERMATH OF THE GAME

Superior Knowledge of New Football Won for Chicago.

Old Line Plays of Minnesota Were Useless Against Maroons.

Minneapolis, Nov. 4. — (Special to The Herald.)—Chicago won the football championship of the West, Saturday, by downing Minnesota to the tune of 18 to 12. It was a great game. On straight out and out, old fashioned football, Minnesota had the better of the argument. On variety of plays and speed of action Chicago was the better. In fact the aggregation from the Windy City is the swiftest bunch ever seen on Northrup field in the opinion of many who are competent to judge. The back field is a wonder. The way the forward pass and other new plays were executed was a revelation. The victory was gained because the Stagg crowd were "on" to the game. Everyone a veteran they knew the game in every detail. One touch down was the result of poor playing on the Gopher side, but only one. The other two were made by good, clean, fast, superior playing. The best team won and that is all there is to the proposition. All Minnesota rooters know this and are glad to acknowledge it.

The weak line which Stagg claimed to have, failed to show up. Instead of a weak line it was a stone wall. From end to end it did not have any weak points, nor were the Gopher ends as weak as was expected. In fact, during the first few minutes of play the Gophers swept the Maroons off their feet and if the good work had kept up would have won handily. But experience proved the trump that won.

The first half closed with a score of 8 to 6 in favor of Minnesota. In the second half the honors were clearly with Chicago. She started in in whirlwind fashion and kept up the good work until the final whistle blew. When the game closed the ball was in Minnesotas possession, but with no immediate prospects of a touchdown.

Capron's Kicking.

George Capron's good rignt leg saved the day so far as any scoring was concerned on the part of Minnesota. The twelve points were the result of three field goals. But that doesn't mean that Minnesota didn't play good football, for she did. That Capt. Schuknecht didn't take longer chances is to be regretted. The Maroons took desperate chances and won by them. Forward passes and fake plays resulted in gains almost every time they were tried. This sort of a thing will work on a green team like the Minnesota eleven this year, but will not do to try on an experienced bunch. That the Gophers are a coming set of men can be seen. However, they lack weight. In former years Dr. Williams has been able to get strong, heavy men, quick on their feet. Beef is not necessary in the style of plays used by the Chicago team, but they have it, and it is a very fine adjunct to have in connection with other things. The Rockefeller crowd are entitled to the praise given them by the Chicago scribes.

Old and New Football.

The game throughout was the most spectacular seen on Northrup field this year. Stagg used every variety of play that he said he would. Forward passes, fakes, out of bounds kicks, quarterback runs, triple passes and a large number of other plays followed each other in quick succession. Opposed to this was the smashing and grinding style of the Gophers. With a formation entirely different from that of the Maroons, the Minnesota boys covered themselves with glory. It was a battle of giants in the football world, and so regarded by the 20,000 spectators who cheered themselves hoarse very early in the game.

There was no particular star in the Chicago team. While the back field certainly were swift and carried the ball with tremendous energy, nevertheless the holes were made in the Gopher line by the Maroon line men.

One criticism must be made upon the Gopher tactics. The plays all appear to be too conservative. The very few times that end plays or fake plays were tried, they resulted in good games. In fact, it was the only thing that saved the day. Capron seems inbued with the idea that the best open play is the one where he kicks. This serious defect must be remedied before he can become a great field general. He must consult with the team captain more. The old style of smashing the line will not do. Ten yards is a whole lot to gain by such tactics. That the coach has drilled the team in other plays is evident from the fact that other plays are occasionally used. A striking contrast was seen in the style of play used by Chicago. Hardly any two plays that were alike followed in succession. Close formation alternated with open plays in such quick succession that the Gophers were wondering what it all meant. It is to be hoped that in the coming games with Carlisle and with Wisconsin more chances will be taken.

Bleachers Fall.

The most serious accident that ever happened at a football game in Minnesota, occurred when the east bleachers with 1,500 spectators went to the ground. The fall was occasioned by excited rooters, who wrenched away planks used for temporary supports. Two persons were seriously injured and scores suffered minor scratches or jolts of not much consequence. The names and addresses of the injured are as follows:

Eddie George, 2325 Washington street northeast, hip and ankle dislocated.

Roy Martin, Bacon street and St. Anthony parkway southeast, head cut and knee and ankle dislocated.

Abe Goldstein, 962 Sixteenth avenue south, leg broken.

EASY FOR JOHNSON.

Jim Flynn Goes Down and Out in Eleventh Round.

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—With a straight right to the jaw, which gave Jim Flynn an airy flight into the realms of the dream god, Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight, proved that his claims to the right to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world have something behind them besides words. Johnson fought Flynn at Colma Saturday afternoon, and he made the big Colorado white look like a dewee. He jabbed him around the ring at will, closing his eyo in the fourth round and sending him to the floor repeatedly.

Finally, in the eleventh round, Johnson started in to finish the job. He sent a few left jabs in and then brought his right to Flynn's jaw, and the white man dropped like a drunken sailor under a belaying pin. It took four minutes for his seconds to bring him out of the trance. Johnson left the ring without a mark, and only once during the, contest did Flynn land a telling blow. He couldn't follow up the effect of that.

ASHLAND TEAM WINS.

Ironwood Highs Defeated by Score of 17 to 6.

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ashland high school football team had little trouble defeating the Ironwood highs here Saturday. About equal in weight, Ashland had the advantage in a more thorough knowledge of the rules and their application for ground gaining, and they ran all over the visitors.

For twenty-five minutes of the first half the play was about even. The ball went up and down the field, neither team getting in striking distance of their opponents' goal. Toward the end of the half Wilkinson, the local fullback, punted to the Ironwood 30-yard line, where Turner secured the ball and went through for a touchdown. A few minutes later Wilkinson drop-kicked a goal, making the score 10 to 0 when the half ended.

Early in the second half Ironwood secured a touchdown by a fumble behind the Ashland line and kicked goal. A touchdown by Sanborn and a safety gave Ashland seven points in the half.

TEAM MAY DROP OUT

The Centrals Have Completed a Hard Football Schedule.

Crawford's Absence Was Felt in Game at St. Paul.

Duncan with a badly bruised arm and some of the others stiff and sore from the hammering they gave and took at St. Paul Saturday morning, the high school football team, attaches and rooters arrived home yesterday well pleased with the result of the game with the St. Paul Centrals.

With Crawford in the game, the boys believe they can trim St. Paul to a frazzle. Jefferson put up a plucky game, but knowing that he was a sub, the St. Paul crew attacked his position almost incessantly and he weakened under the strain, giving them several good gains through tackle. But it wasn't in that department that Crawford was missed so much. It is believed his drop kicking would have won the game. Twice the Duluth boys tried for a goal from the field and missed, and several other times they were in a position to make the trial, but they preferred to try to shove the ball over the line for a touchdown. Crawford stood on the side lines, but in his condition it would have been dangerous to put him in the game, so he was forced to see his team play to a tie.

Under the conditions, the boys were satisfied with the results. St. Paul had a strong team, and the fact that Duluth held them to a tie, with a weakened lineup, was sufficient proof that the Centrals are in class with the Twin City aggregations. As St. Paul and Minneapolis Centrals do not meet, the comparative strength of Duluth and Minneapolis Centrals, with Nichols and Pinkham missing from the latter lineup, will not be determined. Duluth boys feel that their defeat by Minneapolis, while the later was playing ineligible men, does not reflect any discredit upon them, and their success so far this season is pleasing to their supporters and themselves.

The game with the St. Paul Centrals was the last regularly scheduled game of the season for the Centrals and whether or not they will play any more is still undecided. Ashland, which pushes forward a doubtful claim to a victory by forfeit, is willing to play another game, but not until Nov. 22. The Athletic association of the Central high school will hold a meeting tonight and probably decide whether the team will continue to practice for a game with Ashland, or whether it will disband.

The latter course is the more probable. The boys have played a hard schedule. They have met Two Harbors, St. Cloud, Ashland, Minneapolis Central, Blaine and St. Paul Centrals, and not one of the games was child's play. Osterren is out of the game, Duncan is in pretty bad shape, and Crawford's condition is discouraging, so it is probable the team will disband, satisfied with their accomplishments of the season.

NEW TROTTING RECORDS MADE

Harness Horses Made New Marks During the Year.

New York, Nov. 4.—There are several sporting features of the coming week that will attract more than passing attention. They include the match between Jake Schaefer and George Sutton Tuesday night at Chicago for the 18:2 balk line billiard championship; the cross-country run between Yale and Princeton and Thursday; and the football games between Cornell and West Point and Harvard and Carlisle Saturday.

With the close of harness racing for 1907, a review of the achievements of the trotters and pacers shows that eleven new world's records were set. These follow:

Trotters, three-year-olds, in race, General Watts, 2:06.

Two-year-olds in race, Trampfest, 2:12¼.

Against time, one mile on half mile track, George G., 2:06⅘.

One mile on half-mile track for mares, Sweet Marie, 2:07.

One mile on half-mile track to wagon, Sweet Marie, 2:06½.

Mile, two-year-old fillies racing, Helen Hale, 2:12¾.

For record, three-year-olds on half-mile track, Ruth Dillon, 2:15½.

Five miles to wagon, Edward Bryan, 13:03.

One mile pacers, under saddle, Kruger, 2:12¼.

Devising ways and means of getting into closer union and thereby to further scientific angling for game fish, a meeting will be held in the city a week from today, which will be attended by delegates from all over the country.

MUNCH WILL MEET LE BEAU

Roller Skaters Will Race at Lincoln Park Rink.

Tonight at the Lincoln park roller rink in the West end, Joseph Munch, champion roller skater of the Northwest, will meet Francis LeBeau, a local man, who has something of a reputation as a speeder. Again, Saturday night, the men will meet and both races promise to be spectacular affairs. The men will seek to establish a new record for the Head of the Lakes, LeBeau having set the standing record of 3:07 in a race with Munch at the Temple rink two years ago.

Saturday night, in the final race of the week at the Temple rink, Munch defeated Walter Wiggins, going the mile in 3:09 1-5, which is 2 1-5 seconds over the record.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week, Prof. Franks and daughter will appear at the Temple rink in fancy and trick skating. Their work is said to be unequalled in its line by any traveling roller skaters and the patrons of the rink are promised some excellent exhibitions. The crowds, which attended the rink during the past week, when Munch was the attraction, indicate that roller skating is being rapidly revived and that its popularity in Duluth will spread quickly.

LOSE AT SUPERIOR.

West Duluth Defeated by Columbias in Sunday Games.

The West Duluth Football team went to Superior yesterday and was trimmed 11 to 0. It was a game of straight football, with mass plays and line bucking formations predominating. In the first half, the West Duluth boys managed to hold their own. They met Superior's attacks with equally strong defense and held the score to 0 to 0 for the period.

The hard work of the first half told on the West Duluth boys more than on Superior. In the second half, the Columbias had matters shaped to their liking. They pushed the ball over the line twice, the fagged West Duluthians being unable to stop their fierce attacks on the line. The Superior goal was never in danger in the second half.

Hibbing Defeated.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eveleth high school football team defeated Hibbing here Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0 in a well-played game. Hibbing outweighed the visitors, but the Eveleth boys knew the game and they made use of their knowledge to gain more ground than the locals and shoved the ball over the line once.

SUPERIOR TEAMS WIN

Blaine Defeats Hayward Y. M. C. A. by 15 to 0 Score.

Nelson Dewey Scores Victory Over Washburn Highs.

Saturday was a day of victories for the Superior high school football teams, Blaine defeating the Hayward Y. M. C. A. by a score of 15 to 0, and Nelson Dewey winning from Washburn by 10 to 4.

The Hayward team was easy for Blaine. The Superiorities used the open play to fine effect, making long gains on the forward passes, onside kicks and trick players. They bewildered the association boys from the state, and there never was any doubt as to which way the game would result. Shortly after the kickoff in the first half, Peterson dropped a goal from the field. After about ten minutes more of play Buchanan broke through the Hayward line and went twenty yards for a touchdown, the half ending with a score standing 10 to 0. Early in the second half Long went over the line for a touchdown and Peterson missed the goal.

Next Saturday Blaine plays Chippewa Falls at Chippewa Falls, and the following Saturday they go to Ashland, where they will battle for the championship of the Northwest.

In a return game with the Washburn high school on the grounds at West Second street and Walker avenue in Superior Saturday the Nelson Dewey high school had little trouble wiping out its defeat of the Saturday before. Nelson Dewey's splendid defense won the game. Several times Washburn worked the ball inside of the ten-yard line, but each time failed to put it accross for a touchdown. The Nelson Dewey line was invulnerable, when their own goal line was in danger and the forwards broke through several times to block attempts at goals from the field.

Whalen played a great game for Nelson Dewey. In the first half he got away and scored the first touchdown, Conley missing goal. The half ended with the score of 5 to 0. In the second half, Whalen again broke away, going sixty-five yards and planting the ball behind the posts. Conley again failed to boot the ball squarely. Shortly after the opening of the second half Kearns for Washburn sent the ball sailing between the posts from the twenty-five yard line for Washburn's only point.

CHICAGO MAN DIES IN JAIL

Son of Wealthy Broker Victim of Delirium Tremens.

Uttering wild shrieks of fear, and suffering from the hallucinations frequently accompanying acute delirium tremens, a young man giving his name as Ray Stackey, expired at the Central police station Saturday night, almost in the arms of the police officers who were making fruitless efforts to quiet him, until a physician could reach his side and administer an antidote to dispel his wild vagaries.

The young man came to police headquarters late in the evening and asked to be locked up, stating that he feared the results of a protracted spree he had been on. He was placed in a cell in the empty women's ward and another prisoner put in with him to keep an eye upon him.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Jailer Nelson heard cries of "Help, help, help. They will kill me,' and rushing to the women's ward, from where the sounds emanated, discovered the unfortunate young man in a state of wild terror, shrieking at the top of his voice, in fear of some imaginary foe. He threw himself into the arms of the officers, who overpowered him and placed him on a bench and hastily summoned a physician. The prisoner, who had been placed in the cell with the young man, was found huddled in the cell, almost frightened out of his senses.

He stated that the madman awoke him in the night, dragging him about the room and that he escaped, locking himself in another cell of the ward.

The young man grew suddenly worse and died before the physician could reach his side. Dr. Frye conducted an autopsy and found that death was due to pneumonia, accompanied by acute alcoholism.

The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan, and his father, who it is said is a wealthy Chicago broker, was notified yesterday. Word from the parents of the deceased is expected today.

The young man was about 26 years of age and it is stated traveled for a Chicago wholesale liquor house. He was a member of the Alpena, Mich., lodge of Eagles, and the local Eagles' lodge took charge of the remains pending word from his parents.

Young Stackey was a well dressed, genteel looking person and evidently a man of refinement until he became a slave to liquor.

SEATTLE ADOPTS CERTIFICATE PLAN.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 4.—At a meeting of the Clearing House association last night at which every bank in the city was represented, it was decided to follow other cities of the Northwest in adopting the use of clearing house certificates and ceasing cash payments, except small amounts for emergency purposes. It was stated that this action was taken not because of any weakness among the banks of the city, but in order to protect the cash reserves from being withdrawn to other sections already using clearing house certificates.

INMATE OF JAIL HEIR TO FORTUNE

Mike Burns Claims $50,000 Estate Awaits Him in Ireland.

Mike Burns, a county jail prisoner, who was sent up for a sixty-day term on a minor charge, claims to be the heir to an estate in Ireland worth $50,000. He has letters from the old country tending to show that he has been the object of an extended search by his family solicitors.

Burns claims that as soon as he has served his sentence he intends going to Ireland to lay claim to his fortune. His sentence will expire about two weeks before Christmas.

Burns claims that he knew his family had an estate in Ireland, but he did not expect to get any of it, as the estate was in the hands of an uncle, who has two sons of his own. According to the information had by Burns, the two cousins lost their lives by drowning several months ago while on a pleasure cruise with a small sailing vessel belonging to their father. Burns was traced to Duluth through friends in Canada.

RHEUMATISM

BLOOD FILLED WITH URIC ACID

Rheumatism comes from an excess of uric acid in the blood. This acid circulating through the system acts as an irritant to the different muscles, nerves, bones and tissues of the body, and produces the inflammation and swelling of the joints and the sharp, cutting pains characteristic of the disease. When the blood is overburdened with uric acid it continually grows weaker and more acrid, and poorer in nourishing qualities. Then Rheumatism becomes chronic, and not only a painful, but a formidable and dangerous disease. Sometimes the heart is attacked, the general health is affected, and the oils and fluids which lubricate the muscles and joints are destroyed by the acrid matter which the blood is constantly depositing in them; the muscles shrink and lose their elasticity, the coating of the joints becomes hard and thick, and often the sufferer is left a hopeless cripple. S. S. S. attacks the disease at its head, goes down into the circulation, and by neutralizing and removing the uric acid from the circulation and building up the thin, acrid blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. changes the sour, acid-burdened blood to a rich, healthy stream which quiets the excited nerves, eases the throbbing, painful muscles and joints, and filters out of the system the irritating matter which is causing the pain and inflammation. Begin the use of S. S. S. now and get the cause out of your blood so that the cold and dampness of Winter will not keep you in constant pain and misery. Over-indulgence in any good food is highly detrimental to the system. This is no more true of beer than of any other food. We assert, and our assertion is confirmed by good physicians everywhere, that a temperate use of is very beneficial. The tonic properties of its malt and well cured hops build up the tissues wasted by nervous strain and its very small amount of alcohol (3⅜ per cent) is an acknowledged aid to digestion.

Use it temperately in your home and you will be stronger in both body and mind.

Catarrh of the Stomach

A Most Dangerous Disease, Which Causes Serious Results, Unless Properly Treated.

Catarrh of the Stomach is very common and is known as one of the most obstinate diseases, which, when neglected or improperly treated with cheap patent medicines, tonics, drugs, pills, and other secret quack remedies results in a broken down constitution and often consumption and death.

Catarrh of the Stomach, like every other disease of the stomach, except cancer, is the result of poor digestion. The digestive organs have become weak, there is a lack of gastric juice, your food is only half digested, and as a result you become effected with loss of appetite, pressure and fulness after eating, heartburn, vomiting, waterbrash, tenderness at pit of stomach, slimy tongue, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, pain in limbs and face, sleeplessness, nausea, belching of gas, diarrhoea, sick headaches, dizziness, mental depression, nervous weakness, and many other common symptoms.

If your stomach cannot digest the food you eat, then the stomach needs a rest, as that is the only way you can get rid of your catarrh, but in the meantime your body needs plenty of nourishment, because you must live and in order to live you must eat, and if you must eat, your food must be properly digested, and if your stomach is too weak to do the work, then you must get a substitute that will do the work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the only known substitute that will digest your food as well as any healthy stomach. They contain vegetable and fruit essences, aseptic pepsin (gov. test), golden seal and diastase, the very elements necessary to digest all foods.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy and for that very reason thousands of physicians all over the United States recommend them to their patients for catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia of all kinds, and other stomach troubles. Experiments and tests have proven that one grain of the active principle contained in these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges and are sold in large fifty-cent boxes at all drug stores.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a free sample package. The relief you will get from this trial package alone will convince you of the merits of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

O. F. HAWKINS IS ELECTED

President of North Central Teachers' Association at Cass Lake Meet.

Over One Hundred and Seventy-Five Instructors Were Present.

Cass Lake, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second annual convention of the North Central Minnesota Teachers' association was brought to a close Saturday afternoon, after a most successful and educational session. Park Rapids was chosen as the place for holding the next convention. The following were elected officers: President, O. F. Hawkins, vice president, Miss Annie Shelland; corresponding secretary, D. R. Bradford; secretary C. M. Kling.

The program for the last day was taken up with round table and other discussions.

"The Efficiency of Our Public Schools," furnished a fruitful theme for discussion during the convention.

Industrial, physical and character training were discussed by some of the most prominent educators in the state. Each speaker explained in a clear and interesting manner why such trainings were so essential in the development of the pupils.

Librarian H. E. King read a very interesting paper on "The School Library." After this reading, the teachers were divided into sections, known as the high school, the rural school and the graded school sections, respectively. Meetings of the different sections were held, at which were discussed subjects greatly interesting to them.

One of the events of the meeting was the address by President Weld of the Moorhead normal on "The Making of Literature." The president handled his subject in a most creditable manner and throughout kept the earnest attention of his listeners.

There were over 175 instructors in attendance at the convention, and the interest manifested by each was not small.

SAID HE WAS DRUNK.

North Dakotan Claimed He Was Irresponsible When He Took Coat.

Moorhead, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Burke of Valley City, N. D., was arrested by the police for the theft of a fur-lined overcoat from a man who was taking a social glass with a friend in one of the saloons of the city. The coat was valued at $5 and before Justice Torson, Burke pleaded guilty to the theft, but in extenuation said he was drunk and did not know what he was doing. The prisoner was remanded and in the meantime the county attorney will be consulted as Burke requests immediate action, and hopes that he won't have to carry in jail until the grand jury assembles next May. Burke says he has a wife working on a farm in Stutsman county.

STRAY BULLET KILLS

Seven-Ysar-Old Floyd Bork Living at Hinckley.

Hinckley, Minn., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The reckless hunter has claimed another victim in the tragic death of 7-year-old Floyd Bork, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bork, who was shot and almost instantly killed about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, while playing with his 9-year-old brother, Charles, about a quarter of a mile from home. The surviving brother says that they heard four shots in rapid succession, and as the sound of the last died away, Floyd sunk to the ground with a groan, having been struck in the temple by a bullet. Horrified by the tragic occurrence, young Bork ran home and told his parents, who prostrated with grief, called neighbors and hurried to scene of the killing. The surrounding country was carefully searched in the effort to find the reckless hunter, who by his carelessness, had sacrificed the young life. Not even foot prints that might lead to the identity of the murderer could be found. The inquest is expected to develop the calibre of the bullet, and perhaps some other circumstances.

Was the Body of Young Swede by Milwaukee Freight Train.

St. Paul, Nov. 4.—The body of Victor Anderson, 2901 Pillsbury avenue, Minneapolis, was found torn into shreds on the tracks of the Milwaukee railroad in Merriam Park, Sunday morning, by a section crew of the road. It is not known how he met his death, but he is thought to have been hit by a freight train. The body was horribly mutilated.

The deceased was born in Sweden and had only lived in Minneapolis a week. He had been employed by the Twin City Rapid Transit company as a laborer.

He was 23 years old, and it is thought that he was homesick and probably sought to get back to New York, where he might take his way back to Sweden on a steamship.

Menomonie, Wis., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of maintaining a creamery in connection with the county agricultural school in this city, which has been the subject of much agitation and spirited debate throughout the county, has suddenly met a solution. The county school board of supervisors to dictate a course of study for this school. The only way in which the board can kill the creamery branch of the school is to withhold the appropriation for the entire school, whereby they would forfeit the state appropriation, which is double that of the county. Many farmers have been wrought up to a white heat in their opposition to the school creamery.

The child had accompanied her father to the field and had wandered about 150 feet from him. He heard her scream. Her clothing was ablaze. He lost no time in going to her assistance and gathering her in his arms carried her to a small stream of water a few feet away. The flames were quickly extinguished, but not until after fatal injuries had been sustained. Death relieved the child's sufferings about two hours later.

FARGO SHOCKED BY DISCLOSURES

Social Evil Becomes Too Notorious and Arrests Follow.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The social evil is in the limelight in this city just at present and the community is more or less shocked over recent sensational disclosures in that direction, notably the attempt of the 16-year-old Burton girl, formerly of Grand Forks, to take her life in front of a resort in the locality known as the Hollow. It is also reported there are other young girls, under the age of consent, in this notorious section of town, and public indignation is running pretty high.

Public feeling has taken the form of prosecutions in the arrest of Nina De Mars, keeper of a dive in the Hollow, on the charge of riding horseback in the public streets. She was taken to the police station and released by Judge Ryan on $25 bail. The case was set for Monday afternoon.

The De Mars woman secured a prominent local attorney and will fight the charge against her to the supreme court if necessary. It looks as if the case against her would fall through. There is a city ordinance meant to prohibit the public appearance of women of the character of Miss De Mars, but it is imperfectly drawn and does not specifically state that horseback riding is forbidden. Lawyers hold that such an ordinance would be unconstitutional in any event.

Mrs. Putnam finally received medical aid from both Jamestown and Cleveland and her burns which were severe were dressed and she was left that evening feeling much easier. WHAT BENEFIT TO DULUTH

By the Diversion of Waters From the Great Lakes?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Mr. Cokefair in his article on deep waterway navigation between the Great Lakes and the gulf via the Mississippi river, which appeared in your issue of Saturday, Nov. 2, makes the statement "That Duluth is directly interested in and will be greatly benefited by the accomplishment of this important work goes without saying."

I believe that Duluth is directly interested in any project wherein the diversion of the water from the lakes is contemplated, but I fail to see wherein Duluth will be benefited by the taking of a large quantity of water by the Ohio canal, the Chicago drainage canal, or the Mississippi river.

Duluth depends almost entirely on the East and West line of transportation, and as one of the readers of your paper, I should like to see Mr. Cokefair go into this matter more in detail as to how we are to derive benefits which may result, in the end, in damage to our East and West transportation business.

This is a subject in which Duluth has a vital interest and one on which depends, in a great measure, her future prosperity.

A good principle for us to follow is for us to oppose the diversion of any water from the Great Lakes, except for sanitary purposes, at least until we know where we stand as to the amount of water to be diverted and what effect it will have on the levels of the Great Lakes and the streams connecting them.

Very respectfully,
F. B. SPELMAN.

BAGS A SILVER GRAY.

Rare Fox Shot by Fred Lee on North Shore.

Fred Lee, chief engineer on the steamer Moore of the Booth line, displayed the skin of a silver grey fox this morning upon his arrival in Duluth from the north shore. He shot the animal at Irvin, a landing place near Two Islands, while the boat was unloading some freight. The silver grey fox is an exceedingly rare animal, particularly in this section of the country, and their skins are very valuable. When prime they often bring as high as $200 and $300. As it is still rather early in the season the specimen captured by Mr. Lee has fur that is not yet prime, but it is said the skin will easily bring $100 as it is.

TO REMODEL COAL DOCKS

Pittsburg Coal Company Lets Contracts for Big Sum.

Complete New Equipment Will be Installed at Allouez.

The money shortage is not troubling the coal companies.

Contracts for work, which will completely monopolize the handling and storage facilities of the Pittsburg Coal company's big docks at Allouez bay, were let today to the Barnett-Record company and the Great Lakes Dredging, the aggregate approximating $500,000.

The space between the present dock and the shore extremity of the company's property will be dredged out as much as is necessary and the present storage space of the docks enlarged to that extent. The docks now have a capacity of 325,000 tons, which will be increased by 100,000.

Not so much in the storage as in the handling facilities will the improvements be noticeable. The contract to the Barnett-Record calls for an almost complete replacement of the present machinery with modern bridges and buckets, which will give the company equipment equal to, if not surpassing, that of the other modern docks at the Head of the Lakes. Five-ton buckets will replace those in use at present. They will be a marked innovation, as the largest bucket now in use at the Head of the Lakes has a three-ton capacity.

Work will be begun immediately and continued throughout the winter, so that the machinery will be installed and the dock ready for operation by the time navigation opens next spring.

RAN AMUCK IN SALOON.

Thomas Laughren Accused of Stabbing His Friend.

Crazed with liquor Thomas Laughren, a railroad switchman, stabbed and dangerously wounded his friend, Henry Cunningham, in Fitzpatrick's saloon, corner of Banks avenue and Broadway, Saturday evening, while Cunningham was acting in the role of peacemaker to prevent Laughren from abusing an old man who boarded in the hotel adjoining.

After the stabbing Laughren is said to have chased some other men in the place with an open knife in his hand until one of the occupants of the place floored him with several heavy blows in the face.

Cunningham was taken to St. Mary's hospital where his wound, a deep cut in the back near the spine, was dressed. Unless complications set in the doctors believe that he will recover.

J. H. Fitzpatrick, proprietor of the saloon, claims that Laughren was a visitor there earlier in the day and that he refused a drink, claiming to be on the water wagon.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday evening he again entered the place uproariously drunk, and started to make trouble. While he was abusing an old man named Hueston, Cunningham entered and attempted to pacify Laughren. His words, it is said, seemed to enrage Laughren and before those in the place knew what was going on, Cunningham called out that he was stabbed and for the others to look out for themselves.

After he had sobered up at the police station yesterday Laughren professed to remember nothing that had occurred the previous evening. He expressed remorse over his deed and claimed that had he been in his right mind he would never have injured his friend Cunningham.

Although only 48 years old, Laughren's hair is white as snow. His countenance is much battered up from his rough treatment following the stabbing affray. His lip was cut to such an extent that it required several stitches to close the wound.

Bad Switch Causes Wreck.

The Northern Pacific passenger train which left Superior, westbound shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday evening, ran into a defective switch near Belknap street and was wrecked. The baggage car was overturned and badly smashed, J. Stoddard of Duluth, the baggagemaster, being slightly injured. The wreck was not cleared so that the passengers could leave until Sunday morning.

Paid With Checks.

The employes of the Superior shipyards were paid off in checks drawn on the First National bank, Saturday afternoon. About 500 laborers were paid off, and while there was some expression of discontent, most of the men accepted the situation as inevitable.

Martin Gallagher Dies.

The funeral of Martin Gallagher, 41 years of age, who died early yesterday morning at the home of his brother-in-law, Chief of Police Vincent McKinnon, 154 West Seventeenth street, Superior, will be held from St. Francis Xavier church, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will be at Calvary cemetery. Mr. Gallagher had lived in Superior for years, was at one time captain of the police force and had been prominently identified with the public and municipal affairs of the city.

Goes to Rate Commission.

Papers are being prepared to bring the matter of water, gas and light rates in Superior before the state rate commission. The controversy over the rates is long drawn out, the mayor, council and water, gas and light company being in a deadlock over an agreement. It is expected the state rate commission can effectually dispose of the case by fixing an arbitrary agreement, binding on all concerned.

NO CAUSE FOR WORRY

Judge Morris Takes Optimistic View of the Money Situation.

Says Completed Jamestown Fair is Worthy of a Visit.

Judge and Mrs. Page Morris returned yesterday from a five weeks' visit to Virginia, well pleased with their trip, and particularly delighted with their visit to the Jamestown exposition, which, in its completed state, is said to be well worth visiting, despite the black eye it received earlier in the season from poor management, and from the fact that it was not finished for months after the opening. Incidentally, Judge Morris is satisfied that there is no cause for worry over the money market, or outlook for the future in this regard.

"The banks are all right, the country is all right, and everything is all right," he said this morning. "There is no cause whatever for worry. All the people have to do is to keep cool. Affairs will straighten themselves out in good shape, to the satisfaction of everybody concerned. I cannot work out otherwise. The general prosperity of the country is established on far too firm a foundation to permit of any other result. The cooler the public keeps, and the less worrying it does, the sooner will this desirable condition be brought about. The fact that we stopped for a few days in the East on our return did not put me in a position to speak with any more authority on the money situation than any one in Duluth who has observed conditions.

"We visited Lynchburg, Va., the town where I was born; Richmond, where I lived during the war, and Williamsburg, where I lived after the war. Williamsburg is my mother's home. Of course the years have brought many changes to these places. Some of these have a tendency to sadden one. We enjoyed our stay at Jamestown exceedingly. The exposition is now in a completed state, and is well worthy a visit. The affair has been a financial failure, but the story would have been a different one if it had been in a completed state at the opening. For a long time after the official opening the buildings, exhibits, etc., were far from being in a finished state, and people visiting the place were naturally disappointed. The exposition received a black eye from which it has not recovered. It was poorly managed to begin with. The illumination of the grounds at night is remarkably beautiful."

Judge Morris will be in Duluth up to and including Nov. 19, and Nov. 20 will open court in Fergus Falls. The opening was to have occurred Nov. 12, but it was postponed to Nov. 19. It so happens that the marriage of Judge Morris' daughter occurs Nov. 19, and he naturally objected to opening court in another city at the time of this important occasion, so the date was changed to Nov. 20.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 4.—Henry Bishop, known as the "Gold Fish King," is dead at his home here. He developed here the largest gold fish industry in the country. His breeding lakes at Lakeland cover 20 acres. From them he supplied parks in New York, Detroit, Washington and other cities with specimens. He also shipped these fish to New York and other places to be used for destroying the larvae of mosquitoes. Mr. Bishop was also an ornithologist and breeder of song birds.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—Albert Trostel, among the best known tanners of Milwaukee, died last evening at his home here, after an illness of several months. Mr. Trostel was a native of Germany and was born in Unter Born, Wurtemberg, Nov. 26, 1834. Three children survive him.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 4.—Jefferson Polk, president of the Des Moines Pioneer street railway and interurban magnate and multimillionaire, died at his home yesterday, after a two weeks' illness. Mr. Polk was born in Kentucky in 1831 and came to Des Moines in 1855.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 4.—C. W. Sanders, chief engineer for the Copper Range railroad, died here Sunday morning of pneumonia. He was about 50 years old and one of the best known railroad men in Upper Michigan.

COURT SETS ASIDE VERDICT

Mohawk Mining Company Gets Judgment in Oberster Case.

Judge Cant has granted the motion of the Mohawk Mining company to have the $1,000 verdict entered against it in favor of John Oberster set aside, and judgment entered for the defendant company. Obrster claimed to have been injured in being caught between a car and a post in a mine operated by the company. The jury awarded his $1,000 damages. Alexander Marshall represented Oberster, and E. C. Kennedy represented the mining company.

THEOLOGY AND LIFE

Rev. John Walker Powell Deals With Conceptions of God.

New Theology Differs From Old in Methods and Results.

In the third sermon in a series on "The Gospel and the New Age," yesterday morning Rev. John Walker Powell discussed the new theology. Mr. Powell said in part:

"The present age is impatient of abstractions. It demands of every truth that it shall have some bearing on life. It approaches truth, not from the side of logical theories, but of observed facts. Any theology, therefore, which is to grip the mind of this age and compel its assent, must be founded on life, and be adapted to the spiritual needs of men. Theology is nothing but the intellectual interpretation of religious experience. In the light of modern scientific and psychological knowledge, the mind of man ought to see more deeply into the truths of the Christian faith than the mind of the fifteenth century. Some day a man will arise who will do for the twentieth century what Augustus did for the fifth, and Thomas Aquinas for the thirteenth and Calvin for the sixteenth century. But in the meantime the most earnest minds in all the churches are working toward this end.

"This movement is not to be judged by its more radical representatives. In every movement there are unbalanced minds and injudicious temperaments, and these often attract the most attention. But truth is generally found to lie in the middle ground. The new theology is not an attempt to substitute something else for Christianity.

"The new theology differs from the old first of all in method. The new theology started from the infallible inspiration of the Bible; the new theology starts from the fact of Christian experience, and the facts of Christian history. The old theology began with God and His attributes; the new begins with man and his needs.

"These differences in method lead to certain differences in results. These are three in particular in which the new theology occupies a much more profound and helpful position than the old.

"The first is in its interpretation of the idea of God. The old theology recognized in theory the immanence of God, but practically it regarded him as standing outside His universe, governing it as the emperor governed Rome. The new theology undertakes the full recognition of God's immanence in his creation.

"The second change is in the emphasis on the person of Christ. The new theology approaches Christ from the side of his humanity, rather than his diety. It bases his claims on his character and teachings rather than on the prophecies and miracles. It is not so confident of its definitions, of the limits between Godhood and manhood. The gospel of Christ is Christ himself. The God men believe in is the Father whom Jesus revealed.

"But the new theology differs widely from the old in its interpretation of the work of Christ for men, of the nature of the attonement and of salvation itself. The old theology was forensic; it interpreted the relation of God to man on the basis of criminal law. Its punishment were external inflictions God was a judge, men were deserving of sentence, and justice could only be satisfied by the infliction of penalty. All this was purely abstract and artificial. The new theology recognizes that the penalties of sin and the rewards of righteousness are within the soul itself, and cannot be set aside except by transforming the character. Salvation is not the removing of penalty, it is making bad men good. There can be no other salvation. Heaven and hell are conditions in the soul, and God himself can not take a man from one and put him in the other. If, therefore, a man persists forever in resisting God's love, his punishment must be eternal—the soul that sinneth, it shall die."

SITUATION IMPROVED

H. M. Peyton Says Any Change is for the Better.

Local Banks Show Disposition to be Free With Currency.

Hamilton M. Peyton, president of the American Exchange bank, said today, that whatever change the financial situation might present in Duluth, both as to the business feeling and the sentiments of depositors, is for the better. More confidence in the course adopted by the banks has been exhibited by depositors; the advices from the East indicate a freer feeling there; while the tendency of people as a whole has been to make the best of the situation.

Mr. Peyton says that any prediction as to the loosening of currency is purely speculative. Some indications are, at hand, that it will require the shipment of a large amount of gold—the great balance Europe owes this country for products, to thoroughly restore the free circulation of money.

Locally, the situation has not undergone any appreciable change. The people are not worrying over the failure of the banks to pay in currency in full, and are making the best of a situation which cannot be remedied at the present time. Duluth has been remarkably free from any suspicion of an expression of uneasiness. An expression from several of the bank officials and business men has confirmed this, and from present indications no serious embarrassment will grow out of the curtailment of ready money.

All of the banks were paying out money quite freely this morning, when a person could show that the money was for a pressing need. They show no tendency to hold back currency, and the situation in this regard shows an improvement over last week.

CASES OF INTEREST

TRADING STAMPS.—An ordinance attempting to prohibit the giving of trading stamps, so dear to many housewives, is in City and County of Denver vs. Fruehauff, 88 Pacific Reporter, 389, held not to be a valid exercise of the state's police power. This decision, and the one that the giving of trading stamps is not a gift enterprise within the constitutional prohibition, is by the Colorado supreme court, in this case, based on Young vs. Comonwealth, 45 Southeastern Reporter, 327, and State vs, Dalton, 22 R. I. 77.

INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.—The initiative provision of the Los Angeles city charter was upheld by the California supreme court in re Prahler, 88 Pacific Reporter, 270, as against, among others, the contention that the provision violated the constitutional guaranty of a republican form of government. This constitutional provision the majority of the court maintains, if it did not refer to states, did not refer to local affairs in the state. A dissenting opinion holding a contrary view was, however, filed.

RIGHTS OF PROPERTY OWNER WITH REFERENCE TO TELEPHONE WIRES.—In Butler vs. Frontier Telephone company, 79 Northeastern Reporter, 716, a property owner is, by the New York court of appeals, held entitled to bring ejectment against a telephone company to compel the removal of a telephone wire stretched across the property, though not in any place resting thereon. This decision is based on the settled theory of the law that the ownership of land extends upwards to an indefinite extent, and that the extent of obstruction is only one of degree.

TRANSFER TAX.—The proceeds of an insurance policy issued by a New York company to a resident of New Jersey, in which latter state the company has an agent on whom process may be served, is, by the New York court of appeals, in re Gordon's estate, 79 Northeastern Reporter, 722, held not subject to the New York transfer tax, principally on the ground that the proceeds of the policy could be collected by suit in New Jersey without invoking the aid of the New York courts.

RIGHTS OF RIVAL TELEPHONE COMPANIES.—The Utah supreme court, in Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company vs. Utah Independence Telephone company, 88 Pacific Reporter, 26, concedes the right of a new telephone company to adopt the same number for its trouble department as that used by its older competitor without fear of injunction on complaint of the older company. The fact that the older company's patrons might by mistake call up the rival company and tell it of defects in their telephones the court does not regard as ground for injunctive relief.

DEPORTATION OF INSANE PERSONS.—In State vs. Superior Court, 88 Pacific Reporter, 297, the supreme court of Washington holds the law of that state relating to the deportation of insane persons invalid as being incapable of judicial enforcement, remarking that, notwithstanding the court might direct the sheriff to deport prisoners to their home in an adjoining state, the officers powers would cease immediately on his crossing the state boundary, so that to that extent the court's decree would be incapable of complete enforcement.

LIABILITY OF CARRIER FOR INJURY TO PASSENGER RIDING ON PASS.—Passes may be authorized by our legislatures, but, nevertheless, persons will occasionally be found riding on them, and in Bradburn vs. Whatcom County Railway & Light company, 88 Pacific Reporter, 1020, the supreme court of Washington holds that a carrier is liable for injuries to a passenger riding on a pass in violation of law at the time of the injury, the same as it would be to a passenger paying fare; citing Buffalo, etc., Railway company vs. O'Hara, 9 American & English Railroad Cases, 317.

ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY'S RIGHT TO REFUSE SERVICE TO A CUSTOMER.—The county court of Steuben county in Benson vs. American Illuminating company, 102 New York Supplement, 206, upholds the right of an electric light company to shut off the current without liability to the customer, where the latter has improperly wired an office for light the customer makes defective connections with other wires, causing danger by fire, and refuses to remedy it. Under such circumstances, whatever damages the customer suffers by being deprived of light is due to his own fault, and not to the fault of the company.

USE OF NATIONAL FLAG FOR ADVERTISING.—The United States supreme court in Halter vs. State, 27 Supreme Court Reporter 419, upholds as constitutional the Nebraska law of 1903 making it a misdemeanor to use representations of the national flag upon articles of merchandise for advertising purposes, thus, in effect, overruling Rubstrat vs. People, 185 Ill. 133, 57 Northwestern Reporter 41, and People ex rel. McPike vs. Vandecarr, 178 N. Y. 425, 70 Northeastern Reporter 965.

ALIEN'S RIGHT TO HOLD PROPERTY.—The Washington supreme court, in Abrams vs. State 88, Pacific Reporter, 327, construes the provisions of the state constitution, which prohibits the ownership of land by aliens, except where acquired by inheritance, under mortgage in good faith, or in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts, and provides in general that conveyances to aliens shall be void. Under this provision the state may, where lands are conveyed to an alien, have the same declared escheated; but if the state fails to do this, prior to the alien's death, the right is lost, and the property descends to the heirs of the alien.

CARRIER'S LIABILITY FOR COMMUNICATION OF CONTAGIOUS DISEASE.—M. K. & T. R. Co. vs. Raney, 99 Southwestern Reporter, 589, the Texas court of civil appeals decides that a railroad company is liable to a passenger for damages resulting from the wife of the passenger contracting small-pox from him after he had contracted it from the ticket agent of whom he purchased the ticket. The court is of the opinion that the knowledge of the ticket agent that he had the smallpox at the time he sold the ticket constituted knowledge on the part of the railroad company, thus declining to follow the ruling in Long vs. Railway (Kansas) 22 Pacific Reporter, 977, 15 L. D. A. 319, 13 Am. St. Rep. 291.

"PARTIES."—Where an action is brought against a railroad company alone for an alleged violation of the interstate commerce act, the corporation's officers and agents are not, according to the United States circuit court of appeals for the Third circuit, in Cassatt vs. Mitchell Coal & Coke company, 150 Federal Reporter, 32, "parties," within the federal statute Rev. Stat. Sec. 724 (U. S. Comp. Stat. 1901, p. 583) authorizing federal courts on notice to require parties to produce books or writings in their possession or power which contains evidence pertinent to the issues. As supporting authorities are cited Rose vs. King, 5 Serg. & R. 241, and Ridgely vs. Richard, 130 Federal Reporter, 387.

STATE STATUTE PROHIBITING TRANSPORTATION OF WATER TO ANOTHER STATE.—Cities located near state boundary lines often draw their water supply from the lakes and rivers of the neighboring state. Where a city is exceptionally large the water supply for domestic purposes of the state from which the water is taken may be threatened. To prevent any such emergency the state of New Jersey, near whose boundary lines are located two of our largest cities, has enacted a law making it unlawful for any one to transport through pipes, conduits, etc., the water of any fresh water lake, pond, or stream into any other state. The constitutionality of this statute was upheld by the New Jersey court of errors and appeals in McCarter vs. Hudson County Water company, 65 Atlantic Reporter, 489.

PICKETING.—The United States circuit court for the eastern district of Wisconsin, in Allis-Chalmers company vs. Iron Moulders' union No. 125, upholds the right of union laborers out on a strike to maintain "peaceable picketing" about the works of their employer. But the court remarks that "peaceable picketing" is very much of an illusion. The action of pickets established by strikers may amount to coercion and intimidation of workmen of an employer, though no act is done which would be unlawful if done by a single individual, where the mere number of pickets acting together and their persistent following of the workmen to and from their work day after day for months is in itself a constant threat producing fear and alarm among the workmen.

TRANSPORTING CHILDREN TO SCHOOL AS PROVIDING "SCHOOL FACILITIES."—A statute, requiring school boards "to provide suitable school facilities and accommodations," does not require school boards to provide for the transportation of children living remote from the schoolhouse, according to the decision of the New Jersey court of errors and appeals in board of education or Frelinghuyser township vs. Atwood, 65 Atlantic Reporter, 999.

LIABILITY OF TEAM OWNER FOR COLLISION WITH STREET CAR.—If a driver of a wagon permits a boy to handle the lines while the driver is in the discharge of the business of the owner of the wagon, and a collision with a street car is occasioned by the boy's negligence, and a passenger on the car is injured in the accident, the owner of the wagon is liable for the boy's negligence, according to the decision of the New York supreme court in Bamberg vs. International Railway company, 103 New York supplement, 297. The court distinguished the case at bar from cases in which it has been held that no liability attached, on the ground that in such cases the third person actually driving was not engaged in the owner's business at the time of the accident.

ADMISSIBILITY OF CARBON COPY AS ORIGINAL EVIDENCE.—The supreme court of Pennsylvania, in Cole vs. Elwood Power company, 65 Atlantic Reporter, 678, holds that where an original paper and a carbon copy are made on a typewriter at the same time, signed by the same officers, executed in the same manner, and in every respect duplicates, both may be considered as originals, and either is admissible in evidence without notice to produce the other.

Full reports of any case cited from the Reporters can be supplied by the West Publishing company, St. Paul, for 25 cents.

The Wall Coverings and Wood Finishing

Form the background for the whole setting of a room. If this background is ill chosen or poorly wrought then the entire effect is spoiled, for harmony between the room-interior and its furnishings is an absolute essential.

Each room should have an individuality of its own which is imparted primarily by its wood finish and wall hangings. For instance, it would be no more proper to hang a nursery paper in a parlor, or a den paper in a kitchen, or to finish a bathroom in weathered oak, than it would be to finish the exterior in a golden oak and the interior in common red or black paint.

Our designers are craftsmen in their art. We specialize in fine wood finishings, wall decorating and floor polishing.

The prices are normal, while the work belongs to an out-of-the-ordinary class.

TRADING IS RESUMED AT THE BOARD OF TRADE

Members Are Busy Again After Week of Idleness.

Wheat is Stronger in All the American Markets.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 4.—Trading on the floor of the Duluth board of trade was resumed this morning.

Since a week ago Saturday there has been no option trading and but little cash business, but today the members of the board felt sufficiently encouraged over the financial outlook, despite Saturday's bad bank statement, to begin the regular business once more.

They look for no more shutdowns on account of the money situation, and expect that things will continue to improve right along. Cash trading must necessarily be restricted for a time, but will gradually work back to its normal volume.

After a week of idleness, the traders were busy men this morning. Trading in the pit was very active during the first hour, the business in both wheat and flax being big.

Wheat closed firmer in all of the American markets except Winnipeg. The close here was higher, although comparisons cannot be made because of the fact that there was no trading in this market last week.

Liverpool closed 1d lower, Budapest 2¼c higher and Berlin 1⅝c lower.

The December option closed 1-1¢ higher in Chicago, 1c in Minneapolis, ¼c in New York and 2⅜c lower in Winnipeg. The May option closed 1⅜c higher in Chicago ⅝-¾c higher in Minneapolis, ⅝c up in New York and 1½c lower in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ⅝-¾c higher in Chicago and was ¼d to ⅜d lower in Liverpool. December oats closed ½c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "There was a weak opening in wheat with values 2@2¼d lower. The late weakness in America Saturday, together with the Russian shipments and brighter prospects in Australia as a result of heavy rains and a further advance in the bank rate to 6 per cent, caused this decline. At the low point, shorts covered and a gain of ½@¾d was made. Later, however further easiness developed due to the lack of support, but at mid-day the market was again steady, with values 1⅝@1¾d lower than Saturday.

"Corn opened easy at ¼d decline. The weakness in America on Saturday caused large offerings. The market was dull and neglected."

Car receipts at Duluth were 323 against 443 last year, at Minneapolis 349 against 426 last year. Chicago received 68 against 85 last year. Winnipeg received 708 against 289 last year.

Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 820,000 bus.

Clearances of corn were 34,000 bus.

World's shipments of wheat and corn last week, the week previous and the corresponding week a year ago.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Weak on Renewed Selling, Based on Liverpool Decline.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The wheat market opened weak on renewed selling by longs, which was based on a break of nearly 2d at Liverpool, and on a fresh slump of stocks. The market rallied considerably soon after the opening on scattered demand by commission houses, nearly all of the initial loss being regained. December opened ¾ to 1¼c lower at 93@93½c and advanced to 94c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 730 cars against 863 cars last week and 939 cars a year ago.

Sentiment became bullish in the last half of the session on good buying by commission houses. The high point for December was 95⅝c. The close was strong with December 1c to 1⅛c higher at 95¼@95⅜c.

Corn opened weak but quickly rallied on buying by shorts and local bulls. Local receipts were more than what had been estimated, but this influence was offset by numerous reports of small returns from huskings. December opened ⅛@¼c lower, at 58¼@58⅜c, and advanced to 59@59½c. Local receipts were 140 cars, with 46 of contract grade.

Prices advanced in sympathy with wheat. The high point for December was 59¾c. The close was strong with December ⅝@¾c higher, at 59⅝@59¾c.

The oats market was rather weak. Receipts were more than estimated, December opened ⅜c lower at 48¼c and sold at 48¾c. Local receipts were 158 cars.

Provisions were weak because of moderate selling by packers. Trade was of small volume. January pork was off 7½c at $14.20. Lard was down 5@7½c at $8.30. Ribs were 5c lower at $7.65@.

Close: Wheat—December, 95¼@95¾c; May, $1.03⅜. Corn—December, 59⅝@59¾c; May, 60⅝c. Oats—December, 48¾c; May, 52⅝@53c. Pork—January, $14.25; May, $14.65. Lard—January, $8.37½; May, $8.52½. Ribs —January, $7.50@7.57½; May, $7.80. Rye—Cash, 67c. Barley, 76@96c. Timothy—March, $4.80. Clover, no quotations. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 93@96¾c; No. 3 red, 92@95c; No. 2 hard, 94@98¾c; No. 3 hard, 92@97¼c; No. 3 spring, 94c@$1.02; No. 1 and No. 2 northern, nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, 59½c; No. 3, 59¼@60c. Grain Gossip.

Chicago—Wheat letter:

Traders had a much better day than they anticipated at the opening. The best prices of the day were made shortly before the close. There was a strong pool selling December wheat early. The improved feeling was largely due to a much better tone in the New York stock kmarket late in the day. We still believe in decided caution about getting long on swells. Tone of trade justifies buying on the breaks.

Corn—Following our somewhat bullish advice on corn during the closing days of last week, we can say that such position is fully justified in this market. Prices were helped somewhat by better tone to the stock and wheat markets. Receiving houses here had very bullish figures on both Iowa and Illinois corn yields, some points claiming half the output of the year.

Oats—Prices made moderate gains following the lead of wheat and corn. Sample market ruled firm at 1½c advance. There is little selling pressure and the market may easily improve with corn.

Provisions—Leading brokers declare that the situation is an inviting one for investors, considered apart from the unsettled financial conditions.

FEELING OF CONFIDENCE

Prevails in New York Over the Financial Situation.

New York, Nov. 4.—The general financial situation was still tense this morning, but the town down banks and trust companies felt confident that conditions were well under control. The raising of the Bank of England discount rate to 6 per cent at a special meeting of the board of governors today was not unexpected by those familiar with conditions in Europe, although it was hoped in some quarters that this action of the governors would not be taken until the regular meeting on Thursday. The fact that $2,000,000 in gold was purchased in the open market in London during the morning for export to America probably hastened the action of the bank. This brings the total gold engagements up above $30,000,000 of which about $7,200,000 will arrive on Wednesday and $10,000,000 on Friday. While there is considerable pressure for capital in Europe it is felt that this country has the advantage in the state of the trade balance. Crops are short in Europe and it is absolutely essential to obtain American wheat and cotton at any reasonable price. These prices are much higher than in 1898, when cotton was 5 cents against about 11 cents at the present time and wheat was 70 cents against the present price of $1.07, while American steel ralls are selling at a record price. These forces, with the fact that the first half of the year showed an excess of exports of $18,000,000, as compared with a balance the other way in 1903 of $88,000,000 create a situation where it will be difficult for the European banks to hold their gold by high discount rates. Reports from Buffalo and other points indicate that the blockade in the movement of the crops is being broken and that many hundreds of carloads soon will be on shipboard in New York, against which bills can be drawn on European money markets.

It was announced today that arrangements have been made by which it may be possible for the Twelfth Ward bank, which closed its doors several days ago, to re-open next Monday.

MINERS WANT CASH.

Four Thousand Strike in Illinois Mines Against Check System.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 4.—Four thousand miners employed in the coal mines at Kellyville, Steolton and Westville, towns a few miles south of Danville are practically on strike as a result of the financial trouble. Last Thursday night the miners were notified that on next Thursday the time for the regular by-monthly pay day they would be paid in checks instead of currency, the usual way. Friday only a portion of the men were at work and Saturday the entire 4,000 failed to show up and a mass meeting of the men was called for Saturday afternoon. The men decided not to go to work today until assured that they would be paid in cash, and the mines are idle. It is said that the strike will entail serious results if it is continued for any length of time.

ONE KILLED IN TROLLEY ACCIDENT AT FRISCO.

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—A trolley car on the Polrero avenue line got beyond control of the motorman today and ran down grade to First avenue, where it came in contact with a butcher's wagon loaded with sheep. One person was killed and ten injured.

STRENGTH IN STOCKS

Developed When Limited Scope of Liquidation Was Perceived.

Losses Recovered and Advances Over Saturday's Close Recorded.

New York, Nov. 4.—Opening prices of stocks broke badly, Canadian Pacific falling an extreme 3¼, Union Pacific 3½ on a range of simultaneous quotations 1½ points apart, and the Hill stocks, Southern Pacific, Reading, Anaconda and American Smelting 2 to 2½. Most of the prominent railroad and industrial stocks were down between 1 and 2 points. The market steadied almost immediately at some recovery and became quieter.

The opening declines were the lowest generally, the market thereafter rising slowly until the greater part of the losses had been recovered. New York Central sold nearly a point above Saturday's closing, and Reading, Amalgamated Copper, United States Steel and some of the Western stocks ruled within a fraction of the close last week. A few belated declines were made. Pullman fell 3, Mackay companies 2¾, Denver & Rio Grande preferred 2¾ and Delaware & Hudson and American Car preferred 2.

The rise of 2¼ over Saturday by New York Central helped the market, and there was a gradual but comprehensive recovery of declines. Republic Steel rose 1½, Pennsylvania 1, American Sugar and Consolidated Gas 1. Dealings diminished to nominal proportions at the recovery. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. Louis sold at a decline of 4. Bonds were weak.

There were quite a few decided advances beyond Saturday's closing and the general level of prices continued to advance on more active buying. American Sugar gained 2⅞; St. Paul, 2⅝; Corn Products preferred, 2; Amalgamated Copper and Republic Steel, 1. Long Island yielded 2½.

Prices moved more briskly upward and late in the day the major portion of the list was high above Saturday's closing. St. Paul improved 3¾; Pennsylvania, 2¾; Consolidated Gas, 2½; Amalgamated Copper and Sloss-Sheffield Steel, 1¾; Colorado Fuel, 1½; Atchison and Reading, 1⅜; American Locomotive and Western Union, 1¼; Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, the United States Steel stocks, American Smelting, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Distillers' Securities, 1.

The market closed firm and quiet. Prices rose to a higher level in the final hour, Pennsylvania advancing 3½, American Locomotive preferred 3, New York Central, Cleveland, C., C. & St. Louis and Amalgamated Copper 2¾, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, Delaware & Hudson, Missouri Pacific and American Tobacco preferred 2, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie and American Smelting 1½ to 1¾, and Southern Pacific, Brooklyn Transit, American Car and others a point or more. There were only fractional concessions from these advances.

Stock Gossip.

New York to Paine, Webber & Co.: The World quotes President Stillman of the National City bank, as saying that present situation will be practically over by Wednesday.

* * *

New York to Paine, Webber & Co.: It is rumored that large blocks of stocks which were overhanging the market were taken at private sale by prominent banking interests. The ease in the call rates was also an encouraging feature. In fact, it is reported that the financial situation shows an improvement all although it should be remembered that we have not passed the critical stage and conservatism is still in order.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Nov. 4.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 14 to 24 points under near pressure and liquidation by buyers of last week, who were influenced by lower cables, the advance in the foreign discount rate and Saturday's unfavorable bank statement. Toward the middle of the morning prices rallied on covering prompted by a bullish crop estimate by a prominent Southern authority, and in the later trading active months were about 10 to 13 points net lower with January, March and May selling around 10.20.

Berlin, Nov. 4. — Prices on bourse opened very weak upon the failure of F. The declines in prices were heavy, especially in the case of Americans.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: With a total of nearly 100,000,000 pounds for a single month, the transactions on the London Metal exchange in October, amounting to 96,658,000 pounds—78,626,000 pounds for future delivery, and 18,032,000 pounds for spot—were the largest every recorded for a month, an increase over September, which in turn was the best record month up to that time, by approximately 20,000,000 pounds.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market today was a great surprise to everyone, at opening a little weak, but rallying quickly and closing at the best prices seen for several weeks. North Butte and Copper Range were very scarce and in good demand. The traders are sold out and want their stocks back. All the coppers look well and will be the easiest to move up. Tomorrow is a holiday and things will look better Wednesday morning. The crisis is past, but a readjustment will have to be made and stocks should only be bought on the weak days.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

The week opens somewhat more active on the market with no material changes in market quotations.

Shipments of fall poultry are beginning to arrive and the supply of apples and fruit such as grapes and pears is quite plentiful. The following prices are quoted up to noon today the same being furnished by the secretary of the exchange.

CHARGES OF TRESPASS

Special Officers of Railroad Seek to Stop Practices.

Car Sweepers and Coal Pickers Are the Offenders.

Trespassers are giving the West Duluth police and the special officers of the Northern Pacific railroad considerable trouble, and efforts are being made to stamp out the practices in which they indulge.

Last month several arrests were made of people detected in sweeping the grain from cars in the Northern Pacific yards and the fines imposed impressed those, who had been guilty of the practice in the past, with the fact that the railroad company has rights to be respected. For some weeks, little trouble has been experienced with that class of trespasser, but the officers are keeping a sharp lookout for any further occurrences of the kind.

Now, the officers are after the coal pickers, and the special officers of the railroad company have determined to arrest every person caught in the act of picking coal from the right-of-way. This morning, one man was arrested and he will be given a trial before Justice J. B. Flack.

In picking coal, foreigners are the principal offenders. They seem to think that the company has no right to coal which falls from their trains and it may be gathered in any quantity without fear of molestation. With the approach of cold weather, the number of coal pickers increases and the railroad officers are having more trouble keeping them off the right-of-way.

In some of the cases, children are the offenders and, acting on the belief that their elders should discourage the operations, the children also will be prosecuted. The Zenith Furnace company is also having trouble with those, who persist in picking coal in their yards and have reported several cases to the police. Besides the value of what the trespassers secure, there is considerable danger in the practice, and accidents may be avoided by a stringent enforcement of the laws.

Mooney, pastor of Holy Apostles' Episcopal church, has accepted an invitation from the St. Paul lodge of Elks to deliver the principal address at the services of the lodge on Elks' memorial day, Dec. 1. Rev. Mooney had several invitations of the kind and accepted that of the St. Paul Elks.

CURLERS TO MEET AGAIN

Membership Committee Has Good Report to Submit to Club.

Skips for the Year's Competition Will be Selected.

Tomorrow evening at their rink, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Bristol street, the members of the West Duluth Curling club will hold their second meeting of the year. Several weeks ago, they met, appointed committees and prepared for a vigorous campaign for members.

The membership committee has met with excellent success. Forecasting their report to be presented at the meeting, one of them said this morning that they will almost double the membership by their efforts. The club aims to arouse interest in curling, among as many West Duluth people as possible and the number of applications received by the membership committee indicates that they will be successful.

Since the last meeting of the club, a force of men has been put at work renovating the rink and making such improvements as the club members think necessary. The rink was thoroughly remodeled last year, the ice surface increased and the waiting rooms repaired. This year, the improvements are not so extensive, but considerable work has been done to add to the comfort of the members and the club features of the rooms.

The curlers are beginning to line up their skips, which will be chosen tomorrow evening. The skips will be elected, or appointed, for the entire year and they will chose their men to go through the year with them. The club will conduct competitions for several trophies, chief of which is the West Duluth Commercial club trophy, the possession of which is an honor coveted by every skip. Last year, the competition for it was keen and during the coming season, with the increased number of rinks and the skill acquired from more practice, it is expected it will be even more interesting.

Officers Elected.

The West Duluth Book club met Saturday with Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Highland street. The reports of the officers were received, the business of the year closed up and the following new officers elected: President, Mrs. C. R. Keyes; vice president, Mrs. L. R. Clark; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. W. J. Holmes.

Small Fire Loss.

Fire in the attic of the residence of John Doumichelle at 4820 St. Anthony street yesterday morning burned a hole through the roof and caused a slight damage before it was extinguished. The West Duluth fire department was called and put out the blaze a few minutes after arriving on the scene. The blaze was started by sparks from a stovepipe, which served as a chimney.

DEPOSITION OF MRS. CHADWICK

In the Jutte Case Will Remain Sealed No Longer.

Pittsburg, Nov. 4.—The supreme court of Pennsylvania refused to seal the deposition of the late Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, who was an important witness in the suit brought by the Colonial Trust company, this city, administrator of the estate of W. C. Jutte and his wife against James W. Friend and F. N. Hoffstot, president and vice president of the Pressed Steel Car company, for an accounting of certain stock transactions amounting to about $1,000,000.

Ever since the deposition was secured from Mrs. Chadwick while a prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, it has been the subject of bitter controversy, and many sensational reports of its contents have been circulated. The belief that startling admissions were contained in the deposition gained currency through the efforts of counsel for Hoffstot and Friend to have the document remain sealed as ordered by the lower court. In making the document public, Chief Justice Mitchell said:

"When this case was on trial, the court below, for reasons no doubt sufficient at that time, ordered a certain deposition to be sealed and we are now asked to continue the rider. We have therefore examined the deposition and find it of so little importance as to cause surprise that any question was ever made about it. The appellant's counsel expressly states that the deposition is not material to any point in his case, and it is plain that the opposing counsel in their motion are guided by their clients over sensitiveness rather than by their own good judgment. The whole matter is so insignificant we see no reason to depart from the usual course of practice. The motion to continue the sealing is therefore denied."

I make TO ORDER better SUITS AND OVERCOATS for $15, $20 or $25 than any other tailor can make for $30 $35 or $40. I guarantee perfect fit and satisfaction or I return the money. Write me for samples and self-measurement blanks and I will send them to you by return mail with instructions how to measure, all charges prepaid. Address your letter to Harry Mitchell, 320 Nicollet Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

A MARKED RELAXATION OF FINANCIAL TENSION APPARENT IN NEW YORK

Election Holiday Gives Bankers and Brokers Breathing Spell.

One of Largest Gold Consignments Ever Received Has Arrived.

Small Savers Are Taking Premiums and Depositing Much Money.

New York, Nov. 5—There was marked relaxation of tension in banking ed relaxation of tension in banking quarters today, as the election holiday in the stock exchange and banks gave Wall street the outward appearance of Sunday. Secretary Cortelyou arrived early in the day on his way to vote at Hempstead, L. I., but remained at an uptown hotel long enough to canvass the latest phases of the financial situation. Most of the financial leaders remained at home or at their clubs. The directors of the Trust Company of America are holding a special meeting today, with a view to going over the situation fully and determining their future course.

The first tangible results from the recent gold engagements came today with the arrival of the steamer Kron Prinzessin Cecilie, having $8,000,000 gold aboard. This is one of the largest gold consignments ever received, and it is counted on to exert a salutary influence in increasing the stock of available funds.

New York, Nov. 5.—Currency of all denominations and in varying stages of crispness poured into the offices of several brokerage houses in Wall street yesterday from all the nooks and crannies of New York.

Hearing that 2¼ and 2½ per cent premium was being paid for ready money, women and boys brought their savings to the financial district and exchanged them for certificated checks with the premium increase which they deposited forthwith in the banks.

In the offices of Mann, Bill & Ware, No. 38 Wall street, one of the firms that led in the premium paying, there was a never-ending line of assorted personalities throughout the day. They came from the East side principally and they carried their savings, which ranged all the way from $1 to $2 to $5,000 or $6,000, in paste board shoe boxes, in toy banks, in old socks tied with a bit of cord, in their pockets, and in one case, in a derby hat.

In one of the brokerage offices a lad appeared with $200, his savings from the sale of newspapers for three years. This he exchanged for a certificated check, including the premium.

Before the closing of hauling hours today $8,000,000 in gold coin and bullion, part of the cargo of the North German Lloyd steamship Kron Prinzessin Cecilie, will have been deposited in various banks of this city, a part of the flood of gold now on its way to this country from Europe.

The Kron Prinzessin left Bremen Oct. 24. Following almost in her wake, is the Cunarder Lusitania, from Liverpool, with $10,000,000 stored in her strong boxes for the relief of money-famished New Yorkers.

DULUTH MAN IS ONE OF VICTIMS

Four Miners Dead From Wood Alcohol in Arizona.

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 5.—The bodies of four men were discovered by a track walker near Maricopa. Investigation showed that death resulted from drinking wood alcohol stolen from a box car. The men were probably miners as one carried a union card from Globe in the name of Fitzpatrick. The fifth member of the party attempted to escape, but was captured by officers. When taken before a justice of the peace at Maricopa, he stated that the party reached there the previous day. In the evening they broke open a box car for the purpose of stealing and found a can of wood alcohol. All but himself drank the alcohol, and immediately after were taken with convulsions and died.

Following are the names of the dead: Thomas Fitzpatrick, a member of the miners' union of Globe; Charles Coughlin, who gave his address as Chicago; Ed Brink, of Duluth. The name of the fourth victim is not known.

WEALTHY MERCHANT KILLED BY BURGLAR.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—James W. Allaway, a wealthy commission merchant of Los Angeles, Cal., was killed by a burglar early today at the home of his brother, Edward Allaway, at 418 South Water avenue. The burglar escaped from the house without being seen by any of the family. The murder occurred while detectives from a nearby station were searching the neighborhood for a man who attempted to burglarize two other houses only a few blocks distant from the Allaway home. The murdered man had been here only since Sunday.

HELEN MALONEY,
The Philadelphia Heiress, Who Eloped, Has Been Reconciled to Her Father and Will Return Home.

ABANDONS HIS TOUR

Secretary Taft Will Come Directly Home From Manila.

Conditions at Vladivostok Are Cause of the Change.

Manila, Nov. 5.—Secretary of War Taft, it is reported, will abandon his European trip and will return directly to the Pacific coast. He will leave Manila on Nov. 9 on the American flagship Rainbow for Yokohama, where he will take passage for San Francisco. This report has been verified, though owing to the absence of Mr. Taft, who is out of town visiting the new waterworks, he cannot be interviewed upon the political situation and the conditions prevailing at Vladivostok, which it is reported are the cause of his recent determination.

RECONCILED WITH FATHER

Helen Maloney, Eloping Heiress, to Return to Her Home.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—The North American says: Helen Maloney, the daughter of Martin Maloney, the wealthy financier of this city, and wife of Herbert Osborne, who eloped with Samuel Clarkson, a young Englishman, on Oct. 4, has had a reconciliation with her father, and is either in America or on her way here.

Mr. Maloney is said to be still in Europe, although he may return to his home here at any time. Mrs. Mahoney is in a sanitarium in this city and the condition of her health is such that she cannot be seen by her closest friends. The reconciliation between Mrs. Osborne and her father took place some time before Samuel Clarkson returned to London and took up bachelor apartments in that city.

INJURED IN WRECK.

Brother of Bemidji Man is Quite Seriously Hurt.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elmer Alton, driver for the Bemidji meat market, has received word that his brother, Eben Alton, had been very seriously injured in a wreck on the Soo railway at Tomahawk, Wis., and that there is little hope of saving the injured man's life.

Eben Alton was a passenger on the train which was wrecked at Tomahawk late Saturday evening. His left leg was broken in three places, and his right hip and knee broken and badly mangled. He was taken to a hospital at Tomahawk, where it was found necessary to amputate his left leg close to the hip.

Elmer Alton left last evening for Tomahawk to assist in caring for his brother.

COME TO HIS AID.

Modern Woodmen of America Respond Nobly to Appeal for Aid.

Cass Lake, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Kennedy, who was injured in the J. Niels saw mill last fall to such an extend that it was necessary to amputate both arms, has just received a check for $2,000 from the Modern Woodmen of America. Soon after Kennedy was injured, an appeal was made to the 1800 different lodges throughout the country with the result that $2,000 was subscribed for the injured man. Kennedy has brought suit against the J. Niels Lumber company for $90,000. The case will be tried at the coming session of court.

PRESIDENT CASTS VOTE

Goes to Oyster Bay to Exercise Right of Suffrage.

Deposits Ballot, Rides Around Town and Starts Back.

New York, Nov. 5.—President Roosevelt and party arrived at Jersey City at 7:10 this morning on his way to Oyster Bay to vote. The president had not finished dressing when the train reached the station and arrangements were made for breakfasting in his private car, which delayed his departure on the tug Lancaster for Long Island City until 8 o'clock.

Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou left the party at Jersey City to go to his home in Hempstead to vote. The secretary said, in answer to an inquiry, that there was nothing to be said this morning on the financial situation. It is understood that he embraced the opportunity last night of discussing financial affairs with the president.

When the tug boat, bearing the president, reached Long Island City, there was a crowd in waiting at the station and the chief executive was given a cheer as he stepped ashore. Immediately after entering his private car, which was to take him to Oyster Bay, he came out on the rear platform and stood there, bowing and waiving his hand until the train pulled out of the station.

President Roosevelt arrived at Oyster Bay shortly before 10 a. m. He was met by Mrs. J. West Roosevelt and drove in her carriage to the polling place in a hall across the street from the rooms formerly occupied as the executive offices. As the president stepped from the carriage, he was greeted and cheered by a throng of his neighbors, with most of whom he shook hands. He was then given ballot No. 84 and spent four minutes in preparing it to be cast.

After casting his vote, one of the bystanders asked him if he had not voted for a Democrat—Willard Bartlett—who was nominated by both parties for the court of appeals. The president responded with a laugh, saying "It is a vile aspersion."

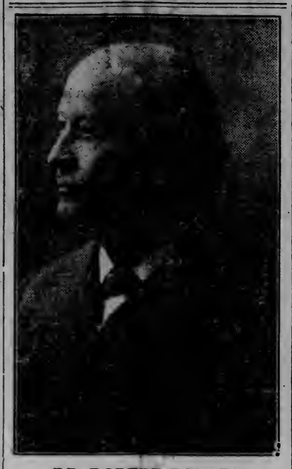
Leaving the polling place, the president went for a drive about the village with Mrs. J. West Roosevelt. He left Oyster Bay about 11 o'clock.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Nine-Year-Old Ellen Olson Perishes Near Chamberlain.

Akeley, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ellen Olson, 9 years old, of Chamberlain, was burned to death while herding cattle near her home, with several other little children. She was the daughter of Mrs. Olson, a widow, and went out to herd the cattle. Some one started a fire, the little girl's clothing caught fire, and before relief came she was so badly burned that she died immediately afterwards. She suffered terribly from the burns before death.

ELECTIONS PROGRESSING IN THIRTEEN STATES ON LOCAL ISSUES LARGELY



DR. ROBERT FORBES,
Appointed Secretary of the Methodist Home Missions and Church Extension, to Succeed the Late Rev. James M. King.

Johnson-Burton Fight in Cleveland Attracts Attention.

In New York Perennial Contest Against Tammany is On.

Voters Are Largely Apathetic and Little Interest is Shown.

Washington, Nov. 5.—So far as received, the returns from the various states, municipal and county elections, which are in progress in thirteen states today indicate an interest in local, rather than national questions. The early morning prospect was favorable to large votes in Cleveland, Ohio, where Mayor Johnson and Representative Burton are engaged in a political duel, which challenges the attention of the entire country; in New York county, where the perennial fight against Tammany is again on; in Salt Lake and San Francisco, where local conditions are acute, and in Kentucky and Maryland, in both of which states the Republicans are making strenuous efforts to displace the present Democratic senators with Republicans.

The general situation is such as to justify the conclusion that the issues for the national campaign are yet to be formulated.

Fair weather prevails in all sections of the country, except in parts of the lake region, New York and New England, where there are areas of clouds and local rains. The temperature is everywhere moderate. Even where unfavorable conditions prevail, they are not so bad as to be an important factor in keeping people away from the polls.

Seldom has an election occurred that has taken so few people out of the government offices. Indeed, the change in this respect would not be noticed, except for the absence of the heads of the departments and not half of those are away. Secretary Cortelyou went with the president to New York; Postmaster General Meyer is in Massachusetts and Attorney General Bonaparte is in Baltimore. Some of the heads of the bureaus and chiefs of division have

TO ESCAPE PURSUERS.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—While laboring under the hulucination that he was being pursued by men who wanted his life, Joseph Schrafer, a laboring man, who came from Fargo, attempted to cut his throat, at Funkley, forty miles north of this city, Saturday night.

DR. FORBES SECRETARY

Elected Head of Methodist Home Missions and Church Extensions.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 5.—At the business session of the board of bishops of the Methodist church yesterday, Robert Forbes of the Northern Minnesota conference, was selected to succeed Dr. J. M. King, deceased, as secretary for the home missions and church extension. Rev. Ward Platt of the Northern New York conference was elected to succeed Dr. Forbes as assistant corresponding secretary.

The foregoing will be good news to the many frends of Dr. Forbes in Duluth.

As pastor of Asbury M. E. church in West Duluth, and later as presiding elder of the district, Dr. Forbes probably made more friends and admirers in the city than any pastor who has been here in recent years. The office to which he has been appointed is one of the most important within the gift of the church. It is national in its scope, and in his new position Dr. Forbes will have almost entire charge of the funds which are each year distributed among the missions and struggling young churches of the Methodist denomination in the United States. The business of the board is to place new churches in outlying districts and help support them until they are strong enough to support themselves.

EXTRA

HAVEN NAMED FOR MAYORALTY

Nominated by Republican Caucus at City Hall.

Got Majority of Delegates on the Tenth Ballot.

By a unanimous vote, the forty Republican delegates in attendance at the convention in the council chamber this afternoon, voted to name Alderman R. D. Haven as the next Republican candidate for mayor after a hot fight between him and Coroner McCuen.

On the first ballot, the delegates stood as follows: Haven, 18; McCuen, 12; Culkin, 2; Meader, 1; Brewer, 1.

On the second ballot, several of the delegates switched to Coroner McCuen, and the vote stood as follows: McCuen, 19; Haven, 14; Wilson, 4; Barnes, 2; Brewer, 2.

The voting was all by secret ballot and behind closed doors.

Several other ballots were then taken, the result of which could not be learned by The Herald representative in his post of vantage, but on the ninth ballot there was a deadlock, McCuen and Haven each having twenty votes.

At this stage of the proceedings, the big crowd of curious persons in the hall became too much interested to contain themselves longer, and the door gave way under their pressure.

On the next ballot two of the delegates switched to Alderman Haven, who was nominated by a vote of 22 to 18. On the motion of W. B. Henderson it was made unanimous, and the Seventh ward alderman was given an ovation by the delegates present and the spectators in the hallway.

SHIELDING MAN'S WIFE

Results in Fatal Wound for a St. Paul Man.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shot down on his doorstep yesterday afternoon Charles Rychmann, 50 years old, 886 Gorman avenue. West St. Paul, a bookkeeper, employed by the Great Northern road, lies dying at Dr. H. A. Drechsler's private hospital, 222 Prescott street, with a bullet hole through his left lung, while his assailant Henry Fehrmann, 55 years of age, a shoe maker, rooming at 36 East Third street, raves in the county jail. Rychmann's condition is regarded almost as hopeless; his chances for recovery are one in a hundred. Rychmann was shielding Fehrmann's wife from attack by her husband.

Rychmann was shot down on his own doorstep at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Fehrmann, who in a frenzy drew a revolver and fired deliberately at his unsuspecting victim for ordering him off the premises. Immediately after the shooting, Fehrmann walked down South Robert street several blocks to a saloon, where he was arrested by Patrolman Carey of the Ducas street stration. His only explanation of the shooting is that Rychmann tried to hit him with a rock.

Because of Fehrmann's vagaries and because he will not work steadily and support his family, Mrs. Fehrmann has not been living with him.

Fehrmann came to his wife's home and sought a reconciliation. He had promised to behave himself so often, however, that she refused to hear him. He became very angry at this, and drawing a revolver, the same one with which he shot Rychmann, threatened his wife. She ran to the Rychmann home for protection and Fehrmann followed her.

MYSTERY IN BILLIK CASE

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Renewed interest regarding Herman Billik, the Bohemian fortune teller and magician, who is under sentence to be hanged for murdering the family of Martin Vrzal by means of poison, has been aroused by the sudden mysterious death last night of William Nieman, husband of Emma Vzral Nieman. Nieman's wife was the state's chief witness in the Billik case and charged that Billik poisoned her father and four sisters, and caused her mother to commit suicide after he had spent most of the money the mother got in life insurance. Billik has steadily maintained his innocence and declared that the murders were the work of a person closer than he to the victims. Rev. P. J. O'Callaghan, formerly of New York, and now superior of the Paulist priests in Chicago, made an appeal from the pulpit recently for funds to appeal Billik's case to the Illinois supreme court, dramatically declaring Billik innocent, and a victim of popular prejudice. The death of Nieman following this incident and apparently without any possibility that Billik, who is in jail, could be responsible, has greatly encouraged those who seek to have Billik eventually set free.

FIRST CASE OF IMPEACHMENT

Of Italian Minister Causes Much Excitement in Italy.

Rome, Nov. 5.—The trial of Signor Nunzio Nasi, former minister of public instruction, who is charged with the falsification of documents and defrauding the state treasury out of several million lire, began today before the senate, constituted as a high court of justice. Michael Lombardo, who was under secretary of finance, was placed on trial with Nasi, charged with implication in the frauds.

The charges against Nasi and Lombardo have caused considerable excitement throughout Italy, this being the first case of the impeachment of an Italian minister, and also because the two defendants, who were born in Sicily, maintain their innocence and claim that they are being subjected to political persecution, the result being that serious disorders on the part of Sicilians are threatened if Nasi and Lombardo are convicted.

The feeling for and against the accused has been very great from the time their prosecution was determined upon and the authorities allowed them to be imprisoned in their own homes, instead of sending them to jail. This, however, did not prevent serious rioting in Sicily in the prisoner's favor as well as at Reggio di Calabra. At one time the excitement in Sicily was so intense that 300 marines were landed at once from the battleship Sardegna in order to maintain order, and artillery was posted in the streets of Palermo.

ATTEMPT AT HARASSING

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Judge Kohlsaat, in the United States circuit court today, issued an injunction restraining George F. Harding of the city, from prosecuting in the state courts, the suit recently started by Harding, asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Corn Products company.

It is claimed in the prayer for the injunction against Harding that a similar suit was brought some time ago by a company of which Harding is the head, and that the present action contemplated by him is merely an attempt to harass the Corn Products company. Final hearing on the application for the injunction will be had on Nov. 12.

Harding claimed in his application for a receiver that the Standard Oil company in conjunction with certain individuals had conspired to wreck the Corn Products company.

Accused Forger Examined.
Carl R. Lind was examined for insanity in the probate court yesterday afternoon, but no determination in his case was reached as the court decided that Lind was outside his jurisdiction. Lind is confined at the county jail to answer to the grand jury on the charge of forgery and it is claimed that the probate court cannot deal with him until the criminal proceedings are disposed of in the district court. Mrs. Lind claims that her husband imagines that he possesses great wealth while in reality he is penniless.

Cash Fares Required.
The street railway company is not accepting checks in payment for fares. Mr. Warren says the conductors will continue to accept currency and the coupon tickets regularly issued for the purpose. If they accept checks it will be on their own responsibility. It is understood that if the company began cashing checks to secure the small amount of a fare it would very soon be cleaned out of change, something that is a necessity in its business.

Bain-McKinnon Nuptials.
A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison M. Bain, 1127 East Fifth street, at 8 o'clock last evening when Winifred, their daughter, was united in marriage to John W. McKinnon of this city, receiver of money for the street railway company. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Campbell Coyle of the First Presbyterian church and was witnessed by the relatives and immediate friends of the bride and groom. Miss Jessie Bain, a sister of the bride was bridesmaid, and Don Bain, a brother, was best man. Mr. McKinnon is very popular among his fellow employes who presented the couple with a handsome clock and a set of Haviland china dishes. They will be at home after today at 2505 West Second street.

Race at Superior.
John St. Antoine, the West end runner, will go to Superior, Friday night for a matched race with Hussey, "the boy wonder," champion roller skater of Superior. St. Antoine is to run four laps, while Hussey is traveling five and one-half laps on rollers. St. Antoine met Le Beau under the same conditions in the Lincoln park rink a few weeks ago and won out, and he expects to be able to dispose of Hussey also.

Fancy Roller Skaters.
Prof. Frank and daughter of New York, fancy and trick roller skaters, arrived in Duluth today and are at the Lenox. They will appear at the Temple rink three nights, in exhibitions of roller skating and Manager Shea counts them one of the attractions of the season.

Owner Wants Damages.
John Atchison is defendant in the district court in a civil action instituted by Miss Alice White to recover $42.50 alleged to be due her under a certain contract and on a promissory note. In her complaint, Miss White says that Atchison was given charge of her farm in section 17, 144-63, with the understanding that he was to do a certain amount of tilling and plowing. She claims that he did not do as agreed and that she has been damaged in the amount of $85, the reasonable cost of the plowing that should have been done. She also alleges that Atchison executed to her his promissory note for $138.50, dated Feb. 7, 1906, and due Oct. 1, the same year, no part of which, it is said, has been paid.

Claim Violation of Contract.
Arthur L. Sheldon has started suit in the district court against Charles Sexton to compel the latter to receive $1,150, and give the plaintiff a deed conveying title to lots 3, 6, 7 and 8, in section 8, 68-19, comprising 127.36 acres. Sheldon claims that Aug. 27 last, he paid Sexton $50 earnest money on the proposed purchase of the property described, but that Sexton afterward repudiated the contract.

FUNERAL OF M. J. FORBES HELD

Board of Trade Members Attend in a Body.

Hundreds of personal friends and business associates of Melvin J. Forbes were present this afternoon, when the remains of the veteran commission man, who died Sunday, were started on their way to his boyhood home in Bridgewater, Mass., for interment. The Duluth board of trade, of which Mr. Forbes had been a member for many years, closed at noon in respect to his memory and the members attended the funeral in a body.

Services were conducted at 3 o'clock at the late home of Mr. Forbes, 530 East Second street, by Rev. R. S. Read of St. Paul's church, the beautiful funeral ceremonial of the Episcopal church being solemnized in the presence of a large gathering of mourning friends. The funeral cortege proceeded to the Omaha depot and the remains were placed on the Omaha train. Accompanied by A. K. Pratt of Boston, they will be taken to Bridgewater, Mass., where they will be placed in the final resting place Friday.

The pall-bearers were: A. L. Ordean, H. M. Peyton, G. G. Barnum, Judge J. D. Ensign, George Spencer and A. K. Pratt of Boston.

Case is Dropped.
Mrs. Hattie Webb, the widow who secreted her little boy, who was ill with diphtheria, from the health officers, called at the assistant attorney's office in response to a letter from that department. A satisfactory explanation was made and the case will be dropped, it is understood. Mrs. Webb did not seem to realize that she was violating the law and as no serious results have occurred the department is not disposed to push the case.

WILL MEET THURSDAY

County Board May Take Action on Courthouse Appropriation.

Commission Claims That $700,000 is Not Large Enough.

The monthly meeting of the county board will occur Thursday at the courthouse. Tomorrow the various committees will dispose of their work preliminary to the reports to be made the board the following day.

Outside the routine business of the board the new matters that will come up for the attention of the commissioners is purely speculative.

There has been some talk relative to the situation regarding the new courthouse plans and suggestions have been made that interested taxpayers should attend the board meeting and ask the commissioners to take some action as it is up to the county board to make the initial move to procure additional ground for the location of the new courthouse or to acquire a site other than that selected at the corner of Fourth avenue west and First street.

It is quite possible that the members of the board will discuss the proposition of increasing the $700,000 appropriation for the new building to $1,250,000. According to the views of the courthouse commission, the present appropriation is insufficient to erect a building that will fill the needs of the county officers.

Another subject that may come up for discussion is the proposed house of detention for juveniles in connection with the county juvenile court.

Several petitions are said to have been circulated asking the county board to authorize the relocation and establishment of lost section corner posts in various parts of the county, and it is expected that some of these petitions will be presented Thursday. The new petitions are said to have caused some talk to the effect that the board might reconsider its action at the last meeting in directing the county surveyor to relocate some corner posts for a number of settlers represented by C. B. Miller.

Colds and Croup in Children.
"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. William H. Serig, No. 41, Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

CONFEDERATE MONEY PASSED

Crooks Succeed in Working Off $20 Notes for Coin.

In the present times of financial stringency, when everybody grasps at anything that has the color of real United States treasury certificates, a gang of crooks have evidently unearthed a lot of money of the Confederate States of America and intend to work it off on a gullible public clamoring for currency instead of cashiers' checks.

In a measure, they have been successful. The proprietor of a candy store at Sixth avenue west and First street reported to the police today that a man had passed a Confederate bill for $20 over his counter and secured $19.75 in change and 25 cents worth of candy. The man walked into the store shortly before noon, called for the candy and tendered the bill in payment. The storekeeper did not take the trouble to examine it closely and not until the customer had vanished did he discover he had given out good money for a "phony" note. He gave the police a description of the "shover" and they are looking for him.

A Bowery saloonkeeper discovered yesterday morning that he had a $20 Confederate note among his receipts of Saturday night and he started out to find the man who pushed it across his bar. He rounded up Pete Messick, a young Greek, and took him to the police station. The Greek admitted having passed the bill and agreed to pay the saloon man real money in its stead. He was then taken before the federal authorities and questioned closely. He said he had received the bill from a saloon at Knife River, where it was undoubtedly passed by some smooth crook.

The case today, coming so closely after the other, is an indication that a systematic effort is being made to work off a quantity of the bills and illiterate foreigners, in business in the city, have been warned to be careful, as the words "Confederate States of America" are probably as full of meaning to them as the proper inscription.

QUARREL OVER COW'S FROLIC

Otto Witte was acquitted in the municipal court today of assaulting Mrs. Runke. The parties to the action are neighbors on the Hermantown road and the trouble between them is alleged to have arisen over the roving proclivities of a cow that Witte recently purchased from another neighbor. According to the testimony the cow went calling on some bovines in the Runke herd and forgot to go home. Witte is said to have sent his boy after the cow and the youngster had to drive several of the Runke cows along to coax his bossy into her own yard. When the other cows were driven back to the Runke yard, it is alleged, an altercation arose between Mrs. Runke and the elder Witte and Runke's dog, so Witte claimed, attempted to sample his person. Witte is claimed to have threatened to kill the dog and do other things to the damage of the complaining witness.

THEY FAVOR FOUBISTER.

Delegations Ask Eighth Ward Alderman to Run Again.

Alderman James E. Foubister of the Eighth ward has been urged by his friends in the ward to make the race for re-election at the next election, and it seems likely that he will respond to the pressure and become a candidate again.

A delegation of prominent Republicans waited upon him recently and urged his candidacy, and since then men prominent in business circles in his ward and representing an independent element in politics, have urged him to again enter the race and pledged their support.

LIKES WESTERN CANADA.

Henry Mehlhorn Secured a Homestead in Saskatchewan.

Henry Melhorn has returned from Davidson, Saskatchewan, Canada, where he secured full title to a homestead, having fulfilled all the requirements of the law. The crops there were immense, but owing to late seeding and early frosts, the wheat was injured somewhat. Barley, oats, flax, and other cereals turned out well. There was also an abundant crop of potatoes.

Mr. Mehlhorn is very enthusiastic over the prospects of Western Canada. The homestead law there is lenient. Instead of being required to spend five full years on the land, as in the United States, the homesteader has only to live on it six months in each of three successive years, when he secures full claim. The government aids the farmers as much as possible, furnishing drills and men for digging wells, trees for planting, and in other ways encourages the homeseekers.

Broom grass hay is being planted quite freely in Western Canada, and Mr. Mehlhorn expects to sow several acres of it next year.

The new immigration law, requiring a fee of $4 from every alien entering has been put into effect, but Mr. Mehlhorn says it does not deter the immigration.

The young people met at the court room and after a short confidential chat asked the court to marry them. Judge Windom tied the knot and they departed, both evidently well pleased at the outcome.

CANADIAN ROAD WORK

C. G. Johnson Talks of Grand Trunk Pacific Construction.

Shortage of Labor Over--- Vast Amount of Rock Work.

C. G. Johnson of the firm of Anderson & Johnson, which has contracts in the construction work of the Grand Trunk Pacific road aggregating something more than $2,000,000, is in the city today on private business. Mr. Johnson, who formerly operated in Northern Minnesota, says there is a vast army of men at work on the Canadian road, but that the heavy rock cuts that have to be made in so many districts are greatly delaying the game. There has been a labor shortage in the Dominion, as well as in the United States.

"The construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific is a tremendous job," said the contractor this morning. "It is hard telling just when it will be completed, but when the last spike is driven the big transcontinental line will be one of the finest in the world, with the best possible roadbed and the easiest possible grade. We have been working on our contracts now since July, 1906, and you can get an idea of the amount of rock work that has been done when I say that we have been a year and a half on a single cut, and have not completed it yet. In one of our cuts we have to remove 60,000 cubic yards of rock. That is a good deal, when you come to figure it out.

"There has been a shortage of labor in Canada as well as in the United States. We have had considerable difficulty in getting enough men for the work, and the same condition has held true all along the line. From the fact that there is so much rock work on our contract you might think that we were in the Western mountains, but as a matter of fact the scene of our operations is in the district just north of Lake Superior. That whole region is rocky. I am inclined to believe that labor will be plentiful very shortly now, however, and the chances for a drop in wages are very good. Probably half the sub-contractors along the Grand Trunk are from the United States. Station men are making particularly good money along the Grand Trunk.

"Money is very tight in Winnipeg."

INCREASE IS VERY LARGE

Last month broke all existing records of the Lake Superior Car Service association in the number of cars handled at the Head of the Lakes. The total for the thirty-one days was 55,942, as compared with 48,225 during the same month in 1906. The increase was largely in coal and grain.

October and November always are the busiest months of the year for the association, but generally November is the busiest period. The indications are that the financial situation will retard the movement of freight through the Northwest and elsewhere in the United States for a time now, and if this is the case it is hardly expected that the November record this year will be as high as last month's, so that October will probably stand as the biggest month of the year.

Heretofore the record for the number of cars handled by the Lake Superior association was held by November, 1906, when the total was 48,225. According to these figures last month beats the previous record by 7,332 cars, and the total of October, 1906, by 7,717 cars. This is considered a remarkable increase.

Coal is still moving forward very freely, and judging by the amount of coal that has been sent into the interior from the Head of the Lakes this year, there is small danger of a serious coal famine through the West this winter, although the supplies may run short in some sections. Nothing like last winter's fuel famine need be feared, however.

THE MARKET FLOODED.

No More Men Wanted for Western Railroad Work.

For the first time in several months the demand for men for railroad work in the West has fallen off. The National Employment company yesterday received a telegram from British Columbia, where thousands of men have been sent from Duluth during the last few months for railroad work, cancelling all orders, giving as a reason for such action the fact that no more men were needed, and that the contractors had all the help they could possibly use. Advices from other parts of the West contained the same information.

For the past two months there have been standing orders for men for western railroad work on the books of the leading employment companies of Duluth, and it is estimated that close to 3,000 men have been sent from the Head of the Lakes on these jobs during that period. Louis Landmark, who has a contract with the Great Northern at Fernie, B. C., and who formerly resided at Cloquet, Minn., operating extensively in the northern part of the state, was in the city yesterday and said that the western labor market was flooded. He is working about 1,000 men, and says he could easily get as many more if he needed them.

HEARING ON PETITION

Court Hears Soo Road's Application for Right of Way.

Other Railroads Oppose Proposed Grade Crossings of Tracks.

A hearing in the condemnation proceedings instituted by the Duluth-Thunder Bay Railway company to secure a right-of-way through Duluth and make certain grade crossings with other railroads, was started this morning before Judge W. A. Cant.

There were really two separate proceedings, but stipulation has been made between the parties to try both condemnation cases together. There is still another case in which the city is interested, one in which the railway company seeks to obtain a right-of-way for certain street crossings.

The proceedings this morning brought out quite a display of legal talent and the presence in the court room of a number of prominent railroad men both from the city and out of town.

Prominent Railroad Men Here.

Among those present were C. E. Wales of Minneapolis, president of the Pittsburg Coal company and president of the Duluth-Thunder Bay Railway company, which is generally understood to be controlled by the Soo interests; President McGonagle of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road; Supt. Blanchard of the Northern Pacific road, and several other prominent railroad officials of the various railway lines entering Duluth.

The Duluth-Thunder Bay company was represented in the legal proceedings by H. B. Fryberger, local attorney for the Soo interests. The Northern Pacific and the Omaha roads were represented by Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell; the Great Northern road by C. O. Baldwin; the Capitol Elevator company by Luther Harris. Other property owners interested in the condemnation proceedings were represented by Judge R. S. Powell and M. Douglas.

The reading of the petition, setting forth the right-of-way, and the crossings which the new road wishes to make with the other railroads, occupied nearly all the morning session of the court.

Before the noon adjournment Mr. Fryberger had dismissed the proceedings as to certain persons who have no interest in the property sought, and introduced in evidence the petitions, some of the plats and other papers in the case.

Washburn Begins Objections.

Mr. Washburn made objection to some of the documentary exhibits, and an agreement was made between parties whereby an objection by any of the defendants hereafter will be regarded as an objection by all unless some exception is stated.

The attorney and the railroad men in court were plentifully supplied with blue prints showing the route over which the Soo road proposes entering the city along Rice's Point, also charts showing the locations of the various docks, elevators and spur tracks.

Part of Route Acquired.

Mr. Fryberger stated that the Duluth-Thunder Bay Railway company has already acquired by purchase its right of way from the interstate bridge to the Northern Pacific crossing, with the exception of a small tract of land owned by the Northern Pacific interests, and another owned by Luther Mendenhall. It is expected to acquire the right of way over these tracts through the condemnation proceedings.

According to the route laid out by the new road, it proposes to cross the Northern Pacific and Omaha tracks with grade crossings, pass under the Great Northern steel viaduct, make a wide curve, cross several spur tracks, cross under the Great Northern viaduct again and make another grade crossing with the Omaha tracks.

The other railroads are making a determined fight to prevent the Duluth-Thunder Bay company from making the crossing proposed.

SUPERIOR NEWS

WORK FINISHED.

Great Northern Engineer's Office at Superior, Closed.

Though no official confirmation has been secured, it is practically certain that the order has gone out for the closing of the resident engineer's office of the Great Northern railroad in Superior, and the consequent suspension of all construction work now being in the northern division of the system.

F. A. Walker, who has been acting as resident engineer, will be returned to the general offices at St. Paul immediately, it is said, and the remainder of the forces laid off, at least for the winter.

The most important work undertaken by the Great Northern in this district this summer, the cut-off for about twenty-five miles at Kelly Lake, has been completed and the suspension of work at this time will have little effect, as the jobs now in hand are all comparatively small and of little importance. Some spurs and sidetracks are under construction on the ranges, and the Allouez line, but otherwise there is nothing to keep the forces busy i nthe immediate future.

Held for Assault.

Thomas Laughren, who is claimed to have stabbed Henry Cunningham in a Banks avenue saloon Saturday evening, was arraigned in municipal court yesterday and was held on $2,000 bail for a hearing Nov. 12. He was unable to furnish a bond and was remanded to the county jail. Laughren still maintains that his mind is a blank as to what transpired Saturday evening. Cuningham is resting easy in the hospital and will probably be recovered sufficiently to attend the hearing a week hence.

Held for Manslaughter.

The coroner's jury summoned to investigate the death of Gabriel Vongel rendered a verdict that he was killed by a bullet fired by Andrew Glouchak. The testimony indicated that Vongel and Glouchak were engaged in a dispute, the former being armed with a "billy" and the latter with a revolver. Glouchak claims Vongel attacked him with the "billy" and that he, Glouchak, fired in self-defense.

Check Was Too Large.

Because J. Rovelsky, a music dealer, of South Superior refused to cash a check for Valdisk Simvontz, the latter is claimed to have assaulted Rovelsky and destroyed some of his property. Simvontz is said to have purchased a musical instrument for $4 and tendered a certified check for $671. Rovelsky said he could not cash a check in that amount, whereupon his customer is said to have beaten him.

Police Station Visitor Has Performed Wonderful Feats.

Olie Linberg, a well-known character who has been a frequent visitor at police headquarters for years, dropped in this morning slightly the worse for liquor.

Olie was making no disturbance, but he just dropped in to report to Acting Capt. Fiskett that he had killed one or two men recently and gave Aguinaldo a severe race for his life when he was across the pond on a scouting expedition.

Olie is a little off in his head and imagines strange things. He is considered harmless, although the police keep a close eye on his actions. His vagaries seem to run to deeds of prowess and violence he imagines he has performed.

T. B. WALKER OPTIMISTIC REGARDING THE OUTLOOK

Prominent Minneapolis Lumberman Says Country is Prosperous.

Business Interests Will Display More Conservative Tone, However.

T. B. Walker, one of the heaviest timber owners in the world, owner of vast cuttings in the rapidly diminishing timber belt of Minnesota and Wisconsin, and interested in thousands of acres of timber land on the Pacific coast and in the great Southwestern pine belts, was in Duluth today on business connected with his Minnesota holdings.

Mr. Walker is the oldest lumberman in the state. He has been in the lumber business from its feeble inception in the early days until today, when the interests held by him and his various business associates, extend from the northern part of the state to the great timber regions of Washington, Oregon, British Columbia and the yellow pine districts of Arkansas and the Southwest.

No Lasting Effect.

When seen at the Spalding today by a Herald reporter, Mr. Walker was inclined to view the present financial flurry in an optimistic light. He does not anticipate a lasting blight upon the great prospriety of the country as a result of the present stringency. On the contrary, he believes that aside from a slight curtailment in the various big interests of the country, resulting necessarily in a lessened demand for certain products, that no great or lasting distress will come out of the scarcity of money.

Mr. Walker can already feel the effects of the readjustment of other interests in his own business. The railroads are curtailing their demand for products, such as lumber, iron, etc., but he believes that business will readjust itself to meet this change made imperative by financial conditions, and will continue on a more conservative scale until the effects of the present situation have worn away.

Curtail Output.

When asked regarding the retrenchment among the lumber companies, both of Minnesota, the general Northwest and the Pacific coast, Mr. Walker said: "The curtailment of the demand for lumber of the great railroads, and an anticipation of a still greater curtailment in the future, has lead the lumbermen to recede from the heavy operating scale of the past few years. The railroads are demanding much less lumber, owing to the inauguration of a financial policy necessitating a smaller outlay, and as a result we find that the demand for our product is falling off.

"This is true in regard to the operation of the lumber companies on the Pacific coast, as well as the operations in this state. The railroads have found it necessary to meet the present money stringency by a curtailment in operating expenses, and our business is feeling the result."

"Is there a lessened demand for lumber all over the country?" was asked Mr. Walker.

"There is," replied Mr. Walker; "it is to this falling off in the demand that the lumbering interests have found it expedient to meet the situation by a lessened output. Naturally, we will do less cutting when the demand for our product is curtailed.

"I do not anticipate a lasting ill effect from the present situation. If the people do not foolishly draw their money from the banks, and if they view the present financial situation in a calm spirit, I can see no reason for any dread as to its outcome. For some time there will be a recession from the lavish scale of business of the past. Business will learn to adjust itself to the new conditions, imposed by a lessened circulation of money, but in the end matters will gradually resume a normal aspect."

Country Prosperous.

"The country is prosperous," Mr. Walker answered, in reply to a question as to the great natural resources of the country." The business condition is good throughout the breadth of the country, but for the next two years, possibly, business will recede somewhat. I don't look for any positive hardship growing out of this enforced retrenchment, but the big interests, such as the railroads, will not proceed with new extensions, constructions, or purchase new operating material as they have in the past. New rolling stock and equipment will necessarily be curtailed and this will have an effect on other lines of industry dependent upon their heavy operations. The lumber industry, as I said before, is feeling this retrenchment and has had to meet it, but, mind, I am not predicting hard times; nothing like it; I am predicting a general conservative tone in business, until the temporary set-back has abated somewhat."

Rebuilding Old Ironsides.

The work of reconstructing the old frigate Constitution, more familiarly known as "Old Ironsides," has progressed so far that she is about ready for the guns and which are to be exact duplicates of those used a century ago. When the system needs rebuilding there is no better remedy for the work than the famous Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It was first compounded over half a century ago, and on account of its intrinsic merit has grown in popularity until today it stands first in its class. Be persuaded to try a bottle the next time the appetite is poor, nerves unstrung, bowels constipated and sleep restless. It will be sufficient to convince you of its great curative powers. It also cures and prevents dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache, chills, colds, or female ills.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well known authority. Every man, woman and child here should dress as warmly as possible, and, above all else, keep the feet dry. Avoid colds and exposure, and don't become constipated.

Rheumatism is strictly a blood disease, caused by inactive kidneys, which, through cold or exposure or improper diet, fail in their duty of filtering the rheumatic poisons from the blood. This poisonous waste matter, uric acid, oxilate of lime, urea, etc., if not strained from the blood promptly, decomposes and settles about the joints and muscles, causing rheumatic disease.

In damp or chilly cold weather the kidneys are made to do double work. The pores of the skin all over the body do not assist in eliminating the poisons of the body, throwing this work to the kidneys, which become clogged and feeble, thus causing not only rheumatism, but all forms of kidney troubles, backache, weak bladder and urinary troubles, and sometimes terrible blood disorders.

At the first sign of any of these troubles the following simple prescription should be mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bed time: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Any good pharmacy can supply these ingredients, and all the mixing required is to shake well in a bottle.

A MARKED RELAXATION OF FINANCIAL TENSION

NO DIFFICULTIES

Imposed by Imperial Bank of Germany on Gold Exports.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—President Koch of the Imperial Bank of Germany today authorized the Associated Press to deny the report that the bank had interposed difficulties in the way of taking gold from that institution for export. "Gold," he said, "is always freely given in the redemption of notes at our head office in Berlin. This, however, is not done at the branches, like Hamburg and Bremen, in unlimited amounts since this would impose on the bank the necessity of paying transportation charges thither from Berlin."

The Imperial bank views with considerable apprehension the fact that the open market discount rate in London today exceeded the Bank of England's rate, giving grounds for fear of a further advance in the latter bank's rate. This would necessitate again marking up the Berlin rate, and President Koch fears that in that case an additional ½ per cent would not be sufficient, but that a full 1 per cent would be necessary, making the rate 7½ per cent which would be higher than the Imperial bank has ever placed it.

A considerable sum in gold was taken from the Imperial Bank today for export to the United States and further withdrawals are regarded as probable. The officials of the bank are watching the American situation with much interest and some anxiety, but they are not disposed to attribute the present disturbance of the German money market wholly to the American situation. For example, French exchange here is now above the gold point, which apparently is not due to the American demand for gold, but probably to unfortunate speculations in copper and Kaffirs at Paris.

LONDON MARKET FIRM.

Trading in Securities Starts Above Parity and Holds Fairly Well.

London, Nov. 5.—Trading on the stock exchange today started well, operators being cheered by the announcement that gold shipments from Paris to London were being arranged. Led by consols, which rose ⅝, most of the gilt-edged securities benefited by the promised assistance from France, while Americans, taking their cue from the favorable close of the market in New York yesterday, started quite firm at above parity, but subsequently dropped from the best quotations. Union Pacific at noon was 1 point, and Canadian Pacific ¾ of a point below the opening level, but they were still 1 to 2 points higher than yesterday.

Inquiries made in the bullion market show that the brokers expect the Paris shipments of gold to London to be fairly considerable. They also express the opinion that the outflow of gold to America from London would continue for some time, even if the Bank of England's discount rate is raised to 7 per cent. It is pointed out, however, that if such a rate becomes necessary it is bound to attract gold from other sources, thus offsetting the American drain.

It is further remarked that the Bank of England's discount rate has not been above 6 per cent since 1873, when, on Nov. 7 of that year, as the result of a panic on the stock exchange, the rate was put up to 9 per cent.

BATTLE OF VOTERS IS ON IN EVELETH

Mines Are Closed and Candidates Are Working Very Hard.

For mayor—Frank Johnson, Nehemiah Maxwell, George Mulligan.
For municipal judge—Vivian Prince, J. G. McGilvery, Frank Mattson, Edward Sheet.
For treasurer—W. J. Davey.
For aldermen—First ward, E. H. Finch and Joseph Thibeaut; Second ward, C. R. Johnson and Tony Asso; Third ward, Joe Zhul and E. Anderson; at large, Matt Doyle, Solomon Sax, Tim Shea, Frank Carlson and A. E. Peterson.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mines are shut down all day today so that employes can vote. All the saloons are closed until 8 p. m. No one is able to penetrate the side door nor the front door.

Among the Finns much work has been done by all the candidates. The reform element count on the Finnish vote for their greatest support. The Scandinavian vote has been thoroughly canvassed, and all the Norwegians and Swedes are to be out strong voting for their countrymen.

Money has been fully spent at the cigar stands and over the bars. The friends of the administration candidates realize that they have a fight on their hands, and are not letting any means go by that may bring them an additional vote.

Talk is strong that a prominent candidate for municipal judge, who is particularly strong with the foreign vote, realizing that his chances of election are slim, had decided to throw his strength to another candidate on condition that he would support him for city clerk. The proposed withdrawal did not take place because of the failure to secure the more favored candidate's consent.

VIRGINIA VOTING FOR TWO TICKETS

Independent and Republican Tickets Are Being Voted For.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 5. — (Special to The Herald.)—The city election is the absorbing theme here today. There are two tickets in the field, Independents and Republicans. Andrew Hawkinson is the candidate of the Independents, while Mayor William H. Eaton heads the Republican ticket.

Both sides are claiming a victory.

The Independents have no candidate for alderman in the Third. James Sullivan and J. H. Polglase are both running by petition in that ward.

Republican — For mayor, William H. Eaton; for treasurer, W. B. Pratt; for municipal judge, James P. Carey; for special municipal judge, John Peterson; for aldermen-at-large, James Trezoni and Joseph Backus; for aldermen, First ward, Michael Boylan; Second ward, Matt Prijanovich; Third ward, James Laviolette; Fourth ward, Eric J. Elnum.

After the game Saturday, the Hibbing team acted as hosts for the local bunch and gave them "a fine time" and a dance at Power's theater. Several of the Grand Rapids boys were present at the dance.

Among those who cheered the local team to victory were Irene Davey, Annie and Victor Mulligan, Gladys, Alice and Guy Springer. The team was met by many of the students Sunday afternoon at the Mesaba depot.

The lineup at the game was as follows:

OBSERVED BY MANY.

Sunday Was Notable Church Day Among Poles and Austrians.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday was a festive day among the Austrians and Poles. The parade of the Society of St. Cyril and St. Michael threw the citizens to their windows at 8 a. m. Music was furnished by the Finnish band. The former society was aided by the Slovenski Dristov.

At St. Patrick's hall a grand ball was given that lasted into the early morning hours. The occasion is said to be a church holiday.

OBSERVATION CAR RUNS

Right Through to Eveleth and It Saves Transfer.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last Thursday the regular Duluth train with the new observation car made its initial appearance in Eveleth. Heretofore it has been necessary for passengers to change trains at Allen Junction. No direct connections with Duluth over the Iron Range have been possible up to now.

The change has been made possible by the placing of the buffet car on the Vermilion range run, while the Mesaba run gets the observation car, which is to be the feature of this Duluth train.

While the regular Duluth train comes to Virginia, the former local run in charge of Conductor McDermott and Engineer Penrod, will be directed to Ely and Tower, leaving here in the morning and returning at 5 p. m. They will also make connection with the afternoon Duluth train, at Allen Junction, that holds over at night in Ely.

No changes in the schedule have been announced.

KNOWN IN EVELETH

Were Two Victims of Mud Lake Fatality ---Other Local Events.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Haley and Jacob Seibel, who were drowned in Squaw lake, Sunday, were well known in Eveleth. Peter Haley was a pioneer liveryman here, and very popular with the townspeople. He was often interested in political affairs, and for a time was a silent power in the management of the village's affairs.

The machinery at the Eveleth Steam laundry broke down, and the management has notified its customers that no work will be accepted until Thursday morning.

A. C. Anderson was elected president of the Young Men's club for the coming year. For the seniors there will be gymnasium work Tuesday and Thursday, and Wednesday and Friday evenings for the juniors. The both rooms and gymnasium have been repaired.

The local members of the National Protective league have been notified that in the future dividends will be computed annually. Many of Eveleth's best citizens belong.

A crew of men have arrived in town from the Virginia Boiler works to repair boilers at the Fayal mine.

According to Isaac Heikkmen of Zim, the relatives of Charles Murphy, a logging contractor at Zim, have not been located yet. Murphy was 62 years of age and a bachelor. He was killed Sept. 26 by a gravel train on the Mesaba.

Many Eveleth Woodmen are expecting to attend the initiation ceremonies for twenty-two members at the Aurora lodge, Nov. 9.

Charles Magnoon went to Duluth to get his second papers.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Marks of Sioux City, Iowa, are in town to visit Miss Boulsom. They are staying at the McNeil.

MAY TELL TRAGEDY.

Overcoat and Knapsack Found Under Suspicious Circumstances.

Tower, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—While out hunting Sunday, one of our citizens discovered an overcoat and knapsack about a half mile east of the Sherman farm. There seems to be a mystery concerning the ownership, and nothing by which the owner could be identified was found. The articles had evidently been there for some time, as they showed marks of having been squirrel-eaten as well as weather beaten. There was a quantity of clothes and a couple of gold rings and other small articles. A letter supposed to be written in the Finnish language was found in the overcoat pocket, but no address was found, as the envelope had been removed. The articles were brought to town and efforts will be made to find some one who can read the letter, the authorities hoping in this way to ascertain something regarding the owner.

FINISHES ITS LOGS.

Vermilion Lumber Company Has Disposed of Its Season's Cut.

Tower, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Today is the last day of operations at the Vermilion Lumber company's mill here, as the logs on hand are sawed, and there will be no work done at the mill until next season. Camps are being prepared and the company plan extensive logging operations during the coming winter. Most of the employes will be given employment in the woods if they care to go there.

The Tower Lumber company's mill will continue to run until the lake freezes. There are several hundred men employed by the latter concern, and it is hoped that operations will not cease for at least a couple of weeks, as they will not conduct camps this season and several will be thrown out of work unless they can secure employment with some of the other loggers. This will probably be easy enough, for the Smith-Alger company is planning on a big cut of timber and will undoubtedly be able to furnish employment to the greater number of the Tower Lumber company's employes who care to go to the woods.

SHERIFF AND SLEUTHS WORKING ON OUTRAGE.

Coleraine, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Hoolihan and deputies, as well as some detectives employed by the Steel corporation, are sparing no effort to apprehend the villains responsible for the blowing up of the miners' cabin here Saturday and causing the deaths of three inmates. The accident theory does not find many believers among those familiar with conditions.

The funeral of Joseph Dellegreen, one of the victims, was held here today and was largely attended. The bodies of Mike and August Pabubello, the other two victims of the explosion, were taken to Eveleth for interment.

GET VIRGINIA BREWER.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Schneider late of Duluth and Virginia, Minn., where he was connected with the Fitger Brewing company and the Virginia Brewing company, has been appointed brewmaster of the A. Haas Brewing company. Manager Miller, who has been in Milwaukee attending a meeting of brewers of Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, engaged Mr. Schneider during the meeting. Mr. Schneider resigns the position of brewmaster of the Virginia Brewing company to come to Houghton, succeeding the late John Kazmaier.

H. J. GILDERMAN IS FIRE CHIEF

Proctor's Former Official Removed for Neglect of Duty.

Proctor, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Proctor has a new fire chief today, as a result of the action of President Simpkins of the town council at last night's session of the council in removing Chief J. O'Brand for neglect of duty, and appointing H. J. Gilderman, the assistant chief. The former chief is alleged to have been derelict in the matter of requiring frequent practice work by the department. He was not in town at the time of the recent disastrous fire, and ever since that calamity there has been a prevailing sentiment the department needed a new head. Chief Gilderman is the chief electrician of the Missabe road and stands well in the community. He was directed to procure a fire warden's badge, which will permit him to enter business houses and private residences in the performance of his duties.

The application of the new chief for a new hook and ladder outfit was laid over until the next meeting, because not all of the members of the council were present, the members present besides President Simpkins being B. W. Renshaw and O. J. Wilson.

The council granted a petition asking that First street, on the West side between First and Tenth streets, be opened.

The delinquent tax list on improvements, scavenger work, etc., was ordered turned over to the county treasurer for collection, while the delinquent poll tax list was referred to Village Attorney Baldwin.

The ordinance advocated by local merchants to require peddlers to pay a heavy license was considered, but final action went over until the next meeting. The ordinance will make peddlers, unless they belong to the excepted class, fight shy of Proctor in the future. Those who deliver milk and garden truck are exempted, as are honorably discharged soldiers and sailors.

The license for wagon peddlers is to be fixed at $125 per year, $70 for six months, $25 for one month and $5 for one day. Peddlers from railway trains must pay the same, while push-cart peddlers, foot peddlers and the like must pay $100 for one year, $60 for six months, $20 for one month and $5 for one day.

Violators of the ordinance will, upon conviction, pay a fine of from $1 to $100 or serve a jail sentence of not to exceed 90 days.

SHORT PROCTOR EVENTS.

Proctor, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large and important meeting of the Order of Railway Conductors was held here Sunday afternoon at the rooms of the order in the village hall. Many matters of interest to the members were considered and the annual election of officers held. About twenty members from Hibbing were present.

Mrs. D. J. Powers was taken to St. Mary's hospital Sunday, where an operation may be necessary.

Miss Elsie McKenzie was a Duluth visitor yesterday.

Mrs. John Rennings has returned from a few days' visit to Hibbing.

Mrs. R. Johnson of Auburn is spending a few days visiting relatives in the village.

Mrs. A. D. King has gone to Coleraine, where she will visit for a few days.

J. McLaughlin has gone to Hibbing for a few days' visit with friends.

"HAND OF SEVEN" THREATENS LIFE

Of General Manager of Calumet & Hecla Company.

Calumet, Mich., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grumblings of discontent among the employes of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company that have been heard in this locality since the company announced a reduction in wages of 12½ per cent. in the near future continue. The committee appointed Saturday to lay the grievances of the employes before President Agassiz of Boston, who is in the city, had held a conference with that official. The committee claimed that the man could not live upon the proposed wages. They also ask that one boy be allowed each set of miners. They want orders given that no boy shall be allowed to handle powder in the Amalgamated branch. They also ask that the last carman be allowed to reach the surface at 6 o'clock morning and evening. They claim that it is after 7 o'clock before all the men are through under the present arrangement.

The petitions also ask the removal of Supt. Fitch and Head Mining Captain Knox. These two men seem to have incurred the dislike of the miners and they will stop at nothing to secure their dismissal. It is claimed by some of the miners that the salary question is secondary to the matter of the officers who are in charge of the work.

A sensational incident in connection with the present difficulty is the receipt by General Manager MacNaughton of a letter threatening his life. This document was signed "Hand of Seven" and written in a disguised hand writing. It went on to declare the general manager's life would not be safe whether he was in New York or here. The writer of the threatening letter is not known although it is understood the officials do not lay the authorship to employes of the company.

Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic

FOR CHILDREN AND ADULTS

Antiseptic and Hygienic

A Hair Invigorator—Just what its name implies. It supplies nourishment, the elements of growth, which, when absorbed by the hair, strengthens and beautifies it in the same way that sap glorifies the foliage of a tree. Even where the follicles are seemingly dead, if the scalp is massaged daily with Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic a vigorous growth will be produced. It has honestly earned its title of "the great hair grower." It stimulates the most stunted growth and makes the hair magnificently healthy and beautiful. By its use women can provide themselves with a trailing mantle of hair—woman's natural raiment, her birthright.

Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic is prized equally by men and women, particularly when the hair begins to weaken or fade. Cures baldness, grayness, splitting of the hair, dandruff and all diseases of the hair, scalp and beard. One application usually stops hair falling. A nursery requisite; no mother should neglect to use it for her boys and girls; when the hair is made strong in childhood it remains proof against disease and retains its vigor and youthfulness throughout life.

Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic is a colorless, fragrant, delightful hair dressing; neither sticky, gritty, nor greasy; makes the hair soft, fluffy and glossy. Contains no artificial coloring; would not soil the whitest hair; restores original color by invigorating the scalp and re-establishing normal circulation and proper distribution of the live coloring matter. Beautiful hair redeems the plainest countenance, and any one can secure it by using Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic. Now in three sizes. Our special price

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"I'm tired of short skirts," said the man. He looked personally injured and individually grieved. The person into whose ears he was confiding his sorrows had some of her own, so she said no word of surprise or wonder at his perspicacity in disapproving of short skirts nor did she offer a word of encouragement that might lead him to dilate on the particular things he disapproved.

She was silent. There are plenty of people who will doubt that statement, but it is, nevertheless, the truth.

"There are so many of them," he said.

She was silent.

"They look ridiculous," he said, "but if there only might be some rhyme or reason shown by the people who choose to wear them, it wouldn't be so bad. It seems that more women who are suffering from some—well that it—er—I mean—well when their skirts are long you don't notice it."

"Notice what?" she said in a sad tone, the first words she had uttered.

"Why—er that—well that their shoes are run over," he ended lamely. It was not at all what he intended to say but her eyes were upon him. Then he warmed to his subject. "Every woman who wears a skirt five inches from the ground ought to be compelled to submit to an examination, and one who wore anything larger than a half past three shoe, ought to be made by law to wear a good long skirt. High heeled shoes are the thing too, and they ought not to be a bit bigger than three and half. Then any woman weighing more than 130 pounds ought also to be restrained from wearing a skirt that flirts around the top of her shoe tops. And besides, no woman over 16 should be allowed to appear that way on the street and besides—"

"Wait!" commanded the feminine person, who could keep silence no longer. "Wait. Before you commit yourself any further. The ancient gentleman who said that inconsistency's name was woman was a prejudiced observer. From time immemorial man has raved over the unclean habit women had of wearing skirts that gathered dirt and filth. Street sweepers they were called. Then all the ills that flesh is heir to were set down to high heeled shoes. Man in his might said for women to wear sandals and to take off her corsets and to wear bloomers. A pretty looking thing she'd be. But she wouldn't. If she could not bring herself to wear bloomers, wear short skirts, man advised. And now that the day is here when woman is wearing short skirts there is scarce a one of you but is finding fault. Her feet are too large, or too flat, or too long, or too poorly shod, or too something. She weighs too much, and too much time has elapsed since she was born. Oh! You make me tired. Really you do. Short skirts, indeed! They are sane and sensible and because every woman you see doesn't answer to the Gibson ideal of beauty you must needs—"

"Well the hats aren't very sensible," he ventured.

"Hats!" she snapped. "Don't say hats to me."

"Yes'm," he said.

CLUB WOMEN

Discuss the Need of Play Grounds for Children of Duluth.

The need in Duluth of greater provision for the healthful amusement and upbuilding of the growing boys and girls of the city, who are in many cases driven to the street for their play ground, was discussed at length yesterday afternoon at the November social afternoon of the Twentieth Century club. The afternoon was in charge of the departments of philanthropy and reform and home and education, of which Mrs. J. H. Crowley is chairman, and the discussion was a most timely one. A playground for Duluth children or several of them has been the idea in which many Duluthians have been interested for some years, although the means of securing one have never been quite apparent. Yesterday's meeting was most timely, bringing the matter before a representative body of Duluth women, many of whom had not before seriously considered the need existing in Duluth.

A committee of the Women's Council, of which Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge was chairman, investigated at one time the needs of a playground and the possibilities of establishing one in the neighborhood of the Madison or the Adams school. Great difficulties in the way of securing property were encountered, and the matter was not carried through. Such discussion as was heard yesterday by the large gathering of women, will do much to spread the knowledge of what might be accomplished in this line, and will bring home to each woman her share in responsibility of securing playgrounds, out-of-door gymnasiums and other clubs for the benefit of the youth of the city.

Yesterday afternoon's speakers along this line were Rev. R. J. Mooney and Miss Ruth Roberts. Mrs. J. H. Crowley reported on the work of the committee of the club in behalf of the children of the Webster school district. The club for many years has carried on a philanthropic work with the children of that school, and this year's results were encouraging and a marked success.

Resolutions were passed at the meeting that the Twentieth Century club do all in its power to aid in any movement which might be started for the aiding of the children of the city. Resolutions of regret were also passed over the departure of Miss Elizabeth M. Anderson from the city. Miss Anderson, who was prominently identified with the work of the club, has gone to New York to live, and she will be greatly missed from Duluth club circles.

Trinity Social Club.

At the meeting of Trinity guild, which was held yesterday afternoon at the church, a branch organization was formed to be known as the Trinity Social club. The members of the club will be hostesses at a series of social affairs during the winter months, to bring the people of the parish into closer touch. The officers elected yesterday afternoon were: Director, Mrs. Charles L. Kennedy; assistant director, Mrs. Walter C. Poehler, second assistant director, Mrs. H. C. Caldwell; secretary, Mrs. T. T. Hudson, and treasurer, Mrs. Rufus Redman. The executive committee will consist of Mrs. A. M. Prime, Mrs. Henry Brearley and Mrs. A. E. Kirby. The affair will be given the latter part of this month, the program and details to be announced later.

Matinee Musicale.

The regular meeting of the Matinee Musicale was held yesterday afternoon at Steinway hall, and a program arranged by Mrs. Percy Gough and Miss Morton, presenting the composers, Rossi, Scarlotti and Lotti of the classical school, was heard with interest by the large number of members present. Those who appeared were Misses Stocker, Oliver Colbentson, Miss Christine Thiers, Mrs. Schaffel and Mrs. Marie Geist-Erd. The accompanist for the afternoon was Miss Morton.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Hubbard squash, 15 cents each.
Sweet potatoes, 5 cents a pound.
Cider, 40 cents a gallon.
Hickory nuts, 10 or 15 cents a quart.
Apples, 60 to 80 cents a peck.
Chestnuts.
Oysters, 60 cents a quart.

The time for oyster stews has arrived and as the "R" months have been in evidence for some weeks, every one may consider it quite safe to employ the spineless fish, if that's what you call it, into a stew. Blue points which are also good in their way are to be had. Along this line, codfish might be mentioned and those who care for it could have it creamed. There are other things in the market.

Cider and apples and hickory nuts and pop corn are some of the most popular things to be had.

Women's Nerves Cured By Fruit

Simple Mixture of Tropical Fruits Which Works Wonders in the Cure of Chronic Constipation, Nervous Weakness, Weak Backs, Etc.

Anyone Can Mix the Remedy at Home.

A remarkable remedy has been discovered which is wonderful in its simplicity and still more wonderful in its life-giving effects upon the nervous system and the health in general.

Among women, especially, it has been found to give most excellent results, particularly because women's nerves as a rule are more sensitive to overwork and the exactions of social life, and are most susceptible to bodily derangements.

As this remedy is already endorsed by high authority, we earnestly recommend to all our women readers that they use this prescription steadily for a short time and note its quick and permanent life-giving, strengthening effects.

Besides curing the worst cases of chronic constipation quickly and naturally, this simple remedy will also build up the worn-out nerves, make new nerve-tissue and healthy flesh, and fill out thin, scrawny forms. The result is a complete restoration to vigorous womanhood.

The prescription is as follows: Mix one ounce of Obifrut Compound Extract with seven ounces of port wine or unfermented grape juice. Of this mixture, take a dessertspoonful three or four times a day, after each meal and at bedtime.

These ingredients can be obtained at any drug store. The mixture should be taken regularly. It contains no alcohol, no narcotics and no mineral or animal matter whatever and is absolutely harmless.

Overworked, run-down, sickly, nerve-broken women will find this simple remedy superior to any patent medicine or nerve tonic so far known.

Any drug store has Obifrut Compound Extract and unfermented grape juice or port wine on hand.

STUDENTS ARGUE NEGRO QUESTION

Heiam, Francisco and Poirier Win the First Debate.

The first debate of the Public Speaking club of the Duluth Central high school, in a series that is to determine the champion debating team of the school, was held yesterday afternoon.

The question was, "Resolved, That the National Government Should Subsidize the Education of the Negro in the South."

Oscar Heiam, W. Francisco and Philip Poirier, who comprised the winning team, had the affirmative side and Ray Phillips, F. Pillsbury and A. McDonald had the negative side.

The argumentative battle was hard fought and was listened to by a large and enthusiastic gathering of the members of the club.

Prof. Lambert, Crull and Sprague acted as judges.

After the debate Prof. Lambert announced that the treasury of the club contains $25, the net proceeds of Prof. Tripp's lecture last week. The Dramatic club is entitled to half the proceeds, however, as the two clubs have a common treasury.

The most delicate pastry, delicious biscuit and dainty cakes can be made with Hunt's Perfect Baking Powder. It gives satisfaction always.

PROMISING CAREER ENDS.

McInnis, Minister of Education in Manitoba, Dead at Brandon.

Brandon, Man., Nov. 5.—Dr. Stanley W. McInnis, member for this city in the provincial legislature, and minister of education, died, yesterday. He was 40 years of age, and only last summer was elevated to the cabinet. He died after an operation for appendicitis. The doctors discovered that the appendix had burst and gangrene had set in.

McInnis made his name by his strenuous efforts to bring the Galicians and other foreigners under the education act whereby they must learn English and become British subjects in every sense of the word. He was president of the Manitoba Dental association. His wife, who survives him, was Miss Beckwith, a famous English swimmer.

FIRE IN HOSPITAL ALARMS PATIENTS.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Considerable excitement was caused among 120 patients of the German hospital, 754-757 Hamilton Court, today, by a fire which broke out in a small room adjoining the linen room on the top floor of the five-story building. There were no patients on the fifth floor. A fire drill was formed by the nurses and physicians of the institution and sixty patients, including men, women and children, were carried into a new addition which adjoins the main building.

"Fitwell" for trousers, $3 to $6.

FINGER CRAMPS WERE EXPENSIVE

Ed Kennedy took a sudden cramp in his fingers when he spied a pair of serviceable looking trousers in front of a second-hand store on the Bowery last evening, and before he recovered from the "attack," he found that his fingers had fastened themselves to that pair of trousers like grim death.

Kennedy took Michigan street as a good route to follow with his find, but he met the owner of the store en route.

"Where did you get those trousers?" asked Mr. Soloman, owner of the store.

"I bought them," replied Kennedy.

Soloman insisted upon being shown where he had purchased the goods, and requested Kennedy to go back with him. He stated to the court that the man showed fight and tried to get away. An officer landed him in jail, and Judge Cutting gave him $100 and costs, or sixty days in the county jail this morning.

BUYING A PIANO

Has always been attended by more or less uncertainty. You were not sure you were getting a reliable instrument, you were not sure you were getting the very lowest price, the instruments have not been marked in plain figures and you could not tell whether you were getting a square deal or not.

We have done away with this.

We sell only the very best high grade makes—every piano is an instrument of merit. We do not sell cheap stencilled pianos at a big price and make you a big offer for your old piano. You will find every piano in our store marked in plain figures at the very lowest cash selling price—our one price system does not permit of price juggling or price cutting. We can and do save you from $125 to $150 on the price of a piano, because all our pianos are marked at the very lowest cash selling price. No one could sell them for less than we do.

Come in and talk over our one price system of piano selling. We are the only store in the Northwest selling pianos on this plan. You can purchase a high grade instrument and pay for it by the month, you get the same advantages and the same big saving in the cost. Why pay more than we ask when we sell you the very best for what you pay in other stores for cheaper makes?

WEST END

MEN TO GET IN TRAINING

West Enders Not to be Outdone in Physical Culture.

Activity of Girls Arouses Interest of the Men.

Evidently the agitation that has been going on in the West end over the gymnasium exercises and physical development of the girls of that section of the city, has fired the male portion of the population with a desire to get together at some place and punch the bag, wrestle and box.

At any rate, a number of West enders are organizing an athletic club, and although a name for the organization has not been chosen nor officers elected, a supply of gymnasium equipment has been installed in the basement of the Sloan block and some of the members are going into the plan with enthusiasm.

Not the least important part of the equipment is a good sized wrestling mat, upon which the West enders propose to develop their skill and brawn and at the same time afford some amusement for the other members of the organization.

The boxing gloves are also calculated to play an important part in the club life.

A meeting was to have been held Sunday to complete the organization of the club, and select a name and officers for the organization.

However, so many members were in the Twin Cities, where they had gone to see the football game, or were out of the city on other missions, that a quorum could not be secured.

Another meeting will likely be called for some time later in the week.

SCHAFFER MAY RUN.

Former Alderman May Seek Toga in the Seventh.

Former Alderman Frank Schaffer is being urged by his friends to become a candidate for alderman in the Seventh ward, on the Democratic ticket. If they persist, he may decide to get back into politics and make the race.

Although when he was in the city council last time it was as alderman from the Sixth ward, Mr. Schaffer has now moved to 2726 West Third street, and is a resident of the Seventh ward.

The Democrats have settled on no aldermanic candidate in the Seventh, and Mr. Schaffer's many friends are strongly advising him to run. He would probably receive the undivided support of his party.

TEST IS A HARD ONE.

Bema Club Makes Applicants Show Their Ability.

The Bema club, a company of West enders interested in debating and public speaking, held its second meeting last evening in Dr. Oredson's office, wher nearly the entire membership was represented.

There are still one or two vacancies in the list and for these there are several applications. The members provide a severe test for would-be Bemaites and if they pass, they are qualified to take their seats.

It is required of every one who wants to join the club that they give a five-minute speech before the entire organization, after which the club takes up the different points and qualities of the speech and takes a vote on it, to determine whether the speech is good enough to qualify the maker for membership. If the members decide that the speech is up to the standard, the applicant may come in, and if not, he is rejected.

Members of the club expect to get no little enjoyment out of the consideration of applications.

Last evening the club took up "The Lid Question" again, feeling that the members had not quite exhausted the subject at the last meeting. Short talks were also given on "The Drunkard in Police Court," "Our Present Navy" and "Duluth as a Railroad Center."

ADAMS ALUMNI MEETING.

Former Students Will Gather at Quarterly Session.

The Adams School Alumni association will hold its regular quarterly meeting this evening at 8 o'clock at the Adams school, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street. The following program has been prepared:

Instrumental music ..... Mayme Kennedy.
Reading, selected ..... Ruth Hanson.
Vocal solo ..... Miss Elletsen.
Instrumental music ..... Dora Williams.
Reading, selected ..... Frances Berg.
Vocal solo ..... Edith Miller.

After the program a social hour will be enjoyed.

AND STILL THEY COME.

More West Enders to Seek Matrimonial Bliss.

Invitations for the weddings of two West end couples are out.

The marriage of Miss Esther Elizabeth Magnuson and Alfred B. Johnson will take place tomorrow evening at the home of the bride's parents, 2617 West Fifth street.

After Dec. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will be at home at 2618 West Third street.

The marriage of Miss Tillie Johnson and Charles Erickson will take place Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 28, at the home of S. E. Eklund, 1923 West Superior street.

Boys Are Outnumbered.

Girls outnumbered the boys two to one in the number of births in the West end today.

Two daughters and one son were born during the last twenty-four hours to West end families.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Westrom of 1724 West Michigan street and Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Carlson of 1926 West Fifth street are the parents of baby girls, while the boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Johnson of 1627 West First street.

West End Shortrails.

Mrs. O. A. Oreds has returned from her old home, Le Roy, Minn., where she has been visiting for several weeks. Her mother has been quite seriously ill.

The Tabitha Sewing society of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet Thursday evening with Miss Alty Anderson of Twentieth avenue west and Fifth street.

1907 Imported cod liver oil. A. E. Swedberg, 3 E. Sup. St. and 2015 W. Sup. St.

The Epworth league of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist church will hold a business meeting and literary meeting in the parlors of the church this evening. The meeting will take up the recommendations of the cabinet, which met last week to plan entertainments for the next few months. In all probability, the league will ratify the cabinet's action. The league has undertaken to raise a large sum of money for the new church fund. After the business meeting this evening, a literary program will be given.

It's worth while to see our hats; none better; bring your old hat—we'll make it new. Pearson's, 1314 Piedmont avenue west.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist church will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. O. Anderson, 2612 West Fifth street.

The St. Agnes guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church met last evening with Mrs. Crowe of 8 West Fifth street.

Fred Copeland of 2820 West Huron street and Carl Knudson of 2318 West Fourth street left today for New York, where they will sail for their native lands. Copeland goes to Finland and Knudson to Norway.

Strengthen your lungs before cold weather sets in; use our Norwegian cod liver oil. Lion Drug store, 2002 West Superior street.

S. A. Ritter has gone to Minneapolis and may make that city his future home. He has made many friends during his stay in the West end, who will be sorry to see him go.

David Olson of Piedmont avenue has returned from New York Mills, Minn., where he has been visiting for some time past.

SEVERE ECZEMA CURED IN SOUTH

Suffers Three Years—Hands and Eye Most Affected—Employed Doctor to No Effect—Now Entirely Recovered and Will Recommend

CUTICURA REMEDIES IN ALL PARTS OF PARISH

"My wife was taken badly with eczema for three years, and she employed a doctor with no effect at all until she employed Cuticura Soap and Ointment. One of her hands and her left eye were badly affected, and when she would stop using Cuticura Soap and Ointment the eczema came back, but very slightly; but it did her a sight of good. Then we complied with the instructions in using the entire set of Cuticura Remedies and my wife is entirely recovered. She thanks Cuticura very much, and will recommend it highly in our locality and in every nook and corner of our parish. God bless you for the sake of suffering humanity. I. M. Robert, Hydropolis, La., Jan. 5 and Sept. 1, 1906."

SOUTHERN MAN CURED

Of a Terrible Eczema by Cuticura in Six Weeks.

"Some time ago I suffered terribly with eczema, and I had the best medical attendance, but the more medicine I took the worse it seemed to get. I kept on with medicine for about five weeks until I saw the Cuticura Remedies advertised, and I at once purchased the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent, but had not the slightest hope of them curing me. After I had used the first set of the Cuticura Remedies I saw the improvement, and in just six weeks my skin was as smooth as ever. I advise any one suffering from this terrible disease to use the Cuticura Remedies. Henry J. Steffjes, 132 Spring St., Charleston, S. C., June 12, 1906.

"THE PRINCE OF PILSEN."

Savage Company Gives Old Favorite a Splendid Production.

The promise of the advance agent that Duluth would see a genuine Savage production of "The Prince of Pilsen" was most royally fulfilled last evening. The Lyceum was sold out and the old favorite never had a better production than the one given it last evening. It is doubtful if even the old company that came out of Chicago five years ago and gave Duluth a standard for musical comedy that was never quite lived up to afterwards, gave any better production than the company last evening. Mr. Savage has evidently used the "Prince of Pilsen" as a kind of training school for his grand opera companies, and he has a collection of singers such as are seldom heard in light opera or musical comedy. The costumes are all new, and even the hardened theater-goers, who have witnessed "The Prince" three or four times waxed enthusiastic. Practically every number on the program was encored.

Dan Mason, one of the old school of comedians, has the role of Hans Wagner. In these days when German comedians are as common as cashiers' checks, it is a difficult feat to get away with German comedy, but Mr. Mason manages to draw laughter from the part.

Edward Mora is a worthy successor to Arthur Donaldson as the real prince, and Melvin Stokes, the tenor of the company, has a very acceptable voice and makes a manly looking lieutenant.

The three leading feminine roles are in most capable hands. Miss Reba Dale is the widow, and makes a very charming one. She has a rich and powerful soprano voice, which hardly had full scope in the light music of the opera. Miss Octavia Broske has a soprano voice of exceptional range, and makes a very stately and pleasing Vassar girl. Miss Vera Stanley is pretty and attractive as the daughter of the brewer, and her voice is rich and sweet.

Hayden P. Clifford deserves special mention for his clever comedy work as "Artie," and George Moore, as Francois, and Miss Lillian Lawson as Sidonie, make a very clever team.

It is such a common occurrence to see second and third rate companies presenting musical comedies after their first or second season, that Duluthians have come to expect a road worn production, but the Savage organization is a most refreshing exception to the rule, and the audience last evening was not slow to show its appreciation of this fact.

GOOD BILL AT BIJOU.

Several Fine Features at Popular Theater This Week.

The Bijou theater this week has an exceptionally fine bill. The three performances yesterday were well attended. The building was packed to the doors, in fact, and the audiences were delighted with the entertainment offered. All the acts are head liners.

One of the most popular persons in the show is Belle Belmont, a young lady, who is pretty and can sing. Hammond and Foster have a singing and comedy stunt that is about the cleverest seen at the Bijou this fall. The audience is entertained every minute of the fifteen this team is on the stage.

John McDowell, who sings the illustrated songs, promises to become a prime favorite in Duluth. "In the Land of the Buffalo" is his song this week.

A clever little playet going under the title of "A Lucky Liar," is a strong attraction. Miss Myrtle M. Leavitt, Miss Nina Carleton and Mr. Crevalier take care of the characters, and all of them are good. The story deals with married life and is well told.

Rinaldo, violinist, made a fine impression. He handles his instrument with rare skill. Last evening he responded to three encores. A gymnastic act by the Onetti sisters is good. The moving pictures are up to the usual high standard.

THE BURLESQUERS.

"Yankee Doodle Girls" Give an Entertaining Performance.

Two well staged and reasonably funny burlesques and an excellent vaudeville bill comprise the entertainment of the Yankee Doodle Girls, who are essaying to fill the Metropolitan theater at every performance during the week.

James F. Leonard, who is rather an amusing "Tad," and Jules Herron take charge of most of the comedy situations, and Sadie Huested, Edna Davenport, Clara Whitney and a few others lead the chorus numbers. They are backed up by as comely and capable a bunch of girls as time and the railroads usually bring to the Metropolitan, and, perhaps, they are a little better than most of them, to look at. Their singing is rather good, also. Sadie Huested's singing is all right, despite the novelty of its tone. She has a baritone voice.

"Sullivan on Parade" and "A Strike on the Metropolitan Railroad" are the titles by which the burlesques are known.

Rose and Ellis, barrel jumpers, furnish one of the sensations of the olio. Their barrel jumping is really very clever. Martini and Maxmillian have a burlesque magic act that is very funny, and the stunts of the other folks mentioned seem to hit the Metropolitan spot.

Marie Cahill.

Marie Cahill and her "Marrying Mary" company, which will be at the Lyceum tonight, ought to be one of the genuine treats of the season in Duluth. It is one of the big attractions on the road at the present time, and has been meeting with phenomenal success in the larger cities. It is hailed as a genuine Broadway attraction, and Miss Cahill's many admirers in Duluth will be greviously disappointed if it does not prove to be such.

PHILLIPS ASKS MONEY.

He Has Sued for $7,638 as Commission and Expenses.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—Samuel A. Phillips, formerly Northwestern manager of the Hancock company which acted as agent for the Chicago-New York Electric Air Line, has brought suit in the Ramsey county court to recover $7,638 which he claims is due him for commission and for expenses of the office in Minneapolis.

Phillips alleges that as Northwest manager the Minneapolis office was subject to his supervision, but the local agent in that city was A. J. Murray and his wife.

Phillips claims that Murray failed to devote his entire time to the business of the air line company, and as a result Phillips refused to accept improper reports from Murray, the Minneapolis agent, and that he, as a result of Murray's action, had to assume the expenses of the Minneapolis office.

This amount added to the commission for the sale of stock, which Phillips claims is due him, amounts to $7,638, which he is suing to recover.

EARLY CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

Have you given your Christmas shopping any serious thought yet?

Every year there is a cry, in the newspapers and out of them, for early Christmas shopping. The most irrefragable arguments why you should do it early are set forth in most convincing language. There can be no reply to them, for the argument is all one way. Yet nine out of ten people nod their heads, say "How true that is!" and then join in the mad rush of the last week before Christmas, to do their buying at a time when it is done to the least advantage and with the greatest amount of discomfort.

But on the other hand there are a few wise ones, and their number is increasing every year, so that it is evident that the early Christmas shopping campaigns are not altogether wasted. These canny individuals are thinking about it right now, and are laying their plans. Many of them have gone so far as to keep it in mind during the year, and have got just what they wanted at lower prices by watching the bargain sales.

But those who start now, or start pretty soon, will have a good six weeks to do it in. They will have the first chance at the holiday stocks, which will shortly be on exhibition. They will select their presents before the goods are pawed over and soiled and the best selections taken. They will avoid the crowds of holiday week, and incidentally they will be lessening materially the burdens of the salesmen and saleswomen, who are forced to submit at Christmas time to an experience that is both burdensome and wearing.

If the appeal for the sake of the salespeople does not strike home, there are selfish considerations in abundance great enough to convince anybody. The argument that the stocks are fresher and fuller, that the expense can be spread over more time, and that the shopping can be done in comfort now when it entails misery later, cannot be met by any effective counterclaims in behalf of postponement.

A league of women in Massachusetts is this early in the field with an organized attempt to promote early Christmas shopping. These women are setting out deliberately to convince themselves and others that it is to their interests to shop early, and that they will be doing a good work for the tired Christmas clerks at the same time. Very probably not even all of the members of this organization will do their shopping before Christmas week, but the existence of the organization, and the work it will do in spreading and keeping before the public the obviously good arguments in favor of early shopping, cannot help doing good.

Suppose you try the early plan this year. See if you cannot save money, get better presents, and save yourself a lot of trouble.

INTERNATIONAL MARRIAGES.

Henry Clews things one reason money is "tight" in this country is that American heiresses have been taking too much of it away to give it to foreign sprigs of nobility whom their society-mad mothers marry them to.

That probably has something to do with it, too, but what does Mr. Clews propose to do about it?

He might have the government levy a prohibitive export tariff on American heiresses.

He might, on the other hand, get up a movement to pound a little common sense into the American mothers and American daughters whose wealth makes them attractive to the fortune-hunting noblemen of Europe.

So many of these marriages have turned out to be horrible mistakes that it is a wonder that there are still American women who will scheme to bring them about, or American fathers who will permit them. Very few of them have turned out happily, and there is no reason to believe that a larger proportion of them will ever result fortunately.

They are so purely and coldbloodedly commercial, being a mere barter and sale of human happiness, that it is almost a miracle when one of these strange alliances turns out well. For it is not marital happiness that is sought, but money on the one side and that absurd thing called "social position" on the other. If the parties get these things, they ought to be contented, and they should not expect that happiness will be thrown in.

A CONSERVATOR OF IDEALS.

Half a century ago a new magazine venture was launched upon the troublous waters of the financial panic of 1857. It was not a very auspicious time for the launching; the waters were agitated and the financial skies were black with angry clouds; but the little craft sailed away bravely, and the world of letters is sweeter and better for the fact that it has carried its cargoes of good literature steadily an dsafely ever since.

The magazine thus launched was the Atlantic Monthly. Though scores of cheaper and more gaudy publications have sprung up since that are more widely read, there is none that has placed its aim higher or that has clung more closely to its ideals. The mere mention of a few of the names of its contributors furnishes a short history of American literature during the life of the magazine.

Its first editor was James Russell Lowell, who has been succeeded in turn by James T. Fields, William Dean Howells, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Horace E. Scudder, Walter H. Page and Bliss Perry.

The contributors to the first number included John Lothrop Motley, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Rose Terry, James Hannay, Charles Eliot Norton, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Oliver Wendell Holmes, John Greenleaf Whittier, Harriet Beecher Stowe, John T. Trowbridge, Parke Goodwin, C. C. Hazewell and C. W. Philleo. Of these only Mr. Trowbridge and Prof. Norton are still living. The list includes some of the best-known names in American letters, and it includes none that does not live in the kindly memory of American readers.

Says the New York World, in discussing the Atlantic's semi-centennial: "Any one of these writers, living and writing, would furnish a red-line feature for the magazine of the moment. Yet to the papers in that first issue of the old Atlantic not a name was signed. Imagine a star of the modern monthly, irritant or otherwise, in such a state of pallid anonymity!"

These famous contributors to the first issue continued to contribute to a greater or less extent during their lifetimes. Oliver Wendell Holmes was a copious contributor, the kindly, philosophical and wise humor of the "Breakfast Table" series first appearing in the pages of the Atlantic.

There are older and more popular magazines than the Atlantic, but there is none whose literary worth is greater or whose devotion to high ideals has been more consistent. It has combined in a remarkably successful manner entertainment, timeliness and literary culture.

THE COURTHOUSE.

The city council took proper and timely action last night when it adopted a resolution by Alderman Moore creating a city commission to act in an advisory capacity with the board of county commissioners and the courthouse commission in relation to the location and construction of the new courthouse.

This commission is to be composed of the mayor, the president of the council, the city attorney and two citizens to be appointed by the mayor.

Such a committee should be able to inform the courthouse commission and the county board just what the city may be expected to do in connection with the proposed grouping plan for the federal, county and city buildings. The success of the plan necessarily involves action by the city to occupy the site reserved for it in the grouping plans that are under consideration, and the county authorities, in deciding what they shall do with the courthouse site, should be enlightened and aided by a commission representing the city, such as the one now provided by Alderman Moore's resolution.

It seems to be generally agreed, with but little opposition from any source, that the grouping plan should be adopted. There is some criticism in a few of the iron range papers, but it is all based on the misapprehension that the county is to be called upon to spend a lot of money for the beautification of Duluth. No such thing is contemplated. The construction of the courthouse will cost no more on one site than it will on the other, and the change from the site formerly selected to one that will permit a grouping of public buildings will involve very little additional expense for land.

MR. BRYAN'S ATTITUDE.

Mr. Bryan, replying with scorn and indignation to those who loudly assert that "Roosevelt did it," and pointing out that all he did was to turn the light of publicity upon the dishonesty and greed that weakened the superstructure which had been built upon a firm foundation of general prosperity, affords a cheerful comparison with the Republican leaders during the last Democratic administration.

In those days these Republican leaders, one and all, were quite unanimous in their agreement that Cleveland did it.

"This is what a Democratic administration means," they said; and they have been talking ever since about the Democratic hard times of 1893 and the Republican good times from 1896 onward.

They said that the hard times of 1893 were due to Democratic tariff ideas, and they promised that if they got a chance to put a good old Republican tariff law into force, there never would be any more panics.

Now we have had a "good old Republican tariff law," one that is as high and mighty as they dared make it, and just as though there wasn't any tariff law at all, the usual thing has happened. We have boomed things until we were going ahead at a pace that it was simply impossible to keep up, and when we got to the end of our financial rope we had to pause until, by a process of readjustment which is still in progress, we can either increase our resources or get business down to a basis where present resources are sufficient.

The so-called "panic" was a side issue altogether, though of course it grew out of the same conditions that compelled business to stop for breath. It was due to a few dishonest gamblers who created distrust by improper uses of other people's money. Its effects will be ended the moment the people regain their confidence in the underlying soundness of conditions.

In the meantime Mr. Bryan is setting a good example for political leaders of both parties when he refrains from blaming conditions to the administration. President Roosevelt may have been a factor, since unquestionably the publicity that has been thrown upon greed and dishonesty hastened the crisis, but he was no more the cause of the disturbance than was the grand jury that indicted the Standard Oil company for rebating.

It has been suggested that the reason Mr. Bryan does not want to hold the president responsible is that he believes that the president stole his policies and put them into effect. Mr. Bryan certainly has made such a claim, but when you get down to the bottom of it you are pretty likely to discover that the policies of both Roosevelt and Bryan are the outgrowth of a deep-seated public demand, and that the policies referred to by these statesmen as "my policies" are really the people's policies.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Down at Chicago they have been infected with the "city beautiful" idea. Think of it! 'Dirty, murky, big, bustling Chicago, that impresses the traveler with possessing anything but esthetic tastes, has expressed through her leading citizens a tendency toward beautifying her streets and public buildings, of making wider some of her boulevards, and of curbing the dense, black smoke, that pouring from the chimneys of factories and abbatoirs has given the great Western metropolis a reputation for dirt, smoke and general uncleanliness that is only surpassed by Pittsburg.

J. H. Hirschberger, who is at the Spalding, says that the plans for the city beautiful have been drawn by architect D. H. Burnham, one of the best architects and most public spirited men in Chicago. They are receiving not only the commendation of many of the leading citizens, who heretofore have not possessed sufficient time to consider the needs of their city, but also the aprobation of some of the city officials. This latter fact is most encouraging to the men who have the beautifying of Chicago nearest at heart.

While the plans are for the most part in an embryonic state, yet Mr. Burnham's ideas include the widening of Halsted street, the longest city street in the world, which at its present narrow confines is entirely inadequate for the immense traffic that is obliged to travel its warisome length at a snail's pace. Hideous old Hay Market square, that mocking spectacle of art and symmetry, it is also proposed to beautify. Expansion of streets and boulevards is also contemplated, so as to include in the city limits the Desplaines river, with its bluffs and wooded banks and the beautiful northshore, with its hills and ravines, and other natural beauty spots that lay far from the city that is feeling its first thrill of artistic awakening.

Aldermen, park commissioners and members of boards of public works are, says Mr. Hirschberger, being impressed with the feasibility of the ambitious plans for the city. The press is also lending heart and enthusiastic support to the idea and is, through the editorial columns of the papers, urging some action on the plans that have been presented by Architect Burnham. The big business men, who are so often hard to interest in projects of this kind, are beginning to catch the infectious enthusiasm and the ambitious plans for the future development of the city, in the opinion of Mr. Hirschberger, will eventually be carried out.

"The great hords of immigrants, who annually flock to our shores, are learning to read soon after they reach the land of the free and the brave," says George M. Wylman of New York, who is at the St. Louis hotel.

"They are becoming readers of the news of the day. Their reading is exerting a marked influence on the newspapers of some of the larger cities, where a heavy per cent of the immigrants seek employment. New York and Chicago are the two most conspicuous examples of this. One evening a friend and myself were wandering around the Latin quarter of New York city. We happened to stroll up on to the third floor of a hall. There we encountered a peculiar spectacle. About fifty men were seated at benches, on boxes, or on any obstacle that would afford a support, and were attentively regarding a young Italian girl who was conducting a school of reading.

"The most simple words were written out on a blackboard and when one of the men guessed the meaning of the word he was overcome with a childish delight. One tall, dark-visaged Italian in the rear of the hall, I noticed particularly, scrowled with lowering brows when one of his companions was more successful than he in the solving of the meaning of the words. He was obviously smitten with the fair instructor.

"This is but a typical instance. The peasants and immigrants are becoming readers of the papers. The yellow press knows this, and appeals directly to this class for many of its effects."

Self Interest.

Lippincott's: The real estate firm of Solomon and O'Sullivan had lots for sale in a new suburban addition. O'Sullivan—young, enthusiastic and Irish—was writing the advertisement, the national eloquence flowing from his pen. He urged impending purchasers to seize the passing moment.

"Napoleon not only met opportunity, he created it!"

Mr. Solomon read this line in the advertisement slowly and carefully. "This fellow Napoleon," he said—"what's the use of advertising him with our money?"

THE WEATHER.

Though it was cloudy this morning, the clouds were dry and offered no threats of rain or snow. It was crisp and comfortable, too, though the weather man expects that it will be cooler tonight, when the temperature in Duluth will go to about 25 degs. Otherwise it will be fair and comfortable tonight and tomorrow. Last night's lowest temperature was 29 degs. and yesterday's highest was 49 degs.

A year ago today it was pleasant, though partly cloudy.

The sun rose this morning at 6:57 and set tonight at 4:46, making 9 hours and 49 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: Light rains fell during Monday or last night in the lake region, upper Mississippi valley and Texas, due to a slight disturbance central this morning over eastern Lake Superior. Temperatures are somewhat higher in northern states, but cooler weather may be expected throughout the Northwest tonight and which will attend the easterly movement of a high pressure area central over Idaho. Generally fair and chilly weather with rather strong westerly winds may be expected in this locality during tonight and Wednesday.

Hard Lot in Wright County.

Monticello Times: One of the most useful regulations governing the liquor traffic is that which prohibits the sale of liquor to habitual drunkards. Many saloonkeepers make it a practice to obey it even though they may overlook other regulations at every opportunity.—Duluth Herald.

We doubt it!

We know of none in Wright county, who will not sell liquor to habitual drunkards. Perhaps there are "many saloonkeepers" who will not, but where are they?"

Will The Herald name some?

A Model Industrial Combination.

Springfield Republican: The best-managed of the trusts or large industrial companies is the immense United States Steel corporation. Its capitalization was ridiculously inflated at the start, but for all that it adopted the policy of full publicity in its financial affairs, and since the setback of 1903, which compelled the suspension of dividends on the common stock, it has "plowed into" the property such amounts from earnings as to place substantial values underneath a good part of the water element in the capital. At the same time it has followed the policy of comparative moderation in prices—holding its quotations steady through the boom time when "runaway" markets were characteristic of the copper and most other industries. It has thus been a great steadying force against undue booming in its field, and so is in a position to become a steadying force against undue industrial reaction. The quarterly report issued by the directors yesterday is certainly encouraging for the ability of the company to maintain its present dividend position through a considerable period of comparative depression, and Chairman Gary's apparently frank and full statement respecting the situation and outlook in this barometric steel industry is highly stimulative of hopefulness against extraordinary depression for industry in general. It is the most reassuring word which has come to the public since the financial crisis developed.

The Prayer Perfect.

Dear Lord! Kind Lord!
Gracious Lord I pray
Thou will look on all I love,
Tenderly today!
Weed their hearts of weariness;
Scatter every care
Down a wake of angel-wings
Winnowing the air.

Bring unto the sorrowing
All release from pain;
Let the lips of laughter
Overflow again;
And with all the needy
Oh! divide, I pray,
This vast measure of content
That is mine today!

—JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

He Proved It.

Philadelphia Public Ledger. "Say, Bill," said the county chairman, "you're going to vote for Hiram Spiker for the legislature, ain't yer?"

"Not on your life," replied Bill.

"Why not?" asked the chairman, very much surprised.

"Well, he ain't no friend of mine," said Bill. "He accused me of selling my vote in the county sheriff election last fall."

"Well, why didn't you make him prove it?" asked the chairman.

"He did prove it," replied Bill; "that's why we ain't friends."

He Is a "Comer."

Wadena Pioneer Journal: We note that there are rumors floating around to the effect that Hon. C. B. Miller of Duluth, a young man who earned favorable distinction in the last session of the legislature by standing for what was right and square, may conclude later on to get into the game as an opponent of Congressman J. Adam Bede.

We know very little about the situation over that way, but we have some admiration for and confidence in Mr. Miller, and if he has as large a fund of good horse sense as his friends contend, coupled with his other virtues and accomplishments, we predict that in the near future he will develop into a public factor of no mean importance.

Mr. Miller has good ability, a pleasing presence and is a graceful and interesting public speaker—all gifts which greatly aid any ambitious man in becoming useful and successful. He or any other similarly equipped young man needs only to be honest and square, and in time the people will do the rest.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Waseca Herald: Think of it! In the fourteen states of the Solid South, with 27,000,000 people, there are fewer saloons than in New York state with a population of 8,000,000.

Milaca Times: The efforts to stir up opposition to Congressman Bede in Mille Lacs county has met with very poor success. Mr. Bede is too well known to the people of this section to suffer any injury from the backbiting tactics of a few individuals.

Little Falls Herald: The high tariff doesn't appear to prevent panics in the money market. Another smash at a falling idol.

Sauk Center Herald: The comment of the country press on the arrest and technical incarceration of Attorney E. T. Young is interesting, to say the least, and demonstrates that the wily Ed does not stand so high in the estimation of the country editor as he might. To be a successful martyr a man must enjoy the confidence of the public. The public has never yet been able to banish the idea from its mind that Ed's not inimical to the corporations. Looks as though he wouldn't do for gubernatorial timber.

St. Peter Herald: There is trouble brewing for Congressman Tawney. Although he represents a district which desires tariff revision as ardently as did that formerly represented by McCleary, he has been raised to a position of great influence by the standpat sect of which Cannon is the leader. The very prominence he has attained in congress is arousing the suspicions of his constituents, and the defeat he narrowly escaped a year ago is likely to come next fall. Senator Fitzgerald of Winona, Thomas J. Meighen of Preston, or any other clean Democrat in the First district can win from the celebrated standpat revisionist.

Pine Tree Blaze: The money scare in New York gave Rockefeller, Morgan and a few others in the trust octopus a chance to attain popularity by relieving the situation. No doubt those same fellows have the power to bring on such an excitement as well as to relieve it. Instead of worshiping such men as that when they display such power, we should fear them and immediately proceed to divest them of their immense power. If the financial situation in this country is in the hands of such men as that, this country needs fixing bad, and it isn't near as grand as we thought it was.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: Governor Johnson recently expressed himself forcibly as opposed to capital punishment, and the sentiment seems to find favor with most Minnesotans. And still the barbaric custom prevails. We should either dispense with this, or add the whipping post, stocks and other relics.

Paynesville Press: It begins to look as though the Democratic party would have to take the cake as Col. Bryan cuts, with or without icing.

Cannon Falls Beacon: So long as the country press retains its freedom, its independence and its devotion to the public weal, the silly report issued by the directors yesterday is certainly encouraging for the ability of the company to maintain its present dividend position through a considerable period of comparative depression, and Chairman Gary's apparently frank and full statement respecting the situation and outlook in this barometric steel industry is highly stimulative of hopefulness against extraordinary depression for industry in general. It is the most reassuring word which has come to the public since the financial crisis developed.

The Age of Presidents.

New York World: In vigorous health from his brief bear-hunting vacation, President Roosevelt received congratulations Sunday. He was 49 years old.

Of the elected presidents of the United States, Washington was 57 when inaugurated; disregarding the odd months, Adams and Jackson were 61, Jefferson, Madison and J. Q. Adams 57, Monroe 58, Van Buren and McKinley 54, Polk 49, Taylor 64, Pierce 48, Buchanan 65, Lincoln 52, Hayes 54, Garfield 49, Cleveland 47, Benjamin Harrison 55.

The oldest elected president installed was William Henry Harrison at 68, the youngest Grant at 46. The average age of the twenty elected presidents when inaugurated was about 56 years, including the odd months.

Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant, Cleveland and McKinley were inaugurated in second terms at an average age of sixty, odd months included. Grant when inaugurated for the second time was the youngest re-elected president—not quite 51.

Of presidents reaching their office by way of the vice presidency, Tyler was 51, Fillmore 50, Johnson 56, Arthur 50; average age, odd months included, about fifty-two and one-third. Mr. Roosevelt himself was not quite forty-three when he became president upon McKinley's death. He was inaugurated in 1905 at 46.

Upon the 4th of March, 1909, Mr. Roosevelt will be 50 years, 4 months and 7 days old, two years younger than the average age of presidents promoted from the vice presidency, six years younger than the average of first-elected presidents, ten years younger than the average of presidents beginning a "second elective term."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The biggest liar is the man who says he knows more money wouldn't be good for him.

Whether a widow is nice and plump or just fat depends on how much money was left her.

A man has a very bad disposition to want his children to economize along with him.

It excites a girl to think of the time a man kissed her and him of the time he didn't.

At Last!

Take it up tenderly,
Handle with care,
Let it get used to the
Chill autumn air.
Shake out the moth ball
Scent of the past,
Overcoat weather has Struck us at last.

—Birmingham Age Herald.

MIRTHFUL REMARKS.

Cleveland Leader: Jim—Proposed to Miss Phocksy yet?

John—Nope. I asked her to play the piano for me last night and she absolutely refused.

Jim—Great Scott, man! What greater proof of her love do you require?

Chicago Record-Herald: "Of course," said the intimate friend to the distinguished statesman, "your opinions are never for sale."

"Never," was the prompt reply, "except to the magazines."

Houston Post: "Thomas A. Edison has perfected a way to build a three-story house in twelve hours at a cost of $1,000."

"Now if he'll perfect a way to house-clean it in twelve hours he'll be a daisy."

Washington Star: "That play," remarked the critical person, "lacks heart interest."

"It does, eh," answered the star; "you just ought to see the way the manager is raking the box office receipts to heart."

New York Sun: Knicker—How long do you think it will be before confidence will be restored?

Bocker—As long as it takes you to convince your wife that you really were detained at the office.

Counting Hi-Spy.

Intry, mintry, cutry-corn,
Apple seed and briar thorn;
Briar, briar, limberlock,
Three geese in a flock;
One flew east and one flew west,
One flew over the cuckoo's nest!

Pinch me, shake me, do I dream?
Oh, the echo; oh, the gleam!
There they go with laugh and shout,
Hi-spy children counting out!
Intry, mintry—hi-pon-us;
Shadows, shadows over us,
Lift again thy darkling wing
From life's vision of lost spring!
I can see them, I can hear
All their rapture ringing clear!

Pinch me, shake me, wake me up,
Lift me to the rose's cup
Till I sip the fairy brew
Of the apple bloom of dew;
Till I shed my years like cloak
Of the bark and leaf of oak,
And go down to dance and gleam
In that circle of child-dream!
Hark, O heart of rust and gray,
To that song of child-at-play:

Intry, mintry, cutry-corn,
Apple seed and briar thorn;
Briar, briar, limberlock,
Three geese in a flock;
One flew east and one flew west,
One flew over the cuckoo's nest!

The Benefits of Walking.

Milwaukee Journal: Physicians recommend walking as the best all-around exercise known to them.

Why?

In the first place, when you walk you raise the temperature of your body. It is like stuffing more coal in the furnace and opening the draught. There's something doing in your body. Everything gets into working order.

Then you breathe more deeply. And that puts more oxygen in your blood, and oxygen is more necessary to you than your meals.

And there's your skin. The millions of pores are opened up by perspiration and more waste is being carried off.

And your digestion. Walking helps that process. And it puts an edge on your appetite. And appetite is one of the things necessary to good digestion.

But that is not all.

The doctors will tell you about your diaphragm. The diaphragm is a sort of stage floor between the chest and the abdomen. It is raised or lowered by the contraction or the swelling of the lungs. When the lungs are deeply filled the diaphragm goes down and presses upon the liver, stomach and spleen. It is like massage on these organs. And this massage helps to keep them in good order—especially the liver. The man who regularly practices walking will never have liver trouble.

These are some of the benefits derived from walking.

Nothing is here said about the mental benefits, the exhilaration that comes from being in the open air, the joy that comes from knowing that one's organism is in good working order.

The Creator did not intend that you should ride in a street car or other conveyance to the exclusion of your two good legs.

HOUSE IN TREETOP.

A farmer living in Wrentham, Mass., a small village near Providence, R. I., has built a house in the tops of two adjoining pine trees on his farm and will spend the winter there. The man is 35 years old and has been consumptive for several years.

The "house" is about 9x6 with a door and two windows, which will be closed only to keep out snow and rain. Access is had by means of a rope ladder which, Robinson Crusoe-like, will be drawn up each night.

Medicine is not of much use to cure consumption. Fresh air and clean living are the essential forces to combat the dread white scourge. Every precaution should be employed to prevent the germs from settling on the lungs and coughs and colds should not be neglected. To break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is curable, mix a half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine with two ounces of glycerine and a half pint of good whisky. Shake well and take a teaspoonful every four hours. Five ounces of tincture Cinchona compound can be used instead of whisky with the same effect.

This mixture will usually break up a cold over night. Care should be exercised to use only the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine, which is prepared in the laboratories of the Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O., and put up for dispensing, only in ½-ounce vials, each securely sealed in a round wooden case. It is better to purchase the different ingredients separately and mix them at once.

WILL HELP MOVE GRAIN

Secretary Cortelyou Will Do Everything in Power for Northwest.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Senator Nelson of Minnesota reached here yesterday with a delegation of bankers from St. Paul and Minneapolis and had an audience with President Roosevelt late last night. Those accompanying Senator Nelson are J. W. Lusk, C. T. Jeffrey, J. W. Decker and C. W. Harrington. Though Senator Nelson refuses to discuss the object of the conference, it is understood to relate to the financial situation in the Northwest.

After the conference Secretary Cortelyou said that measures for the relief of the grain men of the Nortawest were talked of, and it was aunthoritatively announced that the secretary had agreed to extend help and do everything else possible to help the movement of grain. Just what he has prepared to do was not given out.

AGAINST SPECIAL SESSION.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson is opposed to a special session of congress and in accordance with his views has answered several telegrams received from the East, in the negative. They were from financiers and Eastern papers. Governor Johnson says he does not think a special session of congress is necessary. If any relief is needed, he thinks the regular session can furnish it.

Gladstone, Mich., Nov. 5.—Peter Jordan left here Sunday night to go to Wells for boom logs with his tug, and as his fireman had just quit big Joh, he went alone. His tug was picked up Monday, with the fire extinguished. An immediate search was made without success.

It is thought that he fell overboard going from the engine to the wheel to steer the tug

FORMER SENATOR IS ANXIOUS FOR A DUEL.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 5.—Failing to draw Lieutenant Governor J. Y. Sanders into a pistol duel, Former United States Senator Don Caffery, 72 years old, "posted" Mr. Sanders as a "common liar and poltroon."

Thousands of these posters, signed by Caffery, were posted on bill boards, telephone poles and sidewalks, and across the fronts of downtown buildings, in the vicinity of Sanders' headquarters, opposite the St. Charles hotel. The work was done by twenty billposters before daylight, Sanders having no intimation of the attack until he came downtown in the morning.

Friends of Sanders spent the forenoon ripping the posters off with knives. Sanders still maintains he cannot at this time give Caffery personal satisfaction, however much he would like to. Holding one public office and being a candidate for another, he contends he is not in a position to meet Caffery or any one else in mortal combat.

Charges against the public record of Sanders in a local newspaper, made by Caffery, caused Sanders to reply to it and declare that Caffery's statements were false. It was to these references that Caffery took exceptions, resulting in his demand for retraction.

HOLD-UPS ROB SUPERIOR MAN

Matt Hay is Relieved of Coin Near Cloquet.

Cloquet, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Hay, a Finlander and a stranger in this vicinity, was held up by two masked men, about a mile from this city on the Fond du Lac Indian reservation road, southwest of town, near the home of Indian Farmer J. W. Morgan. Mr. Hay came to Cloquet some time ago for the purpose of securing a homestead on the Indian reservation lands, which were opened to settlement some time ago, and on his return last evening about 5:30 o'clock from his piece of land, he was attacked by two men, who he describes as being tall and stout.

They stepped out of the bushes along the road and commanded Hay to throw up his hands, and on refusing to do as he was ordered, he was dealt a heavy blow in the face with a club, cutting a deep gash in his cheek, dangerously close to his right eye. Hay was dazed by the blow and the hold-up parties had little trouble in taking the money he had on his person, which amounted to about $15.

Hay came directly to town and appeared at the police station about 7:30 o'clock, the deep cut below the eye still bleeding. He was taken to the hospital to have his wound dressed at once; but as the hold-up had taken place without the city, the local authorities could do nothing. Sheriff Lee was notified at once and is now making a vigorous search for the guilty parties. Mr. Hay is an employe of the Great Northern Railway company, at their shops in Superior, Wis.

LIBRARY WELL PATRONIZED

The Librarian's Monthly Report Shows Some Healthy Gains.

Big gains in the circulation of books in both the main and children's rooms were reported by the city librarian at the monthly meeting of the library board last evening. The circulation of books during the month just passed showed a gain of 900 over October a year ago.

The circulation for the month in the main department of the library was 11,115 volumes. The total circulation in the children's department was 3,031 volumes for the month, a daily circulation of 112.

Contracts for the furnishing of 300 magazines and newspapers for the library were let to Lundberg & Stone, on their bid of $650. The library now gets one weekly from every important city in the United States.

The board decided to buy lights to put over the pictures in the art room. Art lovers have been complaining that the pictures were not properly lighted so the board will remedy the matter at once.

Some new shelving will also be purchased.

ELECTIONS PROGRESSING.

also responded to the local call, but as a rule the ordinary clerks remain at their respective posts.

New York, Nov. 5.—The quietest election in years so far as public interest is concerned is proceeding in Greater New York today following a spiritless campaign. Political orators tried in vain to arouse the apathetic voters. Slow balloting in the early hours today indicated a light vote, despite fair weather and an agreeable temperature. An "off year" is the explanation of the politicians for the apparent apathy, as only state assemblymen, county officers and some judges are to be chosen, but in reality voters are glad to get a rest from the strenuous campaigns that have occurred here in the last decade.

What interest there is has been centered in the fight for sheriff of New York county. The candidates are Thomas Foley, Democrat, long a Tammany district leader, and Maxmillian F. Ihmen, Independence league and Republican, who has acted as congressional manager for William R. Hearst for several years. Both sides early today expressed themselves as confident of victory.

The only state officers to be chosen, outside of assemblymen, are two judges of the court of appeals. Edward T. Bartlett and Willard Bartlett were nominated by both the Republicans and Democrats and are practically certain of election. They are opposed by nominees of the Independence league.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Voting for state and county officers and members of the next legislature began in all the cities and larger towns in Massachusetts early today, with good weather.

Voters had a choice of seven candidates for governor, running on nine tickets, and nearly the same number for other state offices. These candidates included the entire board of present officeholders, headed by Governor Guild, who is seeking re-election for the third and probably final term. The other candidates for governor, in alphabetical order, are: Charles W. Bartlett (Anti-merger); Thomas C. Brennan, Socialist Labor; John W. Brown, Socialist; Hervey S. Cowell, Prohibition; Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence league, and Henry M. Whitney, Democratic, Independent citizen and Democratic citizen nomination papers.

The fight for district attorney and sheriff in Suffolk county, of which Boston is the greater part, was a feature in this city. Great activity was shown in getting out the vote during the early hours.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Intense interest in the mayoralty contest in this city was manifested when the polls opened. At many of the voting places large numbers of voters were awaiting to cast their ballots. Weather conditions were perfect.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 5.—A clear crisp morning greeted the voters of Rhode Island when the polling booths about the state opened today. The early vote was unusually large. The outcome of the election is being watched with great interest, inasmuch as the next legislature will vote for United States senator from this state. The contest for governor is between the incumbent, James H. Higgins, Democrat, and Lieutenant Governor Frederick H. Jackson of Providence, Republican.

Pittsburg, Nov. 5.—Ideal election weather is experienced in Pittsburg today. A fair early vote was polled. The selection of a state treasurer and several county officers is being made.

Baltimore, Nov. 5.—Early morning indications pointed to a heavy vote in Baltimore at the election today for governor, a full state ticket and members of the legislature. The Democrats are also holding a primary election for a candidate for the long term United States senatorship which begins in 1909. Clear and cool weather prevails.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 5.—The usual heavy vote was cast for the municipal candidate in this city early today. The weather was favorable, it being partly cloudy and not too cold.

The time for the closing of the polls has been changed from 4 to 5:30 o'clock and the result will not be known as early as other years.

Boston, Nov. 5.—The small attendance at the opening of the polls today seemed to forecast a light vote. Little interest has been shown throughout the campaign.

Dayton, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Stimulated by three cornered fight for mayor, there was unusual activity at the opening of the polls this morning. A record-breaking vote is promised.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Early indications show that there will be a large vote cast here today in the election for mayor. Tickets are being scratched as never before. The weather is cloudy.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 5.—Election day dawned generally fair and pleasant throughout Mississippi. Little interest was shown, for it was assured that E. F. Noel, would be elected governor, carrying with him the entire Democratic ticket.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—Clear cool weather prevails today throughout the state. County chairman reported that farmers betrayed much interest in the state election and the vote was expected to be heavy. Balloting began at 8 o'clock.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Clear weather favored the voters in this city today. Because of the lack of interest only a fair vote was polled during the morning hours. There seems to be more interest in the fate of the $10,000,000 loan proposition than in the contest for state or city offices. The reform element is making a fight to defeat the proposition. The polls opened at 7 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 5.—The fine weather prevailing throughout New Jersey today is expected to help in bringing out a full vote. Reports from various parts of the state show that the vote for governor is fairly heavy.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 5.—Polls for the local option election in this state opened shortly after 8 a. m. today and voting began in a manner which promised that a large majority of the vote would be polled by noon. The weather is clear. The voting is by districts, of which there are four in the state.

Interest continues to run high, with both sides confident to a surprising extent, although in Wilmington the license leaders display an assurance that will not listen to the probability of defeat in this city, which comprises one of the four districts.

TO PRETENDERS.

A Wholesome Word for Guidance.

Just a word to you, "Collier's" and other glaring examples of Modern Yellow Journalism and Cigarettes.

Environment gives you a viewpoint from which it is difficult to understand that some people even nowadays act from motives of old-fashioned honesty.

There are honest makers of foods and healthful beverages and there are honest people who use them.

Perhaps you are trained to believe there is no honesty in this world.

There is, although you may not be of a kind to understand it.

Some of you have been trained in a sorry class of pretenders, but your training does not taint the old-fashioned person trained without knowledge of pretense and deceit.

These letters came to us absolutely without solicitation. We have a great many thousand from people who have been helped or entirely healed by following the suggestions to quit the food or drink which may be causing the physical complaints and change to Postum of Grape-Nuts food.

You are not intelligent enough to know the technical reasons why the change makes a change in the cells of the body. Your knowledge, or lack of knowledge, makes not the slightest difference in the facts.

You can print from old and worn plates all the cheap books your presses will produce and sell them as best you can, but such acts and your "learned" editorials are but commercial, and seek only "dollars" and much by pretence.

When you branch out into food values you become only ridiculous.

Stick to what you know. The field may be small, but it is safe.

This first letter is from the President of the "Christian Nation," a worthy Christian paper of New York.

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd.,
Battle Creek, Mich.

Dear Sirs:

I am, this morning, in receipt of the enclosed mighty good letter from one of my subscribers, which I forward to you, and which I am sure you will be glad to use. I am personally acquainted with this lady, and know that she has no object in writing, other than to do good.. Cordially,

John W. Pritchard, Pres.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 1, 1907.

Dear Mr. Pritchard:

Noticing Postum Food Coffee advertised each week in your reliable paper, I concluded to try it, and feeling it a duty towards those who may have suffered as I have from indigestion, desire to state what wonderful benefit I have received from Postum, although using only a short time, and not do I alone realize and appreciate its good effects, but friends remark, "How much I have improved and how well I look," and I tell the facts about Postum every time, for since using it I have not had one attack of indigestion. It is invigorating, healthful; does not affect the nerves as ordinary coffee, and if properly made, a most delicious drink. Although I have not had much faith in general advertising, yet, finding Postum has done so much better for me than I expected I am more inclined to "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good." I am so thankful for good health that I want it known what a blessing Postum has been to me. You may use these few lines as an ad if you so desire and my name also. Very truly yours,

Anna S. Reeves.

Coffee hurt her, she quit and used Postum. She didn't attempt to analyze but she enjoyed the results. Underneath it all "There's a Reason."

BOTH FEET ARE FROZEN

Woodsman Suffers Severely From Exposure While Intoxicated.

Occupies Room Next to Man Whose Feet Were Roasted.

With both feet frozen and discolored, Adolf Fredericks, a woodsman, about 40 years of age, was brought to the city this morning and taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Cases of frostbite are not rare in Duluth in the winter time, but such a case during the first few days of November, and especially during such weather as Northern Minnesota has been enjoying during the last two weeks, seems almost incredible.

Fredericks, it appears, became intoxicated at Hibbing last week, and wandered off into the woods, where he spent two or three days sleeping off his intoxication. During that time he suffered severely from exposure, and both his feet were so badly frostbitten that amputation will be necessary.

He occupies the room adjoining the Proctor workman who literally baked both of his feet last week by walking into a hot sand pit at Proctor.

ARREST DEMARS WOMAN.

Queen of Fargo's Demimonde Accused of Serious Crime.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local authorities have taken another twist in tightening the cords about the social evil by arresting Nina Demars, the keeper of the house of ill-repute in which Blanche Burton, the 15-year-old girl, recently attempted to kill herself. The charge against the woman is being an accessory to the crime of rape. As the accused is wealthy, it is expected she will put up a determined fight in the courts. The Burton girl fled the town a few days ago, going to Minnesota, but she was brought back and will be used as a witness against the Demars woman.

WANT MRS. LLOYD.

Washington Police Seem to Think She Operated in That Section.

Rochester, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of Mrs. Lloyd, who is being held here on the charge of being a second and smaller edition of the late Cassie Chadwick, appears to be attracting attention outside the state. A picture of the woman printed in Twin City papers came under the observation of the Washington, D. C., police and the similarity to her features to those of a notorious female crook who operated in that section inspired Richard Sylvester, chief of the Washington police, to send the following to the Rochester chief of police:

"Arrest Aimee Lloyd, wanted here for passing worthless checks. I hear she is in your jail. Answer if we can have her."

The Rochester chief replied that she was soon to be tried and if released from any cause on charges pending here she would be turned over to the Washington authorities.

Officials at Clinton, Iowa, also believe that Mrs. Lloyd is the woman who swindled a man in that city and is making inquiries of the officers here.

Mrs. Lloyd has retained Thomas Stillane, a lawyer of Rochester, to represent her at the hearing on Friday. The man known as Albert, who is believed to be Lloyd, her husband, has left here to go to some unknown destination for Mrs. Lloyd's clothes.

THREE VETERANS BEFORE COURT

Three old veterans faced the judge in the municipal court this morning. "Jimmie" Dillon or "Whistling Jimmie," James Ransom, known as "Sharkey" and Frank Longly, known as "Sliver," probably have served more time in the county jail than any three other prisoners who could be gathered together.

They were all charged with drunkenness, and entered pleas of guilty. Dillon was given sixty days, and the other two thirty days apiece. Sharkey was anxious to depart from Duluth and made oft-repeated promises which have been just as often broken. Judge Cutting was not to be cajoled by his promises.

"Silver" thought that three months was quite a time to be away from court and asked clemency on that account. He was last before the court in August.

He claimed that he had been away at work ever since and had earned about $100. Thirty dollars of this he "sent home," with some he purchased clothing, and the rest he admitted he squandered in saloons.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

MAY BUY AN INTEREST

Ted Sullivan Looking Over Duluth's Baseball Situation.

Says Northern League Should Break Into Twin Cities.

Ted Sullivan is on the job. As mentioned in The Herald yesterday, Ted arrived in Duluth yesterday morning and proceeded to talk. Baseball is his theme. Ted has been talking baseball since he was in kilts and he will continue to talk it until his voice will sound no more. For baseball is the bread and butter of Ted's life.

He's the same old Ted. His funny stories, his tales of former days, his confidential side-chat and his schemes of leagues and other things have taken on interest with years, and he can always find an audience to stick until the last word is said and the lights burn low.

The baseball fan in the United States who hasn't met Ted Sullivan has missed something. He has been across the continent and back again, up and down several times, and all over. He hasn't changed much. The years have dealt lightly with his features and sprightly step. He can move around as well now as he could in 1896, when he visited Duluth and he knows a heap more about baseball that is worth hearing.

"I'm just visiting," said Ted. "I have spent a good part of the summer in the Copper country and I thought I would run up here to see a few of my old friends before going back to Chicago. I thought I might see some interesting things here, and I have.

"Maybe I'll get interested here. Who knows? Some of the stockholders of the Duluth team are willing to sell out their shares and I shouldn't wonder if I would take them up. Not that I intend to buy the entire club, bag and baggage, but just enough to give me an interest in it and make me work for its success. Some of the present owners want to hang on and I couldn't buy their interest if I wanted to.

"Understand, I am not talking of a farm for the Chicago White Sox or any other club. Not much. I don't want a crowd of ball players around, who can be taken away from me at any moment. I want men of my own, whom I can hold to the end of the season. Of course, if there is any farming done in midseason and I see a chance to strengthen the team without taking chances on losing the strength before the end of the season, it would be only natural to take any of the men that may come along. But as for a regular farm, not for mine, in a league like Duluth would have to be in.

"But before I talk of buying an interest in the Duluth or any other club, I want to know where it is going, and I would like to see this new Northern league organized as soon as possible. An eight-club league of Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Fargo, Grand Forks, Winnipeg and perhaps La Crosse, Winona or one or two other cities, would be just the thing. From what I hear, I should judge there is a chance for such a league being organized and I am heartily in favor of it. The Twin Cities are ready for two professional ball teams in each city and there is an opening for the Northern league.

"From what I can see, the Copper country will do something in baseball next summer. They don't want to let the game die there altogether, near as it came to it last year. They're good sports, those Copper country people. They have lost a lot of money, but are back looking for more baseball trouble, and I would like to see their persistence win. I didn't believe they lost so much until they showed me the figures and they let in the light in a glare.

"They're at a disadvantage there. Calumet has no Sunday ball and Houghton has no attendance. The Houghton park is near and yet too far, for one must go by ferry or by a roundabout way. All the mustard plasters in creation can hardly draw a cent from Hancock to Houghton and Houghton can't support fast ball alone.

"The league for them is a circuit for three games a week in upper peninsula towns. There are enough towns down there to form such a league and make it a paying proposition. The ball wouldn't be as fast as it has been, but it will be pretty lively and it will be better than nothing.

"Duluth is a good town. I can see that. The people here are lively, there are enough of them to support good baseball, and I believe in a good league. Duluth would more than make good. I will remain here a few days, canvass the situation thoroughly, then go to the Twin Cities to see George Lennon and Mike Cantillion and then back to Chicago."

FAVORITE DEFEATED.

Grapple, 9 to 2, Noses Out Seawell at Aqueduct.

Aqueduct Race Track, Nov. 5.—Grapple, a 9 to 2 shot, won the Woodmere selling stakes at seven furlongs at Aqueduct yesterday, defeating the heavily played favorite, Seawell. The latter was backed down from 6 to 5 to 4 to 5, and went to the front soon after the start and set a fast pace, but Grapple closed with a rush and won by a head.

SPOKANE IS CHESTY.

High School Team Would Play for National Honors.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 5.—Manager George Rouse of the Spokane high school football team, announces his intention of challenging the North division high school team of Chicago for a game to decide the high school championship of the United States. Spokane now claims the Northwest championship, having defeated the Seattle high school Saturday, 4 to 0.

SAY ROOT WILL RESIGN; BACON TO SUCCEED HIM.

Washington, Nov. 5.—That Robert Bacon is to be secretary of state and that Elihu Root is to retire at a not very distant date, is the substance of an important story circulated here. In this connection it is recalled that Bacon recently declined the ambassadorship to Berlin. The report is that Mr. Root has made up his mind that he has done his share of the work of the country and that all he has undertaken has been practically fulfilled, his last work being the trip to the South American countries and to Mexico.

TO PLAY NO MORE GAMES

Duluth Central High School Football Team Disbands.

Ashland Wants Game, But Date is Too Late.

The Duluth Central high school football team has disbanded for the season. Ashland wants another game Nov. 23 at Ashland, but no games have been arranged for the intervening time, and Duluth will not hold together. Crawford and Duncan are not in condition to continue in the game and the other boys are pretty stiff after the hard schedule, so last evening it was decided to be satisfied with what honors have already been gained.

During the season just closed the Centrals have met six teams, gained three victories, lost one game, tied one, and one ended in a dispute, the referee awarding it to the other team by a score of 2 to 0. Two Harbors, St. Cloud and Superior were defeated. Minneapolis Central won from the locals. They tied with St. Paul Central and Ashland has the doubtful honor of the forfeited game.

The supporters of the local team are satisfied. The victory over Blaine was sweet, indeed. A team which can defeat Superior is always sure of the allegiance of Duluth football enthusiasts, and this year's eleven had that allegiance in full measure. The defeat by Minneapolis Central was hard to bear, but the local boys fought well against heavier and faster opponents. They lost to a better team and they are satisfied to have fought a good fight. With a weakened team, they held the St. Paul Centrals to a tie and could undoubtedly defeat that aggregation with Crawford in the game. The defeat, if such it may be called, by Ashland doesn't count. A forfeited game doesn't go for much in football and Duluth, with the team which finished the season, can beat Ashland.

Coach Colton deserves a great deal of credit. With only a few veterans as a nucleus for his team, he developed an eleven which was able to cope successfully with heavier and fast opponents. He drilled the boys in the new rules, in which they were but poorly versed. He taught them the forward pass, so they could use it. He formed Caulkins from a slow moving youth to a heady, fast quarterback. He gave much of his time and more trouble than one could imagine to the team, and the results show that he was competent.

Ed Furni, the old high school star, was an able assistant to Coach Colton. While the coach was away, he put the boys through their paces in good shape. He drilled them the week before the game with Minneapolis Centrals and their work in that contest showed that they had not lost anything during the week of Colton's absence.

Financially, the team was a success for the high school athletic body. It was supported freely by local football enthusiasts and put the treasury of the Athletic association on a good financial basis. The boys won honor for themselves and for the school, and their supporters are satisfied that, despite Ashland's claims, the champions of the Head of the Lakes have no equals in the district.

ELEVEN O'CLOCK LID IS PUT ON

At Minneapolis, Mayor Bowing to the State Law.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 5.—Orders to close all saloons and public bars at 11 o'clock at night were given yesterday to Police Supt. F. T. Corriston by Mayor James C. Haynes.

To prepare the saloonkeepers for what was coming, instructions were sent to the different police captains to warn the saloons in their respective precincts that the lid would be applied at 11 p. m., in compliance with the laws of the state. The result was that the order was generally observed and the lid was clamped down tight last night.

Both Mayor Haynes and Supt. Corriston announced that the purpose of the order was to close all public drinking places at 11 o'clock, as the statute was very explicit on this point. Hotels and restaurants, they said, could not be closed at 11 o'clock or any other time, but the bars must go out of business at that hour, and no liquor can be served from the bars, even to the people who are dining.

It is the most radical order issued to the police since 1895, when David P. Jones, then mayor, directed the police force to see that all drinking places were closed on Sunday. The order to apply the 11 p. m. lid is the direct result of the demand made Thursday by a committee representing the federation council of churches of the city of Minneapolis.

NEGRO LYNCHED.

Cameron, Tex., Nov. 5.—Following his indictment yesterday on a charge of attempted criminal assault, Alex Johnson, a negro, was taken from the jail here by a mob of 500 men and hanged to a tree in the courthouse yard. Officers and influential citizens vainly pleaded with the mob to allow the law to take its course. The town was quiet last evening. The governor ordered out the militia, but not in time to save the negro.

REULBACH IS LEADER

Chicago Man Heads National League Pitchers for Season.

Chicago Club Carries Off Pitching and Fielding Honors.

The Chicago team, winners of the pennant in the National league and of the world's championship, romped away with the pitching honors in their own organization, as might be expected. Three of them are at the head of the National league pitchers and another stands fifth in order.

Reulbach, the hero of the world's championship games, was the king pin of the league. With 17 victories and but 4 defeats, he has a percentage of victories of .810 for the season, which but few pitchers have equalled in big league company. Mordecai Brown stands second with 29 victories and 6 defeats, a percentage of .769. Overall is next, with 23 victories and 8 defeats, a percentage of .742. Some of the other high ones are: Sparks, Philadelphia, won 22, lost 8, percentage .733; Lundgren, Chicago, won 18, lost 7, percentage .720; Matthewson, New York, won 24, lost 12, percentage .667; Willis, Pittsburg, won 21, lost 11, percentage .656; Pittenger, Philadelphia, won 9, lost 5, percentage .643.

The Chicago club also carries away most of the honors in the fielding department, the averages of the players just having been made public. The Chicago club stands first in team averages, with a percentage of .967 for 6,400 total chances. Cincinnati and New York are tied for second place with .963 and Boston is next with .961. Pittsburg and Brooklyn are tied for next place with .959, Philadelphia has .957 and St. Louis .948.

McGann of New York, leads the regular first basemen with an average of .994 for 81 games, though Hannifan of New York, and Swacina of Pittsburg, are over him with .996 for 29 and 26 games, respectively. Bowerman, of New York, has 29 games. Chance stands second among the regular first basemen with .990 for 143 games. Tenny of Boston, has .989 for 149 games.

Ritchey of Boston, leads the regular second basemen, with .979 for 144 games. Evers of Chicago, has .971 for 151 games. Huggins of Cincinnati, .964 for 166 games, and Knabe of Philadelphia, .960 for 121 games.

Steinfeldt, Chicago, led the third basemen with .964 for 151 games, with Casey of Brooklyn, second with .955 for 138 games. Bridewell of Boston, led the shortstops with .942 for 140 games. Dahlen, of New York, had .941 for 143 games, and Lobert, of Cincinnati, the same for 142 games.

Clark, of Pittsburg, headed the regular left fielders with .947, Thomas of Philadelphia, and Leach, of Pittsburg, the center fielders with .980, and Bates of Boston, the right fielders with .979.

Bowerman, of New York, led the catchers with .990; Kling, of Chicago, had .987, and Bresnahan, of New York, .986.

Newt Randall, the Duluth boy, who played with Chicago and Boston, had a percentage of .884 for 33 games in right field and .944 for 59 games in left field.

CUPID IN THE CABOOSE.

Engineered a Rail Merger That the Law Approved.

Sioux Rapids, Iowa, Nov. 5.—While a Minneapolis & St. Louis freight train was switching here and was on its way from Estherville to Storm Lake, Conductor G. M. Vall and Miss Laura Patterson of Estherville were married in the caboose by Justice F. C. Loverin, who arrived upon the receipt of a telegram sent from up the road.

The conductor and the pretty girl struck up a flirtation on the train. He proposed and she accepted. The entire courtship took less than two hours.

GEORGE BROWN CHOSEN

To Head Charities Department Created by Board of Control.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—It is said that the Democratic majority on the board of control has picked a man for the new charities department that it has decided to create.

George Brown, formerly chief clerk in the office of the secretary of state, and a Republican, is credited with being the lucky party. The appointment is said to be a personal one with Governor Johnson. Brown, during the two last campaigns, was known as a Johnson Republican. In the convention "scrap" he was a Collins man.

STEEL CORPORATION BUYS COAL COMPANY.

New York, Nov. 5.—The United States Steel corporation has secured a controlling interest in the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company. The deal was concluded yesterday and is traceable to the conferences held at the home of J. Pierpont Morgan Saturday and yesterday. It is understood that the price paid is a little above $85 a share. The holdings of a pool controlling some 70 per cent of the stock of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company were transferred in the sale. This sale cannot fail to do much to relieve the present financial stringency, as large amounts of the stock of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company are now held as collateral for loans by the local banks. The taking up of the loans by the new owners of the stock will materially add to the resources of financial institutions.

SKIN ON FIRE--AGONY UNBEARABLE.

Terrible Itching Burning Skin Disease Now Quickly Cured.

A purely vegetable external remedy that has been proved beyond all possible doubt to cure the worst cases of Eczema and all skin diseases can now be procured by all skin sufferers. This remarkable remedy is D. D. D. Prescription, the discovery of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the well known skin specialist, and is being manufactured by the D. D. D. Co., 112 Michigan St., Chicago, Ill. The demand for this remedy has become tremendous within a short time because people are just learning that the hundreds of cures it has made seem to be permanent.

Eczema and all diseases of the skin must be treated locally, according to the views now held by foremost skin specialists and physicians; that is, you must doctor the itch where the itch is. It is useless to attempt to cure skin disease by taking drugs and medicines into the stomach. The disease is not in the blood. It is in the skin and only skin deep. You must get at the seat of the disease and kill the germ by making direct applications to the skin.

Mrs. L. B. Powell, Box 414, Caruthersville, Mo., writes: "Words cannot convey my full appreciation of D. D. D. The face of my baby boy was a solid scab, when I accidentally heard of D. D. D. I secured a bottle at once and began to apply it. It was miraculous in its cure. It healed my baby's face completely. If anyone wants further information about this I shall be only too glad to hear from them."

Testimonials of hundreds of cases of remarkable cures by D. D. D. Prescription and an interesting booklet on skin disease and its treatment, exercise, diet, bathing, etc., may be had free by calling on Lyceum Pharmacy, Duluth, where D. D. D. Prescription and D. D. D. Soap will be found on sale.

COL. ALLEN IS AT REST

Many Old Friends of Pioneer Attend His Funeral.

Held Under Masonic Auspices With Burial in Oakland.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many friends of a lifetime, and business associates of half a century, gathered at the eMrchants hotel yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral of the late Col. Alvaren Allen, for years the proprietor of that pioneer hostelry.

From noon until 2:30 the body lay in state in the parlors of the hotel, where many took the advantage of the opportunity to take a last look at the face they had known so well in life.

The funeral services, which began at 2:30, were under the auspices of Ancient Landmark lodge, A. F. and A. M., to which Col. Allen belonged. The Masonic ritual was used. Following the services at the hotel the regular Masonic burial scvice was held at the grave in Oakland cemetery.

The honorary pall bearers were all old friends of Col. Allen, and included Judge Baker, William P. Murray, J. W. Cook A. L. Larpenteur, Emmet Lytle and Peter Berkey.

The casket, as it stood in the parlor of the hotel, was almost covered with a profusion of beautiful flowers, tributes to the memory of one of the foremost among St. Paul's early citizens, paid by those who had known him best in life.

A number of people came from other cities and towns in the state to attend the funeral services. Among them was Samuel White of Hastings, who, with Col. Allen, drove a stage for the Minnesota Stage company for several years following 1855. He accompanied Col. Allen on a record-breaking trip in the winter of 1857, when the stage, which always carried the mail in those days, brought the first annual message of President Buchanan from La Crosse to St. Paul, a distance of 140 miles, in fourteen hours.

LOOKING FOR ITALIAN.

Police of St. Paul Seeking Man Who Dealt Fatal Blow.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.—The police of this city are searching near and far for an Italian who is alleged to have dealt James Reid, a teamster of years old, a fatal blow during a trivial quarrel two weeks ago. Reid was struck on the head with a stone hurled by the Italian. Soon after the injury he developed abscess of the lung and died at St. Luke's hospital Sunday.

Reid, who was unloading stone on the upper levee, got into an altercation with an unknown Italian laborer, who, in a raging frenzy, picked up a heavy stone and struck Reid on the head. Reid sank to the ground, half unconscious, but recovered a few minutes later, and was at work the rest of the day. The next morning he was delirious and was taken to the St. Luke's hospital where he died. Nothing has been seen of the Italian since and the police are trying hard to locate him.

Reid had no relatives in this city, and his body was shipped to Roberts, Wis., for burial.

MANY JOINING NAVY.

Fargo Led Northwestern Cities in Number During Last Month.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States marine service has decided to again install a recruiting office in this city. The marines had a recruiting office for a year, but discontinued the office some time last spring.

Sergeant Allan Ward and Corporal Enos Schillings are in the city from Brainerd and will have charge of the local marine recruiting office, and they have every reason to believe that they will secure many men in this city.

Sergeant Ward has received from Lieut. H. D. South of St. Paul a report from the recruiting offices comprising the district of Minensota for the month of October, which shows the number of men secured at the various stations in the district, as follows: Fargo, N. D., 33; Duluth, 20; St. Paul, 18; Grand Forks, 9; Minneapolis, 6; Brainerd, 3; Sioux Falls and Superior, 0; making a total of 87 recruits secured for the marines for the month of October.

ERROR IN DIAGNOSIS.

Treated Child for Wrong Disease Until It Was Too Late.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—After being treated for one week for quinsy, and then having her case diagnosed as diphtheria, Marion Tijou, aged 15, died at her home at 488 Collins street, a few hours after the physician, who discovered her actual ailment, was called.

The girl was first treated by her mother, Mrs. Henrietta Tijou, a practicing osteopath, who took the girl's ailment to be quinsy. Under treatment for quinsy she grew no better, and Sunday morning Dr. O. H. Hall was called and pronounced the case one of diphtheria.

FINDS MAIL POUCH

Full of Letters Floating in South Buffalo River.

Glyndon, Minn., Nov. 5. — (Special to The Herald.)—The discovery of a mail pouch full of letters floating on the South Buffalo river in Moland township has aroused postal officials as well as the officials of the Northern Pacific from one of whose cars it is believed to have dropped about a year ago, judging by the postmarks on the letter contained in the pouch. A young man found it near the road bridge, and the only theory that can be advanced is that of its having fallen from a mail car on a Northern Pacific train, and then having floated on the water to the point where it was found. The pouch shows no evidence of having been tampered with, though the canvas is so rotted as to make it impossible to lift the sack without its tearing into shreds.

The contents will, in a measure, be saved, as the protection of the sack has kept most of the addresses legible, and by them some clue is obtained as to where it originated. A few of the postmarks looked at show dates of Oct. 6, 7 and 8, 1906, from the postoffices at Climax, Argyle, Hallock and St. Vincent, which makes it evident that the pouch was consigned from the Moorhead Northern branch of the Great Northern and transferred at this city to the Northern Pacific.

ROBBERS MAKE HAUL.

Break Into Postoffice and Store at Eden Valley.

Eden Valley, Minn., Nov. 5.—Burglars entered the postoffice here Saturday night, cut open a mail pouch and opened two letters. They were evidently looking for registered mail.

The safe of M. E. Weller & Co. was also opened and $2,500 worth of notes were taken and $65 in cash. No clue of the robbers was found.

IS AGAIN WITH "HOLY JUMPERS"

Olga Lundell Leaves Home to Join the Odd Sect.

Waukesha, Wis., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leaving a note pinned to her nightgown stating that she had gone to rejoin the "Holy Jumpers," Olga Lundell, the Sac City, Iowa, girl, whose release from the sect here on habeas corpus proceedings before Court Commissioner Hemlock in August, after a sensational hearing, attracted wide attention, left the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lundell at Sac City, and has again cast her lot with the "Jumpers."

The young woman was 18 years old on Oct. 1, and, according to dispatches from Sac City, lost no time in leaving home after attaining her majority. Upon leaving home the young girl told her parents she was going to look for her brother and the first they knew of her whereabouts was when the note was discovered.

The young woman is said to have left her home with one of the missionaries of the sect. It is said she had been dissatisfied with her home for some time and that her parents will make no effort to induce her to return.

MILLIONAIRE ATTACKS LAWYER VERY SAVAGELY.

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sensational incident came out in Judge Goodland's court during a hearing on a motion in a big damage suit James Donovan, a Chicago millionaire, is prosecuting against La Forge S. Baker, Senator Thomas C. Platt of New York, and J. Platt Underwood to recover $10,000,000, when the plaintiff turned on Attorney Frank M. Hoyt of Milwaukee, attorney for the defense, and savagely attacked him, verbally.

Donovan's suit against Baker dates back thirty-seven years, when they were partners in the lumber business, before Baker was alleged to have looted the banks of Big Rapids, Mich., of over $2,000,000 and then disappeared, and it involves 52,000 acres of land in Vilas and Forest counties, besides 12,000 acres in Michigan. Donovan has another suit pending against Platt for $3,000,000.

The case is set for trial at Crandon on Dec. 2, and Mr. Hoyt was arguing for a continuance before Judge Goodland here yesterday when Donovan, acting as his own attorney, attacked Hoyt for being connected with Platt and Baker, who was supposed to be dead until Donovan proved the body was not that of Baker.

For a moment it appeared as though the two men would come to blows, but Judge Goodland reprimanded Donovan and the two separated. Mr. Hoyt's motion was overruled.

ASK PRESIDENT TO ASSIST WEST

Needs of Northwest Quite as Pressing as Wall Street.

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of the great Northwest will await with interest the outcome of the efforts that are being made to secure financial aid from the East to move the great grain crops to market. Strong appeals are being sent to Washington asking the government to help out this section of the country with the degree of liberality shown recently to Wall street. In line with this appeal for federal aid, Senator Hansbrough has sent the following telegram to the president:

"Fully 150,000,000 bushels of grain are now ready to be marketed in the two Dakotas and Minnesota, and there is no money with which to do it. The necessities of the Northwest are, therefore, much greater than in any other section of the country, demanding the fullest consideration at the hands of the treasury department.

"Ten million dollars placed in Twin City banks would raise the embargo and start grain shipments to Europe. This would relieve the financial stress in the East much quicker than a deposit of treasury funds in New York.

"Treasury relief operations should have been begun here, where the congestion is greatest. Our people are not losing their heads. They have no fear of a panic; but in this crop-moving season our business men should have special consideration."

DOG TEAM RECORD

Claimed by Man Who Covered Eighty Miles in Thirteen Hours.

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dog team record between Grand Forks and Neche has been broken, if the claims of William Williams of Minneapolis, are substantiated. He asserts that he traveled from Grand Forks to Neche, a distance of eighty miles, in thirteen hours. Mr. Williams has a pair of big, black Newfoundland dogs, pure bred and weighing 160 pounds each. They are of the same species that have been found useful in making long journeys in Alaska, it is stated. The rig in which their master gets over the country with them is a four-wheeled bicycle buggy, light in construction.

BAWDY HOUSES CLOSED.

Mayor of Fargo Orders Police to Check Social Evil.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Elliott struck the social evil a body blow when he issued orders to Chief Wade of the police department to close every house of questionable repute in town. The police served notice upon the women running the resorts and the order has been in effect twenty-four hours.

"It was necessary in the interest of public decency to close the places," said the mayor. "There were certain regulations and restrictions imposed upon the inmates, which were persistently ignored. The houses were there on sufferance, but they came to believe they could do about as thy pleased. We fooled them. I intend that the order shall be strictly enforced."

W. D. PARKER DEAD.

Graduate of Michigan College of Mines Passes Away.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—President McNair of the Michigan College of Mines, has received a letter from W. D. Parker of River Falls, Wis., containing the sad news of the death from malarial poisoning, of W. D. Parker, Jr., who was a student at the college from 1895 to 1897. Mr. Parker died in New Orleans on Sept. 6. Since leaving Houghton he spent considerable time in Nicaragua, first representing mill manufacturers, later as manager of producing gold mines and finally as owner and operator of gold and copper mines. In a recent letter to his father, shortly before his death, Mr. Parker attributed his success largely to his training at the College of Mines and spoke of that institution in very flattering terms. He was very well known in the Copper country and leaves a large number of friends.

The currency shortage has affected the Great Northern as well as other corporations. CONFORMS TO THE CODE

City Will Make Important Changes Concerning Electric Pump.

Electrical Apparatus Must be Installed Outside the Pumphouse.

In order to conform to the code of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the city will make some important changes in the installation of its new electric pump at Lakewood.

The new pump, which has been installed by the General Electric company, was recently inspected by two engineers, representatives of the underwriters, and, according to their report, the installation of electric apparatus in the Lakewood station is a violation of the code, and the city, if it desires to get insurance on its property, must conform to the code.

A few days ago the board of water and light commissioners, accompanied by the engineers of the underwriters' association, R. A. Swain, of the General Electric company, which installed the pump, and H. P. Broughton of the Great Northern Power company, which will furnish the electric power to run the pump, visited the pumping station and made a careful inspection. As a result of that visit the water board has determined to install the transformer, the lightning arrester and the oil switches in another building to be erected fifty feet from the pumphouse, leaving the motor and the pump within the station. This arrangement will meet all the requirements of the underwriters and the city's interests in the way of fire insurance will not be jeopardized.

The necessary changes will be made after the preliminary test of the new pump, which will occur Wdnesday afternoon. At that time the power will be turned on and the pump will be run two hours with a view of finding out any weak places, if such exist.

The representatives of the National Board of Fire Underwriters have been in the city for some time making an investigation of the methods employed for the fighting of fires.

In the case of the booster pumphouse on Grand avenue, at Forty-sixth avenue west, the underwriters have waived the restrictions governing the Lakewood station for the reason that the booster pumphouse will be constructed entirely of concrete, brick and iron and there will be nothing inflammable about the electrical apparatus.

UNTIRING OPPONENT

Ald. Moore Continues to Summon Saloon Men Before Council.

More Telephone Poles Must be Removed From Streets.

Saloon men convicted of violating the liquor laws of the state or city find in Alderman Moore an untiring enemy, and as every conviction is noted by the council the alderman from the First ward puts the motion making it necessary for that saloonkeeper to appear before the council and show cause why his license should not be revoked.

At the meeting of the council last evening Alderman Moore made a motion requiring William James, who conducts a saloon at 324 Central avenue and who was recently convicted of lifting the lid, to appear before the council and show cause why his saloon license should not be revoked. A similar resolution was offered by the alderman in the case of Erick Maki, also convicted of tilting the lid.

Plans for the new route to West Duluth from the West end were submitted to the council last evening by City Engineer McGilvray. The route leads through a territory as little traversed by street cars and railroads as is possible, and the grade for the road will be small. It is considered the most feasible route to the western part of the city thus far considered. Details of the proposed route were published in The Herald some days ago.

The city engineer also filed a condemnation plat for the proposed extension of Railroad street to Garfield avenue, and the same was referred to the committee on streets for consideration.

Three separate resolutions were presented and passed at the meeting last evening calling for the removal of telephone poles from the streets and the laying of telephone and telegraph wires under the streets.

Alderman Staples fathered a resolution calling for the removal of the telephone poles on Fourth street from Sixth avenue east to Sixth avenue west, and Aldermen Fillatrault and Getchell offered resolutions for the removal of telephone and telegraph wires on Ramsey street from Forty-ninth to Central avenue, and on Grand avenue from Fifty-fourth to Fifty-ninth avenues.

Improvements on these streets are now being made, and it is desired that the work mentioned be done before the sidewalks and paving are laid.

A communication was received from the collector of customs in response to a recent resolution passed by the council relative to the presence of the new telephone system in the federal building. The collector of customs stated in his communication that he was not responsible for telephones in the several departments of the federal building, each department maintaining its own system, but for the information of the council stated that all but two of the offices were provided with the Zenith telephone.

* * *

Salary reports from the heads of different departments of the city not presented at the last council meeting were received last evening. The bonds of banks designated as city depositories were received and accepted.

* * *

The bill for labor and improvements on the library roof now being repaired, was received. The amount expended from Oct. 19 to Nov. 1 was $352.15, and it appears that the repairs are bound to be quite expensive, although the contract is being carried on under the direction of the board of public works and the architect.

* * *

Alderman Moore offered a resolution creating a commission to act in an advisory capacity for the city with the board of county commissioners and courthouse commission relative to the proposed group plan for the new buildings. The resolution was passed and the committee will be made up of the mayor, president of the council, city attorney and two private citizens appointed by the mayor.

* * *

A motion was introduced and passed directing the board of public works to make a surface grade at Lakeside from Greysolon road to London road.

* * *

Alderman Staples addressed the council stating that he was in receipt of a request signed by J. A. Hanks and ex-Alderman Lyle for permission to use the council chambers Tuesday afternoon for a meeting and the same was granted.

DENIES COURT'S JURISDICTION

Attorney General Young Files Answer to Suit in Circuit Court.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—Attorney General Young yesterday filed his answer in the suits brought in the United States circuit court to test the validity of the merchandise rates established by the railroad and warehouse commission and the 2-cent passenger rate and the commodity rate laws passed by the legislature last winter. The question of the jurisdiction of the court in these cases is involved in the habeas corpus proceedings now pending in the United States supreme court, as a result of Mr. Young's violation of the injunction issued in these cases.

The answer admits that a large part of the company's business, in each case, is the transportation of interstate commerce, but denies that there is any necessary confusion or intermingling of the interstate and intrastate business transacted by the company and alleges that the amount of each and the cost and productiveness of each are capable of being segragated and ascertained and have been so ascertained for many years past as a matter of common practice among railroads.

The answer then denies the jurisdiction of the court in the case and alleges that the complainant "seeks to restrain and enjoin the performance by this defendant, as attorney general of the state of Minnesota, of his discretionary official duties and powers, and that the fact against the state of Minnesota, instituted and maintained contrary to the provision of he Constitution of the United States of America, especially the eleventh amendment thereto, and the defendant for such reason doth now and always protest against the exercise by this honorable court of any jurisdiction over this defendant by reason of the acts and matters set forth and alleged in the said bill of complaint."

CUTS WOMAN'S THROAT.

Aged Italian Murdered and Robbed in Southwest Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Marine Carmela Mongolfuzzo, an aged Italian woman, was murdered and robbed of $700, the savings of herself and husband, while she was at work yesterday in a shed in the rear of her home in Southwest Philadelphia.

The woman's husband, Matta Mongolfuzzo, left her at the washtub when he went to work yesterday morning, and when he returned home he found her lying in the shed with her throat cut from ear to ear.

Six hundred dollars that the couple had saved was sewed in the woman's dress and $109 additional was in her purse. When Mrs. Mongolfuzzo's body was found, the pocket containing the money had been cut from her dress and the purse was gone. The couple lived in an Italian boarding house. A dozen boarders in the house, together with the husband, were taken into custody by the police for examination.

DISAPPOINTED IN LOVE.

Michigan Man Takes His Life in Los Angeles Lodging House.

Los Angeles, Nov. 5.—Grief-stricken because the woman he loved had married another, a well-dressed, refined appearing man, giving his name as Herbert Welch, entered the apartments of James La France and Robert Curry at the Hiawatha lodging house on Broadway yesterday, and after curtly asking permission to use the telephone, sprang to a bureau where a revolver lay, and picking up the weapon, shot himself in the breast. He will die. It is believed he gave an assumed name. His home is in Michigan.

SEVERAL VESSELS LOST IN HEAVY GALE.

St. John, N. F., Nov. 5.—It is feared that many lives were lost in the last heavy gale. Three Newfoundland fishing schooners were missing and four French vessels belonging to the St. Pierre Banking fleet, have not reported. Wreckage washed ashore on the southern coast indicates that the schooner Orion was lost. She carried a crew of eighteen men, all of whom are missing. The Orion was on her way home from a cod fishing trip on the grand banks, when she encountered the storm which occurred ten days ago.

MANY SHEEP BURNED.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Nov. 5.—One hundred and fifty sheep belonging to Nolan & Co. of Chicago, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed four cars in the local yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad yesterday afternoon. The sheep were in the upper deck of the cars. Those in the lower deck were rescued. The origin of the fire is not known, but it is supposed to have started from a spark of a passing locomotive.

IOWA EDITOR ROTTEN EGGED

On Motion of Council for "Knocking" His Town.

Grimes, Iowa, Nov. 5.—Editor Charles G. Gilson of the Grimes Advoate, was egged out of town because he was a "knocker." Gilson, his clothing covered with eggs, had no time to secure what baggage he possessed, but was compelled to flee, upon promise never to return.

The editor arrived here about eight weeks ago and took command of the Advocate, after agreeing to pay for the paper on the installment plan. At once he became unpopular, because, at the hotel, where he stopped, he required the waitress to place about his coffee cup a towel to keep the contents hot, while he was perusing his daily newspaper and taking life easy.

Besides Gilson was too exclusive for the people of the village. He shut himself up in his office and declined to mingle. Then he opened up on prominent residents by roasting them for their lack of enterprise and predicted the town would soon decline.

But the limit came last week, when the Advocate appeared with a notice run in heavy black border and headed "obituary," announcing its suspension. Gilson predicted the town would soon go out of business also, and closed by stating he would endure another three weeks' life in the place to finish job work he had promised.

The citizens decided not to allow him to remain the three weeks. The town council held a meeting attended by most of the residents. A plan was laid and the younger element hurrying away, armed themselves with eggs and decayed vegetables and fruit and after luring the editor from his office, attacked him.

Gilson was a sight when the older members of the mob overpowered him. He was bundled to the station and sent away on a freigh train with a warning never to return. The Advocate has been taken in charge by Banker Stewart who will run a more optimistic paper.

ADMITS TAKING BRIBE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 5.—Max Reinholdt, former supervisor from the Nineteenth ward, pleaded guilty before Judge Brazee to the charge against him resulting from the grand jury investigations. He was fined $200.

Reinholdt was charged with accepting a bribe of $50 in connection with a county hospital contract several years ago.

HEAVY PENALTY FOR FALSE REGISTRATION.

New York, Nov. 5.—Rather than reveal the identity of the politician who induced him to register falsely in two election districts, Joseph Healy yesterday accepted a sentence of no less than four years and six months and not more than four years and eleven months in prison. This is the maximum penalty for the crime. Healy was told by Judge Rosalsky several days ago that if he would reveal the man higher up he would save himself.

Reverend Sam Jones's Widow Gets $1,000 per Year for Life

The name and the fame of Rev. Sam P. Jones have gone over the nation. While the noted evangelist preached the Gospel with great power, it now transpires that he provided for his wife with great good sense. As a result of this foresight and self-denial is now paying Mrs. Jones $1,000 per year, and will continue to do so during her life. In a recent letter Mrs. Jones thanks the Company for the way in which this matter has been handled. This is all good for Mrs. Jones, but how about the woman yet unprotected and the man yet uninsured? The need is great and certain. The Company is strong and ready. THE MARKET CLOSES OFF

The Mutual Life Insurance Company

Both Wheat and Flax Have a Weaker Tone.

Session Ends Early Out of Respect of M. J. Forbes.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 5.—Wheat closed easier today in all of the American markets except New York, where no session was held on account of elections there. During the most of the day trading was quiet, with prices up at the opening and during the first hour and lower during the latter part of the session.

The session ended here at noon, out of respect for the late Melvin J. Forbes, a member of the Duluth board of trade, whose funeral took place this afternoon.

The foreign markets were firm. Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅛d higher, Berlin ⅞c higher and Budapest ½c higher.

The December option closed 1-⅛c lower in Duluth and Minneapolis, ⅛c lower in Chicago and 1½c lower in Winnipeg. The May option closed ⅛c higher in Duluth, a shade lower in Chicago, ⅛-¼c lower in Minneapolis and ⅞c off in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ¼-⅜c higher in Chicago and was unchanged to ½d higher in Liverpool. December oats closed ½c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "There was a steady tone to the wheat market at the start, with values ⅜d to ½d higher. Offerings were light and support good, prompted by the firmer American cables and further reports of rains in Argentine. During the morning, however, prices eased off, losing the early advance on the poor demand for spot and further reports of general rains in Australia. Prices at midday were unchanged to ⅛d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was steady in sympathy with America and ⅜d higher at the opening. The market was extremely dull during the morning with an absence of support."

Car receipts at Duluth were 555, at Minneapolis 261, making a total for the Northwest of 816. Chicago received 66. Winnipeg received 316 against 840 last year (forty-eight hours).

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,012,000 bus, last year holiday. Shipments, 401,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour 28,-000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 261,000 bus. Shipments, 232,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 41,000 bus.

Trading in wheat was light during the short session of the Duluth market. December wheat opened ½c higher at $1.03⅞, advanced to $1.04¼—the high price of the day—during the first hour, declined to $1.03⅜, rallied to $1.03⅝, went off to $1.02⅜, rallied a shade of a point, went off to $1.02½-⅝, rallied to $1.02⅝-¾ and closed at that price, a loss of 1-½c from yesterday. May wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.03⅞, advanced to $1.04¾, went off to $1.03⅝, rallied to $1.10, declined to $1.09¾ and closed at $1.09⅞, a gain of ½c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1-½c under December for No. 1 northern.

The volume of flax trading was fairly good during the day. The tone was easier all day and the close was off. November flax opened unchanged at $1.22, declined to $1.19½, rallied to $1.20½, went off to $1.19¾, rallied to $1.20 and closed at that price, a loss of 2c from yesterday. December flax opened ¼c lower at $1.22, declined to $1.20½, rallied to $1.21½, went off to $1.2l, rallied to $1.21½ and closed at $1.21¼, a loss of 1c from yesterday. May flax opened ½c higher at $1.28¾, declined to $1.27¾, rallied to $1.28½, slumped to $1.28 and closed at $1.25¾, a loss of ¼c from yesterday.

Oats closed 1c higher and the other coarse grains unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Easy, But Rallies on Good Buying by Bulls.

Chicago Nov. 5.—The wheat market today opened easy because of the failure of Liverpool to respond to yesterday's advance here. Later the market rallied on good buying by bulls which was based upon a strong close in the continental market. December wheat opened ½@⅝c lower to a shade higher, at 95c to 95⅝c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 839 cars against 819 cars last week and a holiday one year ago.

The market became weak in the last half of the session because of lower prices in Winnipeg, and rumors of the possible closing of Minneapolis mills. December sold off to 94⅝c. The close was steady at December ⅛c lower at 95⅛@⅛c.

The corn market was strong because of small local receipts and firm Liverpool cables. December corn opened a shade to ⅛@¼c higher at 59¾c to 59⅞c and sold at 60⅛@¼c. Local receipts were 138 cars with thirty of contract grade.

Prices strong all day. The close was firm with December ¼@⅜c higher at 60c.

The oats market was strong on light receipts and in sympathy with wheat and corn. December oats opened ⅛c higher at 49½c and sold at 49¾@⅞c. Local receipts were 136 cars.

The provisions market was weak because of a 5c to 10c decline in the price of live hogs. January pork was 12½c lower at $14.12½. Lard was down 5c, at $8.32½. Ribs were 2½@5c lower, at $8.52½.

Close: Wheat, December, 95⅛@⅛c; May, $1.03⅝. Corn, December, 60c; May, 60⅞@61c. Oats, December, 49⅞c; May, 52¾c. Pork, January, $13.95; May, $14.30. Lard—January, $8.17½; May, $8.32½. Ribs, January, $7.32½; May, $7.57½. Rye, cash, 78c. Barley, cash, 75@95c. Clover and timothy, and flax no quotations. Cash wheat, No. 2 hard, 97¼c; No. 3 hard, 96¾c; No. 3 hard, 95¾@97¼c; No. 3 spring, 96c@$1.03½; others, nothing doing. Corn, No. 2, 60@60⅛c; No. 3, 60@61c. Oats, No. 2 and 3, nothing doing.

Minneapolis Flour.

Minneapolis, Nov. 5.—The flour market is easy. Outlitment of the milling production does not augur a strong flour demand. The business is handicapped by the tendency of millers to accept orders on a sight draft basis almost entirely. The demand is fair, but of course limited by the exigencies of the time. Shipments, 33,786 barrels. First patents, $5.50@5.60; second patents, $5.30@5.50; first clears, $4.30@4.40; second clears, $3.50@3.70.

HAVEN IN LEAD AT CONVENTION

Gets 18 Votes on the First Informal Ballot.

An informal ballot taken at the Republican meeting in the city hall this afternoon, gave Haven 18 votes, McCuen 12, Culkin 2, Meader 1, and Brewer 1.

Was Alderman Haven decided upon as the candidate of the Republican party at a secret meeting held in the Lyceum building this morning?

It was hinted around the city hall this afternon that such was the case.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the forty Republican delegates from the various wards began their meeting. J. L. Cromwell was chosen chairman and Charles Rakowsky secretary.

Judge W. D. Edson was the first speaker. He stated that it was a family gathering and moved for an executive session. C. E. Stevens seconded the motion, and a sergeant-at-arms was appointed, who threw the newspaper men and a number of Democrats out of the council chamber.

Alderman Haven is being touted as the winner this afternoon, however.

It is said that he will have the Sixth and Seventh wards solid in his favor, giving him ten delegates. The five Eighth ward delegates are said to be for L. A. Barnes, and the Third and Fifth ward delegates are so split up that nothing could be forecasted regarding them.

In the First ward Haven is said to have two votes, McCuen two, and Brewer one. In the Second there are said to be two for McCuen, two for Haven, and one for Brewer. The Fourth ward is said to have four for McCuen and one for Barnes.

If these predictions are correct, Haven would have fourteen delegates, McCuen eight, Barnes six, and Brewer two, with two wards unaccounted for. Such is said to have been the lineup this morning.

NEW SECRETARY FOR THE Y. M. C. A.

Local Association Will Push Work in New Building.

There now seems to be every prospect that the Duluth Y. M. C. A. will be in its new home before the end of January, and once in the new building it is planned to push the work in the city with far more vigor than has been the case in the past.

Already the plans are being made for this increased activity, and a new assistant secretary, H. G. Sydow, has been added to the staff of the association. Mr. Bevis, the general secretary, now has four assistants, W. H. Lippold, Chase Ballou, Frank T. Downing and H. G. Sydow, in addition to the physical director. Each assistant has some particular branch of the work in charge.

NO TROUBLES AND A HUSBAND

Marie Cahill Also Has a Very Pleasant Voice.

"Mary was married four or five times, but she is a nice girl," said Marie Cahill this afternoon, in speaking of the heroine of "Marrying Mary." Her breakfast cup of coffee was being consumed along about half-past 1 o'clock, and Miss Cahill was doing her best to think up an obliging interview. But you know yourself how it is. What could you say to a pretty nibble over your first cup of breakfast coffee?

"I haven't any troubles," said Miss Cahill. "I have a husband."

That was a pretty good joke all by itself, Mary looked surprised at the untimely mirth that was let loose, and added, the while her mouth drooped at the corners in plaintive appeal, "He takes them all. The troubles, I mean."

Here was a woman without troubles. Wonderful! And a husband! Wonderful again!

"I used to have troubles. I kept house and cooked, but this amateur cook business doesn't work when you are doing something else on the side. When I was playing 'Nancy Brown,' as like as not, right in the middle of the Congo love song I'd think, 'Heaven help me, I didn't do the ordering,' and maybe some place else the thought would interject itself, 'Did I order the sweet potatoes?' One can't let the poetry of one's soul escape successfully if one must constantly be thinking about some other matter. So I gave up the marketing and the ordering and the cooking and the housekeeping, and devoted myself entirely to letting the poetry of my soul escape."

Mary Cahill has a very nice voice. It is a voice that suggests that she has risen above all troubles and annoyances of the present life. It's a kind of golden mellow voice, but perhaps that was a reflection of her hair, with a sort of wistful droop in it, but maybe that was a reflection from the corners of her mouth. It's entirely fascinating to hear the most buoyant kind of optimism being spoken from a mouth with such a delicious droop at the corners. You think your ears must be deceiving you, but your close your eyes and the optimism flows on; close your ears and you feel perfectly positive that that pathetically drooping mouth is saying some perfectly helpless feminine thing.

But for all that, Miss Cahill can register two claims against fame. She is a comedienne and she is a woman without troubles and with a husband.

LOOKS LIKE HITCHCOCK

Traveling Man is Mistaken Everywhere for Missing Actor.

Henry P. Wallace, who travels for the Coco-Cola company, is the object of many curious stares and sharp glances these days.

Not that he does anything to merit the attentions of men and women alike, for he acts quite natural and appears really modest, but he bears a striking resemblance to Raymond Hitchcock, the well-known comedian, whose indictment on serious charges in New York and subsequent disappearance set the country agog last week.

Everybody is tolerably familiar with Raymond Hitchcock's features, and they are usually remembered because of a certain uniqueness that is all their own. Wallace's features have, in a measure, a Hitchcockian uniqueness, too, and they are costing him some little annoyance.

Mr. Wallace is in Duluth at the present time, in the interests of his firm, and he says that since Hitchcock's mysterious disappearance, he has been mistaken time and again for the missing actor, and that detectives in Chicago came precious near locking him up so positive were they he was the man the police of several cities are looking for.

"Two detectives stopped me in the LaSalle street station, Chicago, last week and insisted that I accompany them to the police station," said Mr. Wallace today. "I was not very anxious to go and I told them so. But mere words could not stay those intelligent Chicago policemen.

"They knew their business. They had heard 'stalls' so often that they could tell when an innocent man was talking, and when a man much wanted by the police spoke. Of course, they told me first that I was Raymond Hitchcock. When I denied it and said the only connection I ever had with the stage was when I once appeared in some amateur theatricals in my home town of Evansville, Ind., they jeered at me.

"I produced letters, identification cards, transportation with my name on, and even showed the initials on my linen. But they said that I had better come with them for a little while, anyway. And I wanted to catch a train.

"I was just figuring on smashing one of the detectives and making a run for it when a friend of mine, a traffic man in Chicago, came along. I fell on his neck. 'Tell these men who I am,' I told him. He did, but they were still unconvinced. Then my friend got hold of one of the depot detectives whom he knew well and I was finally allowed to go.

"I always liked Raymond Hitchcock's acting, but if he doesn't show up pretty quick and people keep on staring at me, I swear I'll never go to his old show again, if he ever has another one."

When talking to a reporter for The Herald in a Superior street drug store, Wallace was the victim of an optical overhauling by one or two local students of the drama.

At first glance, he looks very much like Hitchcock. His hair is darker, though, and anyone who has really seen the actor at close range would know at a second glance that Wallace was not he.

St. Louis, Nov. 5.—William H. Mayo, who as adjutant of the Eighth Louisiana Confederate army, was present at the surrender of Gen. Lee at Appomattox, died here yesterday aged 83. He has a son Dr. H. N. Mayo of Salt Lake City, and a daughter of Mrs. N. Starrett of Bozeman, Montana.

LOWERS THE RECORD.

Munch Skates Mile in 3:05 1-2 at Lincoln Park Rink.

Joe Munch of St. Paul, champion roller skater of the Northwest, lowered the record for a mile on roller skates at the Head of the Lakes last night at the Lincoln park rink, when he skated a mile in 3:05½. The record was made in a race with Francis LeBeau, a Duluth boy, and it was a contest all the way. Le Beau skated close up to the champion and Munch won by an eye-lash.

The former roller skating record for the Head of the Lakes was 3:07, made by Le Beau in a race with Munch at the Temple rink about two years ago. Munch and LeBeau will meet again Saturday night at the Lincoln park rink in an effort to establish a still lower record.

CANDIDATE KICKED.

Objected to Being Buried During Initiation and Escaped.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 5.—A News special from Appleton, Wis., says: While being initiated into the Delta Icla fraternity of Lawrence university, Henry Jefferson of Appleton, was placed into a shroud and rough box and carted to Neenah at midnight, where he was placed in a grave and told he would be left there until morning. The candidate refused to consent to some of the ceremony and kicked off the cover of the rough box which was returned to the undertaker this morning in a badly demolished condition.

SETTLEMENTS WITH TIMBER TRESSPASSERS.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state timber board today authorized two settlements growing out of timber illegally cut. The transactions date back six years.

The Mueller Lumber company of Davenport, Iowa, agreed to pay $492 for 194,000 feet of timber cut in Becker coounty. It was cut by others and the company claimed to be innocent purchasers.

R. J. Hartley of Brainerd, paid $900 for 260,000 feet of timber. He paid for a scale of 65,000 when a re-scale proved that there was 260,000 feet in the tract.

AMERICANS BEATEN.

Guatemala City, Nov. 5.—Two American citizens, colored, were arrested here yesterday and, it is alleged frightfully beaten by order of the military governor of the department of Zacapa. The American charge, William F. Sands, is making an investigation.

WRITES TO THE COTTON MEN

Boston, Mass., Nov. 5.—The following letter from President Roosevelt has been received by C. W. Macaraw of Manchester, Eng., president of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' association, under whose auspices the European cotton spinners and manufacturers came to this country last month:

"October 18, 1907.

"My Dear Sir: I have a very deep personal interest in the important matter which has brought to our shore so large and distinguished a body of cotton manufacturers from the principal nations of Europe. So far as I understand the plan and purposes of the International Federation of Cotton Spinners, of which you are the president, you aim to promote stable conditions in your great industry throughout the world; and your visit to the United States more especially aims to bring the world's cotton manufacturers into closer touch and sympathy with our own cotton producers, upon whom you depend for three-quarters of your supply of raw material. It seems to me an elementary truth that if our cotton planters can learn more definitely and at first hand, as your trip progresses, the exact needs of the manufacturers, in the matter of the preparation and shipment of raw cotton, and can aim to conform thereto, the result will be quite as much to their benefit as to yours.

"You will find great changes in progress here and an almost universal interest throughout the cotton belt in the matters that interest you, and I hope and believe that you will return to your homes not only pleased with our country, but encouraged to believe that your visit will bear immediate fruit.

"It is a source of regret that the engagements made long since rendered it impossible to receive your delegation during your sojourn in Washington and to say to you by word of mouth by what I now take pleasure in writing.

"Sincerely yours,
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

A MAN'S HEART IS EXPOSED TO VIEW.

Middletown, N. Y., Nov. 5.—A most remarkable case is under treatment in Thrall hospital here. George Jones, a young negro, was brought there suffering from stab wounds caused during a fight. His whole left side was laid open so that the heart was exposed, and its pulsations could be seen by the doctors. The action of the heart was not injured and the injuries were dressed.

While it is hoped to save the man's life, he is in a precarious condition.

WORKING FORCE AT PANAMA 29,845.

Washington, Nov. 5.—During September there were brought to the Isthmus of Panama for work on canal construction 783 laborers, of whom 664 were Europeans and 119 West Indians. These facts are shown in the report of Col. Goethals, the chairman of the committee, which is published in the latest number of the Canal Record just received here.

The Panama railroad force numbers 6,238, making the total working force of the commission and railroad, 29,845.

MAURETANIA IS FAST.

New York, Nov. 5.—Vernon H. Brown, the New York agent of the Cunard Steamship company, received a cablegram today saying that the new turbine steamer Mauretania, on a trial trip, made an average of 27.36 knots per hour over a 300-mile course. This is nearly a knot faster than the Lusitania made for the same distance on her trial trip.

WESTON AT NORFOLK, CONN.

Norfolk, Conn., Nov. 5.—Edward Payson Weston, who reached Torrington last night on his walk from Portland, Me., to Chicago, left Torrington at 6:45 this morning, and reached Norfolk at 11:05. After a brief stop here he set out for Canaan.

UP IN A BALLOON.

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 5.—Charles G. Glidden of Lowell, and Leo Stevens of New York, ascended in the balloon Stevens No. 21 from the local balloon grounds today. The weather conditions were favorable for a long flight, although the wind was light. The balloon started in a northeasterly direction. Before the start Mr. Glidden said he hoped to land him somewhere in the vicinity of Concord, N. H.

Princess Alexandra is the fiancee of Prince Frederick August, third son of the emperor.

is regarded here as the most substantial progress that has been made toward the bettering of things financially. In face of the great danger which threatened the country the week before last much of the president's resentment has died out, and there are evidences that he will yield to the counsels of his advisers and do nothing to keep alive the turmoil and excitement.

NO DYNAMITE IN MESSAGE

Washington, Nov. 5.—From best information obtainable here as to the probabilities of presidential action it is quite certain that there will be not nearly so many sticks of giant powder in the annual message as was foreshadowed a few months ago.

If those near the president and relied upon by him in times of great stress have their way, there will not even be one dynamite stick. The president seems to realize that the injection anew of all these questions, which are agitating the public now, into the arena of discussion at the present time, might produce serious results. While he does not admit that he has in any way contributed to the present financial situation, he has become convinced that he is a very important factor in it, so far as it may be improved, and the cause for irritation and excitement removed. That he is deeply concerned, that the tendency to unsettle values should not go on, has impressed on all those who have discussed any of the phases of the matter with him.

One of the most hopeful signs is that there has been created already a much better feeling and a fuller understanding between Mr. Roosevelt and the great financiers of the country. This

NOTE.

I AM NOW LOCATED AT NO. 1102 BANKS AVENUE.

REXFORD MARSH.

Clairvoyant, Palmist and Mental Scientist.

"So Different from the Rest."

(There's a Reason.)

THE GREATEST MEDIATOR OF SECRET INFLUENCE IN AMERICA.

"Words and promises are only good when backed up by deeds."

We must all prove our merit no matter what capacity we are in or what vocation or profession we pursue, by solid deeds of merit; it is what the patrons of any business say that counts, not sensational advertising or the telling of what you have done for others. What you are most interested in is what can be done for you; if you seek advice upon any important matter, you should consult the best. The best is the cheapest in the end. Four nicely, well furnished reception rooms for the accommodation of my many friends and patrons.

Although it is highly improbable this advertisement will come under the notice of anyone wholly indifferent to the fascination of the predictive art, yet, in such extreme event, all I ask is that my work be tested before it is criticised, and that no casual reader will assail that which he has not the inclination or the patience to investigate.

Rexford Marsh leads in his profession and that is why his parlors are daily crowded by the aristocratic people of the whole Northwest. The poor and wealthy are treated with the best sincerity, respect and courtesy.

Rexford Marsh, the best in his line in the world, has been for some time instructing and teaching business men of these cities how to select their help and employes scientifically; parents how to govern wayward children; teachers how to master and select studies for their students; investors how to invest their money to advantage and to bring big returns; business men what business to go into and if in business how to increase their income; men and women in all stations of life how to increase their earning power. A scientific man in every way fitted by education and natural ability to handle so profound a subject as the Science of Life successfully.

Psychology is Soul Science.—It teaches how to apply the forces of mind and spirit in our lives and tells how to influence other lives. There is nothing in the entire range of human experience that is not covered or understood through their mastery. Rexford Marsh has been engaged in this work for years. He has aided the weak, counseled the strong and advised those who needed such, as many do, in the multitudinous affairs of life. There is not a single human being that does not some time in life need the advice of a friend, in business, health or social life, often when not knowing which way to turn, do not business men, men of affairs, yea, leaders in every station of life go to specialists for advice? Therefore you need not be ashamed to come and see this most capable of specialists in his line.

You that are intelligent and can grasp these thoughts must agree with the statements herein made, and yet they can't convey one-thousandth part, we wish to say about the ability of this man to help you in all things. Rexford Marsh by the knowledge gained from these sciences in constant practice and then life's experience can help you.

No matter what your ailments are physically, he is able to trace their brain connection, locate the trouble and advise a remedy. No matter what your financial trouble he can cure your poverty disease. If you are a failure in business he can tell you why and how to become successful.

The wise use every means to compass victory; thousands have been helped. If you are in trouble of any kind, unhappy, not satisfied in life, have domestic, love or business troubles, you will be told how to overcome them all.

Rexford Marsh's work is entirely different from others. No darkened rooms or cabinets, but everything done in the broad open light of sober sense.

Do not compare this with the ordinary Clairvoyant's work, for it is not fortune telling, but means just knowing how and no mistake, purely scientific understanding of your troubles and his knowledge on these subjects, correct advice and help for you. Your fears are largely ignorance of the true situation, knowledge will make you strong. If you are blind in some things would you not accept the hand extended to lead or direct you?

Rexford Marsh teaches his profession to others.—Rexford Marsh's residence is right down town, 1102 Banks avenue, corner of Eleventh street, Superior, Wis. The best part of the city, near the business center, among business men who are his clients and who consult him constantly and he advises them on all matters of life.

Women, too, crowd his offices and find their path made easier, and they go away strengthened and satisfied. Thousands are wrongly employed, others wrongly mated, some have business difficulties and can't see their way out of them; others have yearnings of heart and soul they long to satisfy, and don't know; often despair when help is near, and so easy to get. Rexford Marsh has clear Vision and Scientific Attainment beyond any you ever met. Why not avail yourself of this opportunity? Thousands upon thousands thank their good fortune having met this kindly, far seeing man. None go away without help and new courage for better things, no matter how hard their lot or great their trouble or darkness. Don't be afraid to come, for your trouble or weakness is no worse than others. Let Rexford Marsh straighten out your tangles. Do it now. Don't delay. Delays are dangerous and may keep you from the very things that naturally belong to you by rights, for all nature rightly understood means God's Good Will to men and women alike, your success and happiness in life. See him now at his institute.

Rexford Marsh, the Seer of all Seers, the Clairvoyant of all Clairvoyants, the Psychist of all Psychists, World's Best Mental Scientist. Incomparable in his occult work! Why do you question at all? Go to him and get rid of these foolish worries—they will only grow worse and time is passing—you are allowing others to crowd you out. Others who have no more talents, no more capabilities than you have are reaping life's grand harvest meant for you as well. Only because they have found their place and fit into it. You may say to yourself, "Oh, I'm doing the best I can"—and so it goes year in and year out and right down at the bottom of it you're discouraged. There are men and women who are not discouraged. Disposition has something to do with it, of course, but that isn't it. They have learned to live and found where they can work with least resistance—that's the point—one person may be an excellent physician, but what success would he have attained in another pursuit not destined for him?

Learn your place in life and all will come so easy to you you'll make money. You'll gain in health, and peace of mind will follow—It's only to start out right and this you can learn by consulting me. I, who have seen so many thousand cases like yours; I who have advised people what to do; I who have taken a personal interest in each and every one—I will in you.

If you come to me — No matter what you may want I will try my best to have it come to you. But do not be contented to just read my article here and then say "It's no use" but come and let's have a heart to heart talk and just as sure as you come, will I aid you to overcome that foolish fear of self.

You do not need an anchor in most cases, you need to be tossed out on the sea of life and with the right knowledge of how to steer your ship you will come to port with a wonderful cargo.

All of life's treasures are meant for some one—whom? For those who learn how to get them by doing the right thing at the right time; so if fortune has so far not smiled on you, remember every fortunate man started some time — somebody's advice put him on the right road to success.

Tarry no longer on the slow road of misfortune. Say farewell to the "messengers of defeat," they will not bother a strong man. Gain strength from powerful advice. Need I say any more to you?

Permanently located. Private reception rooms for ladies and gentlemen. Hours, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily. Send stamp for circular containing information you ought to know. Rexford Marsh, 1102 Banks avenue, corner Eleventh street, Superior, Wis.

FINANCIAL.

20 TO 40 PER CENT NET profit. The International Amusement company, sole owners of the Gentry Brothers' Famous Dog and Pony shows, are offering a very attractive investment proposition, which, judging from past results, will net the investor from 20 to 40 per cent cash profits per year. Operating only two shows, it has made a net cash profit of $60,000 to $80,000 per year for over five years past, and by operating more shows under the same name, it is expected that the earnings will be greatly increased.
The International Amusement company can satisfy your banker or lawyer as to their standing and reliability, and their books will prove the profits made in the past.
As only a limited amount of stock will be sold, it is advisable that those having money to invest, write at once for full particulars. A great opportunity for the man with ready cash. Address Gentry International Amusement company, Minneapolis, Minn.

CORTELYOU TO SEND SUFFICIENT MONEY TO RELIEVE MINNESOTA

Will Provide for Moving of Crops to Eastern Markets.

Will Cause Stream of Gold From Europe to the Northwest.

Result of Negotiations of Greatest Importance to People.

Washington, Nov. 6.—With reference to his plan for relieving the financial situation in the Northwest as the result of the visit of Senator Nelson of Minnesota and a delegation of bankers, Secretary Cortelyou, after calling at the White House today declined to state the amount which would go to Minnesota, but indicated that it would be sufficient to meet the necessities of the situation. The secretary said that the delegation also obtained further relief in New York.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. H. Bailey, president of the First National bank here, who announced last night that as a result of a conference between bankers of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth and J. J. Hill, a plan had been evolved which would provide funds for the movement of the grain crops of the Northwest, said to the Associated Press today that he had little to add to that satement.

"The result is what is more important to not only the people of the Northwest but to the East as well," he said. "The people of the Northwest can rest assured that the combined efforts of the financial men here will set the ball in motion that will provide genuine relief that no other measure would. It is not necessary to go into details as results are what we want.

"A large fund has been raised for that purpose and it is hoped that by putting this movement under way it will result in a stream of money from Europe in payment for the shipments."

"Provision for the shipments from the terminals," Mr. Bayloy explained, 'will promote the shipment of grain from the local warehouses and in this way the entire crop will be moved and laid down in Eastern markets. This will make the Northwestern states creditors and as the flow of gold from Europe, already in motion, continues, a large share of it will find its way into banks in this section of the country and any remaining stringency will be removed."

WOULD FIND MISSING GIRL

Friends Attempt to Carry Out Wish of Dying Man.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—A man's dying wish that his twin sister, who has been estranged from the family for eighteen years be found, caused the following advertisement to be inserted in the papers yesterday by a distant relative, Mrs. Bertha Duss:

"If Miss Augusta Kleist, who left Oshkosh, Wis., eighteen years ago, now 39 years of age, will call at 54 Crossing street, city, she will hear something to her advantage.

"MRS. BERTHA DUSS."

Behind the estrangement and long absence of the woman lies a story of incompatibility. Miss Kleist, according to Mrs. Duss, was head-strong and fond of dancing, and the restraint of the mother was more than she could stand. So one day, after her mother had reprimanded her, she left her home and has not been heard from since.

Two weeks ago the girl's twin brother, Reinhardt, locomotive fireman, fell from the cab of his engine and received injuries that resulted in his death last week. A short time previously Reinhardt had received news from Germany that a fortune had been left to his mother by her uncle. In his delirium the injured man constantly referred to this and bemoaned the fact that his estranged sister perhaps was struggling to exist while her brothers and sisters had plenty.

SHORTAGE OF APPLES.

The Crop is Materially Less Than That of Last Year.

New York, Nov. 6.—The apple crop of the United States for 1907, as estimated by the American Agriculturist in its report to appear on Nov. 9, is scant 29,000,000 barrels materially short of last year. What is of great importance is the shortage in such commercial orchard sections as Western New York, nearly all of Michigan and the entire Southwest. There is what may be set down as an absolute failure in Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska.

New York state has a good many apples, but they will be needed, and for that matter, the total is only about one-fourth to one-third of a full yield. Pennsylvania has fairly abundant totals. New England has rather more apples than last year, due solely to the fact that Maine has a god crop.

DECREE FOR MRS. HUBBARD.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Nat Hubbard, who was abandoned by her husband, who became infatuated with Alice Cooper, a well-known sculptress in Chicago, has been granted a decree and alimony of $25,000. Hubbard is thought to be in Washington, D. C., and may join the navy. His divorced wife will go to Europe.

FINANCIAL SITUATION

Concerning New York Trust Companies is Greatly Relieved.

All Depositors Wishing to Withdraw Promptly Accommodated.

New York, Nov. 6.—The situation in regard to the trust companies which have been under pressure was materially relieved this morning. The Trust Company of America opened at 10 a. m. with an augmented force of paying tellers, and the Lincoln Trust company also opened for business as usual. This was mainly the result of conferences held in the library of J. P. Morgan through the night.

An official of the Lincoln Trust company said today that the situation has been materially cleared up and the company is now in a position to continue its business as usual. All depositors who apply to withdraw their deposits are promptly taken care of, he said.

The flood of gold from Europe to America continues. More than $36,000,000 already has been engaged for import since the present movement began less than two weeks ago. The first additional engagement reported today was one of $500,000 for the Bank of Montreal.

Lazard Freres today engaged an additional million dollars in gold for import. This makes the total engagements to date $37,050,000.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The financial situation throughout the country from the treasury standpoint is more encouraging today than at any time during the past two weeks. The comptroller of the currency is making large shipments of currency to national banks, and applications for increased circulation continue to come in in undiminished numbers. Up to this time between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 increased circulation has been shipped to national banks and each day's shipments show an increased shipment over the day before. Representative Scott of Kansas, discussed the financial situation on leaving the White House today. He said the state had enough money to move its crops and he did not believe the pinch would be felt there.

Representative Fowler of New Jersey, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, was at the White House, but did not wait to see the president who was engaged.

LAUNCHING OF LA FOLLETTE BOOM

In Minnesota Will Occur at Banquet on Nov. 18.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrangements have been made for the official launching of the La Follette boom in Minnesota. It will take place at the banquet to be held at the Commercial club Monday evening, Nov. 18. Many of La Follette's Wisconsin friends will be present.

L. L. Lenroot of Superior and H. L. Ekern, both former speakers of the Wisconsin legislature, are in charge. Both spent today in St. Paul arranging the details of the banquet. Isaac Stephenson of Marinette, who succeeded United States Senator Spooner, will be in attendance.

The Twin Cities will have a representative delegation present. It will include Senator Clapp and George S. Loftus of St. Paul, and James Peterson of Minneapolis.

POLICE ARE UNDECIDED

Whether They Have a Case of Suicide or a Hoax.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Today a coat stained with a red fluid, an old razor, and a letter signed "Edwin Mayer" was found on the lake shore at the foot of Superior street. The police are investigating what may be a case of suicide.

In the coat was a memorandum book on which was written Edward C. Mayer, Croswell, Mich. In another pocket of the coat was found a letter addressed "Cowan, Stratford Hotel, Chicago." The letter stated that the writer has taken his life, because of his unrequited love for "Dorothy Lydon," and because of the "Kee and Muir society."

At the Stratford hotel it was said that a man named T. B. Cowan of Milwaukee, had been a frequent guest at the hotel lately, sometimes registering two or three times a week.

The police are undecided whether or not the alleged suicide is a hoax or not.

THE LATEST RETURNS IN NEW JERSEY INDICATE THE ELECTION OF REPUBLICAN

VERITABLE LANDSLIDE

For the Anti-Grafters in the Election at San Francisco.

Mayor Taylor Elected by a Plurality of Over 11,000.

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—The election in this city yesterday proved a veritable landslide for the anti-graft leaders, and returns from every precinct so far received show that the Good Government ticket has been overwhelmingly elected from top to bottom. It is estimated that Mayor Taylor has been elected by a plurality of more than 11,000 votes, while District Attorney William Langdon has so far, a majority of 16,000 votes over Mc-

Estimated That Fort Will Have 5,000 Plurality for Governor.

Figure Will Depend on the Result in Hudson County.

The Legislature Will be Republican in Both Houses.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 6.—Returns are coming in slowly, but the present indications are that J. Franklin Fort, Republican, is elected governor by about 5,000 plurality. This will depend altogether upon the result of Hudson county, which includes Jersey City. Hudson county was last night placed in the tables as giving 15,000 for Frank S. Katzenbach, Democrat. The figures

DOMINATION OF CHURCH

In Salt Lake City Politics Smashed by American Party.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 6.—Through the election of John D. Bransford as mayor, the general city ticket and a majority of the city council, the American party will retain complete control of this city for two years. The victory was won on the issue of Mormon church domination, the Americans claiming that the other parties were under ecclesiastial control. Bransford received 11,774 votes, Morris, Democrat, 5,982; Plummer, Republican, 6,340. The council stands: American, 9; Democrats, 4; Republicans, 2.

As compared with the county election last year the Democrats gained and the Republicans lost.

Outside of Salt Lake the gains made by the Democrats were notable. In Ogden they elected Alexander Brewer mayor, and three of the five councilmen; at Provo, the home of Republican, Senator Smoot, tney elected C. F. Decker mayor. At Logan, William Ward, Democrat, was elected mayor with the whole of the ticket. The Republicans carried Park City. At Eureka in Tintic mining district, the Socialists defeated the Republicans, electing all but one of their ticket, which was headed by A. L. Mitchell for mayor.

EASY FOR JOHNSON

The Mayor of Cleveland Defeats Burton by 9,313 Plurality.

Col. Leopold Markbriet Elected Mayor of Cincinnati.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 6.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson again demonstrated his popularity with the people of Cleveland by defeating Congressman Burton in the contest for mayor by a decisive plurality.

Congressman Burton made considerable gains over the vote of two years ago when William H. Boyd was the Republican candidate, but the gain was not sufficient to overcome the strong Johnson lead.

THE INDEPENDENT VOTER MANIFEST IN ELECTIONS

All Party Lines Were Obliterated in Many Cities and States on Tuesday.

Change of More Than 50,000 Votes in New Jersey Since Last Election.

Tom Johnson Defeats Congressman Burton and Kentucky Elects Republican.

The main results of yesterday's state and city elections, as now established, are as follows:

In Cleveland, Tom L. Johnson was elected mayor for the fourth time, defeating his Republican opponent, Congressman Thomas E. Burton, by 9,313 plurality. The entire Democratic ticket was elected, with one exception, and the Democrats have a large majority in the council.

At San Francisco, the anti-graft forces won a notable victory, Mayor Taylor and District Attorney Langdon having large majorities.

Governor Guild of Massachusetts has increased his plurality to about 105,000 against 30,000 in 1906. The entire state ticket and both branches of the legislature are Republican. Of the two Democratic candidates Henry M. Whitney strongly outran Charles W. Bartlett, the latter falling far below Thomas L. Hisgen, candidate of the Independence League.

Maryland has elected the Democratic candidate for governor, Judge Austin T. Crothers, and the entire Democratic state ticket by about 7,000 plurality. The legislature is apparently Democratic. Ex-Governor Smith carried the primaries for the long term in the United States senate, and Senator William Pinckney Whyte is assured of the short term.

Rhode Island has re-elected Governor James H. Higgins, Democratic candidate for governor, his plurality now reaching 2,307, a gain of 1,000 since 1904. The general assembly is Republican in both branches, ensuring the return of George Peabody Wetmore to the United States senate.

Kentucky has elected the entire Republican state ticket, headed by Augustus E. Willson for governor, by majorities ranging from 5,000 to 10,000. The Kentucky legislature will have a Democratic majority on joint ballot and probably will elect Governor Beckham to the United States senate.

In New York, Justices Edward T. and Willard Bartlett, joint Democratic and Republican nominees, were elected as justices of the court of appeals, and the Tammany ticket in New York county has a plurality over the Independence League-Republican fusion candidates.

The result in New Jersey between J. Franklin Fort, Republican, and Frank S. Katzenbach, Democrat, for governor, will not be positively known until fuller returns are received, but the indications are Fort is elected by 5,000. In 1904, Governor Stokes, Republican, had 31,000 majority.

DEMOCRATS SUCCESSFUL

In All But One of Counties of Greater New York.

Kings, Under McCarren's Leadership, Suffered a Reverse.

New York, Nov. 6.—The election in Greater New York has been largely favorable to the Democrats. New York county (Manhattan and the Bronx) went overwhelmingly their way, Thomas F. Foley, for sheriff, the head of the ticket, having a plurality of 26,723 over M. F. Ihmsen, Independence League and Republican, in a comparatively light vote. The fusion between the Republicans and the Independence League was a failure, except in the cases of a few minor officials.

In Richmond and Queens, too, the the Democrats were generally successful, but in Kings county (Brooklyn) the Democrats under the leadership of Senator Patrick H. McCarren suffered a reverse. All the Republican candidates on the county ticket, with the single exception of Clarke, Democratic

MARYLAND IS DEMOCRATIC

Judge Austin Crothers Elected Governor—Legislature Safe.

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—Incomplete but reliably indicative returns received this morning show that the Democrats have elected Judge Austin L. Crothers, governor, and the entire state ticket by an estimated plurality of about 7,000. The legislature appears to be safely Democratic. Ex-Governor John Walter Smith defeated Governor Edwin Warfield, and Congressman J. F. C. Talbut in the primaries for the long term United States senatorship beginning in 1909. Senator William Pinckney Whyte was unopposed and will succeed himself for the short term. Senator Whyte was appointed at the death of the late Senator Gorman until the legislature should choose a successor.

GOVERNOR IS REPUBLICAN

Augustus Willson Elected in Kentucky by 14,000 Majority.

Democrats Will Probably Have Small Majority in Legislature.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6.—The returns from 110 out of 119 counties indicate that the majority of Augustus E. Willson, Republican, for governor, over S. W. Hager, is 14,000. The legislature is still in doubt, but the Democrats will probably have a small majority on joint ballot.

James F. Grinstead was elected mayor of Louisville over Owen Tyler by 4,083.

The Republicans have gained a large number of seats in the next legislature. The indications, however, are that the Democrats will have a safe majority on joint ballot and that Governor Beckham will be elected United States senator. In the last legislature the Democrats had a majority of 72 on joint ballot. It is expected this will be reduced to a majority of about 20 this time. Kentucky, however, has a large number of counties remote from the railroad and with poor telegraph facilities.

DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR

Re-Elected in Rhode Island and Possibly Lieutenant Governor.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 6.—Governor James H. Higgins, Democrat, was re-elected, and returns from all but one district in the state indicate that he will have a Democratic lieutenant governor in office with him this year, with the rest of the state ticket remaining Republican. Governor Higgins had a plurality of 2,307 votes over Lieut. Governor Frederick H. Jackson, Republican, who opposed him, polling 33,012 votes to 30,705 for Jackson, one district being not reported. This district is in the city of Pawtucket and is overwhelmingly Democratic, and is expected to increase Governor Higgins' plurality.

The next general assembly will again be strongly Republican, insuring the election of George Peabody Wetmore to the United States senate.

STATEMENT BY THORNE

President of Trust Company Takes Public Into His Confidence.

Remarkable Record of Great Depository Under Financial Stress.

New York, 6.—The financial situation showed evidences today of getting back into normal channels. The two trust companies which have been experiencing runs of late continued business as usual and with the strong moral and material support given by a committee representing a number of trust companies who have united in taking over the majority of stocks of the two companies under pressure. This arrangement was consummated during the conferences in Mr. Morgan's library, lasting until an early hour this morning, and it gives promise of not only relieving the strain on the two companies, but also in relieving one of the chief causes of apprehension in the local situation. The stock market was stimulated by the improved condition of affairs and showed a buoyant tone, followed by some dullness and irregularity.

Oakleigh Thorne, president of the Trust Company of America, made the following statement today:

"I think the time has now come to take the depositors, the stockholders and the public into our confidence. I have felt all along that I was a trustee, primarily for the depositors and next for the stockholders, and all of my actions from the moment that I entered into official relations with the Trust Company of America have been guided by a desire to fairly and honestly meet the duties of this trusteeship. Months ago I was warned, as indeed were all warned that there was danger of a period of financial stress coming upon us and we set about putting our house in order. We promptly reduced our loans and increased our cash means to a point where we had a reserve largely in excess of the legal requirement when the crisis came. Indeed we had so much money on hand that wise and conservative bankers advised me to put some of our money and demand loans into time loans.

"When the storm broke to my utter amazement its chief force was directed against the Trust Company of America. It is idle now to discuss the reason why. The fact remains that public attention was rivted upon this institution by newspaper publications and the run developed into a persistent and stadfast demand.

"This run is unprecedented in the history of banking. Only a few days our receipts were in excess of our payments, but altogether we have passed out since it began over $34,000,000. Throughout the whole period of stress I have courted the closest examination into our affairs, and last Saturday night at my instance the banking interests who had been so helpful in the emergency appointed a committee of experts to go through our assets. These experts had no interest in the matter whatever other than to make a fair and honest examination and report to the gentlemen who had selected them. They found, after working all night Saturday night and half the day on Sunday, that we had enough even at the present low market prices, to pay every dollar of our deposits, to leave our capital intanct and a substantial surplus.

"I think in the end it will be profitable to the Trust Company of America that this fierce light should have beat upon it and should have disclosed the character of its securities. There have been all sorts of wild rumors afloat, but it is now definitely known that no officer or director of the bank has been improperly using its funds for his own purposes; no officer or director has had a loan here in excess of the legal limits and the president of the institution has no loans whatever, neither has any company with which the president was associated had any loans.

"It is now disclosed that measured by any standard of good banking at the commencement of this run our assets were clean, our reserve adequate and I am unable to see at any point that the management was in any way a fair subject for criticism. To have paid out in times like these, under such general stress, the enormous amounts that we have must be proof conclusive to any banker that prudence has been observed in the conduct of the business. I have no apologies to make with the figures speaking for themselves.

"It has been suggested that during some days we were unnecessarily slow in the payment of depositors. In answer it should be stated that we have found each day upon examination of the checks presented that 25 or 30 per cent of them were not good. People have drawn a number of checks against their balances and put them in the hands of the men in the line. Many of these men had each a large number of checks in his possession. It was obviously necessary to examine each check as presented to determine whether the balance had already been drawn out, and this naturally greatly delayed our work. There has not been a day on which we have paid less than 300 or 400 checks.

"I should be untrue to myself if I did not make acknowledgment of the splendid help we received at the hands of our fellow bankers in New York. There has been a great deal of unnecessary misapprehension on the part of the public concerning this matter. No officer or director has been asked to resign and there has been no absorption of this company by any other. A number of gentlemen of very high character and undoubted responsibility have entered into an agreement by which a majority of our stock is to be deposited with them as voting trustees and they are to act as an advisory committee in co-operation with our board of directors."

RUSSIAN WOLF HOUNDS USED

Pack of Dogs Run Down Wolf at Stock Farm.

Wolf hounds imported from Russia, promise to effectively wipe out the wolves that have been carrying off stock from the Jean Duluth farm.

During the past fall a number of wolves have been hanging about the farm preying on the stock when they got an opportunity to pull down a stray animal. The owners of the farm decided to import some Russian wolf hounds for the purpose of running down the animals, and a hunt was held one day this week, with the result that one wolf was run to earth and shot by the men who accompanied the hounds.

AUTHORITIES WERE EVADED

Steven Todd Dodges Immigrant Inspectors, But is Deported.

United States Immigrant Inspector William H. Dead left for Quebec today with Steven Todd, a feeble-minded Englishman, who got into this country under rather unusual circumstances, and who, having become a public charge on St. Louis county, was ordered deported to England by the government. This is the first Englishman ever deported from the Duluth district.

Todd, who is 25 years of age, attempted to land at Quebec last year, but was refused admission by the immigration authorities. He was returned to his home, but later on landed in Canada under an assumed name, and without being detected by the immigration authorities. He made his way to the town of Emerson, situated on the boundary between North Dakota and Manitoba and, according to his own story, evaded the immigration authorities there and walked around the town, thus gaining admittance to the United States.

His second landing at Quebec was March 12, 1907. He came in under the name of Thomas Baker.

Why Suffer?

If you suffer pain from any cause, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve it—and leave no bad after-effects. That's the important thing. Neither do they create a habit. More often the attacks become less frequent, or disappear altogether. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have no other effect except to relieve pain and quiet nervous irritation.

"We are never without Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. My husband and son, aged 15 were always subject to sick headache until we began using these Pills, and they have broken them up entirely. Don't think they have had to use them for six months. I recommend them to every one. A few weeks ago I heard an old lady friend was sick. I went to see her. She was down with LaGrippe, and nearly crazy with awful backache. I gave her one of the Anti-Pain Pills and left another for her to take in a short time. They helped her right away, and she says she will never be without them again. Last winter my husband was taken with pluerisy on both sides, and I know he would have died if it hadn't been for the Pills. In less than half an hour he was sweating, and went to bed and slept."

CRITICISM WAS UNCALLED FOR

Judge Edson Says Meeting Was Not a Public Gathering.

Judge W. D. Edson stated this morning that he thought the criticism of the "star chamber" methods adopted yesterday afternoon by the Republican committee, which met to suggest a Republican mayoralty candidate, were unjust.

"This meeting yesterday was not a convention nor an opening meeting for citizens," said Mr. Edson. "It was merely the meeting of a committee chosen by Republicans at mass meetings held all over the city and there was no reason why the general public should have been admitted. It seems to me that the criticisms were very unjust and quite uncalled for."

RAILROADS

WEATHER IS FAVORABLE

Is Helping to Clear Up Car Shortage Now Existing.

Sudden Improvement of Financial Conditions Would Swamp Roads.

"Even if the unsettled condition of the money market does not relieve the car shortage, a continuation of the present fine weather through the Northwest will soon put the railroads on their feet," said Thomas E. Blanche, general agent of the Northern Pacific, this morning.

Last year at this time the Northwestern roads were considerably handicapped by disagreeable weather conditions. One of the heaviest snow storms of the winter occurred early in the month, and there were storms of lesser magnitude even before that. The prompt handling of freight by the railroads depends more upon the weather than most people imagine. Longer trains can be hauled, better speed made, and cars in the yards can be more promptly handled under favorable conditions in the weather line.

It is daily becoming more evident that the inability of shippers and consignees to raise enough money to carry on their usual business has caused a marked reduction in orders for the movement of commodities of many kinds, especially of grain, with the result that orders for cars in which to transport these commodities have proportionately diminished. The relaxation would be welcome to officials o fthe railroads were it not for the probability that if financial conditions improve within the next few weeks the reduction in the demand for care at present will tend later to increase the demand during the season of the year when, owing to severe weather, operating conditions will be least favorable.

A sudden clearing up of the unsettled conditions about the time of the close of navigation would mean unusually heavy all-rail shipments of freight to Western points, and would call into use cars which ordinarily are employed for the regular run of business. If the situation does clear up, and conditions are brought back to normal again in the money market, the sudden increase in the movement of freight would doubtless cause a car shortage of a much more serious nature than would be the case if the usual fall rush of business continued unchecked.

NO ADVANCE.

Homeseekers' Rates Will Remain on the Old Basis.

Chicago, Nov. 6. — Officers of the larger Western railroad systems have about concluded to waive the agreement to advance homeseekers' fares and go back to the old basis. When the conference to consider this question ended in Chicago last week it was given out that the fares would be advanced to all points, the increase running as high as $5.

Representatives of one or two big systems say that since the meeting the heads of their roads have come to the conclusion that the increase in population of the West is of more importance than an increase in the price of tickets.

There is little doubt that one and possibly two or three big roads, with more land than people near its lines, will soon give independent notice of the intention to continue the sale of homeseekers' rates on the old low basis, regardless of the 2-cent fare states.

SUPERIOR NEWS

COUNCIL WAS NAPPING.

Alderman Russell Slips Through a "Blind" Ordinance.

Alderman Russell caught his confreres napping last evening when he succeeded in having the council pass a resolution regulating the playing of musical instruments in saloons, which merely provides that such instruments shall not be played at times when the saloon is supposed to be closed. After the council meeting several of the aldermen explained that they understood the ordinance prohibited musical instruments in saloons.

The council voted to authorize the board of public works to advertise for bids on the sale and removal of the old wooden viaduct over the railroad tracks from Banks avenue and Third street. The city engineer reported that it will cost $9,930 to rebuild the viaduct and to extend it to the coke ovens will cost $9,420 additional.

A delegation of the trades unions appeared before the council and urged the appointment of a man to look after the weights of coal and other commodities. They claimed that consumers are being given short weights in many instances and that if a few arrests were made, followed by stiff fines, the practice of giving short weights would be checked.

City Engineer Banks reported that he has made a preliminary survey of two lines from Superior to the new steel plant in Duluth. One route is by way of Central avenue. The other is from Twenty-first street and Tower avenue via Logan avenue and Twenty-eighth street, on a diagonal line. The latter route is said to be the more feasible. The mayor appointed a committee to ascertain the cost of acquiring a right-of-way.

AFTER BLIND PIGGERS.

Police Department Makes Five Arrests for Violation of Law.

Accused of violating the liquor law, five persons, two of them women, were arraigned in the municipal court yesterday afternoon. Their cases were set for a later date. Four of the accused were able to furnish bail in the sum of $100 each. Nester Haynan, who is connected with a restaurant in the rear of 1803 Third street could not furnish bail, and is being held in jail, pending his hearing. The other persons arrested were Dolf Gauthier, proprietor of a saloon at 1810, who is said to have kept his place open last Sunday; Martin Stager, clerk in a lodging house at 212 Tower avenue, charged with selling liquor without a license; Mrs. Grace Towell, proprietress of a rooming house at 1901 Third street, and Ida Nelson, a waitress in a lodging house at 719 John avenue, both charged with selling beer without a license.

The work of rounding up the alleged offenders is said to have been accomplished through the employment of "stool pigeons."

Will Delay the Work.

It was reported yesterday that while construction work on the Wisconsin Central road between Superior and Ladysmith, and at the Duluth end will be pushed as fast as possible this winter, nothing will be done in Superior until next spring. The company, it is said, had planned to lay the track from South Superior to the depot site in Winter street, between Ogden and Hughitt avenues, but cannot carry out the plans on account of the unsettled situation in regard to street crossings. Additional steam shovels have been put on the work at the heavy cut near Hines, Wis.

Liquor Caused Downfall.

Roy Schafer, aged 37 years, formerly of St. Joseph, Mich., was sentenced to a year in the Wisconsin prison at Waupun, yesterday afternoon, on his plea of guilty to the charge of forgery. Sentence was imposed by Judge Smith. Schafer signed the name of George C. Beams to three checks on which he realized $40. He went to Crystal Falls, Mich., where he was apprehended. Schafer claimed that drink and dissipation were the cause of his troubles.

Stole Hand Cars.

The charms which hand cars, railroad velocipedes and other small speeders of the railroad track have for children involved nine of the youngsters in trouble and more are likely to be taken in. The children have at different times taken the cars and run them around the yards, with disastrous results to the cars, although fortunately not to the riders. They will probably be tried on a charge of trespass.

SAVED FROM HIMSELF.

Cigarmaker Sent Up to Keep Him Away From Liquor.

Thomas Ryan, a local cigar maker, was arrested last night on the charge of drunkenness and sent up for fifteen days today by Judge Cutting in municipal court.

Ryan has been on a protracted spree, not the first in his career, and the court imposed the sentence at the suggestion of the police who have had occasion to care for Ryan before. The man was in a pitiful condition this morning from excessive drinking and bore several bruises on his face, the results of falls taken while intoxicated.

HIS OWN PRISONER.

West End Saloonkeeper Locks Himself in Refrigerator.

If the idea of shutting off the beer so that his bartender could not draw any for his customers had not occurred to Dolph Butler, a saloonkeeper doing business at 2232 West Superior street, there is no telling how long he would have remained, chilled and chattering, in the refrigerator of his establishment, yesterday afternoon.

Butler entered the refrigerator department of his saloon and closed the door behind him so that too much warm air would not enter the place. He did not think, though, that he had pulled the door far enough to cause the catch to drop and make him a prisoner, but it did.

When the saloonkeeper found that he could not get out of his own ice box, he began to pound on the thick doors and yell to his bartender. That individual was busy serving drinks, however, and had paid no attention to the comings and goings of his employer.

But when the beer refused to come when the faucet was properly turned on, the barkeeper went to the refrigerator to investigate. There he found his frost-bitten boss, who swore that he had been on ice for three hours, although the clock registered only twenty minutes.

Ascribed as Cause of Leroy Stuckey's Death.

R. B. Stuckey, father of Leroy Stuckey, the young man who died suddenly at police headquarters Saturday night, left last evening for Minneapolis, where he will collect the personal effects of his son, who made his headquarters there, before returning to Chicago.

It appears from further investigation that the young man had not been drinking for several days and that death was due to acute pneumonia, from which he had been suffering but a few hours.

He complained to friends of acute pains in the chest and was advised to take a drink of hot whisky, but refused, saying that he had been drinking and wanted to quit it.

The elder Stuckey expressed himself as very grateful for the kindness of the police department and the Eagles lodge, of which deceased was a member.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM — Mack-Leone players in "When We Were Twenty-one."
METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

MARIE CAHILL

In "Marrying Mary" Is Well Worth While.

With Mare Cahill's undeniable humor, and Eugene Cowle's magnificent voice, "Marrying Mary" would not need anything else to make it well worth while, but just for good measure Daniel V. Arthur, the manager, throws in a fat and funny senator who looks like Secretary Taft, a Mormon bishop, a dissolute young rounder, an explosive Frenchman, a German maid, and the famous long skirted chorus, all of whom help to keep things moving and add to the merriment.

"Marrying Mary" is a musical comedy that has to do with the matrimonial tangles of a much married young woman with three unsuccessful experiments still living. She plans a love match for the fourth one, but the young man is a serious minded young person who is carrying the load of four stepmothers on his shoulders, owing to his father's habit of getting married, and who has undertaken a campaign against divorce. The combination, needless to say, provides material for many amusing situations.

No one can sing a "coon" ditty quite like Miss Cahill. She has a voice of no ordinary quality, and she knows how to use it when she wants to, but her "coon" ditties half sung, half said in her queer little nasal twang, are indescribably catchy, and the audience couldn't get enough of "A Cousin of Mine."

A new composition of her own, "I Love You in My Dum, Dum, Dummy Way," is the tale of the love of a clothing store dummy.

But Miss Cahill does not have to rely on her voice or her songs, or even her wonderful gowns, entirely. She is a natural and infectious comedienne, in her quiet way—a kind of May Irwin toned down from an uproarious vaudeville fun maker to a $2 a seat musical comedy star.

Eugene Cowles came out and gave just enough of a hint of grand opera to make the audience willing to vote to stop the performance and let him tear off a scene or two from Faust or Lohengren. His splendid bass voice was displayed to good advantage in the song "Last One Is Best of All." Incidentally he makes a very lifelike old Kentucky colonel.

Sam B. Hardy as Ormsby Culpepper, husband No. 4, is a tall, capable looking young actor, who inspires confidence and instinctive liking.

The trip of former husbands furnish much of the comedy of the play. It verges on the clownish order at times, but is never offensive, and the three are unquestionably funny. Their song, "Three Men in a Boat," was one of the hits of the evening.

Miss Nellie Lynch, a clever soubrette and a graceful dancer, has the part of Fleurette. "Fleurette" is supposed to be a German madchen as portrayed by Miss Lynch, but nobody worries about the name anyway.

The long-skirted chorus is up to the advertisements. The twelve members possess good voices, a fair measure of good looks, and dance acceptably.

Mack-Leone Players Return.

The Mack-Leone players will return to the Lyceum this evening in "When We Were Twenty-one."

Three-Piece Orchestra.

James F. Leonard, the principal comedian with the Yankee Doodle Girls at the Metropolitan this week, was playing in a small town in Montana when the following incident took place some years ago:

The comedian was talking with the manager of the local "op'ry house" and asked how many pieces there were in the orchestra.

"We have three pieces," replied the manager. "A piano, a stool and a music rack."

Leonard says this is a true story.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Endives, 5 cents a bunch.
Oyster plant, 5 cents a bunch.
Canadian apples, $7 a barrel.
Pineapples, 25 cents each.
Boiling onions, 25 cents a peck.
Beef hearts, 25 cents each.
Veal hearts, 10 and 15 cents each.
Finnenhaddie, 18 cents a pound.
Sausage, 18 cents a pound.

Canadian apples of the King variety are demanding the highest price per barrel in the market. The Canadians, it seems, according to the market man, are very honest about apples. They do not pack the barrels with nice, big, juicy, tempting, rosy, delicious apples at either end and then fill in the middle with a little kind. Not the Canadians. They fill the barrels with apples of uniform excellence all the way through. Consequently those barrels that come from that locality command a higher price per barrel.

For people who can stand that sort of thing, very fine boiling onions are to be had in the market, also endives, oyster plant, pineapples and fresh cocoanuts.

FATAL END OF SPORT

Edward Flaherty Grabs Muzzle of Rifle With Bad Results.

Shot Through Hip, He Dies From Effects of His Wound.

Bemidji, Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Edward Flaherty, who died at St. Anthony's hospital in this city Monday as a result of being accidentally shot, has been taken to Rock Island for burial.

The shooting occurred at Puposky last Friday evening. Edward Flaherty, with his son, Joseph, Matt, Joe and Nick Heffner, Henry Spoerhase and Edward Jones, were assembled in Heffner's hotel at the time. All of them had been in the barroom of the hotel.

There were two rifles in the party, both of which were 30-30 caliber Winchesters, one being owned by Flaherty and the other by Jones. They had been looking at the two guns, putting shells into the chambers and taking them out again.

After the party had eaten supper, they again went into the barroom to get a smoke, Jones having previously loaded shells in his rifle.

Spoerhase, jokingly asserted that he was going to shoot the paper bell from the ceiling of the saloon. Matt requested him not to shoot.

Spoerhase took up the rifle and was warned by Jones that the weapon was loaded. Spoerhase responded that he knew it was, and started to raise the rifle.

Edward Flaherty, who was standing close to Spoerhase, reached for the gun, pulling the barrel down and the weapon was accidentally discharged.

The bullet struck Flaherty close to his right hip and he fell to the floor, exclaiming: "I stopped it, Henry. You got me, all right."

There was considerable excitement among those in the saloon and finally Jones tied a towel around Flaherty's leg, stopping the flow of blood.

Dr. Shannon of this city, went to Puplsky, and he dressed the wounded man's hip, a special train bringing Flaherty to Bemidji at 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

Flaherty was placed in the local hospital here, where all possible was done for his recovery, but the wound inflicted by the soft nose bullet, was of such a nature as to cause death.

Flaherty was 45 years old, and owned a farm about two miles from Puposky, where he has lived for the past two years. He is survived by a son, Joseph, who was with him at the time of the accident, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Taylor of Sherrard, Ill.

DISPUTE OVER FENCE

Caused Death of James Reed, and Not Assault First Reported.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Further investigations by the police into the death of James Reed, the teamster, who died at St. Luke's hospital of a fractured skull Monday, developed that it was a dispute over a line fence which caused all the trouble and that Reed was not struck with a stone in the hands of the man with whom he was arguing, but by a stone hurled by a son-in-law of the man with whom Reed had the disagreement.

The Italians had bought a plot of ground and had driven stakes and were preparing to build a fence. The Grant company was dumping on the adjoining property and some of the dirt was rolling onto the Italian's property. This they did not like and the elder protested against it. Reed answered insolently and the quarrel began.

The younger Italian was standing about thirty feet away and picking up a stone threw it at Reed. It struck him on the head felling him.

The police were not notified of Reed's condition until nearly a week had passed and the Italians had gone into hiding.

EXPENSE AND TIME

Are Required to Construct Road Through Timbered Country.

Spooner, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—No one realizes the expense and time it takes to build a wagon road through the dense forest of spruce and tamarack in Northern Minnesota who has not had the experience of either assisting or footing the bills.

The village of Spooner has cleared, grubbed and graded a road from the main street of Spooner to old Spooner, a distance of over a mile. Not one rod of it has been laid that has not cost the village less than $6 a rod, and some of the rods have cost as much as $10. This little stretch of road cost the village of Spooner over $2,000.

SORT OF SEQUEL TO BORAH'S CASE

Involving Two Eau Claire Men is to be Heard.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sort of a sequel to the case of United States Senator Borah of Idaho, who was recently acquitted on the charge of conspiracy in land frauds, is expected to be enacted in the federal court here this afternoon, when demurrers by two Eau Claire men are to be argued.

At the time the indictment was returned against Senator Borah, indictments of a like nature were found against Sumner G. Moon and J. T. Barber of Eau Claire. The specific charge of conspiracy is that individuals took up land in Idaho and afterward turned it over to the Barber Land company, it being alleged that the whole plan of taking up the land was not that the individuals should be homesteaders, but that they ultimately expected some company owing a large tract might cut the timber from the land.

The hearing, which starts in the federal court before Judge J. V. Quarles, is to determine primarily whether the two Eau Claire men will be compelled to go to Idaho to stand trial.

WORKED HIS WAY TO PROMINENCE

Late Chief Engineer of Copper Range Began at Bottom.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The reward that comes from hard work, industry and grasping the opportunity of one's chances are illustrated in the career of Charles W. Sanders, chief engineer and superintendent of bridges of the Copper Range railroad, who died here Sunday and whose body has been sent to Los Angeles, Cal., for interment, his wife and two children, living in the California town.

Mr. Sanders was born in Worcester, Mass., Dec. 13, 1856, graduated from the Polytechnic Institute of that city in 1873, with the degree of civil engineer and soon after entered the employ of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad as rodsman and draughtsman. He remained with that company until 1880 and in March of that year, until February, 1886, was with the Atlantic & Pacific railway at Albuquerque, N. M., as office and resident engineer. He then went to the Colorado Midland as assistant engineer on construction and bridges and buildings. From February, 1887, until June, 1889, he was chief draughtsman for the Southern Pacific Railway company at San Bernardino, Cal., going from there to Omaha to enter the employ of the Union Pacific as office engineer. He remained at Omaha until May, 1890, when he took up his residence at Los Angeles as a civil engineer, engaging in independent practice. In June, 1899, he accepted a position with the Copper Range railroad as assistant engineer, and superintendent of bridges and buildings, a place he successfully filled to the time of his death.

Valley City, N. D., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The executive committee meeting of the Good Government league of the state which represents the "insurgent" element in the Republican party of the state to decide upon candidates for United States senator and various offices held here, did not act definitely, but decided upon a state convention in Grand Forks, Nov. 26.

It is expected that at that time an insurgent ticket for senator, members of the lower house of congress and for state officers will be agreed upon.

While no action was taken at the meeting here concerning candidates, the sentiment was practically unanimous for the nomination of Congressman Marshall for senator, Speaker Twichell for governor and State Senator Young for congressman.

CROSSINGS FEASIBLE

Expert Engineers Approve of Plans of Thunder Bay Road.

No Unusual Obstacles Are in the Way of Construction.

The Duluth-Thunder Bay Railway company, through its attorney, H. B. Fryberger, introduced testimony of expert railroad men this morning tending to show that the railroad crossing it seeks to make with the Northern Pacific and Omaha roads on Rice's Point are feasible and practicable. The evidence follows along the line of the Soo road's attempt to secure the railroad crossing through condemnation proceedings, and it is being fought by the local companies named.

Capt. Hilen I. Parker of Chicago, one of the foremost railroad engineers of the country, was the first witness called this morning. Capt. Parker began work as a chainman on the Rock Island road and was promoted step by step until he became chief engineer of the road, and then vice president and general manager. For the past four years he has been out of the railroad work and is in business for himself as a consulting engineer.

Capt. Parker was examined as to his knowledge of the proposed route of the Thunder Bay company along Rice's Point and the location of the proposed crossings. He claimed that the main crossing proposed with the Northern Pacific and the Omaha roads at Elevator "I" and the second crossing on Railroad street were perfectly feasible and the best that could be made under the circumstances. Capt. Parker's knowledge of railroad crossing, as shown by his testimony, is extensive, he being familiar with many in Chicago and other cities. He discussed to some extent the interlock system of crossing which he said could be readily adapted to the proposed crossings of the Thunder Bay road.

W. A. McGonagle, vice president and general manager of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, who is a civil engineer of long experience, also testified that the proposed crossing of the Thunder Bay road with the Northern Pacific and the Omaha roads is entirely feasible. Under cross-examination Mr. McGonagle admitted that the proposed crossings would injure the Northern Pacific road materially if the latter company should attempt to extend its yards on the east side of Rice's Point. He also admitted that the crossing of the other roads by the tracks of the new line would tend to delay the operation of cars on the tracks to the elevators and the coal docks.

General Manager Pennington of the Soo road, who was a witness for the applicant company, yesterday afternoon confirmed again the report that the Duluth-Thunder Bay road and the Soo road are identical. He stated that the new line is to be constructed to connect the Soo line with Thunder Bay on the north shore of Lake Superior.

Mr. Pennington also testified as to grade crossings and claimed that in his opinion the proposed crossings on Rice's Point are feasible.

This afternoon Mr. Fryberger expected to call H. L. Dresser, chief engineer for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, as an expert witness on grade crossings.

FOUND UNDER THE VIADUCT

Northern Pacific Detective Was Beaten by Unknown Persons.

A man giving his name as W. W. Duetch was discovered last evening in the railroad yards under the Lake avenue viaduct, suffering from several severe bruises and cuts, having the appearance of being inflicted from a blunt instrument.

He was assisted to the Lenox hotel, where he was stopping, and his wounds attended to. How he received his wounds is a mystery, as he disappeared this morning, and efforts to locate him have thus far been fruitless.

Duetch was discovered by a Northern Pacific brakeman, who heard calls for help, and going to the spot, discovered the man, in a half conscious condition, lying upon a pile of scrap iron in the yards. He either did not care to tell the story of his troubles or could not, and nothing to give the police a clew was discovered last evening.

The supposition is that he engaged in a fight with some companions and got the worst of it. It is stated by those who found him that he had been drinking.

A card indicating that he was a Northern Pacific detective was discovered upon his person.

MITCHELL IMPROVING.

La Salle, Ill., Nov. 6.—John Mitchell's condition continues to improve. Everything is favorable for his ultimate recovery.

TWO BODIES RECOVERED.

Those of Seibel and Healey Have Been Taken From Lake.

Deer River, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Meager reports from the Bowstring country, north of here, are that the bodies of Jacob Seibell and Peter Healey, two of the Hibbing men drowned in one of the numerous lakes in that section a few days ago, have been recovered and at last reports the search for the other two bodies is still being prosecuted.

Later information is that Everton and Inscho, who were reported to have been in the ill-fated boat when it sank, had saved themselves, were not in it at all but were the first to learn of the accident when from the shore they saw packs and other things belonging to the hunters floating on the water indicating their boat had been capsized.

It is also learned that the man named Cooper, who was also drowned was A. N. Cooper, a cigar salesman, and not the Cooper, his brother, first reported, who is a homesteader living near the lake. There seems to be a difference of opinion as to the name of the lake in which the party drowned. There are so many lakes in that section a confusion as to names has arisen. Owing to the remoteness of the scene of the accident from telephone or telegraphic communication details are hard to obtain.

CHILDREN GET MITE.

Bulk of Life Insurance Goes to Those Who Kept it Up.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Merrit W. Dally and Addis Dally, who paid the insurance dues of Johann Link in the order of Sons of Hermann, and who were named by Johann Link in his will as his heirs, have won their legal fight for the Link estate. Charles A. Link and Mrs. Mary Beach, Johann Link's children, will each receive $10 from their father's estate and the remainder will be divided between the Dallys.

Johann Link had a $1,000 policy in the Sons of Hermann. His friends, the Dallys paid his premiums and kept up his membership in the order when his physical condition made it impossible for him to earn enough money to meet his financial obligations. In his policy his children, Charles A. Link and Mary Beach, were named as beneficiaries, but before he died the old man made a will leaving $10 each to his children and the remainder of the policy money to the Dallys.

The children claimed that they should be paid the money according to the terms of the policy and the Dallys claimed the money under the provisions of Link's will. Judge Brooks decided in favor of the Dallys.

The following afternoon a snorting sound and the breaking of the underbrush was heard, and soon a large moose was seen wending his way into the garden patch. Mr. Summer on the spur of the moment, when he saw the approach of the large animal, hastened into the house, brought out his gun and killed the animal.

The moose head was brought to town to be mounted. Deputy Game Warden Loman arrested Summer for shooting moose out of season. The case will be tried on Nov. 8.

This judgment is now reversed and the case is remanded for a new trial.

ELECTRICIANS' BALL.

Affair at the Armory Was a Grand Success.

The Armory was a blaze of glory last evening, when the electricians' annual ball took place and was enjoyed by several hundred people. Those in charge of the affair had been working for a long time on the arrangements and everything went off without a hitch.

The electricians had been plying their trade at the Armory for several days and electric lights blazed, sparkled and glistened from every pillar, nook and cranny. The interior of the building was a veritable palace of light.

George Schuler was chairman of the committee on arrangements, and other members of the committee were Dick Thayer, Charles Manthy, Harry Richards and W. J. Hunt, who was also floor manager. M. C. Greenfield, M. Ennis, Charles Christopher and George Schuler assisted the floor manager.

LaBrosse's orchestra played, and frappe was served. From a financial point of view, this affair is said to have been one of the most successful ever held by the Electricians' union.

CHANGES HER PLEA.

Mrs. Evelyn Romadka Now Says She Is Not Guilty.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Evelyn Romadka of Milwaukee, who yesterday entered a plea of guilty to three charges of burglary and two of larceny, today withdrew her plea, and entered one of not guilty.

It developed that her plea of yesterday was made without the advice of counsel, and without knowledge of its effect on her case. She believed, she said today that the confession she had previously made to the police prevented her from entering a plea of not guilty.

BUSINESS SHOWS GAINS

Receipts of Water and Gas Department Show Prosperous Condition.

Net Receipts Were $7,084 Larger Than in October 1906.

The city's water and gas business is showing a steady gain this year, every month showing a substantial increase in the business of the department over that of a corresponding month last year.

Some idea of the increased business is shown by the report of the manager at the last meeting of the board of water and light commissioners, which states an increased gas business of 37 3-7 per cent last month and an increased water business of 21 4-5 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

The following statement shows the comparative cash receipts for gas and water for October, 1906 and 1907:

	1906.	1907.	Gain.
Water receipts.	$16,269.07	$19,819.76	$3,550.69
Gas receipts.....	9,414.41	12,947.94	3,533.53
Net gain in business.....			$7,084.22

The fact that money seems to be a little tight in this city could not have been inferred at the city's water and gas office this week. Monday was the first day for the payment of the October water and the receipts for that day and Tuesday were fully as heavy as during the first two paydays of any other month in the year. The department is receiving a large amount of currency in the payment of bills and quite a number of checks. The checks are being taken as readily by the department as the currency.

ON THE IRON RANGES

THEY BROKE ABOUT EVEN

Although Independents Captured the Head of Virginia Ticket.

Carey Elected Municipal Judge by Bare Three Votes.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 6. — (Special to The Herald.)—The ballot battle in the city election was fought out yesterday and resulted in exactly an even break for the contending forces, although the Independents elected the head of their ticket, which was considered the capital prize in the struggle.

Andrew Hawkinson was elected mayor by a majority of 46 over W. H. Eaton, the present mayor, who appeared on the ticket as the Republican nominee. Mayor Eaton lost his own ward, the First, by two votes and the only ward he carried was the Second by one vote. He lost the First and Fourth, where most of the home owners reside, the Third by 26 and the Fourth by 19. Andrew Hawkinson's total vote was 468 and Mayor Eaton's, 420.

For city treasurer W. B. Pratt, the Republican candidate, received 559 votes to 277 for John Costin, Jr., the Independent nominee, the majority for Pratt being 282.

The only real surprise of the election was the defeat of Charles E. Nelson for municipal judge by James E. Carey by a majority of three votes. Mr. Carey was the Republican nominee and received 434 votes to 431 for Judge Nelson, who has held the position of municipal judge ever since the court was established.

For special judge J. H. Fleming, the Independent nominee, won over John Peterson, the Republican candidate, by a majority of 67.

James Trezona, Republican, and A. C. Osborne, Independent, were the successful candidates for aldermen-at-large. The vote was as follows: James Trezona, 395; A. C .Osborne, 367; Joseph Backus, 340; P. Coffey, 339.

The vote in detail follows:

WARDS.

For Mayor—	1	2	3	4	Tl.
W. H. Eaton, Rep..	74	95	143	108	420
A. Hawkinson, Ind.	76	94	169	127	466

Trezona and Osborne elected.

FOR ALDERMEN.

First ward—M. Boylan (Rep.), 74; John Owens (Ind.), 45; D. W. Freeman (Ind.), 20. Boylan's plurality, 29.

Second ward—Matt Prijanovich (Rep.), 81; Conrad Mattson (Ind.), 92. Mattson's majority, 11.

Third ward—James Laviollette (Rep.), 143; James Sullivan (Ind.), 63; J. H. Polgase (Ind.), 89. Laviollette's plurality, 54.

Fourth ward—E. J. Elnum (Rep.), 77; Edward Johnson (Ind.), 123. Johnson's majority, 46.

One of the amusing features of the election was a circular issued by Dudley W. Freeman to the voters of the First ward on Monday, asking them to write his name in the ballot. His circular claimed that John L. Owens, the Independent candidate for alderman, whose name was substituted for that of M. T. Savage on the last day for filing, was not in sympathy with the independent movement. His circular also stated that if he was elected alderman, and it was proposed to continue the use of slot machines, he would endeavor to have a printed card attached to each machine, stating exactly the percentage against the player, also that he would advocate the appointment of a city slot machine inspector, whose duty it would be to see that the percentage mechanism was not tampered with by the local syndicate of slot machine owners. Twenty voters accommodated him by writing his name in on their ballots. Michael Boylan, the Republican nominee, was the winner, receiving 74 votes to 45 for John Owens. The latter did no work as the nomination was thrust upon him much against his desire. He did not want the office, because his business takes him out of the city so much of the time.

In the Second ward Matt Prijanovich, the Republican nominee and present alderman, was defeated by Conrad Mattson, Independent nominee and former alderman, by a majority of 11 votes.

In the Third ward the nominee on the Independent ticket was withdrawn, but there were two other Independent condidates, which split the vote and gave the victory to James Laviollette, the Republican nominee, by a plurality of 54. The vote was: James Laviollette, 143; James Sullivan, 63; James Polglase, 89.

In the Fourth ward, Edward C. A. Johnson, the Independent candidate, and present alderman, won over E. J. Elnum, the Republican nominee, by 46 majority. Johnson received 123 votes and Elnum, 77.

A large number of men who were not registered voted at the election by swearing in their votes. Most of them were bona-fide citizens. Many of the idle lumberjacks who are in town, and who had established a residence here were allowed to vote, but the Eaton workers tried to have many vote who were not entitled to and who had never lived in Virginia. The judges, however, were very careful and in most instances these would-be voters were refused ballots.

Andrew Hawkinson, the successful candidate for mayor, takes his victory very coolly as he has the entire compaign. He has felt confident from the beginning that he would be elected as were a majority of his supporters, who expect that during his incumbency he will give the city a liberal progressive and clean administration.

MAXWELL WINS BY LARGE VOTE

Elected Mayor of Eveleth by One Hundred Eighty-Six.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday's election was one of the most interesting and altogether the most exciting in the history of the city, and resulted in the election of the following officers for the next two years:

Mayor—Nehemiah Maxwell.
Treasurer—W. J. Davey.
Municipal Judge—Vivian Prince.
Aldermen-at-large — Matt J. Doyle, Timothy Shea.
Aldermen—First ward, E. H. Hatch; Second ward, Johnson; Third ward, Elisha Andrews.

The vote was the largest cast in the history of the city, and the election was marked by the best of conduct from the begining to end.

The vote by wards in detail was as follows:

MAYOR.

	1st.	2nd.	3rd	Total.
Maxwell	40	126	136	372
Mulligan	42	60	84	186
Johnson	14	15	15	55
Maxwell's plurality, 186.

CITY TREASURER.

	1st.	2nd.	3rd	Total.
Davey	120	142	194	466

MUNICIPAL JUDGE.

	1st.	2nd.	3rd	Total.
Prince	80	56	102	238
McGilvery	28	54	48	130
Skeel	43	58	59	160
Mattson	12	32	28	72
Prince's plurality, 78.

ALDERMEN-AT-LARGE.

	1st.	2nd.	3rd.	Total.
Sax	42	65	61	168
Shea	96	67	106	269
Doyle	100	89	98	287
Carlson	33	47	84	164
Peterson	11	68	45	124
Doyle and Shea elected.

The aldermanic vote was as follows:

First Ward—J. J. Thibaut, 55; E. H. Hatch, 106. Hatch's majority, 51.

Second ward—C. R. Johnson, 106; Tony Azzo, 70. Johnson's majority, 36.

Third ward—E. Andrews, 129; Joe Zini, 81. Andrews' majority, 48.

The election of Maxwell was expected in many quarters because of the administration that he was responsible for when president of the then village. Alderman Mulligan made a strong fight, but in every ward the friends of Maxwell were able to overthrow the defenses that Mulligan had counted on. The showing that Johnson made came as a surprise to his friends, who worked strenuously to elect their favorite.

The popularity and efficiency of W. J. Davey, made it hazardous for any one to venture to oppose him as city treasurer. His unanimous election is gratifying to all friends of good government.

In the Second ward City Clerk Skeel ran ahead of all the candidates for municipal judge by two votes, but the lead that Judge Prince got in the first and third wards brought him successfully over the line. The close contest for the judgeship brought out good timber and the result has been a campaign in which the man with the strongest backing won. Judge McGilvery made a strong bid for success in the second ward, where the voting was evenly divided between the four candidates.

Matt J. Dayle surprised his most optimistic supporters in making his phenomenal run for alderman-at-large. His fondest friends did not think that he would beat out Tim Shea in securing votes. He polled the Irish and Scandinavian vote to a surprising extent. When seen last night Alderman Sax, said: "I am satisfied with all I have done to become re-elected. The odds were against me. The better man won." Frank Carlson's popularity failed to bring him within the charmed circle of favored ones. A. N. Peterson was expected to make a better showing than he did.

In the respective wards, the defeated candidates found it hard to believe that they were snowed under. Elisha Andrews won out in the Third ward against Joseph Zini, a wealthy property owner. Mr. Andrews is strong with the labor element as he is employed as a driver for Superintendent Hearding, of the Spruce-Adams mine.

In the Second ward, Tony Azzo was outvoted by C. R. Johnson and in the First ward Ed Hatch, the popular bookkeeper at the Spruce-Adams office was victorious over Alderman Thibaut.

The streets were filled last night with jubilant friends of the candidates who celebrated in a truly Halloween manner. Though the saloons only opened at 8 p. m. the business until closing time was equal to an ordinary day's business.

A prominent citizen stated the situation succintly when he said: "Well, we have a good council and we know what the mayor has accomplished. That is a guarantee for the future."

NO DEVELOPMENTS

In Effort to Trace Authors of Coleraine Crime.

Coleraine, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are no known developments in the efforts being made to run to cover the villians responsible for the dastardly crime of last Saturday, when three Italians were blown up and killed while sleeping in their cabin near the Canisteo mine and four others were injured. The authorities of Itasca county and the steel corporation detectives have not relaxed their vigilance and still hope to successfully probe the outrage.

TRANSFER CLENDENING.

Superintendent of Vermilion Lake Indian School Goes South.

Tower, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—On account of the health of his wife, who desires to spend the winters in a warmer climate, Superintendent J. J. Clendenning of the Vermillon Lake Indian school, who has made an enviable record in that position, has been ordered transferred to the Indian school at Santa Fe, N. M., and will be succeeded by Dr. Thomas F. Rodwell of the Cass Lake Indian school. The transfer will be made soon.

TWO VICTIMS BURIED.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of the victims of the Coleraine dynamiting, Mike Paubello, August Paubello and Joseph Dellegren, was held yesterday from Gleason's undertaking parlors. The Italian friends of the victims followed their martyred friends to the Virginia cemetery. The funeral was led by Scott's Fayal band.

The funeral moved about the main streets twice before starting for Virginia. Because the mines were closed, the funeral was largely attended.

EVELETH BRIEFS.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Hannah Peterson is substituting for Miss Jennie Brende, who is undergoing an operation. Miss Brende expects to return to her place with the Johnson Supply company shortly.

Mrs. E. J. Carroll of Gilbert, recently visited her sister, Mrs. N. B. Arnold.

Jack Owens, formerly employed at the Fayal, has decided to move to Hibbing.

Martin Finucan returned to town to visit his parents. Mr. Finucan has been acting as fireman at one of the Hibbing mines.

Alex McWhorter of McKinley, has been visiting friends in town before going to his home in Iron Mountain, Mich., for the winter.

Thomas Lee left last week for Superior, Wis., where he will visit his mother.

Catarrh of the Stomach

A Most Dangerous Disease, Which Causes Serious Results, Unless Properly Treated.

Catarrh of the Stomach is very common and is known as one of the most obstinate diseases, which, when neglected or improperly treated with cheap patent medicines, tonics, drugs, pills, and other secret quack remedies results in a broken down constitution and often consumption and death.

Catarrh of the Stomach, like every other disease of the stomach, except cancer, is the result of poor digestion. The digestive organs have become weak, there is a lack of gastric juice, your food is only half digested, and as a result you become effected with loss of appetite, pressure and fulness after eating, heartburn, vomiting, waterbrash, tenderness at pit of stomach, slimy tongue, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, pain in limbs and face, sleeplessness, nausea, belching of gas, diarrhoea, sick headaches, dizziness, mental depression, nervous weakness, and many other common symptoms.

If your stomach cannot digest the food you eat, then the stomach needs a rest, as that is the only way you can get rid of your catarrh, but in the meantime your body needs plenty of nourishment, because you must live and in order to live you must eat, and if you must eat, your food must be properly digested, and if your stomach is too weak to do the work, then you must get a substitute that will do the work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the only known substitute that will digest your food as well as any healthy stomach. They contain vegetable and fruit essences, aseptic pepsin (gov. test), golden seal and diastase, the very elements necessary to digest all foods.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy and for that very reason thousands of physicians all over the United States recommend them to their patients for catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia of all kinds, and other stomach troubles. Experiments and tests have proven that one grain of the active principle contained in these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges and are sold in large fifty-cent boxes at all drug stores.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a free sample package. The relief you will get from this trial package alone will convince you of the merits of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Doctors Prescribe

Dr. Lorenzo Waite, a Prominent Physician of Pittsfield, Mass., who is a Graduate of Berkshire College, Says That He Has Used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a Tonic Stimulant with Satisfactory Results.

In years past I have used your Pure Malt Whiskey in my practice with very satisfactory results. Recently I had occasion to administer Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as per directions to an anaemic patient of mine, and I anticipate remarkably good results. With many thanks for your introducing a pure tonic stimulant for the benefit of the public and practitioners of medicine, I am, Lorenzo Waite, M. D., Aug. 20th, 1907.

The doctor's letter is one taken at random from thousands of similar ones received extolling the virtues of this great family medicine.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture its palatability and freedom from injurious substances renders it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic, builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces, it makes digestion perfect, and enables you to get from the food you eat the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold only in sealed bottles—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist" on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price, $1.00. Illustrated medical booklet and doctor's advice free. Duffy's Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

DOCTOR'S ALL AGREE THIS TIME.

The most eminent writers on Materia Medica, whose works are consulted as authorities and guides in prescribing by physicians of all the different schools of practice, extol, in the most positive terms, the curative virtues of each and every ingredient entering into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In fact it is the only medicine, put up for sale through druggists for the cure of all diseases of the mucous surfaces, as nasal catarrh, throat, laryngeal, and bronchial affections attended by lingering, or hang-on-coughs that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any amount of lay or non-professional testimonials.

Do not expect too much from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will not work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. Nor is the "Discovery" so good for a sudden attack of acute cough, but for the lingering, obstinate, hang-on-coughs, accompanying catarrhal, throat, laryngeal and bronchial affections, it is a most efficacious remedy. In cases accompained with wasting of flesh, night-sweats, weak stomach and poor digestion with faulty assimilation, and which, if neglected or badly treated are apt to lead to consumption, the "Discovery" has proven wonderfully successful in effecting cures.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by enclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value.

Some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for healing ulcerations, regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to endeavor to palm off upon you some nostrum of unknown composition in place of Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines which are of KNOWN COMPOSITION. Most dealers recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines because they know what they are made of and that the ingredients employed are among the most valuable that a medicine for like purposes can be made of. The same is true of leading physicians who do not hesitate to recommend these medicines, since they know exactly what they contain and that their ingredients are the very best known to medical science for the cure of the several diseases for which they are recommended.

With tricky dealers it is different.

Something else that pays them a little greater profit will be urged upon you as "just as good," or even better. You can hardly afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition and without any particular record of cures in place of Dr. Pierce's medicines which are of KNOWN COMPOSITION and have a record of forty years of cures behind them. You know what you want and it is the dealer's business to supply that want. Insist upon it.

THE ELECTIONS.

Yesterday's elections brought few surprises. With few exceptions they were quiet and uninteresting, and the faint din of battle carried its sound but a short distance.

As predicted by The Herald, Tom L. Johnson was re-elected mayor of Cleveland over Theodore E. Burton, the Republican candidate, and the most important feature of this result is that it carries a merited rebuke to a large scheme for making a city election merely a sideshow for state and national plans. Burton was pushed into the race by the friends of President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft. To gain Cleveland for the Republicans was to help Taft's presidential prospects, and Mr. Burton had before him the bait of future senatorial honors. Naturally the people of Cleveland resented this under-estimation of the importance of local affairs, and Tom Johnson and his 3-cent fare platform carried everything before them. Senator Foraker no doubt contributed to this result, and he is not by any means the most unhappy man in Ohio today. The result was gratifying to all who believe that good government and good public service are the chief ends of local politics.

Even more gratifying is the news that the good government forces in San Francisco, headed by Acting Mayor Taylor, the Democratic nominee, and District Attorney Langdon, the successful prosecutor of graft, have swept the field, and that San Francisco is thoroughly redeemed from the corrupt interests that have held her in their clutch so long.

In New York City, the unholy alliance between the Republicans and the Hearst Independence league was soundly trounced by the Tammany ticket, and in the state the Republican-Democratic candidates for judgeships defeated the Independence league candidates.

In Massachusetts the Republican governor, Guild, is elected by a large plurality over the divided Democratic forces, a result which was to be expected. In Rhode Island the Democratic governor, Higgins, has been re-elected by an increased plurality, but in New Jersey tremendous Democratic gains have left the result in doubt. It is estimated that the Republicans suffered a change of 50,000 votes in this state. In Maryland the Democratic candidate for governor was elected after a fierce fight, with slightly reduced pluralities.

Kentucky has elected a Republican governor, a somewhat surprising result. Prohibition was a factor here, but how it has come out is not so clear, since both candidates talked it. The Republicans have gained many seats in the legislature, but there is likely to be a small Democratic majority on joint ballot, which will elect Governor Beckham to the United States senate.

On the whole the results show Democratic gains, particularly in New Jersey and New York city, though the Republicans made gains in several states. Issues have been largely local, however, and but little of national significance is to be drawn from the reading of the returns. The nearest approach to it is in Cleveland, where the result cannot have a favorable result upon the chances of Secretary Taft as a presidential candidate.

THE REAL REASON FOR PANICS.

Now that the recent financial flurry is far enough in the past to be viewed complacently and calmly, and while people are theorizing about the cause of it in learned and abstruse language, it might be worth while to state that there is but one cause for that flurry and for all the flurries that this country has ever had.

And that cause is lack of conservatism and a too great possession of the American people by the spirit of gambling. Americans are not content to become rich by the old and slow methods; they want to do it in a minute, and naturally, in order to accomplish that glittering result, they take chances. When times are good they exploit and expand and leap without looking. They boom things to such great heights that they can't help falling. They pay too much attention to the superstructure and not enough to the foundation. The foundation of enduring prosperity is conservatism and thrift, and these qualities the American people conspicuously lack.

The people of France furnish a marked contrast in this respect. They are thrifty and conservative to the last degree. The result is that France always has enough money to finance all her enterprises, and she never has to go to foreign markets to raise funds. She could take care of all her enterprises, and as an intelligent observer has stated, she could handle all her national loans, and still have millions of money left to loan to other countries in their need.

Yet no country has passed through more disastrous, expensive and paralyzing wars. Besides, her people have made mistakes in investments, like all other people, and they have suffered tremendous losses from bad investments in Spanish, Egyptian and Russian securities.

There is not the slightest doubt that the reason France can stand these things and still have plenty of money is that her people are saving and conservative. Possibly they are too much so, but if so it is a good fault, and one that makes for business stability and security. A great financier, talking about France, said recently: "For more than a generation, thanks to wise and conservative laws affecting investments and to the honest opportunities offered by French bankers to money savers, financial orgies have been made impossible in that country. The get-rich-quick swindlers who plunder small investors in this country are outlaws in France. Rotten high finance belongs to the past. The crooked method of financing De Lesseps' Panama canal project twenty-five years ago was the last unscrupulous raid on French money-savers. Government and bankers have done all that foresight and conservatism can plan to protect savings and to encourage honest investments."

A fact that illustrates the preference of French investors for conservative investments that will yield honest returns rather than for gambling enterprises that may bring total loss or fortune is that bonds there are issued in denominations as low as $100, where in this country $500 is the minimum, and in most issues $1,000 is the smallest denomination.

The people save their money, and are encouraged by government and bankers to invest it safely where returns are small but certain. The result is that France is rich and secure against panics growing out of financial debauches such as this country indulges itself in regularly. Surely there is a lesson in this for the American people.

FRESH AIR.

A traveler's tale from Persia brings strong proof of the modern theory that the best weapon with which to fight consumption and other ills is fresh air and plenty of it.

It ought not to require any proof, so self-evident does it seem that fresh air and sunlight are enemies of disease and that foul air and filth are its friends. But even today, when consumption is being cured by fresh air, there are people who zealously guard their sleeping quarters against any invasion of "night air," and thus weaken their power of resistance to disease.

In Persia Western ways of living have lately come into vogue, and with them has come an alarming increase of pulmonary diseases that is baffling foreign physicians.

In the old days, the Persians lived in fresh air. The houses were built of adobe, and every family has its little house and court. The door and the roof were open at all seasons. Even in winter no attempt was made to close and heat rooms. An open fire, or a pan of hot ashes with a few red coals, was all that was used.

To visit a Persian in midwinter, when the snow was falling, was described as being much like taking a sleighride indoors. The doors and windows were wide open. Host and guest sat on cushions, a wool-filled comforter tucked around them, with their feet toward the foot warmer.

The coming of Western ways has brought comparative prosperity to many, and living conditions are changed. Armenians and Mohammedans are building houses like ours. They are heating them with wood stoves and lighting them with lamps. They are closed against the winter air, and the aim is luxury and comfort.

The result is that consumption is making terrible inroads. Its germs are thriving in the dark, warm and closed rooms of the up-to-date houses. The people of Persia, in the old days when stoves and lamps were unknown, were rugged, healthy and strong. Consumption was unknown. If a stray germ had wandered into a Persian home of the old kind, it would have shivered and died before the full sweep of clean fresh air that would have met it.

Now the Persians, thanks to their lessons from Western ways, keep open house for germs. Germs live and thrive and multiply, and as cleanliness is said to be none too conspicuous, dirt joins hand with foul, warm air to make it comfortable and home-like for the germs that are threatening the health of the Persians.

They learned from us how to close up their houses and to sacrifice health for the sake of comfort. We are just beginning to learn that our ways are wrong, and that if we value health we must open our doors and windows—even our roofs, if necessary—to the fresh, clean air of the outer world.

The Persians have learned a lesson from us that they will regret. We can learn a lesson from their experience, if we will, that will make us stronger and healthier and more vigorous. We can open our doors and windows to the fresh air and sunlight, whether it spoils carpets or not, for it is better to have a spoiled carpet than spoiled lungs.

A MILLION DIVORCES.

The census bureau, which has been investigating divorces in this country, announces that in the period from 1887 to 1906 a million divorces were granted, and that at the time the census was taken half a million more were on the dockets of the courts awaiting trial.

Two persons, of course, are concerned in each case. In many cases there are children. If there is an average of one child to each family—it would hardly be much more than that, because large families are seldom found where divorce splits the domestic peace—this means that the courts were asked to pass during this period upon the domestic affairs of more than 4,000,000 people.

This is a very uncomfortable showing, but it is by no means surprising. It has come to be recognized that the facility with which divorces may be obtained in this country, and the freedom with which people who are dissatisfied with their domestic relations seek them, constitute a national shame and a national disgrace.

Yet there is another side to the picture.

Nobody has made a census yet of the millions of happily married people in this country, and probably nobody will attempt such a census. There are millions who are happy, and millions of others who, though they have not found in matrimony all the bliss and contentment that they had expected, are bravely making the best of it without trailing their affairs through the ignominy of the divorce court, where sacred family relations, zealously guarded from public view by most people, are dragged out for public amusement and scorn.

Divorce, when abused, is a real and corroding evil. A nation in which the duties and responsibilities of marriage rest lightly is a nation that is in a bad way. Yet divorce is a real necessity, too, when properly safeguarded and restricted.

The chief fault with the divorce laws of this country is their lack of uniformity. They range all the way from those of a state where no divorce is permitted for any reason, to those of a state where the flimsy ground of "incompatability of temperament" is recognized as a legal ground for divorce. These laws should be uniform, but we do not want to follow the example of South Carolina, which allows no divorce at all, or that of Connecticut, which grants a divorce for "any such misconduct as permanently destroys the happiness of the petitioner."

And while reform is at work upon the divorce laws it should see to it that the marriage laws are not too lax. A very large percentage of the divorce cases grow out of hasty marriages, contracted on the spur of the moment and performed before the parties have time to think it over. The number of divorces could be enormously curtailed if there were some way of compelling young people to stop and think before they plunged heedlessly into a relation that should be permanent and sacred.

Election is over, and the country still lives.

Kentucky with a Republican governor! What does "Marse Henry" think of that?

The party rank and file is not likely to take kindly to star chamber methods of selecting mayoralty candidates.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Some men, in a moment of absent-mindedness, will forget things that are most pertinent to the object upon which they set out," said Truman B. Molander at the Lenox yesterday afternoon. "Absent-mindedness is a weakness that besets people at the most inopportune times. Philosophers and poets are not the only people affected by the strange lapse of the reasoning powers.

"Last week I was surveying up in the northern part of Wisconsin. The territory through which we were making the survey was of a swampy nature. Small lakes and marshes dotted the dry land. Looking through the transit of my instrument about 10 o'clock one morning, I discovered a man floundering helplessly in the treacherous mire of one of the larger swamps. Yelling to some of the men to come to his assistance, we started for the swamp on the dead run. One of the men carried a chain. 'Drop that and run, you idiot,' I yelled in the excitement of the moment. When we reached the swamp, which was fully half a mile from the place where I had stood when I discovered the man's plight, I discovered what an unmitigated ass I was to leave that surveyor's chain behind.

"The fellow was about twenty feet from firm land, up to his armpits in the quagmire, and slowly sinking. There we were, helpless to render aid unless we had something to throw to him, so that we could pull him from his perilous position. Speed was the only thing I thought of when I yelled to drop the chain, yet reason should have told me that the chain was the one important object in the rescuing of the fellow who was beyond our immediate reach.

"The result was that I had to send one of the men back the half-mile for the chain. Before the mile, the distance to the transit and return, was traversed, the man whose life my absent-mindedness had further endangered was almost out of sight. Finally we succeeded in throwing him one end of the chain and pulled him out of the mire. When any one tells me they are absent-minded, and starts to tell me of some of the foolish deeds this ailment has led to, I think of the time an insane desire for all possible speed in reaching a drowning man lead to the casting aside of the one effective means of accomplishing his speedy rescue."

A traveling man, who is stopping at the St. Louis, received a draft of $150 from his house yesterday morning. He immediately went to a bank to realize on it, apparently unmindful of the fact that the banks are extremely kind to money just at this time, hating, in fact, to see it out of their company. He presented the draft, received $25 in currency and a check of deposit for the balance. He has wired the house to send his future expense money in drafts of $5 and $10 denomination.

Some of the latest styles in plaid overcoats are rather gaudy, to say the least. Travelers to Duluth are exhibiting some dreams of the tailor's wild imagination that would lead one to think that the creator of the coat of many colors is a victim of some optical delusion caused by an over-indulgence, or that he was totally oblivious to the glaring incongruities of colors.

A man encased in the confines of one of the plaid effects registered at the Spalding yesterday. Traveling men in the lobby, enured to noise and continual jar, as they are, placed their hands over their ears as the wearer of the noisy outer garment passed up to the desk.

Later the man descended from his room without his overcoat. Presently he decided that he would take a walk. He would be accompanied by his coat. A bell boy was dispatched to bring the noisy article down from his room.

The bell boy returned to the desk, after a space that to the waiting traveler seemed interminable.

"Say," he piped in shrill tones to the clerk, "I can't find any coat up dere. De only thing I ken see is a bath robe laying across the bed."

THE WEATHER.

Another glorious day. It was cloudy last night, and felt like snow, but no snow came, and this morning the clouds vanished and the sky was clear and splendid. The weather man, however, expects it to be cloudy tonight and tomorrow, with possibly light rains. The winds are due to shift to the east, which means the northeast in all probability. Last night's lowest temperature was 30 degs., and tonight's lowest is expected to be a little over 32 degs. Yesterday's highest was 39 degs.

A year ago today it was cloudy, windy and cool, and in the evening a fine, driving rain drove the crowds from the streets where they were awaiting the election returns.

The sun rose this morning at 6:55 and sets tonight at 4:45, making 9 hours and 47 minutes of sun light.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Slight barometric disturbances overlie Alberta and Pennsylvania, causing light rains in Alberta and in most districts east of the Mississippi, and higher temperatures in New England states and Rocky mountain districts. The barometer is high over Texas. Rising pressures over the upper Mississippi and Red River valleys are attended by cooler weather there. Conditions favor threatening weather tonight and Thursday with probably light rains in this section late tonight and Thursday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

LAUGHING GAS.

Baltimore American: Fair Telephone Girl—Get off my wire, young man, it's busy and your connection's ended.

Rejected Suitor—But, my dear girl, why do you break our engagement so abruptly without—

F. T. G. (curtly extending her hand)—Ring off!

Houston Post: "He and his wife come nearer being one than any couple I know of."

"When he catches cold she sneezes, eh?"

"No, but when she bought an expensive set of furs yesterday it made him hot."

Philadelphia Ledger: "Miss Prunella," said the boarder, "I understand that your rates are to be advanced. Let me beg of you not to be hasty."

"But the advance is necessary," replied the landlady.

"Ah, but think how hard it is for you to collect the present rate from me."

Nan—Look at the youthful airs she puts on! She's fifteen years older than I am, if she's a day.

Fan—And you wouldn't tear under the wing yourself, would you, dear?

Philadelphia Ledger: "Aw, g'wan. You toot your own horn too much."

"You must be mistaken," replied the man with auto goggles. "It was only this morning the judge soaked me $10 for not tooting it enough."

Puck: "How's your temperature, old man?" asked the stock broker's partner.

"Fine and active speculative," answered the invalid. "It went to 104 five times yesterday, each time dropping back to par."

Philadelphia Press: Social Perceptor—In order to succeed in society, my dear Mr. Comeup, and to get the fashionable world to come to your dinners, you must have plenty of savoir faire—

Social Parvenu—Well, goodness, I got money enough to pay for all I want. Just order it for me in bulk.

Judge: Evelyn—Some of our proverbs are so ridiculous. For instance, "Where ignorance is bliss—"

Ethel—What's the matter now?

Evelyn—Why, you know, Fred gave me my engagement ring last week, and I simply can't find out how much it cost him.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "How is Miss Brown, the new paragraph editor, doing?"

"Very nicely. She has written three paragraphs, each a half-column long."

Lesson of the Panic.

Philadelphia Ledger: After a recovery from certain diseases the human constitution becomes more vigorous and robust than it was before the illness. It will be much the same with the American body politic when it emerges from the period of convalescence following the financial fever of the last few days. Much will be gained after recovery from the malady whose fluctuations have been recorded by the stock ticker, if the shoemaker will stick to his last more intently and the managers of the more pretentious enterprises, corporate or otherwise, will give exclusive and faithful attention to the practical duties of their positions. The strong industrial, railway, insurance and other corporate enterprises were founded by men who devoted themselves to the business their institutions were chartered to promote. If there be no departure from this safe and sound policy these enterprises are likely to stand like a rock against the storms that disturb the financial world. Public confidence has been shaken by the excessive exploitation not of the proper business of certain corporations, but of their stocks and securities to advance the personal schemes of high officials. "Gentlemen's agreements" for doubtful, perhaps sinister purposes, securing possession of a chain of banks to further the ends of purely speculative pools and combinations, are among the abuses of "high finance" revealed during the depression from which we are recovering. The real property of the country is intact.

Social Note.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: The persistent misrepresentation of all that W. J. Bryan says and writes by the capitalistic press of the country is one of the most cheering signs of the strong hold Mr. Bryan has on the people. The great newspapers, owned by corporation magnates, do not shoot into the air. They air their missiles at their most dangerous antagonists. If Bryan were "dead politically," as some of them are so fond of saying, they would waste no space on him.

The prices of some receive a substantial cut. The cost of living has been steadily increasing for several years and the man of small or only moderate means will be pleased to learn that the limit seems to have been reached and that there is a fair prospect of an early decrease that will make it somewhat easier for him to live within his income.

Brookston Herald: Admiration alone will not run a newspaper. Sooner or later such admirers will find that the object of their affections has become wedded to other ways that they do not admire—in other words, a newspaper is compelled, in order to live, to seek the friendship of those who are not so platonic in their love, but unite their practical esteem with sentiment that binds mutual admiration in other professions. There are too many men who expect a newspaper to slave in defense of their pet notions and hobbies, advocate their views against the strongest opposition, and coolly withhold the business support by which alone any business can live.

Ballad of the Eternal Schemer.

A type that will never become extinct
Is found in all places, far or near;
Lapel and finger are always linked—
And when one dies another is here!
What if the pessimistic jeer?
Never is he to be denied;
Always that voice is in your ear—
The man with a scheme is at your side.

You flee in vain to some quiet vale
And think at last you have found sweet peace;
But your name is called and you soon turn pale,
And you know you have failed to secure release;
Soft as elderdown, smooth as grease,
That voice goes on and your fond hopes slide;
Never on earth will you know surcease—
The man with a scheme is at your side.

In the city's whirl, 'mid the dust and roar,
You seek escape in the human throng,
But again those hated accents soar,
And you hear the lilt of a well known song;
"It's a ground floor chance—it can't last long—
There's millions in it—go with the tide!"
In Paris, Seattle or far Hongkong,
The man with a scheme is at your side!

GIVE THEIR CANDIDATE PLATFORM TO STAND ON

Republican Delegates Provide Haven With a Party Policy.

Three-Cornered Fight for the Mayoralty is Now On.

THE PLATFORM.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this committee that the man recommended by it for filing and nomination as the candidate of the Republican party for mayor of the city of Duluth at the coming election shall stand:

1. For the strict and impartial enforcement of all state laws and city ordinances regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors within the city limits.
2. For equitable taxation.
3. For the safeguarding of the city's interests in all franchises that may be granted by the city.
4. For conservative action in the administration of the city's affairs, having in view, however, the prospective growth and upbuilding of the city and its manufacturing, commercial and jobbing interests.
5. For the fair and impartial administration of all departments of the city government.
6. For the principles of municipal ownership of public utilities.

The above resolutions were passed at the Republican caucus yesterday afternoon and are intended to express the sentiment of the party upon public questions and policies.

The special committee which drafted the resolution was composed of J. A. Hanks, D. E. Stevens, Alex Kennedy, W. E. Richardson and Assistant County Attorney Stevenson.

The resolutions were not adopted without considerable argument, many prominent Republicans being of the opinion that the occasion did not demand them and that the meeting was not for any other purpose than that of selecting a standard bearer.

The news of Alderman Haven's selection as the party candidate, contained in The Herald's "extra" last evening, spread rapidly and he was the recipient of many congratulations. He stated that the selection was a great honor and was appreciated as such. If elected, he says he will endeavor to give Duluth a clean, intelligent administration, void of little prejudices or "gallery plays."

That Secret Session.

The star chamber session of the delegates yesterday was a surprise to many prominent Republicans who had gathered with their friends to hear what the delegates had to offer and encourage the sentiment that a Republican victory is probable at the next election.

The chairman announced that the executive session was to last but a few moments and members of the press were asked to retire together with all others not delegates.

A number of interested Republicans remained in the hallway and corridors, but many left the building in disgust and there was a sentiment of resentment manifest in the expressions of many party leaders who were obliged to stand outside the portals and guess at what was being transacted.

The entire proceedings of the caucus were conducted behind closed doors until the last ballot was taken, when the crowd in the corridors refused to be denied and imperative knocks on the door were followed by a rush against the same and the star chamber session was broken up. The crowd surged into the room and listened to the closing speeches with much interest.

Mayor Makes Capital of It.

Mayor Cullum was in his office and about the corridors during the caucus and did not fail to take advantage of the opportunity of inviting some of the disgruntled Republicans ejected from the hall into his office where cigars were passed around and a plenty of political repartee indulged in.

Mayor Cullum expressed himself as satisfied with the Republican selection as an opponent. "It means a clean campaign and that's what I want. Yes, I am going to make the run and will give my reasons more fully later on. I am tired of being accused of awaiting the action of the Republicans in order to see how strong a man they would put up before I entered the race. That is untrue, I made up my mind to run and was not at all influenced by the talk of this or that candidate."

Alderman Tessman, president of the council, and a recognized strong party leader, will undoubtedly oppose Mayor Cullum at the primaries and those who are posted are of the opinion that the present chief executive has a fight on his hands. President Tessman is popular, an aggressive campaigner and his friends have been persistent in urging him to run. Ever since the probabilities of his becomig a candidate were announced in The Herald some time ago, he has been urged to make the run and promised strong support.

Mayor Cullum is expected to give as his reasons for again asking public endorsement of his administration, his desire to see certain projects for the benefit of Duluth carried out, among them highways to the West ond and other improvements. The "good roads" movement adopted by the mayor during the past month looks like political thunder and is not taken seriously at this time, in consideration of the city's financial condition.

It simply "listens well" in politics.

Tessman Will File.

From now on the campaign will be active. Alderman Tessman is expected to file this week and political fences will be erected, lines laid out and preparations made for an active campaign. Mayor Cullum is somewhat nettled over the adverse criticism he has been subjected to from men prominent in the council and from other sources, and it is stated will make a hard fight to recover lost ground. Alderman Haven states that he is in the race to win and will conduct an active campaign. President Tessman will be heard from and those who are posted are even now touting him as a winner.

A GROWING SCARCITY

Operations of Minnesota Trappers Are Becoming More Limited.

Still Many in Business—Fur Commands a High Price.

It is believed the fur harvest in Minnesota this fall and winter will be smaller than for many years past, owing to a growing scarcity of fur-bearing animals in the forests of the northern half of the state; but high prices obtainable will in a measure make up for the scarcity, so far as the trappers themselves are concerned. Pelts of all kinds will command a good figure this season.

Northern Minnesota has always been a great fur-producing center, and Duluth, from the early days, has been a base of supplies for the trappers, although the number of men employed in this class of work, as compared with the number in other vocations, has been so small that the general public has heard little regarding the business. Operations of searchers after furs have nevertheless been very extensive in the district north, northeast and northwest of the city, and thousands of dollars' worth of skins have been sent East annually from this district.

As the wilder regions become settled up, fur-bearing animals become more scarce, and the good trapping districts in Minnesota are becoming few and far between. It will not be many years before animals of the kind desired have entirely disappeared, for the more ordinary varieties, such as mink and muskrat and skunk, are often to be found near cities; but at the present rate it will not be a great while before profitable trapping, as a business, will be a thing of the past. It will not be good enough to warrant a man putting his whole time to it.

Most of the trappers who will operate in Northern Minnesota this fall and winter are already on the ground. Furs will be prime this month. The men figure on getting to the scene of operations early, in order to map out their winter's work before cold weather actually sets in, and being all ready at the opening of the season, they will lose no time. Indians are extensively engaged in the business, but there are also numerous white men who spend the entire winter in the woods trapping in this state.

High prices for nearly all kinds of fur are quoted for the opening of the season. Skunk, quite common in the Duluth district, is one exception to the high prices. The raw fur, while not much used in the United States, is common in the European markets, and as the condition of trade there is very quiet, the season will no doubt close with quite a quantity left over. Mink and marten are important factors in the calculations of Minnesota trappers. Mink starts out high in price, from $9 down, according to size and quality. Marten are quoted as high as $20, and otter, also largely trapped in this state, commands $22 for the best pelts. Lynx are in good demand, but fox pelts are not in very active demand. Muskrats bring about 35 cents, which is unusually high. The catch of marten last season was the smallest for many years, and consequently the demand will be good all this season, wl thhigh prices.

Thus early in the season values are somewhat uncertain. Here are some of the present quotations: Gray fox, $1; otter, $22; marten, $20; mink, $9, black bear, $10; red fox, $5 ;skunk, $1; beaver, $8; wolf, $3.50; white weasels, 50 cents; fisher, $10; silver fox, $5; cross fox, $10; lynx, $8. The principal catch of the Minnesota trapper consists of the above animals. Silver gray foxes, of course, are very rare. The prices quoted are the highest paid for the best quality of pelts, and are above the average price that can be obtained.

NO CONCESSION

Of Congo Crown Lands Granted, Says Belgian Government.

New York, Nov. 6.—It was recently stated that King Leopold had deprived Belgium of a large part of the Congo Free State by transferring the crown lands to a private company. The report is untrue. The facts are that a small trading company was recently formed for the purpose of trading near Lake Leopold II, but this company has received no concession in the crown lands and no concession will be granted it during the pending negotiations for the annexation of the Congo. In any case no concession is ever granted unless due compensation is given in return to the state or to the crown lands fund.

The Journal de Boutelbs says that in consequence of the stories circulated regarding this company, the Belgian parliamentary committee on Congo affairs recently decided to question the Belgian cabinet and especially to ask in what way this would affect Belgium. The government has just given the committee a full and complete answer. It is as follows:

"The decree of July 20, 1907, was drawn up upon bases of which the Belgian government was informed. The act is legal. It does not affect Belgium's recognized right of annexation nor her eventful rights of sovereignty. No cession or concession has been made to this new company, and none will be granted to it pending the negotiations now going on. Moreover the new company has not obtained any exclusive privilege."

WOMAN RUNS OVER CHILD

Driving Auto at Racing Speed, She Seriously Injures Boy.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Acting as her own chauffeur and speeding her machine in a race with another, it is said, Mrs. Claude B. Davis, wife of a North side dealer, ran down nd dngerously injured a boy at Devon and Evanston avenues, Sunday evening.

While the lad lay unconscious in the street and, onlookers were rushing from both curbs to aid him, the feminle autoist made no pause to learn the extent of the damage done. Putting on even more speed she drove her machine along Devon avenue, but not before several bystanders had observed the number. A chauffeur was in the machine, but the woman was doing the driving.

The boy victim of the accident is George Cavnei, 7 years old. He had been standing on the curb and had just started to cross Devon avenue. An automobile was standing at the corner, making the open roadway narrow. Suddenly, around the corner swept the Davis auto and the car it was trying to outrun. Together they sought to traverse the street between the stationary vehicle and the opposite curb. Surrounded on all sides by autos, the boy had no escape and was knocked to the street.

Cavney was rolled along the pavement and when picked up was unconscious. Dr. A. G. Garvey was summoned. He found Cavney's right side crushed and his left eye lacerated. He was believed also to have been injured internally.

From the number of the auto the police traced it to Mrs. Davis.

At the station Mrs. Davis said: "I was going slowly when the boy stepped from behind another machine, directly in front of us. I threw on the brakes and the boy was struck by the side of the car. I did not think he was seriously hurt, and we continued on our way."

Mr. and Mrs. Davis live at the Pattington apartment building. When Mrs. Davis was sought there at 11:30 in the evening her husband answered through the speaking tube.

"My wife is not at home. I know nothing of the circumstances."

clerk. The city council will stand 25 Democrats to 7 Republicans.

Cincinnati, Nov. 6.—By a decisive plurality and possibly by a clear majority over all four competitors, Col. Leopold Markbriet, the veteran German editor and former United States minister to Bolivia, was yesterday elected mayor of Cincinnati on the Republican ticket, and according to the early returns, had probably carried with him the entire Republican ticket.

The campaign had been a vigorous one, but the fact that Mayor Dempsey, who was elected two years ago by a Democratic support, was this year the candidate of the Democrats and was opposed by many former supporters gave the Republican additional support in their claims that the Dempsey administration had been a failure.

candidate for district attorney, are apparently elected.

No great issue was at stake in any of the local elections, and interest was at a low ebb.

In the state election, Edward T. Bartlett and Willard Bartlett, having the united support of Republicans and Democrats, were elected judges of the court of appeals by an enormous majority over the candidates of the Independence League.

The Republicans lost a few members of the assembly, probably six. Sherman Moreland, majority leader of the assembly, is believed to have defeated Col. David C. Robison in Chemung county. Henry Seacord, 79 years old, who helped to organize the Republican party in Orange county, was elected to the assembly in the first district of that county.

The Republicans were victorious in the cities of Buffalo, Albany, Rochester, Syracuse, Oswego and Utica, the Republicans electing a mayor in the latter for the first time in fourteen years. To offset this the Democrats carried Newburgh for the first time in seventeen years. Elmira, Rome and Binghamton also elected Democratic mayors.

as compiled today indicate that the plurality may not go above 10,000 or 12,000. The following table shows the approximate pluralities by counties:

The legislature will be Republican in both houses. The new senate will show a gain of one Democrat, Shinn, Republican, of Ocean county, having been defeated for re-election by William J. Harrison, Democrat. The senate will stand, Republicans, 14; Democrats, 7.

The lower house will be strongly Republican, the Republicans having gained eleven members in Essex and five in Passaic. They lost three in Monmouth county. The house will stand:

Republicans, 42; Democrats, 18. The present house stands, Democrats, 31; Republicans, 29.

Katzenbach's strength in the voting was a genuine surprise. He made gains in practically all of the Democratic strongholds, carried the normally Republican county of Essex by 152, and reversed a Republican plurality of 1,200 in Monmouth county. Apparently there were Republican losses nearly everywhere.

How great the shift in vote in New Jersey is can only be realized by a comparison with the vote in recent years. President Roosevelt carried the state in 1904 by more than $2,000. Governor Stokes the same year defeated Mr. Black by 51,000. Now the state has made a change of upward of 50,000 votes.

The legislature, according to the returns, will be Republican.

Another feature of the elections in New Jersey is the defeat of Mayor Mark M. Fagan of Jersey City for re-election. His passing is of national interest because he has become known throughout the country for his antagonism to machine politicians. Fagan has thrice been mayor of Jersey City. his successful antagonist is H. Otto Wittpenn, a Democrat.

With one precinct missing Mercer county gives Katzenbach, Democrat, for governor, 836 plurality. The missing precinct will reduce the figures to 750. Dr. Walter Madden, Democrat, was elected mayor of Trenton by a plurality of 572. Col. Frederick Gillkyson, Republican, was defeated for re-election as tax receiver by Andrew J. Berren, Democrat, by 55 votes.

only possibilities apparent, and with these exceptions there will be a clean sweep for the entire Good Government ticket. The election passed off quietly, free from any riotous demonstrations and in spite of the tense strain voters were subjected to, there was not the slightest disorder at the polls. At a late hour last night the total vote cast was estimated at from 57,000 to 60,000.

The Victim of Drink

Needs Orrine Treatment

Drink first destroys ambition; breaks up ties of friendship; it kills and buries love and eventually destroys the family life.

Some of the best men in the world have been victims of drink and if there is not some member in your family that is afflicted with this disease, you are indeed fortunate.

Drink cunningly destroys the will power, and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink that he craves. Medical treatment is necessary to destroy the craving, and this Orrine will do.

It destroys a desire for liquor, so that the drink will not be missed, also cures the deranged digestion, weakened nerves and other ill effects of excessive drinking, restoring the patient to perfect health.

The remedy is absolutely harmless, is thoroughly scientific and is so uniformly successful that it is sold with a registered guarantee entitling you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure. Treatise on "How to Cure Drunkenness," free on request, in plain sealed wrapper. The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C.

Orrine is in two forms, No. 1 which can be given secretly without the patient's knowledge; No. 2 in pill form for those who wish to be cured. The price of either is $1, mailed on receipt of price in plain sealed package, and both are sold under the guarantee.

Orrine is for sale by F. W. Kugler & Co., 108 West Superior street, Duluth.

SHEATS CHOSEN AS TREASURER

In Pennsylvania, Defeating Harman by Large Plurality.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—John O. Sheats, of Philadelphia, Republican, was elected state treasurer over John G. Harman of Columbia county, Democrat, at yesterday's election in Pennsylvania, by a large plurality. This was the only state office voted for and a light vote was polled in nearly every county. Judicial contests in Luzerne, Northampton and Schuylkill brought out a large vote in those counties. There was little interest in the contest in other counties that elected judges.

Returns show large Republican gains for treasurer all over the state, as compared with the vote for this office two years ago.

For the first time since 1904, there was no fusion against the Republican state ticket. The Republican element, which voted for the Lincoln party at the last two elections, voted for Sheats, who has been in sympathy with this element. Sheats has secured three terms in the state house of representatives and voted against the organization on several measures advocated by its leaders.

Sheats and Harman served together in the last regular session in 1905, and the extra session of 1906. They are friends and avoided personalities in their canvass. Harman's supporter was William Drey, who was elected state treasurer on the fusion ticket two years ago and who uncovered the capitol scandal, which the Democratic party made its chief issue in its last two state campaigns.

NEBRASKA REPUBLICANS

Have Carried Their State by a Majority of About 20,000.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—Returns today indicate that the Republicans have carried the state by a majority of about 20,000. Rural precincts cast a heavy vote for Judge M. B. Reese, Republican candidate for the supreme judgeship. C. B. Anderson and George Coupland, candidates for state university regents, have been elected by about 15,000 plurality.

CROOKSTON RE-ELECTS

Mayor McPhee Over Henry Krogman and Votes Charter Amendments.

Crookston, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John D. McPhee was re-elected mayor of Crookston yesterday over the Socialist candidate, Henry Krogman, by a majority of 326 votes. The Socialists polled the biggest vote in the history of Crookston.

O. C. Christianson defeated Allan J. McKinnon for alderman-at-large by 83 votes. McKinnon is at present the oldest member of the city council in point of service.

In the First ward president of the council, P. Snyder was re-elected over A. K. Austin by 23, and in the Third, Morgan R. Hussey was elected over H. B. Moran by 5 votes; these being the only contests. All the other old aldermen and city officials clear down the line were re-elected.

All the twenty-seven charter amendments carried, which means that the hands of the city council will not be tied to go on with the municipal improvements begun five years ago, but which were held up the past year by the restrictions of the new charter.

The report shows an estimated total of $25,362.23 as having been expended on street grading, sewer extensions, improvements in the city hall, putting a wagon road east of the city and 10,276 (estimated) feet of cement walk.

RESTORATION OF GUILLOTINE

Demanded in France to Prevent Increasing Murders.

Paris, Nov. 6.—The increase of crime in France has aroused a popular demand for the restoration of the death penalty, which has been practically abolished by the systematic commutation of the sentences of criminals condemned to death. The government declares to formally abolish capital punishment and has been commuting death sentences to imprisonment at hard labor for life. During the present session of parliament it was the intention of the ministry to secure the adoption of a measure formally doing away with the executions of criminals, but recently juries throughout the country have recommended having recourse to the guillotine as being the only means of stopping the atrocious outrages which are of daily occurrence in Paris and in the provinces.

A popular vote taken by a local newspaper has resulted in 1,083,555 persons pronouncing in favor of restoring capital punishment, while 328,692 opposed it.

IMPROVE CAR SERVICE.

Universal Transfers In Chicago as Result of Traction Settlement.

Chicago, Nov. 5. — Through street car routes, with universal transfers, is the Christmas present promised Chicago. It is expected to come as the first approciable result—as the public looks at it—of the practical settlement of the union traction troubles effected in Judge Grosscup's court on Saturday.

It is stated, however, on the best of authority, that the union traction interests would not wait until Feb. 1, their last day of grace in which to put the railway company on its feet.

"There is no apparent reason now why the company cannot accept its ordinance by Dec. 1. It way be able to do it before then," was the statement given out.

DEAN HAS A NEW THEORY

Money Taken Home by Foreigners Partial Cause of Tightness.

Millions of Dollars Thus Disposed of Every Month.

Of the many theories advanced in explanation of the tightness in the money market, the one given by United States Inspector William H. Dean, is perhaps the most unusual, although it sounds quite reasonable. The fact that so much money has been taken out of the country by foreign labor during the last few years, and more particularly during the present year, he gives as one reason for the scarcity of cash.

While it is not by any means claimed that earnings taken and sent home by aliens is the only explanation of the scarcity. Everybody knows in a hazy sort of a way that foreigners send quite a lot of money to other countries, or hoard it up while on this side and then go to Europe to spend the remainder of their days, but few people have any adequate conception of the immense amount of cash that is disposed of in this manner. That which is carried back on the persons of returning aliens alone amounts to millions of dollars a month in the fall of the year, when the tide of travel of this class of people eastward across the Atlantic is generally the heaviest.

Press dispatches tell of the thousands of immigrants landed daily at New York, but little is said of the vast number that board the ocean-going vessels at the eastern metropolis, bound for the land of their birth. At this season, when very low rates are in effect, every outgoing boat has a full steerage, and the second cabin is also well patronized by returning aliens, who feel that their earnings entitle them to something better in the way of accommodations than they had when they came to America.

One boat recently, for example, left New York for a German port with 1,400 passengers in the steerage. They were going home. Every one had a certain amount of money he had saved in this country, which had been converted into gold and probably strapped around his waist for safety's sake. This is only one instance where scores might be cited. Of course, every one of the steerage passengers did not have a small fortune in cash, but the individual savings would probably run all the way from $50 to $2,000. It is a matter of record that many of these returning common laborers have as high as $2,000 and $3,000 each. Yesterday, for example, eight Austrians left Duluth for their old homes, and each one had between $800 and $1,000 in money belts around their waists. A dollar will buy more in the old country than it will on this side of the Atlantic, and members of the laboring class often feel that the savings of a few years in America will support them in comfort in Europe, properly invested in farming land, for the remainder of their days.

Some of the aliens only go home on a visit, intending to later return to America, but it is claimed this does not hold true in the majority of cases. Those who remain on this side are constantly sending money across the water to relatives who have been left behind.

LIKE THE HARTJE CASE.

Two Fortunes Involved In Divorce Action in Connecticut Lord Family.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 5.—A sensational divorce action, in which there are many parallels to the Hartje case, has been instituted in the supreme court of Fairfield county by Henry J. Lord, a wealthy resident of Trumbull, in which a negro coachman, Henry Cameron, is named. Mrs. Lord was Augustina Emanuel, a South Carolina beauty, who on their marriage brought a considerable fortune to the one already owned by her husband.

VETERANS' PENSIONS

Ninety Thousand Certificates Issued Under the McCumber Law.

Another Plea for Restoration of Army Canteen.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual report of the commissioner of pensions has recently been made public and contains a great deal of data of interest to the pensioner and the general public. It appears that under the so-called McCumber act, which is practically a service pension law, 90,000 certificates have been issued.

Under the general pension laws any soldier who served in the federal army in the Civil war, was honorably discharged, and is disabled by wounds received or disease contracted in the line of duty in such service, is pensionable regardless of the length of time he served. Under the act of 1890, any soldier who served in the federal army in the Civil war not less than ninety days, was honorably discharged and since his discharge, by accident or disease not due to his own vicious habits, has become in any degree unable to earn his support by manual labor, is entitled to a pension.

Under the act of February 6, 1907, the McCumber act, any soldier who served in the federal army in the Civil war ninety days, and was honorably discharged, is entitled to a pension at the rate of $12 per month after he has reached the age of 62 years, $15 a month after he has arrived at the age of 70, and $20 a month after he is 75 years old, on account of age alone.

It will be noted that under the general law a soldier is pensionable because of wounds or disease contracted in the service, regardless of the length of his service; that under the act of 1890, he is pensionable for disabilities not due to his own vicious habits, occuring after his discharge, on condition that he served ninety days in the Civil war and was honorably discharged, and that under the McCumber act he is pensionable as stated, if he served ninety days in the Civil war and was honorably discharged.

It is not necessary that the soldier served in the same organization the ninety days or that he had a continuous service of ninety days, but that the sum total of the services, if he had more than one enlistment, is ninety days, which satisfies the requirements of the law, but the service or services must have been in the Civil war.

Walter Scott Hale, commander-in-chief of the Spanish war veterans, declares that it is of vital importance that congress should restore the canteen to the regular army and to soldiers' homes. He has been in Washington during the week and gave this interview:

"The restoration of the army canteen is absolutely necessary if the government desires to maintain the regular army at anything like its maximum strength. I served as a soldier in the regular army and know by experience that the operation of the canteen was most helpful in maintaining discipline and contentment among the men. It was beneficent in that it made many of the men contented, and discouraged them from visiting low brothels and dives where vile compounds, termed liquor, were dispensed. In the interest of sanitation, morality and discipline I hope congress will follow the recommendations of practically all of the high officers of the army and former soldiers, and restore the canteen to military posts and soldiers' homes."

The peat bog furnishes the latest substitute for wood in the manufacture of paper. Paper making from peat on a commercial scale has already begun in Sweden, where a company, capitalized at more than a million dollars, has made extensive purchases of peat bogs and prepared plans for the erection of mills for turning out wrapping paper and pasteboard.

The money for the enterprise comes largely from London, but the process by which the vegetable fiber of the peat will be converted into paper is covered by an American patent. An account of the successful launching of the enterprise is given in a report of United States Consul R. S. S. Bergh of Gothenburg, Sweden.

This is not the first effort at paper making from peat. Some years ago a paper mill was operated by water power at Culbridge, Ireland. The patriotic people of the neighborhood put forth their best efforts to place the new commodity on the market, and it was enthusiastically announced that "making paper from the soil of old Ireland is an established industry." However, it remained for American test to satisfy capitalists that peat-made paper would command a price that would make its manufacture profitable. It is claimed that a ton of paper worth $30 can be made from peat at a total cost of $15, thus leaving a satisfactory margin of profit. It is further claimed that it takes only two hours to convert the peat into paper.

It should, however, not be expected that peat as a material for paper making can take the place of wood pulp for all purposes. If it helps to meet the demand for the coarser grades of paper, and thus relieves the pressure upon the timber supply, it will do a great deal for the forests of the United States. The quantity of peat in the world is enormous. It exists in all the countries of Northern Europe and has been used for fuel for centuries. Deposits of from ten to fifty feet deep and many miles in extent are not unusual. Siberia has thousands of square miles of peat, and much exists in the United States and Canada. It is a vegetable substance, deposited by slow accumulations during the thousands of years, the process being similar to that by which coal was formed.

Many good qualities have been claimed for paper made from peat. It is said that an article wrapped in it will not be attacked by moths, and for that reason it is assumed to be particularly fitted for boxes and bags for storing furs and woolen clothing. It is further claimed that a process of bleaching will give the paper a snow white color, and thus make it equal to the best pulp papers for printing purposes, but this claim does not appear to have been established by actual tests on a commercial scale. Wrapping papers, card boards, and paper boxes made from peat possess greater strength than similar articles made from straw.

CAT'S ASHES ARE BURDEN.

Executor Can't Dispose of Mrs. Glover's Last Legacy.

New York, Nov. 5.—Public Administrator Hoes has disposed of the entire legacy left by the late Mrs. Lula B. Glover, excepting the ashes of a cremated cat. He has failed to get rid of this interesting relic.

President Roosevelt, to whom Mrs. Glover, who committed suicide, left her estate, has firmly refused to add the funeral urn to his stock of curiosities. The urn, which contains the ashes of one of the many cats of which Mrs. Glover was fond, is too much like a white elephant to appeal to the president. He noted Mr. Hoes yesterday that he expected him as executor of the estate to find a resting place for the ashes. Mr. Hoes has found that there is no general demand for the ashes of kittens, so he is using it as a paper weight.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

WIFE BELIEVES HIM INNOCENT

Gordee Also Confident He Will be Cleared of Charges.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Unwilling to believe her husband, under arrest here, is guilty of plotting with Miss Etta M. McLean to steal government information relating to the John R. Walsh bank case, Mrs. Alexander B. Gordee of Revere, Mass., is ready to leave for the West to aid him.

She denied yesterday the statement that Gordee had eloped with Miss McLean. She insisted that he visited his home less than two months ago, and at that time suggested taking the family to Chicago.

His wife's determination to visit him has encouraged the prisoner to believe he will be released from the county jail soon. The fact that he had been living with Miss McLean following his departure from Boston with her, apparently did not enter into his calculations.

Gordee believes he will be cleared of the charge of conspiracy to steal records of important letters from the office of Mr. Sims.

Miss McLean, like Gordee, was in a cheerful humor. She learned from some mysterious source that she was to be released shortly, on her own recognizance.

Despite Gordee's assertion that he went to no one but Mr. Miller and Mr. Walsh, the secret service operatives have evidence that he interviewed three others with the same object of selling information.

Speaking of the time when Gordee was tried and acquitted on a perjury charge growing out of an unusual deal, Miss McLean said:

"On April 17, 1905, he was again indicted on nine counts, charged with defrauding Julius Rottenberg in an insurance deal, but was acquitted."

"So I went to Revere," the girl continued, "and called on Mrs. Gordee. It was not a pleasant experience, but I wanted to be certain they were married. I found her living in a fine residence and she had four children. She told me she would secure a divorce from Gordee and that I could marry him. No, I am not his affinity.

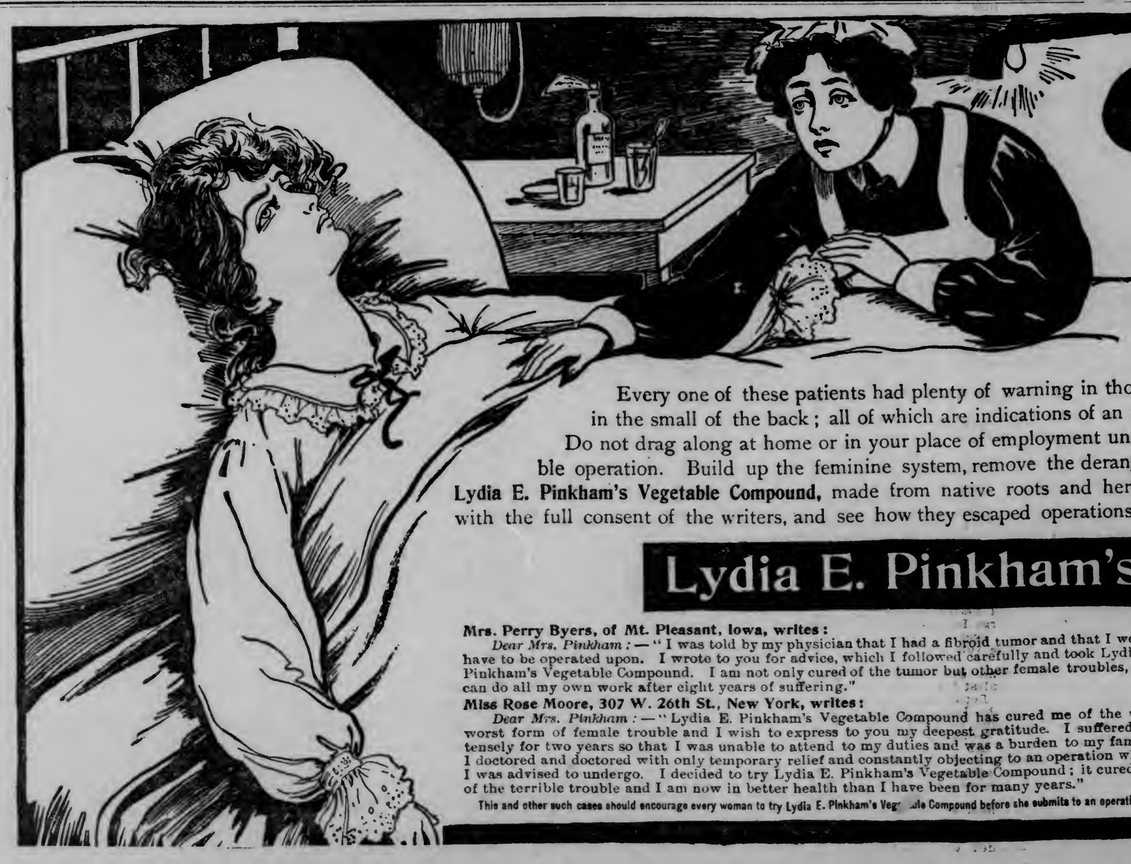
"There has been a good deal said about Mr. Gordee's high living. We never spent much money. Never more than $1.50 for our dinner in a cafe. That isn't extravagant, is it? And I don't suppose we have gone to the theater more than half a dozen times since we have been in Chicago.

"The secret service men say Gordee had no visible occupation. I know he did work along perfetly legitimate lines, but I don't care to say what that occupation was.

"If Mr. Gordee ever was employed to secure secrets through me relating to the Walsh case, he never told me of it. He wouldn't discuss his business with me, and resented questions about it. If he is all the detectives say about him he is a bad man, but I don't believe he ever sold any office secrets he secured through me."

PARISH SCHOOL BURNS.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—The Parish school and parish hall of the Roman Catholic church of St. Anthony of Padua in the southern section of the city was damaged by fire today to the extent of $75,000. The building was fitted up with a parish auditorium and class rooms, and in the basement were pool tables and a bowling alley for the use of the young men of the parish. The origin of the fire is unknown.



Operations Avoided

Hospitals in our great cities are sad places to visit.
Three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow white beds are women and girls.
Why should this be the case? Because they have neglected themselves.

Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in those dragging sensations, pain at the left or right of side, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back; all of which are indications of an unhealthy condition.

Do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an examination and possible operation. Build up the feminine system, remove the derangements which have signified themselves by danger signals, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has saved many women from the hospital. Read the letters here published with the full consent of the writers, and see how they escaped operations by a faithful reliance on Mrs. Pinkham's advice and consistent treatment with

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Perry Byers, of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, writes:
Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — "I was told by my physician that I had a fibroid tumor and that I would have to be operated upon. I wrote to you for advice, which I followed carefully and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am not only cured of the tumor but other female troubles, and can do all my own work after eight years of suffering."

Miss Rose Moore, 307 W. 26th St., New York, writes:
Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of the very worst form of female trouble and I wish to express to you my deepest gratitude. I suffered intensely for two years so that I was unable to attend to my duties and was a burden to my family. I doctored and doctored with only temporary relief and constantly objecting to an operation which I was advised to undergo. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it cured me of the terrible trouble and I am now in better health than I have been for many years."

This and other such cases should encourage every woman to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before she submits to an operation.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located, and helpful advice sent absolutely free.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND, made from Native Roots and Herbs, complies with all conditions of the new Pure Food and Drugs Law, and is so guaranteed.

UNCLE SAM IS GAINER

Recruits Are Much Easier to Secure Than Formerly.

Big Increase in Inquiries During the Last Few Days.

Uncle Sam's military department is profiting by the present money stringency. Since the closing down of various interests, that have resulted in the letting out of a number of men, and the gradual drop in the wage scale, increased inquiries have been received both at the local and range recruiting offices as to enlistment conditions.

It is a well known fact that the success of the war department in securing enlistments fluctuates with the times. In extremely busy times it is hard to secure recruits; when conditions are such that a temporary shift in the demand for employment or the high range of wages is decreased, the men are easier to secure.

An inquiry at the local United States recruiting office this morning brought out the fact that inquiries from men had increased about 50 per cent within the past two weeks. More recruits have been actually secured and the indications point to a still further increase in the enlistments. "When the wage scale is hovering around $3 a day," said one of the officers on charge of the local recruiting offie, "men will not consider the comparitively low wages offered by the government. They do not consider that this money is above living expenses. When private interests decrease wages, however, they invariably think of what the army has to offer. The past few days have thoroughly borne out this theory, both in Duluth and on the range, and we expect to secure many additional recruits because of the financial depression."

BAD MONEY SHOWING UP

Confederate Bills and Lead Dollars Are Being Passed.

Bogus money continues to put in its appearance at different places throughout the city and the police are on a vigorous search for the "shovers." The two cases of $20 Confederate notes having been passed yesterday, put people on their guard, and one of the rebel bills for $5 was detected today. Meta Moovitch, an Austrian, was arrested this afternoon at the Lenox grocery, 309 West Superior street, the proprietor claiming that he tried to pass a $5 Confederate bill. Moovitch owed a bill for about $1 and he tendered the Confederate note in payment. When it was refused he dug up the real coin.

At the police station, Moovitch was searched, but no other "queer stuff" was found on him and the police believe him to be an innocent victim of those who are getting the money into the channels of trade.

Several saloonkeepers have reported to the police that lead dollars have made their way over their bars in exchange for drinks and good currency. Merchants have been warned to watch for the bad money and hold anybody trying to pass any of the stuff.

CHARGES ARE UNTRUE,

Says Chancellor Buelow at Trial of German Editor at Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—"The charges against me are absurd and untrue," said Prince Von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, in court today, during the trial of a journalist, Herr Brand, on the charge of calumniating the chancellor by intimating that he practiced infamous secret vices similar to those referred to in the Moltke-Harden case.

Brand, a sickly looking young man, formerly an anarchist, has already been sentenced three times to imprisonment for calumnies and publishing indecent literature. Prince Von Buelow appeared as the first witness in his own behalf and gave his testimony in a firm voice, adding the following to his declaration of innocence:

"It is untrue that I have ever been the victim of blackmailing schemes connected with perverse impulses. Nobody ever approached me in this manner."

The chancellor further denied all responsibility for Herr Harden's attacks upon Gen. Kuno Von Moltke and Prince Zu Fluenburg.

STEAMER BREAKS SHAFT.

The Carrie A. Ryerson Disabled While En Route to Muskegon.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 6.—The steamer Carrie A. Ryerson, while bound from Sturgeon Bay to Muskegon last night, was disabled in Lake Michigan off Little Point Sauble by the breaking of the propeller shaft. A northwest gale was blowing with a heavy sea and the boat was in danger of destruction. Two of the crew of seven made a perilous trip ashore in a yawl and gave the alarm to the Whitehall saving station. The crew went out and took off the five men remaining on the boat. Later the steamer Lizzie Welch picked up the abandoned steamer, bringing it into Whitehall.

RAISE MONEY TO MOVE NORTHWESTERN CROPS

Duluth and the Twin Cities Will Get $4,000,000.

A. L. Ordean Returns From a Successful Mission to Minneapolis.

Albert L. Ordean, president of the First National bank, returned today from the Twin Cities, where he attended the conference of the banking officials of the St. Paul and Minneapolis banks, who, acting in conjunction with financial interests of New York, decided to subscribe $4,000,000 for the facilitating of the flour shipments of Minneapolis and the grain movement of Duluth and the great Northwest.

The immediate effect of this decision of the banking interests of the three cities vitally concerned in the movement of the flour and wheat of the Northwest, will be a free movement in grain with its consequent effect upon the circulation of currency.

James J. Hill, president of the board of directors of the Great Northern railway, materially assisted in the consummation of the final details of the arrangement whereby the money was secured for the moving of the crops, that have practically stood still since the first acute effects of the money shortage.

Naturally Mr. Hill is vitally interested in the movement of the crops. It means an immense amount of tariff to his roads and their allied interests. But in spite of this fact, Mr. Hill's efforts to secure money for the clearing away of the congestion in wheat, which has been severely felt in Northwestern trade centers, will be gratefully received.

In discussing the result of the financing of the wheat movement this morning, Mr. Ordean said that its result would be a larger wheat movement from the Duluth and other Northwestern ports. It will also mean that instead of a congestion in the movement of flour from Minneapolis the millers will be enabled to secure funds to finance shipments to meet their Eastern orders.

From a local standpoint, the securing of the capital is necessarily of great importance. It means a resumption of business on a scale approaching normal, on the board of trade; it further means that the railroads and other interests will be enabled to resume the carrying of grain that was abruptly terminated by the money stringency.

"There is a great congestion of freight east of Buffalo," said Mr. Ordean this morning. "There has been less shipping from this port as well as other lake ports. The banking interests of the three cities were cognizant of this fact, and it was with the desire to facilitate the grain movement, upon which so much hinges, that the conference was called. Four million dollars has been raised to assist toward this end and we believe that it will assist greatly in the movement of the northwestern crop to the eastern markets. The flour interests will also be greatly assisted by the securing of the fund.

"Duluth will feel the effects of this increased grain movement, made possible by the financial assistance, and its effect on the present situation should be salutary. The rail and lake congestion of grain will be helped by the furnishing of capital to assist increased shipments."

Election of Johnson Causes Action on Part of Street Railway.

Cleveland, Nov. 6.—Following the reelection of Mayor Johnson, the Cleveland Electric Railway company again resumed selling tickets at the old rate of eleven for 50 cents. For a month prior to the election the company sold tickets at the rate of seven for 25 cents, upon which basis they asked a renewal of their franchise. Mayor Johnson was elected upon a straight 3-cent platform. It is probable that the Cleveland Electric railway will keep the higher rate of fare in force during the remainder of the life of their franchise.

NEW TERM IS OPENED

Judge Ensign Presides Over the District Court Calendar.

Grand Jury Assembles and Begins Work on Criminal Matters.

The November term of the district court was opened at 10 o'clock this morning, with Judge J. D. Ensign presiding over the calendar. The call of the calendar was well attended by the attorneys interested in the various cases noticed for trial, after which the court listened to the requests for changes of places on the calendar.

Of the 167 cases on the calendar there were few continuances. Less than half a dozen cases were stricken and only one case was dismissed. It is probable that enough new cases will be moved on the calendar to make up the number dropped, so that the court will be assured of a busy term.

Tomorrow the court will hear the divorce cases.

The grand jurors assembled at 11 o'clock and were sworn in and instructed as to their duties by Judge Ensign. There were seventeen jurors present, and E. M. Ferguson was selected by the court to act as foreman.

The grand jury began this afternoon the investigation of the criminal matters to be brought to its attention.

The petit jurors will not report until next Monday.

VAN GUARD IS IN SIGHT

Army of Deer Hunters Begins Its Annual March.

Usual Fruitless Warnings Against Carelessness Are Sounded.

The man with the gun is in evidence. Hunters have swarmed through the woods of Northern Minnesota all fall. They have hunted duck and partridges until one would be led to believe that there isn't another feathered creature in the entire northern half of the state.

But in number, and danger to their prey, the partridge and duck hunters are as but a handful to the army, the vanguard of which is already swinging into view.

Every train from the southern part of the state is bringing its load of representatives of that portion of the great state of Minnesota. Every train out of Duluth carries its load of hunters, flanked by many guns of many kinds, to the wilds of the northern counties to seek out the timid deer and lonely moose and bring them down as rightful trophies of the chase.

Under unfavorable conditions last year, few were successful. The absence of snow gave the deer warning on the approach of every hunter.

The timid and brave alike are already beginning to shudder at the thoughts of what may happen when the army reaches the woods, scatters among the trees and the individuals begin their annual bombardment. Too often, the supposed deer has been a human being and the citizens of the state have wondered if the game is worth the candle, and if hunting might not better be prohibited altogether than that such sacrifices might be made to the goddess of the chase each year.

The penalty for killing a human being while hunting in the woods, by shooting him in mistake for a deer or other animal, is five to twenty years imprisonment, on conviction on a charge of manslaughter. But the crowd is just as large each year, the exhibitions of carelessness just as flagrant, and the list of dead and injured just as large.

Carlessness with firearms is inexcusable and nothing will promote a careful use of guns better than the law, which stands on the statutes, and its strict enforcement in a few cases.

TO TAKE UP CLUB BONDS

A Surplus in the Northland Country Club Treasury.

Annual Meeting Will Deal With Important Matters.

At the club house, Fortieth avenue east, this evening, the annual meeting of the Northland Country club will be held. Reports of officers will be received, new officers elected, and other routine business of the annual session disposed of. The officers, whose terms expire, are President, G. G. Hartley; vice president, W. W. Walker; secretary, E. P. Alexander; treasurer, Werner Pressentine. The terms of three directors, E. P. Alexander, E. P. Towne and L. J. Hopkins, also expire and directors will be elected to succeed them.

Forecasts of the reports of the officers indicate that the club has had a successful season. The membership has been increased materially, and financially, the club's condition is much better than a year ago. Such a surplus has been collected in the treasury that it has been decided to retire $1,500 of the outstanding club bonds this evening. There are $43,000 worth of the bonds in the hands of club members and lots will be drawn this evening to determine whose bonds will be taken up by the club.

Plans for the winter seasons will be discussed this evening. Heretofore, the clubhouse has been closed for the winter, except on special occasions, but this year, the housekeepers and the chef will be retained during the entire winter and the members will enjoy all of the privileges of the club This evening, appropriations will probably be made for the erection of a combination ski and toboggan slide and a petition will be presented for the erection and maintenance of a skating rink. This latter is an expensive undertaking, but it is looked upon favorably by some of the members and may go through.

With such preparations for amusement features under way, the winter season promises to be a brilliant one at the club. With skiing, tobogganing and skating substituted for golf, tennis and the other outdoor summer sports, and the warm clubhouse, with its cheerful dining room, as a base for snowshoe parties, the members will derive full pleasure from their membership the entire year in the future.

Ballot Takes Election Day Handicap at Aqueduct.

Aqueduct, Nov. 6.—Amid enthusiastic cheers of 5,000 persons yesterday, Ballot, the son of Voter, favorite at 5 to 2 won the Election Day handicap, mile and a furlong at Aqueduct and equalled the track record of 1:52 for the distance. A high class field went to the post, with Ballot, an added started, always the favorite. McCarter set a terrific pace with Ballot in third place. In the stretch Ballot moved out and won in a drive by half a length.

Live Wire won the Babylon handicap, while Thistleday scored an easy victory in the Bushwick steeplechase.

AMATEURS TO START

MacNamara Says Duluth is Not Ripe for Professionals.

Thinks Hockey Will be Popular if It Gets Foothold.

John T. MacNamara of Houghton, Mich., manager of the Amphidrome, the big skating rink there, and the Portage Lake Hockey team, left yesterday for the ranges to visit friends for a few days before returning to the Copper country.

"There's nothing very significant about this visit of mine," said Mr. MacNamara. "I am naturally interested in seeing hockey get a start in Duluth and, as I was going up on the range for a few days, I decided to stop here and look over the situation. I am very well pleased with what I have seen. I am convinced that Duluth is a good hockey town and all it needs is a start here.

"I have talked with several of the hockey enthusiasts of Duluth, and I find they are very enthusiastic. They have the interest of the game at heart and they have the right idea of establishing it here as a winter sport. Handicapped by the lack of money at the present time, they are optimistic and I think they will give the game a good start here this winter.

"We realize that Duluth cannot get into the International league this year, of course. It is too late now to do anything toward organizing a team and getting the season under way, as the gathering of a professional hockey team is no small task and requires plenty of time and a thorough canvass of the situation to secure good men at reasonable salaries. But it should be comparatively easy for Duluth to get a rink of some kind this year, fit it up and give the game a start by playing the amateurs.

"The Northern hardware team, which Duluth sent to the Copper country last year, wasn't slow. It was a mighty good seven of amateur players and their games should give Duluth people a taste of high-class hockey. Once get the people interested in the amateur game and they will want the faster variety and then professional hockey can step in and take a proper position in the sports of the city. Of course, that doesn't mean that the amateur game will die. The boys will always have their supporters and, while taking in the professionals, the people will give their home boys encouragement. Get hockey started in Duluth and it is bound to gain in popularity.

Pittsburg Out of It.

"The International league will have a successful season. Pittsburg is out and there will be a compact circuit of four teams, Houghton, Calumet, Michigan Soo and the Canadian Soo. Nearly all of the managers have their men lined up already and the season will start about the middle of December as usual. The schedule committee will meet soon to arrange the games. We will have practically the same team in Houghton, which won the championship last year, and we expect to give an account of ourselves again this year.

"While Pittsburg's dropping out took a good paying city from the league, it also simplified matters. It is a big jump from Calumet to Pittsburg and one, which made a heavy drain on the treasury of every club. The league loses some of its scope, but it will keep the game alive in the upper peninsula and we will spread out in a few years. I expect to see Duluth in next year and I shouldn't wonder if we also have some other cities.

"Hockey is a game that takes. The United States has no winter sport. Curling is very nice, for those who play, but everybody can't curl. Skiing, snowshoeing, bowling and other winter sports have the same properties. The people, who play, derive excitement, but for the spectators, there is nothing. In the summer, people have baseball. In the winter, I believe they will adopt hockey, here as they have in other places.

"Hockey is no fad. It is a fast, spirited sport, which is destined to live on, if its playing is rightly conducted. It has been played in Canada for many years and there is no abatement of it. It is not a craze, or it would have died out long ago. We have had hockey in the Copper country for about seven years and it is growing more popular every year.

"Hockey is only a side play to skating, after all is said. If Duluth never had a hockey game, I don't see why there isn't a large skating rink here. Everything is right for the sport. The weather is cold enough and the cold weather continues just long enough. There surely ought to be a site near the street car line, where the rink would be accessible. The people must take to ice skating as one of the most healthful amusements of the winter season and I don't see why skating should not be a paying proposition, counting the hockey out altogether.

"Next year will see a big spread of hockey. Many cities have come to recognize it as the a winter sport as one would wish. In Pittsburg this year, the old city league will be revived. Next year it will be supplanted by an Eastern league. Cleveland already has a big rink with artificial ice. Mr. Riedel is also interested at Columbus and will probably put up a rink there. Rochester will have local hockey this year. Brooklyn and New York have been playing hockey for years and the Eastern league will probably embrace them and stretch up into Canada to secure Montreal and Toronto."

A Hard Debt to Pay.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark of Westfield, Iowa, "for my rescue from death, by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent, when I commenced taking New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." DEFENDS HIS TITLE

George Sutton Defeats Jacob Schaefer in 18:2 Billiards.

Sutton Takes Lead in First and is Never Overtaken.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—George Sutton last night defended his title as champion 18:2 billiard player by defeating Jacob Schaefer, the score being 500 to 241.

It took Sutton fifteen innings to run the game out, his average being 33 5-15 and his high run 232. Sutton took the lead in the first inning, when he made a run of 12 and Schaefer was never able to overtake him. The champion played a steady game from the start, his strokes being almost perfect.

Whether nursing the balls or playing around the table, he was accurate in his calculations. In his ninth trial Sutton collected 232 billiards, most of them being made in the center of the table, where his delicate touch was displayed in a remarkable manner. Only three times during this run did he scatter the balls and then it took but a single shot to collect them again. In the fourth inning Sutton had the balls together at the foot of the table and was clicking off the billiards in grand style when he made a foul of his seventy-second shot, leaving the balls up. In the fifth Schaefer made his run of 93 and it looked as though he would overtake the champion. In order to get the balls in better position on his ninety-fourth shot he chose a difficult cushion shot and missed it. After that he was not able to do anything until the twelfth inning, when he rolled up a score of 90. Out of fifteen times up Schaefer made six goose eggs, while Sutton failed to score in only one inning. The score:

Sutton, 12, 27, 30, 7, 13, 13, 8, 1, 232, 26, 55, 6, 3, 0, 3—500. High run, 232. Average, 33 5-15.

Schaefer, 0, 7, 0, 5, 93, 1, 0, 9, 14, 0, 21, 90, 0, 1, 0—241. High run, 93. Average, 16 1-15.

Good Exhibition.

Hummers Are Humming.

The Hummers one of the fastest of the local juvenile football teams are making a record. They have defeated nearly every juvenile team in the city, being defeated only by the All-Stars, an aggregation containing five of the Adams' school alumni. Last Sunday, the Hummers defeated the Duluth Heights by a score of 33 to 0.

DUCKS MAKE MOORE LATE

Popular Actor Spends Sunday Hunting and Misses Train.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Victor Moore got locked out of Chicago Sunday and he had to charter a special locomotive to get back in time for the evening performance of "The Talk of New York," in the Colonial theater.

Since his engagement here Moore has been making a practice of going shooting every Saturday night. His favorite resort has been Momence, on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad, but the ducks were getting a little scarce there and he decided to go to Wilmington this time.

There appeared to be excellent train service to Wilmington on the Chicago & Alton. One express train going through there at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, arrived in Chicago a little after 5.

Joe Smith Marha and Dr. J. F. Pitts accompanied the star. They took a late train Saturday night and had a fair day Sunday. At five minutes of 3 they were on the station platform waiting for the 3 o'clock express. It came along on time to the minute and going something like seventy miles an hour. Not so much as a whistle did it give to indicate that it had noticed Wilmington.

"Hey, there!" yelled Moore, waving his gun case.

But before the last word was out the express was half a mile away. Moore looked at his time table again and discovered that the express was not scheduled to stop at Wilmington. There was no other train that would get him into Chicago until late in the evening.

He rushed to a telephone and got the Colonial theater. He managed to get into communication with the manager of the Chicago & Alton railroad and chartered a special engine, which was sent to Wilmington from Bloomington.

Moore, Marha and Dr. Pitts made themselves comfortable on three lumps of coal in the tender and the engineer "cut loose." The shrieking locomotive dashed into the Union station at 7:43 p. m. George Wood of the Colonial was waiting there with an auto. The three hunters were so begrimmed and blackened that he had difficulty in seperating them from the engine crew.

The run to the theater was made in seven minutes and the curtain went up on "The Talk of New York" just five minutes late.

BOYS ORGANIZE AN ORCHESTRA

Y. M. C. A. Members Will Develop Their Musical Abilities.

For the past four years the boys' department has maintained an orchestra composed entirely of boys which has played at the entertainments and meetings of the club. This year they have organized again for the season and each Tuesday evening finds them busy practicing. The orchestra will be under the direction of Sidney Morterud, one of the members of the cabinet, and chairman of the music committee. Cecil Gilliland is the pianist and business manager of the club. The other members are Leslie Moore, Michael Dunphy, Erling Mostoe, Harry Weston, George Johnson, Stewart Muir, John Naslund, Ralph Waldron, Albert Gonska, Otta Olson, Victor Levin, Ernest Johnson. All the members are enthusiastic over their work and are entering into it with a zeal that means success. They will give a big musical entertainment some time during the season. They also plan to play at outside entertainments and private homes. In this way they will provide their own money to purchase the music required, and also to rent a piano to be used solely for orchestra work. At the meeting last evening the committee decided to add some new members, and any boy who is over 14 years, playing any kind of an instrument and who would like to join the orchestra, is invited to call at the boys' department Monday afternoon or evening.

STRIKES IT RICH.

W. E. Niles, Owner of Big Petroleum Properties in Louisiana.

After an absence of thirteen years, William E. Niles, brother of Fred Niles, engaged in the real estate business in Duluth, has returned to the city, where he formerly lived. He has struck it rich in Louisiana, and has 1,200 acres of petroleum and sulphur property at Lake Charles.

Mr. Niles, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Niles, 211 North Fifth avenue west, formerly was a commercial traveler, with headquarters at Sioux Falls, S. D. Four years ago he moved to Louisiana. He bought property which was then of little value, but the discovery of petroleum has made the land immensely valuable. Mr. Niles leaves for Chicago tomorrow.

SECURES FUNDS TO MOVE CROPS

No Furthur Difficulty Will be Encountered by the Banks.

St. Paul, Nov. 6.—E. H. Bailey, president of the First National bank, announced last night that, as a result of a conference between representatives of Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis bankers and J. J. Hill, with representatives of New York financial interests, arrangements had been made whereby money would be secured for the movement of the Northwestern crops. Mr. Bailey refused to give details of the plan which has been decided upon, but declared that sufficient funds had been secured for the movement of the wheat crop and that no further difficulty would be encountered by the banks in this respect.

KAPLAN SEEKS OFFICE.

Well-Known Socialistic Leader Would be City's Mayor.

Morris Kaplan, a wholesale grocer, whose connection with Socialism and labor troubles has made him prominent of late, has announced a determination to run for mayor on the "municipal ownership" ticket, and has filed with the county auditor.

Mr. Kaplan has been a local leader of the Socialist party for some time and took a decided stand for the striking miners and the Western Federation of Miners during their troubles on the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges.

His firm furnished the federation's co-operative stores with groceries when other local wholesalers were loath to do so unless they saw the cash at once.

WARNS PAPERMAKERS

Against Alluring Offers of Alleged Labor Organizer.

Neenah, Wis., Nov. 6.—A week ago J. H. Malin, representing himself to be an officer and organizer of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers, was in the city and secured men at good salaries to leave the city for employment eight hours a day to take the place of striking papermakers in the East. Yesterday George Dutton arrived in the city as an accredited organizer to warn papermakers against Mr. Malin. He is also here in the interests of the Papermakers' union.

OBSTINATE ULCERS
MAY LEAD TO CANCER

There is no difference, at first, in the appearance of a cancerous and a common ulcer, and for this reason every sore that is obstinate or slow in healing should excite suspicion, for the sore is nothing more than the external evidence of a polluted blood, and if allowed to remain may degenerate into Cancer. Efforts to heal the ulcer by means of salves, plasters and other external remedies always result in failure, because such treatment can have no possible effect on the blood, where the deadly germs and morbid matter form, and are carried through the circulation to the place. No sore or ulcer can exist without a predisposing internal cause, and the open, discharging ulcer or festering old sore will continue to eat deeper into the surrounding flesh as long as a polluted, germ-infected circulation discharges its impurities into it. S. S. S. goes to the fountain-head of the trouble, and drives out the germ-producing poisons and morbid impurities which keep the ulcer open. Then as this rich, purified blood goes to the diseased place the healing begins, all discharge ceases, the inflammation gradually leaves, new tissue and healthy flesh are formed, and soon the sore is permanently cured. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots and herbs of a healing, cleansing nature, and unlike mineral medicines, which often do great damage to the delicate parts of the system, S. S. S. tones up every part of the body. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice desired free.

WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

Free Selling Puts the Prices Off in America.

Flax Firm at Close, for the Active Options.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 6.—Wheat had an easier tone today. The bettered financial outlook and the attendant improvement in the facilities for moving the Northwestern crop, caused free selling, which kept up from the opening.

Gossip from Chicago summed it up as follows:

"Duluth shipped 318,600 bushels of wheat today. Chicago shipped 252,000 bushels wheat and the large sum of 75,000 barrels of flour. Minneapolis shipped 168,000 bushels wheat today to the country mills and shipped 41,000 barrels flour. Grain and products is moving on an enormous scale and it all means exports and ready money as fast as the machinery can be made to work.

Liverpool was easier, closing ¾d to⅞d lower. Berlin closed ⅝d higher, Budapest ⅝c lower, Antwerp unchanged, and Paris ¼c higher.

There was a good increase in the world's visible supply of wheat, which fact contributed to the weakness of the markets.

The December option closed 1⅝-¾c lower in Duluth, which market showed the least loss at the close; 2⅜c lower in Chicago, 2⅛-¼c in Minneapolis, 2⅞c from Monday in New York—it being a holiday there yesterday—and 4⅝c off in Winnipeg. The May option closed 1⅞c lower in Duluth, 2-⅛c in Chicago and Minneapolis, 1⅝c lower than Monday in New York and 3½c lower in Winnipeg.

December corn closed 1⅞c lower in Chicago and was ½d@⅝d lower in Liverpool. December oats closed 1¼c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was an easy undertone to the speculative wheat market at the opening with values ½d lower followed later by a further decline of ¼d to ¾d. Weakness resulted from the late easiness in America yesterday, lower Manitoba and La Plata offerings, private reports of more favorable weather conditions in Argentina and a generally poor demand. Toward mid-day, a slight steadiness developed with a recovery of ¼d to ¾d in values due to some covering.

"Corn was quiet and ½d lower at the opening. The nearby month was unchanged during the latter trading while the distant month further eased ¼d. Pressure resulted from the weakness in wheat with the market extremely dull. Car receipts at Duluth were 279 as against 600 last year; at Minneapolis 218 against 517 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 497 against 1,117 two days last year. Chicago received 38 against 89 last year; Winnipeg received 304 against 214 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 873,000 bushels; last year 2,227,000 bushels, two days. Shipments, 780,000 bushels; last year, 1,325,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 686,000 bushels.

Bradstreet's report an increase of 1,896,000 bushels in the world's visible supply of wheat. East of the Rockies there was a decrease of 126,00 bushels; in the United States and Canada, an increase of 1,896,000, and afloat and in Europe, an increase of 300,00 bushels.

Primary receipts of corn were 279,000 bushels; last year, 1,066,000 bushels, two days. Shipments, 394,000 bushels; last year, 553,000 bushels. Clearances of corn were 165,000 bushels.

The world's visible supply of corn decreased 1,141,000 bushels.

Wheat opened dull and weak in Duluth, but was very active during the latter part of the session. The tone became gradually easier as the day progressed, offerings being very liberal, on the improved facilities for handling the grain.

December wheat opened ⅞-1⅛c lower at $1.02¼, declined to $1.02, rallied to $1.02¾, went off to $1.01⅞, rallied to $1.02⅛, declined to $1.01⅝-⅞, reacted to $1.02 and ranged between that and $1.01 until the close, which was $1.01, a loss of 1⅝-⅜c from yesterday. May wheat opened ⅜c lower at $1.01⅛, declined to $1.00¾, rallied to $1.01⅜, went off to $1.00⅝, reacted to $1.01¾ and ranged between that and $1.01 during the rest of the session, closing at $1.01, a loss of 1⅞c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1c under December for No. 1 northern. For the first time in a long while, No. 1 northern to arrive and on track was quoted as low as $1 in Duluth.

Flax was very active during the early part of the session today but became quiet during the latter part. November flax opened unchanged at $1.20, broke to $1.19½ and closed at that price, a loss of 1½c from yesterday. December flax opened ¼c higher at $1.21½, declined to $1.21¼, rallied to $1.21½ and closed at that price, a gain of ¼c over yesterday. May flax opened ¼c higher at $1.23½, declined to $1.23¼, rallied to $1.23⅝, and closed at that price, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday.

Oats closed 1c lower and other coarse grains unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Weak as Result of a Decline at Liverpool.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—The wheat market opened weak today, the chief influence being a decline of 1d at Liverpool. December wheat opened a shade to ⅜@½c lower, at 94⅜c to 95½c, sold at 95¼c and then declined to 94⅝@¾c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 534 cars against 590 cars last week and 1,216 cars one year ago.

The wheat market became very weak during the last half of the session, prices declining to more than 2 cents below the high point. The reason for the decline was reports of more failures. The low point for December was 92¾. The market closed weak with December off 2⅜c at 92¾@⅞c.

The corn market was weak because of lower cables and favorable weather throughout the corn belt. December corn opened ¼c lower at 59¾c, sold at 59⅞c and then declined to 59½c. Local receipts were 87 cars with 25 of contract grade.

The corn market also became very weak, December selling off to 58⅝c. The close was weak with December off 1⅞c at 58⅛c.

The oats market was easy and trading was very light. December oats opened ⅜c lower, at 49¼c, sold at 49⅜c and then at 49⅝c. Local receipts were 87 cars.

The provisions market was active, and prices were weak on general selling by packers and commission houses. Live hogs were also decidedly weak. January pork opened 15c lower, at $13.80 and declined to $13.60. Lard was 5c to 10c lower, at $8.10 to $8.15 and sold down to $8.02½. Ribs opened 12½c lower, at $7.20 and sold at $7.15.

Close: Wheat, December, 92¾@⅞c; May, $1.01⅝@¾c. Corn, December, 58⅛c; May, 58⅝c. Oats, December, 48⅝c; May, 51½c. Pork, January, $13.20; May, $13.60. Lard, January, $7.95; May, $8.07½. Grain Gossip.

Minneapolis wires: "Mills are buying some cash wheat today, on northern December price. Mills still complain of lack of orders on old sales and slow business generally. Country elevator lines will probably begin buying in a limited way this week."

Chicago wheat letter: Markets did not act well from the start today. The bullish influences were ignored or lost sight of in the bearish sentiment which was created by other features. Continental markets showed no special firmness. There was a break of 25c in hogs and this had its effect on the entire grain list. Late in the session some small failures were reported. Heaviness in coarse grains also encouraged holders to take the selling side.

Corn—Perhaps the break in corn prices was the greatest surprise of the day. At the close December is more than two cents under last night's close. The market was influenced somewhat the same as wheat by the advices from the live-stock and provision trade. The sample market was ½c to 1c lower. Market closed at extreme low point.

Oats—Prices lost 1¼c for the day, closing at bottom. As in corn, the trade entirely ignored the very light receipts. Cash people gave prices some support early, but the market followed the decline of wheat and corn the last hour. The sample market was one cent lower.

Provisions—Brokers are of the opinion that packers are entirely responsible for the smash of 25 cents in hog prices at the yards and further decline in provisions, which amounted to quite big all around.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Turkeys are coming in this week, the shipments being small thus far and prices ranging around 17 and 18 cents per pound. Meats remain the same and dealers report that pork is scarce just now. Farmers are not shipping in much stock, evidently holding for higher prices and meats may take a firmer tone although no remarkable advance is anticipated. The following prices are quoted up to noon today, the same being furnished by the secretary of the exchange:

URUGUAY AND ARGENTINA

In Dispute Over the Seizure of Uruguayan Vessel.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Nov. 6.—The relations between Uruguay and Argentina continue strained as the result of the detention by the Argentine authorities of a small Uruguayan steam vessel. The boat was seized at Martin Gracia, a small island in the river Platte. The ownership of the island is in dispute, but it has been held for a century by Argentina.

The Uruguayan government protested against the seizure and demanded the release of the boat, but Argentina's answer has been unfavorable and has created resentment.

A general feeling is indicated by a public remark of the minister of foreign affairs, who speaking at a recent public gathering said:

"Uruguay is not a small country as is generally believed. It is bigger than Portugal, Holland and Belgium combined, and possesses sufficient strength to repel any aggression."

This declaration which is considered an allusion to the dispute, is much applauded.

The government has decided to withdraw the legation at Buenos Ayres unless satisfaction is speedily obtained.

SUSPECTS ARRESTED.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Three men were arrested today in connection with the search of the slayer of James W. Allaway, the wealthy commission merchant of Los Angeles, Cal., who was killed by a burglar early yesterday morning at the home of his brother, Edward Allaway.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Reduced Near the Close Which Was Dull and Heavy.

Very Buoyant Conditions Evident in the Early Dealings.

New York, Nov. 6.—Prices of stocks moved upwards for the most part from the Monday level, the Hill stocks and United States Steel preferred showing conspicuous strength. There was a sprinkling of small losses. Great Northern Ore Certificates and National Lead rose 1⅜ to 1½; Northern Pacific and United States Steel preferred, 1¼; Union Pacific and American Smelting, 1; St. Paul, Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred, New York Central and Republic Steel large fractions. Canadian Pacific and Atcalson sold at fractional declines.

Stocks were bought heavily and the market became broad and buoyant in tone. The urgent demand that arose for Pennsylvania, Union Pacific and other stocks indicated large buying by the short interests. Illinois Central moved up 4¾, Missouri Pacific 3¼, Great Northern preferred 3, Reading, Pacific Coast and American Smelting 2¾ and United States Steel preferred 2⅝. Union Pacific and Sloss-Sheffeld Steel 2½, Great Northern Ore Certificates 2⅜, Pennsylvania 2¼ and New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Kansas Southern preferred, General Electric, American Hide & Leather preferred and American Tobacco preferred 2. Realizing sales forced some of these stocks back sharply and the market became very dull on the decline.

The reaction in Pennsylvania reached nearly 2 points, and in several other active stocks a point. The trading diminished to nominal proportions and the tone became firm at the lower level. There were wide advances in quotations on bonds, but the amounts dealt in were not large.

The demand for Union Pacific diminished, and when it reacted a point the rest of the list eased off and came to a standstill. Pacific Coast improved 4¾ in all, New York, Chicago and St. Louis 3½, Manhattan 3, and Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred 2½. Tennessee Coal & Iron sold off at 130 compared with 135 on Monday.

The market closed dull and heavy. The appointment of a receiver for the Arnold Print works of North Adams, Mass., was made occasion for some selling of stocks, which caused a sharp reaction and reduced the early gains to moderate proportions. There was a sale of Pacific Coast first preferred at 95, the preceding sale having been at 106 in January.

Stock Gossip.

New York—Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: The feeling in financial circles was generally improved over the holiday, and the stock market advanced sharply on shorts covering. The investment demand continues large and has proven to be a factor of considerable extent in helping to clear the market of part of the recent heavy liquidation. The arrival of gold from Europe also did much to stimulate confidence, and the affairs of the trust companies are clearing. The advance in the market has been rather rapid, in view of the fact that the monetary situation is still unsettled, and we are inclined to thiuk htat the market is likely to recede before going higher.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Nov. 6.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 7 points, which was better than due on the cables, and immediately afterward advanced sharply on an urgent demand from Wall street shorts, and support from the bull clique. After selling at a net advance of about 8 to 12 points on the active months the market eased off, and during the middle of the morning ruled very nervous with fluctuations irregular.

Spot closed steady 10 points decline; middling uplands, 11.00; middling gulf, 11.25. Sales none. Futures closed steady; closing bids, November, 10.39; December, 10.39; January, 10.30; February, 10.30; March, 10.30; April, 10.30; May, 10.30; June, 10.30; July, 10.30; August, 10.21.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market was not allowed to rally very much today. The news over yesterday was bullish, but enough stocks were supplied to prevent much of an advance. Later the bears tried to sell the market and succeeded in getting prices down a little, but did not bring in any liquidation. The local coppers are very dull, but are gradually working higher. The North Butte, Mohawk and Copper Range dividends are due within a month and their action is being awaited with interest.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The general market today was very buoyant under enthusiasm engendered by market subsidence of excitement in the banking world, and the demonstration of the fact that gold continues to be engaged notwithstanding the raise in Bank of England rate. The total gold now on the way from all sources is over $50,000,000.

As the day progressed there was a marked cessation of activity, and the failure of one of the largest print cloth manufactories in Massachusetts was a reminder that the recent cyclone has left a track of wreckage in its path. Prices gave way and market became very dull, as is only natural. Money rates were easier, and the progress toward convalescence is no doubt continuing, but any attempt to start activity on either side of the market will be checked.

Copper seems to be weaker in tone now that the bears on the metal have covered. It stands to reason no large consumption is likely until securities are salable. At the same time the corner has no doubt been turned and to the investor, coppers are cheap.

WILLIAM H. CRANE IS ONE OF THE BOYS AGAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—William H. Crane is "one of the boys" once more. He accidentally portrayed the role he is playing at Powers' theater, that of an old business man who starts out to be "one of the boys." He fell into the fountain in the Pompeian room at the Annex, which is considered the crowning feat of a "gay night" by the guilded youths of the city.

Mr. Crane was in the Pompeian room sipping a lemonade when he noticed Col. W. F. Cody, the "Buffalo Bill" of frontier days, at a nearby table. He rose to go to the Cody table. There was a sudden splash and a bespeckled fatherly appearing old gentleman was seen floundering around in the fountain.

As he scrambled out, his clothes dripping, an elderly woman who passed by the door of the cafe was heard to remark, "Just think of an old man like that cutting up such pranks.'

BRONZE TABLET FOR STATE SENATE OF 1905.

St. Paul, Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—What may be news to some members of the legislature and especially the 1905 body, the first to hold a session in the new capitol, is the placing recently, in the senate retiring room of a large bronze tablet having in relief all of the names of those composing the 1905 state senate.

According to the heading on the tablet it is in recognition of the first senate to occupy the chamber in the new capitol. Both the capitol commission and those at present in charge of the building disclaim any credit for installing the memorial. They say it was done privately by a committee from the 1905 body, headed by Senator Calhoun of Minneapolis. Each member was taxed his share of the cost, which was about $300. The idea of perpetuating the memory of the 1905 senate was taken up following adjournment, and was carried out some months later.

PLOWS UP MONEY.

Farmer Turns Up $4.55 in Silver With Plow.

Crookston, Minn., Nov. 6.—(Special to The Herald.) — Andrew Woodstrom thinks November is the best month of the year. While plowing on the home farm in the town of Lowell Nov. 1, he noticed a silver dollar rolling out of the furrow and after digging way down in the ground he discovered $3.55 more. The money was real old and had most likely laid there for several years.

CARVED HIS COW.

That is Complaint Owner Makes Against Hayward Cook.

Hayward, Wis., Nov. 6.—Charging that she used a knife on his cow, cutting several gashes that required the services of a veterinarian, Arnt Olson has caused the arrest of Mrs. M. M. Barber, cook at a local hotel. Olson claims that the cow was severely injured. It is said that the cow made a practice of haunting the back door of the hotel, seeking choice bits of discarded food. The animal was driven away repeatedly with blows from a broomstick, but this method proving futile, it is alleged, an attempt was made to carve the animal. Mrs. Barber was arraigned before Judge Riordan and the hearing was set for November 11. She furnished $50 cash bail for her appearance.

HEARING IS BEGUN

Judge Dibell Will Determine Merits of McConaughy Appeal.

Attempt to Have the Tax Amendment Declared Lost.

The legal fight instituted by the members of the Duluth real estate exchange to have overturned the action and decision of the state canvassing board in declaring the tax amendment to have been adopted and the good roads amendment to have been lost, was started this morning before Judge Homer B. Dibell of the district court of St. Louis county.

The action is in the nature of an appeal by Samuel McConaughy, a taxpayer of this city and county, from the decision of the canvassing board. Two appeals were taken, one by a taxpayer in Carlton county, but by stipulation the issues were combined.

Following the returns made at the last general election the state board of canvassers declared that the tax amendment, which is objectionable, it is claimed, to the majority of voters in the state, had been adopted by a majority of 13,600 votes, but that the good roads amendment, which was decided a popular measure to the voters, had been defeated. Although general dissatisfaction was expressed over the result as announced officially, and it became a matter of general knowledge that a serious mistake was made by the printer who published the election papers in that he transposed the tally for the amendments and caused votes cast for one amendment to be counted for another, and vice versa, the legislature refused or neglected to afford any relief. It was up to the taxpayers to appeal and produce proof to show that the mistake of the election judges, though inadvertent, defeated the wishes of the people. The funds to provide a recount of the votes cast for the amendments was raised by subscription and three ballot inspectors appointed by the court, worked all summer on the recount.

Mr. Phelps, who has represented the appellants and those interested in defeating the tax amendment, is assisted at the hearing by C. O. Baldwin, while Assistant Attorney General Simpson of St. Paul represents the state board of canvassers.

Mr. Phelps, in stating the case to the court this morning, said that the first commission appointed by the court to make the recount, recanvassed the votes cast in Duluth, but that on the showing made of gross error in the official count, the legislature refused to afford relief.

Mr. Phelps related the appointment of the second commission and told of the difficulties encountered by the ballot inspectors by reason of the remote localities to be reached, and the fact that many of the officers entrusted with the ballots had destroyed them, an action which is contrary to the law, declaring they must be preserved until the next general election.

Out of the 2,600 voting precincts in the state the ballot inspectors made the recount in 700 or 800; in fact, they recounted a great deal over half the votes cast on the amendments at the election, as they visited all the cities and towns where the largest vote was cast.

The state canvassing board declared the tax amendment was adopted by 13,000 majority. The ballot inspectors found 17,000 votes reported in favor of the tax amendment that were really cast against it, but which, through mistake of the election judges, had been accredited to the affirmative vote. On this showing alone the tax amendment was lost, it is claimed, by 4,000 votes.

The ballot inspectors also found, it is alleged, that the good roads amendment, instead of being defeated, was carried by a majority of about 19,000. The recount showed that the good roads amendment gained more votes than the tax amendment lost. This is explained by the fact that in some precincts where two tally sheets were used, the judges forgot to reckon the second sheet in their totals.

Mr. Phelps maintained that it would be an impossibility for the appellants to attempt a recount of every precinct in the state. He claimed that on the showing made the burden of proof has been shifted to the state canvassing board; in other words, that it is up to the board to prove that the amendment was carried.

"We do not claim that this is an ordinary contest," said Mr. Phelps, "but that a different and a more liberal rule should be applied to it by the court than to ordinary cases."

J. J. Lomen, assistant secretary of state, whose duty it was to distribute the election supplies at the last general election, to the various county auditors, testified that the mistake made on the tally sheets by the printer was not discovered by the secretary of state until the supplies had been sent out.

All three of the ballot inspectors who made the recount are in the city, and these will probably testify this afternoon as to the methods followed by them in their work; also to the irregularities that came to their notice where clerks of election destroyed the ballots.

WOMEN ARE GOOD BUYERS

Two Strangers Sell Large Quantities of Trading Stamps.

Police Arrest One and Will Investigate the Game.

The National Trading & Household Supply company, 608-616 Boston block, Minneapolis, is the title and address of a company, the representatives of which have aroused the suspicions of the West Duluth police. For several days, two representatives of the company have been working in West Duluth and this morning, one of them, Henry Mantz, was taken in by the police. The other will probably be taken this afternoon and they will be held until an investigation has been made.

From what the police can learn, the men were carrying on a trading stamp business, which doesn't look good. Just how they catch the thrifty housewives is a mystery, but they were apparently getting the money with a vengeance. They gave pretty little books of the trading stamp album kind, and nicely colored stamps to stick in the books, for a consideration. The exact workings of the scheme have not yet been fathomed, as the strangers haven't endeavored to dispose of any of their wares to the police and the line of talk they hand out hasn't been heard around the station.

A kitchen cabinet is the prize for which the housewife is urged to strive. A sufficient number of the stamps entities her to a kitchen cabinet, with supplies complete, worth $14.40 for 39, or some such arrangement as that, and it is said the strangers had the women of West Duluth turning over their dollars with wonderful trustfulness. The police claim the men were collecting money without giving any immediate return and they couldn't see anything substantial in the scheme. At least, they must be shown before the gentlemen will be released and the company allowed to operate unmolested in West Duluth.

SKIPS ARE APPOINTED.

Seventeen Men to Lead West Duluth Curlers This Year.

Seventeen skips, to guide the rinks of the West Duluth Curling club during the coming season, were appointed at a meeting of the club last night. The meeting was held at the rink, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Bristol street, with a good attendance. Reports of committees were received, the manner of choosing members of rinks decided upon and plans for the coming season talked over.

There was some discussion as to whether the skips should be allowed to choose their own rinks, or the games committee should assign the men. The latter course was finally decided upon, with the provision that if the men or the skip was unsatisfied with an assignment, a trade might be effected and thus the skips arrange among themselves the ultimate membership of the rinks. The four skips, who will attend the annual bonspiel will choose their own rinks.

The skips chosen last night are as follows: A. G. McCauley, E. J. Zauft, J. A. Scott, Walter Evered, A. H. Donald, Dr. C. R. Keyes, K. A. McDonald, Henry Hewitt, Frank Ashley, M. M. Meldahl, M. J. Fillatrault, G. W. Meldrum, Ike Detherage, H. Gifford, L. A. Barnes, Arthur Hoag and V. Method.

BRIEF ILLNESS FATAL.

Mrs. Lawrence Gilley Dies at Home in West End.

Henrietta, wife of Lawrence Gilley, died last evening at the family home, 2921 West Third street, after a brief illness. She was 21 years of age and is survived by her husband and one child.

Mrs. Gilley's death was a shock to the friends of the young couple, both of whom were well known in West Duluth. News of Mrs. Gilley's illness had not spread and the news of her death was the first intimation her friends had that she was seriously ill.

The funeral will be held Friday morning from St. Clement's church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, with interment at Calvary cemetery.

CASHED THE CHECKS

But Failed to Appear and Turn Over the Money.

George Kristich, a young Austrian, is behind the bars at the West Duluth police station, while the officers await instructions from Superior as to what is to be done with him. He is wanted at Superior for larceny and the police of that city will probably ask for his return.

The case is one in which a new-found friend was trusted all too well. Kristich blew into Superior from New York about five days ago. He can speak pretty good English and ingratiated himself with the landlord of an Austrian boarding house and some of the men.

Monday evening, two of the men had checks aggregating $12.80 and they wanted them cashed. Kristich agreed to use his knowledge of business methods for their benefit and they accompanied him downtown, after endorsing the checks. Kristich went into a place they thought a bank and, while they waited outside, he fled out another door, it is charged.

When Kristich was arrested, he said he had lost the money. He had a new cap and a new shirt, but not a cent in money.

DUTKOWSKI PAYS A FINE

Is Assessed $250 for Stealing Money From His Brother.

Mike Dutkowski, the young man who pleaded guilty to the charge of grand larceny in the second degree, a few days ago, appeared before Judge Dibell for sentence this noon. Dutkowski is claimed to have robbed his brother of a sum of money while the latter was asleep. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $250 or spend twelve months in the county jail. Dutkowski paid the fine and was released.

Henry Peroy a missing witness for the grand jury in the Mike Burns larceny case, of the last term of court, was brought before Judge Dibell on a bench warrant, charging him with contempt. Peroy claimed that he did not have funds to stay in the city awaiting the meeting of the grand jury and went to Wisconsin to work. He claimed that when it was time for him to return he had no money and could not get here. The court deferred action in his case until later in the day.

TO PLEASE HIS GIRL

Young Man Wore Soldier's Uniform--- Got Into Trouble.

Harry Hoffman or "Capt. Harry Mendal," as he represented himself to be, was arrested last evening on suspicion, but for lack of evidence was released from custody today.

The young man wore a military uniform bearing a captain's strips and his regalia was pronounced a fraud by a local military man.

He told the police that he wore the uniform to please a young woman with whom he came to Duluth.

According to reports, the young man has been soliciting laborers, offering them $3.00 per day, but exacting $50 assurance money from them as a token of good faith. He did not secure much help, according to the reports.

HUSBAND FORGAVE HER.

Mrs. Fred Geer Returns to Home and Children.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Geer returned from Ashland last evening, where the wife pleaded guilty to a statutory charge yesterday and her fine of $200 was paid by her husband. Mrs. Geer was arrested there some days ago in company with R. Hotchkiss. His case will come up in March, and Mrs. Geer was subpoenaed to appear against him.

The husband went to Ashland upon hearing of his wife's difficulty and stood by her throughout her trouble, paying the fine and receiving her back into the home she deserted. Mrs. Geer has two small children by her first husband.

Turners Will Meet.

The Norwegian Turners' association will hold a meeting this evening at the quarters of the Duluth Gymnasium club, which the association has secured the use of during the winter. The turners will have the rooms on Wednesday evening of each week, beginning tonight.

The association has not been very active since last winter, but it is proposed to begin a busy season at once. Officers for the ensuing year will likely be named this evening and other important business will be transacted.

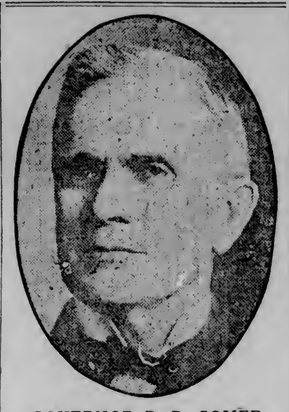
GOVERNOR OF ALABAMA SAYS RAILROADS DEFY THE LAWS OF THE STATE

Calls Special Session of Legislature to Consider Matter.

Says Regulation by State is Matter of Great Importance.

Says Roads Have Influenced Legislation in the Past.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 7.—In his message to the special session of the legislature today, Governor B. B. Comer insisted that the control and regulation of the railroads by the state is a question more important than the making of rates or any other matter, in that it involves the question of right of the state to control its internal affairs. The message goes on to say that President Smith of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, has held out against the Alabama laws while others have put them in effect; has defied the state and its people by conducting a lobby at the capitol; and openly admitted that his company has influenced legislation in the past; has called the governors of Alabama and Georgia populistic; has raised rates over night in defiance of state laws, and has generally refused to recognize the right of the state to make laws applying to transportation companies. That the Alabama rate laws are not confiscatory is evidenced, the governor says, but the fact remains that they prevail in other nearby states and provide profit. Financial troubles he says, have not grown out of the laws made to control corporations, but are due to the rascality of the high financiers, and the producer of the cotton of the South is now coming to save the country from panic. The Louisville & Nashville railroad is charged with manipulating to prevent use of waterways, making rules for handling coal, demurrage and freight rates that are arbitrary, and seeking generally to control the state to the detriment of the people.



GOVERNOR B. B. COMER
Of Alabama, Who, in His Message to a Special Session of the Legislature, Says the Railroads Are Openly Defying the State Laws.

MINNEAPOLIS COLORED MAN KILLED BY ANOTHER.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. Matthews, colored, recently arrived in Minneapolis from Chicago, is under arrest charged with killing Galenus Jones, also colored. Jealousy because of the attentions of Jones to a white woman named Nellie Hays, is said to have been the motive for the killing.

Matthews went to 420 Washington avenue, north, where Jones lived, last night with the avowed intention "to get someone." A quarrel, which followed his arrival ended with the shooting.

WHALER ARRIVES

The Beluga Reaches Frisco With a Big Catch.

Enormous Quantities of Ice Encountered by the Vessel.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—The steam whaler Beluga, Capt. Porter, arrived from the Arctic yesterday with 16,000 pounds of bone, seventy-two foxskins and one bear skin. Capt. Porter confirmed the report from Unalaska that the other ships of the fleet were safe and were coming home with big catches.

Capt. Porter, who has been going to the Arctic for many years said that never before had whales been so plentiful as they were this season. Nine whales fell before the harpoons of the Beluga's whalemen. Capt. Porter said that he never saw the whales so wild. There were thousands of them, but they were very hard to catch. The Beluga lost four whales that had been harpooned. In each case the wounded animal took refuge under the ice, which necessitated cutting the line that held him prisoner.

The Beluga encountered a great deal of ice. Several times the whaler was completely surrounded, but each time a favorable turn of the wind enabled the whalemen to force their vessel into clear water. In one jam it took the Beluga ten days to extricate itself, and when it got clear the propellor was so badly damaged that the ship went under the shelter of Herschel Island and there shipped a new propellor.

The Beluga left Unalaska Oct. 25. Two days before leaving a terrific southeaster swept into the harbor. The steam whaler Belgedire, which left Unalaska Oct. 23, for this port and has not yet arrived, must have been driven far to the northward by the storm.

WANTS HALF OF FORTUNE

Hancock Man Sues His Brother for an Accounting.

Claims He is Worth $1,500,000 and He Desires Half.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Papers have been filed in the circuit court of Houghton county by the attorneys for John Pinten of Hancock, for an accounting by his brother, Joseph Pinten, claimed to be worth $1,500,000. John Pinten claims that he is entitled to half the fortune now alleged to be in the hands of his brother. Depositions in the case are being taken in Hancock and the case is being prepared for trial.

John Pinten claims that he and his brother, Joseph, while working at the old Minnesota mine, Ontonagon county, in the early fifties, agreed to form a partnership for mutual benefit; that he put up money for the partnership to the extent of several hundred dollars, which they decided to invest in Hancock; that they entered into the hardware and real estate business and prospered and later a photograph gallery, conducted by Joseph Pinten was added to the assets of the partnership.

Considerable money was made in certain real estate transfers, it is claimed, one sale netting the brothers $30,000, and another $25,000, for which John claims no accounting was made with him by his brother. After this the brothers drifted apart, it seems, but John claims that the partnership, which was known as a universal agreement, still exists. Therefore he claims one-half of the fortune his brother is said to be worth.

On the other hand Joseph Pinten claims that John is worth considerable and that he, Joseph, owes him nothing. It is further stated that John gave Joseph but a few hundred dollars to invest while the brothers were at the Minnesota mine, and several thousand about 1880, making a total of perhaps $7,000 or $8,000. Now Joseph claims that he has paid John all the money due him and further states that when the business of the partnership did not pay good returns he furnished cash needed. He claims that Joseph owns several buildings in the city of Hancock, and considerable land outside of the city.

BOND SWINDLER UNDER ARREST

Man of Many Aliases Placed in Jail at Spokane.

Le Mars, Iowa, Nov. 7.—Plymouth county officials have been notified taat officers at Spokane have in charge a man of many aliases who for twelve years has been swindling persons in several states by disposing of bonds alleged to have been issued by independent school district No. 13, Neptune township, this county.

The county treasurers have received letters from time to time for twelve years asking about the Neptune school bonds and the treasurer has warned prospective buyers that no such township exists.

The swindler who operated at various times under the name of W. A. Burt, H. O. Wood, Hale & Wood and Rufus C. Crosby, is now in jail at Spokane, near which city he obtained $275 on a bogus school bond of school district No. 4 of Butte county, S. D. His arrest was procured by a bank at Lundee, Or.

His graft is placing bogus school bonds of from $200 to $300 purported to be issued by the treasurer of Cook county, S. D.; treasurer of Skamania county, Washington, and the secretary of Neptune township, Plymouth county, Iowa. He is alleged to have operated in Washington, Oregon and California of late years and prior to that time in Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Nebraska and Iowa.

ENORMOUS ORDERS FOR STEEL RAILS EXPECTED IN ABOUT THIRTY DAYS

Predicted That Nearly 3,000,000 Tons Will be Needed.

Quality of Rails to be Made Has Been Agreed Upon.

Will Keep the Mills Busy for Entire Coming Year.

Pittsburg, Nov. 7.—Predictions are being made here that the delay of the railroads in placing orders for steel rails will be ended within thirty days when it is expected that there will be upwards of from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 tons of new orders placed. The importance of these predictions, should they materialize, to the iron and steel trade of Pittsburg, is hard to overestimate. The vast tonnage, amounting at least to $56,000,000 will place the trade in its normal condition and strengthen every other branch of the steel industry.

Recently it was announced that there were seventeen corporation furnaces blown out. One result of the new orders would be the forcing of a majority of these furnaces to resume operations.

The conferences between the railroads and the steel manufactures over the process of rail manufacture has drifted along for months longer than had been anticipated by either side, it is said. The agreement said to be reached provides for an optional percentage of cropping new rails. Under the old process 8 per cent of a new rail was cut off to insure soundness of the remainder. Experts claimed this is too small and a recommendation that it be increased to 15 per cent was made. To offset the additional cost that this would mean to manufacturers, it is said, it has been tacitly agreed that the increase cropping will advance the price of rails. Under the old arrangement rails sold for $28 a ton, which price, it is said, will advance to $31 a ton under the new arrangement.

The Pittsburg, Bessemer and Lake Erie railroad has placed orders for 183,000 new steel ties. The contract which is considered significant in connection with the steel tie industry, was placed this week.

It is said, should expectations be realized, the new rail orders will give the rail mills all they can do during the coming year.

FOUR VOTE MARGIN

Elects Mayor of East Grand Forks and Expected Reforms.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—In what was one of the warmest campaigns that was ever fought here, Hugh Dunlevy was elected mayor of East Grand Forks by a majority of four votes over O'Leary, the present incumbent. T. A. Sullivan was elected municipal judge over Attorney Massee. It is believed there will be some decided changes in municipal regulations—which will tend to fasten the lid down even tighter than it has been for the past few days.

BERLIN BOURSE.

Berlin, Nov. 7.—Trading on the bourse today opened quiet with the tone irregular. Later prices became decidedly weaker upon the advance in the Bank of England's discount rate.

AWFUL EARTHQUAKE OCCURS IN SPAIN

Madrid, Nov. 7.—A violent earthquake has occurred at Torre la Ribera, in the province of Huesca. The earth opened, leaving great fissures, the disturbance being accompanied by subterranean rumblings, which caused a panic among the population. Many houses were shaken down. The number of lives lost is not known.

GRAIN DEALERS SEE THEIR WAY CLEAR TO MOVE CROPS

Money Already Raised, Sufficient to Tide Matters Over.

About Half the Wheat Crop is Already Purchased.

Additional $500,000 is Secured by American Exchange Bank.

The grain trade is well satisfied with the arrangements that have been made to take care of the movement of the Northwest's great crop to the Eastern market.

The general sentiment seems to be that the financial atmosphere, so murky for the past two or three weeks, is gradually clearing and grain interests feel that the $4,000,000, which has been pledged to Duluth and the Twin Cities to permit a resumption of the grain business on an adequate basis together with the $500,000 raised by W. G. Hegardt will tide the trade over until conditions have righted themselves.

The sum of $4,000,000 will not pay for all the grain that is still unbought and in the hands of the farmers, but it is estimated to be enough to carry on business for a time, and buyers and sellers alike feel much encouraged.

Half Durum Crop Sold.

It is estimated that about 50 per cent of the crop of spring and durum wheat or from 75,000,000 bushels to 80,000,000 bushels, is now out of the farmers' hands. That is, it is in country elevators, at the terminals or has already been sent East and to market.

Most of the grain out of the farmers' hands has been paid for and as soon as a system of credit exchange with the East can be resumed on a satisfactory basis, the money that has been received by the commission firms and exporters can be used to buy more grain, and help along the crop movement further.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, at which all of the big line elevator companies were represented, and a plan was adopted to carry on business between the cities and markets and the country which gives satisfaction all around.

It provides for a system of credit exchange without entailing any actual transfers of currency, the scarcity of which at this time has been the cause of the tie up.

The plan, briefly is this: The cities owe the country for the crop and the country in turn owes the cities for merchandise and manufactured articles of all descriptions. The country banks are to accept for their face value the drafts on the home offices given by elevator agents to the farmers and instead of shipping the currency, a line

AMERICAN CONTROL FOR CUBA, SAYS DR. PALMA

FORMER PRESIDENT ESTRADA PALMA.

Havana, Nov. 7.—Estrada Palma, formerly president of Cuba, has authorized the publication of his views regarding American intervention. He declares publicly in favor of American control in Cuba.

"It is enough to satisfy my conscience," he says, "this conviction of having saved my beloved country from anarchy and its natural results of plunder and ruin."

He continues, describing what he considers the criminal acts on the part of the revolutionists, and the necessity to call on the Americans to prevent a protracted and sanguinary contest. "If I did right or wrong, time will say. That my attitude was immediately justified is proved by the sudden re-establishment of peace through the moral and material influence of the Americans.

"I do not hesitate to declare that it is a hundred times better for our beloved Cuba to be in a dependent political situation, in which liberty is prevailing, than in a republic independent of a sovereign but discredited and ruined by blasting periodical civil strifes."

The letter is considered important, as Dr. Palma still commands a great influence with a large number of Cubans.

NO TRUCE WITH TELEGRAPHERS

Returning Strikers Are Employed Merely as Individuals.

New York, Nov. 7.—In an interview today Col. R. C. Clowry, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, says that the statement made by an officer of the Telegraphers' union to the effect that a truce or agreement had been entered into between the telegraph company and the strikers is absolutely untrue. The returning strikers will only be re-employed on their indixidual application and but a small percentage of them can be given employment.

Following the official calling off of the strike by the local union, the offices of the Western Union were crowded with applicants today who sought to regain their old positions. None, was accepted, however, the company, according to its statement, having brought its force up to the original quota Tuesday. By 10 o'clock this morning the waiting list was full, and no more names were taken.

WOULD HOLD THEIR GOLD

Bank of England Raises Rate of Discount to 7 Per Cent.

High Rate Not Likely to Prevent Shipments to New York.

London, Nov. 7.—The directors of the Bank of England this morning put up the minimum discount rate from 6 to 7 per cent. The only thing which could have averted this heavy rate would have been assurance from responsible quarters in New York that the situation there, which it is recognized is due to the exceptional demands upon capital in consequence of the great commercial activity in America, is sufficiently well in hand to warrant the expectation that there would be an early cessation of the gold drain on this market. In the absence of such an assurance the Bank of England utilized the only weapon at hand to protect its reserves. It is realized, however, that even this high rate may not prevent shipments of gold to New York, but is hoped that it may attract the metal from abroad in sufficient quantities to restore the equilibrium. The step was doubly necessary, as the bank must nurse its supplies just at present for the autumn country cash requirements as well as the usual Egyptian demands, and there is a possibility of demands for gold from Argentina.

The last occasion when a 7 per cent rate was enforced by the Bank of England was in 1873 and was due to financial troubles on the continent and in America. On that occasion the rate eventually reached 9 per cent, but it quickly fell to 4½.

The local business community is bound to feel the pinch, and the financiers anticipate that the drastic rate will cause an even greater squeeze in Germany with a consequent increase of discount rate of the imperial bank and selling orders from Berlin.

The annduncement of the increase of the Bank of England's rate by a full point had a strong effect on the stock exchange here, consols which opened 3-16 higher owing to the settlement of the railway dispute immediately fell ½ a point. Home rails started 1 to 4 points dearer, but lost most of the advance within a few minutes. American rails had similar experiences. The opening prices ruled around parity, but a drop of a point followed immediately after the publication of the bank rate, and selling brought quotations at noon down 1 to 3 points lower than yesterday. It was not until the bank statement was issued that the market fully RAILROAD STRIKE HAS BEEN AVERTED.

London, Nov. 7.—The anticipated railroad strike throughout Great Britain, the idea of which caused so much concern to the British public, has been averted by an agreement drafted by David Lloyd-George, president of the international railroad commission and representatives of the International Society of Railway Employes. The agreement provides for further arbitration in the dispute by a sectional board of arbitration representing the employes and the railroad companies.

IS IN FAVOR OF JOHNSON

Poll of North Dakota Democrats on the Presidency.

State Likely to Send Instructed Delegation for Johnson.

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Desiring to ascertain the views of the Democrats of North Dakota relative to their choice for the Democratic nomination for president next year, the Evening Press, the official organ of the Democracy of this state, has for the past month conducted a poll of the state, which has just been concluded with the following result:

John A. Johnson	876
W. J. Bryan	702
Chanler	109
Folk	74
Francis	62
Williams	51
Tom Johnson	49
Hearst	42
Hoke Smith	9

As a result of this poll the Evening Press announces itself today favoring the nomination of Johnson, and expresses the belief that the state of North Dakota will send an instructed delegation to the next national convention favorable to Johnson.

The large Johnson vote came as a complete surprise to the friends of Mr. Bryan, as it was generally believed that the state was quite strongly for him. The comparatively large vote given Chanler of New York is also a surprise, as very little had been heard of his candidacy in this state until very recently.

The Democrats of North Dakota, have, for the first time in years, elected their candidate for governor, and letters accompanying the ballots indicate that the Democrats are not only confident of re-electing him next year, but believe that with Johnson as the standard bearer, both Minnesota and North Dakota, both considered rock-ribbed Republican states in national campaigns, can be carried for the Democrats.

STATE RAISES OBJECTIONS

Takes Advantage of Technicalities in Tax Amendment Case.

The hearing of the tax amendment appeal of S. G. McConaughy is still in progress before Judge Dibell and the testimony of the ballot inspectors was heard this morning by the court. The testimony related to the methods employed by the inspectors on the recount of the votes cast for and against the tax amendment and the good roads amendment at the last general election.

Assistant Attorney General Simpson, for the state canvassing board, interposed objections whenever possible on legal technicalities that arise, but thus far the appellants have been able to show, in the main, that few of the election board noticed the transposition on the tally sheets, made through a mistake of the printer.

Mr. Simpson maintained yesterday that the ballots should be produced instead of the report of the inspectors, but was overruled.

All the petitions were laid on the table, it is quite probable that they will remain there. It was rumored that the board would rescind its action relative to the settlers represented by C. B. Miller, whose application was granted last month, but up to this afternoon no action had been taken in the matter.

Pe-ru-na as a November Remedy.

The month of November, in temperate regions especially, requires of the human body a very radical adjustment to climatic conditions. The hot weather has passed, and cold weather has taken its place. That the CIRCULATION OF BLOOD IN THE SKIN SHOULD BE FREE and active is a matter of common knowledge. And in order that the body may be protected against the lowering temperature a vigorous circulation of blood in the skin must be maintained.

It is not so generally known, however, that the inside of the body also needs protection. THE MUCOUS MEMBRANES OF THE BODY, that line every passage and cavity and duct, also suffer from the change from hot to cold weather.

A medicinal compound that gently tones up these mucous membranes, enabling them to ADJUST TO WINTER WEATHER, is not only valuable to a great multitude of people, but to another multitude is absolutely essential to health.

Whether Peruna is a medicinal compound that meets these requirements can be judged by a hasty glance at some of its principal ingredients.

Take, for instance, hydrastis canadensis, which is an ingredient of Peruna. The United States Dispensatory says of this herbal remedy, that it is employed as a cure for DEPRAVED MUCOUS MEMBRANES, not only of the nose and head, but also of the stomach and intestines, as well as other internal organs. Hydrastis canadensis ordinarily known as golden seal, is thus very clearly classed by the highest authorities as a valuable remedy wherever the mucous membranes of the body are in need of a little medicinal help.

Cedron is also one of the principal ingredients of Peruna. It is recognized by the United States Dispensatory and all leading works on materia medica, as a TONIC OF THE GREATEST VALUE. It is also an anti periodic and anti malarial remedy, and is therefore frequently used as a SUBSTITUTE FOR QUININE. It is a remedy of great merit, somewhat overlooked by the medical profession of late, but its undoubted tonic qualities are sure to reinstate this remedy in its original high-class rank as a safe and efficient tonic and appetizer.

Another ingredient of Peruna which is of manifest benefit is cubebs. Bartholow, in his excellent work on therapeutics, states that cubebs PROMOTES THE APPETITE, ASSISTS DIGESTION, and increases the circulation of the blood. He also goes on to recommend it for catarrh not only of the head and pharynx, but also of the stomach, as well as the other internal organs.

LAST, BUT NOT LEAST, IS COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS. This remedy, for many years has enjoyed a great reputation in southern states as a panacea for many diseases such as dropsy, indigestion, cramp, sick headache, and the like. Dr. Scudder, a writer of great fame, also recommends this herbal remedy for chronic diseases of the lungs and heart.

These are some of the principal ingredients of Peruna compounded into a single remedy by skillful and experienced pharmacists. The compound has been so devised that each remedy retains its full therapeutic value, one assisting the other in their beneficial action upon the human system, MAKING OF PERUNA A VERY EFFICIENT AND VALUA LE REMEDY.

People who pass through the month of November safely and find themselves acclimated to winter weather, generally pass through the remainder of the cold season without any serious difficulty. But NOVEMBER IS A CRITICAL MONTH. The adjustment of a large multitude of people fails to meet the exigencies of approaching winter.

No safer or more appropriate remedy than Peruna could be found. Taken according to the directions on the bottle, not only would catarrhal ailments be warded off but catarrh already acquired be corrected. It is with the assurance of knowing that we are right that we present to the public Peruna as an IDEAL TONIC AND CATARRH REMEDY.

The truth of the above statements is absolutely unassailable, and the knowledge concerning Peruna which they convey places this remedy beyond all cavil as a great family medicine. If any further evidence is needed we stand ready to furnish it through the MULTITUDE OF SINCERE AND UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS of the people, from Canada to Mexico, from Cape Town to Cairo, from Puerto Rico to the Philippines.

NAVY OFFICE IS HANDICAPPED

Rigid Citizenship Regulations Keep Out Many Applicants.

Because more rigid enforcements are observed in the securing of recruits to the navy than are enforced in the enlistment conditions of the United States army, the navy officials are finding it more difficult to secure men than the other branch of the service.

The navy regulations require an applicant to have full citizenship. In the army regulations it is only necessary for an applicant to have taken out his first naturalization papers. In this way many men, especially in this part of the state, who would rather join the navy than serve in the army, are deterred from carrying out their desire.

Since the first efforts of the financial stringency the naval officers stationed here have observed the effects of this rule. Many of the laborers in Duluth and the range districts are foreigners who have not taken out all their naturalization papers. Until they have they are barred from joining the naval branch of the United States military service.

For this reason, more than any other cause, the naval officials are not receiving more recruits since the beginning of the retrenchment in operations that employ a large number of men. The army officials are receiving applications from men who have not taken out all their citizenship papers and are enlisting many of them.

The war department wants its navy to be all-American. Its regulations are most rigid on this subject. The army therefore, with its more flexible enlistment conditions, presents a more cosmopolitan appearance, with recruits of many nationalities, than does the naval branch of the service, which is composed for the most part of men and boys who are American by birth.

WILL DELAY ACTION UNTIL NEXT MEETING

County Board Considers Idea of Increasing Courthouse Appropriation.

Committees Appear Before Commissioners With Recommendations.

Consideration of the plans for the new courthouse took up the attention of county board this morning and the commissioners adjourned at noon with the intention of completing the regular business of the board at a meeting this afternoon.

Representatives of the city, the Commercial club and the Builders' Exchange appeared before the board and several propositions relative to the proper site and the amount of money that should be appropriated were discussed, but no action was taken. It was the understanding this noon that the courthouse matter will be laid on the table until the meeting of the board in December.

A communication from the courthouse commission included a resolution by that body in which it was stated that a courthouse sufficient for the needs of the county in the future cannot be built for the $700,000 already appropriated and recommending that the amount be increased by the board to $1,250,000.

Mayor Cullum, representing the city administration told the commissioners that the council and many of the citizens are in favor of a general grouping plan of the public buildings. He recommended that the county be liberal in its appropriation and that it build with a view of bringing about, eventually, the group plan for the public buildings in the city.

Favor Grouping Plan.

W. A. McGonagle, representing the public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club stated that the members of the club favor the grouping plan and recommend the location of the courthouse between Fourth and Sixth avenues west partly above Second street. The resolution of the committee recommended, further, an appropriation of $1,500,000 for a courthouse and site.

A. H. Kreiger, representing the Builders' Exchange, presented a plan for the grouping of the public buildings in a triangular plan, the city hall to occupy the intersection of Fifth avenue west and Second street, the courthouse to be erected on First street east of Fifth avenue and the government building on First street west of the avenue. The Builders' Exchange recommended that a sum not to exceed $800,000 be spent on the courthouse building.

Discussion over the courthouse plans developed as soon as the resolution of the courthouse commission recommending the increased appropriation was read.

Commissioner Kauppi wanted to postpone action for another month in order that the commissioners could find out the sentiment of their constituents. Mr. Kauppi said he did not wish to throw anything in the way of the courthouse plans, but he thought the board should go easy until they know how the taxpayers feel about appropriating a large amount of money.

Commissioner Tischer thought there had been delay enough and that if something is not done soon the county will never get a new courthouse.

Commissioner McMahon suggested that the courthouse commission is no nearer a plan for a courthouse than they were some time ago. He thought it would be wise to wait until some definite plan had been adopted.

Chairman Patterson said he had the opinions of some of the taxpayers, but he wanted to hear from more of them before he voted on a larger appropriation.

Commissioner Ryan said he understood that a question had been raised as to the right of the board to increase the appropriation and that for this reason a delay of thirty days might be advisable. He stated that the courthouse commission is anxious to be in harmony with the views of the county board as to the selection of a site, building plans and the appropriation, in fact, the commission wanted to know how the board feels about the matter.

Committee Present.

While the discussion was in progress the committee representing the Commercial club came in. The committee comprised Messrs. McGonagle, L. Mendenhall, B. Silberstein, F. A. Patrick, N. J. Uphan, W. B. Silvey and J. J. Moe.

Mr. McGonagle acting as spokesman, presented a sketch proposing the location of the courthouse on the intersection of Fifth avenue west and Second street, the idea being for the county to acquire additional property above and below Second street, about 100 feet on the west side of the avenue and 125 feet on the east side at an estimated expense of $243,000. The plan suggests the location of the city hall on First street, east of Fifth avenue, and the federal building on the same street, west of the avenue. He stated that the government already has 200 feet on First street, west of Fifth avenue and is taking steps to acquire the rest of the property to Sixth avenue west. Mr. McGonagle argued that this arrangement would make provision for additions to the buildings, according to future needs.

City Favors Grouping.

Mayor Cullum and City Attorney Bert Fesler, represented the council at the board meeting. Mayor Cullum said the council favors the grouping plan, but has no special plan to suggest. He stated that the city is not now in a position to indicate what it can do in a financial way in regard to carrying out the general grouping scheme, but claimed that a liberal appropriation by the county would meet with approval in the city.

Mayor Cullum thought that if the board would delay action for a month the city might be able to make a more definite statement as to its position.

Will Mean Bonding County.

Chairman Patterson told the visiting committees that if a larger appropriation for a courthouse is made by the board it will necessitate the bonding of the county and the people will have to determine by vote whether they want to issue bonds for the purpose of raising the money.

Commissioner Kauppi asked Mayor Cullum if the latter thought it would be wise for the board to go ahead and make a larger appropriation without knowing what the city intends to do. The mayor said that was a matter for the board and the courthouse commission to determine, that he, the mayor, was not in a position to advise.

Mr. McGonagle said that speaking for himself and the public affairs committee, he believed the board would be justified in raising the appropriation to $1,250,000. He based his opinion on the increasing business importance of the city and the county interests generally. He also suggested that little can be done to get the government to act until some definite proposition is presented to it relative to a grouping plan. Mr. McGonagle suggested that the board delay action for another month, as it seems advisable that during the interval the public affairs committee will take the matter up with the government to get an expression of its views, if possible.

The Government's Position.

L. M. Willcutts, collector of customs and the government's representative at the gathering this morning, stated that the government had purchased the southwest corner of Fifth avenue west and First street to erect a new postoffice building, but that the site is not large enough and steps are being taken to acquire the rest of the block to Sixth avenue west. Mr. Willcutts said that the present federal building will not be large enough to accommodate the rest of the federal offices after the postoffice is removed, that the old building cannot be remodelled to meet the needs without greater expense than a new building would incur. Personally, he believed that the government could get enough money from the sale of the old government building site to buy the remaining four lots on First street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, and that in so doing it will be ahead in the game.

Big City Hall Wanted.

At this point R. D. Haven stated that A. H. Kreiger, L. A. Larsen and himself, representing the builders' exchange, would like to present a resolution of the exchange. This was read by Mr. Krieger. The exchange, by a practically unanimous vote, advocated the placing of the city hall at the intersection of Fifth avenue west and Second street, and the courthouse and federal building on First street. An appropriation not exceeding $800,000 for the courthouse building was recommended. Mr. Krieger explained the plan at some length and claimed that if it were followed, there would be no delay in the building of the courthouse on the site already purchased for the purpose, the city to acquire the additional property necessary when it is in a position to do so.

Mr. Larsen also spoke in favor of the plan suggested by the exchange.

Mr. McGonagle said that there are serious objections to the plan of the exchange, that it contemplates a city hall larger than the courthouse, something that the city will not be in position to provide funds in the next twenty-five years. Mr. McGonagle did not believe that the city would ever require a building larger than the county courthouse.

J. J. Moe thought the plan of the exchange would be putting the cart before the horse.

W. B. Silvey advocated the grouping plan with the courthous at Second street and Fifth avenue west.

Commissioner McInnis and Luther Mendenhall discussed the plans to some extent, and the board went into regular session again.

The work of reconstructing the old frigate Constitution, more familiarly known as "Old Ironsides," has progressed so far that she is about ready for the guns and which are to be exact duplicates of those used a century ago. When the system needs rebuilding there is no better remedy for the work than the famous Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It was first compounded over half a century ago, and on account of its intrinsic merit has grown in popularity until today it stands first in its class. Be persuaded to try a bottle the next time the appetite is poor, nerves unstrung, bowels constipated and sleep restless. It will be sufficient to convince you of its great curative powers. SCHEME ON THE SQUARE.

Suspicions Regarding Minneapolis Canvassers Evidently Unfounded.

Henry Mantz and a co-worker, who were arrested on a charge of peddling without a license, pleaded guilty and were fined $7 each in municipal court, claim that an injustice has been done them in the intimation given that their scheme was not entirely fair and above board.

The fact that the two men were operating in West Duluth was first reported to the police by a man, who thought that all was not square. The men represent the National Trading & Household Supply Co., of Minneapolis and, when their trading stamp arrangement is fully explained, it is evident that the purchaser of the stamps gets value received. The police were convinced of it, when the plan of operation was explained, and they charged the men with peddling without a license. The men pleaded guilty to the technical charge, claiming that there was no intention to defraud anybody.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

THEY CAN'T BE LOCATED

Disappearance of Two Old People is Baffling Hubbard County.

Mrs. Chase and Seiforth, Both Old Folks Are Missing.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. .—(Special to The Herald.)—The people living near Yola postoffice, in Hubbard county, are still mystified at the disappearance of Mrs. Emily Chase and William Sieforth, who have been missed from their homes for a long time.

Mrs. Emily Chase, who was about 70 years old, disappeared from her cabin about June 27. Persistent search was subsequently made by the county officials of Hubbard county, and organized posses of people living in the vicinity of Yola, but nothing was found to indicate where the old lady had gone or whether she had been foully dealt with. The country in the vicinity of Mrs. Chase's home was covered with dense underbrush, and there is also a large flowage where a human body would speedily sink forever from view. Many think that the body of Mrs. Chase is imprisoned under the floating bog in the flowage and will never be recovered.

Mr. Sieforth, who had a homestead about three miles from Yola, has not been seen for two months past. He disappeared from his home about Sept. 1, when he was in the Yola postoffice the last time.

Mr. Sieforth was about 80 years old, and lived in his cabin. The belief is prevalent that he wandered into the woods and perished, and that his body will be recovered some day, although many have searched through the woods to find some trace of the old man.

The two cases of disappearance at almost the same locality looks strange, but there is no positive proof that there was foul play in either case.

LANDS FOR PEOPLE.

Fort Peck, Mont., Indian Reserve to Open in Three Years.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Allowing three years to complete the allotment of the lands on the Fort Peck Indian reservation in Northeastern Montana, C. B. Lohmiller, the agent of the reservation, and Daniel Knapp, an Indian trader at Oswego, Mont., who are in the city, declare that there will be about 1,500,000 acres of fine farming land thrown open to the people during 1910. There are about 2,000,000 acres in the reserve of which the Indians are to receive half a million. A treaty has been negotiated with the Indians for opening the reservation and will be presented to congress for ratification.

The tract lies in the northeastern part of Montana, its southern border touching the Missouri river, and Mr. Lohmiller says the 1,800 Indians now living there are quiet and prosperous. Their principal occupation is stockraising, but the land is rich and well adapted to farming purposes.

MANY MEN WORKING

Developing Iron Properties in Rabbit Lake Country.

Aitkin, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mining operations are proceeding without halt at the work of the Rogers-Brown company on the south side of Rabbit lake, where about fifty men are at work in the shaft and at the drills on the Erick place. Comfortable buildings are provided and the equipment at the shaft is all that the work demands. A night crew has been put on now, and the shaft is down over fifty feet. The work of dropping the shaft is a most intricate thing, and this part of developing the new iron property is in charge of a man of years of experience who is considered an authority on this work. There is no question about a big body of merchantable ore existing on the new range, and a year or so will see actual mining and shipping.

The Northern Pacific has a survey to the shaft from near Cedar Lake, and the survey of the Soo or South Shore which was made through here a year ago passes close to the property. Both of these lines will undoubtedly be built in time. It is reported that the mining company has guaranteed shipments to warrant building the Northern Pacific spur right from the start. An immense amount of timber and coal is being hauled in by team now from Deerwood.

UNCLAIMED PENSIONS FOR MINNESOTA VETERANS.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Letters have been received by Adjt. Gen. Wood asking for information leading to the whereabouts of relatives of Cyrus H. Hatch, J. D. Young, Leroy F. Thompson, John H. Haynor and N. H. Spaulding. They are all Minnesota veterans of the Civil war. A former employe of the United States pension department asks for the information. He says tthere is from $100 to $1,000 in pension money awaiting each of the parties named.

CHILD BORN ON TRAIN.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Charles Petterson of Preposky, boarded the train Monday morning for Bemidji. When about eight miles from this city a hurry-up call was sent into the baggage car for Conductor Dwyer, who made the lady comfortable as possible and calling in some lady passengers, retired to the engine and stopped the train. In about ten minutes a report reached him that it was a boy, weight ten pounds, and the train came in one time.

ENDS HIS SUFFERING.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dementrius P. Roussopoulous, a well known St. Paul business man and capitalist, committed suicide at his residence on Goodrich avenue yesterday afternoon. He had been suffering from nervous prostration for several months.

MAKE THEIR OWN LIQUOR THEN DIE

Lumberjacks Find Fatal Drink in Alcohol and Water.

Iron River, Wis., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three sudden deaths in this locality in the past few days have just been investigated by the authorities. B. M. Mattson died at one of the Hines camps Sunday evening, presumably from drinking a very poor quality of whisky. Another employe had conceived the notion of mixing his own drinks, taking about 80 per cent pure alcohol and diluting it with milder drinks, but the originator of the scheme died a few days ago. Mattson is said to have drank some of the same stuff, and he too, died.

The third death was that of Albert Anderson, who with two companions, was engaged in cutting ties. Anderson disappeared about a week ago, and as he had been drinking, his companions expected to find him dead. His body was discovered lying by the railway track and was identified by Anderson's two companions yesterday. He appeared to have been dead about four days.

MEXICAN WAR VETERAN

Denied Pension Because He Can't Find Discharge Papers.

Manawa, Wis., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Born in Lowden county, Virginia, in 1810, being now 97 years of age, Benjamin H. Longley has again been denied a pension. Mr. Longley entered the army at the time the Mexican war broke out, serving three years and being wounded in the battles of Chipeicipek and San Francisco. Late in the fall of 1860, Mr. Longley made application for service under the late Gabriel Bouck of Oshkosh, but was refused on account of his age. Friends of Mr. Longley have made strenuous efforts to obtain a pension for him, but his discharge papers having been burned and his memory having failed, it has been impossible.

TEMPERATE INDIANS

Threaten Prosecution of Any One Giving Redmen Liquor.

Marshfield, Wis., Nov. 7.—With a plea for their own race that they be allowed to live a sober and peaceable life, White Pigeon and John Lewis, Indians, have practically clapped the "lid" on Marshfield. The Indians have posted notices in all Marshfield saloons, saying that it is the desire of their little tribe to live a sober and industrious life on their farms near Arpin, and if they find anyone furnishing intoxicating liquor to any of the tribe, every possible means will be used to convict him. This action is unique in the history of Wisconsin Indians.

THESE DEER ARE ONTO BUSINESS

Return to Preserve Before Game Season has Opened up.

Marquette, Mich., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The deer at Presque Isle park are returning from their annual visiting; in fact, nearly all of them are back already. Each summer the deer are permitted to roam at large in the wilderness, and in all probability they cover a good share of Upper Michigan in the course of their wanderings. They are free to leave. No fences stay them, and if there were fences they could easily make their escape by a short swim in Lake Superior. Their movements occasion no concern, however, as experience has taught that the deer always return.

The custodian of the park now reports that they are nearly all back, for all the world as if they understood that the hunting season opened next Sunday and that Presque Isle was a healthy place to be during that particular period. However, it is the certainty of being fed during the winter that attracts them. One buck has returned minus a horn, but whether it was shot off or he lost it in a fight with some other buck is not known.

CRACK ENGLISH SHOTS

Visit Northern Michigan Country to Hunt for Deer.

Menominee, Nov. 7.—William Salisbury of London, Eng., and George Scott of Dundee, Scotland, passed through Menominee on their way to Iron Mountain, where they are to spend several weeks as the guests of a well known doctor of that city. The gentlemen are said to be two of the best amateur rifle shots in the British Isles.

William Salisbury was the winner of the Amateur Riflemen's association meet, which was held in London last July, and since that time has been spending the summer months in the Eastern woods. Neither gentlemen has ever shot deer and expect to spend the twenty days in a manner that will be long remembered.

HEIR IN ASYLUM.

Newberry, Mich., Nov. 7. — That Ole Kristian Thoresen, a patient at the Newberry asylum, is the heir to an estate in his native land is the advice received from Norwegian consul at Chicago. Thoresen has been insane for ten years, and is said to be incurable. The property will be held in his name until his death, when it will go to a niece and a nephew, his only relatives.

"LONE STAR KID" IS UNDER ARREST

Alleged Slayer of Marshal of Valley City is Taken.

Minot, N. D., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The chief of police believes he has made a most important capture in taking into custody "Blackie" alias the "Lone Star Kid," wanted for the murder of Marshal H. M. Cersonius of Valley City, on the night of Aug. 27, last. He was identified by a man from Jamestown, who knew Blackie when he lived at that place.

A dozen suspects have been arrested since the crime, and all were rejected by the Jamestown man as not being Blackie. In the aggregate there is a reward of $3,800 for the arrest and conviction of

Letters Opened By Grindstone

Receives More Mail Than Any Other Woman in the State.

How would you like to receive so much mail that it would be necessary to use a grindstone in order to open the letters as fast as they come in? This is the way a woman in Indiana opens her mail. Mrs. Cora B. Miller of Kokomo gets tons of mail and to save time has them opened by a large grindstone which occupies a conspicuous place in her office. No other person in Indiana receives so much mail as she.

To give an idea of how vast her correspondence is you need only to be told that she spends in one year $5000 for postage stamps. How many letters will this send out? It is first-class postage for 125,000 letters. Mrs. Miller's correspondence is not confined to one state or one country, but women from all parts of the world write her and it certainly is a pleasure to receive so many letters so full of love and gratitude. The reason Mrs. Miller receives so many kind, grateful and assuring letters is because she gives treatment free of cost to suffering women. A few months ago she sent by mail absolutely free of cost $10,000 worth of medicine to women who were afflicted with female diseases or piles. She is still receiving thousands of requests from ladies who have never used the remedy and has decided to give another lot of $20,000 worth away to those in need of treatment.

Here is a simple mild and efficient home remedy which has been used by more than a million women in the privacy of their own home, curing when doctors and other medicines failed.

It is especially prepared for the speedy and permanent cure of leucorrhoea or whitish discharges; ulceration, displacements or falling of the womb, profuse, scanty or painful periods; uterine or ovarian tumors or growths; also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness; creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry; hot flashes, weariness, and piles from any cause or no matter of how long standing.

Every woman who is a sufferer, unable to find relief, should write Mrs. Miller now without delay and she will send by mail free of charge a 50-cent box of her simple home remedy, also her book, with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer and how they can easily cure themselves at home.

Don't suffer another day, but write at once to Mrs. Cora B. Miller, Box 9229, Kokomo, Ind.

PREPARED FOR WINTER.

Chicago Drummer Had to Shed His Winter Togs in Minot.

Minot, N. D., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heavily muffled in a fur-lined overcoat, fur cap, neck scarf and mittens, a man stepped into one of the leading stores yesterday and asked whether it would of high topped lined boots for a lighter pair. He said that he was the traveling representative of a Chicago house and that this was his first trip into North Dakota. The reports which had come from this state last winter made him believe that the weather was around freezing point each day and that he had better come prepared. The exchange was arranged and he was also advised to make a like transfer of some of his other unnecessary apparel.

MINNESOTA IN BRIEF

Moorhead — The dance given by Moorhead hook and ladder company Monday night was a record-breaker in point of attendance and general good time, and large Fraternity hall was wholly inadequate for the large crowd present.

Brainerd—The Minnesota & International is having the heaviest passenger trains in and out of the city. The train Tuesday consisted of four passenger cars and a combination baggage and smoker.

Crookston—Capt. Alfred Vonderbeck of the police force, has purchased the Charles Thomas residence in Sampson's addition for $3,000. This is one of the best and most conveniently located dwellings in that portion of the city.

Littlefork—W. P. Mackey of Stillwater, is contemplating putting in a saw mill on the Ole Olson homestead just across the river from the village. It is understood that a mill of about 25,000 daily capacity will be installed. Mr. Mackey has considerable timber in the vicinity of Littlefork.

Owatonna—John Shephard, an old soldier and old settler, committed suicide here Tuesday. Shepard purchased a 38-caliber revolver with which he committed the deed. He evidently placed the gun in his mouth, blowing a hole entirely through his head.

Minneapolis—Fire Monday destroyed the summer home of H. E. Michener at Minnetonka Beach. As the city department was unable to lend any assistance the flames spread rapidly, and for a time threatened to also destroy the summer home of City Treasurer C. S. Hulburt.

Manitowoc — After having spent $6,000 the city must abandon the foot bridge which was placed over the river at State street a year ago. Maj. Judson, the government engineer, in a communication to the council has declared that the war department will not permit the re-establishment of the bridge which was moved at the time when the city was dredging the river.

Marengo—The large portable saw mill here has again resumed operations. The mill which is owned by John Wilson does considerable sawing for the farmers in the vicinity of Marengo and employs almost twenty men.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Red Jacket — The need of suitable dwellings in Red Jacket was never more pronounced than at present. There is an overcrowding to the detriment of the inmates of the various homes, and the general health of the village.

DAKOTAS IN BRIEF

Minnewaukan, N. D.—While boring a well on his farm, W. J. Maddock struck a vein at a depth of ninety feet, which immediately commenced to flow, spurting water eighteen feet into the air. Mr. Kaplan Explains.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In today's Herald there is published an article captioned "Kaplan Seeks Office." Will you kindly grant me brief space to explain away any possible misunderstanding that may arise from the off-hand perusal of such an article?

We Socialists are not political jobhunters. We nominate candidates to be voted for at political elections only because they become at such times the concrete expressions representative of our principles. Should the writer perchance be elected to the mayoralty, which is not at all probable, every penny of the salary attached to the position will be used for the propoganding of the Socialist creed. Incidentally, I desire to state that I am prepared to meet in public debate, all opposition candidates.

M. KAPLAN.

Duluth, Nov. 6.

HE DREADED WINTER WITHOUT ANY MEANS.

Owatonna, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unable to bear the thought of facing winter without any means, Jack Shepard, a veteran of the Civil war and a pioneer settler in this section, took his life.

He purchased a 38-caliber revolver and walked out along the Northwestern right of way northwest of the city to a point about a quarter of a mile from the state public school, and in full view of several houses. He evidently placed the gun in his mouth, blowing a hole entirely through his head. Section men coming in from work saw the body lying on the grass near the track and telephoned the coroner.

Shepard has a son either in Minneapolis or St. Paul, and a wife and several children in Medford, just north of this city. He was a well known character about the city, and had lived here forty or more years.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before the baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is women's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

MAIL ORDERS: Promptly and Carefully Filled. THE GLASS BLOCK STORE HOURS: From 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Saturdays till 10 p. m.

NEXT SPRING we will open the largest and most elaborate dressmaking parlors west of Chicago. In addition to doing medium and high-class dressmaking, we will increase the size of our present manufacturing department.

TO ACCOMPLISH THIS, we will require just one-half of our present furniture floor. When we say we are going out of the general furniture business, we mean we will not carry a general retail line, but will carry samples only of such goods as are suitable for our big contract department and special work.

NOW, YOU UNDERSTAND WHY we are having this sale—and why we are offering such unprecedented bargains:—we want the space—must have it—and to get it and get it quick, we simply ask you to come and inspect the goods and the prices—that's sufficient.

IF YOU HAVE AN ACCOUNT in the store you can have all you want charged; if your credit is good and you have no account in the store, you ought to have one; all others must pay cash. Positively no goods sold on the installment plan.

A WORD FURTHER! Most of you know how we were crowded last Christmas for space to display holiday lines. By clearing out the furniture on this floor during the next two or three weeks, it will enable us to utilize this space for the biggest and grandest display of holiday merchandise ever shown by any house in the West. "Enough Said."

THE HABIT OF INDEPENDENCE.

If this week's elections in general showed anything, they showed that the habit of independent thinking and independent voting has become fixed upon the American people.

It is a splendid thing, because it shows that the vision of the people is clear at last, and that they see that the proper end of politics is not party success but public good.

The Cleveland election was of national importance, not because of the personalities of the candidates or because of the issues, but because it was a conspicuous failure of an attempt to run a local election on national lines. Popular as Roosevelt is, the fact that he was back of Burton in his candidacy did him nothing but harm, because the people of Cleveland were looking at local issues and such tangible things as 3-cent street car fares, and didn't give a hang about anybody's personal ambitions.

At the expense of the city of Cleveland, Taft was to receive encouragement and support, Foraker and Dick were to be rebuked, and Burton was to acquire the mayoralty as a stepping stone to the United States senate. But the people, disregarding politics and large schemes for political advancement of individuals, refused to be blinded, and voted their own convictions for the sake of the city and people of Cleveland.

In New Jersey the Republican majority that Roosevelt received in 1904 was tumbled to the ground largely because many people preferred the Democratic candidate for governor rather than the Republican candidate. In Kentucky the time-honored Democratic majority disappeared altogether and a Republican was elected governor, on purely state issues. In New York, where the principal fight was on the selection of judges, Tammany reaped the credit of a victory because the people trusted the Democratic candidates more than they did those running as the illegitimate children of that strange misalliance between the Republicans and Hearst's Independence league.

In San Francisco good government was the demand of a people that has been robbed and cheated and despoiled by as arrant a gang of rascals as ever fattened on a city's treasury. The good government candidates, selected without regard to party, were elected all along the line, and the last remnants of the corrupt nest of thieves and blackmailers that has been debasing the city were kicked out in contempt and disgust.

These signs of clear vision and determined purpose may be discouraging to grafters and political bosses, but they are mightily encouraging to those whose faith in free government has been disturbed by the abuses that have crept in under the reign of blind partisanship.

It does not mean the abdication of government by parties, but it means the purification of the parties and the destruction of the rings that have been formed under the cover of unthinking and unseeing partisanship. It means that the people want good government, honesty in office, and a square deal between the people and the "interests," and that they are going to get it without regard to parties or personal ambitions. The parties will heed the lesson, and their sense of hearing will be so quickened that they will be able to hear and heed the popular demands.

SEA DRAINAGE.

A brief dispatch from The Hague in The Herald tonight contains matter that is commended to the state of Minnesota for its mental digestion.

The government has presented to the Dutch parliament a bill for the reclamation of a portion of the Zuyder Zee at a cost of $11,200,000. The work will occupy seven years, and will reclaim about 4,000 acres.

Holland is spending $2,800 an acre to redeem land from a sea.

Minnesota can by the expenditure of about $1 an acre redeem land equally as good from its swamps.

If Minnesota had to pay $2,800 an acre to redeem its swamp land, it probably wouldn't redeem it. It would hardly be worth while when land is so plentiful. But when it can reclaim good land for a paltry dollar an acre, there is no excuse whatever for its failure to redeem every available acre, since by the investment of a dollar it can turn worthless land into land worth $15 an acre at the very least.

Much of this land was given to the state by the nation, and the consideration was the state's agreement to drain it. The state has drained very little of it, and the federal government would be perfectly justified in demanding the return of the land on the ground that the contract had been violated.

If the state does not show a disposition to do its duty in this matter more speedily, pretty soon somebody will demand that the government take the land back and drain it, and the state will lose one of its most valuable possessions.

A PROHIBITION TOUCHSTONE.

In the coming fight for prohibition in the District of Columbia there is a reminder of the fight that was made in the early days of the anti-slavery propaganda for abolition of slavery in the District, which is of course wholly under the rule of congress.

It was made a sort of a touchstone in those days. Men who had not yet become convinced that the federal government had any right to interfere with slavery in the states, their devotion to state's rights overbalancing their conviction that slavery was an evil, demanded that congress abolish slavery in the District of Columbia, though it was not done until a very late date.

Now it is stated that the Prohibitionists of the country are going to make a fight in congress to have the sale and manufacture of liquor barred from the government's domain on the Potomac. The Prohibition vote is becoming a force to be reckoned with, and there will be no difficulty in getting members of congress who see a future use for that vote in their districts to introduce bills providing that the Demon Rum shall be barred from the capital.

While such a measure would probably not pass, it would have stronger support than it would have had a few years ago, and stronger support than many people might expect it to have even now. A large number of congressmen come from districts in which Prohibition is an accepted fact. Only a few states are governed by prohibitory laws, but in a majority of states there are county option and local option laws under which considerable areas are "dry." Congressmen from such districts would pretty nearly have to vote for prohibition bills in congress, and there are enough of them to make a very noticeable showing.

It is stated, too, that the Prohibition forces have determined upon a campaign that cannot fail to be effective. If a member refuses to vote for prohibition in the District, they will go into his own congressional district and stir up a fight against him among their own supporters. This will be very annoying to many congressmen who are aware that there is a strong prohibition sentiment at home, and the fact that the liquor interests are not without influence among the voters will not tend to lessen the statesman's perturbation.

The Prohibitionists would like to see prohibition in the district mainly for its moral effect on the remainder of the country. They feel that it will be a long step ahead for them if they can gain this point, and it would unquestionably turn out that way.

But if prohibition prevailed in Washington, the diplomatic corps, most of the members of which are used to taking their drinks when they feel like it, wines being generally one of the indispensables at their dinners and other functions, would be likely to find themselves confronted by a condition that would be as unpleasant to them as it would be pleasant to the ardent advocates of banishing the Destroyer Rum from civilization.

CASH HEADED THIS WAY.

It is cheering news that more than $3,000,000 in cash is headed for Duluth.

It means that the Eastern financial situation is clearing up rapidly. It means that the flood of gold that is arriving from Europe has given New York bankers courage to meet the demands of the West. It means that the grain business at the Head of the Lakes will resume its normal flow. It means that the farmers of the Northwest will be able to sell their crops and that the money they receive for them will go into the regular channels of trade, to the vast improvement of the situation in Duluth and the Northwest.

Besides $3,000,000 engaged for the crop movement, one Duluth bank has engaged $500,000 in gold for its local uses. This does not mean that the banks will be able to immediately resume normal methods of issuing cash, but it does mean that the situation will be greatly improved, and that cash enough to supply all real necessities will be available. Duluth cannot go back to the old methods until the rest of the country does, for that would simply drain Duluth of its cash. The change back to the old system must come gradually, but it will come surely.

Every day evidences accumulate that the crisis has been passed, and that the upturn has come. The return to the flood tide of activity cannot come all at once, nor should it come that way. There must first be general retrenchment such as sound business judgment dictates: not a retrenchment resulting from fear and panic, but a retrenchment that will put business back on a solid foundation once more.

Duluth has weathered the crisis without a casualty, and its position will gain strength daily. It is fundamentally secure, and the only effect has been minor inconvenience which was a great deal better than calamity. Now that the supply of cash is going to be equal to the demands of business, the return to activity will come as quickly as it should come.

THE SMOKE NUISANCE.

Two men sat in an office on Superior street the other morning. One was complaining bitterly about the weather, which was not all that it should have been.

"Shut up!" exclaimed the other, in exasperation. "What's the use of kicking about the weather? You can't change it, and if you could you'd probably fix it so that a lot of other people would kick about it. If you want something to kick about, take something that can be changed and then go out and kick to some purpose. If you want something to talk about, come here." And he led his companion to the window. "Look out at the sky, and see what you will see."

The man that didn't like the weather looked out. But he couldn't see the sky. He couldn't even see the clouds. A heavy pall of smoke, to which chimneys in every direction were contributing their black donations, covered clouds and sky. The barometer was low, and the clouds of smoke hovered over the city, giving it the appearance of a manufacturing center in boom times.

"And look here," said the second man. As he said this he pointed to the top of the window, which was down a few inches, and called the attention of the weather-protestant to the soot that was drifting in. "And look here," continued the instructor, as he walked to a table near the window. Heavy black soot covered the papers and books upon the table. The man that had complained of the weather moved his hand over a newspaper, and many smears of black showed where he rubbed the soot specks over the white surface.

"Now if you want something to kick about," continued the lecturer, "go out and kick about the smoke nuisance. There isn't the slightest excuse for it. These tall buildings have to be heated, of course, but that is no reason why half the coal that is bought to heat them should go up the chimneys in thick, murky smoke that spoils gloriously pure air and natty new clothes. The owners of those buildings are not only making themselves public nuisances, but they are losing money."

"What are you going to do about it?" asked the man who had been talking about the weather, but who had now forgotten it in his thoughtful survey of the nasty, unwholesome haze that obscured the sky and made the atmosphere of the street thick and uncertain.

"Do about it?" replied the other man. "Kick, and kick hard. Here's another object lesson," and he pointed to First street, where the Board of Trade and Wolvin buildings stood side by side. The Board of Trade building was belching forth a tremendous blast of heavy smoke, while from the Wolvin building not a trace of smoke appeared.

"There's the difference," continued the speaker, cheerfully. "The Wolvin building burns all of its coal, including that part which is going out of the Board of Trade chimney in smoke and soot. There is no reason why all of them shouldn't do just as the Wolvin building does. But the only way to get that done is to have everybody like you turn their attention from the weather and other things that can't be changed by human intention, and to kick about the smoke nuisance, and to keep it up until the ordinance in such case made and provided is duly and fully enforced."

"I'll do it," said the kicker.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

T. W. Blatchford was telling yesterday at the Spalding hotel of the efforts of different public service corporations to increase the efficiency of their employes. The theory that a good man is worth more money than a poor man has often been proved. It is an old maxim, but the various methods of arriving at a practical working arrangement for bringing out the best qualities of a man are varied.

"Down on the Pennsylvania railway system some years ago," said Mr. Blatchford, "the officials inaugurated the plan of giving a prize to the engineers and firemen who could run their engines on the most economical plan. The number of miles in the trip would be counted and the cost of running the train computed on this basis. The amount of coal used, the amount of oil and other varied records were kept. It was understood that the engine was to be in first-class shape all the time, no matter how much coal or oil was saved on the trip. The prizes offered by the board of directors were costly, and naturally the competition to secure them was active among the engine operators.

"The results astounded the not over sanguine directors. Under the incentive, raised by the prizes offered, the engines of the company were being run at a cost that seemed impossible. The directors were pleased, overjoyed even. They thought of increasing the value of the prizes. Many plans were discussed in the light of the success achieved by the plan. But like the light of peaceful twilight before the break of the storm, the complacency of the directors was to be followed by a storm of wrath.

"At the end of the month, bills from the coal companies, whose coal the Pennsylvania was shipping, began to come in to the auditing department. The bills were for shortages that had been found, in the coal that was stored along the track of the Pennsylvania. Suddenly a great light dawned upon the directors. The secret was out. The engineers and firemen had been running their engines, for the most part, on coal they had stolen from the loaded cars along the track. They had judiciously refrained from using the coal of the Pennsylvania railroad; they were after gold watches; they were out to make a showing of the way to run an engine cheaply, on the basis figured out by the directors. What's more, they did.

"The prizes were hastily withdrawn. The bills of the coal company met, and the operation of the engines resumed a normal operating expense."

J. G. Wentworth, who is at the St. Louis, says that the present financial conditions are felt, or rather were felt, with peculiar severity in the South. Mr. Wentworth's home is in St. Louis, and he says that before funds were raised for the moving of the cotton crop the prosperity of the South was threatened. Financiers, he says, realized that a blighting of the prosperity of a great industry would react with serious results in various sections of the country. They acted with a self protective motive, in a way, and have raised means to greatly facilitate the movement of the cotton crop. At first it seemed as if the lack of money would act as a great barrier to the crop movement. Now it looks, in the light of recent developments, as if the movement of the cotton crop will resume a normal condition. Capitalists have saved the situation in the South, says Mr. Wentworth. They have come to the aid of the people at a time when things looked darkest. "When I left the South, a few days ago, the feeling of confidence was returning and the business men were expressing the belief that the financing of thet cotton movement would affect other lines of business in a beneficial way. Cotton is our chief product. It is like your wheat up here. When any calamity threatens the sale of the cotton the prosperity of the South is menaced. The advancing of capital to assure the movement of that commodity has saved the situation in the Southern states."

Where He Slept.

Harper's Weekly: The doting parents of a Connecticut boy who had gone to New York under the patronage of a prosperous hardware merchant were naturally most desirous to know just how the lad was "getting on."

When, after a fortnight, the father wrote to his boy's employer, saying that his son was "no hand at writing letters," he stated that he was anxious to know the boy's progress. "And," he added, "I wish you'd let me know where he sleeps nights."

In a short while a reply came from the hardware man, who, among other things, imparted this information:

"Your son sleeps in the store in the daytime. I do not know where he sleeps nights."

If you put your heart in what you do,
You're simply bound to win:

THE WEATHER.

Though the east wind and the rain had not shown up in Duluth up to noon today, it was cloudy, warm and the feeling of coming snow which had been in evidence for several days was still noticeable. The weather man says it will be colder tonight, and that there may be light rain or snow flurries tonight cmfwyp etaoi nvbgkq shrdl ucmfwypln and tomorrow. Last night's lowest temperature was 33 degs. and yesterday's highest was 39 degs.

A year ago today it was cool, damp and cloudy after a northeast rain.

The sun rose this morning at 7 and sets tonight at 4:44, making 9 hours and 44 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions, "A storm of considerable energy is central over New England states which is causing rainy weather and strong westerly winds in North Atlantic states, the St. Lawrence valley and extreme eastern lake region. Other barometric depressions of only moderate strength overlie Manitoba and Oklahoma, the former causing rain or snow in Western Canada and higher temperature in the Red River valley. The barometer is high in the extreme Northwest and over Gulf states, attended by colder weather in South Atlantic states and from Manitoba northward. Conditions favor somewhat colder weather in this locality Friday."

Bullion's Rise and Fall.

He made seven million dollars in a very little while,
And his portly wife grew haughty and his daughters put on style;
Then he built himself a palace and hung pictures on the walls,
There were rusty suits of armor placed in all the splendid halls.
There were "articles of virtu" heaped and hung in all the nooks
And the beautiful library was superbly stocked with books.

People praised him for his culture and his patronage of art,
He became a splendid figure in the noisy,
busy mart;
At the horse shows and the functions
where the social leaders vied
His fair daughters gleamed in jewels and his wife displayed her pride;
There were rumors that a marquis from somewhere across the sea
Had a notion to become a member of the family.

Then there came a slump; his margins seemed to quickly melt away;
Down the stocks he held went tumbling;
things got darker every day;
He had made his money quickly, but more rapidly it went;
He became white-haired and haggard and his back was sadly bent,
And one morning in the papers there were headlines black and tall
Telling how he had been driven by his rivals to the wall.
—S. E. KISER in the Record-Herald.

Saving Time.

Life: It is peculiarly a mark of our enterprise that we should have imported $40,000,000 worth of diamonds during the last fiscal year. It shows how much better we order certain things than do some other nations, the English, for instance.

In England, such is the persistency there of even an unfortunate habit, it still takes three generations to make a gentlewoman, whereas with us three pecks of diamonds will turn the trick quite handily.

The saving of time is obviously enormous, and time is everything these days.

Misplaced Charity.

Argonaut: Mark Twain tells a story of the appearance of Sarah Bernhardt at Hartford, at a time when he was a citizen of that town. Theater tickets were $3 apiece—and a widow and her daughter, delightful and kind-hearted folk, were keenly desirous of seeing the great French actress, but feared that it was not quite right to spend $6 on a one-night theatrical treat when there were poor and hungry people in the town. So they took the $6 and sent it to a poor family whom we may term the Smiths. "Whereupon the Smiths," concluded the story, "took the money and bought tickets to see Sarah Bernhardt!"

Hearth-Yearns.

A melancholy little man
Was seated on the ground;
He showed supreme indifference
To everything around.
"Why do you not run home?" I cried,
"And tumble into bed?"
He looked at me
Expressively,
And presently he said:

"One rubber plant can never make a home,
Not even when combined with brush and comb,
And spoon and fork and knife,
And graphophone and wife,
No! Something more it needed for a
home."

I cried: "What does your dwelling lack?
The pretty hearth-side tone?
The note of domesticity?"
He gave a fearful groan.
"Alas!" he sighed, while from his seat
He slowly upward bobbed,
And donned his hat,
"A flat's a flat!"
Together then we sobbed.

"One rubber plant can never make a
home,
One day did not suffice for building Rome,
One gas-log and a cat
Can't civilize a flat;
No! Something more is needed for a
home."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hibbing Tribune: If it were not for the support of the Minneapolis Journal, Jake Jacobson would be a pretty satisfactory Republican candidate for governor.

Aurora News: In the game of finance we are willing to submit to the judgment of the men who make a business. Bankers are not infallible, but they are working to the end of making their institutions financially successful. They can best do this by protecting their depositors.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: A London preacher, speaking of the democracy of religion of the United States, says there are "no parlor cars in the American church." Truly, conditions must be fierce in old England.

Virginia Enterprise: The deer season and the fool hunter—the nerve-racked fellow who seldom gets a deer, but never misses a man—will soon be with us again.

Hendrum Review: Over in Dakota they are already in the midst of the political campaign for the primaries. They are learning their first experience with that kind of election, and have not yet found out that the man who saves his powder and shot until the last two or three weeks is usually the one that bags the game.

Walker Pilot: A country editor, who is evidently suffering in private, says that we should never judge a man by his clothes. The poor fellow with frayed trousers and open work in his shoes might be a country editor and the nicely dressed man one of his delinquent subscribers.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The man who foresaw the panic a year ago was the least prepared for it when it came.

Virginia Enterprise: The rush of idleness is what breeds the microbe of misery in a man's mind, but a busy man even forgets his dyspepsia and his debts.

Virginia Virginian: Just smile and be good natured and things will turn out all right financially and otherwise.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The latest story is that Governor Johnson will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president against Bryan, but will enter the game if he decides to quit. It is the general opinion that Johnson would be hard to beat and Bryan easy.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: A friend in need is a surprise indeed.

It's almost as easy to lie as it is to lose money.

When all is lost save honor some men get on their dignity.

You are not the only one; there are others who talk too much.

It's easy for the average woman to keep a secret—going.

When a girl in love becomes thinner it's a case of "loved and lost."

Many a man who thinks he is brilliant isn't even ordinarily bright.

Popular music is probably so called because it soon becomes unpopular.

Did you ever notice that the man who declines to take advice is always the first to give it unasked?

Give a man a good dinner and he will remain in a good humor for at least an hour.

He is indeed a rare youth who never sent his best girl something soft—fruit, candy or letters.

"Blessed be the tie that binds not" would be an appropriate motto for the Indiana woman who has been divorced seven times.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A man's conscience only troubles him when something else does.

A safe way not to lose money in investments is not to have any to lose.

A girl would rather be kissed by a stranger than not be able to tell how men try to.

It's a habit of women to think more of their ideals after they are shattered than they did before.

Chorus girls must be mighty sharp at bargains to be able to buy such expensive jewels on such small salaries.

Wetting Dry Lands and Drying Wet.

New York World: The United States has spent about $20,000,000 in reclaiming by irrigation arid lands of the West. There are further tremendous projects under way on which something like $1,000,000 a month is being expended.

Not a little stirred perhaps by the American example, Australia is now boring wells and laying pipes to bring life to its great "dead heart"—to make fertile the innumerable acres of the interior, so that population need no longer be limited to the fringe of coast lands.

But irrigation is not to be the end of government enterprise in America. There is water to be taken off as well as water to be turned on. In the Eastern parts of the republic are 77,000,000 acres of swamp land which may be reclaimed by drainage. The states wherein these lands lie are demanding at Washington federal aid as generous as that given to the states with the dry places.

In this other case the United States may draw an example from abroad instead of setting one. Holland has planned to spend $76,000,000 in rescuing 1,400 square miles of territory now held by the Zuyder Zee. The little kingdom will destroy a wide stretch of historic waters, but it will feel repaid in crops and rents.

Progress.

The sail supplants the paddle, and steam supplants the sail.
The coach drives out the saddle, then

The sentimental man to mourn this state

But why be so? All things must go where the woodbine twineth.

Where once there plied a schooner now plows a mighty ship,
Which makes the run much smoother and gives a safer trip.
The sentimental man o'er such conditions

A waste of woe—all things must go to where the turbine twineth.

SUNNY GEMS.

Chicago Tribune: "Don't be serious, Jack. Let's change the subject. What is that bright star?"

"That's Sirius, too, dear."

Philadelphia Press: "I am sure," said the interviewer, "that the public would be interested to know the secret of your success."

"Well, young man," replied the captain of industry, "the secret of my success has been my ability to keep it a secret."

Philadelphia Press: "What!" exclaimed Old Gotrox, "you want to marry my daughter? Young man, before you do that you should be making at least $5,000 a year."

"All right," replied Young Nervy, "if you can make a position for me at that figure I'll take it."

Philadelphia Ledger: "You write for the press, I believe," said the young lady, making conversation.

"Your choice of propositions," answered the modest man, "does me an undeserved honor. I write to the press."

Houston Press: "It is nonsense to say that a man never has the last word in an argument with his wife."

"Lots of men get the last word."

"You admit it, do you?"

"Certainly; their wives hand it to them."

Atlanta Constitution: "Anything else you want to say to John afore I close?" asked the old lady.

"Yes," replied the old man. "Long as he's in the city, tell him to stay thar till he kin git another automobile to run over him. It's the only way I kin see to git Sue a planner fer Christmas."

The Disconsolate Golfer.

These are the saddest days of all;
With splendid thoughts I rise;
The breeze blows gently from the south,
No clouds bedim the skies;
The sun casts friendly rays across
The distant, dewy slopes,
And to my duties I proceed
With earnest, eager hopes.

I go to work with all my might,
And, toiling faithfully,
I think of putting greens and tees
That softly call to me.
I clear the litter from my desk
As quickly as I may,
And go without my midday lunch to make
A speedy get-away.

At 2 o'clock the south winds die
And north winds wildly blow;
Dark banks of clouds obscure the sky
So fair a while ago.
The world is robbed of cheerfulness,
And by the fates betrayed,
I think of all the splendid drives
And putts I might have made.

Illiterates in the Professions.

Columbia Herald: Maston Doty lived in Cedar township forty years ago. Preachers were scarce and the demand for preaching was great. Brother Doty was a member of the Primitive Baptist church and often filled several pulpits on Saturdays and Sundays. He was a fluent speaker and often grew eloquent in some appeal for truth. A lawyer who could not read was Capt. William Callaway. It has not been more than a quarter of a century since he practised in the justice of the peace courts of Cedar township. He was a politician as well as a lawyer. His title was acquired during the civil war, where he was an officer in the Confederate army. Mr. Callaway could not write or draw up any papers, but he was wonderfully strong before a jury of his neighbors. He had a remarkable memory. His daughter would read him the law until he could repeat it by heart. When in court afterward he has often been seen with his law book upside down reading the statute to the jury verbatim. His argument was such as to be most convincing to the jurors, especially if the jury were packed.

Astonishing Indeed!

Argonaut: One of the eloquent poetical writers who report the costumes and etiquette at Washington, penned this in his, or her, account of a presidential reception: "Mrs. X. wore nothing in the way of a dress that was remarkable." The slipshod English was handsomely corrected by the pedantic but unhumorous printer, thus: "Mrs. X. wore nothing in the way of a dress. That was remarkable."

No Wonder.

Circle: Wishing to learn what his nephew would say, Uncle Charles asked little Fred, "What would you do if you stood at the root of a tree with your foot on the head of a live rattlesnake, a tiger was crouching on the branch above ready to spring and you saw a wild Indian running at you with uplifted tomahawk?"

"I should wake right up," was the unexpected reply.

AFTERMATH OF CITY ELECTION

Eveleth is Discussing New Officers and Possible Appointees.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The aftermath of the city election brings the usual discussion over results, mingled with opinions as to who will receive the appointive positions.

There appears to be general satisfaction with the result, barring, of course, the unpleasant feeling that naturally overtakes a defeated candidate for a few days after the battle of the ballots. The make-up of the new city council meets with favor, and there is a general belief that there will be no little care exercised in public expenditures.

It is understood that one of the successful aldermanic candidates is the most efficient bookkeeper in the Eveleth mining district. With the re-elected city treasurer, W. J. Davey, holding the keys on the treasury and the bookkeeper keeping tab, the city's money will be double checked effectively.

Many conjectures are being heard regarding the appointive city officials who will serve the city for the coming two years. It is understood among the citizens that an effort will be made to insure the continuance of Dr. P. V. Johnson as health officer. The friends of the coming administration feel that it would be wise on the city's part to replace him, after his long term, with another man.

Regarding the place of city clerk, many desirees are appearing. It appears that Si Meade, foreman of the Star shop, is a strong candidate. It is generally understood that Ed Skeel, though defeated for municipal judge, will be a candidate for city clerk. He has a favorable record to draw on for support.

Three of the men elected are under 30. E. H. Hatch, alderman in the First ward, is 25; C. R. Johnson, in the Second ward, is 28, and M. J. Doyle, the strongest vote-getter next to Mike Maxwell, is 28. Elisha Andrews and Tim Shea are to be classed with the younger men, though they are over 30. None of the coming councilmen ever served as city fathers.

A friend of Dr. C. W. More desired to emphasize his regard for the doctor by registering one vote that brought the doctor's name in the list of mayoralty candidates.

CRANEMAN INJURED.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—William M. Sullivan, employed as craneman on a shovel at the Morris mine is nursing a broken rib and shoulder at a local hospital as the result of any injury sustained while at work. He fell from the crane during Tuesday afternoon.

THREE BODIES ARE NOW IN HIBBING

Brought From Scene of Drowning by Searching Party.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only a few days ago Jacob Siebel, Peter Healey and John Boltz, three well known citizens of Hibbing, left here for a hunting trip in the Bowstring country, in the western part of Itasca county. Today their mortal remains were brought to their homes by the searching party that left here Sunday on receipt of the shocking news that they had been drowned in Dora lake. The bodies were met at the depot by many friends and escorted to the respective homes of the dead. The funeral arrangements had not been decided upon at a late hour this afternoon. It is expected, however, the funerals will be held tomorrow afternoon. The searching party went through many thrilling experiences in recovering the bodies. The body of Cooper, the guide, the third man who was drowned, has not been recovered, and search for it is still being kept up.

EVELETH IN BRIEF.

Council Meeting Postponed One Night---Other Brief Happenings.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the city council that should have been held Tuesday evening was postponed until last night, on account of the election.

Anton E. Johnson of Tower has been an Eveleth visitor during the past week.

D. Simon left for Minneapolis yesterday.

M. L. Wilk is expected back during the latter part of the week, having finished his work in connection with the purchase of goods.

While N. J. Cornell is in Hibbing in charge of the W. W. Carr company's office, Leonard Brown of Hibbing is in charge of the local branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Perlman were Hibbing visitors during the early part of the week.

Mr. Osborn visited here for a day, on behalf of the Marshfield Novelty Company of Minneapolis.

Senator Vail was in the city Wednesday.

Cornelius Brennan of Wheatland, N. D., and Fred Brennan of Hibbing are in the city visiting their mother, Mrs. Julia Brennan. Sunday and Monday Mrs. Brennan went to Hibbing to visit relatives.

Scholem Milavetz, trustee of the Agudas Achim congregation, was called to Virginia to attend the Brith Melah of Mr. and Mrs. M. Shandling's latest son.

Harry Lorring of Minneapolis visited friends during the early part of the week.

Dr. C. W. More went to Duluth yesterday on business.

A special meeting of the fire department has been called for Friday night.

NEW SAMPLE BUILDING

Of the Longyear Exploration Company Very Complete Affair.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 7. — (Special to The Herald.)—Few if any mining companies in the world can boast of as fine a sample building as that of the Longyear Exploration company, which has just been completed. It is 57 by 88 feet and located on the corner of Third avenue and Sellers street. In one corner is a small office room and the balance is taken up with rows of steel cases containing shelves for sample boxes furnishing accommodations for 270,000 sample boxes each about fourteen inches long. Each box contains a sample of every five feet of drilling. Samples are taken from any drilling as soon as rock or ore is struck.

The sample room is fireproof. With the exception of the door into the building there is not a particle of wood about the structure. The floor is of cement and the roof is of fire brick. It has a skylight and small windows high in the walls, and is lighted with electricity, all wires being run in conduits.

FINANCES ARE EASY.

No Difficulty is Felt in Handling Situation in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although yesterday was municipal "dough" day and about $8,000 in orders had been issued by the city no difficulty was experienced in negotiating them. The banks readily took them all up. A mercantile firm has shipped in a large amount of cash and announces it will cash all checks where the amount of the purchase is 10 per cent of the face value of the check. The banks are paying out money in small sums and so far as known little if any trouble has been experienced because of the tightness of money that has been felt all over the country.

ERICKSON MISSING.

Eveleth Mining Man Dropped Out of Sight Last August.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Erickson, a local mining man, has not been heard from by his wife and family since Aug. 28 last. He was then at Bovey. Since then his wife has been in the dark as to his whereabouts. Her distress is pathetic, as she is called upon to support a family of three children, the eldest being barely 13, the others 4 and 6 years of age.

Mr. Erickson is 35 years of age, is well built, weighing 200 pounds and stands 6 feet high. Any information as to his whereabouts or his condition will be gratefully received by Mrs. Erickson or Chief Kent, who has interested himself.

GRAIN DEALERS SEE THEIR WAY CLEAR TO MOVE CROPS

of credit will be built up at the other end, against that time when the country must pay for what it owes the cities.

Last week, when no trading on the floor of the Duluth board of trade was possible because of the inability of the Duluth firms to secure exchange with the East, the country elevators stopped buying grain altogether, and their shipments, while not stopped altogether, were greatly curtailed.

Will Resume Buying.

Buying from the farmers will be resumed, the elevator agents giving the farmers drafts on the home office to the farmers, in payment. The farmer may go to his country merchant and buy anything he desires, and the merchant can turn the draft over to the local bank.

The farmer by tendering his Minneapolis check, will have a credit at the country bank and the country banker will build up a credit at the city banks, which will be available when needed later on.

The $4,000,000 or so that has been pledged will prevent a further tie-up of the grain movement until things have smoothed out.

Duluth is an important exporting market. Much durum wheat, the largest percentage of which crop finds its market abroad, is bought and sold on the Duluth market and this market is a larger seller of other grades of wheat to foreign markets.

The stringency has probably hampered this market more than others, for the reason that uninterrupted foreign and eastern exchange is so necessary to carry on business. Money must be had from the East to enable Duluth firms to buy from the country elevators and farmers. The importation of gold and the promise of help for the Northwest that have come within the past two days make relief seem at hand.

Car Shortage at Buffalo.

The car congestion at Buffalo is an obstacle which must be obliterated, however, before business can be resumed on a normal business, and the breaking of it is expected now, that the situation is clearing.

The effect of the curtailment of shipments from the country is now being felt here, whereas last week when no trading was going on at all, it was not evident. Receipts will likely continue light for another week and possibly two, for it will be that long before the effect of the money relief which began yesterday will be felt.

Half the Crop Purchased.

About 80,000,000 bushels of spring and durum wheat, which is about half of the crop in these grains, has still to be purchased from the farmer. This does not include that wheat which he retains for seeding purposes.

Local grain men estimate that 40 per cent of the flax crop, or about 12,000,000 bushels is out of the farmers' hands and that from 70 to 80 per cent of the barley crop has been bought from the raisers. The high price of barley this fall prompted an early movement of this coarse grain, which accounts for such a small percentage of the total crop still in the hands of the agriculturists.

"I think that the $4,000,000 that has been secured will be adequate to bridge over the break in conditions which will exist until the entire financial situation has righted itself," said Charles H. Thornton, on the board of trade today. "The country and the eastern banks must be brought closely together to handle the grain and arrangements for this seem to have been made that will permit business to go right on."

J. H. Barnes, president of the Duluth board of trade, who has been in the East investigating conditions there, and making an effort to clear things for the Northwest, is expected home today or tomorrow.

W. G. Hegardt, cashier of the American Exchange bank is now in the East and yesterday afternoon a telegram was received from him that he had secured through the banks at Montreal and New York $500,000 in gold. This money is now on its way to Duluth.

The Careful Physician

A doctor recently said:—

"I know that if I could keep Coffee from most of my patients the remedies would be more effective."

That's because Coffee contains a drug — Caffeine — which interferes with the success of other drugs the doctor may be giving the patient. Many persons do not realize they are taking a drug into their systems when they drink Coffee or Tea, but such is the fact.

Some of the effects of the Coffee drug are: Nervousness, Palpitation of the Heart, Shortness of Breath, Insomnia, Sour Stomach, Loss of Natural Appetite, Cold Hands and Feet, Indigestion, Bowel Troubles, etc, etc.

Common sense would suggest the disuse of Coffee when such symptoms show themselves, before the disease becomes permanent. It is well to heed the doctor's advice when he says:—

"Cut Out Coffee if it disagrees"

It's an easy and pleasant task when the further suggestion is oberved:—

"And Use Postum"

Ten days' change from Coffee to Postum (well-boiled according to directions on pkg.) will prove that "There's a Reason" for

BOARDING CARS AT NEW DULUTH

Fourteen Arrive for Workingmen—Peter Olson Hurt.

New Duluth, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fourteen boarding cars arrived in New Duluth Tuesday for the accommodation of workingmen who are to put in new rails on the Northern Pacific track between New Duluth and Fond du Lac.

The Knights of Pythias have organized a social club, which will give a series of card parties and dances at their hall once a month during the winter. The first party will be held Saturday evening, Nov. 9.

Peter Olson met with a painful accident Tuesday. Mr. Olson went across the river to purchase a cow. While leading her home she became unruly and gave the rope a jerk, throwing Mr. Olson against a stump and dislocated his shoulder. He was taken to West Duluth, where a physician put the shoulder in place again.

IRONWORKER HAS BAD FALL

Workman on the New Sellwood Building is Injured.

George Johnson, an ironworker employed on the new Sellwood building, fell this morning, a distance of about eighteen feet, and sutained quite serious injuries. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where it was found that his back was quite badly strained, and some internal injuries had been sustained. Johnson was employed by the American Bridge company.

BURGLARS SCARED AWAY.

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Burglars entered Dopp & Watson's hardware store, pried open the safe and were at work on the money drawer, in which was about $50, when they were frightened away. They then went to Lindsley's harness shop, where they took firearms and ammunition. The police have a clue.

REAL GOLD ON THE WAY

American Exchange Bank Gets $500,000 in Yellow Metal.

It Will Greatly Relieve the Situation in Duluth.

The sum of $500,000 in good yellow gold is now on its way to Duluth for the American Exchange bank, and will be here within a day or two.

The money is for no particular purpose, but will be added to the cash surplus at the bank to be used in meeting the general demand for ready money, or wherever the directors think it is most needed.

W. G. Hegardt has been in the East arranging for the money, and yesterday he wired that he had succeeded in disposing of some of the bank's export documents in exchange for gold, and had shipped the gold to Duluth.

MORE GOLD SECURED.

New York, Nov. 7.—That the end of the movement of gold from England to America has not been reached was shown today when Goldman, Sachs & Co., announced the engagement of $1,625,000 for import from London. This makes the total for the movement $39,175,000.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Duluth People Give Credit Where Credit Is Due.

People of Duluth who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Duluth. Here's Duluth testimony:

Mrs. Lettie Cole, of 467 Mesaba Ave., Duluth, Minn., says: "I am pleased to repeat what I have said again and again recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. Five or six years ago, when suffering from disorders of the kidneys, which had become aggravated by overexertion and severe colds, I looked about in vain for a long time for relief, trying many different remedies which were recommended to me, but not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills did I find the long-sought-for-benefit. The first dose or two helped me and I continued taking them until the heavy, aching through my back and kidneys was gone, and the kidney secretions had become natural. Doan's Kidney Pills improved my health in every way, and the results have been permanent."

RAILROADS ARE STILL IN THE DARK

Duluth Agents in Doubt as to Cut Rates East.

It is still uncertain just what steps will be taken by competing lines in regard to the cut rates to Eastern points announced by the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, which will go into effect Nov. 20. It is rather expected that some of the lines, if not all of them, will make cuts that will bring their New York first class rate to $20.50, and the second class to $18.50, but local ticket agents have received no official advices on this point as yet.

The fact that the first big cut in rates from the West to the Eastern metropolis was made by the Erie from Chicago, which announced a rate of $10 between the two points, because rival lines, it is claimed, broke the agreement not to pay commissions on the steamship business, recalls to the mind of local agents the good old days when commissions were paid on all competitive business, both steamship and rail. Salary was small object then, for the commissions in the aggregate were so large that salary was a minor consideration.

Commissions on Pacific coast business ran as high as $5 a ticket from the Middle West, and for shorter distance proportionate sums were paid. The commissions finally became such a big factor that competing lines got together and agreed to cut them out altogether. At the beginning there was some difficulty experienced in getting all the lines to live up to this agreement, but in time they were convinced that it was for the best, and now no commissions at all are paid for railroad tickets sold, and few are paid on steamship business, although the practice of paying commissions on the sale of tickets to Europe was continued long after the other practice was discontinued, and is still carried on to a certain extent.

When lines leading eastward agreed to pay no commissions on European business, it is said the Erie was the only road which lived up to the agreement. Finding that its rivals had broken faith, it announced a rate of $10 to New York and intermediate points from Chicago, bringing the rate so low that other lines could not possibly meet it and continue to pay commissions.

Because of the fact that so many foreigners left the Duluth district earlier in the season, during the miners' strike on the range, it is thought that the travel of aliens to their European homes for the Christmas season, which usually begins about this time of the year, will be lighter than usual. Ordinarily this travel is very heavy through Duluth during November and December, as it is from all parts of the country where there is much of a foreign population. The ranks of the miners on the range are recruited almost entirely from among the foreign element. Certain nationalities among the miners carefully save their earnings, and are thus enabled to take trips to Europe occasionally, either on a visit or to remain there permanently.

COMPLETED WITHIN YEAR.

Pennington Says Soo Road Should Reach Duluth by Next Fall.

According to E. Pennington, vice president of the Soo road, who is in the city on account of the litigation resulting from objections of roads already in the city to having the Soo cross their tracks, his line will be completed into Duluth before the end of next year, probably before the end of next November.

"Half of the right-of-way from Broten to the Head of the Lakes is already graded, said Mr. Pennington, and fifty miles of steel have been laid. We have stopped the work of construction for the reason that all of the contracts let by us have been completed. We intended to build only about half of the line this year and then complete it in 1908. We have already secured terminals in both Duluth and Superior, and next spring will begin work of construction on a brick station and freight houses on property which we have purchased near Tenth avenue west and Railroad street. Our principal yards on this side of the bay will be along Garfield avenue.

CHRIST'S COMING DENIED.

Biblical World Declares Day of Judgment and Resurrection Are Myths.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Christ's second coming to the earth, the day of judgment and the resurrection are declared to be speculative and imaginary, in an editorial published in the November number of the Biblical World, the official publication of the University of Chicago divinity school, of which, Ernest Dewitt Burton is editor-in-chief.

"It has remained for the historical study of the nineteenth century to analyze the elements of that expectation (second advent of Christ) and to show how with the pure gold of faith in God and the firm conviction that he would give victory to His people, there were—and under the circumstances must have been—mingled ingredients of a purely speculative and imaginative character, and that the latter form no integral part of the message of Christianity to men."

STILLWATER DEMOCRATIC.

Stillwater, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—In Tuesday's election H. H. Glen, Democrat, was elected judge of the municipal court over Sullivan, Republican, by a majority of 185. For alderman, D. J. Hooley had 159 majority; Paul J. Arndt, 198 majority; Samuel C. Lull, 22 majority. There was no opposition for school directors.

BEST COUGH CURE MIX IT YOURSELF

Go to your druggist and get one-half ounce Concentrated oil of pine; two ounces of glycerine, half a pint of good pure whiskey; mix it up, glycerine and oil first, then add the whiskey. Use in doses of a teaspoon to a tablespoonful every four hours shaking the bottle well each time.

The Concentrated oil of pine comes put up for medical use in half-ounce wooden box which protects it from heat and light. If you do not find it sealed you know that you are not getting the real article.

There are also several patent medicines put up to resemble the Concentrated oil of pine and called by similar names. This stuff should be avoided. The Concentrated oil of pine is the only truly soluble pine preparation known to science. It also makes wonderfully effective liniment by putting teaspoonful of the raw oil into a saucerfull of hot lard applying hot. This is invaluable in cases of cold in the chest or sprains and bruises.

Simple Harmless Recipe for Home Made Kidney Cure.

Makes Kidneys Act and Overcomes Rheumatism and Bladder Trouble.

To make up enough of the "Dandelion treatment," which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer who uses it for backache, kidney complaint, sore weak bladder and rheumatism; get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties almost instantly. Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

A well known local druggist, who is in a position to know, asserts that this prescription, wherever it becomes known, always ruins the sale of the numerous patent medicine rheumatism cures, kidney cures, etc. It is a recipe which the majority of patent medicine manufacturers, and even certain physicians dislike to see published. Few cases, indeed, which will fail to fully yield to its peculiarly soothing and healing influence. Being composed of common every-day ingredients, which can be had from any druggist, it makes up a good, honest and harmless remedy and at nominal cost.

REJECTED WOMAN SUES

Demands $10,200 for Alleged Breach of Promise to Marry.

Martha Wiklander Makes Charges Against Tobias Gustafson.

Martha Wiklander, a young woman residing in this city, has started a suit for $10,200 damages against Tobias E. Gustafson, based on charges of breach of promise to marry. Miss Wiklander also claims that under promises to marry, Gustafson debauched her and that by reason of her condition, her health has been impaired and she has been put to great expense for medical treatment.

According to Miss Wiklander's complaint, Gustafson promised to marry her, under an agreement said to have been made Sept. 1, 1906, the date of the wedding to be set later. She claims that prior to June 1, 1907, she requested Gustafson, on several occasions, to marry her, but that he refused to do so.

It is alleged that Gustafson, repudiating his alleged promises to Miss Wiklander, and married another June 1, 1907. S. H. Eckman represents the plaintiff in the action.

Men and Women of 60 Made to Feel Like 20

A Wonderful Cure For Constipation and Nerve Tissue Builder Found in Simple Harmless Tropical Fruits.

There is hardly anything in this world which makes a man or woman so happy as to have the bowels move regularly and naturally every day, and be in the possession of full nerve vigor, and it will surprise some probably to know that, even with advancing old age, this youthful vigor and health can be preserved by the use of a new simple remedy which has been found to possess the remarkable power of curing chronic constipation, kidney disease and rheumatism, and building up worn-out nerve tissue.

When the nerve tissue becomes weak and worn out, disease, loss of ambition and unhappiness quickly ensue.

To our readers we give below a remedy which, though remarkable for its simplicity, is equally remarkable in its results.

This remedy builds up nerve tissues, gives strength and vigor to the nerves in all parts of the body, cures nervous debility in some of its worst forms, brain fag, insomnia, chronic constipation, weak back and kidney diseases, and when taken constantly and persistently, is an almost sure preventive of disease and the weakness that comes from excess and old age.

The remedy is made up as follows:

Mix one ounce of Oblfrut Compound Extract with seven ounces of port wine or unfermented grape juice. Of this mixture, take one dessert-spoonful three or four times a day before each meal and at bedtime.

This remedy is absolutely harmless, containing no narcotics, no alcohol, and no mineral or animal matter whatever.

The ingredients can be obtained at almost every drug store, and can be mixed at home in a very few minutes.

The results of this remedy have been shown to be remarkable, and we recommend it most highly to every one of our readers. A constant supply of it should always be kept on hand for family use.

HOME FROM LONG TRIP

Duluth Boy Spent Four Years in Merchant Marine.

He Has Been Around the World Four Times.

Filled with stories of adventure, gathered in four years of sailing around the world, William Grimstead, son of James Grimstead of Thirteenth avenue west and First street, returned home last evening.

Four years ago young Grimstead left Duluth, only a boy. He went West, and when in Tacoma the fever of the sea, common to youths, came upon him. He shipped on an English sailing vessel bound around the horn for his first trip.

"This going to sea is all right for the experience, but while one is going through it, there's little fun to be had," said Grimstead today. "The life is certainly hard. The first trip I made we were 166 days going around the horn and sailing to England, without once touching land. Three quarts of water a day were handed to each man to wash and drink, and he had to live on bean soup and salt pork. I don't want any more of it.

"After that first trip I sailed on a variety of vessels. The English traders don't treat the seamen any better than they did before steamboats were invented, I guess. If they treated them any worse then, I don't see how anybody followed the sea.

"I've been around the world two or three times, visiting nearly every port of any consequence on the globe, learned a lot I wouldn't take any sum to unlearn, and I'm back at home ready to stay. Duluth looks pretty good to me after the ports I've seen at home and abroad. I don't want any more English sailing vessel experience, at least."

Grimstead last worked on the United States transport Logan, leaving it at San Francisco. He shipped in Manila last spring.

Grimstead is well known in Duluth. He was formerly an office boy in The Herald office, leaving the position to go to sea.

LITTLE CHANGE IN SITUATION

Financial Conditions Are Gradually Improving, Says W. I. Prince.

William I. Prince, cashier of the City National bank, states that the financial situation is improving, and that business is readjusting itself to the conditions imposed by the currency shortage. He sees many signs that indicate an improvement in both the local situation and business in general throughout the country.

A Duluth business man, as an example of the confidence placed by the business interests in the banks, has offered to deposit approximately $5,000 in the bank as soon as a business transaction is consummated. Small depositors are exhibiting the same confidence. Since the first few days of the threatened financial storm but few depositors have withdrawn their accounts from the banks. This is true of the City National and also true of the other banks in the city.

No change has occured in the method of paying out currency. The banks are observing discretion in the payment of checks and drafts, and in cases of imperative need are not refusing to cash them. The business and professional men are lending hearty support to this decision of the banks and are re-adjusting business methods to meet the conditions imposed by the money scarcity.

SCRIP FOR LOS ANGELES.

Los Angeles, Nov. 7.—At a meeting of the clearing house committee it was decided to issue scrip in order to avoid trouble locally during the present financial difficulty. Under instructions issued at the meeting scrip will be issued in denominations of $1, $2, $5, $10 and $20.

Why Many Women Suffer From Constipation

The Natural Remedy.

The delicate and intricate character of the female organs make them most susceptible to irregularity, and for the same reason it is most important that each one should be kept in condition to perform its functions in a normal manner. At all of the special periods when womankind is performing the functions peculiar to her sex there is a decided tendency to sluggishness of the bowels. Nature then requires a gentle assistant. Not powerful and expensive drugs that must be taken at frequent intervals and are so drastic as to damage the tender lining of the stomach and bowels, and do more harm than good, but a pure and harmless laxative such as is the famous Natural Mineral Water—HUNYADI JANOS—one dose of which will move the bowels gently, but copiously, in a natural manner. The dose is ½ a tumblerful drunk on arising in the morning (slightly warmed for best results). One bottle contains many doses and costs but a trifle at all Druggists.

ABOLITION OF TARIFF

On Paper and Pulp Will be Recommended by President.

Will Direct an Investigation Into So-Called Paper Trust.

Washington, Nov. 7.--President Roosevelt today indicated to members of the committee on paper, of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, that he will recommend to congress the abolition of the tariff on press paper, wood pulp and the wood that goes into the manufacture of paper; also that he will make a recommendation to the department of justice that it take immediate steps to ascertain whether the anti-trust laws are being disobeyed by the manufacturers of paper.

The promise of the recommendations by the president was obtained after he had listened to the representations of the members of the committee and to a petition from the national organizations of printers, stereotypers, pressmen and etchers, all of which set forth the evidence of a combination on the part of the manufacturers of paper for the purpose of controlling the output, regulating and greatly increasing the price and otherwise making hindersome regulations governing the source of supply and delivery of paper.

The call upon the president was made in pursuance of the following resolutions adopted by the American Newspaper Publishers' association, at a special meeting held in New York Sept 19 last:

"In view of the information submitted to the American Newspaper Publishers' association by its committee on paper, indicating that unlawful combinations of paper makers have been organized recently, that artificial stimulation of prices has been accomplished, and that judicial prohibition of such efforts has been disobeyed, the American Newspaper Publishers' association hereby instructs its committee on paper to invite the attention of the president and department of justice to these movements which we regard as conspiracies in restraint of trade, and we give this instruction to the committee in order:

"First, that the authority of existing statutes for repression of trade combinations may be invoked.

"Second, that the defiance of recent judicial action prohibiting participation in such combination by certain Eastern mills may be punished.

"Third, that the president may be put in possession of information which shall equip him to advise congress of the abuse of tariff favors by paper makers.

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the duty of printing paper, wood pulp and all material entering the manufacture of printing paper should be immediately repealed."

The committee which called on the president by appointment today included John Norris, of the New York Times; Medill McCormick, of the Chicago Tribune; George Thompson, of the St. Paul Dispatch; Delevan Smith, of the Indianapolis News; John Eastman, of the Chicago Journal; Walter Page, of the World's Work; Dr. Albert Shaw of the Review of Reviews; E. J. Ridgeway and the presidents of the national organizations of the allied printing trades.

The history and facts which make up the protest were presented by Mr. McCormick after which the president indicated the action he would take. An investigation of the so-called paper trust has been in progress for some time by the department of justice, and it is understood that the president will immediately call for the facts which have been ascertained up to the present time.

VANDERBILT TO BUILD NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Newport, R. I., Nov. 7.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt has offered the Newport Young Men's Christian association a new building to be erected as a memorial to his father, the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, at a cost of $100,000. The only condition attached to the gift was that Mr. Vanderbilt should be allowed to select the architect and pass upon the finish of the building and its design. The offer has been accepted.

Strange what a little thing will upset a man and keep him so all day, when he ought to be alert and cheerful. A heavy, hot biscuit for breakfast has been known to create a scrap between life-long friends.

If you want a peaceful day eat a dish of Grape-Nuts (chew it slowly) and cream. The delicate chewing of the crisp, nutty granules, which have a delicious flavor with cream, will not only put you right, but give you strength of mind and body for the morning's work at the office. Try it. "There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

PRESIDENT SAYS HE IS PLEASED

With the Results of the Election Held on Tuesday.

Washington, Nov. 7. — President Roosevelt today issued the following statement regarding the elections held Tuesday last:

"The president regards the result of the elections as extremely gratifying. He has sent a letter of hearty congratulation to Mr. Heney on the result in San Francisco. The victory in New Jersey was precisely what happened nine years ago in the middle of President McKinley's administration. He had carried New Jersey by 88,000 and two years afterward the Republican candidate for governor had 5,500, the vote being cut down just as happened in the case of Judge Fort. As compared with the elections next preceding the last presidential election we have done decidedly better than we did in 1903. Then, as Tuesday, Rhode Island and Maryland went against us; but this year we have won a sweeping victory in Kentucky for the first time since McKinley's first election; and the victory in Massachusetts was also remarkable. The showing in Pennsylvania and Nebraska is equally good. The showing in New York state as a whole was excellent, far better than was the case prior to the last presidential election. That the result in Manhattan was due to purely local causes is shown by comparing it with the decisive triumphs in Brooklyn, Buffalo, Albany and in the state generally. The president's own home, county of Nassau, made a better showing than it ever has in an off year. As a whole, the showing has been an improvement over what it was four years ago and eight years ago."

CUTS OUT HOLLAND.

Emperor William, on Account of Sickness, Will Not Visit There.

Berlin, Nov. 7.—The decision of Emperor William not to visit Holland and to rest on the Isle of Wight after his visit to King Edward was taken on Tuesday morning after the emperor's physicians had perceived that the cold which he had taken Oct. 25 while watching the airship experiments at Tegel had left an inflammation around the palate and the neighboring channels leading to the ears. As his majesty suffered much in earlier life from a similar inflammation extending to these ducts, he readily accepted their advice to go to the Isle of Wight after fulfilling his English engagements, which were too near to cancel. The climate of the Isle of Wight is regarded as being mild and less in contrast with the German climate than that of the southern latitudes, to which the emperor will have to go at the beginning of winter.

MARINE

BIG FLEET IN HARBOR

Unusually Large Number of Ore Boats in Port.

Movement in Grain and Lumber is Rather Light.

An unusually large fleet is gathered at the Duluth and Superior docks for the loading of ore. Considering the season of the year the number of boats loading at the docks at the present time is surprising.

The movement in flour, grain and lumber is correspondingly light. The money situation has had its effect on the grain and lumber movement, but as yet has not been felt in the movement of ore. But little loading of grain is being done just now. The freight congestion east of Buffalo has acted on the grain movement over the lakes and until some headway is made in clearing up the heavy amount of grain that remains on the tracks east of this great receiving point, it is anticipated the shipments of grain from lake ports will suffer a falling off.

realized how heavy had been the drain on the gold reserve. The figures showed the week's decrease to be $3,138,807, the total reserve $17,694,795 against $20,833,602 last week, and $19,076,395 at this time last year.

There were inquiries in the market this morning for another $1,250,000 in gold for America.

Paris, Nov. 7.—The Bank of France today raised its discount rate from 3½ to 4 per cent.

At the same time the Bank of France advanced the rate on loans from 4 to 4½ per cent.

MONEY FOR NORTHWEST

For Movement of Crops Will be Shipped by New York Banks.

New York, Nov. 7.—Now that the monetary strain has been lessened locally, the New York banks have begun preparations to ship all available currency to the Northwest to aid the movement of crops. While there is concerted action among the city banks to meet the demands from the crop country, the individual banks also will send all funds that can possibly be spared. The amount to be sent to the Northwest within the next six weeks are estimated at varying amounts.

The Chase National bank and the First National bank have commenced to ship daily sums ranging from $25,000 to $50,000 to banks along the route of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

James J. Hill held a conference here with officials of the Chase National bank and other institutions at which, it is stated, he asked that the Northwest be given all possible assistance. He was informed that while the local banks could not furnish the usual amount of money for crop movement, they were anxious to do all they could to expedite the shipment of cereals to seaboard, and thereby strengthen this country's position in the foreign money markets.

"We have started to send all the funds we can to the Northwest," said a banker last night, "and while the amounts in individual instances are not very large, they will in the aggregate total a large figure before long. Within a week or more the flow of gold to the wheat fields will be in steady volume varying from $5,000 to $50,000. Mr. Hill conferred with us on the position of his railroads. We promised to do all we could. A ready solution of any difficulty in the Northwest can be found by the farmers themselves if they will use cashiers' checks, but that is a process of education which may be difficult to work out.

The bringing in of gold abroad has already proved helpful in expediting the movement of currency to the Western wheat fields. The premium on gold became lower yesterday and this enabled banks to engage larger amounts than would have otherwise proved possible to correspondents west of the Mississippi. It was learned here that government deposits directed by Secretary Cortelyou, to be placed in St. Paul and Minneapolis, amount to $3,000,000, and that this sum will be forwarded from Washington. The local sub-treasury it was ascertained, is preparing to ship funds West, should Secretary Cortelyou deem it expedient.

LITTLE GIRL SUFFERED LONG.

Then Great Remedy Cured Skin Disease Which Had Gained Powerful Foothold.

The medical world, and especially the cutaneous experts of the medical world, are considerably stirred over the latest reports of the daughter of W. E. Koch, the real estate and insurance man of Huntington, Ind., who suffered for such a long time with what was looked upon as an incurable skin disease.

Mr. Koch was referred by a friend to the wonderful liquid remedy, D. D. D. Prescription, which is a specific for eczema, psoriasis, salt rheum, barber's itch and other diseases of the skin.

Almost the first application on the little girl's delicate skin caused the itch to go away and her skin began to heal.

Mr. Koch, writing about the case, says: "We have used D. D. D. Prescription and find it the best we ever tried for eczema. Our little girl was afflicted with this disease for several years. We tried everything we ever heard of and nothing did her any good until we heard of your remedy. We used four bottles and it cured the child. That was eight years ago and the disease never has returned. I can recommend your D. D. D. highly to any one afflicted with eczema."

D. D. D. Prescription is a purely vegetable external remedy that is applied direct to the terrible itching parts. It gives relief instantly and almost immediately the signs of a cure are seen. A short use and the terrible itching scales fall off, the skin cools, the inflammation goes away and soon it is white and healthy. This remedy follows the principles of the latest learned skin specialists that eczema is in the skin, not in the blood, and consequently should be treated through the skin and not through the stomach.

This remedy is on sale at Lyceum Pharmacy, Duluth. If you come in we will show you some convincing letters and other literature which will give all skin sufferers some good advice about dieting, bathing, etc. We also sell D. D. D. Soap.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Women are awful talkers.

They are talked about a lot just for that very reason. Few women, indeed, but have been told at some time in their life, in a gently critical manner, "You talk too much," and she is allowed to infer what she pleases. There is a great deal written about women talking too much and more said about it. Almost every woman has had the experience of reading some bit of women's page advice about the brilliant conversationalists of time being women who inspired other people to talk, and she straightway resolves to be one of the inspirers, and that hereafter her voice will be a soft gentle and low—one that will be heard only at such times as it will serve to inspire somebody else to wonderfully bright conversation. With this idea in mind her following experiences are endured. The experiences are not personal at all. They are universal to womankind.

She tries the effect first on the man who calls occasionally.

He is seated comfortably. The atmosphere is encouraging. No reason why brilliant conversation should not ensue. She racks her brains to think of anything he might be interested in. She can't think of a thing. Of course she could talk herself, but that is not the object. So she starts.

"I noticed you at 'Marrying Mary' the other night. Wasn't it delightful?"

"Yes. Fine," he says.

She waits. That's his cue to tell everything he wants to about his impressions of the girls, his ideas of the beauty displayed, his criticism of the play itself, his choice of the best song and what he thought of the girl of the long skirted chorus, who stood third from the end on the right side.

Not a word does he vouchsafe.

Neither does she. She has made up her mind to inspire conversation.

"Have you read 'Satan Sanderson'?" she inquires. Maybe he likes to read. You never can tell.

"Nope," he says.

"They say it's awfully good," she says.

He volunteers no remark on that.

"Too bad the way the Minnesota game came out," she bravely continues. Maybe he is an enthusiast on football. You can't tell.

"Yes," he says. "Shame."

"Of course, somebody has got to lose," she says.

"Sure," he makes answer.

The conversation languishes.

"Do you think you will go hunting this fall," she inquires in bright and cordial and interested manner. She really doesn't care a cent whether he goes or not.

"Nope," he says. "Can't get away this season."

"Oh, that's too bad," she says.

He doesn't commiserate with himself nor help her commiserate to him.

"Have you seen 'The Best Man'" she inquires.

"Whose?" he asks.

"Oh! It's a book you know," she explains.

"Oh!" he says. "No. I haven't seen it."

"They say it's perfectly fine," she volunteers.

Silence ensues. More silence.

"I wonder if there are going to be hard times," she marvels.

"Nope. I guess not" is the way he dismisses the subject.

"I hope not," she says. "Those cashier check things are so confusing, I think."

"Yaw," he grunts comfortably.

Maybe she stands it the whole evening holding her throat because of the ache there due to suppressed conversation. But who is there with heart to blame if she pours out her pent up soul at the very next opportunity, leaving the impression of an inveterate talker? And she even hasn't the satisfaction of making a killing impression in her former trial, because a day or two later somebody says: "What in the world is the matter with you. Somebody told me the other day that you aren't a bit good company any more and don't talk at all."

Truly all is vanity and man is hard to please.

Croquettes are what fancy cooks make when ordinary people can think of nothing but hash. Of course there are croquettes and croquettes. There are croquettes made of nuts and something to hold them together that are a joyful delicacy in an arid waste of ordinary eatables, and then there are the croquettes that are made out of a little cold cabbage, some left over potatoes, and maybe a boiled carrot. Most people would just as soon have hash.

A rice croquette.
Or a chicken croquette.
Or a sweet potato croquette.
Or a cheese croquette.
Or an oyster croquette—are different things.

Many people wonder how the magicians they see on the stage accomplish the different feats of magic with so much ease. Martini and Maxmilian, who are at the Metropolitan this week with the Yankee Doodle Girls, do the wonderful feats first and then show how they are done. Their burlesque of the ordinary magician is considered very good.

ENDORSE PLAN FOR GROUPING

Committees Favor a Central Location for Public Buildings.

The joint committee representing the city and the Commercial club, which held a meeting at the club yesterday afternoon to discuss the feasibility of the proposed grouping of the courthouse, the federal building, and the city hall, decided to recommend to the county commissioners today that some such step be taken. It was the plan to have members of the courthouse commission on hand at the meeting in order that they might become acquainted with ideas of the committee members, as representatives of the city, but none showed up.

Committee members agreed to meet with the county board at the courthouse today and go over the latter. Chairman Patterson of the county board was given a copy of a resolution passed some time ago by the courthouse commissioners, which asked that the appropriation for building purposes be increased from $1,250,000 to $1,400,000. It is claimed that the new plan would delay the completion of the county building, but little beyond the date originally set.

SHERIFF'S WIFE FIGHTS TWO MEN

Who Escape After Knocking the Brave Woman Senseless.

Des Moines, Nov. 7.—Fighting like mad to prevent two prisoners from escaping from the county jail while her husband was out of the city, Mrs. C. L. Culver, wife of the sheriff at West Union, Iowa, was floored by a blow across the head from a revolver held by William Mullane. As the brave little woman fell to the floor, Mullane and his pal, J. W. Blair, accused burglars, leaped across her body and scampered away in the darkness to liberty.

The two prisoners had overpowered the guard and secured his revolver.

Mrs. Culver heard the noise and rushed into the room and was met by Mullane, who pointed the gun at her. The plucky woman did not waver for an instant. She grasped the barrel and, screaming for help, tried to wrest it from Mullane.

Mullane wrenched the gun loose and struck the woman a frightful blow. Help, attracted by the woman's shrieks soon arrived, but the prisoners had escaped.

Upon a previous occasion when her husband was gone, Mrs. Culver, armed with a poker, went into a cell and quieted a mutiny. It is thought the two burglars planned the escape several days ago and were only waiting until the sheriff left town to put their plans into effect.

IRON TRADE IS IN GOOD SHAPE

Easily Adjusts Itself to the Conditions of Money Market.

New York, Nov. 7.—The Iron Age says: It is amazing how swiftly the iron trade is adjusting itself to the condition created by the money market. Plants are shutting down or reducing output as the opinion among makers is that such is the soundest course. There seems no disposition to keep running full by attempting to seize work at a sacrifice of prices, nor any desire, even where the money conditions permit, to pile up stocks. A large number of furnaces have shut down, or are about to do so, coke ovens and steel plants have been stopped partially or wholly, and rolling mills are reducing output.

Coupled with the movement there are appearing notices of reduction in wages, ranging from 5 to 10 per cent and it seems probable that this action will become quite general. On the whole the iron trade is in excellent shape. It has been working toward an executive relaxation since spring and only the suddenness of developments have made the movement somewhat disconcerting.

There have been few commitments outside of coke and ore, beyond the current year and therefore no dangerous load is suspended above the markets.

The general decision to contract operations removes the danger that stocks may pile up.

DIRECTORS APPROVE

Purchase of Tennessee Coal & Iron Company by the Steel Corporation.

New York, Nov. 7.—The board of directors of the United States Steel corporation yesterday approved the purchase of stock of the Tennesse Coal, Iron & Railroad company. Announcement to that effect was made by E. H. Gary, chairman, after the meeting of the board. Mr. Gary said the action was unanimous. There was a large attendance of directors. Among others present was H. H. Digers, who made his first appearance in the financial district for over two months.

John W. Gates, who returned from Europe yesterday, was one of the holders of the Coal and Iron stock, he consented to transfer the holdings to the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Gates said last night: "From what I can see, conditions are now sound, with every indication that the financial situation will continue to improve. The dangerous spots have been eliminated and a gradual readjustment is under way. In purchasing the Tennessee Coal & Iron company, the United States Steel corporation got the best property in the country and at a bargain. I did not intend to sell my stock but I had to follow the crowd."

The doctor spent last night at Tenstrike, where he took adequate precautions to prevent the spreading of the smallpox. He found that Walter May and three children, who recently came from Laporte and were the only occupants of the logging camp, were afflicted with smallpox. They evidently contracted the disease at Laporte.

SITUATION IS NOT ALARMING

A. J. Lammers Sees Nothing Wrong With Lumber Business.

A. J. Lammers of Stillwater, representing the McGoldrick Lumber company of Spokane, Wash., and one of the oldest lumberman in the state, was at the St. Louis today. Mr. Lammers says that nothing of an alarming nature presents itself to the lumber interests of the country, as far as his observation goes.

Mr. Lammers is rather inclined to look upon the situation in an optimistic light. He says that general business is good, the demand for lumber on the coast fairly heavy, considering the condition of the money market, and that affairs in general do not augur any great and permanent curtailment of the large lumbering interests.

ACTOR APPEARS IN HIS OLD ROLE

Hitchcock Given Warm Welcome by Audience at Astor Theater.

New York, Nov. 7.—Raymond Hitchcock, who gave himself up to the authorities yesterday, reassumed his role at the Astor theater last night and was given a demonstrative welcome.

When Hitchcock disappeared a week ago, an understudy took his place. The house was crowded when the star made his appearance, which was the signal for rousing applause. The actor looked haggard and ill, and his voice was uncertain. Meantime, his wife, who plays opposite him, was in tears and with difficulty followed her cues.

At every opportunity the audience applauded until at the end of the second act the comedian stepped to the front of the stage and in a tremulous voice said:

"I want to thank you all for your applause and encouragement. I hope I shall always deserve it."

Upon Mrs. Hitchcock's second entrance the action called upon her to shake her husband's hands. As they stood there with hands clasped the cheers were deafening. Then Miss Zabelle placed her unengaged hand on her husband's shoulder and kissed him. At this Hitchcock broke down completely and there were a good many wet eyes in the audience.

Wallace Beery, who rose in a day from the chorus to the star's part when Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, recently disappeared in the face of criminal charges, was back in his minor part last night, as the result of Hitchcock's re-appearance.

"I was the happiest man in New York when 'Hitch' came back," he said. "I tell you I was glad even if it does put me back in the chorus."

EIGHT LIVING WIVES.

Albert Bates Seems to be in "Marrying Mary" Class.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Nov. 7.—Authorities here who are investigating the case of Albert Bates, who is believed to have eight living wives, have learned from his last wife's mother that Bates had eloped a few months ago with Miss Maude Cameron, one of her other daughters, and that the couple is now lying in a lumber camp near Harpers Ferry, Iowa.

Bates had also stolen the marriage certificate of his last wife, but the marriage is on file here.

The elopment of Bates and Miss Cameron was well planned. He told his wife that he was going to visit her mother's home in company with his son and then took the next train for the Twin Cities. It is not known whether he has yet married Miss Cameron.

Sheriff Smith left yesterday for Iowa and will bring him back if possible.

MANY DEER REPORTED

Said That Big Game is Plentiful Near Bemidji.

Laws for Deer Season Same as Last Year.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The season for hunting deer and moose will open next Sunday, and already there are many inquiries concerning the hunting outlook.

Reports from those living in the woods adjacent to Bemidji are that deer have never been more plentiful than this fall.

There are very few moose in this vicinity, but the big fellows are quite numerous east of Bemidji and Northome, in the vicinity of Big Falls, and also north and northwest of Kelliher.

Among the places where deer are plentiful may be named the following: In the vicinity of Puposky, Nebish and Redby, on the Red Lake railway; north of Bemidji by wagon road along the chain of lakes from Turtle Lake; out a short distance from any of the towns north of Bemidji on the Minnesota & International railway; south of Bemidji along Marquette and Plantagnet lakes, and the Schoolcraft river, and also west of there to the Itasca park. In fact deer can be found most any where at a distance of not over five miles from the heart of this city.

The law relative to hunting deer and moose remains the same as last season.

A resident of the state is entitled to kill two deer and to ship them to himself in his own county, provided he has first obtained a big game license from the county auditor from the county in which he resides. A resident of the state may also kill and ship one male antlered moose. A non-resident, in order to hunt big game in Minnesota must first secure a non-resident license, which costs $25. A non-resident hunter may kill one male antlered moose and one deer; and he may ship the deer to his place of residence out of the state. No big game can be sold at any time, and the minimum penalty for the violation of this provision is $50 fine and costs.

HARTLEY IS RE-ELECTED

President of Country Club to Continue in Office.

Winter Sports Will be Introduced at the Club.

There was an air of prosperity evident at the annual meeting of the Northland Country club last night, when the officers' reports showed a substantial sum in the treasury, a marked increase in membership, and a most successful season, from a social standpoint. Of the $43,000 worth of bonds outstanding, $1,500 were retired.

G. G. Hartley was re-elected president of the club without opposition. J. S. Moore and F. L. Finkenstead were elected directors, succeeding E. P. Towne and L. J. Hopkins, and E. P. Alexander was elected a director to succeed himself. The directors met and elected W. W. Walker vice president; J. S. Moore, treasurer, and E. P. Alexander, secretary.

A committee consisting of W. B. Silvey, A. W. Frick and C. R. Woodruff was appointed to arrange for the erection of supports for a toboggan and ski slide on the grounds acquired last spring back of the clubhouse. Another committee, of which W. J. Olcott is chairman, was appointed to make arrangements for the erection and maintenance of a skating rink. The clubhouse will be kept open the entire year and winter sports will be encouraged this year.

KNOCK FOR ASHLAND.

Ironwood Enthusiast Says Team Was Not Treated Well.

Ironwood, Mich., Nov. 7. — (To the Sporting Editor of The Herald.)—There is always a second view to a question, which is true of the football game between Ironwood and Ashland at Ashland last Saturday. Some Ashland enthusiasts consider their team superior to any high school team in the Northwest. They have gone as far as to claim that the Ironwood team is Ashland's equal in weight, but inferior in knowledge of the game and its rules. This is an unjust criticism, as various men, who understand the game under the old and new rules, claimed that Ashland's victory was due to luck and nothing else.

Two weeks previous to this game at Ashland, the two teams met on the Ironwood field and Ironwood tied their heavy opponents with three substitutes in the game, Jeresky, Lessylong and Donovan being incapacitated by injuries received earlier in the season.

In the game at Ashland, the Ironwood boys kept the ball continually in Ashland's territory, making gains of five, ten and fifteen yards through Ashland's star tackle. Ashland made two of their touchdowns on fumbled punts, a strong wind favoring them. Ashland could not gain through the line or around the end, their forward passes were useless and only by continually booting the ball and trusting to luck could they gain anything.

The Ironwood highs are anxious to secure a game with Duluth to demonstrate to outsiders that the Michigan boys know the game and have been taught to play it cleanly. The Duluth highs may be wide awake to the fact that Ashland will endeavor to secure as field judge a man who wears Ashland's colors and is put there for the purpose of coaching the home team and their treatment of a visiting team is anything but satisfactory.

EASY FOR FAVORITE.

James B. Brady Wins on Muddy Track at Aqueduct.

Aqueduct, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Mud was deep on the track at Aqueduct yesterday and the field was greatly reduced. The Belle Rose, selling stakes, six furlongs, was the feature and resulted in an easy victory for the favorite, James B. Brady, who was the pace maker from start to finish.

MAY PLAY FOOTBALL.

Kankakee Judge Says Private Citizens May Not Interfere.

Kankakee, Nov. 7.—Judge Hooper, yesterday, denied Attorney Stevens' application for an injunction restraining the playing of football by high school students on the ground that it is prize fighting. Attorney Moore declared he will appeal the case. Judge Hooper ruled that the boards of education have no right to interfere with pleasures or training of school children after school hours and that private citizens have no right to interfere in such matters until they sustain personal injury.

BASEBALL CHANGES.

St. Louis and New York American Team Players Are Traded.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—A big baseball deal was put through yesterday when the New York Americans, after securing Second Baseman Ferris from Boston, turned around and swapped Ferris, Williams and Hoffman to St. Louis Americans in exchange for Glade, Niles and Hemphill. Manager Clark Griffith of the New York team, who is in the city, completed the deal over the long distance telephone.

The changes will make a big difference in the lineup of the New York and St. Louis teams and means there will be quite a lot of new combinations next year. The trading began when Comiskey gave Jake Stahl to Boston for Parent. Boston then turned around and traded Stahl to New York for Laporte.

NEEDS ATTENTION.

Officers Should Take the Pipe From This Youngster.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 7.—The International Hockey league, the only such professional organization in America, collapsed yesterday when the two Soos withdrew. Pittsburg withdrew earlier in the season, which leaves only Houghton and Calumet, as Duluth refused to come on account of financial stringency. All the players signed, have been notified that there will be no hockey league. The league is said to have lost money. Demands of players for high salaries led to collapse, it is claimed.

• • •

The foregoing special dispatch has been sent out from the Soo, but no stock is being taken in it. John McNamara of Houghton was in the city yesterday, and said that the league was on a good basis and would continue with four teams.

Sophs vs. Freshies.

The annual football game between the freshmen and sophomores of the Central high school will be held at Athletic park next Saturday afternoon. The members of both teams are busy practicing for the big event, which is the best of the interclass contests of the year. The sophs have beef and the freshies speed, and there promises to be some excitement when they clash Saturday. Friday evening at the high school, the annual reception and dance in honor of the high school football team will be held.

Fitwells Play Polo.

With Roderick Mackenzie as captain, the Fitwell roller polo team has been organized, and will play its first game of the season next Saturday night at Two Harbors, with the Northern Hardware company's team. Later it is planned to have the team play hockey, and it will be one of the fastest on the ice at the Head of the Lakes.

BURIED AT ST. CLOUD.

James B. Mailli, Who Was Killed by Tree in Washington.

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of the late James B. Mailli, who was killed Oct. 23, about thirty miles north of Seattle, was held here yesterday from the Cathedral, Rev. Dr. Gans officiating, followed by interment in Calvary cemetery.

Mailli met death while in the employ of the Weyerhauser Lumber company. A portion of a dead tree fell from a height of about fifty feet, striking him on the back and breaking it. Death was almost instantaneous. An inquest was held, and a verdict of accidental death returned. Subsequently J. L. Bridge was appointed administrator of the estate, which consists of $1,200 in cash in a bank. This money goes to the deceased's father, Michael Mailli, a resident of Ergoldsbach, Bavaria, who, with a brother whose residence is unknown thought somewhere in this country, are the only immediate relatives surviving.

MONEY IS EASIER.

Conditions in North Dakota Are Rapidly Becoming Better.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The financial situation in this city is reported to be very quiet. The issuing of clearing house certificates continues and the people are accepting them without question and very little, if any, inconvenience is encountered in their use. Money is still being paid out in small quantities and its shortage is not affecting business to any appreciable extent. Deposits are being made the same as they were before the financial flurry started and there seems to be plenty of money among the people of this section of the country.

The smaller banks, who are correspondents of the Fargo banks, are doing a nice business and seem to have plenty of currency. Tuesday $5,000 was received from one of the country correspondents of the Commercial bank in this city, together with a letter stating that there was plenty of money in the hands of the people and that their deposits were as large as they had ever been.

LARGE FARM DEAL.

Long Prairie, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. A. Zachery of Pueblo, Colo., has made quite an extensive investment in Todd county land. He purchased two farms, paying $12,600 for them. They were the Strong farm in Burleene of 240 acres, for which he paid $35 per acre, and the Mootz farm of forty acres, just west of this village, for which he paid $4,200. He will move here within the next six weeks and occupy the Mootz farm. His son will move here and live on the Strong.

WENNERBERG CONCERT A HIT

Many Attend and Hear an Excellent Musical Program.

The concert given at the Swedish Mission church in the West end last evening by the Wennerberg Memorial association was well attended and a success from every point of view.

The proceeds will be turned over to a fund being raised to erect a suitable monument here to the great Swedish composer, Gunner Wennerberg, for which purpose the association was organized and the concert last evening given.

The soprano soloist was Mlle. Sigrid Westerlund. Her voice is of wide range, wholesome tone and good volume, and she showed good judgment in the selection of the numbers she gave.

Lindblad's "Spring Day" and the aria from "Creation" called forth the greatest applause.

Rev. H. E. Kron, baritone, sang "Jerusalem," with F. E. Erickson acting as accompanist, and Charles Dexter Ostergren gave a violin solo.

The singing of the choruses was very pleasing, and the numbers given were enthusiastically received by last evening's audience.

ADVOCATES A NATIONAL BANK

Where Enormous Cash Surplus of Government May be Deposited.

St. Paul, Nov. 7.—President A. R. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western Railway, in a published interview, advocates a national bank in which the government shall deposit its treasury funds. He said:

"The official report of the United States treasury shows that on last Thursday, Oct. 31, there was locked up in the subtreasuries, idle and useless, the enormous sum of $127,129,075.64 of actual cash, while all the banks in all the reserve cities of the United States had suspended payments, and the movement of the crops had stopped, and laborers are compelled to accept checks for wages instead of cash, all for want of currency, which want of currency the New York banks are trying to relieve by importing about $30,000,000 of gold, or about one-quarter of the amount held in the treasury idle and useless.

"Can any system of government banking be conceived which would produce more absurd results?

"Let us have a national bank which is not only good enough for the people to deposit their money in, but is also good enough for the government to deposit its money in."

PLASTERED WITH MONEY.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plastered from head to foot with crisp $20 bank notes, John Harmon, on his way from North Dakota to Mississippi, was found staggering about in a dark downtown alley, unable to defend himself, and claiming that some one had taken his money. When taken to police headquarters the human bank was found to have $1,221.95 deposited on his person.

CITY HALL FOR CENTER.

Builders' Exchange Will Urge This Plan of Grouping.

The builders' exchange, at its meeting last evening, endorsed the plan to have a new city hall for the hub of the proposed group of public buildings.

Members of the exchange agreed that the city would need a much larger building than the county, in a short time, and were of the opinion that the city building should have the place of honor in the middle. This location for a new city hall was first suggested by L. A. Larsen.

A committee comprising A. H. Kreiger, R. D. Haven and John Schleunes was appointed to urge their plans to the courthouse commission.

The exchange decided not to interfere in the labor disputes which are resulting from the American Bridge company's efforts to conduct an open shop at the new Sellwood building, now in the course of construction.

Trainmen discovered last night that a Northern Pacific car lying in the yards had been entered and five cases of whisky, 1,000 cigars, one keg of alcohol and two cases of beer had been stolen.

Y. M. C. A. GYM. NOTES

By A. J. Frey, Physical Director.

The basketball committee, consisting of Joe Horak, chairman; E. A. Schulze, Chase Ballou, E. C. Morse and Ray Fenton, met Tuesday night and decided on arrangements and regulations for the Y. M. C. A. Basketball league, as follows:

The league is to consist of four teams, each of the businessmen's classes to have one and the young men's class to have two teams.

Each man desiring to play must register on blanks, which are posted in the gymnasium, registration to be made before Nov. 15.

After the registration closes, the men registered for the respective teams will elect their captain by popular vote. The captains and the physical director shall select the men to represent the various classes.

Captains of the teams must find some way of giving their men practice.

The schedule, names of the members of the teams and the nature of the trophy will be announced later.

The first basketball squad is getting into shape quickly, holding hard practice each Wednesday evening in preparation for the first game, which is to be played in a few weeks.

Lovers of basketball will see one of the cleanest, fastest teams in the state in the Y. M. C. A. team this year. Each week shows vast improvement in the work. As soon as some of the rough edges are polished off, the team will begin its season, which promises to be the most successful in the history of basketball in Duluth. Much is being done to eliminate the rough tactics, which too often characterize basketball games, when the desire to win is the only spirit displayed by the players. The members of the Y. M. C. A. team will not follow that course. They have taken for a motto "A clean, snappy game, regardless of results," and others might do well to follow the same course.

The attendance for October in all gymnasium classes was very large, even though many men are deprived of the opportunity of attending by the heavy pressure of fall work. As soon as navigation closes a record-breaking attendance in all classes is expected. Both business men's classes have increased to a good figure, while the young men's class taxes the gymnasium floor to its utmost.

• • •

The fencing class continues to meet every Tuesday and Friday night, with about fifteen members enrolled. They have made wonderful progression in the past month, and they expect to be in shape to hold a tournament in a very few months. Several of the men have shown that they are comers in the art, and Duluth will have some good fencers. A quick eye, strong arms and legs, agility and alertness are developed by fencing, and all desirous of securing that development should enroll.

LE BEAU AND PAULSON.

Roller Skaters Will Meet at Lincoln Park Rink.

At the Lincoln park roller rink tonight, Louis Paulson and Francis LeBeau will race for the championship of the Head of the Lakes, now held by LeBeau. Paulson is a fast boy and he expects to make the West end man go some.

Saturday night LeBeau and Munch will come together in their last heat. Each man now has a heat to his credit and they will race for the final honors Saturday night. In their race Monday night, Munch lowered the Head of the Lakes mill record to 3:56½ and the boys will go after a still lower mark Saturday night.

Next week, LeBeau will leave for Minneapolis, where he and Munch will race for the championship of the Northwest. LeBeau is showing great speed this year and he has high hopes to taking down the honors now held by Munch.

CATARRH A SERIOUS FAR-REACHING BLOOD DISORDER

Even in its early stages Catarrh is almost intolerable, caused by the stuffy feeling in the nose, the buzzing noises in the ears, the continual "hawking and spitting" difficult breathing, etc. But when the blood becomes thoroughly polluted from the catarrhal matter, the inflammation extends to the bronchial tubes, causing hoarseness, and often an aggravating cough; the stomach is affected, resulting in dyspepsia, loss of appetite and strength, and gradually all the mucous membranes of the body become diseased and the system upset and deranged. Frequently the kidneys and bladder are attacked, and the constant passage of impure blood through the lungs, diseases these important members, and Catarrh terminates in Consumption. Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease, and must be treated constitutionally, for it is beyond the reach of local treatment. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all the impure catarrhal matter and at the same time building up the entire system. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head, in the circulation, and removes every trace of the impurity that is causing the trouble. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed membranes commence to heal, the mucous discharges grow less and finally cease, and all the disagreeable and disgusting symptoms of Catarrh disappear. S. S. S. has no equal as a cure for this disease. It refines and purifies the entire circulation and repairs the damage done by Catarrh. Special book on Catarrh and any medical advice free.

WHEAT HAS AN OFF DAY

Weakness Characterizes Session on Both Sides of Atlantic.

Flax Shows Loss at Close of Trading in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 7.—Wheat offerings were liberal in the American markets today and prices went off, closing weak. Estimates of liberal shipments from Argentine this week and prospects for the lifting of the embargo on grain at Buffalo and other places in the East, with lower cables combined to make a lower market.

The closing prices were lower than yesterday's in all of the Western markets except Winnipeg and in the foreign markets. Liverpool closed 1½d to 1⅝d lower, Budapest, ⅛c lower, and Berlin, 1⅛c lower.

Argentine shipments of wheat were estimated at 400,000 bus.

The December option closed 1⅞c lower in Duluth, 2-1⅛c lower in Chicago, 1½-⅝c lower in Minneapolis, 2½c lower in New York and 1⅜c higher in Winnipeg. The May option closed 2c lower in Duluth, 1⅝c lower in Chicago, 1⅜ lower in Minneapolis, 2c off in New York and ⅜c higher in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ⅛-⅜c lower in Chicago and was ½d to ⅝d lower in Liverpool. December oats closed 1⅛-¼c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was an easy undertone to the wheat market at the start, with values 1¼d to 1½d lower, due to the weakness in America and Winnipeg markets yesterday, and selling here was general. Later the market recovered, prices gaining ¼d to ⅜d of the decline on bad outlook in Russia and reports of continued unfavorable conditions in India. At midday, however, further pressure developed on the increased bank rate to 7 per cent and this caused liquidation by the leading longs. Prices at this time were 1½d lower than Wednesday.

"Corn was easy, ½d to ¾d lower at the opening in sympathy with the lower American cables. Later prices steadied on a better demand for American parcels and showed a gain in the distant months of ¼d. The nearby option held unchanged at a ½d decline."

Car receipts at Duluth were 168 against 669 last year, at Minneapolis 267 against 258 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 435 against 964 last year. Chicago received 46 against 77 last year. Winnipeg received 256 against 455 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 767,000 bus., last year 921,000 bus. Shipments, 947,000 bus., last year 771,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 475,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 238,000 bus., last year 387,000 bus. Shipments, 309,000 bus., last year, 535,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 163,000 bus.

Wheat was active during the entire session of the Duluth market, and, except for the first hour, prices were lower. December wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.00⅛, with good buying advanced to $1.01¾, sold off to 98⅞c, rallied to 99¼c, declined to 99¼c and closed at that price, a loss of 1⅞c from yesterday. May wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.07⅛, advanced to $1.08⅜, slumped off to $1.06, rallied to $1.06⅝ and declined by the close to $1.06, a loss of 2c from yesterday.

Cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1c under December for No. 1 northern. Durum wheat closed 1¾c lower.

Flax was active and the closing prices were lower. All of the flax news was bearish. Reports from Argentina were to the effect that the seed was looking very good, which caused selling here. November flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.19, declined to $1.18, rallied to $1.19 and ranged between that and $1.18¾ until the close, which was $1.18¾, a loss of 1¾c from yesterday. December flax opened ½c lower at $1.21, declined to $1.20¼ during the first half hour, rallied to $1.21, went off to $1.20¾, rallied to $1.21¼, went off to $1.20, rallied to $1.20¾ and closed at $1.20, a loss of 1½c from yesterday. May flax opened ¼c lower at $1.28⅛, declined to $1.28, rallied to $1.28¾, declined to $1.28 and closed at that price, a loss of ¾c from yesterday.

Oats closed 1c lower, rye 1c lower and barley unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Weak, But Rally Occurs on Commission House Buying.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The wheat market today opened weak because of lower cables from Liverpool, which were based on an increase in its rate of discount by the Bank of England. A rally soon took place, however, on buying by commission houses which was furnished upon small receipts in the Northwest and reports of poor crop conditions in Russia. All of the early loss was regained. December wheat opened ½@⅝c to 1@1⅛c lower, at 91⅜c to 92½c and sold up to 93¼c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 481 cars against 538 cars last week and 1,041 cars one years ago.

The high point for December was 93⅜c. The market became very weak in the latter part of the session because of a 2c break at Winnipeg. The close was weak with December 2@3c lower at 90¾c.

The corn market was weak at the opening because of lower cables, and favorable weather for the crop in this country. Later prices rallied along with wheat. December corn opened ⅛c to ¼c lower, at 57¾c to 57⅞c and sold at 58¼c. Local receipts were 54 cars with 17 of contract grade.

The close was weak with December off 1¼c to ⅝c at 51½@55⅝c.

The oats market was dull. Prices followed the lead of wheat and corn, being weak early, and strong later. December oats opened ⅜c lower at 48⅛c sold down to 48⅛c and reacted to 45⅝c. Local receipts were 96 cars.

The provision market was active and weak. Packers sold the list generally, and five hogs were 10c to 20c lower. January pork opened 30c lower, at $15.00. Lard opened 10c lower at $7.85. Ribs were 5@7½c lower, at $7.00.

Close: Wheat, December, 90⅜c; May, $1.00@1⅛. Corn, December, 57½@57⅝c; May, 58¼c. Oats, December, 47⅜@47⅝c; May, 59⅞@60c. Pork, January, $13.25; May, $14.57½. Lard, January, $7.92½; May, $8.05. Ribs, January, $7.02½; May, $7.27½. Rye, cash, 76c. Barley, cash, 75@85c. Timothy, cash, $3.60@4.20. Clover and flax, no quotations. Grain Gossip.

Chicago—Wheat letter: Conditions for the wheat trade became more bearish at times today than before witnessed since the financial disturbance began. The trade discovered that foreigners were not buying any wheat on this side. Every foreign market came at very sharp declines. Private cables reported free offerings of wheat from the new Argentine wheat. Later cables from the Berlin market demoralized, owing to tight money. Stop loss orders selling began here as the market showed signs of weakening. Although prices are at a low level they are still regarded as too high in view of the unusual money situation. There is no buying power to hold the market against any free offerings that are made on the hard spots.

Minneapolis Wheat.

Minneapolis, Nov. 7.—Close: Wheat—December, 95¾@⅞c; May, $1.05½; No. 1 hard, 99⅝@⅞c; No. 1 northern, 98⅜@⅞c; No. 2 northern, 94⅜@96c; No. 3 northern, 88⅝@90⅜c.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

The market today shows a much more active condition and buyers are numerous, particularly for fall and winter apples.

Meat prices remain the same with no indications of an immediate change. Veal and pork continue scarce and are a trifle higher. The following prices are quoted up to noon today and are furnished by the secretary of the exchange:

THE SANTA FE FINED $330,000

By Federal Court Judge at Los Angeles for Rebating.

Los Angeles, Nov. 7.—Judge Olin Wellborne, in the United States district court here today, fined the Santa Fe Railway company $330,000 for rebating. The company was convicted on sixty-six counts for granting rebates to the Grand Canyon Lime & Cement company on shipment of freight from Nelson, Ariz., to Los Angeles. The fine is $5,000 on each of the sixty-six counts.

GROWTH OF DAIRYING

Forcibly Shown in Annual Meeting Being Held at Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red River Valley Dairying association began a two days' session here yesterday with a list of delegates which packed the city hall. Prominent dairymen from all over the state are present, including President L. A. Sweet of the Minnesota Dairymen's association, ex-President Morley of the same association and many others.

The report showed that there are 150 dairies tributary to this city where seven years ago there were but a few dairy cows. President Wilson gave a glowing report of the progress made, and President Sweet of the state association was surprised at the increasing interest shown and the fine products of the creameries of this section. Last evening the delegates, numbering 200, were taken to the state agricultural farm, which was inspected, after which a fine program was carried out in the school of agriculture at which Congressman Steenerson, Senator Stephens and prominent dairymen spoke, after which a banquet was served.

The butter will be inspected today and the election of officers will take place late this afternoon.

JUDGESHIP VACANT.

Supreme Court Sets Aside Action of North Dakota Governor.

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The appointment by Governor Burke of A. G. Burr to the judgeship of the newly created ninth judicial district, including McHenry, Bottineau and Pierce counties has been rendered invalid by the supreme court and all acts of Burr acting as such judge are thereby rendered invalid.

The case came before the court on the application of a prisoner sentenced by Judge Burr for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground the accused had not been properly tried and convicted since the court had no jurisdiction. The bill creating the judgeship, provided for filling the judgeship at the next general election, but Governor Burke in appointing A. G. Burr of Bottineau county, took advantage of an emergency clause. This, the court, holds was not in conformity with the intention of the legislature.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Followed Report of Atchison Road Being Fined for Rebating.

Market Closed Weak at About Lowest Figures of Day.

New York, Nov. 7.—There were some sharp declines in the opening prices of stocks, in sympathy with the weakness of foreign markets, which was due to the advance in the official discount rates of the Bank of England and the Bank of France. The declines here did not carry prices as low as the level ruling in London when business began. There were a few points of resistance in the market, including Great Northern preferred and Southern Railway, which rose ⅝. The Canadian group was notably weak, Canadian Pacific falling 4½ points, and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie preferred 2½. Colorado & Southern second preferred declined 1⅜, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio 1¼. Atchison, Reading second preferred and American Smelting 1, and Pennsylvania, Reading & Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred ¾. Tennessee Coal sold at a decline of 9 points. Transactions were limited in amount, and there was some recovery after the opening.

The low prices at the opening encouraged buying for both accounts and there was a slow recovery which pulled the Harriman stocks up to yesterday's closing prices. The balance of the list hovered about midway between yesterday's closing and today's opening figures. Amalgamated Copper developed weakness afterwards, but its fall had no effect on the market. Tennessee Coal sold down to 112, a loss of 17 points. Chicago Great Western preferred "A" also yielded 8½; Amalgamated Copper, 1⅜, and Delaware & Hudson, Erie first preferred, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie and Great Northern Ore Certificates, 1; Wabash preferred gained 1. Prices yielded again at 11 o'clock.

Prices fell back to below the opening level quite generally under light selling orders. Amalgamated Copper was forced 2¼ under last night. American Smelting, 2; Atchison, 1⅝; Union Pacific, Reading, Sugar and Anaconda, 1½, Illinois Central, 1¼, and Great Northern preferred; United States Steel preferred and Mackay companies, 1. Louisville & Nashville, American Locomotive preferred and Inter Metropolitan preferred rose 1½, and Atlantic Coast Line and Western Union about a point. There were cash sales of Tennessee Coal down to 102. Westinghouse Electric fell 4. Bonds were irregular.

The tone of the market remained heavy and slight recoveries were yielded again. American Smelting was offered freely and broke to 67, a decline of 3½. St. Paul sagged 1¼ and Southern Railway preferred and Missouri, Kansas & Texas, 1. American, 13⅛@14c. Poultry, live, steady; turkeys, 14c; chickens, 9c; springs, 9½c. Potatoes, steady, 50@55c. Veal, steady, 60 to 60-pound weights, 6½@7c; 60 to 85-pound weights, 6½@6½c; 85 to 110-pound weights, 8¼@10c.

Stock Gossip.

New York—Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: Stocks assumed a sagging tendency today, heavy liquidation being apparent in several issues, which indicates that there are a great many sore spots which will have to be healed before any material improvement will be in order. Although the feeling in regard to the financial situation has calmed somewhat, still the improvement has not been material, and the situation will bear watching. The weakness in Canadian Pacific is rather significant, as it indicates the attitude of Europeans at present.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market draggy; no sales of volume reported; receipts light. Retail trade was more active than for several days past. Dealers have an over-supply of heavy drafters, which they would be glad to move at country cost.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Nov. 7.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 4 points. Trading was rather quiet, but immediately following the call there were bullish rumors concerning the showing of tomorrow's census report. Later, however, offerings were heavier and the market was barely steady and about 4 points lower. The market was nervous and irregular during the late forenoon and prices at midday were unchanged to 4 points higher with March and May relatively firm. Spot quiet; middling uplands, 11.00; middling gilf, 11.25.

Spot closed quiet, ten points lower. Middling uplands, 10.90; middling gulf, 11.15. Sales, 100 bales. Futures closed steady; closing bids: November, 10.33; December, 10.63; January, 10.20; February, 10.22; March, 10.25; April, 10.27; May, 10.29; June, 10.25; July, 10.23; August, 10.19.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market was very dull today but held well just before the close. Butte then led the decline on heavy selling from New York. Isle Royale reacted on the selling of 500 shares by one house. It is rumored that Butte may pass their next dividend. The New York list was comparatively weak. General business is having a hard time financing now and commercial failures are frequent. This time to make the stock market sensitive and dull. We believe that the bank situation is about cleared up, but think that the next two months will bring a record number of failures among the business concerns of the country owing entirely to failure of the banks to extend currency credit.

Copper Drops.

New York, Nov. 7.—All grades of copper dropped one-quarter of a cent in both the bid and asked prices on the New York metal exchange today. The prices quoted today were, Lake, 14@14¼c; electrolytic, 13¾@14c, and casting, 13¼@13¾c.

New York Money.

New York, Nov. 7.—Close money on call in strong demand, 6 to 20 per cent; ruling rate, 20; closing bid, —; offered at 4. Time loans, dull and strong; sixty and ninety days, 10 to 12 per cent; six months, 6½ to 7 per cent.

New York, Nov. 7.—Prime mercantile paper nominally at 7 to 10 per cent. Sterling exchange firmer with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86@4.86.50 for demand and at $4.8 for 60-day bills. Commercial bills, $4.77. Bar silver, 59⅜c. Mexican dollars, 47¼c. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds irregular.

TO FINISH JOB SOON

Good Progress Being Made on Ramsey Street Paving.

Sentiment Strong for Filling of Oneota Street Ravines.

People, who were skeptical of Contractor McDonnell's ability to complete the paving of Oneota and Ramsey streets between Forty-sixth and Fifty-fifth avenues west in the time, which was allowed him for the work by the board of public works and the fall weather conditions, aren't doing any scoffing.

The contractor is making good with a vengeance. Ramsey street, for its entire length from Forty-ninth avenue west to Central avenue has been paved and is ready for the snow any time now. The bridge on Oneota street near its intersection with Ramsey has been repaired and the curbing has been laid to Forty-sixth avenue west. The grading is nearly all complete; the street railway company is rushing the work of placing new ties in where needed and ballasting the track; and in a very short time, providing the weather man does not go back on the contractor, all of the work will be completed.

The weather man has certainly been kind. Only one or two days have been lost since the job was started. The rain has generously kept away altogether or come only in the night, allowing the work to go almost uninterruptedly. The work was started late and it will be finished late, but is is practically certain there will be no heavy fall of snow before the tar mixers and steam rollers are moved away and McDonnell has turned the job over to the city.

There is a good deal of sentiment in West Duluth in favor of filling in the ravines, which cross Oneota street at several places and make the use of bridges unnecessary. The old wooden affairs are none too satisfactory. The constant passing of the street cars back and forth is bound to weaken them in time and a man with a heavy load is always a little wary in crossing them.

Some time ago, a plan was broached for the widening of Jenswold street and the use of the sand taken from the excavations to fill in the ravines and make a solid roadway. The plan is looked upon very favorably. Now that a portion of Oneota street has been paved and it is very likely the remainder will be before many years have passed, the old wooden bridges are unsightly and unsafe and any measures taken to fill the ravines would not be amiss, in the estimation of those, who use the structures.

Funeral of Mrs. Gilley.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Lawrence Gilley, who died Tuesday night, was held this morning from the residence, 2921 West Third street. Services were held at St. Clement's church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, with interment at Calvary cemetery. A large number of West Duluth friends attended the funeral.

Will Build Hall.

A deal was completed today, whereby Ljusstralen No. 27, Swedish-Finnish Temperance society, became the owner of lots 9 and 10, block 3, West Duluth First addition. The lots are situated just north of Ramsey street on Fifty-fourth avenue west, and the Temperance society will erect a modern building. The first floor will be given over to store rooms and upstairs the lodge rooms will be located, with a large hall for social affairs and facilities for the accommodation of the members of the lodge.

Apples Scattered.

Charles West of 221 South Fifty-seventh avenue west was driving along Ramsey street last evening with a load of apples, when his wagon was struck by a street car. The apples were scattered all over the roadway, the wagon badly smashed, but the driver and horse escaped with only a few bruises.

WISCONSIN TEACHERS

To the Number of 2,000 Gather in Annual Convention.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—Over 2,000 school teachers from all parts of the state gathered at the Ahlambra theater today to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Teachers' association. After the appointment of the various committees the first session was taken up with the reading of several interesting papers.

Edward A. Ross, professor of sociology, University of Wisconsin had for his theme, "Education and Society." He explained in detail the enormous cost of the public education system now in force, but gave the greater part of his time over the voicing of pithy suggestions of value to teachers of all grades.

"The New Duty of the School," was the subject of an address by Prof. G. E. Vincent of the University of Chicago.

"One of the problems which confronts the schools in both large and small cities is that of 'social sets'" said Prof. Vincent.

"Then there are cliques, fraternities and societies and other forms of groupings. Valuable as many of these are, they are difficult to control, and in too many cases arrogance, snobbishness, envy and jealousy creep in with them.

"In brief, the new duty of the school consists in conscientiously attempting to meet the new demands which changed social conditions have thrown upon it, namely, to provide and guide a social life with all the training which that implies, to preserve a rational democracy without aiming at a Utopian equality, and to exalt standards of sincerity, simplicity and good taste in every activity of life."

State Superintendent Charles P. Cary of Madison spoke on "The Citizen of Tomorrow." Prof. Cary denounced child labor. He pleaded for the needed opportunities for self development to be thrown in the way and pressed upon every normal constituted boy and girl in the state. Only thus, he said, can teachers perform their duties to the citizen of tomorrow.

FIND THIRD BODY.

That of John Boitz of Hibbing Recovered From the Lake.

Deer River, Minn., Nov. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Advices from the Bowstring country, north of here, where three Hibbing men and a cigarmaker by the name of Cooper were drowned, are that the body of John Beitz, the third of the Hibbing victims, has been recovered and with the bodies of Seibel and Healey has been taken to Hibbing. Cooper's body has not been recovered. The drowning occurred in Dora lake, which is a widened portion of the Big Fork river, about three miles wide and nine miles long. Guy Mitchell, a homesteader, near Dora lake, discovered the upturned boat on the lake and found pieces of the hunting outfit of the hunters on the shore. He told what he had seen to Everton and Inscho, as they happened along, and then the search for the four drowned men was taken up, reinforced by the party from Hibbing that came on a special train. Coroner Russell of Itasca county, after looking into the case, has decided an inquest is not necessary.

Colds and Croup in Children.
"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. William H. Serig, No. 41, Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

DETECTIVE MISSING.

Police Looking for Victim of Mysterious Assault.

The strange disappearance of W. W. Duetch, supposedly a Northern Pacific detective, who was found Wednesday somewhat disfigured and bruised under the Lake avenue viaduct, is a matter of considerable concern to the police.

The disappearance of five cases of whisky, a lot of cigars and some cases of beer from a Northern Pacific freight car at about the time the detective disappeared, is also being investigated by the police.

Duetch left the Lenox hotel without paying his bill the morning after his experience under the viaduct and efforts to locate him have been unavailing thus far.

FOUGHT OVER NAME.

Frank Carlson and Frank O. Carlson Have Battle.

Frank Carlson and Frank O. Carlson failed to appear in court this morning and forfeited bail in the sum of $10 in each case.

The two men met on the Bowery yesterday and after discovering that they bore the same name decided that one or the other must change his cognomen.

Neither was inclined to give way and a fight followed.

"My name's Frank Carlson," yelled one of the men as he swung an upper cut for his companion's jaw. "So is mine," retorted Carlson No. 2 as he parried the blow and landed a stiff jab on his opponent's nose. A police officer took notice of the combat and they were both arrested.

He gives names, dates, facts and locations in the vast problems of life. Correct information about all affairs, love, courtship, marriage, divorce, sales, wills, property, old estates, speculations, diseases, pensions, patents, investments, etc., in all their varied and multifarious details. He recognizes none as his superior who by any means advises and foretells events arising through cause and effect. His remarkable psychic power has won for him a reputation that has been accorded to but few. Lowest fee, 50 cents this week. Hours, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. every day. 1102 Banks avenue, corner of Eleventh street, Superior, Wis. Send stamp for circular containing information you ought to know.
